

THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

LIBRARY
289.205
CHR
v. 3-8

REMOTE STORAGE

BOOKSTACKS OFFICE

REMOTE STORAGE

BOOKSTACKS OFFICE

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

R. A. LONG, President - - - - - Kansas City, Mo. T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.
C. M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - - St. Joseph, Mo. F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

C. C. CHAPMAN - - - - - Fullerton, Cal. J. H. ALLEN - - - - - St. Louis, Mo.
GEORGE F. RAND - - - - - Buffalo, N. Y. BURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.
R. H. STOCKTON - - - - - St. Louis, Mo. ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - - Liberty, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - - Seattle, Wash.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

P. C. MACFARLANE, General Secy. E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy. J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum—in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 3

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, APRIL, 1910

Number 4

The Spirit Soars

They laid it away the other day in Indiana—the body of L. L. Carpenter. They followed it with tears, but they placed it in the grave in hope. When E. H. Harriman was buried every wheel on every one of his great railroad systems stood still for five minutes. No trains stopped running for L. L. Carpenter. No market quotations on the stock exchange staggered unsteadily up and down, keeping time with the last fluttering pulse-beats of his tired heart. He had wrought long and to much purpose, but his wealth was not in stocks and bonds, in singing wheels, or girding bands of steel. He had chosen otherwise. His riches were in the devotion of countless thousands of warm-hearted friends. They were in the sealed record of more than half a century of consecrated Christian life and preaching. They were in some hundreds of churches whose man-made walls first echoed to the name of a God-made Savior when L. L. Carpenter had led the people through the stress of a money-raising hour to the moment of dedication. How many times had the glad note of victory run in his voice at the close of such a series, and how many times had his saintly eyes suffused with tears as in the humility of heart-swelling gratitude he lifted his face in thankfulness to the giver of every good and perfect gift.

There are some to whom death comes as a marring; some to whom death seems in our thought rather a blossoming into the glory of a perfected life. Among the latter, L. L. Carpenter finds a place, more than half a saint already. Each year adding graces to his gentle and kindly spirit, we have watched him growing less like ourselves and more like our Lord for several years. And now, the transition has been completed. To quote another, "The mystery of life has become the mystery of death." But the mystery of death is to us, through Christ, the assurance that the glory of the terrestrial has disappeared in the shadow out of which shall burst aurora-like beams of the glory of the celestial.

In this day, when there is blasting at the rock of ages, when the fundamentals of faith are being continually inquired into, what apologetic is there like to the life of such a saint as he. A life like his is a living witness that God reigns, that Christ lives and that His Spirit persists in the hearts and lives of his followers.

Such a man as this, in his death bequeaths to the Brotherhood with which he was identified, in the memories of his life, a thing of inestimable richness. We have churches and preachers and spiritual values towering mountain high in the State of Indiana, but among those values named first and remembered longest must be the memory of this good man.

In our thoughts, we are, by the association of seasons, again in the spring time of Christian history, again the birds are singing, again the flowers are blooming in the garden of the Aramathean, again the air is filled with the perfume of that new life, again our fancy is filled and thrilled with the knowledge that one has overcome the grave and led to captivity the captive—that one, Jesus, The Christ, The Galilean and The God.

It is fitting that at this season we should place upon the cover of our magazine the familiar features of this sainted man, whose body sleeps beneath the daisies, but whose soul soars above the stars.

Brother Carpenter was one of the truest friends of the Brotherhood. As we write, there lies before us, above that familiar signature, in those patient lines of his, these words, "I want to be identified with every work of the Christian Church. I hail the Men's Movement as one of the good signs of the time. God bless you in the good work. Very truly yours, L. L. Carpenter."

He held the movement as one of the good signs of the time. Bless his dear heart! He was an optimist and felt that this time was a good time, that it was God's time, that in it great things were being done and to the last hour of his life he wanted to have a part in the doing of them. He followed the Brotherhood sessions with the most sympathetic interest at Bethany Park last year, was a wise counsellor and a valued friend, and every reader of this magazine and every friend of the movement must mourn his loss, yet rejoice in his triumphant victory.

May we all prove as worthy as he of the life that God gave him and the love his friends showered upon him.

The pages which are missing were removed because they were advertisements

Heart to Heart

There is a little matter that has been coming to our attention a good many times in every twenty-four hours for the last three or four months, and upon which we feel that we ought to take counsel with our readers.

It comes about in this way. Won't you watch us closely for a minute while we sketch the situation and then help us think it through.

You like the magazine, or if you don't like it you like the ideals at which it aims and you want to see it succeed in attaining those ideals. We closed the first year with twelve thousand subscriptions. That did not reach our expectations by half. We thought we should have had twenty-five thousand. We tightened our belt and went after them. We gained a thousand new subscribers in January, another thousand in February and for the first seventeen days in March we received fifteen hundred. That is very nice, but here is what gives us pause. We had fifteen hundred expirations in December. Up to the present writing, only six hundred have renewed. About fifty have discontinued and from eight hundred we have heard nothing at all. We sent these expired subscribers a notice in December and one in January and one in February and another in March. Under the postal laws we can carry them upon our lists just once more, that is for April, and you are reading the April magazine now. Hence, we cannot reach them again unless we place a two-cent stamp upon the wrapper.

Obviously, we cannot afford to do this. We feel perfectly certain that the great majority of these eight hundred and fifty subscribers wish to remain with us, and that they have merely procrastinated in the matter of renewal. We should be very glad to extend credit, but the postal laws do not permit it. Under the law the weekly paper may send to delinquents for a year, or fifty-two times, but the monthly magazines only have four months or four times. Thus the magazine has but one-thirteenth of the opportunity to hold and renew you, gentle reader, that the weekly periodical has.

Our lot is therefore a hard one. If we are to bring our circulation up to fifty or a hundred thousand in the next four or five years, as we must, it is perfectly obvious that we must hold the great majority of our expiring subscriptions. The question is serious with eight hundred and fifty unrenewed December expirations, but when you consider that we have ten hundred and thirty-five unrenewed January expirations, twenty-one hundred unrenewed March expirations and seven hundred and ten unrenewed April subscriptions, approximately forty-seven hundred, or nearly one-third of our splendid list expiring, you will appreciate the gravity of the situation.

Why do we talk about this alarming crisis? Because it is your crisis as well as ours. The magazine is not making money. It probably never will make money, but it is rendering a great service and it will render a much greater service in time to come. We do not ask you to help it make money, but we ask you to help it render that larger service. Will you not examine the wrapper to see when your subscription expires and will you not make immediate renewal if it has expired and will you not also set yourself to work in your church to see that someone makes an immediate canvass of the membership where clubs have expired and renew the subscribers at once and also largely increase the list. We can make the magazine the best we know how and we can print it and we can mail it and wherever our secretaries go we can get a club of subscribers to the magazine, but that is all. And that is insufficient. The rest lies with you. We believe our confidence is not in vain.

We shall be glad to make you acquainted with our premium offer for subscriptions and to see you enter the contest for a prize watch fob, terms of which are set forth on another page of this issue, or we shall be extremely grateful if you will simply renew your own subscription and do your very best to persuade others to do the same, and that immediately.

Iowa Men Take Notice

Your attention is called to the Iowa Booster's Banquet, to be held in Des Moines on April 19th, looking to the assembling of a great host of men at the Iowa State Convention, which is to be held in Boone sometime in June.

The plan is to have at least a hundred representative laymen from all over the state present at this banquet and appoint committees, district them a territory and get busy to do this thing in the way that Iowa men know how to do things when once they are started.

Don't wait to be invited. Send your application for a seat at this table to Prof. C. N. Kinney, Drake University, Des Moines.

We Are Proud

We are proud of the detailed programs which we are publishing in the magazine from month to month. Many a Brotherhood has written to us that this solves for them the problem of what to do and how to do it. The thoroughness with which these programs are being prepared is also appreciated by our ministers. We hear of a number of them who are using our outlines in the preaching of special sermons or even in a series of sermons. This is good, and it is wise. We are employing the best talent to be had in the making of these programs and feel certain they must prove helpful to all who use them in any way.

We call special attention to the April programs which you will find set forth in the annual calendar and in detail elsewhere in the magazine.

We take pleasure in announcing Benjamin L. Smith, of Salina, Kansas, for many years Secretary of the American Christian Missionary Society, as the winner of the prize of five dollars offered for a special Home Missions Program. In other places in the magazine you will read of the wonderful success attending the World-Wide Missions Program. Get your men to try the "America-for-Christ" program. It will help. Whether your men are yet organized as a Brotherhood or not, let them try it. Put it before your Bible Class, your Men's League or Social Club. It will assist in giving them that definiteness of purpose and loftiness of conception which is necessary to the inauguration of successful local Brotherhood work.

Arthur Holmes—A Man Among Men

ARTHUR HOLMES

One is interested in knowing something more about the man of whose speech at Pittsburgh the November CHRISTIAN MEN said. "What was by common consent the most enthusiastically received address of the Brotherhood sessions was that of Arthur Holmes, of Philadelphia, Religious Work Director of the Pennsylvania railroad branch of the Y. M. C. A., and Professor of Psychology in the University of Pennsylvania.

"This address was not only punctuated with frequent applause, but at times brought the audience to such a pitch of excitement that the entire mass arose as one man and with waving hats and handkerchiefs and stentorian cheers, they expressed their approval of the sentiments uttered."

It was approval not only of the sentiments, but of the man. That which has been finely said of the greater teacher, may not unfairly describe Mr. Holmes and his message: "Every word that he spoke had been fiercely furnaceed in the heart of a man who was terribly in earnest." This man of whom we are likely to hear more. He is an Ohioan, born in Cincinnati in 1872. His father's early death obliged him to leave school and he learned the machinist trade, at which he labored for about six years. The experience and training of this period contributed much to the character of his later growth. He developed the qualities of unswerving constancy, precision, indefatigable application, patience, and reserve power. From being a skilled worker in iron and brass, he was to be trained in the things of mind and spirit. At the age of twenty he became a Christian and decided to fit himself for some special work for Christ. With this purpose in mind he wrought by day at the lathe and pored over his books at night. When twenty-two he entered Bethany for one year and then went to Hiram, where he took his A. B. degree. With what kind of a spirit and with what toilsomeness he gave himself to the making and saving of means for his college course and to overcoming the fact that he had had no high school studies, may be gathered from the following incident. At one time while working as machinist for a ship carpenter in Philadelphia, as the ship had to sail on a certain day, Mr. Holmes went to work on Monday morning, worked that day and night, all day Tuesday and Tuesday night, up to Wednesday afternoon, with no sleep except what was caught at his meal hours.

His desire for a reasonably adequate preparation led him to spend five years in the University of Pennsylvania; two of these were occupied in the Semitic Department. The other three were in the Department of Philosophy, Psychology, and Ethics. The degree of Ph.D. was granted. He ministered five years in the pulpit; four years in the Sixth Christian church of Philadelphia, and one in the Ann Arbor Christian church. While at Ann Arbor he was assistant instructor in the Bible chairs. His interest in men caused him to turn to the Y. M. C. A., with which he had been more or less closely related from the time he went to Philadelphia. While he was studying at the University of Pennsylvania he was assistant secretary and assistant physical director of the P. R. R. Y. M. C. A., and later for four years educational and religious work director of the largest railroad men's association in America. The work among men and the conviction that the limitations of their lives frequently resulted from deficient development which intelligent method could largely change for the better, induced him to make psychology his specialty, and he is now professor in the Department of Psychology of the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Holmes is a large man in body, mind and heart. He is positive, but unassuming; sympathetic without display; intelligent without egotism; masterful without arrogance.

Six feet in height, broad shouldered, erect, with 210 pounds well distributed, he is physically a man to appeal to men. The development of the inner man is equally well proportioned and grips men. He has spent the years studying men, in almost daily contact with them where they live. The constant touch with the thought of the schools on the one hand and life on the other, has given him a balance and strength, a breadth of vision and warmth of sympathy most usable in the call to solve the urgent problems of our day. That which reveals the concrete quality of the man is the fact that his message finds response in the hearts of workingmen, business men, ministers and professors.

Do You Want Arthur Holmes?

We have made arrangements with Mr. Holmes to make a number of addresses in the interest of the Brotherhood the first three weeks in the month of June. His engagement will begin at the Ohio State Convention in Toledo, Friday Night, June 3d, and close at the Missouri State Convention on Monday, June 20th. We shall be glad to arrange for Mr. Holmes to speak in eight or ten of our Brotherhood centers during this interval. He will be accompanied by one of our secretaries and for the time will be one himself.

Here is an opportunity to arouse the men of your city and community and perhaps get your Brotherhood organization going right: For Dates and Terms address the General Secretary, 419 R. A. Long Building. There will doubtless be enough applications to fill the time Mr. Holmes has at his disposal four times over, therefore, get your request in immediately. Don't write to him: he knows nothing about it.

Texas State Brotherhood Committee

A. F. SANDERSON
Pastor First Christian Church,
Houston, Texas

Dr. WALDO N. LEMMON
Greenville, Texas

JESSE F. HOLT
Attorney, Sherman, Texas

J. O. SHELBURNE
Chairman, Central Christian Church,
Dallas, Texas

F. M. COMPTON,
Business man, Waco, Texas

Texas Brotherhood Convention

The Texas State Brotherhood committee, whose features look out from above, are strong souled men of action.

The Texas convention this year will be held in Dallas May 9 to 12, and the committee is enthusiastically at work on a campaign to bring a thousand men to the Brotherhood sessions of this convention, which occupy practically a full day. Chairman Shellburne has already received $200 sent in promptly by laymen of the State of Texas for use in the campaign for a large attendance.

Without any doubt whatever, this will be the greatest state convention in the history of the cause in Texas, and the men are going to play a tremendous part in it. The energy and sagacity which the Texas men show in their manner of going about this thing should be an example to Brotherhood men everywhere.

By the way, why should the Lone Star twinkle quite so lonely in the Brotherhood sky? We hear that Iowa and Ohio are putting up their stars also, and that Missouri and several of the Northwestern and Pacific Coast states are getting ready for great Brotherhood sessions.

Evangelist Herbert Yeuell holding a night meeting in the street during the Centennial Convention, at Pittsburgh, in October, 1909. Mr. Yeuell has preached to men both in America and Great Britain, but he believes this to be the largest men's meeting which he ever addressed. The sermon lasted fully half an hour and the attention was as profound as in a church.

You Are Not Done With This Number of CHRISTIAN MEN Until You Have Read—

	Page
The Centurion's Story of the Resurrection of Jesus	11
Arthur Holmes, a Man Among Men	7
Ten Pages of Wireless Whispers, Bible Class Notes, Brotherhood Achievements, Echoes From the World Wide Missions Program, Etc.	21
The Brotherhood Counting House	37
The Brotherhood Calendar for April, with Detailed Programs	34
The Bible Lesson Comments by P. H. Welshimer	40

The Centurion's Story of the Resurrection of Jesus*

Antonian Tower, Jerusalem, Province of Syria

II.

Sergius, Centurion of the Tenth Legion, to Marcus, the Prefect, Alexandria, Greeting:

And now, Marcus, what shall I say? Out of the foolish, fond heart of me, like the babblings of a child, I wrote unto thee by the Egyptian post of this Jew who had interested me. After all, it was but a passing fancy. I thought that I had done with him when I had done with writing to you, but by the gods, no! If you could see me now, Marcus, you would know that I have lived ten thousand years since I wrote the name of Sergius at the bottom of my last script.

In what terms shall a man write down that he has looked upon the face of God and in what language translate the strange emotions that possess him? I have seen a light that was not of the sun and yet was of a brightness surpassing the brightness of day upon the desert. I am confused and humbled. I have travelled far and seen much and upon all that I have seen it has been my habit to make reflection, and converse regarding it, and if it seemed worth while, to make it the subject of conference with those more intelligent than myself. Things that seemed to me wonderful and passing knowledge I have come either to understand or to catalogue as occupying some fit and proper place in the vast unsearched areas of the cosmos beyond the power of man to know.

But all mystery and all marvel is today is nothing. For, Marcus, I have looked upon the face of the Inscrutable. My soul has been bathed in mystery, I have seen the spirit of the cosmos itself, or indeed I must say himself, for the spirit is a man, and the man is God. At least so it seems to me. But there has been none to teach me. If there be a school or cult that did forecast the mystery of last night, and indeed methinks I see signs that such there is, I am not yet admitted to their circles.

Remember that I write thee wide-eyed; that the lids have not fallen over these wondering orbs of mine since I looked into the face of the living Jew, who, three days before, I saw bound with the spell of death, wrapped in the cerements of the grave, and as dead, I swear, Marcus, as any mummy in the pyramids that peep over thy shoulder as thou readst what I write. You will not question that I am disturbed, or rather ask if I but interpret the facts aright? Do I apprehend the phenomenon? Have I seen what I think I saw, or do I but dream and totter into dotage?

Let me then set down in order the events which have transpired in these three marvellous nights since last I wrote to you, and you yourself shall judge.

To begin with, we lifted the noble Jew down from the cross with the blood of a spear thrust that had searched his heart drying on the glistening white side of him. Evening was coming and there was a great hubbub and knocking about of old graybeards among the Jews. The morrow was one of their high days, it seemed, and it would be an unclean thing for the dead to hang upon the cross over this day, and so they were for hustling them into graves at once. Off they bundled to Pilate, which was agreeable enough to me, for I am always glad to be rid of such a business. To save time and vent my spite upon certain curiosity seekers, I turned some score of them to digging graves in front of the crosses. They howled and protested, but the stout spat of the flat of the spear with an occasional prod with the point of it kept them sweating at their work.

Before we were finished, back came a servant of that sharp dog Pilate to know of me if the Jew were really dead. The old fox, it seems, has done nothing but think of this young prophet since the trial, and his mind was sticking at some talk of women that the man was a god and could not die. It was this superstition that brought the message from Pilate's wife I told you of, and made him wish to save the Jew, if such might be; but Pilate is an obstinate dog and once he has chosen a course he will walk in it to the turn of the road. Since he had delivered the man up to death, he would have no halfway measures; he would have him so dead that if he come back it will be like the ghost of Cæsar to Brutus at Philippi, for Pilate is a crass rascal and knows that ghosts are harmful only in dreams.

"What, is he dead yet?" said the officer of Pilate, a Phrygian whom I have always despised. "He is still dead," I answered. The fellow looked mystified. May the divine Tiberius forgive me this jest at the fears of one of his worthy procurators. For, as you shall see, Pilate's haunting, suspicious fear was not that we had killed him, for he knew I would see well to that, but that he should remain dead when once he was slain. What a foolish fear! What an idle superstition! What a power in life this Jew must have been that he could haunt with fears when he was dead those who hated him and torture them with horrid suspense lest he break the seal of death and move again among the people or cast a spell so strong that thrones would crumble and empires fall away. However, the thrust of my keen wit broke its point upon the thick skull of the Phrygian, and the Procurator knows not that I did jest with his fears. The Phrygian, however, knows death as well as another, for murder is one-half his trade, I know, and he looked beyond me to the grave-flesh upon the cross and knew it for what it was.

Soon the Jews were hustling back with the order from Pilate to bury the dead, but one of my graves was doomed to emptiness unless I knock the bothersome Annas on the head and tumble him into it, and right well I had a mind to do it. For with those who came from Pilate was a rich Jew named Joseph, who seemed to be of the party of the Galileans to which this Jesus belonged. Anyway, he had a scroll from Pilate commanding me to give him the body of Jesus to be laid in a newly hewn tomb in his garden on the western slopes of Olivet. The Phrygian was come back also with Pilate's signet ring and the command of the Procurator to see the body sealed within the tomb and mount guard upon it for three full days. It was about the eleventh hour and the long march around the city and down the dry bed of a spring brook till we found the way across from the temple and leading up the sides of Olivet to the garden, made it near the sunse hour when the tomb was closed and sealed.

It was not an imposing funeral cortege. My half dozen men muttering over the dusty way, four or five stout fishermen of Galilee who bore the dead, the Joseph of the garden, and the handful of women who talked in low tones and waited in high ones, and as we climbed the hill were saying how often the Jew himself had come over this pathway with his disciples to find repose at night in the very garden of Joseph where now they made his tomb.

We laid the body in the inner crypt, and after I had examined carefully the outer chamber, that it was all hewn from solid rock, my stout fellows rolled the heavy stone in its well-proportioned groove to the door, dropped it into the niche, and across the stone I stretched a purple cord that spoke of the imperial dignities, and upon either end of the cord I smeared the wax and made the imprint of Pilate's signet ring. I bade the soldiers turn their faces from me while I myself did the foolish thing, for I knew the grinning rascals mocked me, especially that black-browed Stephen whose own spear had split the prophet's heart. Too often he had given the death thrust not to know when it was well done, and here, while the very heavens mocked and while the deep, breaking sobs of women chanted a dirge of death, we were making confession of a procurator's shameful fear. Do I err, Marcus, when I set you this down in such painful detail? I grow not; for those trivialities, impressed upon me then because of their shameful uselessness, now burn into my memory.

I remained about the garden until the watch had been changed and saw all disposed for the night, then made the best of my way down the darkened sides of the valley and up by the pool of the angel to the temple mound and thence to the tower, where, weary as I was, I could not refrain from writing you of the death of the Jew.

It was a strange thing that on the morrow the grove and the garden cast a spell over me. I could not wait for the guard to report, but myself was there and saw the watch changed. All was as we had left it.

The next day was the Jewish Sabbath, and again I found myself in the garden when the morning watch was changed.

"All's well," they reported. "Hath nothing chanced?" "No," they answered, stolidly. I was foolish, Marcus. I was provoked with them for their indifference. Why had not something chanced. "Have you seen nought?" I asked. "No," they said, "except some women who come and sit under yonder tree and weep and wail through the night." "Where are they?" I asked. "I will talk to them." "They are gone," they answered. "There are two of them. They come at night. They have been here these two nights now." "Do you see no men about?" I queried. "No," they answered, "none come."

I came in with the men who had been relieved but in my own mind I made appointment to keep the watch that last night myself, and it is well, too, Marcus, that I did, for what wonder was wrought in yonder garden with its gnarled olive trees, with its feebly dripping fountains and with its few and scraggly flowers, I cannot of a verity say, but something wonderful, which I now try to describe to thee, my thoughtful friend, while yet it seems to make its largest impression on my mind.

I reached the garden in the evening, just at sunset. The rays stealing in through an opening in the trees fell full upon the hard surface of the stony crypt and were given back in a gleam of gold. At the moment I thought it was curious, but now it seems to me prophetic as I recall what golden light I saw streaming from that crypt ere yet another day had dawned. I looked to the purple cord and to the seals of Pilate upon it. They were intact.

Some foolish weakness made me lean an ear against the stone and listen. All was still. My senses detected nothing but the chill of the rock and the heavy odor of the pounds upon pounds of spices in which the Jews swathe the bodies of their respected dead. And then inquiring where the women were wont to appear, I started that way. It was up the hill a stone's cast, and along beneath the brow of it, in another garden, like the last but more secluded. Here, beneath heavy shade, one might pass the night in this hospitable atmosphere with no more than a cloak between his body and the ground and the fold of a tunic between him and the stars. There was but one woman. Have you ever observed, Marcus, that the sound of one woman weeping, somehow, gives the impression that there are two? So my soldiers had been fooled. Here this one was, shrouded in the dusk. I spoke to her and she ceased her sobbing at once and responded to my address in startled tones. "Why do you weep?" I asked. "Was he your brother?" "No," she answered, "no, but he was like a brother unto me and something more. I loved him, but as one would love God, whom indeed we had thought he was."

This was said in tones of the most complete dejection and melting sadness that ever I had listened to. With weeping through the night, the woman's soul had become so tuned to grief, that her sobs were a melting symphony of sorrow, like to which mine ears had never listened before.

"You were a disciple of his?" I asked. "Ten thousand demons held me in a bitter thrall," she answered. "He set me free and then he made me quit of every grief till his death at the hands of wicked, shameful men came, striking a dirge of sorrow from every chord of this sad heart of mine." "Why do you weep here?" I asked. "Because the soldiers hinder me," she said. "Tomorrow that foolish word of the priests that he will rise again will be made false. The guard will be removed and we may complete the preparation of his dear body for its last rest."

The woman talked like a poet, but she sorrowed like a woman, and I had respect enough for her grief to leave her and go on my way to the brow of the hill, where for hours I walked amid the stars and reflected. My mind went back over all the past. I remembered how when a boy I floated my puny ships upon the sea at Puteoli while I cast the enlarging eye of wonder upon the sails that came over the horizon. As I saw them come, my childish soul questioned what lay beyond. I have traveled far since then. Gaul and Britain and the forests of the Danube have been familiar ground to me. My heels have brushed the dew from the grasses in the far North beyond the great Scythian sea. They have stirred the dust of the great African desert and once you and I waded knee-deep into the yellow tide of the Euphrates. Yes, I have travelled far and yet, wide-eyed, with childish wonder in my mind, I still marvel that the curve of the horizon balks me yet. What is behind it? Ah, that is the question.

I saw the Jew die two yesterdays ago. Did he die or did only the soul of him sink behind the horizon, as in my boyhood days I saw the proud galleys sink behind the curve at sunset into other seas than mine own eyes looked upon. I have tried to frame my thoughts a times in the school of Epicurus to say that death is death and let it go at that but Epicurus takes no account of the curve of the horizon. To say the ship ceases to be when it drops over the watery hill is not reasonable, and to say that our friends cease to be when they drop out of sight of our childish, wondering eyes is not an answer that has commended itself to my mind for long at a time. I have held, rather, with Pythagoras, that the soul that is dead soars like the Phoenix.

While I wandered thus in the bright moonlight, I came upon a man, youthful but of a solid figure. As he stood, his face uplifted where the rays of the moon fell full upon it, I saw that it was the face of an artist. There was genius in his countenance. But across it, too, came a look of pain and trouble and sadness not native to his features; a certain horrible shadow of suffering that had been flung upon it suddenly. I thought I recognized him for that friend of the crucified Jew who had gone with him to the house of Annas. Involuntarily, I stopped without disturbing him. He stood a dozen paces from me on a broad, flat rock. His hand was on a wall, his eyes wandered off, off over the gardens, along the slopes until they rested upon that spot where the iron heels of my soldiers clanked to and fro on the rocky way and kept watch over a tomb whose solid rock was not more cold than the flesh of that which lay therein.

As he turned the light played yet more freely upon his face, and I saw in those features beside the shadow of suffering the growing fire of yearning, and while I looked I thought the yearning became a hope.

I spoke to him. He started, and then returned my salutation with that strange dignity which now and then I have met among the more kingly of these Jews. You know how mean and churlish are they with a Roman. This man seemed to recognize me.

"Centurion," he said, "you saw him die. What think you? Will he live again?"

"As all men live," I answered, "beyond the horizon; not here and not now."

And then the young man drew closer to me; so close that I caught the smell of the tarred sheepskin fisher's coat with which he fought the chill of the midnight air.

"Centurion," he said, "I have seen this Jesus whom you slew"—I started at the word—"by order of Pilate, at the instance of the Jews, touch the hand of a girl that was cold in death, and she arose and asked for food. I have seen him touch the bier of a man being borne to the grave and call upon him to rise, and the man stood up and questioned whither they were taking him. Nay, more; I have stood before a rock-hewn tomb over the brow of this hill, scarce a dozen furlongs, and heard his voice wake one who for four days had slumbered in the cloying embrace of death, and the dead, swathed round about with grave clothes, strode forth instinct with quivering life. How say you, then, that he shall only live as all men live again, amid the unsubstanced shades of the Hadesian world?"

The young man cherished a great hope. I approached nearer to him. I felt a sympathy for this dark-eyed youth. Somehow, he was like mine own son, that pretty boy Lucillus, whom thou dost so well remember, whose voice was like the chords of a deep-toned lyre and whose face was like a vision of mankind in its morning. My heart was touched with sympathy for the youth and for the great hope in his breast. I myself was wandering on the mountainside in the raw night air because the spell of the Galilean lingering after death had caught upon my nerves, and yet I knew the man was dead. I knew the tomb was cold and silent and tenantless save by withering flesh. I was but waiting for the rising sun to proclaim the folly of Pilate's precautions, so I sought to rescue the young man from his delusions.

"Young man," I said, "among the Picts, far to the north in Britain, I have seen the bard, chanting the battle-songs of a nation, call back to life the dead warrior by the very fervor of his patriotic ecstasies. But the man had never died. The bard only called him back from the slower reaches of the dark river's flow before the swifter tides had gripped his soul. Yet the cry went out that the seer had raised the dead. In Egypt I have seen a conjuring priest seem to give back the dead to life. Once, by the Euphrates, I saw it again. Yet it was not what it seemed, but instead a mere necromancy. Given any man who has power to wake the multitudes to enthusiastic devotion by the magic of his spell, and he will have art enough to earn a reputation as one who can call back the dead to life. But let me tell you, while I have traveled far, I have never yet seen the prophet or magician who could put one single, living spasm in that heart through which a Roman spear has passed."

The young man looked at me soberly and weighed my words. He marked them and gave them credence, and yet, as his mind ran over those thoughts of which he had spoken to me, said:

"But these of which I speak were no necromancy."

I still felt my sympathy growing. He was so modest and so serious. I dropped my hand upon a rose. I snapped it off and held it before him. While he looked I dismantled it, petal by petal, the while he watched. "Look," I said, when nothing remained. "A moment before, a beautiful rose, its fragrance floating on the breeze, now its petals are borne upon the air to wither and be lost. It is gone. It will never be again. There will be other roses, but never that rose. So, your prophet is gone. There will be other prophets, but never that prophet again. Only in that great beyond of which we have spoken, our shades live on, there, it may be in a voiceless existence, his spirit may mingle with our own and we three, by such means as spirits use, may commune upon the nature of human existence."

The young man watched the breeze

take up the rose petals one by one and bear them away, and then with a heavy sigh and a grave manner, as of one whose thoughts were far too deep for words, he turned and went down the path that led down the mountainside to Jerusalem, and groped his way into it.

How long I stood lost in reverie I cannot tell, but suddenly I was recalled to myself and my surroundings. My first thought was that the wind had freshened. The whole mountainside seemed a-quiver. There was a rustle in every branch and bush and flower and petal and blade of grass. The very cells and tissues of my body had caught the thrill of something wonderful; of some rare potentiality that was cosmic in its measure. My mind was filled with a strange uplift and feeling as of a new world about to be born out of the past and all the future swung around me in a mighty circle.

In the east from where I stood, upon the brow of the hill, I caught the first gleam of the morning star. I listened for the wailing of the woman beneath the tree. It had stopped. Worn out with her long vigil, she had sobbed her way homeward. As my eyes wandered over the hill to the garden and the tomb, I started, involuntarily, for a strange glow was there. At first I thought the soldiers had kindled a fire, for the night was chill, and it was the glow of firelight on the branches that I saw, but then I saw there was no flickering, as of firelight, but rather a kind of golden cloud that hung over the spot like a halo, and strange odors, such as travelers observe in the Valley of Perfumes in Araby, were floating on the breeze. I sniffed the breeze and breathed deep of it. My feet took wings as I hurried to the garden. Mysterious thoughts possessed me. Wonderful emotions stirred my soul. I ran faster and knew not why I ran. I seemed obeying some primary instinct of my nature and leaped from rock to rock, or clambered over walls, or tore through hedges of roses, or pushed under trees. Nothing could be permitted to impede my progress. Halfway there I met a soldier, fleeing, wild-eyed. I drew my sword. The man cowered at my knee. He was speechless. Some vague horror possessed him. He cast terrible looks backward and muttered incoherent sounds. I could have slain him but that some wide spirit of peace seemed brooding over all. There was a spirit of life in the air and I could not kill. I sheathed my sword. The man rose up and cast one lingering, terrified look backward and stumbled on. He was fleeing in the opposite direction from the Antonian tower. Panic had possessed his soul. He knew not whither he was going, nor cared.

In another dozen paces I came face to face with another soldier, fleeing like the first. It was Stephen, the hard-featured Galician who plunged the spear in the side of the Jew upon the cross. I seized him by the throat and forced him to his knees. "Coward," I said, "what have you seen?" "Seen?" he muttered. "Seen?" he gasped. "We have seen nothing but a golden cloud that hangs above the tomb and there is life within the tomb. We have heard a rustling within and the voices of men." "Is the seal broken?" I asked, and flung him from me and rushed to the tomb.

But when I reached the area of the golden cloud I halted as quickly as I had started. There came to me a feeling that I trod on holy ground, that I was about to see that which it was not permitted a man to see. With slow and faltering steps I approached the tomb. There was music in the air. I could not tell you whence it came, but now, as before I had caught that strange rustling sound on the whole hillside, there was a sound of celestial harmonies. I looked about me. My senses were abnormally quickened. Nothing escaped me. Far down below, I heard the passage of another frightened soldier, as, with his arms, he clambered, clanking, over the wall, but all around me, all the hillside was caught in the spell of music. Every branch and blade of grass and shivering petal of a flower was now vibrating with this strange, invisible, indescribable harmony that struck a rhythm from the heart strings of my soul.

I approached the tomb and laid my hand upon the stone. It was no longer cold but warm. I swear it was warm to the touch. My soul quaked within me, my heart stood still.

"If there is life within," I said, "that life shall come forth."

The next instant I was bathed in a flood of light that streamed from the opening portals.

I looked!

And not only looked, but saw; not only saw, but contemplated, for one long, glorious, transcendent instant of time, and then I turned away and sat upon the stone which I had rolled from the door. My body was collapsed in utter weakness.

What length of time I remained thus, inert, with closed eyes and ears, I know not, but when I opened my eyes the golden cloud was gone. The music, too, was still, but for all that, the grove of the garden seemed thrilled with a presence that had not been before. The morning star was still shining, but the dawn hurried over the top of the hill, and I was aroused by the sensation of an earthquake. Twice it seemed to me the stone under me shuddered and then lifted, as with some mighty convulsion of nature. When the vibrations had ceased, I opened my eyes and cast about me in wonder, as upon a new world. Down the mountain-mind was pitiful. Then an aggressive side I heard the talk of women and presently that woman whom I met the night before beneath the tree. I recognized her by the tones of her voice. She seemed surprised to find the stone rolled away. In a moment she had stooped and peered in—then with a great melting sob hurried down the mountainside. That she saw me as she came near I am almost certain, but she was blind with weeping, and though she passed me by a foot, gave no sign. Other women came and stood a little way apart in a group. They looked upon the tomb, but seemed afraid to draw near, and after conversing in low tones, turned about and went away. It was strange, but I had no desire to enter the tomb. I had seen what I had seen and the memory of it was still thrilling me to the finger tips with a sense of ineffable glory.

I heard the sound of hurried footsteps and up the path to the garden came the dark-eyed youth whom I had met in the night upon the mountain, followed closely by a great, shaggy-haired giant of a Galilean whom I had seen with the Jew at the time of his arrest—he who smote off the ear of Malchus—and again as a member of the burial party. The youth was fleeter of foot and reached the tomb first, stooped and looked in, and after him the larger man labored heavily up the way. His was an impetuous soul, and he flung himself immediately into the chamber.

A sudden horrid suspicion entered my mind. Shall I ever forget the shock of it—the suspicion that after all I had been dreaming, or at most walking in my sleep. While I slept or dreamed my soldiers had been frightened away and the body stolen. My ecstasy was not real. My emotions were begotten of troubled slumber, and after all I was but a stupid dolt. The suspicion, while it lasted, gripped me sickeningly. For a moment my state of spirit leaped up within me. I would see whether this were so, could be so, or no. I left my seat upon the stone. I, too, entered the tomb.

The air was heavy with the odor of spices which had been wrapped about the body. These were heaped in a careless pile where they might have fallen from an upright figure as a shroud was unwrapped. Unwrapped, I say, Marcus. Note that. For here the theory of a desecrated tomb halted abruptly. What body thieves would pause to remove the shroud? Would they not, fearful of discovery, snatch the corpse and make off with it swiftly in a frenzy of terror? however it might be desirable to lighten the body of this round hundred pounds of spices. So my grave-robbing theory got upon its legs and limped on a few paces, only to receive its death-blow as I looked upon the shroud itself, composed of strips of linen cloth, and folded in a pile, I swear to you, Marcus, as a woman might have done it. What body of Galilean fishermen stealing the body of a dead comrade from under the guard of Cæsar, and hurriedly casting off the weight of embalming materials, would have stopped to dress the crypt with folded linens like a fuller's bench? Would not rather the eager strength of ready fingers have torn these cloths from the body as it lay prostrate, and have strewn them in dire confusion? You shall judge if this ordered heap of linens did not prove that what possessed me was no vagary.

But yet another piece of napery cried out to me, "The Jew is risen." This was the head-tire which I had seen upon his brow the night of his arrest, a piece of finest silk with brightly-colored border. In the house of Annas I saw him bestow it upon the younger of the two men now in the tomb like a keepsake. When we took the body from the cross this same youth produced the head-tire, and reverently bound it on the thorn-ridden brow. So it went into the tomb with him, and by Vulcan, now, here it lay neatly folded on the shelf of the crypt, its silken binding cord beside it. Since the world was fluid fire what grave-robber ever stopped to fold a head-tire? Write that down on the first piece of papyrus at hand, Marcus, and send it to me by swiftest military post, or I shall hold that never it was done, and that in this folded head-tire is a voice that cries out like thunder that my senses were not deceived and my memory does not stumble on the way to perfect recollection.

In truth, Marcus, all raillery forgot, what I saw confirmed the memory of my glorious vision.

The Jew was alive. His body thrilled again with life. His cold and pulseless corpse was not stolen from the tomb by the craven hearts of fear-stricken men, but he rose as men wake from slumber, and walked forth warm and glowing with the glister of a different existence, for the glory of the Man, which mine eyes had seen for a moment, was the glory of God himself. The ordered linen cloths, the heaped-up myrrh and aloes, the creased and folded head-dress all proclaimed that angels had come to serve him and for a moment this rock-hewn crypt had become the tiring room of the son of the Immortal.

To set down what I saw in a single glance, to record what I felt in one uprising tide of conviction ere I had taken a second breath of the heavy air of the tomb, has required, lo, these many words; but in my next glance I surveyed these close friends of the man. Was there a plot to steal his body, and they did not know? Were women hurrying to the place the instant the guard was relieved, with spices and perfumes? All the while the body was speeding off Galileeward through some unfrequented cleft of the northern hills? Ask thyself, Marcus, as I have done, can it be so considered?

The older of the two men stood, combing his gnarled beard with his fingers, a look of mingled doubt, misgiving and hope upon his face. The younger man's features wore a glow of joy and he spoke to the other excitedly in that harsh Galilean jargon, pointing to the napkin. I asked in the Greek tongue what he said, and he answered in the same: "The master's head-tire. You see how the two ends cross over and under the third as it lies. It was his custom. He has been in this tomb alive."

There was an exultant sob in the throat of the young man. His eyes were flashing brightness. The older man's face bore a puzzled, thoughtful expression. It seemed as though his had been the greater and more uncomforted sadness, and now hope took slower hold upon his soul, yet with each passing moment, I perceived a growing animation.

We walked out of the heavy air. All the hill was sparkling with sunshine and the roofs of the city were agleam with it. The two men, in animated conversation, after looking about them, hurried down the road to the city.

I lingered. The garden had become very dear to me.

My back was towards the empty tomb. I pondered it all, and oftenest my mind was at stand upon what the young man said about the folded napkin. How many, many times has my wife Afrania said: "No, Lucillus is not within, but he has visited his chamber since with my own hands I dressed it this morning. I know, for he cannot go in nor go out, he cannot take up or lay down a mirror nor move a perfume jar upon the table that I do not know he has been there." And so it seemed to me a thing most natural that this young intimate of Jesus should recognize in heaped up linens and folded head-tires the ministering living hand, the accustomed presence of his master, and say with solid assurance as I do now, He is alive.

I know, dear Marcus, that what I write is a jungle of confusion; yet I think there are no contradictions. I have communicated to you my state of mind, the progress of my thoughts, and what I saw in the tomb when I entered with the two men. Of all that happened I have carefully set down, even to the panicky cries of a flying soldier, and of all that I saw, except in that single ecstatic glance, when, peering through the open door, in the streaming light of ineffable glory, my eyes rested upon that which I have no words nor will to communicate to another, lest it be lost to me.

I have not yet made report to Pilate.

Already the story that the body was stolen is current in the streets. I passed the last watch of soldiers, crouching, terror-stricken, in the hall as I came here. They gazed at me out of fear-troubled eyes. They expect the knife for their cowardice.

Before noon I must stand before Pilate and recount the events of the night. Should I falsely tell him that we were overpowered by a sudden rush of numbers and his body borne away by friends, he will believe me and dismiss me with a chiding. If I tell him truly, he will think I am lying, and fly into a rage, ordering me to Cæsarea to await the executioner's sword.

Wherefore, if this be my last letter to thee, good friend, I make no quarrel with my fate. May yours be happier. Vale.

BROTHERHOOD SUPPLIES

"Christian Men," per copy, 5 cents
 "Christian Men," per year, 50 cents
 Official organ; published monthly.
 Club rates upon application.

Brotherhood Covenant Cards, per hundred - - - - 50 cents
 (For new members' signatures)

Brotherhood Bible Class Pledge Cards,
 per hundred - 30 cents
 (Bricker Contract Plan)

Brotherhood Bible Class
 Buttons, per hundred, $1

Brotherhood Letter Heads, printed in colors, pad of 100 sheets, 75c.

Brotherhood Organization Material, (one copy of everything you need in organizing a local Brotherhood) per package, - 15 cents

Comrades of Paul Pledge Cards, free on application.

Brotherhood Information:

Subjects	{	Missions	}	Free on applica- tion
		Benevolences
		Fraternal Aid
		Cultural Work
		Boys' Work
		Bible School

The Brotherhood Emblem

PRICES

(The colors are red and gold)

	Solid gold	Rolled plate	Roman gold
Lapel Buttons, each - - -	$1.25	$.40	$.15
Scarf Pin, each,	1.25	.40
"Dumbell" Link
Cuff Buttons, per set - - - -	4.00	1.25

Watch Fobs, special designs:

Solid gold, $5.00; Sterling silver,
 $3.50; Bronze, $2.50.

These emblems are models of the jewelers' art, made of the finest of material, and best workmanship, with no limit as to wearing qualities. Buttons are of the regulation screw back, the scarf pins and cuff links are such as to add beauty and lustre to cravat and linen. Order from

Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ

R. A. Long Building, Kansas City, Mo.

Wireless Whispers

"I am with you heartily in your good work."
—STEPHEN COLLIER, Sparta, Tex.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 272, North Side Church, Omaha, will take up the Comrades of Paul movement before long and enlist a number of men in its support.

* * *

"I want to become a member of the Brotherhood. Please send me a Covenant Card and Brotherhood emblem."—K. A. WILLIAMS, General Evangelist, Eureka, Ill.

* * *

"I am going to make a strenuous effort to produce that March program in such a way that it will surprise the men themselves as to what they can do if they try."—B. F. CATO, Beaumont, Texas.

* * *

The men at Elkhart, Ind., are sitting up and taking notice of what our men are doing elsewhere and as soon as the present meeting with Evangelist Varney is concluded a Brotherhood will be organized. Field Secretary J. K. Shellenberger was with them on February 14th.

* * *

J. E. Davis, of Beatrice, Neb., made the annual address at the North Side Church, Omaha, L. B. D. C. No. 272, taking for his subject "The Disciples of Christ and the Movement for Church Unity." Splendid committee reports were made and all the old officers were elected.

* * *

"The External Side of Discipleship" was the prayer-meeting subject for a recent Wednesday night in the First Church at Springfield, Ill. The meeting was properly placed in charge of the Brotherhood Bible Class, with Mr. C. E. Brown and Mr. Burnham leading. Result, of course, a good meeting.

* * *

A. R. Spicer, our minister at Dixon, Ill., and an enthusiastic Brotherhood worker, has accepted a call to Lawton, Okla. We count Brother Spicer one of our most worthy exponents and consider any congregation extremely fortunate which secures his able services.

* * *

"We are just to the point. I would have done it last Sunday only we were getting ready for this Missions program, but I am ready now to present the magazine, CHRISTIAN MEN, next Sunday morning to my classes—we have the Loyal Brothers' class and the High School Crusaders—to see if they won't adopt it."—W. Y. ALLEN, Fort Scott, Kas.

* * *

C. T. Morris is a Brotherhood traveling man, going from place to place and representing the Brotherhood and CHRISTIAN MEN wherever he goes. We have heard from him at Newcastle, Pa.; Peru, Ind.; Ottawa, Ill., and Webster City, Iowa. Men of his position can assist the cause of the Brotherhood and CHRISTIAN MEN materially by speaking a good word as they have opportunity.

* * *

Robert Simons, writing from his sick bed at Lufkin, Texas: "After returning from the Centennial, I commenced to work up the Brotherhood movement (how could I help it after the Luna Park meeting?) and matters looked encouraging when this illness stopped all my work effectually. I love the Brotherhood and believe in it to the bottom of my soul. It is a God-founded and God-sent movement, and if I am permitted to get well again I shall do something along these lines. Have been a subscriber to CHRISTIAN MEN from the first number and enjoy every one."

* * *

General Secretary Macfarlane stopped in Peoria, Ill., a few hours between trains March 3d. He was royally entertained by our Peoria Brotherhood men, including President A. I. Buckwalter, Evangelist Harlow, W. F. Turner, Pastor Central Christian Church; William Price, Pastor Howett Street Church; H. B. Holloway, Supt. Central Bible School; Arthur Leu, Assistant to the President P. & P. U. Ry.; G. H. Bradley, wholesale grocer; A. J. Elliott, manager Demurrage Bureau, and the invincible M. W. Roachford, Supt. Howett Street Bible School and all around Brotherhood man. Luncheon was taken and Mr. Macfarlane was given opportunity to tell the Brotherhood story before taking his train for the Tri-Cities.

* * *

The Brotherhood at New Berlin, Ohio, is in prosperous condition. Recent correspondence with their pastor, Robert B. Chapman, shows that there are four churches in the town of one thousand, one Catholic and three Protestants. The Men's Club was organized two years ago, and, while fathered and officered by our men, the membership is open to all men regardless of Church affiliation. The members of the Christian Church are naturally the most active, but many from other churches take an interest and attend the meetings, held every two weeks. They never have a meeting without a program, and they always have good programs, followed by a light luncheon free to all, expense being defrayed from the Men's Club treasury. Their local dues are 25 cents every three months. Their meeting January 25th was attended by sixty men of all churches and no churches. Christian Church parlors is the meeting place and is the center of social life for the men. Addresses were made by a Catholic Priest and Protestant Minister and Laymen from Methodist Reformed and Christian Churches. The address of the Catholic clergyman is reported as especially commendable. George Darsie, of Akron, addressed the first meeting in February.

* * *

The men of Kendallville, Ind., held a missionary banquet February 15th. A. McLean, of Cincinnati, was the guest of honor and delivered the principal address. Field Secretary J. K. Shellenberger, who was an unexpected visitor, also spoke to the enthusiastic gathering. "Both men made tip top speeches," says A. B. Houze, the pastor. Officers were elected:

Prof. M. L. Darise, President.

Attorney Fremont Finley, Vice-President.

Roy E. Davis, Secretary.

W. H. Smith, Treasurer.

These men have not affiliated with the General Brotherhood, but their enthusiastic pastor is moulding them that way.

* * *

The American Bible Society is one of the oldest religious organizations on American soil, dating back to the time of General Washington himself, who was an early member. Through the generosity of Mrs. Russell Sage, widow of the late king of finance, this society is coming into a handsome legacy, which hinges upon a complementary sum to be contributed by the church at large for the purpose of printing and distributing the Scriptures in every known tongue. The emissaries of the Bible Society are doing great work in foreign lands, and the work of our own missions would be seriously retarded but for the work of the Bible Society. To raise this fund, union religious gatherings are being held in some of the large cities under the direction of Rev. Walter Scott Elliott, brother of Ashley Elliott, of Peoria, and Ernest Elliott, our Assistant Secretary. We bespeak for him and for the work of the Bible Society the most cordial co-operation of Brotherhood men wherever they go, and say that both the society and Mr. W. S. Elliott, its representative, are worthy of any confidence which may be reposed in them.

A Boys' Brotherhood Organized

They have organized a Boys' Brotherhood at Wooster, O., with the following officers:

Elton Wyre, Chief.

Harry Bell, Assistant Chief.

Horace Williams, Scribe.

George Derr, Treasurer.

Forest Casner, Collector.

Paul Shellenberger, Chaplain.

Myron Badger, Sergeant-at-Arms.

The boys range in age from twelve to sixteen years. Twenty-two signed the following covenant:

"I remember that at one time Jesus was a boy just the age of myself; and that at my age he was pure, strong and manly, though his temptations were like unto the temptations of any boy of my age.

"Remembering this, I promise to do my best to be like him, and in my work or play I will try to do nothing that I would not do were he standing by my side.

"I promise to play fair in every game, whether in sport or in real life; and to be square whether seen or unseen by my fellows.

"I promise not to give information concerning the mistakes of my fellows, but to help the fellow who makes the mistakes not to do so again. I also promise to inform on myself when I intentionally or unintentionally violate the principles of the Brotherhood.

"I promise to attend Bible School regularly."

(The signing of this covenant shall be considered an application for membership.)

Fifteen more will sign it. When writing of them, our Field Secretary says: "They are a dandy set of boys, full of manhood, took that pledge with a reverence unaffected and genuine. Miss Olive Bowers is teacher of the boys' Bible class, and is unusually successful with them."

IF YOU RECEIVED

a coin card in your April copy of CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine

IT MEANS

that your subscription expired with this issue.

PLEASE RENEW

by placing the money in the slot, writing your name upon the card and mailing to us. We will promptly extend your subscription.

Bible Class Notes

"Please send us two hundred Bricker Contract Pledges. We are going after a Century Bible Class."—M. LEE SOREY.

* * *

"The men of my Bible Class are well pleased with CHRISTIAN MEN. Yours for unbounded success."—H. J. HOSTETLER, Virden, Ill.

* * *

"Please send me one hundred Bricker Contract Plan cards and information on 'How to Organize.'"—D. B. TITUS, Rupert, Idaho.

* * *

"Enclosed you will find $5.00, for which please send me twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN one year for my Sunday-School class."—DR. T. O. DAVIS, Maitland, Mo.

* * *

"Our Bible School Board decided last night that you should send sixty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for our Men's Bible Class."—M. LEE SOREY, Dodge City, Kas.

* * *

"I have a Brotherhood class of almost forty men, and will send in a club for CHRISTIAN MEN in a few days. I like the magazine very much."—ZWINGLIUS MOORE, Deming, N. M.

* * *

"I want to tell you now that Nelsonville and Mount Vernon will, on reaching Topeka next fall, know that Omaha is on the Brotherhood map."—C. E. MANGUM, L. B. D. C. No. 272, North Side Church, Omaha.

* * *

A portion of the church at Carlisle, Ind., was recently destroyed by fire. The up-to-date superintendent, Harry T. Alumbaugh, immediately rented the opera house, and Bible School is going on just the same as before.

One of the most interesting leaflets coming to our desk is the "Y. M. B. C. Item," published "occasionally" by the Young Men's Bible Class, Minerva, Ohio. It is full of bright, breezy, masculine news, up to date and interesting. They had their third annual Washington supper on February 22d.

* * *

"I have just received the February number of CHRISTIAN MEN, and think your writeup and picture of the great men's class at Nelsonville, Ohio, is a fine piece of work and should be a great inspiration and help to other classes.

I received a nice letter from Brother R. A. Doan a few weeks ago, with which he enclosed several copies of their weekly bulletin. We are thinking of adopting this plan ourselves."—H. C. CARR, Bellavben Bible Class, Bellevue, Pa.

* * *

February 21st, the fifty-four men of the First Church of Abilene, Tex., banqueted together. Officers chosen were: President, Morgan Weaver, president of the First State Bank; Vice-President, Fred Anderson; Secretary, W. O. Shackelford; Treasurer, R. A. McClain.

Addresses were made by W. H. Sewell, George H. Morrison, pastor, W. G. Walker, pastor San Angelo, and C. K. Marshall.

A fund was started to provide a room for the class, Superintendent Bacon subscribing $250. CHRISTIAN MEN will be used by the class, and they are considering affiliation with the General Brotherhood. They will be well represented at the Brotherhood session of the state convention at Dallas, May 9-12th.

BROTHERHOOD BIBLE CLASS, MASSILLON, OHIO

The Brotherhood here is four months old and the Brotherhood Bible Class two weeks old. Pretty good sized watermelon to grow on such a young vine, don't you think?

Echoes From the World Wide Missions Program

"Your Missionary program for February meeting was fine."—OLIVER LIVENGOD, Weatherford, Tex.

* * *

A. M. Bird, the pastor of our church at Barberton, Ohio, attended the World Wide meeting at Wooster, Ohio. He said, "Why, I would not have missed that meeting for anything. I had no idea that the Brotherhood was doing anything like that."

* * *

The Brotherhood at Wooster, Ohio, observed the World Wide Missions program published in the February magazine. Someone attending it wrote, "I think the millenium is coming, all right. They closed by voting to make the average offering from the church at least 50 cents per member. That would make $150, against less than $30 last year."

* * *

"Our Brotherhood had charge of the Missionary service last Sunday morning, and it was a 'hummer.' We had three short addresses and three short papers. Altogether it was a good meeting. Some of our men took part in the service who were never known to speak in public before. The Brotherhood movement is the best thing for the church that has been started in many years. The men are coming right to the front in our church since the Brotherhood has been organized. Mr. Shellenberger is to visit us March 25th."—ALVIN ARIE, Secretary Local Brotherhood No. 279, Oak Park, Ill.

* * *

"Both meetings of the Brotherhood calendar for February were splendid, and we have been especially pleased with the interest manifested by our men in the March offering. We provided special envelopes for our Brotherhood men to use in making their offerings, and with an attendance of only thirty-seven in the Brotherhood class yesterday, their offering was larger than any the entire church has ever made for foreign missions, and there are many envelopes that will be handed in later."—C. A. MANGUM, L. B. D. C. No. 272, North Side Church, Omaha, Neb.

* * *

The Local Brotherhood at Ames, Iowa, in connection with their annual dinner, had the World Wide Missionary program suggested in February CHRISTIAN MEN. Forty men were present. A unique feature was a debate on the subject, "Resolved, that Africa is a riper mission field than Japan." The claims of both countries were strongly represented, but the decision was divided. J. J. Grove, the president, says, "It was a real joy to note the interest our men took in the discussion of World Wide Missions, but best of all was a unanimous vote to add $50.00 to the regular offering from the general congregation for foreign fields."

* * *

"Last Sunday we held a World Wide Missions service, and we had men on the program that never had been on the program before. We had a debate. We discussed the question, 'Resolved, that India is a larger mission field than China.' We had four speakers, and it was great. How they did study to see the conditions in those fields, and they brought out those conditions before the people in a fine way. I think this is a success. The house was just packed, whereas if we had just announced we were going to take an offering the attendance would have been smaller."—W. Y. ALLEN, Fort Scott, Kas.

BROTHERHOOD BIBLE CLASS AT MOUND CITY, MO

C. W. Comstock, gold medal winner in Christian Men subscription contest, May, 1909, pastor and teacher. Photo taken on occasion of visit of Field Secretary, J. K. Shellenberger. This class takes 50 copies Christian Men monthly, and will very soon affiliate with the General Brotherhood.

A World-Wide Banquet

By B. P. ROSECRANS, Secretary Local Brotherhood, Champaign, Ill.

I must tell you of our great meeting last night. Yesterday was our "Missionary Day" and all who were able to attend the morning and afternoon services enjoyed them to the limit, but the feast for the men came at an evening hour.

Gathered around our board were many men from neighboring towns; including the Christian ministers from Rantoul, Paxton, and De Land, Brother LaSalle, of Danville, who has made our mission at Longa, Africa, possible; Fred Hagin from Japan, Paul Wakefield from China, and Brother Corey, our General Secretary of Foreign Missions.

These men tore away the darkening shutters of indifference and spread the cruel and shameful truths before us, in such a manner that I am sure there was not a man present but felt the call to missionary support as never before. Seed was sown, Brothers, and we will surely see the harvest garnered.

Not only our local men but also those from other churches felt the call. Their faces shone as with a great light and into their eyes leaped the fire of a determination to far exceed all of their past efforts, to carry their congregations deep into this great work where so few have been loyal enough to venture.

What is our motto, brothers? "A man's work in a man's way?" What is more worthy of the men of Christ's Kingdom than to bear His great commission, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature?" If you will not go; if your love for the comforts of life as found in the United States is too great to permit you to personally carry into the regions of darkness the Gospel that makes such comforts possible, you can at least send someone as your substitute. Nine such men can support a tenth man in some foreign field. Make it one hundred men. Let every ninety and nine men send the hundredth. He is willing to go. If you do not know his name, write to your Foreign Missionary Secretary.

Brothers in Light must help their brother who is groping in darkness. Fifty-five cents per month from ninety-nine men will place the Gospel some place where it has never been before. Let every local Brotherhood establish a Living Link. Let us set a goal for ourselves worthy of our name—a present to Christ at His next birthday of a new point of light shining in some vast darkness—and see the results to ourselves and the world at large.

Champaign, Ill.

James Taylor Ferguson, Pastor Ivanhoe Church, Kansas City, Mo., in action during the late Brotherhood debate

Brotherhood Achievement

"Please send by return mail thirty Constitutions and material that will be useful in organizing a Local Brotherhood."—CHESTER A. COON, Palo Alto, Cal.

* * *

"Received the General Certificate, and it is a beauty; also the cards, which are certainly neat."—ALVIN ARIE, Secretary Local Brotherhood No. 279, Oak Park, Ill.

* * *

"It is our intention to organize a Brotherhood as soon as our new assembly room is completed. We are for the Brotherhood."—E. M. PETERS, Rushville, Mo.

* * *

"Please send thirty Brotherhood Constitutions and By-Laws by return mail. We need them right away. Yours for a great Brotherhood."—E. D. MURCH, Hillsboro, Ohio.

* * *

"We have just organized a Local Brotherhood. Have elected officers and are moving out nicely."—C. S. KEY, Secretary; J. R. CHURCHILL, President, Brownwood, Texas.

* * *

"Next Friday night we will fill out the application blank for membership in the National Brotherhood, as this is our regular Brotherhood night."—E. E. BENTON, Elkhart, Ind.

* * *

Knoxville, Illinois, Brotherhood had annual election on February 24th. James Dennis, president; N. J. Crump, vice-president; George Jacobson, secretary; George K. Sherman, treasurer. They also sent to the general office for Brotherhood emblems.

* * *

The men of Howett Street Church, Peoria, Ill., met March 10th and voted to organize a Brotherhood. A committee of five were appointed to go into the matter and call another meeting of the men at an early date. We will look for stirring things from this enthusiastic group.

* * *

The men at Eldora, Iowa, affiliated with the General Brotherhood on February 24th, remitting dues for twenty members and ordering CHRISTIAN MEN sent to every member. Officers are: D. O. Kind, president; D. P. Aylesworth, vice-president; Morris Frisbie, secretary; N. F. Golly, treasurer.

* * *

The men of Kalamazoo, Mich., organized February 17th, with F. S. Weston, an attorney, president; A. L. Shaw, vice-president; Eugene Croe, secretary; H. P. Darling, treasurer, and have subscribed for fifty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN monthly. Field Secretary J. K. Shellenberger was present and assisted in the organization.

"Enclosed please find fifteen cents in stamps for which kindly send me material on 'How to Organize a Local Brotherhood,' as advertised in your circular."—J. L. LOBINGER, Ocean Park, Cal.

NOTE:—The above is a most familiar communication. Many such letters come to the general office each month.

* * *

The men of Chico, California, apply for certificate of membership in the General Brotherhood, enclosing dues for thirty members, ordering twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN and forty Brotherhood emblems. The officers are: H. D. March, president; J. M. Osborn, vice-president; A. A. Jay, secretary, and J. M. Margson, treasurer. G. L. Lobdell is the enthusiastic Brotherhood pastor and a loyal friend of CHRISTIAN MEN.

* * *

Modesto, Cal., Brotherhood was organized last March, but only recently affiliated with the General Brotherhood, remitting dues for eighteen members and ordering Brotherhood emblems for each man. The officers are: M. H. Noonan, president; J. W. Hawkins, vice-president; R. W. Johnson, secretary; H. Haggard, treasurer. Brother J. J. Haley is the minister and J. W. Webb, an enthusiastic Brotherhood friend, is an elder and leading member.

* * *

Local Brotherhood No. 253, Washington, D. C., held their annual meeting February 8th, re-elected A. A. Ackerman, president; G. J. Crymes, vice-president; C. W. Pultz, secretary, and W. W. Pates, treasurer. A feature of the meeting was the presentation to the president of a pair of Brotherhood dumb bell cuff links. They are planning to double their membership during 1910 and also every member is renewing his subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN.

* * *

Our men at South Bend, Ind., organized a Local Brotherhood February 14th. Field Secretary J. K. Shellenberger was present and made an address, at the close of which thirty-two men took the Brotherhood covenant and elected the following officers:

Cadmus Craybill, president.

J. D. Kuns, vice-president.

Guy Williams, secretary.

Dr. H. C. Viton, treasurer.

C. C. Buckner is the pastor, and an enthusiastic Brotherhood man, who is not only doing the thing with the Brotherhood, but with other departments of the church as well.

Council Grove, Kansas, is a small town named after the beautiful grove in which representatives of the government and the Indians held council in regard to extending the Santa Fe trail to the West. But that was many years ago. The Christian Church there has a pastor who has caught the vision of the Brotherhood. On March 7th he invited all of the men of the town to a banquet in the new gymnasium and club rooms of the church. About seventy-five men accepted the invitation. C. A. Cole, the "Live Cole" of Abilene, Kas., and Assistant Secretary Mr. Elliott, were the speakers. More than one hundred dollars was subscribed to provide equipment for the gymnasium and reading room. This town has no Y. M. C. A. nor public library. These two features are to be supplied by the Brotherhood. The work is receiving a tremendous boost from Pastor Gillmore and his corps of faithful workers.

* * *

Two hundred men and women of the First Christian Church, Omaha, Neb., sat down to a banquet February 18th. The speakers were Mr. Clement Chase, executive secretary of the Omaha Laymen's Missionary Convention, and our assistant secretary, Mr. Elliott. Pastor J. M. Kersey was toastmaster, and at the close of the banquet presented this statement by authority from one of the leading men of the church:

"If the audiences of the First Christian Church of Omaha will average one thousand per Sunday (five hundred in the morning and five hundred in the evening, or otherwise to make one thousand) for any three months to be selected by the congregation prior to March 1st, 1911, $5,000 will be paid into the church treasury."

It was enthusiastically accepted.

A Brotherhood organization is to be formed at once, and already the boy problem is receiving consideration, led by Judge W. W. Slabaugh.

* * *

The Brotherhood at Lebanon, Mo., organized February 13th, with a platform meeting, with addresses on "Brotherhood Work as Outlined in the Constitution," "Brotherhood Spirit, Found in the Name," "Brotherhood Ideals, Contained in the Motto," and "A Brotherhood Feature, a Men's Bible Class." Thirty men have taken the covenant and charter roll will be held open until March 21st. They are likewise considering the Men's Bible Class. Barclay Meador, their pastor, writes "The outlook is most inviting, for the men have caught a vision of doing something for the men and boys of the town."

* * *

"The BOOSTER from WOOSTER did us much good. Our second meeting is February 28th. We expect to have at least forty members then."—C. C. BUCKNER, South Bend, Ind.

By the way there is something in blood, for C. C. Buckner is a brother of S. G. Buckner, of Elkhart, and both are sons of George W.

Buckner, professor of theology and homiletics, Christian University, and pastor of our church at Canton, Mo.

* * *

R. J. Bennett, Mitchell, Ind., is putting forth extra effort for the enlistment of his church men for active service. A Brotherhood is being organized and the men of their own accord have started to hold regular meetings every other Monday night in Red Men's Hall. They sing, talk, have music and enjoy themselves socially. On Sunday night, March 6th, forty or fifty men sang in the choir and the minister preached on "A Man's Job," and they took up an offering for Foreign Missions. It is their intention to hold a similar service the first Sunday night of every month.

* * *

We present in this magazine a picture of the members of Brotherhood at the La Belle View Church, Steubenville, O., L. B. D. C. No. 264. This organization was effected on November 29th, with ten members and the growth has been steady and continued. To-day there are twenty-seven members and are showing additions at every meeting. The members are all hustlers and it will be but a short time until their number will reach a hundred. The President, C. N. Jarrett, who is a minister, is always working and pushing the Brotherhood. They are bringing young men into the Bible School and church that would not have thought of attending before they joined the Brotherhood, and as C. R. Heltman, the Secretary, writes, "I think that is accomplishing something grand."

On the night of February 24th, they held their first annual banquet. The menu was varied and attractive. The Toastmaster was C. N. Jarrett. Judge R. G. Richards made a stirring address in which he pleaded with the men to introduce masculine efficiency into every department of the church. Another speaker was Field Secretary, J. K. Shellenberger. George Swan spoke on "The Power of Necessity and the Necessity of Organization," while A. F. Stahl, pastor of the First Church, Steubenville, urged that the organization should produce definite results at all times.

* * *

The men of the tri-cities—Davenport, Moline and Rock Island—were entertained by the men of the Rock Island Church in a delightful banquet on Wednesday evening, March 2d. The General Secretary was the guest of honor. He spoke at the banquet on "The Brotherhood Practical," and later preached a sermon in the revival series being conducted by the pastor, E. T. McFarland, on "The Brotherhood Ideals," and after this meeting preliminary steps looking to the organization of the Brotherhood in the First Church of Rock Island were taken. Pastors S. M. Perkins, of Davenport, and Robt. E. Henry, of Moline, were present. It was a most enthusiastic meeting and there are effective working Brotherhoods in both these churches.

March 6th, the men of the First Church of Paris, Texas, organized a Brotherhood Bible Class in the Bible School. This is the first practical work of this new Brotherhood. It is presumed that the teacher will be J. T. Ogle.

* * *

Fort Scott, Kansas.—“Five men contributed to Foreign Missions last year; thirty-six this year. That is because we used the World Wide Missions program provided by the Brotherhood.”—W. Y. ALLEN, minister.

* * *

“I mean to organize the men in every meeting. I am getting more enthusiastic over this matter every day. I organized them at Newark, Ohio, without the literature. Couldn't wait for it. God bless you.”—W. T. BROOKS, Evangelist, Chattanooga, Tenn.

* * *

J. K. Shellenberger was at Bluefield, W. Va., on March 9th. A temporary Brotherhood organization was effected with Jas. H. Gallihon, President; J. E. McMullen, Secretary. Twelve of the sixteen men present signed the covenant. They hope to start with fifty members. Watch them.

* * *

The General Secretary enjoyed a very pleasant two-hour's visit with Clyde Darsie, pastor of our church at Quincy, and E. S. Potter, who is a wheel horse there among the laymen. They have a splendid Bible Class, which appears among the leaders of CHRISTIAN MEN. A great interest is taken in all the departments of the church work and the men are anxious to do their full duty. Watch for a flourishing Brotherhood here before long.

* * *

A Brotherhood was organized at Valparaiso, Ind., where Claude E. Hill is the minister, in December. They have about fifty members. John M. Mavity, editor of the Daily Vidette, is the President; Henry Kenney is the Secretary. Monthly meetings are largely attended. Austin Hunter delivered the annual address. H. B. Brown, President of the Valparaiso University, is the chairman of the Evangelistic Committee. These men are going to hold a great evangelistic service April 12th. The Netz sisters will be there to sing. The organization is a success in every particular.

* * *

The General Secretary was present at a banquet given by the men of the First Church of Keokuk, Iowa, where R. W. Lilley is pastor. About a hundred men sat down at a most delightful banquet. Representatives of the Presbyterian and Methodist Brotherhoods, as well as the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, were present and several very interesting talks were made by these gentlemen. L. D. Davidson was toastmaster, and the General Secretary was heard at length on the Brotherhood theme and at its close a goodly number of men signed the covenant and paid their first year's dues. J. O. Boyd, who has been the prime mover in the enterprise and is the teacher of the Brotherhood class here, proposed that he would give a year's subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN to every man signing the covenant card.

The signs point to the building up of a very strong Brotherhood organization here. There is already an association of the men of the town.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 283, at Eldora, Iowa, has elected officers as follows: D. O. King, President; D. P. Aylesworth, Vice-President; C. L. Hays, Secretary; N. F. Golly, Treasurer.

The work of the organization runs back to a men's Bible Class organized about May 1, 1909, and a club of twenty subscribers for CHRISTIAN MEN. The total enrollment in the class reached twenty-five with a collection of $25. The class was the mover in a men's banquet of the men of the different churches. About seventy plates were sold. This was a success, the class, partly by accident, furnishing about half the speakers. As a class and as a Brotherhood they are now constructing a steel ceiling in the unfinished basement of the church for a meeting room for the class and club. There is a genuine working enthusiasm. Their plan is to place all strongly upon the helping hand and rescue basis. “The Brotherhood idea,” writes C. L. Hays, Secretary, “is of untellable value.”

* * *

The Men's Brotherhood in the Methodist Church is preparing for another advance. Dr. Fayette L. Thompson, of St. Louis, Mo., has been elected General Secretary while Mr. William B. Patterson, who, from the beginning of the organization has been the General Secretary, assumes the duties of Corresponding Secretary.

Mr. Patterson has served with consecration and distinction and it was at his request that the change in the organization was effected. All hands pointed to Dr. Thompson, of St. Louis, as conspicuously the man for the place. While yet a young man, he has attained to high place in Methodism, having held some of the best pastorates in the country, and his work has always been characterized by leadership and vision. He has been a man's man and brings to the great and difficult work which he now undertakes the ripened powers of physical and mental life. The man who does this work successfully must have the vision of a prophet and the organizing genius of a great general. All signs indicate that Dr. Thompson possesses these qualities in large measure, and we have a right to look for splendid results.

In the utmost harmony, Dr. Thompson and Mr. Patterson will carry forward the work. Speaking of the work of Mr. Patterson, Dr. Thompson says, “For about two years Mr. Patterson has directed the destinies of this new movement. There have been many perplexities; we were projecting an entirely new enterprise along untried channels and none of us knew exactly what methods were best. But the breath of God was on us, and with a devotion that has more than once placed his health in jeopardy, with a wisdom far beyond what any of us appreciate, and with effective results quite unknown to the church at large, our leader has given literally of himself, without reserve and without counting in any degree the cost.”

The Three-Months-Old Brotherhood in the La Belle View Church at Steubenville, Ohio, L. B. D. C. No. 264.

Golden Opinions

"Your excellent journal is O. K."—L. G. GRASSFIELD, Seattle, Wash.

* * *

"The last number of CHRISTIAN MEN was a Jim Dandy."—W. W. BURKS, Nevada, Mo.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is certainly a gem. Nothing better."—N. LEE SOREY, Dodge City, Kas.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is fine; ably edited and faultlessly made up."—P. H. DUNCAN, Latonia, Ky.

* * *

"We become a living link and CHRISTIAN MEN helped to do it."—GEO. W. BUCKNER, Canton, Mo.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is a bright and breezy publication. Our men enjoy it very much."—J. IRVING BROWN, Sac City, Iowa.

* * *

"Enclosed find fifty cents for renewal of subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN. It is great. I cannot do without it."—MERRITT OWEN, Cincinnati, Ohio.

* * *

"I have been a subscriber to CHRISTIAN MEN from the first number, and have every copy, which I value too much to be induced to part with them."—ROBERT SIMONS, Lufkin, Tex.

"Listen, men; one of our fellows said if anyone takes CHRISTIAN MEN and reads it three months and says he don't like it, that he would give them back their money. Don't that sound good?"—A. A. ACKERMAN, Washington, D. C.

* * *

"Your magazine gets better with each number. Any manly man who wants to do a man's work in a man's way will appreciate it. I wish you all kinds of success in this blessed and God-approved ministry of interesting the men in the church."—B. F. CATO, Beaumont, Tex.

* * *

"The photo of the Nelsonville Brotherhood Bible Class is worthy of a frame and to be hung over every preacher's desk as an inspiration and reminder of the possibilities of the Brotherhood. That is better than a vision. It is the real thing."—H. H. ELWINGER, Chardon, Ohio.

* * *

"I want to congratulate you upon the March number of CHRISTIAN MEN. The outline for programs I find especially helpful, and I can scarcely find a page in the whole magazine that is not worth the price of a year's subscription."—C. A. MANGUM, L. B. D. C. No. 272, North Side Church, Omaha.

Bellavben's New President

By WM. ROSS LLOYD

E. S. NORTON

The annual election for president of the Bellavben Bible Class at Bellavben, Pa., resulted this year in the unanimous and entirely satisfactory selection of Brother E. S. Norton to fill the position. Certainly no member of our class is more imbued with earnestness and love for the class and none are more fitted to take his place at the head of it than President Norton is, and the announcement of his selection as president was received with comments of endorsement and praise on all sides.

Brother Norton knows a whole lot about electrical engineering and also a whole lot about base-ball and other legitimate athletic sports, and he is also a sturdy, earnest and enthusiastic Christian worker. He got his electrical engineering knowledge at the Ohio State University, where he also first became prominent in athletics. But it is as a devoted and tireless member and supporter of the Bellavben Bible Class that he has done and is doing the most effective, fruitful and lasting work. He has always been eager for its success and very helpful in building it up and maintaining the deservedly big name it has among the church and Sunday-school organizations of the three boroughs and of the Greater Pittsburgh. An instance of his popularity in his home borough of Avalon was his recent election to the Avalon Council by a decisive majority, in the face of very strong opposition.

For a number of years Brother Norton was conspicuous as a base-ball player, and he finally got into the major league as a pitcher on the Washington National League club. He has also had some experience in the newspaper field and was correspondent for the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution while on a base-ball trip through the South. His experience as a player was a big help to the Bellavben Bible Class, and he was very instrumental in getting up the Suburban Bible Class league, of which he was president.

Brother Norton is popular, and his efficient work for the class has long been appreciated, both by all the members of the class and by its highly esteemed instructor, Dr. George W. Gerwig.

The great class being alive must keep something doing, of course, so a contest for new members was decided upon. The Reds and the Blues were to make the struggle short and hot, and they did. L. L. Knox, secretary and manager of the Keystone Furnace Construction Co., knocks hard at whatever he goes at, but the knocks Knox knocks are the knocks all good men knock. He led the Reds. The Blues were headed by that former base-ball pitcher, but now expert electrician, Elisha Norton, and he put on a new combination of "curves" and electricity that put it up to the Reds to furnish the victuals for all the Blues and their sweethearts and wives. And maybe those Reds didn't make good. What a happy crowd it was. The photographer was there and as soon as the eating and merriment could be stopped long enough, they were all "tuck." The community is well worked over by the men's classes in nearly all the churches, but a fine string of thirty-six big fellows, all game, was the "catch." Not a one of them weighed under 125 lbs., dressed, and not a one is going into cold storage. We are saving them by keeping them hot, see? At first they are treated once a week on Sunday morning to a solution of salt that saves, then to subscription for CHRISTIAN MEN, and then comes the third degree for membership in the Brotherhood. At the banquet the music and the toasts were full of frills and thrills, but the toast-master was the biggest Shock of all. The class has all the main elements of success. They like their president and their instructor. They like R. A. Long and CHRISTIAN MEN, and they do like Macfarlane, and they are not too much stuck on themselves. As the old darkey says, "Ain't thim good simsons?"

March 8th, 1910.

Bellevue, Pa.

The Brotherhood Covenant

(SECOND EDITION)

OBLIGATORY

Section 1. I recognize the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, and believing in the ideals of Christ for the individual and for society, I hereby accept them for myself.

I agree to make an earnest effort to observe the Golden Rule in all my dealings.

As a Brotherhood man I promise to be

- Gentle with children;
- Chivalrous toward women; and
- Helpful toward my fellow men; to
- Advance the Brotherhood objects, and
- Uplift the Brotherhood ideals.

Signature

Address

OPTIONAL

Pledge to Prayer and Personal Evangelism

Section 2. I further promise to pray each day of my life for the extension of Christ's Kingdom and the Union of God's people; and agree to make a personal endeavor each week to bring at least one man under the sway of Church and Brotherhood influence.

Signature

Address

THE OBJECT

of Section 1 of the Brotherhood Covenant is to make the local organization sufficiently inclusive to take in the fringe of men outside of the church membership, but who are, nevertheless, attendant upon its services and devoted in a general way to its welfare. This is not intended to be in any sense a confession of Christ or a compromise upon such confession. It is the expression of the judgment of most pastors with whom we have conferred that it is advisable to bring such men into the organization, and to bring them in upon some statement of principles to which we can definitely commit them. For a more complete statement, see the editorial entitled "The Brotherhood Covenant" in the March number of CHRISTIAN MEN, 1909.

Should any pastor or group of laymen decide that it was inadvisable to found their organization upon Section 1 of the Covenant, they may affiliate with the National Brotherhood by adopting Section 2, and imposing it as obligatory on all members. It will be understood that we regard Section 2 as the core of all Brotherhood work, and the source of its largest usefulness, but we also deem it wise to reach the man outside, and thus multiply the evangelistic efficiency of the organization, and to this end we propose Section 1 as the obligatory pledge or enabling act. The Article of the Constitution which makes obligatory the subscription to this Section 1 of the Covenant, is to be interpreted as meaning that the Covenant must be taken at least this far. A Brotherhood that based itself upon Section 2 would be regarded as meeting the conditions of this Article. However, in such an event, the Committee would recommend that the Brotherhood do not discard Section 1, but simply make both Sections obligatory.

AFFILIATION

The General Brotherhood Card

General Brotherhood Card No. _____

Kansas City, Mo., _____

Mr. _____

is a member in good standing of the General

Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ

and as such, we cordially commend him to the fellowship of Brotherhood men everywhere.

Gen'l Sec'y.

Nat'l Pres.

Assistant Secretary

Prize Winners in February

W. C. Westlake, Trenton, Missouri, first prize with 40 individual subscriptions paid in advance.

C. E. Rash, Plainville, Kansas, second prize with 34 individual subscriptions paid in advance.

A. R. Spicer, Dixon, Illinois, third prize with 32 individual subscriptions paid in advance.

Wasn't It Easy?

Who Will
Be the Winners in April
?

Maybe
You

Try It
Today!

FIRST PRIZE—SOLID GOLD
SECOND PRIZE—SOLID SILVER
THIRD PRIZE—BRONZE

RATES:

Clubs of 20	-	-	25c
Clubs of 10	-	-	35c
Single Subscription	-		50c

Present rates of subscription are not guaranteed beyond May 1, but the prize offer will be continued from month to month.

It Is Easy to Get Subscriptions
for

Time Limit,
April 1 to 30

To the person sending us the Largest—Second Largest—Third Largest List of Subscribers, we will give above prizes absolutely free, but they must be members of the Brotherhood in order to be eligible to wear the Brotherhood Emblem. In case of a tie for any of the above prizes offered, a prize similar in all respects with that tied for will be given to each of the persons so tying.

The Brotherhood Calendar for 1910

Beginning with the Annual Meeting in February

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary, Wooster, Ohio

APRIL.

1. Is the Church a Necessity?—Can we get along without it? If so, what will take its place?

2. Home Missions.—America's problems, and their solution.

MAY.

1. The Brotherhood and Fraternities.—A program for the Fraternal Committee. Can the Brotherhood be made as rich in fellowship as the lodge?

2. The Brotherhood and the Boy.—What is the Brotherhood's attitude to the yeasting character of the boy? Why are more boys on the street than in church and Bible School?

JUNE.

1. Brotherhood Possibilities.—An enlarged vision coming from experiences of the past. An organized POWER of the kingdom.

2. Good Citizenship.—A call to Christian men. Some problems that are crying for solution which only Christian men can solve.

JULY.

1. The Kingdom of God a Social Institution.—An emphasis on the necessity of light-heartedness as well as the gravity of Christians.

2. Is the Church a Fruitless Institution?—A study of how God treated a dying nation. Ez. 37.

AUGUST.

1. The Annual Picnic.—The Social Committee will arrange for a day of rollicking joy for every Brotherhood man and his family or his friend.

2. Church Extension.—A careful study of the institution that gives permanency to our work.

SEPTEMBER.

1. The Brotherhood and the Bible School.—How the Brotherhood can boost the Bible School. The Brotherhood's attitude to the men's class.

2. The International Convention.—This is when we determine to go en masse to the biggest Men's convention the Disciples of Christ have ever held. "On to Topeka!"

OCTOBER.

1. State Elections.—Principle above policy. Manhood above party. Courage of convictions everywhere.

2. State Missions.—A study of the calls of our State to men strong in the faith of Jesus Christ.

NOVEMBER.

1. Civic and National Reforms.—Here is where we lock arms with the W. C. T. U., the Bible School, the Y. P. S. C. E., the International Reform Bureau, et al, in the onward march toward a stronger manhood and purer womanhood.

2. A Harvest Home Meeting.—Thanksgiving. A season of special rejoicing for the goodness of God.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worthy of his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

FEBRUARY.

1. Annual Meeting.—Once around, and what has happened. Yearly reports, and annual address.

2. World-Wide Missions.—Golden Opportunities and social responsibilities in and to the Foreign Mission field.

MARCH.

1. The Integrity of the Home.—Marriage and divorce. A debate. Invite your wives and sweethearts.

2. From Bethany to Olivet.—Easter. A week of meditation. A study of our covenant.

THE BROTHERHOOD IN APRIL

I.

Is the Church a Necessity?

II.

Home Mission Program

Extract from Annual Letter.

NOTE.—These programs go into great detail in order to be thoroughly suggestive. They cover a very wide range in order that the treatment may be as thorough as desired and at the same time program makers are at liberty to select only such features as they deem practicable. Brotherhoods are especially cautioned against getting too many long addresses. Where several addresses are used, in addition to a debate, the time limit should not be more than six minutes each. Here are the suggestions carefully worked out. Make your own adaptations. Be sure you make the meeting interesting. Be sure you make it thorough. Be sure you make it effective.

Note:—Let this meeting be conducted in the manner of a Round-Table and debate. Let the Cultural Committee select a leader for the Round-Table who knows how to do it. We would suggest a consecrated lawyer, a wide-awake professor, at any rate he must be wide-awake. Let the leader be appointed as soon as the magazine gets to you. Let him thoroughly inform himself on the program with a view to getting the men to freely engage in informal discussion. Lead your men to express their convictions.

Ring it into the ears of the whole Brotherhood that every man is to read every passage of Scripture herein and familiarize himself with their contents before the Brotherhood meeting. Suggest that the men take these for daily readings. Let shop men read and discuss a passage each day over their lunch baskets; others over their lunch tables; others in the evenings at the fire side. Let every man be familiar with these Scriptures by the time he comes to the meeting.

Discuss freely, intelligently and practically the questions. It will make one of the most practical evenings you have ever spent together.

Determine to see the church from the New Testament point of view this evening.

And Dear Mr. Leader: Do not try to pump your ideas into your men, but try to pump their ideas out of them.

Mr. President: Make this meeting a Free For All one, but see that the men keep to the subject. There will be a constant temptation to wander.

I.

Program

I.—Instrumental Music.

II.—Hymn: "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord."

III.—Prayer.

IV.—Scripture Readings. (Should be assigned to different men.)

Matt., 16:13-20.

Acts, 2:37-47.

Luke, 4:16-19.

V.—Round Table.

1. The Church's Foundation. Matt. 16:13-20.

What is the foundation?

Who is the foundation?

What is the relation between its foundation and Peter's confession?

Do the "Keys" stand for authority or privileged ability?

Through whom do the "Keys" relate themselves to the confession:

In Peter's time?

In the present time?

Is Peter an isolated character or is he a type?

2. The Church's Territory. Dan. 2:36-45.

Where is the field of operation for the Church according to:

Daniel,

The Book of Revelations,

The Lord's Prayer?

How much of this earth is open to conquest?

Is this conquest territorial or social?

Is this conquest theological or sociological?

Is this conquest sentimental or practical?

Can we locate for ourselves a definite, tangible, Kingdom of Heaven?

3. The Function of the Church. Eph. 2:11-22; 3:14-20.

(Note: We should remember that we are Gentiles.)

Is it the purpose of the church to simply prepare souls for heaven?

Is the church a "transportation society" or a "manufactory?"

Is the church an "ark" or a school?

How should the church function:

Among the decidedly wicked?

Among the wantonly ignorant?

Among the uncultured and undeveloped?

Among the helplessly poor?

Among the drunkards?

Among the unfortunate laboring class?

Among organized laboring men?

Among the conscienceless rich?

Among the people of higher education?

Among the people of leisure?

Among the nations as nations?

Among other religions?

Among the real saints?

Among the hypocrites?

Among the members of the home?

In our social gatherings?

In the sick room?

In times of deep sorrow?

In times of great catastrophe?

In times of triumphant joy?

4. The purpose and organization of the church. Eph. 4:1-16.

According to this scripture:

What is the purpose of organization?

Is it to establish ritualism?

Or uniformity of interpretation?

Or unity in the midst of diversity?

How can we know when the church is realizing its purpose?

Is it by credulism?

Is it by ritualism?

Is it by uniformity of belief? or

Is it by unity of faith?

What is the standard of life in the church?

Is it the by-laws of an ecclesiastical body?

Is it the decision of the council?

Is it your or my interpretation of the Bible? or

Is it the Spirit and actual, applied, life of the living, personal Christ?

What should be the guiding principle in successful organization? (See Eph. IV:7, 8, 11, 12, 13.)

How near does the plan of organization suggested to the Local Brotherhoods by the National Brotherhood come to this?

When we find ourselves organized according to the principles of the Holy Spirit do we find ourselves in a workable and working institution?

5. The Program of the Church. Luke 4:18, 19; I Cor. 6:12-20; Rom. 12:17; Rom. 13:13; Col. 3:22, 23; 4:1; Letter to Philemon; Luke 6:31-38.

What is the program of the church in relation to:

Our bodies?

Our economic relations:

Daily vocations,

Covetousness,

Employer and employee,

Commercialism?

Our social relations?

Our relation to the state?

Our relation to our city?

Our relation to nature?

Our relation to God?

Will the Brotherhood covenant help us to carry out this program?

6. The Invitation of the Church. Rev. 2:17-20.

To whom is the church sent?

Who is invited?

Is the church actually expected to invite?

To what are they invited?

Whither are they invited?

What is the church's motive in extending the invitation?

Is the invitation unto practical things?

Is the invitation itself practical?

Would society's heeding the invitation solve any of the world problems?

If so, mention them.

Shall the men of this Brotherhood heed this invitation?

If so, how shall we manifest our determination?

7. The Church's Triumph. Rev. 19:1-10.

Is the church engaged in a winning proposition?

What hope have we that the purpose of the church will ever be realized?

Why should men want to see it realized?

Is "The Irrepressible Conflict" necessary between right and wrong?

Is the fact of this conflict sufficient excuse for "The Quitter?"

What hope have we that the time shall ever come when Christ shall reign supreme?

Is the "New Jerusalem" to be on this earth? or

Is it a mythical conception of an intangible, ghostly condition?

What part has the church to play in realizing the fulfillment of the Kingdom?

What is the greatest hindrance to the growth of the Kingdom today?

Is it possible for the so-called church to become a hindrance to the growth of the Kingdom?

If so, how?

What part will this Local Brotherhood take in the triumph of the Kingdom of God?

8. The Results of the Church's Work. Rev. 21:1-8; 22-27; 22:21-25.

Are the Kingdom and the Church identical? or

Is the Kingdom the result of the Church's work?

Is the New Testament vision of results worth realizing?

After all then, is not the ousting of sin by the establishment of righteousness the beginning and the end of the Church's work?

Mention some practical work that this Brotherhood can be doing to oust sin and establish righteousness.

(Note: Learn to do one thing at a time as a Brotherhood; and then do that thing.)

VI.—Debate.

Resolved: That the New Testament Church is not a Twentieth Century necessity.

Bibliography:

"Religion and The Modern Mind," F. C. Doane.....$1.25
Chapter I.

"The Church of Christ," by "A Layman". 1.00

"Christianity and The Social Crisis," by Walter Rauschenbush. 1.50

The Bible.

"Practical Christian Sociology," by Wilbur Crafts..... 1.50

"The March of Christ Through the Centuries," by Wilbur Crafts. 1.25

"The Social Evolution," by Benjamin Kidd 1.50

VII.—Decision of the Judges.

VIII.—Open Discussion.

IX.—Resolution:

Resolved, That this Brotherhood herein re-express its loyalty to the New Testament Church, as a whole, rather than some part of it; that as men we redetermine to throw our concentrated and growing force behind, not one division of the Church's work, but behind the Church in its entirety, in order that it may do the work in this place that needs to be done by such an institution, and in order that the Church in this place may fitly represent its Founder, Jesus Christ.

Note:—Once more we would emphasize that the purpose of the Men's Brotherhood is to build strong men, and out of them a strong Church, rather than an enthusiastic Missionary Society, or a strong Fraternal Association, or a strong Reform Society, or a strong anything else which is but a part of the Church's work. A strong Church means all these things and much more. We believe that Jesus and Paul were wise in making the Church the point of divergence for all lines of influence for righteousness.

X.—Hymn, "How Firm A Foundation."

Let every man join heartily in this good old hymn.

XI.—Social Period.

XII.—Hymn, "For Christ and the Church."

No. 304 in Praise Hymnal.

XIII.—All Join in Praying the Lord's Prayer.

II.

Home Mission Program

Prize Program for Special Brotherhood Meeting for April, 1910

Topic, Home Missions

Prepared by Benjamin L. Smith, Salina, Kas.

I.—Hymn, "Sound the Battle Cry."

II.—Scripture Reading. Ezekiel 3:16-21.

III.—Prayer.

For this evening's service.

For our country.

For the stranger in America.

For our mission churches.

IV.—Male Chorus, "The Sword of the Lord of Gideon."

V.—Home Missions Catechising read responsively. (Get these for the asking from CHRISTIAN MEN.)

VI.—Solo, or Hymn, "Rescue the Perishing."

VII.—Address:

"Foreign Missions at Our Door."

VIII.—Address:

"Help Christ Win America."

IX.—Address:

"The Challenge of the City to Christianity."

X.—Hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

XI.—Address:

"The New Army of the Lord."—The Brotherhood.

XII.—Debate:

Resolved, That the Gospelizing of American Cities is of more importance than "Trust-busting."

XIII.—Decision of the Judges.

XIV.—Open Discussion.

XV.—Pass a Resolution to reach a definite mark as a Church on the first Sunday in May as an offering to the cause of Home Missions.

Resolved, That we, the members of the Local Brotherhood of.....Church of.....(Town) and.....(State) fully realize that we must Christianize America if we would Christianize the world; and,

Resolved, That this Brotherhood issue the call to the general congregation to march to beat of "One Dollar per Member" for American missions on the first Lord's Day in May, and that this Brotherhood set the pace by laying down an average of.....per member.

XVI.—Hymn, "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go."

XVII.—Social Period.

XVIII.—Hymn, "America."

XIX.—All Pray the Lord's Prayer.

Home Missions Bibliography

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary

The Urgency of Home Missions.

- 1. "Future Leadership of the Church," John R. Mott, $1.00.
- 2. "Immigration and its effects upon the United States," Prescott F. Hall.
- 3. "The Americanization of the immigrant," (in Am. Acad. of Political and Social Science, May, 1906).
- 4. "Race Prejudice," Ibid, July, 1901.
- 5. "Studies in the Gospel of the Kingdom," by Josiah Strong, August, 1909.

The Negro Problem.

- 1. "The Negro Problem," R. H. Edwards, Madison, Wis., 10 cents.
- 2. "Our Brother in Black," A. G. Hayward (the Southern viewpoint).
- 3. "Future of the American Negro," Booker T. Washington.
- 4. "Studies in Gospel of King," Josiah Strong, August, 1909.

The Growing West.

- 1. "Future Leadership of the Church," John R. Mott.
- 2. "Social Evolution," Benjamin Kidd.
- 3. "Farmers' Co-operative Demonstration Work as carried on by the U. S. Dept.

of Agriculture and by the General Education Board," reports by S. G. Knapp.

The Menace of the City.

- 1. Look up the files of the late magazines on such topics as "The Cleansing of the City," etc. Beginning back with 1902 one will find the files of Everybody's, McClure's, Cosmopolitan and American Magazine filled with thrilling statistics.
- 2. Look up the late newspaper files on the Philadelphia strike and its influence.
- 3. "The White Slave Traffic." Literature furnished by W. C. T. U.

General Topic of the Salvation of America.

- 1. "Encyclopedia of Soc. Ref.," p. 269.
- 2. "The Challenge of the City," Josiah Strong.
- 3. "The Gospel of the King," June, 1909; No. 6, 1909; November, 1909.
- 4. "The Anti-Saloon League Year Book," Columbus, Ohio.
- 5. "The National Temperance Almanac."

THE BROTHERHOOD COUNTING HOUSE

February Club Orders for Christian Men

C. V. Allison, Albion, Ia.....	20
J. O. Snodgrass, Humeston, Ia.....	20
J. J. Tisdall, Cleveland, O.....	22
H. C. Hurd, Pleasantville, Ia.....	30
C. J. Robertson, Heyworth, Ill.....	22
E. E. Benton, Elkhart, Ind.....	29
E. M. Peters, Rushville, Mo.....	24
Mrs. H. H. Harmon, Lincoln, Neb.....	50
C. E. Leavers, Ann Arbor, Mich.....	200
G. M. Kirby, Buffalo, N. Y.....	20
J. E. Arrants, Bristol, Tenn.....	25
C. E. Rash, Plainville, Kas.....	34
E. P. Wiles, Muncie, Ind.....	23
S. J. Stokes, Fortville, Ind.....	26
A. A. Moody, Seattle, Wash.....	20
A. W. Oberle, Greene, Ia.....	21
E. C. Harris, Urbana, Ill.....	26
T. M. Sunderland, Philipsburg, Pa.....	30
W. A. Harding, Columbus, Ind.....	21
G. W. Buckner, Canton, Mo.....	24
L. S. Cupp, Kansas City, Mo.....	20
R. A. Schell, Hastings, Neb.....	20
Miss Jessie Baxter, Helena, Mont.....	20
M. Lee Sorey, Dodge City, Kas.....	65
Dr. T. O. Davis, Maitland, Mo.....	20
Frank Green, Cadillac, Mo.....	20
A. A. Jay, Chico, Cal.....	20
A. R. Spicer, Dixon, Ill.....	32

W. C. Westlake, Trenton, Mo.....	40
R. J. Bennett, Mitchell, Ind.....	24
W. R. Hesler, Lovington, Ill.....	20
J. C. Todd, Bloomington, Ind.....	50
Chas. G. Smith, Washington, D. C.....	20
R. A. Channer, Selma, Cal.....	20
G. M. Porter, Lincoln, Neb.....	70
Dr. J. E. Johnson, Joplin, Mo.....	75
D. P. Aylesworth, Eldora, Ia.....	20
C. C. Buckner, South Bend, Ind.....	20
C. N. Jerrett, Steubenville, O.....	28
A. F. Chase, Redlands, Cal.....	40
L. W. Swan, W. Liberty, Ia.....	25
G. M. Sandsbury, Neosho, Mo.....	26
* * *

Winners of Centennial Booklet Prize in February

G. D. Yeager.....	North Yakima, Wash.
E. C. Harris.....	Urbana, Ill.
H. Tom James.....	Joplin, Mo.
H. C. Hurd.....	Pleasantville, Ia.
E. E. Benton.....	Elkhart, Ind.
J. E. Arrants.....	Bristol, Tenn.
C. E. Rash.....	Plainville, Kas.
S. J. Stokes.....	Fortville, Ind.
A. R. Spicer.....	Dixon, Ill.
This means that each of these men sent in twenty-five or more individual subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN during the month of February and received the Prize Centennial Booklet and Badge. These were sold at the Pittsburgh Centennial at one dollar. Only a limited number of these valuable books and badges are available, but the offer will be continued through the month of April as long as they last.

* * *

February Purchasers of "The Quest of the Yellow Pearl"

Dr. E. E. Sherman.....	Keosauqua, Ia.
C. A. Carlson.....	Berwyn, Ill.
A. C. Betz.....	Baltimore, Md.
D. F. Parker.....	Hamilton, O.
Mrs. Abbie Bush.....	Alamogordo, N. M.
Mrs. M. M. Riner.....	Kansas City, Mo.
J. W. Hofsess.....	Kansas City, Mo.
E. C. Huff.....	Kansas City, Mo.
J. C. McKeown.....	Kansas City, Mo.
Mrs. H. D. Hughes.....	Ames, Ia.
W. D. Bartle.....	Corydon, Ind.
Josh D. Newcomer.....	Hagerstown, Md.
Errett Thomason.....	Mynard, Neb.
J. H. Painter.....	Coffeyville, Kas.
E. H. Long.....	Buffalo, N. Y.
Miss H. B. Dutcher.....	Warrensburg, Mo.
B. F. Waggoner.....	Vienna, Va.
J. E. Fish.....	Springfield, Ill.
R. S. Latshaw.....	Kansas City, Mo.
A. F. Roadhouse.....	Santa Ana, Cal.
J. L. Lobinger.....	Ocean Park, Cal.
W. A. Brandenburg.....	Mason City, Ia.
J. T. Ogle.....	Paris, Tex.
C. A. Lockhart.....	Canton, Mo.
J. W. Porter.....	Lexington, Ky.
A. A. Jay.....	Chico, Cal.
H. M. Gillmore.....	Council Grove, Kas.
O. B. Titus.....	Rupert, Idaho
Mary H. Minnick.....	New York City, N. Y.
J. P. McKnight.....	Los Angeles, Cal.
Grant Overholtzer.....	Saratoga, Cal.
F. E. Blanchard.....	Smith Center, Kas.
C. H. Devoe.....	Peru, Ind.
William Webster.....	Manilla, Ind.
R. J. Bennett.....	Mitchell, Ind.
J. O. Stagner.....	Dearborn, Mo.
Percy Bouyer.....	San Francisco, Cal.
J. N. Jessup.....	Little Rock, Ark.
J. W. Allen.....	Muncie, Ind.
Kyle Brooks.....	Artesia, N. M.
D. P. Aylesworth.....	Eldora, Ia.
W. E. Payne.....	Brownstown, Ind.
K. R. Glover.....	Berkeley, Cal.
J. B. Trent.....	Batavia, Ia.

Emblem Sales in February

O. R. Meredith.....	Norfolk, Neb.
Alvin Forrey.....	Omaha, Neb.
J. E. Arrants.....	Bristol, Tenn.
H. T. Fields.....	Bedford, Ind.
J. W. Liming.....	Cincinnati, O.
Walter Renner.....	Winkle, Ill.
O. M. Pennock.....	Clarinda, Ia.
W. E. Bright.....	Washington, D. C.
G. M. Walker.....	Fayette, Mo.
J. D. Hull.....	Mishawaka, Ind.

A. F. Carpenter.....	Fairmont, W. Va.
C. R. L. Vawter.....	Shelburn, Ind.
C. M. Cunningham.....	Pittsburgh, Pa.
W. A. Harding.....	Columbus, Ind.
E. F. Young.....	Galesburg, Ill.
A. A. Jay.....	Chico, Cal.
Alvin Arie.....	Oak Park, Ill.
M. Lee Sorey.....	Dodge City, Kas.
R. W. Johnson.....	Modesto, Cal.

* * *

Statement of Contributions During February, 1910

A. Atwater, Bloomington, Ind.....	$ 1.00
Fred S. Nichols, Table Grove, Ill.....	10.00
J. W. Stever, Chagrin Falls, O.....	.45
J. E. Quisenberry, Montgomery, W. Va.....	5.00
O. A. Ishmael, Pleasonton, Kas.....	1.50
R. A. Doan, Nelsonville, O.....	5.00
A. A. Moody, Seattle, Wash.....	10.00
S. D. Doyle, Bloomington, Ill.....	1.10
H. R. Wells, Wellsville, N. Y.....	.75
Local Brotherhood No. 272, North Side Christian Church, Omaha, Neb.....	13.00
C. S. Voorhees, Wichita, Kas.....	5.00
First Christian Church, Omaha, Neb.....	12.00
B. F. Waggoner, Vienna, Va.....	10.00
F. P. Howard, Decatur, Ill.....	2.00
A. J. Oakes, Independence, Kas.....	5.00

* * *

Places Where Organization Material was Sent During February

R. J. Bennett.....	Mitchell, Ind.
Geo. C. McDill.....	Geneva, Ill.
Enoch Martin.....	Niantic, Ill.
A. W. Oberle.....	Greene, Ia.
J. P. Childs.....	Parker, Kas.
W. D. Van Voorhis.....	Parkersburg, W. Va.
C. E. Arney.....	Albion, Ia.
R. A. Doan.....	Eustis, Fla.
W. S. Cooke.....	Nelsonville, O.
E. S. Baker.....	Jackson, Tenn.
Dr. I. N. Richardson.....	Centralia, Wash.
A. R. Tillman.....	Salina, Kas.
W. E. M. Hackleman.....	Indianapolis, Ind.
W. S. Duncan.....	Ann Arbor, Mich.
Barclay Meador.....	Lebanon, Mo.
W. G. Loucks.....	Akron, O.
Fred M. Gordon.....	Pittsburgh, Pa.
M. E. Biggs.....	Oskaloosa, Ia.
G. H. C. Stoney.....	Winston-Salem, N. C.
Dr. T. O. Davis.....	Maitland, Mo.
L. F. Faulders.....	Wellington, Kas.
F. D. Ferrall.....	Bloomfield, Ia.
G. M. Walker.....	Fayette, Mo.
C. L. Stauffer.....	Dallas City, Ill.
E. E. Mack.....	Atlantic, Ia.
J. D. Hull.....	Mishawaka, Ind.
H. G. Hiler.....	Fort Wayne, Ind.
C. S. Weaver.....	Latham, Ill.
Benjamin Smith.....	Zionsville, Ind.
C. R. Oakley.....	Mansfield, O.
O. L. Smith.....	Emporia, Kas.
M. H. Garrard.....	Saginaw, Mich.
H. J. Reynolds.....	Camp Point, Ill.
S. R. Reynolds.....	Fort Morgan, Cal.
W. E. Ellis.....	Cynthiana, Ky.

H. Zendt.....	Bloomington, Ill.
W. Emerson.....	Redlands, Cal.
Chas. Milliger.....	Wellington, Kas.
A. Coon.....	Palo Alto, Cal.
D. Stewart.....	DeLand, Fla.

* * *

Dues Received from Local Brotherhoods in February

No.	Name.	No. Mems.	Amt.
253	W. W. Pates, H. Street Church, Washington, D. C.	18	2.70
255	R. B. Hendron, S. Law- rence, Wichita, Kas....	39	5.85
260	C. M. Cunningham, Pitts- burgh, Pa., 4th Church.	11	1.65
261	H. T. Fields, Bedford, Ind.	73	7.30
262	A. L. Hockett, Jackson Ave., Kansas City, Mo..	3	.45
263	Benton Boyd, Central, Uniontown, Pa.	64	38.40
270	J. U. Treadwell, Pitts- burgh, Kas.	58	8.70
272	Alvin Forrey, North Side, Omaha, Neb.	5	.75
275	J. E. Arrants, Bristol, Tenn.	22	3.30
277	A. F. Carpenter, Fair- mont, W. Va.....	23	3.45
279	Alvin Arie, Douglas Park, Chicago, Ill.	16	2.40
280	J. F. Ashley, Jasonville, Ind.	25	4.00
281	Frank S. Evans, Dodge City, Kas.	29	4.35
282	A. A. Jay, Chico, Cal....	30	4.50
283	D. P. Aylesworth, Eldora, Iowa.	20	3.00
284	R. W. Johnson, Modesto, Cal.	18	2.70
286	Nic Mollet, 1st Church Massillon, O.	23	3.45
287	John Archer, Pittsburgh, Pa.	20	3.00

* * *

List of New General Members

No.	Name.....	Location
228	W. A. Fite.....	Paducah, Ky.
229	B. F. Cato.....	Beaumont, Tex.
230	R. B. Helser.....	Centralia, Mo.
231	Wm. R. Wright.....	Peoria, Ill.

232	Ernest P. Wiles.....	Muncie, Ind.
233	S. J. White.....	Chillicothe, Mo.
234	Geo. T. Meeker.....	Petaluma, Cal.
235	W. E. M. Hackleman.....	Indianapolis, Ind.
236	Jasper W. Liming.....	Cincinnati, O.
237	O. A. Ishmael.....	Pleasanton, Kas.
238	Walter Renner.....	Winkel, Ill.
239	Geo. B. Evans.....	Chagrin Falls, O.
240	Clark W. Comstock..	Mound City, Mo.
241	I. A. Engle.....	Chandlerville, Ill.
242	C. R. L. Vawter.....	Kansas City, Mo.
243	J. F. Smith.....	Loraine, Ill.
244	Wm. P. Shamhart..	Rockwood, Tenn.
245	C. D. Crawford.....	Dixon, Ill.

* * *

General Certificates Furnished

No. 248—	Ashtabula, Ohio.
No. 250—	St. Joseph, Mo., First Christian Church.
No. 252—	Niagara Falls, N. Y.
No. 253—	Washington, D. C., H Street.
No. 254—	Philipsburg, Pa.
No. 255—	Wichita, Kas., S. Lawrence Chris- tian.
No. 256—	Jacksonville, Fla., First Church.
No. 257—	Havana, Ill.
No. 259—	Galesburg, Ill., First Church.
No. 260—	Pittsburgh, Pa., Fourth Church.
No. 261—	Bedford, Ind., First Church.
No. 262—	Kansas City, Mo., Jackson Ave.
No. 263—	Uniontown, Pa., Central Christian.
No. 264—	Steubenville, Ohio, La Belle View.
No. 265—	Kansas City, Mo., First Church.
No. 266—	Tacoma, Wash., First Church.
No. 267—	Knoxville, Ill.
No. 268—	Vinita, Okla.
No. 269—	Burlington, Iowa.
No. 270—	Pittsburg, Kas.
No. 271—	Table Grove, Ill.
No. 272—	Omaha, Neb., North Side.
No. 273—	Wooster, Ohio.
No. 274—	Bellingham, Wash., First Church.
No. 275—	Bristol, Tenn.
No. 276—	North Yakima, Wash.
No. 277—	Fairmont, W. Va., Central Church.
No. 279—	Chicago, Ill., Douglas Park.
No. 280—	Jasonville, Ind.
No. 281—	Dodge City, Kas.
No. 282—	Chico, Cal.
No. 283—	Eldora, Iowa.
No. 284—	Modesto, Cal.
No. 285—	Lexington, Ky., Woodland Church.
No. 286—	Massillon, Ohio.
No. 287—	Pittsburgh, Pa., Central Church.

P. H. WELSHIMER

The Bible School Lessons for April

LESSON 2—APRIL 10.

“THE MISSION OF THE TWELVE.”—MATT.

9:35-38; 10:1-15, 40-42.

(American Revision.)

35 And Jesus went about all the cities and the villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of disease and all manner of sickness. 36 But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion for them, because they were distressed and scattered, as sheep not having a shepherd. 37 Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest indeed is plenteous, but the laborers are few. 38 Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into his harvest.

1 And he called unto him his twelve disciples, and gave them authority over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of disease and all manner of sickness.

2 Now the names of the twelve apostles are these: The first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; 3 Philip, and Bartholomew; Thomas, and Matthew the publican; James, the son of Alphæus, and Thaddæus; 4 Simon the Cananæan, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve Jesus sent forth, and charged them, saying, Go not into any way of the Gentiles, and enter not into any city of the Samaritans; 6 but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. 7 And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. 8 Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out demons: freely ye received, freely give. 9 Get you no gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses; 10 no wallet for your journey, neither two coats, nor shoes, nor staff: for the laborer is worthy of his food. 11 And into whatsoever city or village ye shall enter, search out who in it is worthy; and there abide till ye go forth. 12 And as yet enter into the house, salute it. 13 And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you. 14 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, as ye go forth out of that house or that city, shake off the dust of your feet. 15 Verily I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment, than for that city.

40 He that receiveth you receiveth me, and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me. 41 He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward; and he that receiveth a righteous man in the name of a righteous man shall receive a righteous man's reward. 42 And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only, in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you he shall in no wise lose his reward.

Introduction. In this lesson we see the need of shepherds and laborers. Jesus organized his disciples for work. Hospitality and co-operation is emphasized.

Explanatory. 35—Jesus went to the people. He was about the Father's business. He has cured all kinds of diseases, cast out demons, stilled the tempest and raised the dead. 36—His interest centered in humanity. The multitudes had been impressed by his words and works but they were bewildered, like sheep without a shepherd scattered through the fields. His compassion is manifest and he selects twelve men to act as shepherds and to lead them. 37—The great company who are willing to accept him is compared to a harvest field ready for the reaper. 38—Here is a great need to be met by prayer. It is the Lord's harvest and it is the duty of his people to pray him to send forth laborers. It is then the further duty of the ones who pray to help the Lord answer that prayer by going or helping others to go. 1—Out of the many disciples whom Jesus now has, he calls twelve, who are to become his co-laborers and are to be educated at his feet, ready to be Apostles when he goes to the Father. He gave them miraculous power that they might prove they were divinely sent. This would also prove the divine power of Jesus, who had given them this power. 2-4—These are the names of the twelve, which are so familiar to all, yet how many can name them in order? These men were to be taught by the Great Teacher. They were faithful men, whom he could trust. They were interested in the things in which he was interested. They generally worked in pairs and they came up to their Apostleship through "great tribulation." 5-6—The Jews were prepared for their message. It was a white field ready for the reaper. The time was there, the field great. They must work wherever it would bring the greatest results. 7—They were to preach as John did, "The kingdom of heaven is at hand." Jesus was to be preached later. 8—This miraculous power was given the Twelve by the Master, as explained in verse 1. They were to make no charge for their healing. It was the free gift of God and they must so use it. To have charged, would in a sense have commercialized this power and hindered their work. 9-10—They were not to take money nor a knapsack. They were to take only the clothing which they wore. "The workman is worthy of his meat" and the ox that treadeth the corn should not be muzzled. They should receive pay for their work as they went along, furthermore they were not to be burdened with carrying extra baggage and bothering about money matters. They were to preach and heal, and God through the people was to care for them. 11—A new preacher's success in a community sometimes depends upon the character of the people with whom he stops and with whom he associates. They were to find a worthy and reputable place. It is also inconvenient for a preacher to be moving from place to place while in a community. Established headquarters are beneficial, hence they were to stay in a good home while in that city. 12-13—"Saluted," that is, say, "Peace to this house." 14—To shake off the dust of one's feet was testimony against a place or person, showing they would not receive these disciples, and as they had rejected the messengers, so he who sent the messengers will reject them. 15—Sodom and Gomorrah were wicked cities of the plains, which were destroyed. Their people will be judged in the judgment day, but they have a better chance than the people who reject Christ and his messengers, because the latter have an opportunity of having greater light than did the former. We are to be judged by our opportunities. In the intervening verses from 15 to 39 Jesus addresses the disciples on their future work, the treatment they will receive, their duty towards the people and their character, etc. 40—To receive the messengers of Christ is the same as receiving Christ and the Father who sent him. 41—He that receives a prophet or teacher, not because he is a friend or an acquaintance, but because he is a prophet or teacher shall receive the reward which such a prophet or teacher can give. He that receiveth a righteous man because he is a righteous man shall receive the reward which that man can give. 42—The smallest act of Christian service is rewarded.

Comments on the Lesson

I. The Strenuous Life. Jesus lived the strenuous life. He did not wait for the multitudes to come to him—he went to the people, preaching the good news of the kingdom. All classes of people received his attention and all manner of disease yielded to his miraculous power. How sympathetic he was. Their bewilderment touched him and led him to organize his forces to render for them the better service.

II. The Lord's Harvest. A great harvest awaits the reapers today. Hundreds of churches are pastorless, thousands of people can be organized into churches if shepherds can be found to lead them out and oversee them. Today the harvest is truly plenteous but the laborers are few.

III. The Laborers. Our first duty is prayer. True prayer begets activity, and this will reach laborers. Every church should be laying its hand upon the brightest and best young men, calling them to the ministry. This is imperative. "How can they hear without a preacher?" Among the Disciples of today over 11,000 churches with less than 6,000 active preachers. The Lord's call to preach consists of ability, desire and opportunity. There is no end to the opportunities. Let us help create within young men the desire, then encourage them to equip themselves to be able. Many a man in the ministry today because someone encouraged him and led him to have faith in himself. If you want the young men of your church to preach, pray for them, talk to them about it, show by your own life and your giving that the work of saving humanity is the greatest work in the world. Don't belittle the ministry by continually finding fault with the preacher. Young men generally form their estimate of the ministry by the minister with whom they are associated. He should in every respect, quit himself like a man.

Questions for Class Use

1.—Jesus and the People. Name the various kinds of diseases which Jesus healed in and around Capernaum. What other miracles did he perform? What, in this lesson shows the great humanity of Jesus?

2. Harvest of the Laborers. What is the value of prayer in connection with this lesson? Of what did this harvest consist? Why did Jesus command the disciples to enter only the Jewish communities? What were they to preach? How can we meet the need of laborers today?

3. The Twelve. Name the twelve disciples. Were they educated men? Which one failed to make good? Why did Jesus give them miraculous power? Why isn't the same power given to ministers today? Why were they not to charge for their healing? Why were they to not carry money nor extra clothing with them? Will this same principle apply today in the work of the church? Is it Scriptural for a minister to receive a stated salary? What does it mean to shake off the dust of your feet against a person? Why will Sodom and Gomorrah have a better chance than those who reject the messengers of Christ? Does Jesus teach that a man will get to heaven simply because he receives his messengers? What is the difference between receiving the rewards mentioned in verses 40 to 42 and inheriting the kingdom of heaven?

LESSON 3—APRIL 17.

"THE QUESTION OF JOHN THE BAPTIST."—MATT. 11:1-19.

1 And it came to pass when Jesus had finished commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and preach in their cities.

2 Now when John heard in the prison the works of the Christ, he sent by his disciples 3 and said unto him, Art thou he that cometh, or look we for another? 4 And Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and tell John the things which ye hear and see: 5 the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good tidings preached to them. 6 And blessed is he, whosoever shall find no occasion of stumbling in me.

7 And as these went their way, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to behold? a reed shaken with the wind? 8 But what went ye out to see? a man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they that wear soft raiment are in kings' houses? 9 But wherefore went ye out? to see a prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet. 10 This is he, of whom it is written.

Behold, I send my messenger before thy face,

Who shall prepare thy way before thee. 11 Verily I say unto you. Among them that are born of women there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist: yet he that is but little in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. 12 And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and men of violence take it by force. 13 For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John. 14 And if ye are willing to receive it, this is Elijah, that is to come. 15 He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. 16 But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the market-places, who call unto their fellows 17 and say, We piped unto you, and ye did not dance; we wailed, and ye did not mourn. 18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a demon. 19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold, a gluttonous man and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners! And wisdom is justified by her works.

Introduction. In this lesson we have John's question to Jesus, Jesus' estimate of John and the character of the opposition.

Explanatory. 1—It is probable that Jesus and the disciples were laboring apart at this time. 2-3—John was imprisoned at the castle of Machærus, east of the Dead Sea, near the Jordan, in which he had baptized. He was lonely, discouraged and despondent. He believed Jesus to be all he had declared him to be, but he saw in him no aspirations to be the earthly king, which was in accordance with the views of all the Jews, hence he thought there might be another to come, who would be the Messiah; hence his question. It was John, the man, not the inspired one, who asked the question. 4-5—But Jesus' proof that he was the one to come, is given in his works. These testified for him. 6—Many of the Jews were offended at Jesus because he was not the kind of a king they had expected. He sends this admonition to John to prevent him from making the same mistake. 7-8—As John and the disciples departed, Jesus passed this compliment upon John, in the presence of the multitudes. The reed would indicate a man who was moved hither and thither by public opinion; a man of soft raiment, one who took life easy and had plenty. Neither condition fit John. He was a bold preacher of the truth. He lived on locusts and wild honey and his clothing was of camel's hair. Jesus was speaking to many people, who had been averse to John and his message. 9-10—They had seen more than a prophet, for John was more, for he sustained a very close relation to Jesus. 11—Jesus means that John was the greatest prophet the world had seen. Yet, with all his greatness, one who would be a part of the church of the living God, or in other words, he, who would be a citizen of God's kingdom is greater than he who was the forerunner of the Christ. Do we rightly value our citizenship and do we appreciate the privileges we enjoy? 12—Jesus is alking of the kingdom as though it were already in existence. Men force their way into walled cities to get position, hence metaphorically, men were trying to break into the coming kingdom. They were anxious to "set up by force the expected kingdom." They would have made John king and placed the crown upon the head of Jesus. 13—With the coming of John there came a new order of things—Luke 16:16. 14-15—In Malachi 4:5-6 this prophecy was made. Elias was not to come in person, but one would come "in the spirit and power." John the Baptist had this spirit and power. It would seem that some were rejecting these statements, hence this expression for emphasis. 16-19—The people are here compared to children at play. One group finds it impossible to please the other. When one plays, the other will not dance. When they imitate the hired mourners, they will not mourn. So when John came, they found fault with him because he neither ate nor drank with them. When Jesus mingled with them and partook of their food, they upbraided him. Both John and Jesus were justified in the courses they pursued.

Comments on the Lesson

When an active man, with a vision and a mission is penned within four small walls, away from his friends and alone, we are not to be surprised that doubts will arise in his mind. John did not question the people and attempt to discredit the beliefs of others, but sent at once to the Master himself and asked him direct. We here behold how Jesus treated the despondent man. No unkind words were spoken, he was not upbraided for having doubted. Jesus points to his works, for they testify of him. The best way to silence doubters today and to increase faith, is to point to the fruits of Christianity. The best sermon that a man can preach is the sermon in boots—his own life. What a beautiful compliment Jesus passed upon John. There is need today, for men with backbone like John the Baptist. His was no India rubber conscience. He was not a reed, shaken in the wind, but was solid oak that withstood the storms. And yet every man in the kingdom of God has greater privileges and opportunities and can be a greater man than John the Baptist. We can preach today, the kingdom of God is here and we can perform the greatest work in the world, leading souls into that kingdom. It is greater to win a soul than to perform miracles.

Questions for Class Use

1. John the Baptist. Why was John imprisoned? Where was he imprisoned? Did John doubt that Christ was of God? In what way can a man be offended in Christ? In what way was John like Elijah? In what respect was John greater than other prophets?

2. Doubting. What led John to doubt? Why do men doubt today? What is the best argument to present to the man who doubts the divinity of Jesus? Are the number of doubters on the increase or decrease?

LESSON 4—APRIL 24.

"WARNING AND INVITATION."—MATT. 11:20-30.

20 Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done, because they repented not. 21 Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon which were done in you, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. 22 But I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the day of judgment, than for you. 23 And thou, Capernaumi, shalt thou be exalted unto heaven? thou shalt go down unto Hades: for if the mighty works had been done in Sodom which were done in thee, it would have remained until this day. 24 But I say unto you that it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee.

25 At that season Jesus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou didst hide these things from the wise and understanding, and didst reveal them unto babes: 26 yea, Father, for so it was well pleasing in thy sight. 27 All things have been delivered unto me of my Father: and no one knoweth the Son, save the Father; neither doth any know the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son willeth to reveal him. 28 Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. 29 Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. 30 For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.

Introduction. In this lesson we have the upbraiding of the impenitent cities, one of the prayers of Jesus and an invitation. This lesson follows immediately the last lesson.

Explanatory. 20-21—Only a few of the many miracles performed by Jesus have been recorded. In Chorazin and Bethsaida, many mighty works were done. Chorazin is supposed to have been about two miles from Capernaum. Bethsaida, the home of Andrew and Peter, was a suburb of Capernaum. The people of these cities saw Jesus, his mighty works, heard his sermons and many admired him, multitudes followed him, but the great mass of them did not repent. They had the light, but walked not in it. The wickedness of Tyre and Sidon was well known to the Galileans. Had the people of these cities seen the many miracles which Chorazin and Bethsaida had seen, they would have believed in the authority of Christ and hence have given heed to his command to repent. Read John 2:12 and Jonah 3:6. Sackcloth and ashes was the way in which the ancients expressed their sorrow. Jesus means that the repentance of Tyre and Sidon would have been as deep and genuine as that of the ancients. 22—Tyre and Sidon were wicked cities than Chorazin and Bethsaida, but were better in proportion to their opportunities and therefore would stand a better chance at judgment. This teaches that Jesus in judging men will take into consideration the light and opportunities they have had. 23—Capernaum had enjoyed great privileges. In this she had been exalted. She would be brought low. Even Sodom with all her wickedness would not have been destroyed had the light shined upon her as it had shined upon Capernaum. This prediction has come true, and today the traveler walks the lake shore to find only a few stones, which mutely tell the story of a city that once flourished and now lies low. 24—Sodom at judgment is better than Capernaum, because Sodom had less light than Capernaum. 25-26—We here have one of the prayers of Jesus. How short, yet how expressive and full of meaning. Jesus rejoiced that although those who are known as wise and prudent have rejected him, that those whom he calls babes have accepted him. These wise and prudent Jews were so wedded to their traditions that they would not have been safe keepers of the truth of Christ. 27—Jesus here speaks of things yet to be accomplished. All things were to be delivered into his hands. True, no man knoweth the Son completely, but the Father. And only the Son knoweth truly the Father. This also teaches that our knowledge of God comes through revelation. 28-30—"Come unto Me." Jesus invites men not to system or speculation, but to himself, to him who is the life, and the giver of life. Because of what he was and by virtue of his authority, he could invite and does invite men to himself. Those who labor and are burdened with sin, find rest only in Christ. The biggest load which a man can carry is the load of sin. When sin is forgiven and the conscience made clean, what a burden is lifted. The yoke is made for two—Jesus on the one side, man upon the other. With a yoke, burdens are drawn, it also denotes subjection. We learn of men by working with them. We learn to do by doing. To learn of Jesus we should be yoked with him. The meek and lowly Jesus will be easy to approach, sympathetic and will not impose any burdens that cannot be borne. The needed rest is the soul's rest. When that is at rest it is easy to rest the weary body.

Comments on the Lesson

If the people saw the light and followed it not and looked upon the mighty works and gave no heed to him who performed them, we should not be discouraged, when today, our preaching seems to fall upon deaf ears. We have been commanded to evangelize the world. If we do the evangelizing, we are not held responsible for the Christianizing. Men oft times do not repent because of willful ignorance, pride and love of sin. Jesus teaches in this lesson that we are held responsible for the opportunities which we have. Are you living up to your best opportunities? Men are traveling to the mountains and sunny climes for rest, and yet rest many do not find. Jesus comes to every man wherever he is, and offers the rest which is demanded by both soul and body. From even the earth standpoint, for the blessings of today, for length of days upon the earth, usefulness, happiness and health, it pays to wear His yoke and to learn of him. But how insignificant all these things are when compared with what he has promised the faithful in the home "beyond the river."

Questions for Class Use

1. The Upbraided Cities. In what cities had Jesus done many mighty works? Name some of the miracles recorded in his life up to this lesson. What was the purpose of Jesus' miracles? Why should they lead people to repentance? What disciples lived at Bethsaida? What is the condition of Capernaum today? Why did Sodom fall?

2. Prayer. For what did Jesus thank the Father? What was the advantage in having these things hid from the wise and prudent? Who were the babes, referred to?

3. The Invitation. To whom did Jesus extend this invitation? To what does he invite men? What are yokes for? How can we learn of Jesus? What is the greatest rest needed in the world, today?

LESSON 1—MAY 1.

"TWO SABBATH INCIDENTS."—MATT. 12:1-14.

1 At that season Jesus went on the sabbath day through the grainfields; and his disciples were hungry and began to pluck ears and to eat. 2 But the Pharisees, when they saw it, said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which it is not lawful to do upon the sabbath. But he said unto them. Have ye not read what David did, when he was hungry, and they that were with him; 4 how he entered into the house of God, and ate the showbread, which it was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them that were with him, but only for the priests? 5 Or have ye not read in the law, that on the sabbath day the priests in the temple profane the sabbath, and are guiltless? But I say unto you, that one greater than the temple is here. 7 But if ye had known what this meaneth, I desire mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltless. 8 For the Son of man is lord of the sabbath.

9 And he departed thence, and went into their synagogue: 10 and behold, a man having a withered hand. And they asked him, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day? that they might accuse him. 11 And he said unto them, What man shall there be of you, that shall have one sheep, and if this fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it, and lift it out? 12 How much then is a man of more value than a sheep! Wherefore it is lawful to do good on the sabbath day. 13 Then saith he to the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he stretched it forth; and it was restored whole, as the other. 14 But the Pharisees went out, and took counsel against him, how they might destroy him.

Introduction. Jesus is here in conflict again with the Pharisees, the religious Four Hundred of their day. For the disciples plucking corn on the sabbath day, he is held to account.

Explanatory. 1—The narrow roads about Palestine ran through fields, and there being no fences, the heads of grain could be plucked by the pedestrian as he walked along the path. 2—The Pharisees misinterpreted the law. The law did not forbid the preparing of food or eating it on the sabbath. 3-4—Jesus here shows forth their inconsistency. They justified David in eating the shew-bread because he was hungry, which was unlawful, while they condemned the disciples for plucking grain and eating it on the sabbath, which was permitted by law. 5—The prohibition of labor on the sabbath was not universal. Necessary labor could be done. The priests had some manual labor to do in the temple on the sabbath, and if these Pharisees were just in their accusations, then the priests had transgressed the law and the temple had been profaned. Yet they held the priests blameless. "O! consistency, thou art a jewel." 6—These disciples were busy, serving Jesus and their obligation to do so was greater than that of the temple service on the priests. 7—God delights more in mercy than in sacrifices on the altar. They were great on making a sacrifice, but had little mercy. 8—Jesus had authority and by virtue of this was Lord of the sabbath day. His conduct on this day was a good example for others. 9-10—Jesus entered the synagogue. This was his custom on the sabbath day. The Pharisees had been silenced in their criticism, and now seeing the man with a withered hand, endeavored to make good in their argument and to attempt the second time to accuse Jesus. Hence the question, "Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day?" 11-12—Jesus answers by asking a question concerning a sheep in a pit and by adding, "It is lawful to do well on sabbath days." 13-14—The withered hand was healed. Jesus again demonstrated his power and authority, but the critical Pharisees, defeated in argument, became more angry and gathered outside in a group, discussing how they might destroy him.

Comments on the Lesson

We no longer keep the sabbath, but the Lord's Day instead. It is both a rest day and is to be kept in commemoration of the resurrection of Jesus. It is easy to find fault. Fault-finders are destructionists; they are always tearing down and never building up. If a sheep fall into a pit on the sabbath day then or on the Lord's Day now, it is right to help it out, but it is wrong to throw it into the pit in order to have the opportunity to help it out. Many people are inconsistently hiding behind this statement of Jesus, today. He spoke of the necessities to which we must give attention on the day of worship. Many people do things on the Lord's Day, which are unnecessary. One of the grave dangers confronting the church in extending the kingdom and the building of Christian character, is desecration of the Lord's Day. God never intended men to be so busy that they could not take one day for worship.

Questions for Class Use

Who were the Pharisees? Why were they continually accusing Jesus? Did Jesus teach that David was justified in eating the shew-bread in the temple? Was Jesus excusing the action of the disciples by comparing their actions with those of others? How can we apply this lesson to work on the Lord's Day? How should the Lord's Day be kept? Why do we keep the first day of the week in place of the old Jewish sabbath?

New from Cover to Cover
WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

JUST ISSUED. Ed. in Chief, Dr. W. T. Harris, former U. S. Com. of Education. ✂ General Information Practically Doubled. ✂ Divided Page; Important Words Above, Less Important Below. ✂ Contains More Information of Interest to More People Than Any Other Dictionary.

2700 PAGES. 6000 ILLUSTRATIONS.
 400,000 WORDS AND PHRASES.

GET THE BEST in Scholarship, Convenience, Authority, Utility.

Write for Specimen Pages to
G. & C. MERRIAM CO., SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
 You will do us a favor to mention this publication.

STEVENS

DON'T BUY A GUN

until you have seen our New Double Barrel Models fitted with Stevens Compressed Forged Steel Barrels—

DEMI-BLOC SYSTEM

The mode of constructing these superb Trap and Field Guns is fully set forth in our New Shotgun Catalog. Send for it, it's free.

Ask your Dealer for Stevens
 Demi-Bloc Guns.

Insist on our make.

J. STEVENS ARMS & TOOL CO.
 P. O. Box 5002
 Chicopee Falls, Mass.

DRAKE UNIVERSITY

THIRTIETH YEAR

College of Liberal Arts

College of the Bible

College of Medicine

College of Law

College of Dentistry

College of Education

College of Fine Arts

Summer courses will be offered in all colleges

Special summer courses for teachers of all grades

Unusually attractive courses for supervisors of Music and Drawing

For Information Address

DRAKE UNIVERSITY, Des Moines, Iowa

ELMER L. KELLAND, Public Accountant

Telephone 503 John

He's a Brotherhood Man.

95 William St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

AGENTS

Tower's Patent Hold-Fast Paper Clips sell from office to office like hot cakes. 1,500 sent for $1.00. Sell them for $2.25 in a short time. Endorsed by Government Dept. at Washington.

B. D. C., Hathaway Building, Boston, Mass.

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST
P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

R. A. LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
C. M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

C. C. CHAPMAN - - - - -	Fullerton, Cal.	J. H. ALLEN - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.
GEORGE F. RAND - - - - -	Buffalo, N. Y.	BURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
R. H. STOCKTON - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.	ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

P. C. MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy
---------------------------------	--------------------------------	---------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.
Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum
—in advance.
Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 3	KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, MAY, 1910	Number 5
----------	----------------------------------	----------

The President of the Acting Board

The Christianizing of America is a great business enterprise. The American Christian Missionary Society, of which Alexander Campbell was the first President, is a great business organization. It has called into existence thousands of churches. It sustains hundreds of missionary preachers and is in vital touch with some thousands of our congregations whose servant it is. The public knows well the names and character of the men who have served and are now serving us splendidly as secretaries of this institution. It knows also the eminent men who, from year to year, have served as President of the American Christian Missionary Society, but back of these men is an Acting Board, which meets semi-monthly and maintains a close scrutiny over the work of the society. This Board is responsible for the handling of the funds and the direction of the enterprise, as well as for the investment of the permanent funds, which amount now to many thousands of dollars.

The man who has been for ten years Chairman of this Board and who, perhaps, has carried the work of the American Christian Missionary Society upon his heart as much as any man among us during that time, is S. M. Cooper, a business man of Cincinnati, whose features appear on the front cover.

Mr. Cooper has been so long and successfully connected with the building business in Cincinnati that many forget that he prepared for the ministry graduating from Bethany College in 1886. He preached one year at Syracuse, N. Y., but his aptitude for finance led him early to turn to the practical enterprises of the church, and for three years he served with a signal success as financial agent of Bethany College.

In business he is extremely conservative and his large enterprises are carefully organized and recognized as among the most substantial in Cincinnati.

His membership is with the Walnut Hills Christian Church, and he is the kind of a Christian business man who goes to Sunday-School and teaches a class. He is a man of very fine presence and speaks with ease and fluency so that he is occasionally in demand for Chautauqua addresses.

His watchful care over the investments of the American Christian Missionary Society and his sound advice in the handling of their funds have been largely responsible for keeping the commercial credit of the society A-1 and for the investment of the annuity funds with profit to the society and to the annuitants and without the loss of a dollar to either.

Mr. Cooper is a home-loving man and is devoted to the gracious wife and two charming daughters who live with him in the handsome house on Walnut Hills. He has a literary turn of mind and is a modest man of substantial character, who forms enduring friendships. His chief dissipation is croquet. He plays it in June, he plays it in July, he plays it in September and they do say that one Christmas afternoon he disappeared from the family circle and a vigorous search discovered him on the lee side of the house sweeping the snow from the lawn with the coachman's broom and preparing for a game of croquet.

The American Christian Missionary Society has just concluded one of the most brilliant campaigns in behalf of Home Missions in the history of that splendid organization. The forces are united and confident. The field is great and attractive. Our people are aroused to the importance of this work and to the glorious opportunity it affords as they probably have not before. The signs point to a great offering. In this last word of the magazine to our readers, we plead that they will not permit the first Lord's Day in May to go by without a liberal offering to the American Christian Missionary Society. If your church is not planning to make an offering, get in touch with the pastor and officers and arrange to do so. If it is preparing for an offering, lend your hearty support that the preparation may be thorough and complete and the result worthy of the dignity of our people and the urgency of the cause.

Again, we call attention to the prize program for a Home Mission meeting of the men of your church, either as a Brotherhood, as a Bible School or without organization, just as a meeting for men. This program was published in the April magazine. You can secure copies of it through us or the American Christian Missionary Society at Cincinnati, and ample supplies of literature. The challenge of the city, the challenge of Christ, the challenge of America is one which you can help to meet by a liberal offering on the first Lord's Day in May. Will you?

Getting Together

The men of most of our churches are not acquainted with each other at all in launching a Brotherhood, one of the serious mistakes we make is in failing to take account of that fact. Men are selected for office without anybody really knowing very much about them; a man endeavors to serve as president, perhaps, who really does not know intimately ten men in the church of three hundred men, although he may have a casual speaking acquaintance with forty or fifty of them. Obviously, this man can't be expected to make a success in the beginning. He will put men on committees that won't work, men that ought not to work, and he will put good workers on wrong committees. He will flounder around and make all sorts of mistakes of this kind. Good men will be put on committees where they will fail because they do not know each other, because they are not yet pliable and workable, and various other mistakes will result. The average church service really affords very little opportunity for men to get acquainted with each other. It is only when a man gets up and displays initiative of his own, when he tries to say something or to do something when nineteen other men are trying to say something or do something that they begin to get acquainted and understand and appreciate each other. Consequently, almost the first and highest aim that a Local Brotherhood can have is acquaintanceship. By this we do not mean socials, where a few good stories are told and there is something eatable and drinkable and casual circulation of John Jones with the fellows he has never seen before and never wants to see again.

"Ah, Um—glad to meet you—hope to see you around again," and then chases off into a corner to talk with Deacon Jones, whom he meets every day on the Board of Trade or down at the stock yards and has known all his life. I mean really getting acquainted by means of a series of programs planned every two weeks, or at the outside every four weeks, where the men will learn to know each other by trying to do something together. You might get them out on the lawn and have a tug of war. Did you every try it? It is the most fun, and it will stir up more grass roots and torpid livers than anything except an earthquake or a Kansas cyclone. Besides, when the fellow behind you gets his heel in the exact center of your pancreas and tugs until his grunts sound in your ears like the booming of a fog whistle, why you then begin to get acquainted with him. You begin to know him for the first time. Pretty soon you will recognize him as far as you can feel him. You will be like those two old college chums who had not seen each other for twenty years, but met in the dark on New Year's Eve when each had had too much of the cup which cheers, got into a bitter rough and tumble fight that began on the third floor of the flat and continued down two flights of stairs and ended at the bottom of a freight elevator shaft in the basement. It was pitch dark. Neither could see. One suddenly ceased to maul his antagonist with a start, and said "Hello, Bill, is that you?" "Yes, John; is that you?" said the other. "By gum," said the first, "I recognized you the minute you kicked me in the stomach." "Yes," said the other, "I began to see something familiar about you when you first got that long front tooth of yours hooked under the bridge of my nose." They were comrades—they had learned each other in the school of close personal contact. That is a good deal the way with a Brotherhood. However, it is not tugs of war that we started in particularly to mention. There is nothing like a debate to get men acquainted with one another, or a series of debates to provide interests for successful meetings and to develop initiative and those social qualities that are only inspired and brought out by means of the contact of mind upon mind. This is helpful, if after the debate, which should be limited as to time, there is provision for a certain amount of open discussion. You will be astonished to find that here is one interested in single tax and there is one interested in socialism and over yonder is a fellow that knows a whole lot about history, American English or Ancient, and yonder is a man who can peel off poetry by the yard and here is one that is interested in juvenile courts and child labor and government generally. Oh, you will be astonished to find the different interests developed this way. You will find the man who believes in personal work, and your president will put him at it. You will develop the man whose passion is missions and who can't talk even on the single tax question without bringing missions into it. Make that fellow chairman of your Missionary Committee. You will find another that believes in the power of prayer especially. Give him a work on your Devotional Committee. Another that thinks the church ought to do more practical charity. Put him on the Emergency and Relief Committee. Thus you begin to find and to know these men, to develop this ability as well as their disabilities, acquaintances and affections spring up. Lines of interest that originate in the Brotherhood meetings spring up and run all kinds of way through the church and through the city, coming back at last to the Brotherhood movement. These are just a few of the results of getting together. Fellows, when you start a Brotherhood in your church, whatever else it aims to do, see that at least twice a month it gets together and that always at this meeting a spirit of optimism prevails; that no meeting ends without something being said about what is going to be done at the next meeting and that no meeting is ever held without some men, especially the president, and often the pastor giving definite thought to what is to be done before the meeting is had. What use is to be got out of it? Keep pushing along this way and before you know it the Brotherhood movement will be going. You will know what you can do and who can do it, and you will be developing additional resources with every turn of the wheel.

HOW TO ORGANIZE

Is What You Need

15 Cents—A Full Package—Stamps Will Do

An American Enterprise

GRANT K. LEWIS.

This being recognized as a "man's job," you can depend upon him doing it in a "man's way" and for a "man's reasons."

American Missions bulk large in a man's eyes because

First. It is a man's way to put "first things first." When he set himself to the digging of the big ditch at Panama he gave attention to sanitation before he lifted a pick or shovel to make the dirt fly. And in opening up a world to the gospel of Christ his first job will be the sanitary task of making America a Christian land. "Physician, heal thyself," is Paganism's response to American missionaries. Ineffective, indeed, will be our missionaries' appeal to the benighted heathen so long as the same boat that brings Bibles bears the beer that damns men's souls.

Second. The evangelization of the world hangs on the redemption of America. "As goes America so goes the world" is an aphorism to all who see the course of human events. America is the base of supplies for the army of missions which must for centuries to come be maintained before the citadels of heathendom will capitulate to the conquering king of Christendom.

Austin Phelps said, "If I were a missionary in Canton, China, my first prayer every morning would be for the success of American Home Missions for the sake of Canton, China." Twenty years ago Dr. R. S. Storrs wrote from Italy: "The future of the world is pivoted on the question whether the Protestant churches of America can hold, enlighten and purify the peoples born or gathered into its great compass."

Ex-President Harrison, in his classic address on missions, uttered this significant sentence: "The greatest need of the foreign field is a revised, reconsecrated, unified home church." This should appeal as a vital fact to a people whose plea is "The union of the Church of God in order to effect the Christian conquest of the world."

Third. America needs the gospel of Christ. Two-thirds of her citizens are Christless. Out of ninety millions, only thirty millions bow the knee to Christ as Lord and Savior. It is not true that every American has had his chance to become a Christian. If he has, his eyes have not seen it. The forms and creeds and divisions of churchmen have enshrouded in mystery and mists the helpful, health-giving, soul-saving gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Fourth. American life is filled with problems that only New Testament, unsectarian, practical Christianity can solve. The problems of capital and labor, of the saloon and brothel, of immigration and ignorance, of marriage and divorce, of the races in the South and West, and numerous others can only be worked out in the light of the Golden Rule as taught and illustrated by Him who is God's only Son and man's elder brother. Nothing but Jesus Christ and Him crucified can answer the cry of the country, the challenge of the city, the appeal of the prairie and the prayer on the frontier.

Fifth. An American man won for Christ counts for most in the extension of the kingdom of God. An American, with his keenness of vision, his alert mind, his activity, his ingenuity, his power for initiative, his ability for organization and colonization, his success in extending the domain of his activities and influences, excels all other nationalities in the long reach of his life. Dr. Hillis once said of the West: "I had rather be a post hole there than a telegraph pole anywhere else." This is true when contrasting an American with any other nationality. It is the same truth taught in one of Aesop's fables so long ago. Said a mamma mouse, looking contemptuously at a proud lioness fondling her only cub: "If you would come to my house, I would show you six of the cutest, sweetest and dearest little mice you ever saw." "But mine is a lion!" roared the proud mother of the single cub. Because an American is a lion in the world's life, we should win him to the service of Christ.

Sixth. Then the American Christian Missionary Society merits support of every Disciple because it is the mother of churches everywhere in America. For seventy years it has been busy North, East, South and West planting churches of Christ, modeled after the New Testament pattern, undenominational and unsectarian in form and spirit, having no name but the divine, no creed but Christ, no book but the Bible and no rule of life but love. The congregations thus established number about 11,000, two-thirds of which have been nurtured by the American Christian Missionary Society. These churches are a great power for good in America and are making ultimately for the union of the people of God and the evangelization of the world.

The day of offerings from all the churches in behalf of Home Missions is the first Sunday in May. This work merits favor and devotion from all who love Christ and would extend His kingdom.

Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mary Jones

VS.

The Twentieth Century Church

This case will come up for trial at the regular May meeting of the Brotherhood. See detailed program elsewhere in this magazine

Be Sure to Read the Complaint of Mary Jones on Page 32 of this issue. It's the Liveliest Thing in the Number

Bible School Evangelism

By P. H. WELSHIMER

A Ringing Message From Our Bible School Editor

It is the business of the church to evangelize the world. Jesus commanded the disciples to go, teach. The Bible School is the great teaching service of the church. Seventy-five per cent of those who come into our churches by confession of faith, come from the ranks of the Bible School. A farmer has two fields, one yields seventy-five per cent of his income, and the other twenty-five per cent. Will he not be foolish to neglect the seventy-five per cent field and devote all his time to the twenty-five per cent one? And yet that is what is being done in many places. By the way church work is often carried on, we would have a right to infer that soul-saving doesn't always enter into the minds of the Christian worker. The giving of money, preaching the Word, church attendance, our singing, our prayers, our every effort should be directed toward the redeeming of the world for Christ. In some churches there are elders and deacons and other prominent members of the flock who never attend the Bible School service. The writer has known preachers who neglected this service, who felt they were simply called to preach a sermon and the Bible School was left in the hands of a few faithful men and many women.

If soul-saving be the aim of worship and service and if the Bible School is the field from which three-fourths of the converts come, would it not seem reasonable to have the preacher, the Official Board and all the men in the Bible School?

The churches today that are having the greatest revivals are the ones where stress has been laid upon Bible teaching. The Bible School is the white field, ready for the harvest. Here the children have been taught, they have faith, their lives are as yet untouched by sin, bad habits have not been formed; they are naturally religious. They desire to worship. Obedience is natural. They are in the training period of life. They should be reached at an early age, to be trained in the way in which they should go, and when they get old they will not depart from it. If you want to have the lawyers, physicians, bankers and merchants, and in fact all of the men in the community, in the church of tomorrow, get the boys and the girls in the church today, and when they grow up and become influential people of your community they will be in your church and you will have the advantage of their influence, their consecration and their personal work. Eighty-five per cent of all in the church have come in under the age of twenty. We should lay great stress upon the saving of the boys and girls, for it means the saving of the men and women. When you save a man, ordinarily you have saved only one. When you save a child you have saved a multitude. We preach these things, we talk about them, we hear others speak about them, and we say "Amen," but do we mean it?

How frequently do evangelists and pastors, in reporting evangelistic services, state that so many were added to the church and out of the number so many were men or heads of families, or above a certain age? In this it would seem that the greater stress is laid upon the saving of the adult and not the child. Possibly it is done to give greater credit to the powers of the evangelist or preacher, because it is more difficult to reach the adult than it is the child. But be that as it may, he builds the best church, and saves the most people, who saves the child; and to reach the child, get him into the Bible School and lead him to obedience as soon as he comes to the age of accountability.

The Bible School is also the best place to reach the adult. When a man enrolls in the school, is placed in an organized class, given something to do, has the opportunity of joining in the teaching service, taking part in the discussions, asking questions and doing personal work for the class, he soon becomes acclimated, has a better environment, learns the joy of service, learns more of the Book, and hence is soon in a frame of mind to desire to identify himself with the church, and hence be a follower of the Savior of the world. And such a one sticks. He knows why he comes. His church habits are formed before he comes. He is easy to hold. He is already placed.

Bible School evangelism comes under the domain of personal work. The teacher and pupils are Andrews going after the Simons. The fruit is hand picked. There is a personal touch which counts for so much. The school is not only a field to be reaped, but it becomes a great force to be used. Only a few may be given something to do in the regular offices of the church. It is not so in the Bible School. If it be properly organized, each one may be given something definite to do. If you desire to teach the Word of God to the people, if you desire to save the people, if you hope to have your church strong tomorrow and wide awake today, if you want to evangelize the islands of the sea, in fact if you want to work where your work will count for the most in the little day in which you live, get into the Bible School, for here your labor is not in vain in the Lord.

Note—We shall present each month hereafter a message from our Bible School Editor, Mr. P. H. Welshimer, dealing with some vital phase of the Bible School problem as it relates to organization and teaching method or to Bible School activity. There is no man among us better fitted to do this work, nor who wields a more trenchant pen. In arranging for this series of articles, we extend our policy of giving to Bible School men the best there is to get for them.

The Last Chance to Get Arthur Holmes

A three weeks' tour of this brilliant speaker under Brotherhood Auspices in June. Only three or four open dates left. Do you want one of them? Write quickly to Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, 419 R. A. Long Building, Kansas City, Mo., for terms and open time.

The Fire at Texas Christian University

The Spirit of the Alamo

BY CLINTON LOCKHART.

Chalmers McPherson,
Chancellor Texas Christian University.

The whole property of the University was worth probably about $300,000; and more than half of it was in one great building, including its contents. It was much the largest and most useful college building in our brotherhood. It had over 100 rooms, all full of valuable furniture, books and apparatus. It had class-rooms, library, laboratories, chapel, society halls and living rooms. The fire consumed six pianos, two organs, $12,000 worth of books and magazines, and $5,000 worth of laboratory apparatus. The insurance was $29,600. Salvage estimated at $25,000. Clear loss, $120,000.

The fire started in a fourth floor room, whose occupants were out. The door was broken open and the fire in the room extinguished; but no one knew that the fire had run up the wall into the attic, and was burning above out of sight. It broke out at the roof at 8 p. m., and was from that moment beyond control. Young men had rooms on the two upper floors, and they hurriedly carried out what they could, leaving much, and in some cases all, to the flames. Many odd things were done in the excitement. One fellow threw his trunk and other furniture out of the window, crashing to the ground, and carried his bedclothes down in his arms! One worked hard saving things, and being excited College Building, Texas Christian University, one hour before the fire.

College Building, Texas Christian University, twenty-four hours after the fire.

fainted; and though he was not very small, a young lady picked him up and carried down and far out into the yard in her arms! She doesn't remember that she was excited.

But perhaps the reader is more interested in knowing the present and future of the University than in hearing stories of the fire. While the building was burning, announcements were made that work would resume at once, and that all students and friends were requested to meet next morning in the large dining room at the chapel hour. There it was announced that every class in school would continue its work in such a room as could be found for it. The spacious gymnasium was immediately partitioned into class-rooms; parlors and private homes of teachers near by were secured, and from that moment to this the work has gone right on. The fire did not burn the Girls' Home, the dining hall, the music hall, nor the gymnasium and natatorium, and did not injure the heating and lighting plant. With so much left, the school was no means disorganized, and so the term will be concluded with little loss except to a few laboratory classes, which will substitute other work as nearly equivalent as possible.

Before this goes to print the Trustees perhaps have decided whether the University will be continued in Waco or be moved to another city nearer the strength of the church in this state; but in either case, it is understood that the whole faculty will be retained elected before the fire, and buildings suitable for excellent work will be provided by next September, so that there will be no delay or serious inconvenience at the opening of the next session. Already, by the kindness of publishers and other friends, many books have been collected for the new library; and materials for new laboratories will be secured during the summer. The generosity of friends in this matter is greatly appreciated.

But what are Christian men doing in this crisis? Everything. The Trustees are all business men, and they are giving weeks of time and hundreds of dollars in cash to locate more wisely the University at this opportune time, and scores of other Christian men are offering their best help to see that the University shall be far better off later than it ever has been before. Better buildings are to go, better libraries and larger laboratories are to be provided, and fire-proof structures will better safeguard the life and property of the University. Letters from men in this state and elsewhere show that a host of business men will not be satisfied until this vast southwestern country has a still stronger University than ever standing as an invincible outpost for the highest and purest Christian principle. The men of the Christian brotherhood will be quick enough to see the duty of the hour, and to see that nothing does not go undone.

Waco, Texas.

LAST CALL FOR DINNER IN THE BROTHERHOOD DINING CAR AT DALLAS

I love my own town, but oh, you Brotherhood Convention at Dallas, May 9-12th. Brotherhood banquet Tuesday night, May 10th, six hundred men sitting down. Be one of them. Send your name to J. O. Shelburne, Texas State Brotherhood Committee, Dallas, Texas.

The Brotherhood Volunteer Service.

THREE HUNDRED PULPITS RESPONDED TO THE APPEAL OF OUR COLLEGES, BACKED BY THE BROTHER-HOOD, FOR A VOLUNTEER DAY SERVICE.

FORTY-SEVEN VOLUNTEERS FOR THE MINISTRY OR THE MISSION FIELD RESULTED.

We firmly believe that another year
one thousand pulpits will join in this appeal and at least two hundred volunteers will respond.

PULPIT IS OBSOLETE SAYS DR. FELIX ADLER

Best Men No Longer Becoming Ministers, He Asserts

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—“Is the pulpit obsolete?” asked Dr. Felix Adler, the lecturer and author, tonight, and answered “Yes” to his own question.

“Failing church attendance,” continued the speaker, “testifies to the failure of the pulpit. Formerly views on important subjects were headed by the clergy. Now we read the views of bankers.

“The best men are no longer going into the pulpit. The age is practical and men want visible results. In turn, the influx of inferior men diminishes regard for the pulpit.

“Oratory, as an art, is dying. In the pilgrim days men listened to preaching for nine hours at a stretch. Now they will not stand for more than 25 minutes.”

Such results in the offering of strong souled men and women
in this high service are an answer
in thunderous tones to the statement contained in the dispatch from New York
on January 9th, which we publish beside this article in our columns.

We desired to present the picture of every volunteer and made requests upon the pastors for them. We offer here as an exhibit of youthful enthusiasm and whole souled consecration, the features of such as have responded, together, where possible, with the portrait of the godly ministers whose precept and example have led the volunteers to their high decision.

As fruitful thought for all our preaching brethren, we quote some wise words from Clyde Darsie, pastor of the church at Quincy, Ill., from which three young men have recently gone to prepare for the ministry:

“The service of the seventeenth may not have resulted in any new decisions, but is a part of a system of bringing the call of the ministry to the attention of our young men that we are carrying on here and I think should be emphasized in all our churches. The question ‘Where can I do the best service for God?’ cannot be answered in a single spasm of appeal, but is answered only after considerable meditation and prayer. So let the preachers present it regularly, as the opportunity offers.”

Miss Eva Tillman,
Volunteer,
Hammett Place Church,
St. Louis, Mo.

C. C. Mustaine,
Volunteer,
Hammett Place Church,
St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. J. C. White,
Volunteer,
Hammett Place Church,
St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. T. W. Byrum,
Volunteer,
Hammett Place Church,
St. Louis, Mo.

Frederick D. Bay,
Volunteer,
Wooster, Ohio.

Volunteers For the Ministry

1. Stanton Ralston, Pittsburg, Kas., Sam I. Smith, Minister.
2. Charles McClintic, Trenton, Mo., W. A. Shullenberger, Minister.
3. Huel Warren, Trenton, Mo., W. A. Shullenberger, Minister.
4. Harry Hill, Fullerton, Cal., A. N. Glover, Minister.
5. Austin Smith, Springfield, O., L. I. Mercer, Minister.
6. Will Dugan, Springfield, O., L. I. Mercer, Minister.
7. Myrtle Bixler, Mitchell, Ind., for Foreign Field, R. J. Bennett, Minister.
8. Rubie Hart, Mitchell, Ind., for Foreign Field, R. J. Bennett, Minister.
9. Mabel Leach, Mitchell, Ind., for Foreign Field, R. J. Bennett, Minister.
10. Joseph Lindsey, Mitchell, Ind., Home Field, R. J. Bennett, Minister.
11. Electa Montgomery, Mitchell, Ind., Home Field, R. J. Bennett, Minister.
12. Mamie Carroll, Mitchell, Ind., Home Field, R. J. Bennett, Minister.
13. Luther Stalnaker, Fort Scott, Kas., W. Y. Allen, Minister.
14. Earl Bingham, Fort Scott, Kas., W. Y. Allen, Minister.
15. Guy McMillen, Fort Scott, Kas., W. Y. Allen, Minister.
16. Ben Logan, Uniopolis, O., James E. Hawes, Minister.
17. Timothy W. Tinsley, Louisville, Ky., T. S. Tinsley, Minister.
18. Arthur Melvin, Harper, Kas., Fred Engle, Minister.
19. Frank E. Harnar, Newton Falls, O., C. Burton Stevens, Minister.
20. Curtis W. Winn, Cairo, Ill., Frank Thompson, Minister.
21. Alexander Park, Tyler, Tex., J. J. Lockhart, Minister.
22. Charles Dewey, Meadville, Pa., Lester M. Moody, Minister.
23. J. M. Bumper, Meadville, Pa., Lester M. Moody, Minister.
24. Claude Grady, Temple, Tex., F. W. O'Malley, Minister.
25. Luther Young, Columbia, Ky., Z. T. Williams, Minister.
26. Willis Conover, Buffalo, N. Y., R. H. Miller, Minister.
27. Albert Klemer, Buffalo, N. Y., R. H. Miller, Minister.
28. Le Roy Lund, Buffalo, N. Y., R. H. Miller, Minister.
29. Thomas R. Cravens, R. F. D. No. 3, Mount Sterling, Ky., Somerset Church, Wm. H. Cord, Minister.
30. C. C. Mustaine, Hammett Place Church, St. Louis, Mo., Caspar C. Garrigues, Minister.
31. Mrs. W. T. W. Byrum, for Foreign Field, Caspar C. Garrigues, Minister.
32. Mrs. J. C. White, for Foreign Field, Caspar C. Garrigues, Minister.
33. Miss Eva Tillman, for Foreign Field, Caspar C. Garrigues, Minister.
34. Miss Minnie Sachse, for Foreign Field, Caspar C. Garrigues, Minister.
35. Joseph Newton, Lowell, O., Oscar W. Riley, Minister.
36. Charlie Davis, Eureka, Ill., E. P. Gish, Minister.
37. Otto Nelson, Nevada, Iowa, C. F. Shoemaker, Minister.
38. Geo. D. Kirkpatrick, Springfield, Mo., Geo. L. Peters, Minister.
39. G. L. Elslick, Springfield, Mo., Geo. L. Peters, Minister.

W. Y. Allen, Minister,
Fort Scott, Kan.

Earl Bingham,
Volunteer,
Fort Scott, Kan.

Luther Stalnaker,
Volunteer,
Fort Scott, Kan.

Guy McMillin,
Volunteer,
Fort Scott, Kan.

Homer L. McGee,
Minister,
Pecos, Texas

John I. Gunn,
Minister,
Arcola, Ill.

John S. Lozier,
Volunteer,
Arcola, Ill.

Robert Honn,
Volunteer,
Arcola, Ill.

A. Percy Honn,
Volunteer,
Arcola, Ill.

Jessie Brown,
Volunteer Foreign Field,
Springfield, Mo.

Jessie Brown, Springfield, Mo., for Foreign Field, Geo. L. Peters, Minister.

Lawrence Dry, Chester, Neb., Chas. E. Cobbey, Minister.

Etta Murray, Wichita, Kas., C. S. Voorhees, President L. B. D. C. No. 25.

Max Campbell, Junction City, Oregon, F. Grant Hann, Minister.

Edith Wren, Junction City, Oregon, for Foreign Field, F. Grant Hann, Minister.

Ada Kreuger, Junction City, Oregon, for Foreign Field, F. Grant Hann, Minister.

Frederick D. Bay, Wooster, Ohio, J. K. Shellenberger, Minister.

J. L. Shepherd, Emporia, Kansas, O. L. Smith, Minister.

Orville Andrews, North Side Church, Omaha, H. J. Kirchstein, Ministerial

Volunteer Service of L. B. D. C. 272.

A number of men report volunteers for the ministry previously enlisted. We are glad into do honor to the ministers, of whom there are hundreds, who all along have been every effort to enlist young men in this line of service, to do honor to them in the that their example may inspire others to do likewise.

A couple to the report of our Brotherhood volunteer service the names of such of these we have come to us.

William B. Phillips, minister, Dayton, Ohio.

Our church has three men preparing for the ministry, John Auman, 408 South Broadway;

John R. Coleman, 519 Summitt St.; John R. Funk, 154 Meredith St., Dayton, O.

Hugh Lomax, minister, Highland, Kas., says that Harry Smith, of his church, is already preparing for the ministry.

Young T. Lebanon, Fredericktown, Mo., reports that Floyd Graham has expressed himself favorably toward the ministry.

N. Duty, pastor, Milwaukee, Wis., reports since E. Rostifer, as having recently decided to devote himself to the ministry.

John R. Ewers, Pittsburgh, Pa., reports Ira

C. Boyts, a college graduate, as having volunteered for the ministry recently in his congregation.

W. J. Clarke, Clifton Heights Christian Church, Louisville, Ky., held a Brotherhood service. J. W. Whitehead, of this church, is now preparing for the ministry at Lexington, Kentucky.

W. J. Battenfield, minister, San Jacinto, Cal., reports one young man in Berkeley Bible Seminary.

J. T. Boone, Jacksonville, Fla., reports that his church has seven boys now in Kimberlin Heights, Tenn.

A number of ministers who have either found it impossible to hold the Volunteer Service suggested by us, or else who conducted it without response as an immediate result, report to us the names of Volunteers for the Ministry who have already come as a result of their personal work. Among these are the following:

George Merritt, volunteer, 557 San Bruno Ave., San Francisco, Cal.; William Carey Bailey, minister.

Clyde Evans, volunteer, Havana, Illinois; O. C. Bolman, minister.

L. B. Smith, volunteer, Wellington, Kansas; L. T. Faulders, minister.

Walter Myers, volunteer, The Dalles, Oregon; Francis L. Cook, minister.

One student Eugene Bible University, volunteer; Joseph L. Garvin, minister, Seattle, Washington.

Frank E. Dudley, volunteer, East Palestine, O.; V. L. King, minister.

Paul H. McClelland, volunteer, Lexington, Ky.; J. L. Greenwell, minister.

Three volunteers, Quincy, Illinois; Clyde Darsie, minister.

Four volunteers, in school; L. W. McCreary, minister, Hamilton Ave. Christian Church, St. Louis, Mo.

Three volunteers in Drake University; F. E. Smith, minister, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

E. Kirkpatrick,
Volunteer,
Springfield, Mo.

E. N. Duty,
Minister Second Church,
Milwaukee, Wis.

Clarence E. Rostofer,
Volunteer,
Milwaukee, Wis.

C. Burton Stevens,
Minister,
Newton Falls, O.

Frank E. Harnar,
Volunteer,
Newton Falls, O.

Oscar W. Riley, Minister,
Lowell, Ohio.

Joseph Newton, Volunteer,
Lowell, Ohio

A. N. Glover, Minister,
Orange, Cal.

Harry Hill, Volunteer,
Orange, Cal.

A goodly number of men who held the Brotherhood Volunteer Service report no volunteers, but have a number of young men considering the ministry, and who were doubtless influenced thereto in a large measure by this service. Louis D. Riddell of the McLe-more Avenue Church in Memphis, Tenn., reports one such. W. T. Henson, Slater, Missouri, reports two. C. S. Cliffe, Girard, Ohio, reports several. A. Lyle DeJarnette, Santa Cruz, Cal., one, and George C. Aydelott, New Orleans, La., reports three.

F. W. Burnham reports one hundred dollars for Christian Education at Springfield, Mo., through Men's Service, and W. A. Merrill, Lancaster, Texas, reports nearly one hundred dollars for Christian Education. L. W. McCreary, Hamilton Avenue Christian Church, St. Louis, reports an offering of $450 towards the support of the four young men we now have in college studying for the ministry.

T. W. Pinkerton, Kinton, O., reports this church supporting a young man in college.

Homer L. Magee, Pecos, Tex., did not observe the day from the fact that he held such a service last June, and states that it was the greatest day in his ministry of nine years, and did more to bring the church nearer to Christ than any event he had ever witnessed. Three young men dedicated themselves to the work from this small church in 1909, two at the service mentioned, and one before. Two are now in Lexington.

George W. Knepper, Wilkinsburg, Pa., reports no volunteers, but one man agreed to give $100 per year toward the expenses of any of their local boys who would study for the ministry. Two young men are considering the matter.

W. H. Martin, Whittier, Cal., reports $150 raised for education.

Clay T. Runyon, Kingfisher, Okla., reports that this church has been sending young men to the Oklahoma Christian University at Enid, for the ministry.

M. B. Engle, Evangelist, Harper, Kas., reports that four young men and one young woman have volunteered for the ministry mission field among the converts in his ministrings.

O. B. Ishmael, Pleasanton, Kas., reports three young men now preparing for the ministry.

Walter Mansell, Crawfordsville, Ind., reports three boys now studying at Bethany.

W. F. Turner, Peoria, Ill., reports young men to the Lexington Bible College year and another planning to go.

B. F. Cato, Beaumont, Tex., reports three young men from this church preparing for the ministry, one in Texas Christian University and two in Johnson Bible College, and $100 raised for Texas Christian University.

David H. Shields, Eureka, Ill., reports $100 raised for education in Education Day fund.

E. V. Stivers, Forest Grove, Oregon, reports two men in their church who will enter the Bible School at Eugene, Ore., next year to prepare for the ministry, Eden Morr and E. Willard.

J. Scott Hyde, pastor of the Second Church, Danville, Ill., reports that his church has two young men studying for the ministry.

The church at Kendallville, Ind., A. A. Houze, minister, has one young man at the State University at Bloomington; another at Butler College, and still another in DePaul University, while several other men have gone to the ministry through this congregation.

Louis Timmons, Fullerton, Cal.; A. N. Glover, minister.

Rob't. Honn and A. Percy Honn, Arcola, Ill., now at Kimberlin Heights, volunteered under the ministry of J. I. Gunn, at Arcola.

John S. Lozier, Sunday-School Superintendent, Arcola, Ill., has been preaching since and will enter school this fall.

Wadsworth, Ohio, Mrs. R. O. Hinson contributed $25 to Hiram, Charles E. Taylor, minister.

Thad. S. Tinsley, Minister,
Louisville, Ky.

Timothy Tinsley, Volunteer,
Louisville, Ky.

Charles E. Cobbey, Minister,
Chester, Neb.

Lawrence Dry, Volunteer,
Chester, Neb.

A Governor at a Volunteer Service

Gov. B. F. Carroll, of Iowa

On the night of January 17th, the Central Church of Christ in Des Moines gave its evening hour over to the Brotherhood volunteer service. The chorus and choir was made up of the young men of the Philo Christo Class. A double male quartette rendered special music during the evening. A great congregation had assembled for the evening's program. Edwin A. Nye presided and the speakers followed the general outline sent out from the Brotherhood office in Kansas City.

Dean F. O. Norton, of Drake University, spoke on "The Call of the Ministry." His address was incisive, going directly to the problem of the dearth of young men for the ministry. After mentioning the particular difficulties which young men seem to encounter, he paid this high tribute to the ministry and its call upon young men by the rich companionship which belong to them who ministers in Jesus' name. He introduced, said Dean Norton, to the companionship of Isaiah, Hosea and John and Paul, Chrysostom and Savonarola.

Dwight N. Lewis, teacher of the Young Men's Class in the Central Sunday-School and Secretary of the Railroad Commission of the State of Iowa, spoke on "The Call of Christ." He dwelt on the simplicity of Christ's call. He distinguished it from the hard theology and fruitless criticism which so often hindered young men from entering the Christian service.

Arthur Manuel, Religious Director of the Y. M. C. A. of the city, then spoke upon the theme, "The Call of the Christless Millions." It was an appeal for the world view which would include every man within the bounds of the heart's affection and loyalty. Mr. Manuel goes to India in September.

The Chairman then introduced Gov. B. F. Carroll, who spoke on "The Call of the Church." He dwelt especially upon the place every man ought to occupy in the community's life in vital touch with its religious interests. He said as Governor many requests have come to know whether his Christian associations had any hindrance in his political life. He contended that rather than Christianity being a hindrance to political aspirations it was a strength, if he was sincere in his profession. He dwelt upon the pathetic disappointment of Robert G. Ingersoll, whose brilliant attainments could have easily won him high office, but because of his unbelief could win no office within the gift of the people. He urged with great zeal that every man take his place within the church, that he could not be a manly man if he was not a Christian, that he would be untrue to his home, his city, his mission, unless he fulfilled the whole round duty which includes body, mind and spirit.

The service closed with a brief word from the Pastor and invitation. A number of young men were baptized at the close of the service and the evening closed sending every man out to his week's work with reunited determination to follow Christ.

E. A. Nye

President Central Church Brotherhood, Des Moines

A Brotherhood Bible School

The Christian Brotherhood Bible School at Champaign, Ill., the first school inaugurated by a local Brotherhood, was started in an unchurched neighborhood on November 21, 1909. Inaugural day was observed also as "chair day," many members of the Brotherhood of University Place Church of Christ going in a body from the church to the school, each carrying under his arm a folding chair, these being left at the school as a donation. The spirit which prompted such liberality has been behind the school from the start and all of the men take pleasure in their project and in reports of the work.

The school really had its inception in the bantering remarks of some of the Brotherhood men, such as "When is that Bible School Committee going to get to work?" Coming at a time when none of the committees was doing a stupendous amount of work, the challenge was probably prompted as much by the personnel of the committee as by a desire to see it in action. However, the committee took it seriously, and in a short time surprised the Brotherhood by presenting some healthy bills for chairs and house rent. And from that time the Brotherhood began to realize that it was the "proud possessor of a Bible School." It might be well to mention here that this is strictly not a "mission." It is a genuine Bible School, and anyone who calls it a mission in the presence of a Brotherhood man is guilty of a grave offense and liable to peremptory punishment!

It was a fine lark, the first Sunday, going to the school in a bunch and the men enjoyed it. When the matter of loyalty in responding to calls for volunteers for the teaching force was brought up it put a little different face on the situation; still, those who thought they could do so agreed to join the faculty of the school of which George R. Shawhan, chairman of the Bible School Committee of the Brotherhood, has held undisputed title to deanship.

Mr. Shawhan was placed in charge of the women's class. He is a teacher in all that the word implies, from the marrow out and most of the way back, and in him the school has one of its most valuable assets. After a few Sundays, Mr. W. I. McDaniel was given permanent charge of the men's class and has since been leading the men in some warm discussions. Misses Lucy Hill and Gertrude Alyea, by virtue of their positions in the instructional corps, were unofficially elected to membership in the Brotherhood. Miss Hill has charge of the primary class and the organ, and it is difficult to decide which she has the most trouble managing, as the organ has done reasonable service for the Endeavorers, Sunday School and other organizations of the church. Miss Hill is a thorough musician, however, and with her talent manages with admirable ability both class and organ. Miss Alyea has charge of the girls' class, ages 9 to 14, and there has been an excellent showing of interest in the class, as well as much personal work done by Miss Alyea in the territory. Mr. Oliver Hais, as teacher of a class of boys, is having his powers of stick-to-it-iveness taxed to the utmost just at present, as the boys are of the universal brand, extra quality. A. M. R. Skinner bears the title of superintendent.

The school has taken great pride in the fact that it is the only Bible School in Champaign or Urbana which has a separate room for every class. The house in which the school meets belongs to Mr. C. W. Phillis, a Brotherhood man, who has shown great concern for the welfare of the school, providing everything that could be desired. Mr. H. H. Weatherford donated the large sign bearing the name of the school.

The average attendance during the first twelve Lord's Days was 39. During January it was 35. The average offering for the twelve weeks was $1.36, making an average individual offering of about 3½ cents. With the approach of spring, there is promise that the school will not be able to accommodate all who wish to attend.

Plans for the future include prayer-meetings, evangelistic services and other meetings and movements that may be found desirable in the promotion of the community's good.

A Great Bible School at Ann Arbor

By J. K. SHELLENBERGER

In less than three months the Bible School at Ann Arbor has grown from 119 to 476. In the same length of time the Men's Bible Class has grown from 2 to 103. And this growth has been brought about by normal methods. They are not trying to beat anyone else. There is no spirit of contest. It has been a healthy and, we are convinced, permanent growth. There is present every element of permanency. There is present in this movement what the writer would call the sane and normal evangelism; the fundamental principle of which is "men for men." The Men's Class has for its motto, "One Booze-Fighter, at Least, Each Week." And they are making good. February 10th the day the writer spent with them, there were five confessions in the church building and four at the Y. M. C. A. All were men. The beauty of their work lies in the fact that they are going after men regardless of social rank. They are saving the man that needs saving. One of the most spiritual services the writer has attended for many a day was the Bible School—yes, the Bible School—at Ann Arbor. When Brother Jennings, the Superintendent, whose soul is transparent and white, gave the invitation after "I Shall See Him Face to Face" had been sung as a solo, tears rolled down the cheeks of strong men as one of their fellows walked to the front and owned Jesus Christ as Master. The school is free from clap-trap of every kind. There is not a move or a plan that is not set for the evangelization of men and women. AND THE WORK HAS ONLY BEGUN.

There is no attempt in this little sketch to engage in panegyrics. If one were looking for men whom he could eulogize, he could find a whole company of them at Ann Arbor; and not only at Ann Arbor, but every place the writer goes. The world is full of good men, Godly men, that are loyalty in the concrete, and are serving to the limit of sacrifice. If we were to begin to praise individuals, CHRISTIAN MEN would not contain the list if we undertook to be impartial. However, we feel that there is one name that should be mentioned for the sake of possible service in other fields where such service is so sorely needed. We refer to Miss Eva Lemert, of Kansas City. So far as human agency goes, she is the inspiration of this great movement. She spent one month with Ann Arbor and trebled their attendance. Then went away for eight weeks, but the school went on climbing up. Now she is back again for a four-months' campaign. We cannot begin to outline her method of procedure here. We can only say, it is sane, sound, psychological, eminently spiritual, practical, evangelistic, and far-reaching. It is so simple that one wonders why it has not been put into practice long, long ago. And then when he gets done wondering at that, he wakes to the realization that 1876 years ago on the banks of the Jordan this very plan was operated with the approval of the Master.

Mr. Jennings is the Superintendent. His life is lived in this school, although he is a man of large business interests. Mr. Tomes, the Pastor, is a man of large body and big soul, who loves his men with a passionate love. Mr. Wilkinson is President of the Men's Class and is devoted to his calling. And "Bill" Ballard is the traveling man who sells goods when he is not saving men. He is making a success at both callings.

Plans are laid for the organization of this force of masculine humanity into a Brotherhood. The question they were asking was the question that others are asking: "What will we do as a Brotherhood that we will not do as a Men's Class?" The writer took the class hour to lay before the men the purposes and the plans of the Brotherhood. At the close they said, "THAT'S WHAT WE HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR. IT IS THE THING WE NEED." (And, by the way, we are glad to say that this is what they all say when they see what the Brotherhood means.)

At the banquet held in the Ann Arbor Church on February 18th, sat two men whom one month ago "Bill" Ballard found steeped in alcohol. As they sat at the bounteous table, heard the orchestral strains, listened to the addresses, and joined in the singing, one said to the other, "I am done with 'free-lunches', wiener-worst, beer and 'bums' when I can travel in such a crowd as this." On Lord's Day morning he came broken and contrite to his Master. After the service, he said to the writer, "Next Sunday my pardner's coming, too." Men, do not forget the fellow who is starving for the Christ-like fellowship when you have your "good times."

We are glad to present herewith a flash-light picture of this banquet.

Men's Bible Class Banquet at Ann Arbor, Michigan
Field Secretary J. K. Shellenberger, Guest of Honor and Chief Speaker

The men of Paris, Texas, organized on February 24th a splendid Brotherhood in the First Christian Church. It was a cold, disagreeable night, but twenty-two men were present. The Model Constitution was adopted and a number of committees appointed. The officers elected for the first year were:

J. E. Barry, President.

H. L. Palmer, Vice-President.

T. M. Beauchamp, Secretary and Treasurer.

They are also planning to get a good club of subscribers for CHRISTIAN MEN. Splendid addresses were made by J. E. Barry, Dr. A. J. Rush, H. L. Palmer, and Hon. B. B. Sturgeon. The good ladies of the congregation, without invitation, came along and served a fine luncheon at the close of the meeting. J. T. Ogle, the minister, who is a man's man, writes, "God bless the women. They welcome with delight this uprising among our men."

Everyone of the twenty-two men present took the covenant and a number the second obligation to prayer service.

Brotherhood Achievement

The men at Cupertino, California, organized Brotherhood and affiliated with the General organization and subscribed for twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN.

* * *

"With such men as Shellenberger in the field, the men will soon understand what the Brotherhood really stands for."—C. N. JARRETT, Steubenville, Ohio.

* * *

"Our Brotherhood is doing nicely. We have organized a Boy's Club and are giving them good instruction as well as entertainment."—J. GROVE, Ames, Iowa.

* * *

The Brotherhood at Massillon, Ohio, at their meeting April 5th, discussed "The White Slave Traffic." The Brotherhood Bible Class has entered into a contest with the Men's class at Niles, Ohio.

* * *

"We have organized a Brotherhood of fifty-five members with prospects for more. At our last meeting we voted to affiliate with the General Brotherhood and will apply soon for certificate."—BENJ. SMITH, Zionsville, Ind.

* * *

"The affiliation of our Brotherhood with the General Movement was surely a move in the right direction. Dues have been collected and the President will turn them in within a few days."—W. S. LOCKHART, Fayetteville, Ark.

* * *

Shellenberger reports a good meeting of L. B. D. C. No. 291 at Elkhart, Ind., April 10th, resulting in seven new members, sixteen signed the covenant and several new subscribers to the magazine. S. G. Buckner is pastor here.

* * *

"Enclosed is an order for 8 additional subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN. We closed our meeting with 37 additions and will now be able to organize our Brotherhood. Hope to start with 25 at least. In the meantime am talking and the men are getting interested."—A. L. HUFF, Lovington, Illinois.

* * *

Our men at Lubec, Me., organized a Local Brotherhood on March 9th, with Beverly Boynton, President, and R. Lee Bussabarger, Vice-President. They have received organization material and Brotherhood emblems and have affiliated with the General Brotherhood. They are doing a man's work in a man's way, in the most Easterly state in the Union.

* * *

Splendid organization effected at South Bend First Church, where G. W. Hemry is pastor, April 8th. Forty-three men present, thirty-one signed the covenant, twenty subscribers to the magazine. President, M. G. Mitchell. A conference followed the second night with the officers. Reports indicate that Field Secretary Shellenberger is doing very thorough work.

* * *

"Among the objects of the Brotherhood here, it is agreed that practical, everyday helpfulness will count much. I was surprised last Sunday when I had a fire in my home to find that I was to be the first recipient of emergency aid. The Brotherhood men helped me get my goods from the street into another house."—C. L. HAYS, Secretary, L. B. D. C., No. 283, Eldora, Iowa.

* * *

After the meeting held by W. T. Brooks at Newark, Ohio, where Will D. Ward is pastor, there followed, aided and encouraged by these two men, an organization of a splendid Brotherhood. The number of men now enrolled mounts up toward the hundred mark and they expect on Tuesday, April 26th, to be able to organize and start with more than a hundred members and they are going to start right by definite affiliation with the General Brotherhood.

* * *

"The Brotherhood of the First Church has a membership of forty-five and has a fine Bible Class with an attendance of forty every Lord's Day. The members of the Brotherhood have solved the financial problem of the church, and it is to the loyal, consecrated work of the various members of this organization that the church owes its present financial strength. We look for great things from this magnificent body of manly men."—J. ALBERT EMRICH, Portland, Ore.

* * *

Local Brotherhood No. 252, of Niagra Falls, N. Y., sends for certificate of membership in the General Brotherhood. President Jas. D. Barnhart, writes: "Get our charter here as soon if not sooner. Our monthly meeting comes March 21st, and we want it for display at the meeting. Also membership cards, and a liberal supply of Model institutions. Let me congratulate you upon your suggestion as regards the annual calendar. Am trying to build upon it for my year's work."

* * *

The Brotherhood of Franklin Circle Christian Church, Cleveland, Ohio, held an enthusiastic Brotherhood meeting in March. They had music by the Bible School Orchestra and addresses by Judge F. A. Henry and A. R. Teachout. A male quartette composed of W. F. Rothenberger, Lewis Owen, Charles Hofrichter and Carl Brown, sang. S. M. Parks was the Chairman. Following the program, refreshments were served. This church is presided over by H. H. Pounds, enthusiastic Brotherhood friend.

Local Brotherhood No. 283, of Eldora, Iowa, had their annual meeting on March 2d, elected D. O. King, President; D. P. Aylsworth, Vice-President; C. L. Hays, Secretary, and N. F. Golly, Treasurer. Their dues are fifty cents per quarter. Their present membership is twenty and every man gets CHRISTIAN MEN. The general office is kept in constant touch through the up-to-date Secretary, who writes us immediately following each meeting and the information furnished from time to time is bound to be valuable to other organizations who are grappling with the Brotherhood problem.

* * *

The Brotherhood at Philipsburg, Pa., is not only supporting loyally the great work in their own church, but are reaching out and assisting other churches in organizing Brotherhoods. Already an organization is on the way at Orvis, Pa., so writes B. F. Palmer, President of Local Brotherhood No. 254, Philipsburg.

Our brotherhoods everywhere can assist in work of this kind. It is just the question of some man taking the responsibility of leadership and we hope to report that the leaders are being discovered in many localities.

* * *

"Kindly send information for organizing a Brotherhood. I promise to read the material carefully and present the matter in the best possible light to our men with a view to organization. Anything you may be able to give us in the way of help or suggestions will be gratefully received."—E. E. MACK, Atlantic, Iowa.

Such inquiries are of almost hourly occurrence at the General office and are promptly replied to. If you are not using your men in the church, by all means send for our plans of operation and put them to work.

* * *

A Brotherhood has been organized among the various Christian Churches of Collin County, Texas, composing the Collin County Christian Missionary Convention, to be known and recognized as a County organization, rather than a local congregational organization, on the basis of the Model Constitution, having adopted the Brotherhood Covenant and assumed the dues of five cents per month to the General Organization, the first quarterly dues for 47 members being remitted together with 25 cents, the cost of the General Certificate for which we hereby apply.

W. F. WALFORD, President.

F. C. THOMPSON, Secretary.

HUGH McCLELLAN, County Evangelist.

* * *

"The men of the churches of Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Sawtelle, held a Brotherhood banquet on Friday evening, March 25th, at a very fine cafe in Santa Monica. There were forty-eight men present, twenty-nine from Santa Monica, twelve from Ocean Park and seven from Sawtelle. Six short speeches were made by local men and then our chief speaker, Brother Lloyd Darsie, pastor of the Hollywood church, gave us an inspiring address. A good live Brotherhood was organized with J.

S. Tobinger of Ocean Park, President; H. F. Babcock of Sawtelle, Secretary, and Calvin Ridgway of Santa Monica, Treasurer, and a Vice-President from each one of the churches. The Santa Monica church takes twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN."—JAS. R. McINTIRE, Minister, Santa Monica, Cal.

* * *

Knoxville, Illinois, L. B. D. C., No. 267, held its first annual banquet March 24th. Seventy men partook of a full course dinner served by the ladies. Among the banqueters were leading business and professional men of the town. Hard work and great effort made the banquet one of the most successful ever held in Knoxville. An orchestra furnished the music during the reception and dinner. James A. Barnett, Pastor at Galesburg, and enthusiastic Brotherhood exponent, brought greetings from the Galesburg Brotherhood. David H. Shields, of Eureka, was the orator of the evening. His subject: "The Newer Patriotism." The Brotherhood Emblem in colors upon a banner hung behind the pulpit and was greatly admired. The affair was voted "The Greatest ever held in the City." The Knoxville Brotherhood will entertain the Galesburg Brotherhood No. 259 at one of the April meetings.

* * *

At the annual meeting of Local Brotherhood No. 266, Tacoma, Washington, held on March 9th, the following Brotherhood officers were re-elected: W. E. Harmon, President; L. J. Pentecost, Vice-President; Dudley Eshelman, Vice-President; W. R. Strachan, Secretary. This Brotherhood is taking an active part in the preparation for the great Scoville Evangelistic campaign which will be on when these lines are read. They are urging every member of the Brotherhood to subscribe for CHRISTIAN MEN and already have sent in several handsome lists to the General Office.

The enthusiastic Secretary, W. R. Strachan, reports regularly to the General Office and his example in this regard is worthy of pattern by Brotherhood Secretaries everywhere.

This does not mean that we are short on copy, for we have oceans of good stuff crowded out every month, but we want it just the same and we will print as much of it as possible. A word to the wise is unnecessary.

* * *

The men of Lubec, Maine, have been considering the Brotherhood problem for several months. They had a Men's Bible Class of thirty, four of them new men of the class. Their enthusiastic pastor and class leader, R. Lee Bussabarger, presented the Brotherhood proposition and twenty-five church members unanimously voted to affiliate with the National Organization, the initial fee $1.00 per member, 60 cents being dues to the National Organization for one year and 40 cents for a Brotherhood lapel button. Mr. Bussabarger writes:

"This Brotherhood business is about the finest thing yet, also CHRISTIAN MEN. It has helped my Bible School wonderfully in getting men interested. In fact, I can hardly keep up with the pace. It is the gait that kills. I am afraid that I will have to quit my pulpit for a while and devote my entire me to the movement. Be sure and send CHRISTIAN MEN at once, as it does the work of getting men. I think every Brotherhood man should wear the Brotherhood Emblem."

* * *

Friday evening, March 25th, General Secretary, Mr. Macfarlane, addressed one of the oldest men's organizations among us, that of the Peoria Men's Association. A very attractive invitation was issued to the men of the church, and on the back of the invitation the following:

NEXT SUNDAY IS EASTER.

Celebrate "The Resurrection Morning" by rising early and joining others in making the day one of blessedness and joy.

The Men's Bible Class at the Central is the largest in the city, attendance averaging over fifty per Sunday since January 1st. A flashlight picture will be taken next Sunday morning inside the building. Don't fail to be in it. Other classes for your wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts, besides members of your families. The Sunday-School will welcome them all at 9:30 a. m.

A. J. ELLIOTT,
Teacher Men's Class.

A. I. BUCKWALTER,
President Men's Association.

A City Brotherhood Association

"The Associated Brotherhoods of Disciples of Christ of Greater Kansas City" is the name of an organization of our Brotherhood men in the Missouri-Kansas metropolis. It is offered by the following:

Kellogg Smith, Secretary Schooley Stationery Company, President.

Geo. O. Bacon, Assistant Manager Kansas City Casualty Company, Vice-President.

J. T. Ferguson, Pastor Ivanhoe Park Christian Church, Vice-President.

W. S. Randall, real estate dealer, Secretary.

A. L. Hockett, jeweler, and Secretary Local Brotherhood No. 262 of the Jackson Avenue Church, Treasurer.

The organization was formed at the first annual gathering at the Jackson Avenue Church February 22d, which meeting was addressed by President R. A. Long and General Secretary Macfarlane of the General Brotherhood Organization. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Report of Committee on Permanent Organization

Your Committee on Permanent Organization suggest the following outline for the consideration of this gathering:

First. That we form an organization to be called the Associated Brotherhoods of Disciples of Christ of Greater Kansas City.

Second. That membership consist of the men of all Brotherhoods of Disciples of Christ of Greater Kansas City.

Third. That we at this meeting elect a standing committee consisting of one representative from each Brotherhood.

Fourth. That the object of the organization be a closer co-operation and fellowship between the men of our various congregations.

Fifth. The meetings of the Associated Brotherhoods shall be held on the fourth Tuesdays of March and September, respectively. The place of meeting to be decided by the committee.

Sixth. The committee to elect its own President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer.

Seventh. That the Associated Brotherhoods' work under the Model Constitution of the General Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ.

Resolutions

Your Committee recommend the adoption of the following:

Resolved, That the men of the Christian Churches of Greater Kansas City in meeting assembled at Jackson Avenue Church, Tuesday, February 22, 1910, declare themselves in full sympathy with the Brotherhood program as outlined in the Model Constitution of the General Brotherhood and the magazine CHRISTIAN MEN, and urge upon every church in Greater Kansas City the organization of a Local Brotherhood affiliated with the National Organization, and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Associated Brotherhoods' Organization of Greater Kansas City and a copy be transmitted to the official board of every church, with a letter suggesting the advisability of taking immediate action. Be it further

Resolved, That the matter be presented to the Alliance of Christian Ministers of Kansas City, requesting that they concur therein and thus secure united action. Be it further

Resolved, That we heartily recommend the Movement known as the Laymen's Missionary Movement, the Convention of which assembles in Kansas City beginning tomorrow, February 23, 1910, and urge every man of our churches to attend all the sessions possible, that information may be gained on the subject of World Wide Evangelization and impetus added to the extension of Christ's Kingdom through the agency of the Local Brotherhood. Be it further

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be extended the Local Brotherhood of Jackson Avenue Christian Church for their invitation to partake of this banquet in their new church building and wish for them the exertion of greater religious power in this section of our city, and that we commend their action in taking the initiative in this matter.

KELLOGG SMITH,
W. S. RANDALL,
J. T. FERGUSON,
A. L. HOCKETT,
G. O. BACON,
Committee.

The next meeting of the Associated Brotherhood is scheduled to occur on the second Tuesday in September.

* * *

C. A. Sehlbrede, an attorney of Marshfield, Ore., reports to us that Charles E. Lemmox, of Marshfield, has announced his intention of studying for the ministry. He will prepare at Eugene. W. O. Walker is the minister at Marshfield.

* * *

A great many faithful ministers report holding the Brotherhood Volunteer Service with interesting results, and the number of men considering the question has not yet been definitely decided. Among these ministers are O. C. Moomaw, Bonner Springs, Kan.; Charles E. Taylor, Wadsworth, O.; F. N. Calvin, St. Louis, Mo.; Walter C. Gibbs, Harrison, O.; Joseph Darden Armistead, Eminence, Ky.; F. W. Burnham, Springfield, Ill.; Hugh Lomax, Highland, Kan.; Newton Hill, Elk Falls, Kan.; C. O. Reynard, Warren, O.; S. E. Fisher, Champaign, Ill.

* * *

All good men will sorrow with us in the death of Arthur K. Brooks, the widely known evangelist and faithful minister of the Word, who died a few weeks ago in Little Rock. He has preached and sung his way into the hearts of thousands and now has been called to service in a higher field of activity.

* * *

His name is Blunt—that is R. W. Blunt, of Marionville, Mo., but despite his name he is very sharp. And fearing that Blunt would get blunt, and his sermons become dull, his congregation have sent him away on a sixty days vacation on full salary, and the gentle and persistent R. W. is living the simple life at Inman, Tenn.

* * *

The First General Convention of the Men's Methodist Brotherhood will be held at Indianapolis, Ind., May 8th to 12th, inclusive. Evening sessions will be held in Robert's Park M. E. Church, which has a seating capacity of two thousand. We mention this in our magazine because a great many of our men could not do better than to attend these sessions, which will undoubtedly be open to them.

Golden Opinions

"I do not want to miss a copy of this valuable publication."—S. H. STAMIFER, St. Louis, Mo.

* * *

"I enjoy the paper greatly and cannot get along without it."—CHARLES E. JACKSON, Tullahoma, Tenn.

* * *

"Say, you came as near sending those magazines by wire as mortals could."—C. V. ALLISON, Albia, Iowa.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is a great magazine and we are well pleased with it."—R. J. BENNETT, Mitchell, Ind.

* * *

"You are getting out an excellent paper. I wish you success and prosperity in the work."—J. P. LUCAS, Tingley, Iowa.

* * *

"The comments by P. H. Welshimer say the most in the fewest words of any I have ever read."—J. G. WAGONER, Canton, Ill.

* * *

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Our renewal men say, 'Please pass the pudding again'."—A. B. HOUBE, Kendallville, Ind.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is improving with every issue and I will try and get another club of twenty."—R. W. JOHNSON, Secretary, L. B. D. C. No. 284.

* * *

"All parts of CHRISTIAN MEN are splendid. The Welshimer lessons are certainly strong and spirit arousing."—O. L. ADAMS, District Evangelist, Irving, Kan.

* * *

"Enclosed find coin card enclosing fifty cents for my subscription for one year to your most excellent magazine. May both it and its editor live long and prosper."—ELMER WARD COLE, Huntington, Ind.

* * *

"I have missed CHRISTIAN MEN for two months. I presume my subscription has expired. It is an indispensable piece of household goods, so I enclose $1.00 to apply on my subscription."—GEORGE MUSSON, Warren, Ohio.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN grows better and better, and I hope the subscription list may be pushed to the topmost round. May the Lord use CHRISTIAN MEN mightily for the extension of His Kingdom."—R. W. BLUNT, Marionville, Mo.

* * *

S. R. Hawkins, of McAlester, Oklahoma, whose devotion to the cause of primitive Christianity in that growing commonwealth has helped to put our people in a first position there, was a caller at Brotherhood headquarters recently.

* * *

"I like CHRISTIAN MEN and greatly enjoy records of successful work among the men and the manner in which you lead off toward greater things. It makes me long to get into the business."—T. H. SCAMBLER, Des Moines, Iowa.

Bible Class Notes

"We called for a show of Bibles last Sunday and three men held up CHRISTIAN MEN."
—J. A. BARNETT, Galesburg, Ill.

* * *

"Our class is growing and we need more CHRISTIAN MEN. Please increase our order to sixty copies monthly."—C. V. ALLISON, Albia, Iowa.

* * *

The Brotherhood Bible Class at Wyatt Park Christian Church, St. Joseph, Mo., two weeks old, have seventy in the class. They are planning to use CHRISTIAN MEN Bible Lesson Helps.

* * *

The organization of the Men's Class at Geneva, Ohio, is to be completed on Friday evening, March 25th, and they will open the meeting with the song, "Loyal Men," mentioned elsewhere in these columns.

* * *

The present officary of the Men's Class at Carthage, Mo., is: W. A. Shuler, President; L. M. Thomas, Vice-President; Eugene Frakes, Treasurer, and C. W. Williams, Secretary. D. W. Moore is the teacher.

* * *

R. A. Doan, who has recently been in Florida, is back again at Nelsonville with a great series of fish stories. There were 361 smiling faces on the Nelsonville class to greet their teacher on the first Lord's Day of his return.

* * *

"My class of men, 'The Boosters,' ten months old, had 102 present last Sunday. We hope to mold it into a Brotherhood soon. We seek to be the largest men's class in Illinois in towns of this size."—B. H. SEALOCK, Petersburg, Ill.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is the magazine for Men's Bible Classes. Our school uses 75 copies and we hope to make it 100 soon. Many homes receive no other religious paper and our men tell me they read it every word, including the ads."—R. F. THRAPP, Jacksonville, Ill.

* * *

R. Lee Bussabarger, our pastor at Lubec, Me., has subscribed for a number of extra copies of CHRISTIAN MEN to be sent to his address to give to our new men as they come into his Loyal Berean's Men's Class of the Bible School. He says, "CHRISTIAN MEN is a winner."

* * *

W. C. Westlake is the enthusiastic President of the Business Men's Association at Trenton, Mo. One of the unique features is the splendid Men's Bible Class of some 100 men. The Trenton school is in a contest with Cameron Bible School and has issued a bright red post card headed "This Card Is Dedicated to Success." The card teems with straight thrusts from the shoulder.

Our Bible School Editor, P. H. Welshimer, has just closed a revival meeting in which he did the preaching and P. M. Kendall, of Columbus, had charge of the music, which resulted in 169 additions to the church. Brother Welshimer has been at Canton, Ohio, eight years and has all this time done "A Man's Work in a Man's Way," and he has been careful to see that the man's work was also God's work.

* * *

"The Men's Bible Class of the First Church, Niles, Ohio, use CHRISTIAN MEN Lesson Helps. That the members are well pleased is demonstrated by their endeavor to increase the attendance from sixty to one hundred. The magazine gives prominence to the men's work in the church as well as the Bible School in a very concise and interesting way, and this school considers the subscription for sixty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN each month money well spent."—ALLAN T. GORDON, Niles, Ohio.

* * *

The Loyal Sons Class at Marionville, Mo., where Reuben W. Blunt is minister, recently held a week's meeting, the young men doing the preaching themselves. Each one of them spoke to the delight and edification of their hearers. The following Sunday they went out to a country Bible School to organize a Loyal Sons class there. These young men are attendants at the Marionville College and will use CHRISTIAN MEN Lesson Helps and later along hope to grow into a Brotherhood organization.

* * *

"Our men's class had two hundred and twenty-five present last Sunday, and $29.58 offering. We are just thirteen weeks old and our attendance record for the thirteen Sundays is as follows: 34, 33, 25, 50, 69, 79, 82, 98, 114, 126, 130, and 225. Our first contest is over, but we begin another next Sunday. We are planning for a big banquet here soon. There will probably be from 200 to 250 men of our Bible Class. Then is the time that I feel will be opportune for organizing a Brotherhood."—C. W. COMSTOCK, Mound City, Mo.

* * *

Harry T. Alumbaugh, Superintendent of the Bible School at Carlisle, Ind., is pushing the work vigorously, notwithstanding the fact that they are handicapped by a burned building. The contract for the new structure has been let and promises to be one of the finest in Sullivan County. The card addressed to men, urging them to get the habit of attending the Christian Sunday-School where they do "A Man's Work in a Man's Way," is one of the latest and best advertising enterprises emanating from the fertile brain of the Superintendent.

* * *

The Marshal, Missouri, School has rendered a printed report of the first quarter, which shows that business men are doing the Lord's business in a business way, so far as this school is concerned. The summary for the quarter is as follows:

"Enrollment in school, 577; of this number 387 are of ages from sixteen to eighty-five. Enrollment in Home Department, 50; Cradle Roll, 75; Church membership, 520; average attendance, 373; average absentees, 150; average every day Bible readers, 189; total collection, $298.92."

* * *

The great Brotherhood Bread-Winners' Bible Class at Hutchinson, Kan., has, after careful consideration, decided to place itself in the fullest possible touch with thousands of other Bible students and Christian workers by ordering 150 copies of CHRISTIAN MEN per quarter for its members and to be used as a lesson help. They appreciate Mr. Welshimer's Bible Lesson Helps. O. L. Cook is the class teacher. A. M. Nettleton, Superintendent of this great school, honored the office of CHRISTIAN MEN with a call recently.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN, or something else unknown to me, is certainly arousing considerable interest in Bible study and church work among my men, both young and old. We have from two to four new men nearly every Lord's Day, dropping into our class. I hope to have a banquet and organize a Brotherhood next week at the close of special service now in progress."—R. LEE BUSSABARGER, Lubec, Me.

LATER—A Brotherhood has been organized affiliating with the General Brotherhood. See Organization Notes.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is arousing the men of Lubec, Me.," so writes R. Lee Bussabarger, minister. "One of my deacons (and he is a teacher, too) did not want CHRISTIAN MEN at first. Now he says he could not do without it. I am a Sunday-School Superintendent, as well as a minister and so I 'baited' some of my men with copies of CHRISTIAN MEN so as to have the seed sown for a Brotherhood. It has performed its mission well."

In another column you will see that this Brotherhood has affiliated with the General Brotherhood with twenty-five charter members.

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN is a wonder. When our Brotherhood Men's Bible Class started to use this paper, they had an attendance of from twelve to fifteen, which has increased in one month's time to twenty-eight. Our men are in the midst of a red and blue contest, which, together with CHRISTIAN MEN, is doing wonders. When you consider that we have an inter-denominational class for men of about 850 in our community, you can easily see what we have to go up against, but we are going it. Increase our number of CHRISTIAN MEN to thirty-five copies."—C. E. McCAULEY, Superintendent, Observatory Hill Christian Bible School, Pittsburgh, Pa.

CHRISTIAN MEN is now past the 16,000 mark and this probably gives it the largest circle of male readers of any publication among our people. We have our eye on the 20,000 mark and we hope to reach it before the vacation period begins.

* * *

CHRISTIAN MEN office was favored recently with a call from J. W. McFerran, leader of our great Men's Bible Class at Moberly, Mo. Brother McFerran is a house mover by profession and on Sunday moves a great host of Christian men in the Lord's House. The class has already outgrown its local quarters and arrangements have been made for a new building planned after the Independence Boulevard Church at Kansas City. Brother McFerran drives a Sunday-School wagon every Sunday morning, which is making good in securing attendance of children and adults who could otherwise not be present. Their normal attendance is 800 and the goal set for Children's Day is 1,200. The class has adopted the name "Ahinadabs" and has started out for the last man and expect to bring him in.

* * *

This is the way they handle the Brotherhood Bible Class at Albia, Iowa:

Brotherhood Bible Class

The Book of Books Reveals the Man of Men.
OFFICERS.

Charles E. Miller,
President.
Dr. C. O. Longmire,
Vice-President.
T. P. George,
Secretary.
S. T. Peterson,
Treasurer.
C. V. Allison,
Teacher.

They tell me you fellows are doing things worth while, but I want to be shown. So save a seat for me.....

MEETINGS.

Bible Study every Sunday at the Christian Church, 3 p. m.

Social Meetings last Thursday evening in each month.

Always Room for One More.

and I'll sure be there.
Sgd.....

* * *

The Brotherhood Bible Class at the Jackson Avenue Church, Kansas City, was started on March 13th. On March 20th, thirty-seven men were present. March 27th, seventy-four men were present, which indicates that someone was busy.

This promises to be one of the largest Men's Classes in Greater Kansas City, and the Jackson Avenue School is a close second in the attendance record of the Christian churches in Kansas City. F. L. Bowen is the pastor and teacher of the class until May 1st, when T. W. Grafton, of Anderson, Ind., takes charges of the church and the class.

Jaackson Avenue is one of the newest congregations, but recently graduated from the Mission class. They have a $50,000 church ilding, equipped for institutional work.

 ymnasium classes are a nightly occurrence.
 ith a good organization, great work will be omplished in this splendid field.

* * *

J. F. Williams, pastor of our church at eneva, Ohio, has written the following song, hich he has been gracious enough to allow to print. Brother Williams states that will not copyright, and local Bible Class en are at liberty to have it copied by prints for their use:

Loyal Men

(AIR AMERICA.)

By J. F. WILLIAMS

As Loyal Men we meet,
 And one another greet
 With friendship true;
 And marching side by side,
 Let fellowship abide,
 Whatever may betide,
 Life's journey through.

For social purity,
 Faith, hope and charity
 We take our stand;
 For manly honesty,
 The truth that makes men free,
 Friendship and amity
 In heart and hand.

That He who spoiled the grave
 Saves men others to save,
 Is our belief;
 And so, where men are bound,
 Sorrow and grief are found,
 The whole wide world around
 We'll bear relief.

The Man of Galilee,
 Our bond of unity
 In liberty;
 And as on Galilee,
 Commander of the sea,
 For Hope's eternity
 Our anchor be.

THE BOOK CHALLENGED

BEDFORD, INDIANA, March 20, 1910

W. H. BOOK, Teacher Book's Class,
 Columbus, Indiana

DEAR BROTHER:

We have noticed the good reports of your class, and have been interested in the means you have taken to advertise your work in Columbus. We send congratulations. But we would not have you forget there are others, and to prevent any undue "chestiness" on your part over your great class, we challenge you to a membership and offering contest to run through the months of April and May, 1910, to the end that the study of the Word may be extended and the work of adult Bible School attendance promoted among us respectively.

Conditions to be negotiated later.

Now, come across.

C. H. STRUPE, Secy.,

J. R. RUTHERFORD, Pres.,

H. A. DENTON, Teacher,

The Brotherhood Class.

Bible School Superintendents

☞ Did you know that CHRISTIAN MEN magazine, containing the lesson helps prepared by P. H. Welshimer and especially adapted to men, constitutes the greatest

CLASS BUILDER

and

MAN HOLDER

that you can get?

Order

in

Quantities

Nelsonville, O.,	takes	300
Hutchinson, Kan.,	“	150
Galesburg, Ill.,	“	140
Lincoln, Neb.,	“	135
Jacksonville, Ill.,	“	100

Pay

for it

Quarterly

The Leaders Like It. Why Not You?

☞ The men watch for it eagerly, carry it in their pockets, study it on the cars, on the street or in the shop, and come with prepared lesson and with lives inspired by wider knowledge of the work of the Brotherhood at large, which comes from the reading of this stirring periodical.

Winners of the Medals in March

C. T. Morris, Webster City, Iowa, wins first prize with 46 individual paid in advance subscriptions.

W. K. Ash, Columbus, Ohio, wins second prize with 40 individual paid in advance subscriptions.

Oscar W. Riley, Lowell, Ohio, wins third prize with 36 individual paid in advance subscriptions.

It Was Easy

Who Will
Be the Winners in May

?

Maybe
You

Try It
Today!

FIRST PRIZE—SOLID GOLD
SECOND PRIZE—SOLID SILVER
THIRD PRIZE—BRONZE

RATES:

Clubs of 20	-	-	25c
Clubs of 10	-	-	35c
Single Subscription	-		50c

Present rates of subscription are not guaranteed beyond June 1, but the prize offer will be continued from month to month.

It Is Easy to Get Subscriptions
for

Time Limit,
May 1 to 31

To the person sending us the Largest—Second Largest—Third Largest List of Subscribers, we will give above prizes absolutely free, but they must be members of the Brotherhood in order to be eligible to wear the Brotherhood Emblem. In case of a tie for any of the above prizes offered, a prize similar in all respects with that tied for will be given to each of the persons so tying.

The Brotherhood Calendar for 1910.

Beginning with the Annual Meeting in February

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary, Wooster, Ohio

MAY.

1. The Brotherhood and Fraternities.—A program for the Fraternal Committee. Can the Brotherhood be made as rich in fellowship as the lodge?

2. The Brotherhood and the Boy.—What is the Brotherhood's attitude to the yeasting character of the boy? Why are more boys on the street than in church and Bible School?

JUNE.

1. Brotherhood Possibilities.—An enlarged vision coming from experiences of the past. An organized POWER of the kingdom.

2. Good Citizenship.—A call to Christian men. Some problems that are crying for solution which only Christian men can solve.

JULY.

1. The Kingdom of God a Social Institution.—An emphasis on the necessity of light-heartedness as well as the gravity of Christians.

2. Is the Church a Fruitless Institution?—A study of how God treated a dying nation. Ez. 37.

AUGUST.

1. The Annual Picnic.—The Social Committee will arrange for a day of rollicking joy for every Brotherhood man and his family or his friend.

2. Church Extension.—A careful study of the institution that gives permanency to our work.

SEPTEMBER.

1. The Brotherhood and the Bible School.—How the Brotherhood can boost the Bible School. The Brotherhood's attitude to the men's class.

2. The International Convention.—This is when we determine to go en masse to the biggest Men's convention the Disciples of Christ have ever held. "On to Topeka!"

OCTOBER.

1. State Elections.—Principle above policy. Manhood above party. Courage of convictions everywhere.

2. State Missions.—A study of the calls of our State to men strong in the faith of Jesus Christ.

NOVEMBER.

1. Civic and National Reforms.—Here is where we lock arms with the W. C. T. U., the Bible School, the Y. P. S. C. E., the International Reform Bureau, et al, in the onward march toward a stronger manhood and purer womanhood.

2. A Harvest Home Meeting.—Thanksgiving. A season of special rejoicing for the goodness of God.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worthy of his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

FEBRUARY.

1. Annual Meeting.—Once around, and what has happened. Yearly reports, and annual address.

2. World-Wide Missions.—Golden Opportunities and social responsibilities in and to the Foreign Mission field.

MARCH.

1. The Integrity of the Home.—Marriage and divorce. A debate. Invite your wives and sweethearts.

2. From Bethany to Olivet.—Easter. A week of meditation. A study of our covenant.

APRIL.

1. Is the Church a Necessity?—Can we get along without it? If so, what will take its place?

2. Home Missions.—America's problems, and their solution.

THE BROTHERHOOD IN MAY

1. The Brotherhood and Fraternities.—
A program for the Fraternal Committee. Can the Brotherhood be made as rich in fellowship as the lodge?

2. The Brotherhood and the Boy.—What is the Brotherhood's attitude toward the yeasting character of the boy? Why are more boys on the street than in church and Bible School?

NOTE.—These programs go into great detail in order to be thoroughly suggestive. They cover a very wide range in order that the treatment may be as thorough as desired and at the same time program makers are at liberty to select only such features as they deem practicable. Brotherhoods are especially cautioned against getting too many long addresses. Where several addresses are used, in addition to a debate, the time limit should not be more than six minutes each. Here are the suggestions carefully worked out. Make your own adaptations. Be sure you make the meeting interesting. Be sure you make it thorough. Be sure you make it effective.

I.

Program

TOPIC—The Church and Fraternity in the Brotherhood Court

Judge,
Clerk,
Bailiff,

MARY JONES,

By

Attorney for Plaintiff,

vs.

THE CHURCH,

By

Attorney for Defendant.

WITNESSES

JURY

For Plaintiff	For Defendant
.....
.....
.....
.....

* The Field Secretary desires to acknowledge the assistance of C. V. DuComb, Attorney, South Bend, Ind., in the preparation of this program.

Note:—To the Program Committee: This can be made the greatest meeting your Brotherhood ever held. Prepare for it carefully. First get two practicing attorneys, preferably men of enthusiasm; have them go over the complaint carefully and work up the case thoroughly. Then select four witnesses for the plaintiff and have them properly coached in what they are to testify to. Select the same number for the defense and have them prepared in the same way. The direct testimony of each of these witnesses should not require more than three or four minutes and the cross-examination as long. Select your judge and court officers in advance. Impanel the jury on the spot from those who attend. Read the complaint, proceed with the testimony and close with the argument. When the jury has rendered its verdict, abandon the court idea and throw the meeting open for one-minute speeches from the floor on the question at issue. You will, of course, get an attorney to act as a judge, if possible.

READ THIS COMPLAINT CAREFULLY. IT IS FULL OF TACKS

STATE OF

COUNTY OF

In theCourt

ss.

April Term, 1910.

MARY JONES,

vs.

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY
CHURCH.Complaint for Sympathy.

The plaintiff in the above entitled cause complains of the above named defendant, and for cause of action herein says: That the defendant is a Church, duly organized under the laws of Jesus Christ as recorded in the New Testament, and incorporated under the laws of.....

County, in.....State.

That said Church purports to be an institution established for the purpose of cultivating the spirit of brotherhood among men, and equality among men, and the spirit of helpfulness to the suffering and lowly, according to the principles of its Founder, Jesus Christ.

The plaintiff further alleges that John Jones, her husband, was an alcholic inebriate, and that said defendant Church for a term of ten years, from the year of 1900 to 1910, sent no representative of said Church to call upon said husband or exhorted him to reform, or in any way, manner or form, did said Church manifest a brotherly interest in said John Jones, the plaintiff's husband. That because of said negligence of said defendant Church, the plaintiff has been damaged as follows, to-wit:

The plaintiff suffered ten years of heart-ache, ten years of abject poverty, ten years of failure to educate her children, and ten years of ostracism from society and the loss of self-respect, and ten years of unsatisfied hunger for religious training and association.

Par. 2. For a further and second paragraph of complaint, the plaintiff alleges: That during the year 1900, the plaintiff's husband, John Jones, in company with one Alexander Smith (said Alexander Smith being a man of abundant means, and of ability to dress and appear well in society) did on or about the 1st day of January, 1900, make application for membership in the above named Church and was accepted, and at the same time the plaintiff's husband was rejected. That when the presiding officers of the above named defendant Church were asked to state why said John Jones was rejected, they gave as a reason that said John Jones lacked means and social prestige, and that said Alexander Smith was accepted because of his wealth and influence.

That because of the said rejection of the said husband of said plaintiff, said plaintiff has been damaged as follows, to-wit: That her children, consisting of two sons and three daughters, lost faith in the above named defendant Church—lost faith in Jesus Christ,—and grew irresponsible to any power higher than themselves, in that, the two sons became cigarette fiends and saloon attendants, and devotees of the gambling table, and as a result of their gambling, one committed murder and ended his life on the gallows. The other committed a theft to pay his gambling debts, and is today confined in a penitentiary.

The plaintiff further alleges that because of the above mentioned rejection of the plaintiff's husband from the defendant Church, her three daughters also were driven from the sympathy of the Church, and that the said members of said Church looked upon her daughters in scorn. That said daughters were continuously referred to as "the drunkard Jones' daughters," and that because of this attitude of said defendant Church toward said daughters, they were compelled to find their association among the godless and sinful classes of society. That two of said daughters are today wives of sodden drunkards and worthless characters, and that said daughters are already the mothers of children, doubtless born to reproduce the sinful experiences of their father and grandfather. That the other daughter is living a life of shame, in white slavery.

Par. 3. The plaintiff for a further and third paragraph of complaint alleges: That on the.....day of February, 1904, the plaintiff was without fuel, and sufficient clothing, and without food except a very small portion of corn meal. That both she and her children were suffering intensely from hunger, cold, and insufficient clothing, and in her extremity she applied to one R. G. Simpkins, known to be the ruling elder in the above named defendant Church for aid; that the said R. G. Simpkins listened to her plea for aid and replied by merely saying, "If your husband would quit his drinking you would not be in such straits."

The plaintiff further alleges that she afterwards applied to one of the local fraternities, and although her husband was not a member of said fraternity, said plaintiff received both aid and sympathy and was cared for until such time as she and her children were able to earn a sustenance at the wash tub, gathering driftwood along the river bank, and picking coal along the railroad tracks. That by and on account of the negligence of said defendant Church, not only at the time last mentioned, but also many other times of similar circumstances from the year of 1900 to 1910, the plaintiff and her children suffered great mental anguish and forebodings of poverty, and from inability to nurture and clothe her children properly and comfortably, and from the inability to give them even the rudiments of an education or to have them in Bible School and Church services.

That by reason of the aforesaid negligence of said defendant Church, the plaintiff has been damaged to that extent that she and her family are now entitled to the full sympathy and social help of the above defendant Church.

Wherefore the plaintiff prays the Court that this Local Brotherhood of said defendant Church be compelled to arouse itself and by the whole Church extend full sympathy, not only to the plaintiff, but to all with whom she sympathizes and in whose behalf she pleads; who are today passing through experiences similar to those of said plaintiff; for the hundred thousand drunkards' homes in the United States, and for the great army of fallen women, and the innumerable company of tired-hearted and hungry-souled men and women throughout the land.

That the Church listen with tender heart unto the cries of "the widows and the fatherless in their affliction," and for all other proper relief.

Program for Special Meeting of the Local Brotherhood for May, 1910

Topic: THE BROTHERHOOD AND THE BOY

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary

I—Instrumental Music.

II—Hymn.

III—Prayer for sincere interest in the motive of boy life.

IV—Hymn.

V—Address—"The Adolescent Boy." Ten minutes.

Note to the Program Committee:—Select one interested in the psychology of adolescence to make this address. If you have no one in the Brotherhood fitted for it, ask your Superintendent of Schools or Principal of High School to do it. Either will be glad to undertake it. Ask that all addresses be written, and be brought within the limits of ten minutes. Ask also that the practical facts of science be clothed in the language of the people. Insist that too many technical terms be avoided.

VI—Address—"The Boy a Prophecy of the Man." Six minutes.

This address should be worked out along "Lines of Tendency."

Let it be kept in mind that the thought and action of the maturing boy determine, all but definitely, the course of the man's whole life. This emphasizes the supreme importance of directing the yeasting life and energies of the boy in both

Thought, Ideals, and Action, or Sports.

VII—Male Quartet or Hymn.

VIII—Address—"The 'Boy Problem' Not a Boy Problem, But a Man Problem." Six Minutes.

Suggestive outline:

1. Boys unconsciously imitate men.
2. The practice of men sets the boy's ideals for manhood.

3. Practical loyalty to Christ on the part of the men will secure hearty co-operation from the boys.

Note.—A wide-awake man will be able to cite local illustrations from actual life in every one of the above points.

IX—What You Can Do For Us. A six-minute talk by the boy himself.

Note.—This can be made the most interesting feature of your whole meeting. Get a bright boy of 15 or 16, or if he isn't available, some young man of 18 or thereabouts, to be a spokesman for the boys and to tell the men of the Brotherhood in a good straight talk just exactly what they ought to do for the boys of this church. If a boy himself cannot do the work acceptably, the younger man suggested will do it very much better than an older Brotherhood man, as he will be able to get closer to the boy heart.

X—Address—"The Brotherhood's Responsibility to the Boy in This Community."

Note to the Program Committee.—Assign this address to one who will make a conscientious attempt to see the actual condition and needs of the boylife in your community and to bring the facts before young men.

1. What is your Brotherhood doing for the boy in directing his Sports,

Entertainment.

Study and Reading outside of Public Schools, Ideals?

2. What will this Brotherhood do for the boy in the future.

Note.—Suggest definite things that will fit your local conditions.

Suggest the organization of a Boys' Brotherhood.

Suggest the appointing of a committee on boys' work from the Brotherhood, with instructions to bring in recommendations at the next meeting.

XI—Appoint a Committee on Boys' Work.

XII—Hymn.

XIII—Social Period.

XIV—Closing Hymn.

XV—Closing Prayer.

BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Books to read or be referred to:

"Psychology of Adolescence"—King.

"Psychology of Adolescence"—G. Stanley Hall.

"The Boy Problem"—Forbush.

"The Unfolding Life."—Lameraux.

Ask your Public Librarian for suggestive work on "Adolescence" and on "The Boy."

See also index of Periodical Literature in any public library.

THE BROTHERHOOD COUNTING HOUSE

Statement of Contributions in March

J. O. Boyd, Keokuk, Iowa.....	$10.00
Hillsboro, Ohio, Brotherhood.....	4.76
Council Grove, Kan., Brotherhood...	6.00
Muncie, Ind., Brotherhood.....	8.10
Kalamazoo, Mich., Brotherhood.....	3.03
Toronto, Ohio, Brotherhood.....	1.95
New Cumberland, W. Va., Brother- hood.....	1.00
La Belle View, Steubenville, Ohio...	3.50
St. Joseph, Mo., Brotherhood, First Church.....	10.00
Ira N. Miller, Lincoln, Neb.....	10.00
W. R. Warren, St. Louis, Mo.....	10.00
P. A. Young, Enon, Pa.....	5.25
J. H. Allen, St. Louis, Mo.....	100.00
Peoria, Illinois, Brotherhood, Central Church.....	10.00

New General Members

246—Amzi Atwater, Bloomington, Ind.
247—F. P. Howard, Decatur, Ill.
248—C. S. Voorhees, Wichita, Kan.
250—R. A. Willard, Buffalo, N. Y.
251—B. F. Waggoner, Vienna, Va.
252—A. A. Moody, Seattle, Wash.
253—N. K. Griggs, Lincoln, Neb.
254—Phillip A. Young, Enon, Pa.
255—Oscar W. Riley, Lowell, Ohio.
256—K. A. Williams, Eureka, Ill.
257—J. H. Foster, East St. Louis, Ill.
258—C. C. Chapman, Fullerton, Cal.
259—C. E. Arney, Albion, Iowa.
260—C. T. Morris, Webster City, Iowa.
261—C. E. Rash, Plainville, Kan.
262—C. L. Daniel, Norfolk, Neb.
263—Roy J. Lucas, Norfolk, Neb.
264—Isaac Wright, Bluefield, W. Va.
265—R. H. Eaton, Gordon, Tex.
266—J. Fred Jones, Bloomington, Ill.
267—W. D. Deweese, Bloomington, Ill.

Church Club Orders for Christian Men

W. Miller, Midland, Tex.....	20
J. Hostettler, Virden, Ill.....	33
W. Yard, Cherokee, Kan.....	20
Harry Wirt, Worcester, Mass.....	20
A. Barnett, Galesburg, Ill.....	90
E. Hootman, New Cumberland, W. Va..	36
J. O. Boyd, Keokuk, Ia.....	28
A. W. Luce, Excelsior Springs, Mo.....	34
W. Comstock, Mound City, Mo.....	50
L. Hawkins, Lathrop, Mo.....	20
J. L. Smith, Zionsville, Ind.....	24
A. Cole, Abilene, Kansas.....	25
A. Mangum, Omaha, Neb.....	35
Ray Roush, Hillsboro, Ohio.....	40
M. Crutcher, Sioux City, Iowa.....	20
E. Hoover, Tillamook, Ore.....	20
C. Channing, Niagara Falls, N. Y.....	20
H. Hansler, Riverside, Cal.....	25
First Church, St. Joseph, Mo.....	33
Ms. H. H. Harmon, Lincoln, Neb.....	50
P. F. Jerome, New York, N. Y.....	23
A. W. Collins, Deming, N. M.....	50
A. Shippert, North Yakima, Wash.....	20
G. W. Peck, Syracuse, N. Y.....	20
H. Hart, New Martinsville, W. Va.....	30
A. L. Clark, Wilmerding, Pa.....	25
C. T. Morris, Webster City, Iowa.....	46
Alter Sims, Clampton, Ohio.....	21
E. Scoville, Kenton, O.....	21
W. Riley, Lowell, O.....	36
A. C. Gibbs, Harrison, O.....	20
W. Johnson, Modesto, Cal.....	20
E. Cutnell, Rome, Ga.....	20
C. Nickle, Davenport, Iowa.....	21
E. Stevens, Ladysmith, Wis.....	20
C. Baxter, Pittsburg, Kan.....	26
J. Faust, Portland, Ore.....	25
W. Lange, Millersburg, O.....	27
J. O. Mabie, Rockford, Ill.....	25
H. I. Prusia, Mason City, Iowa.....	25
W. Hawkins, Arcola, Ill.....	40
C. W. Schull, St. Louis, Mo.....	27
E. J. Seiverson, Saratoga, Cal.....	20
A. T. Fisher, Maryville, Mo.....	21
Richard Booth, Sharon, Pa.....	30
W. Y. Allen, Fort Scott, Kan.....	25
J. Latto, Urichsville, O.....	23
C. Nooe, Louisville, Ky.....	20
L. T. Faulders, Wellington, Kan.....	20
H. Morrison, Abilene, Tex.....	35
J. O. L. Cline, Mansfield, Ohio.....	26
K. Ash, Columbus, Ohio.....	40
N. Blunt, Marionville, Mo.....	20
Wray, Kansas City, Mo.....	28
F. Blue, Carthage, Mo.....	22
E. C. Lunger, Williamsport, Pa.....	28
Ed Franklin, New Carlisle, Ind.....	20
L. Likins, Ft. Wayne, Ind.....	50
J. Smith, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.....	25
Fleischman, Silverton, Ore.....	20
A. Hunnewell, Windfall, Ind.....	20

* * *

Winners of Centennial Booklet Prize in March

J. Hostettler, Virden, Ill.
A. Barnett, Galesburg, Ill.
E. Hootman, New Cumberland, W. Va.

J. O. Boyd, Keokuk, Iowa.
A. W. Luce, Excelsior Springs, Mo.
Benj. Smith, Zionsville, Ind.
C. A. Mangum, Omaha, Neb.
A. L. Clark, Wilmerding, Pa.
C. T. Morris, Webster City, Iowa.
L. C. Baxter, Pittsburg, Kan.
J. F. Faust, Portland, Ore.
Geo. H. Lange, Millersburg, Ohio.
J. O. Mabie, Rockford, Ill.
H. I. Prusia, Mason City, Iowa.
C. W. Schull, St. Louis, Mo.
Joe L. Cline, Mansfield, O.
E. C. Lunger, Williamsport, Pa.
F. E. Smith, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

* * *

General Certificates Furnished in March

288—Keokuk, Iowa.
289—Saratoga, Cal.
290—Lubec, Me.
291—Elkhart, Ind.
292—Kendallville, Ind.
293—Kansas City, Mo., Roanoke.
294—Portland, Ore., First Church.
295—Collin County, Texas.

* * *

Emblem Sales in March

W. R. Strachan, Tacoma, Wash.....	$1.50
E. E. Benton, Elkhart, Ind.....	.95
Geo. Jacobson, Knoxville, Ill.....	4.80
C. A. Mangum, Omaha, Neb.....	.54
Alvin Arie, Oak Park, Ill.....	.75
L. B. Huff, Osborne, Mich.....	1.25
K. Williams, Eureka, Ill.....	.40
Jas. D. Barnhart, Niagara Falls, N. Y.....	.40
R. Lee Bussabarger, Lubec, Me.....	.40
P. A. Young, Enon, Pa.....	1.25
E. E. Benton, Elkhart, Ind.....	4.75
John Clark, Bethany, Neb.....	.15
L. T. Faulders, Wellington, Kan.....	2.45
H. Handspiker, Lubec, Me.....	2.40
J. E. Arrants, Bristol, Tenn.....	2.10
H. T. Fields, Bedford, Ind.....	1.45
O. A. Ishmael, Pleasanton, Kan.....	.40
Harry Crow, Wooster, Ohio.....	1.10
J. N. Jessup, Little Rock, Ark.....	7.50
W. T. Cummins, La Crosse, Kan.....	.40

* * *

March Purchasers of the Quest of the Yellow Pearl and the Centurion's Story

Mrs. A. L. McCannon, Des Moines, Iowa.
J. S. Donaldson, Kansas City, Mo.
Catherine Macfarlane, Sparta, Wis.
W. Y. Allen, Fort Scott, Kansas.
C. A. Westapher, Beaver, Pa.
E. M. Hutto, Brinkley, Ark.
G. M. Wood, New Martinsville, W. Va.
A. W. Leu, Peoria, Ill.
Ralph Gardner, Humeston, Ia.
H. J. Shumway, Kansas City, Mo.
T. H. Scambler, Des Moines, Ia.
E. P. Huff, Kansas City, Mo.
R. B. Hume, Armstrong, Mo.
W. C. Westlake, Trenton, Mo.
A. W. Luce, Excelsior Springs, Mo.

R. W. Johnson, Modesto, Cal.
Mrs. J. L. Shidell, Sparta, Wis.
G. M. Wood, New Martinsville, W. Va.
Mr. Robeson, Excelsior Springs, Mo.
Mrs. H. Gould, Seattle, Washington.
J. M. Bovee, Belleview, Ill.

* * *

Purchasers of Organization Material in March

W. T. Brooks, Chattanooga, Tenn.
Geo. W. Miller, Midland, Tex.
S. L. Romehac, Memphis, Tenn.
C. C. Buckner, South Bend, Ind.
B. R. Johnson, Bethany, W. Va.
A. F. Stahl, Steubenville, O.
O. L. Smith, Emporia, Kan.
R. V. Calloway, Atlanta, Ill.
J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky.
John P. Drake, Washington, Pa.
S. H. Zendt, Bloomington, Ill.
M. Lee Sorey, Dodge City, Kan.
E. E. Benton, Elkhart, Ind.
R. Lee Bussabarger, Lubec, Me.
W. E. Ellis, Cynthiaana, Ky.
H. J. Loken, Berkeley, Cal.
T. G. Picton, Portland, Ore.
M. D. Dudley, St. Joseph, Mo.
Benj. Smith, Zionsville, Ind.
J. C. Gates, Princeton, Ky.
Myers Boyd, Uniontown, Pa.
E. A. Long, Milwaukee, Wis.
I. A. Engle, Chandlerville, Ill.
Carey Roush, Hillsboro, O.
W. E. Crain, St. Louis, Mo.
C. F. Franklin, New Carlisle, Ind.
J. J. Wagoner, Canton, Ill.
R. O. Powellson, St. Joseph, Mo.
W. Y. Allen, Fort Scott, Kan.
Guy McPheeters, Dodge City, Kan.
Alvin Arie, Oak Park, Ill.
T. S. Foster, Rock Island, Ill.
H. C. Williams, Fairfield, Neb.
E. H. Hart, New Martinsville, W. Va.
E. W. Stairs, Arkadelphia, Ark.
E. D. Murch, Hillsboro, O.
John Archer, Pittsburgh, Pa.
H. A. Wharton, Ravenna, O.
J. D. Barnhart, Niagara Falls, N. Y.
D. G. Zimmerman, Nortonville, Kan.
J. O. Snodgrass, Humeston, Iowa.
W. H. Paul, Salt Lake City, Utah.
A. L. Hockett, Kansas City, Mo.
M. W. Rotchford, Peoria, Ill.
M. H. Garrard, Saginaw, Mich.
Jesse J. Farris, St. Joseph, Mo.
John Clark, Bethany, Neb.

R. W. Johnson, Modesto, Cal.
O. A. Hamilton, Utica, O.
Dr. T. S. Wasson, Ellensburg, Wash.
Frank P. Wright, Travers City, Mich.
Floyd A. Bash, Dorchester, Neb.
S. G. Clark, Belpre, Kan.
S. D. Hyler, Clayton, Ill.
A. L. Huff, Lovington, Ill.
W. P. French, St. Louis, Mo.
J. L. Cline, Mansfield, O.
O. W. Riley, Lowell, O.
C. L. Hays, Eldora, Iowa.
F. N. Daniels, Kansas City, Mo.

* * *

Dues Received from Local Brother-hoods in March

No.	Name.	No. Members.	Amt.
250.	R. O. Powellson, St. Joseph, Mo.	78	11.70
252.	J. D. Barnhart, Niagara Falls, N. Y.	25	3.75
253.	W. W. Pates, Washington, D. C.	1	.15
254.	T. M. Sunderland, Phillipsburg, Pa.	10	1.50
259.	J. I. Kirkham, Galesburg, Ill.	5	.75
259.	J. I. Kirkham, Galesburg, Ill.	8	1.40
262.	A. L. Hockett, Jackson Ave. Church, Kansas City, Mo.	23	3.45
264.	Clyde R. Heltman, La Belle View Church, Steuben ville, Ohio	26	3.90
266.	W. R. Strachan, Tacoma, Wash.	2	.30
266.	W. R. Strachan, Tacoma, Wash.	1	.40
273.	Harry Crowe, Wooster, O. .	4	1.20
283.	N. F. Golly, Eldora, Iowa. .	3	.45
285.	J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky.	22	4.65
285.	J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky.	4	1.20
288.	E. L. Aldrich, Keokuk, Ia. .	25	3.75
289.	E. L. Seiverson, Cupertino, Cal.	11	1.60
290.	H. Handspiker, Lubec, Me. .	24	3.60
291.	E. M. Polk, Elkhart, Ind. . .	62	9.40
292.	R. E. Davis, Kendallville, Ind.	64	9.60
296.	John S. Forbes, Cedar Rapids, Ia.	14	.70
297.	E. S. Norton, Bellevue, Pa. .	6	3.60

P. H. WELSHIMER

The Bible School Lessons for May

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—MAY 8.

“TEMPERANCE LESSON.”—PROV. 23:29-35.

American Revised.

29 Who hath woe? who hath sorrow? who hath contentions? Who hath complaining? who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes?

30 They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek out mixed wine. 31 Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it sparkleth in the cup, when it goeth down smoothly; 32 At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.

33 Thine eyes shall behold strange things, and thy heart shall utter perverse things. 34 Yea, thou shalt be as he that lieth down in the midst of the sea, or as he that lieth upon the top of a mast.

35 They have stricken me, shalt thou say, and I was not hurt; they have beaten me, and I felt it not; when shall I awake? I will seek it yet again.

Introduction. These words were spoken by Solomon about a thousand years B. C. The effects of intemperance were the same in Solomon's day as in ours.

Explanatory. 29—A question is asked; Jesus answers in verse 30. Alcohol produces woe, sorrow, raises contentions, gives cause for complaint, makes wounds and leaves redness of eyes. Poverty, pain, broken hearts, disgrace, bloodshed, racked bodies, loss of reason, wrecked homes, prison cells, mounds in the graveyard and lost souls are the fruits of the liquor traffic. 30—Mixed Wine. A chemical analysis of the liquor used by the people in America shows that they drink alcohol, arsenic, alum, aloes, bitter almond, blood chalk, cherry-laurel water, cocculus indicus, copperas, gypsum, henbane, isinglass, lime, lead, logwood, nux vomica, opium, oil of vitriol, oil of juniper, oil of turpentine, tobacco, sugar of lead and resin.—Matthews. 31—To look upon wine is to be tempted. Description of this verse is that of wine which tastes good and hence is easy to swallow. 32—As a serpent poisons the whole body and produces death, so does wine act upon the human system. The Scriptural adder is a horned snake, whose bite is deadly. 33—Wine deranges the mind, dethrones reason, the eyes are no longer true and the heart speaketh it knoweth not what. 34—With reason gone, men will hazard anything. They are insanely courageous. They do the foolish things. They will lie down in water, take a dangerous place at the top of the mast, lie down on the railway track or on the ground of a winter's night. Reason is gone. 35—When under the influence of drink, men feel not the hurt of pain.

Comments on the Lesson

One of the greatest evils on American soil today is the drink evil, and the greatest battle we are fighting is the battle of the bottle. The greatest home-wrecker and heart-breaker, body-bruise and soul-destroyer, is alcohol. If a man should come into our city and ask permission to sign a contract in which he would promise to pay to the city $1,000 per year for the privilege of kidnaping one-fifth of the boys of the city, every citizen would cry “no;” but men come into our cities and pay $1,000 a year for the privilege of pouring liquid damnation down the throats of our boys, and one out of every five of all the boys in America are victims of the licensed saloon, and there are multitudes who open not their mouth in protest. Which is worse—to have the boy kidnaped, with a chance of possibly saving his soul, or to have the boy's body, mind and soul all taken by drink? If diphtheria breaks out in a city and the father of a home takes down the quarantine sign and violates the law and gives diphtheria to his neighbor's children, he would be arrested and imprisoned, but if he opens a saloon, pays for the privilege and robs his neighbor's boy of health and mind and sends him to jail, to the penitentiary or the electric chair, no protest is made. A better day is dawning. There is no good in the whiskey business. People are coming to see it. The saloon must go. The teachings of the Bible, and of common sense, are against it. Business demands a clear brain and a sound body. The pulpit, the public school, business and the prayers and ballots of the Christian people will eventually drive the liquor business from off the face of the earth. The saloon business is the only business which refuses to advertise itself by its finished product.

Questions for Class Use

What are some of the dangers of drink? What are the greatest agencies today being used to put the saloon business out of commission? How can the church render better aid in this work? Is the saloon a good thing for a community, financially? Does the absence of a saloon increase or decrease the taxes in a community? Does it take away a man's personal liberty when you remove the saloon from his door? What's the danger of tippling? Which does the greater harm in a community—the moderate drinker or the habitual drunkard? What does the Bible teach concerning the drunkard's entrance into the kingdom of heaven?

LESSON 3—MAY 15.

"THE GROWING HATRED OF JESUS."—MATT. 12:22-32; 38-42.

22 Then was brought unto him one possessed with a demon, blind and dumb; and he healed him, insomuch that the dumb man spake and saw. 23 And all the multitudes were amazed, and said, Can this be the son of David? 24 But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This man doth not cast out demons, but by Beelzebub the prince of the demons. 25 And knowing their thoughts he said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: 26 and if Satan casteth out Satan, he is divided against himself; how then shall his kingdom stand? 27 And if I by Beelzebub cast out demons, by whom do your sons cast them out? therefore shall they be your judges. 28 But if I by the Spirit of God cast out demons, then is the kingdom of God come upon you. 29 Or how can one enter into the house of the strong man, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house. 30 He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth. 31 Therefore I say unto you, Every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven. 32 And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever shall speak against the Holy Spirit, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, nor in that which is to come.

38 Then certain of the scribes and Pharisees answered him, saying, Teacher, we would see a sign from thee.

39 But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it but the sign of Jonah the prophet.

40 For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the whale; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

41 The men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it; for they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, a greater than Jonah is here. 42 The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

Time—A. D. 28. Place—Capernaum.

Explanatory. Jesus was being attacked frequently by his enemies. Verses 1 to 13 they attack him on his way of keeping the Sabbath. Verses 14 to 21 the council made an attack upon him. 22-24—In today's lesson the Pharisees accuse Him of casting out demons by the power of Beelzebub, the prince of demons. The people believed Him to be the Messiah, the Son of David, but the "scribes which came down from Jerusalem," according to Mark, attributed His power to the devil. They believed that Beelzebub controlled that division of the evil spirits which inflicted diseases on men, and they said that Jesus was under the control of Beelzebub, and hence had control over the evil spirits and was using this power as a false teacher to win the people to His teaching by attempting to make them believe he was of God. They never disputed His miracle-working power. The source of the power only was in dispute. 25—Jesus here states a well known truth. A nation or a house cannot stand if it be divided against itself. 26—The works of Jesus were against Satan and his kingdom,

Therefore if He be in league with Satan, by working against him, his kingdom would have to fall. 27—The Pharisees claimed that some of their men had power to cast out evil spirits. Jesus says, "If I now cast out the evil spirit by the power of Beelzebub, whose power do your sons cast them out?" 28—If Jesus cast out demons by the Spirit of God, it then proves that He is the Messiah. 29—Satan is here a strong man, the body of a demoniac is his house and his goods the evil spirit in the man. Jesus entered the house and took away the goods, which is proof that instead of being in league with Satan, He had overthrown him. 30—There is no middle ground in the Christian life. We are either for Christ or against Him. This is a picture of a flock of sheep. Jesus was trying to gather them into the fold, and the Pharisees were trying to scatter them. 31-32—We have here the sin against the Holy Spirit. Jesus teaches that all sins which a man commits may be forgiven provided the man complies with the condition on which forgiveness is promised, except blasphemy against the Spirit, which shall never be forgiven. Blasphemy is any kind of injurious speech. Blasphemy against the Spirit, is to speak injuriously of the Spirit, as in this case they claimed the Spirit was the power of the devil and not of God. To speak against Christ, one can be forgiven if he afterward believes and repents and obeys, but to speak against the Holy Spirit shall never be forgiven. This is the teaching of Jesus. In brief, to sin against the Holy Spirit is man's ultimate refusal to be pardoned. There is no other way of receiving the knowledge that leads to obedience and to pardon, except as given us by the Holy Spirit. If we refuse to accept that, there is nothing else left for us. 38—Compare Matt. 16:1 and Luke 11:16-29. These people had just seen one miracle and they now called for another. Jesus never performed miracles to gratify the whims of people or to secure their applause. 39-40—Jesus calls this a wicked or adulterous and faithless generation. After all the miracles he performed, here they are seeking for a new sign. He now states that the greatest sign that shall be given, will be his resurrection from the grave, which will be final proof of his Sonship. Jonah was three days and nights in the belly of the whale; Jesus says so shall he be in the grave three days and three nights. In speaking of a day, the Jews counted a part of a day as a day. Jesus was buried Friday afternoon and arose before sunrise Sunday morning. He was in the tomb only an hour or two on Friday, all day Saturday and between eleven and twelve hours on Sunday. The Jewish day began with sunset. According to the Jewish way of counting, parts of two days and one whole day would be counted three days. 41—Nineveh, the great and wicked city, was on the Tigris river. To this day Jonah was sent to preach repentance that the people might be warned and escape punishment for their sins. The people listened to Jonah and repented and the city was saved. Here is one greater than Jonah and the people were giving no heed to His message. The condemnation will be that one believed under poor circumstances did better than another under more favorable circumstances. The queen of the South (1 Kings 10:1-11) came many miles to behold the wisdom of Solomon. Here is a people that had the opportunity of receiving instruction from a greater one than Solomon, yet they refused.

Comments on the Lesson

There are none so blind as those who will not see. We generally find what we look for. The Pharisees did not want to believe that Jesus was divine. They could not deny his miracles, hence they ascribed his power to Beelzebub and not to God. In his reasoning here, Jesus shows them conclusively that His work was not done by the power of Beelzebub, but by the power of God. We are either with Christ or against Him. We are either helping Him to build up, or opposed to Him, we are tearing down. Many today desire a sign. There are persons who do not believe the testimony which is submitted in the Word of God, but are demanding that miracles be performed before they will believe. The age of miracles is past. If men believe the testimony that is given, neither will they believe if one should perform a miracle. Conclusive proof of the Sonship of Jesus lies in His resurrection from the dead.

Questions for Class Use

I, Opposition. Why were the people opposed to Jesus? Who was Beelzebub? What is the force of the argument which Jesus gave in answer to their statement?

II, The Holy Spirit. What is the sin against the Holy Spirit? How can we know when we commit it? On what conditions are sins in men forgiven or what must a man do to have his sins forgiven?

III, A Request for a Sign. Why did the people want a sign? What signs had they had? Why didn't Jesus perform another miracle? Did Jesus believe the story of Jonah and the whale? What is the lesson to be drawn from the Ninevites and the queen of Sheba, in contrast to the people of Jesus' day? What is the practical lesson for us?

LESSON 4—MAY 22.

"THE DEATH OF JOHN THE BAPTIST."—MATT. 14:1-12.

1 At that time Herod the tetrach heard of the fame of Jesus; 2 and said unto his servants, This is John the Baptist; he is risen from the dead; and therefore mighty works do shew forth themselves in him.

3 For Herod had laid hold on John, and bound him, and put him in prison for Herodias' sake, his brother Philip's wife. 4 For John said unto him, It is not lawful for thee to have her. 5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, because they counted him as a prophet. 6 But when Herod's birthday was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced before them, and pleased Herod. 7 Whereupon he promised with an oath to give her whatever she would ask. 8 And she, being before instructed of her mother, said, Give me here John Baptist's head on a charger. 9 And the king was sorry; nevertheless, for the oath's sake, and because which sat with him at meat, he commanded it to be given her. 10 And he sent, and beheaded John in the prison. 11 And his head was brought in a charger and given to the damsel; and she brought it to her mother. 12 And his disciples came and took up the body and buried it, and went and told Jesus.

Time—March or April, A. D. 29. Place—Machærus, nine miles east of the Dead Sea.

Introduction. Today's lesson follows almost immediately the one of sending out the Twelve as recorded in the 10th of Matthew. John had been in prison a year.

Explanatory. 1-2—Herod Antipas was a tetrarch over Galilee and the region beyond the Jordan. Tetrach means ruler of a fourth. The kingdom of his father Herod the Great, was divided into four unequal parts, and Herod Antipas was ruler over this part. He heard of the many mighty works being done by Jesus and believed that the wonder-worker was John the Baptist and that he had risen from the dead. 3—Herod had left his lawful wife, the daughter of Aretas, the Arabian king, and was now living with Herodias. Herodias was the wife of her uncle Philip, the brother of Herod Antipas. While visiting his brother in Rome, he fell in love with Herodias and laid his plot to win her. Worldliness led her to accept Herod Antipas. Philip was poor, Herod was rich. She left a private station to live in the Golden House at Tiberias. 4—John was bold and fearlessly rebuked the ruler on his throne for unlawfully living with this woman. The Greek verb indicates that he repeatedly reproved him. This naturally angered Herodias. 5—Herod desired to put John to death, but he had two fears: religiously he feared John because he was a prophet, and politically he was fearful of the multitude. 6-7—On Herod's birthday a feast was made in his palace. Salome, the daughter of Herodias, danced before him. Herod, half intoxicated, promised her whatever she would ask (Mark 6:23), even to the half of his kingdom. What a reckless promise! Such is the result of strong drink. 8—Her mother sent her quickly to ask for the head of John the Baptist (Mark 6:24). 9-10—Herod had made an oath and he dared not break it. This oath had been made in the presence of friends and he was ashamed, in their presence, to refuse to grant that which he had promised. The command was given and John was beheaded in prison. 11—Presently into the banquet room came the servants bearing the head of John on a platter. 12—John's disciples took up the body and buried it and then went and told Jesus.

Comments on the Lesson

John was a courageous man. He rebuked sin in both low and high places. We stand off and look back through the centuries at courageous John and applaud him, call him hero and martyr, and yet all about us there is today need for just such work as John did. Do we lack courage? The only preaching that will have any effect upon sinful men is bold, positive preaching. The reckless promise of Herod was due to his intoxicated condition. Alcohol impairs the mental powers. Many a time a judge on the bench looks down into the faces of young men, who, when asked what they had to say, why sentence of the law should not be pronounced, hears them say, "I was drunk; such a crime would never have been committed had I been sober."

Questions for Class Use

I, Herod. Who was Herod? Who was Herodias? Over what territory did Herod reign?

II, John the Baptist. Who was John the Baptist? Who were his parents? Why was he cast into prison? Why was he beheaded? What compliment did Jesus pass upon John at one time? Would you consider John's life a success or a failure? Do we need preachers like John today? What would be the result following such preaching?

LESSON 5—MAY 29.

"THE MULTITUDES FED."—MATT. 14:13-21; 15:29-39.

13 Now when Jesus heard it, he withdrew from thence in a boat, to a desert place apart; and when the multitude heard hereof, they followed him on foot from the cities. 14 And he came forth, and saw a great multitude, and he had compassion on them, and healed their sick. 15 And when even was come, the disciples came to him, saying, The place is desert, and the time is already past; send the multitudes away, that they may go into the villages, and buy themselves food. 16 But Jesus said unto them, They have no need to go away; give ye them to eat. 17 And they say unto him, We have here but five loaves, and two fishes. 18 And he said, Bring them hither to me. 19 And he commanded the multitudes to sit down on the grass; and he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed, and brake and gave the loaves to the disciples, and the disciples to the multitudes. 20 And they all ate, and were filled; and they took up that which remained over of the broken pieces, twelve baskets full. 21 And they that did eat were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

29 And Jesus departed thence, and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee; and he went up into the mountain, and sat there. 30 And there came unto him great multitudes, having with them the lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and they cast them down at his feet; and he healed them; 31 insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb speaking, the maimed whole, and the lame walking, and the blind seeing; and they glorified the God of Israel.

32 And Jesus called unto him his disciples, and said, I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days and have nothing to eat; and I would not send them away fasting, lest haply they faint on the way. 33 And the disciples say unto him, Whence should we have so many loaves in a desert place as to fill so great a multitude? 34 And Jesus said unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven and a few small fishes. 35 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground; 36 and he took the seven loaves and the fishes; and he gave thanks and brake, and gave to the disciples, and the disciples to the multitudes. 37 And they all ate, and were filled; and they took up that which remained over of the broken pieces, seven baskets full. 38 And they that did eat were four thousand men, besides women and children. 39 And he sent away the multitudes, and entered into the boat, and came into the borders of Magadan.

Time—April, A. D. 29. Place—The northeast shore of the Lake of Galilee.

Introduction. This was a time of intense excitement. John had been beheaded. Jesus was deeply moved by the death of John. The people were excited. Jesus now sought the quiet of the desert for rest and prayer.

Explanatory. 13—The multitudes hearing of John's death and knowing of Jesus' departure, left the various cities and followed him on foot. 14—On leaving the boat, Jesus saw the great multitudes and had compassion upon them. The day was spent in healing the sick, and as we learn from the other writers, in teaching the people. This is the only miracle that is recorded by all four of the Gospel writers. 15-17—Evening time came on and the people were hungry. There was nothing to eat and no place to procure food. The disciples said, "Send them away." One said, "It will take 200 pennyworth of bread to feed them;" another said, "A lad has five loaves and two fishes, but what are these among so many?" John 6:7-9. 18—Jesus commanded them to bring the loaves and fishes to him. 19—Jesus multiplied the loaves and fishes. This was a miracle. The miracle was preceded by giving of thanks. From this and other similar occasions, we learn the lesson of giving thanks at the table. In this verse Jesus teaches system. People were divided into groups, and the groups were waited upon by the disciples. Jesus could have waited upon the audience, so could the disciples. He did what they could not do, he let them do what they could do. This is the plan today. 20-21—All were filled and twelve baskets full of fragments remained. The rest of the chapter will be studied in next Sunday's lesson. We now go to the second feeding of the multitude, recorded in Matt. 15:29-39. The lessons to be learned from the two occasions are the same. The circumstances are similar. 29-30—The multitude followed him, having lame, blind, dumb and many others who were ill. These were laid on the ground at His feet. He healed them. 31—When the sick were made well, the lame walked, the dumb spoke and the blind saw, the crowd wondered and glorified God. 32—This multitude had stayed with Jesus three days. They were out of food and before they left Him, he desired to feed them. They were not strong enough for the journey before them, without food. 33-34—Seven loaves and a few fishes were all they had. 35-37—Here again the food was multiplied. All did eat and were filled and seven baskets full of fragments remained. 38—In the first miracle there were 5,000 men, in this one 4,000 men, besides the women and children. It was customary in counting an audience to only count the men.

Comments on the Lesson

Jesus was sorrowful. He left the multitude and endeavored to go into the wilderness where he might commune with his Father. One of the ways to meet our sorrows and to be strong for our greatest battles is to engage in prayer. Some of the Twelve evidently did not feel the responsibility of feeding the multitude. They had not invited them, hence let them look out for themselves; another began to count the cost, while a third said five loaves and two fishes would not go very far with so many people. Jesus asked them to consecrate what they had, to him, and he multiplied it many thousand fold. As we look at the work done today, some feel no responsibility, others sit down to count the cost, while another says, "The little that I have will not amount to much." Jesus says, "Bring what you have to me." Our small part when given to him, will be greatly multiplied. The great need of the world today is a deeper, fuller consecration of ourselves and what we have, to Christ. It has been shown what God can do with one consecrated man—Morrison, Wm. Carey and thousands of others are proof of this. The church on the Congo demonstrates what God can do with a consecrated church. A dozen thoroughly consecrated men in a church will change the entire complexion of the whole plan of work of the church. A consecrated church will stir the whole community for righteousness. The boy gave up his loaves and fishes and by so doing the multitude was fed and he received more than the amount he gave. If we give, it shall be given back to us. The lake which receives and never gives becomes salted, and the one that receives and gives remains fresh.

Questions for Class Use

I, Jesus and the Multitude. In both lessons, why did Jesus retire to the wilderness? Although tired and weary, did he refuse to minister to the multitudes when they gathered about him?

II, Feeding the Multitudes. Why did Jesus consult with the disciples relative to feeding the people? What three answers were given by the disciples? Who was the man that found the five loaves and two fishes? What else do you know about this man? Where did this man always do his best work—with the multitudes or with the single individual? What would he be called today? What is the lesson which this event teaches relative to consecration? What is the lesson of gathering up the fragments?

LESSON 1—JUNE 5.

"JESUS WALKS ON THE SEA."—MATT. 14:22-36.

22 And straightway he constrained the disciples to enter into the boat, and to go before him unto the other side, till he should send the multitudes away. 23 And after he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into the mountain apart to pray; and when even was come, he was there alone. 24 But the boat was now in the midst of the sea, distressed by the waves; for the wind was contrary. 25 And in the fourth watch of the night he came unto them, walking upon the sea. 26 And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a ghost; and they cried out for fear. 27 But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid. 28 And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee upon the waters. 29 And he said, Come. And Peter went down from the boat, and walked upon the waters to come to Jesus. 30 But when he saw the wind, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried out, saying, Lord, save me. 31 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and took hold of him, and saith unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt? 32 And when they were gone up into the boat, the wind ceased. 33 And they that were in the boat worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God.

34 And when they had crossed over, they came to the land, unto Gennesaret. 35 And when the men of that place knew him, they sent into all that region round about, and brought unto him all that were sick; 36 and they besought him that they might only touch the border of his garment; and as many as touched were made whole.

Time—A. D. 29. Place—Lake of Galilee.

Introduction. Jesus had fed the five thousand and the disciples were now crossing the lake to Bethsaida (Mark 6:45), a suburb of Capernaum. Jesus had remained in the mountains for prayer. The disciples had rowed between three and four miles in their journey across the lake. John 6:19. Jesus came to them in the fourth watch of the night, which began at 3 a. m. It being the time of the Passover, the moon was nearly full (John 6:4) and Jesus could plainly be seen in the distance. Weakened by fear and hunger and eight or nine hours of incessant toil, what a blessing Jesus' coming was to the weary disciples.

Explanatory. 22—With the withdrawal of the disciples in a boat, Jesus sent the multitudes away. Having seen the miracles performed in multiplying the loaves and fishes, the multitude now desired to make Jesus king. Being filled with carnal motives, it was best to send them away. 23—It seems that Jesus' primary object in crossing the sea was to engage in prayer. Now alone he spends the night in praying to his Father. 24-26—Not knowing it was Jesus, the disciples thought a ghost was approaching. 27—Jesus allays that fear. He bids them be of good cheer and said, "It is I," the one who had previously said, "Peace, be still," and the storms obeyed. Knowing his wonderful power, to know that it was he, was all that was necessary to quiet their fears. 28—Peter was always first. It was his to speak and to do. His first impulse was to walk to meet the master. 29—While his faith was strong, he walked. 30—So long as he looked upon Jesus and trusted in him, he was safe, but when he saw the wind, he lost courage and began to sink. Realizing his need, he cried, "Lord, save me." 31—Jesus saved immediately; he stretched forth his hand and helped him; he also rebuked his doubting. 32-33—Beholding his power over the storm, again the disciples cried out, "Thou art the Son of God." 34-36—Arriving in the land of Gennesaret, word soon spread throughout the community that Jesus was there and they brought unto him all the sick. They asked to just touch his garments and as many as touched were made whole.

Comments on the Lesson

If Jesus, the spotless Son of God, needed to be alone in prayer with God, how much more do we need to commune frequently with our Heavenly Father. Jesus not only taught his disciples to pray, but he was himself a man of prayers. Contrary winds of the lake brought great blessings to the disciples. Again Jesus' power was made manifest and they were led to confess the Son of God. Contrary winds often bring blessings to us. Let us not only meditate upon the adversity that sometimes overtakes us, but may we look for the blessings that may result from it. Peter was strong so long as he kept his eyes upon the Master. We are strong so long as we see Jesus only. If we attempt to look about us and lose Christ from our sight, faith grows weaker. If we depend upon self, we sink beneath the waves. As Jesus was near to help Peter at the first call, so likewise he is near to us and listens to our cry. O faithless disciples! They had seen him rebuke the wind and the waves, feed the multitudes, heal the sick, cast out devils, open the eyes of the blind and raise the dead and still they often lost faith. But how much better are we? We have a record of what he did, and we know the record is true. This same record tells us he lives today and that he beholds our deeds and knows our thoughts and is very near and ready to help, and yet we become indifferent and grow weak in faith. His promise is, "Lo! I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." If the disciples of old had reasons to believe upon Jesus as the Son of God, greater reasons have we for such belief.

Questions for Class Use

I, Jesus and Prayer. Did Jesus need to pray? What has he taught us concerning prayer?

II, The Storm. On what lake did the storm arise? How long had the disciples been rowing before the coming of Jesus? What time did he appear to them? Did the disciples believe in ghosts?

III, Increase of Faith. What helped most to increase the faith of the disciples in the divinity of Jesus? Can you recall another occasion in which they said he was the Son of God? How is faith increased in Christ today?

How to Have a

Brotherhood Bible Class

Pages 20, 21 and 22 of the Model Constitution

MUHLBACH'S Historical Romances

At a Great Bargain

These Wonderful Historical Novels carry the reader into palace and hovel, camp and boudoir, and unveil the glance of coquetry that stayed the march of armies, or the vaulting ambition that changed the destiny of nations. You see and feel how love, hope, avarice, ambition, jealousy and intrigue entered into the lives of men and women and changed the course of empires. Napoleon divorcing the Empress Josephine, the only woman he ever loved, and marrying the daughter of the hated Austrians, that he might found a dynasty and bring to pass his dreams of universal empire, is only one of the many thousands of tragic events so full of passion and tears, of sacrifice and achievement. These romances form a theme such as never before employed an author's pen, and Muhlbach performed the task with a literary skill and loving fidelity that has never been surpassed. No fiction, no drama can compare with these wonderful novels, and you will find them not only fascinating and intensely interesting, but reliable and truthful as well. Mail the COUPON below for free examination in your own home.

Only 7c a Day Buys This Great Work

Eighteen Volumes. Half Morocco Binding. 9,000 Pages. Gilt Top. These are the titles below

- | | | |
|--|---|--|
| Vol. I. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia. | Vol. VII. The Daughter of an Empress. | Vol. XIII. The Merchant of Berlin. |
| Vol. II. The Empress Josephine. | Vol. VIII. Joseph II. and His Court. | Vol. XIV. Louisa of Prussia and Her Times. |
| Vol. III. Napoleon and Blucher. | Vol. IX. Frederick the Great and His Court. | Vol. XV. Old Fritz and the New Era. |
| Vol. IV. Queen Hortense. | Vol. X. Frederick the Great and His Family. | Vol. XVI. Andreas Hofer. |
| Vol. V. Marie Antoinette and Her Son. | Vol. XI. Berlin and Sans Souci. | Vol. XVII. Mohammed Ali and His House. |
| Vol. VI. Prince Eugene and His Times. | Vol. XII. Goethe and Schiller. | Vol. XVIII. Henry VIII. and His Court. |

MUHLBACH'S HISTORICAL ROMANCES cover the period of the great crisis in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blucher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. This new Riverside Edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Silk Cloth, gilt tops, titles stamped in gold.

HERE is our Bargain Offer. Send no money now. Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful Riverside Edition for 10 days' examination in your own home. You can then decide for yourself whether or not you wish the set. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you decide to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only fourteen months until our special price of $29.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $56.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $29.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middlemen's profits. We ship direct from the factory to consumer and guarantee satisfaction in every way. If cloth binding is preferred, change words "Half Morocco" in coupon to "Cloth" and fourteen months to nine months.

The Riverside Publishing Company, CHICAGO

Name.....
Address.....
Occupation.....

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers.

OLD HERE TEAR OUT SIGN AND MAIL

Please ship me for examination and approval one Riverside Edition, Muhlbach's Historical Romances, eighteen volumes, 18 1/2 x 11 1/2 inches, half Morocco binding, gilt top. If satisfied I will send you $1.00 after ten days' examination and $2.00 a month thereafter for fourteen months. If the set does not meet my entire approval after ten days' examination, I will notify you and hold subject your order and return at your expense, as due to CHRISTIAN MEN readers.

The Riverside Publishing Company
Marquette Building
CHICAGO, ILL.

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

A. LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

C. CHAPMAN - - - - -	Fullerton, Cal.	J. H. ALLEN - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.
GEORGE F. RAND - - - - -	Buffalo, N. Y.	BURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
H. STOCKTON - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.	ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

C. MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy
------------------------------	--------------------------------	---------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 3

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, JUNE, 1910

Number 6

“The Promise of Perry”

He hasn't made any promise that the writer knows of in particular. He is rather a man of performance. Deeds, not words, flow most readily from him. But his strong young life is full of great promise to the cause of Christ, and to the community in which he lives, and for this reason we put his picture on the front cover of the magazine this month and tell a little of the man himself. He doesn't know that his picture is on the cover, or even that we are saying anything about him; and that, too, is just as well, since never in this magazine do we tell the story of any man for his own sake. Each of them would “rather not,” but we presume to use them because their lives belong to God and to the Brotherhood, and we find them useful not only to adorn an interesting tale of accomplishment but to point an interesting moral to Christian manhood in general.

The man? Oh, yes, his name. His name is Jerry Wilson Perry. It was thirty years ago that he happened into Missouri up in Nodaway County, by the way of the cradle. He was a son of the farm, and hence a son of toil. As a school teacher and later as a student of law he developed ability, but forsook both to enter a country bank. Step by step he climbed the ladder, from the country to the town, from the town to the city. Eight years ago he entered the National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis, and through this great financial institution and the Hamilton Trust Company his genius manifested itself. He bought and sold banks; took over lame ones, reorganized and rejuvenated them, putting them upon a sound financial basis to go the way of success. Sometimes where there was no bank he organized one, set it going and sold it or retained an interest as his judgment dictated. Sometimes he lost money, but mostly he made it for himself and his associates, and always his word was his bond, and his dealings were characterized by honesty and fairness, such a fairness as later won him his present high position in the world of banking. While buying and selling country banks his devotion to the affairs of the great St. Louis bank was unstinted. He handled their loans with consummate skill and the soundest judgment. His future here was assured, but larger things were preparing.

In Kansas City the National Bank of Commerce was in trouble. A foolish and unexplainable run had closed temporarily the doors of one of the strongest banks in the West. In three or four days nineteen millions of dollars had been paid out. Matters were in a tangle. Conflicting interests struggled to gain the advantage in the reorganization that was inevitable. Among the committee of five men upon whom was imposed the task of straightening out the complications, one was this young banker from St. Louis. Quick, intent, chary of speech, seeing through things like a flash, sifting, weighing, discerning, he burrowed into the mass of problems until he had mastered them. Presently J. W. Perry was understood, and those who wrought with him understood—understood that this young man from St. Louis was not only sound in judgment, but absolutely firm in his decisions. It was a time when someone might have taken advantage. It was an occasion when injustice might have been done. But J. W. Perry was fair, absolutely fair, and when the task was done went back to St. Louis and to his own work. But the directors of the bank and the committee who had worked with him found in the farm-bred banker an asset that they felt they must have, so they called to the presidency of an institution with assets of more than thirty million dollars this vigorous, honest, energetic young man, who above all else was fair.

Yes, J. W. Perry is fair, fair to the men he works with and fair to the men who work under him; but more than this, he is fair to God and to the Church of Christ, and that is why we are telling his story in CHRISTIAN MEN. He is a devoted and faithful member of the Church of Christ. He has learned to put first things first. He is an example of one who has sought first the Kingdom of Heaven. In St. Louis, before he had a home for himself, he provided a most comfortable one for his father and mother.

It is not because he is President of the National Bank of Commerce, but because he is President of the National Benevolent Association that we are writing of him. In this he heads a great business enterprise. It has established and maintained in the twenty-three years of its existence homes for the aged, friendless and the young and has cared for over six thousand children and placed them in Christian homes. It likewise maintains hospitals and at this writing Mr. Perry heads a movement which will establish in Kansas City within the next twelve months a Christian Hospital to cost a quarter of a million dollars, one-half of which is already subscribed.

To handle these great charitable enterprises requires business genius of a high order. That is what the President brings to his task. It is no play affair with him. He works at it and he works hard. He attends meetings of the directorship of the National Benevolent Association in St. Louis as punctiliously as those of the National Bank of Commerce in Kansas City. He bears this great work upon his heart. In a public address recently he said he would rather make a success of the Lord's business than his own—and those who heard these words fall out where the man's heart in an unguarded moment cracked open, knew he meant it—and it meant something to mean it because his whole business future is bound up in the success of the National Bank of Commerce.

He can make a good, plain, practical, powerful speech, too—one that moves the people. Once in a while provisions at the orphanage run short. Then Mr. Perry takes the train for some prosperous Missouri town. Once there he orders an empty freight car placed on the siding, and then climbing into the pulpit of the Christian Church he tells the story of the hungry boys and girls as only he can tell it. The generous hearted Missourians do the rest—they fill that freight car to the roof with hams and jams and every other good thing in which the great State so abounds, and the famine is flanked.

When the Bible School of the Independence Boulevard Christian Church of Kansas City found itself without a Superintendent, Mr. Perry took the job. In a telephone conversation with Brother George H. Combs, Pastor of the Church, a newspaper reporter asked: "Will Mr. Perry resign his position as President of the National Bank of Commerce to be Superintendent of the Independence Boulevard Christian Sunday-School?" Dr. Combs laughed and replied: "No, sir, Mr. Perry can still be President of the National Bank of Commerce and be Superintendent of our Sunday-School." Mr. Perry, like most good men, had a Christian mother, who early in life taught him the difference between right and wrong, and in Mr. Perry's own words, "That often spells the difference between success and failure."

Mrs. Perry is a most charming woman, to whom as much as to any one person he is indebted for his success in life. With two daughters, they occupy a modest home in Kansas City and enter into the full fellowship of Christian service in the community in which they live.

In business the man is glum and brusque. He does not smile, but gimlets you with a pair of bold eyes. There is ice water in his veins. There is frost on his nerve—and a polar chill in his manner. In fact, as a bank president, I do not like Perry extra much. I have been wanting an advertisement from him for months, but have been afraid to go and ask for it lest he turn that chilling gaze upon me and frappe the marrow in my bones. I would rather strike him for thirty cents on the curb than for three hundred dollars in the office. Inside, he's a crusted baron of finance. Outside, he's a warm-hearted apostle of the Helping Hand. At the sight of suffering, at the thought of helplessness and need, his heart is touched. In the cause of the aged, in behalf of the man who is down and out, or for the sake of the friendless child, this taciturn man suddenly finds the tongue of an Apollo. He has kept close to the heart of things and is more moved by the pulsing heart of human distress than by the ceaseless chatter of the stock-ticker.

J. W. Perry may be rich some day and give large sums to charity, but that does not afford excuse for musing these white pages. It is the promise of his life we are writing of—the promise a young man devoting his best business brains and genius to the direction of one of our great benevolent enterprise. It is a promise that in practical charity our reproach shall be removed and we shall speedily come to leadership.

Besides, there is another promise in his life. The man is yet young—the ruddy hue of youth upon his cheeks still laughs at the timid line of gray threading his black hair, and he is a type of hundreds and thousands of young business men among us, who, no matter how they prosper, are still going to regard the affairs of the Kingdom of God as paramount—and who are going to save place in their lives for personal service in the institutions of the Church.

More Volunteers

Huel Warren, Volunteer
Trenton, Mo.

W. A. Shullenberger, Minister
Trenton, Mo.

Charles McClintic, Volunteer
Trenton, Mo.

Brotherhood Conventions Ahead

Ohio, at Toledo, Friday, June 3d

Missouri, at Jefferson City, June 22d

Iowa, at Boone, Thursday, June 30th

Indiana, at Bethany Park, Friday, August 5th

Illinois, at Springfield, Thursday, September 13th

Plan to attend the one in your state

The Iowa Legion

1,000 Men at the Iowa Brotherhood Convention, Boone, Thursday,
June 30, 1910

The above appears at the top of an attractive letter head bearing the names of the Iowa State Committee, C. N. Kinney, Chairman; H. I. Prusia, Vice-Chairman; S. M. Perkins, J. J. Grove, O. M. Pennock, Secretary. A column article in The Christian Union, signed by the President and Secretary of the State Brotherhood Committee, contains the following terse statement:

"The convention at Boone, June 27-30, is to be distinctly a men's convention. It is planned to take 1,000 men there. Last year at Davenport there was a men's session and banquet. A committee was appointed to plan and work for Brotherhood extension in Iowa. This committee got busy some months ago to arrange a program and banquet at Boone this year that would be a record-breaker. The whole afternoon and evening of June 30th will be devoted to the Brotherhood, with a banquet at the supper hour. Arthur Holmes will be present and deliver his Centennial Convention address. You will want to be present and hear him. Two representatives of the Brotherhood General Office will be on hand to help boost the day,"

At a great booster meeting held in Des Moines, April 19th, about 100 men from various parts of Iowa gathered around the banquet table at the Central Christian Church and listened to addresses by General Secretary P. C. Macfarlane, George L. Dobson, County Treasurer; John Blakeley, Auditor of Iowa, and other laymen. Men came from the four corners of the State, traveling as far as 250 miles, spending much time and money to be present. Resolutions were adopted:

First, That an effort be made to secure the attendance of one thousand men at the Boone convention.

Second, That seventy men from Des Moines visit all the churches in the Central District to arouse enthusiasm and to secure the attendance of men at the convention. This committee met the next day, and, at this writing, have their work well in hand. Many men have already pledged themselves to look after whole counties. AMES HAS PROMISED TO TAKE THEIR WHOLE BROTHERHOOD TO BOONE. This is going to be the greatest gathering of men Iowa has ever seen.

The General Brotherhood is indebted to Brother W. T. Fisher, State Superintendent of Bible Schools, for his inspiring efforts, with voice and pen, to assist not only this Brotherhood gathering, but the General Brotherhood Cause as well. He is a "Fisher" of men.

REMEMBER THE DATE—TUESDAY, JUNE 30TH. THE PLACE—BOONE, IOWA. PLAN TO BE THERE WITH A DELEGATION OF MEN FROM YOUR CHURCH.

Avoiding the Summer Slump

By P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor

In most Bible Schools the attendance in the summer is much less than in other seasons of the year. The problem with many Bible School people today is, "How to avoid the summer slump?" The vacation days of a great majority of the church-going people do not extend over more than one or two Sundays; hence the absence of the people from home, in most cases, should not cause a great falling off in attendance. "It is too hot" is the argument often offered by many. But after all it becomes more of an excuse than a reason for non-attendance.

We give the following suggestions with the hope that they may be helpful in solving the problem of the summer slump: First, plan and expect to keep the attendance at a high-water mark. People will seldom do more than you expect. If you talk about a low attendance and begin in the spring time to get ready for the summer's low mark, you will be sure to have it. The summer season is, in many respects, the best time for a great school. Those who have a distance to come can come more easily then than in the winter season. Clothing and living are cheaper, and the poorer families can be better prepared for attendance in the house of worship.

Second, Set a Standard. Every individual and every school is just about as lazy as circumstances will permit. The things we do best we do under pressure. It is better to aim high and fail than not to aim at all. A large banner placed in the school, announcing the attendance which the school is endeavoring to maintain for the summer, will be an inspiration to all the pupils and will give them something toward which to work.

Third, Contest. In many schools a contest plan has been tried with excellent results. It is provoking one another to good works, and hence it is Scriptural. It helps one to form the Sunday-School habit, develops latent talent and helps to arouse Sunday-School interest in the community. When a stirring contest is on, the people will not let weather conditions keep them at home; they will not go visiting over much and will bring their visitors with them to the school. A contest between two schools is always more preferable than a contest within a school. At the present, the cities of Akron and Canton are contesting. The thirty schools of Canton are all lined up against the Akron Sunday-School Association. It creates a city-wide interest and brings the Sunday-School work prominently before the people.

Fourth, Make the School Interesting. Every effort should be put forth to make the school as interesting as possible. Attention should be given to the music. Remember, in hot weather people will not be content to remain for a long service. Begin on time, let there be no dull moments, and quit on time. Add some special attraction to every service. In addition to the lesson study, special music, readings by the children and announcements to the school of what the schools are doing and how they are doing it, or a short inspirational address upon Sunday-School work by someone who has something to say and knows how to say it, will help much to increase the interest.

Fifth, Advertise. Place in the hands of your workers invitation cards to be distributed among the people with hope ey come in contact. Use your city pers. If there is to be anything special the school, let all the people know out it.

Sixth, Social Features. The summer ne offers an excellent season for class cnics and socials. To each of these ways invite prospective pupils. Look refully after the sociability of the pils at the sessions of the school on ord's Day. Place around your vestiles and through the building reception mmittees of men who know how to ake hands and give a kindly greeting to eryone who enters.

Seventh, Stop the Leakage. Look refully after the absentees. The abntees of one Sunday should be written , phoned to or called upon before the xt Sunday. It is easy to form the habit staying at home. When absent a few ndays and the habit formed, it is diffilt to secure a regular attendance again that pupil. It pays to keep in touch with every pupil. All are human beings and humanity likes to be noticed. In the Sunday-Schools where the attendance is largest and most regular, the teachers and class committees get up on Sunday morning and go around waking up the people to get them out to the school. Sunday afternoons are spent in calling upon the absent ones. Evenings of the week are for the most part given over to this work.

Yes, it takes time and patience. To be sure, people ought to be interested enough to come without it, but they are not. It isn't always the most pleasant task, but it pays. If you desire to have a good school and a large school during the summer or any other season of the year, remember it will not come for the mere asking, but like everything else that it worth while it takes time and work.
After all, the question is not so much "Can I have it?" as it is "Am I willing to pay the price?"

Itinerary of the Arthur Holmes Tour

June 2, Buffalo, N. Y.
June 3, Ohio State Convention, Toledo, Ohio
June 5, Nelsonville, Ohio
June 5, Athens, Ohio (?)
June 6, Danville, Ill.
June 7, Galesburg, Ill.
June 8, Elkhart, Ind.
June 9, South Bend, Ind.
June 10, Peoria, Ill.

June 12, Bloomington and Springfield, Ill. (?)
June 13, Lovington, Ill.
June 14, Paris, Ill.
June 15, Fulton, Mo.
June 16, St. Louis, Mo.
June 17, Springfield, Mo.
June 19, Kansas City, Mo.
June 20, Lincoln, Neb.
June 30, Iowa State Convention, Boone, Iowa

Places marked with interrogation point are not yet absolutely closed. There may be ce or two open dates and we shall be glad to hear from Brotherhoods or Churches wishing avail themselves of this opportunity to hear the peerless exponent of "A Man's Work in a Man's Way." If you want one of the open dates, use the wire.

If you are within one hundred miles of any of the above it will repay the journey to ce a delegation of your men.

The Boyville Movement

BY CHAS. B. HAHN.

Charles B. Hahn

Director of the Boyville Movement, Associate Director of Boy City Camp at Charlevoix, Mich. Known as "King of Boyville" from his work at Anderson, Indiana, and known to hundreds of Boys as "Uncle Heinie"

The boys of today will be the men of tomorrow. No one doubts this statement, yet many parents are living as if it were not true. Boys are not men—they are yet unnamed. Some folks call them chumps—cases—and many, smart alics. The boy has within him powers that can do wonders if directed in the right manner. He is the problem of the age. New conditions in our civilization make new solutions to this problem necessary. Our modern conveniences give the boy much more spare time. The telephone, grocery delivery wagons, furnaces in the basements, all these take away from the boy much of the work he used to do.

Our problem with him today is what to do with him after he is fed and sent to school. The boy is alive with energy, a normal boy, and this must be used in the right way or he will find the easiest way to use it up. The easiest way is not always the best way. His eyes and ears are always alert for new circumstances, whether pure or impure, false or true. See how fast he runs when he hears the fire alarm or sees a crowd gather on the corner. His heart is good if one digs deep enough, and he is as brave as any Indian chief. He is a true friend to his friend and gang and a most devoted slave to those he loves. He wants love and sympathy, but does not want it shown in a sickly fashion, but in a manly way.

When a boy is pleased he sometimes shows it in a burst of applause or hilarious yelling or jumping. He wants to be in all sports where he can work off his surplus energy and wants to be a laughing, happy and joyous boy. Books and studies must be cast aside once in a while for he knows by instinct that he must exercise his muscles and lungs if he would be a real, strong, healthy man some day. Sometimes it takes only a little rubbing to make a dull boy shine.

Winning the boys is a great game. Few remember the rules of the game played during boyhood, after the door of manhood has been opened to them. Too soon they forget that country where they once lived so happily. Like a mighty river they forget the beautiful little glens and valleys through which they have passed to join the great stream of life.

all the beauties of boyhood, the shady oaks along the streams where were found the swimming holes, all the boy-hood hoodoos and charms connectd with them have faded on memory's canvas.
 Boyville, as the word is used in this article, is an organization of boys who govern themselves, having the same officers as a city. A common council makes the laws. A guard system enforces those laws. A bank with real money, real checks, real bank books, is run by boy officers. Political parties are organized, conventions and elections held. Sports and entertainments are also a part of the club. It puts the boy in the biggest game ever played. It is a real game which any live American boy wants to get into and one that puts a boy on his metal.

Here he is measured by what he is himself and not by what position his father holds. The only test of citizenship is,
 "play every game square." It's a place where the clean, honest and square boy is popular.

Our two political parties here in Hammond were Water and Land. The Water Party's first plank was "Water sports are the best kind of sports." The Land Party's main plank was "Land sports excel water sports in number and in pleasure derived from them." The political side of Boyville is a school where clean civics is taught.

Following are two tags worn by boys on the two sides, showing what the boys stood for and that they were not afraid to root for the right:

O

LAND PARTY

STANDS FOR

A Clean City
 A Square Deal City
 A City Without Graft
 Clean Boys
 as Officers

BOOSTERS WHO BOOST!
MY LAND!
GET IN LINE

O

THE WATER PARTY

BELIEVES IN

A Square Play For Everyone

CLEAN SPEECH, CLEAN HANDS,
 CLEAN THOUGHTS,
 CLEAN DEEDS.

Every Boy Having a Voice In The MAKING OF LAWS
 LINE UP NOW.

The Successful Candidate for Mayor of Boyville

The ideal of a square life is held up before them at all times.

I believe in a boy standing up for what he thinks is right even if he must fight for it. I do not think a boy should put a chip on another boy's shoulder and dare him to knock it off. I tell the boys that that sort of play is unfair, but I do think that the boys have a right to fight when a boy keeps after them to do something they know is wrong. I tell the boys that if a fellow persists in tempting them to smoke, to turn to that boy and say: "Now I've had enough of this, if you don't stop something will happen," and then let something happen. I tell them to be like the boy I knew in Salt Lake City, who said, "I'm a fightin' Christian."

The Boyville council have passed laws making it a misdemeanor to violate the following:

To write any profane or vulgar words upon any building, wall or fence. To smoke cigarettes or use tobacco in any form—to play pool or loaf in a pool room—to profane the name of the deity and to throw snow balls at passersby.

There are ten wards in Hammo Boyville with about five hundred citizens. Each ward holds its meetings in the school from seven to nine every other week. Each ward has its own set of officers and two councilmen to represent it at the general council of Boyville.

There is a board of athletics with one member in each ward, which arranges all league games between the wards.

The guard system, which is the same as the police department of any city, consists of a chief guard and one guard in each ward. There is also a secret service department which is composed of boys selected by the mayor, whom the director himself does not know.

All pikers are soon discovered and a sneak is not comfortable among so many square fellows. Boyville gets all the boys of the city interested in one game. Instead of having many small gangs, each playing a different game, it is one big gang playing a square game, making clean, wholesome fun popular, and cheating, lying and cigarette smoking unpopular. As the mayor said: "I want this to be a great little big city, and I want all you fellows to help me make it so. We want it to be a model city and an example for others to follow. We must work for a clean city and a good city. I hope that all of you kids will never be sorry that you elected me."

One of the teachers in the public school said, while talking about Boyville: "I have noticed that the boys control themselves in their play on the school ground better than before. We would not think of letting them play basketball alone before Boyville started, but now they never quarrel and they get along fine."

Hammond Boyville Citizens Casting their Votes for Charles B. Hahn

Boyville will raise the standard of morality among the boys of any community.

Hammond, Ind.

Constitution of Hammond Boyville

Preamble

We, the citizens of Hammond, who are not old enough to vote in the city, state and national elections, feel that are a very important part of the country. We believe we have rights and so establish what we call Boyville and all boys signing this constitution shall be citizens thereof. We believe in playing all games square and with this thought in view do make and establish this constitution.

ARTICLE I.—Name.

The name of this system of boys' clubs shall be Boyville.

ARTICLE II.—Objects.

The objects of this organization shall be to further good citizenship, clean athletics, manly sports, the development of good fellowship, to develop mind and morals.

ARTICLE III.—Colors and Flag.

Section 1. The colors of Boyville shall be red, white and blue.

Sec. 2. The flag will be made as herein provided: Three stripes, two red and one white with the words "Hammond Boyville," printed in blue across the flag.

ARTICLE IV.—Membership.

Section 1. Any boy who is in the fourth grade at school or who is between the ages of ten and nineteen may become a citizen upon signing this constitution.

Sec. 2. Each boy, before being admitted to full citizenship, will be required to sign the following pledge:

"I will play every game square, whether sport or living, and in the night time be as square as in the sunlight. I will pledge my support to Boyville and will do my best to obey the laws made by the common council."

ARTICLE V.—Officers.

Section 1. There shall be a mayor, city clerk, city treasurer and three members of the Board of Public Works and others necessary to carry on the work of Boyville.

Sec. 2. All elective officers shall be chosen by ballot and the persons receiving the highest number of votes being declared elected.

Sec. 3. The term of office shall be for the period of one year, the term closing the last Saturday in September.

ARTICLE VI.—Duties of Officers.

Section 1. The duties of the mayor shall be to enforce or see to it that the ordinances of the city are enforced. He shall have the right to veto any ordinance passed by the council. He shall appoint the chairman of all boards which are necessary to conduct the city business. All appointments made by the mayor must be approved by the council.

Sec. 2. The duties of the city clerk shall be to keep a record of the proceedings of the council and town meetings. He shall keep a record of all the citizens of Boyville.

Sec. 3. The duties of the city treasurer shall be to collect all dues and tax levied upon the citizens of Boyville and to keep a record of same and shall present a written report at each town meeting. He can not pay out any money from the treasury without an order from the council.

Sec. 4. Board of Public Works. (See Boards.)

ARTICLE VII.—Council.

Section 1. There shall be elected two citizens from each ward of Boyville who shall sit in a common council to make the laws of Boyville.

Sec. 2. The council shall have the power to impeach any officer who does not do his duty. It shall also have the power to pass a bill or ordinance over the veto of the mayor by a two-thirds vote. It shall have the power to fill all vacancies of the offices of Boyville. It shall have the right to choose its own presiding officer. This officer may be the mayor.

ARTICLE VIII.—Wards.

Section 1. All schools shall constitute wards of Boyville and any twenty-five outside boys in one ward may apply to the council for admission to Boyville.

Sec. 2. Any ward having a membership of twenty-five shall be entitled to one representative and a ward having a membership of forty shall have two representatives. All schools shall have two representatives.

Sec. 3. The ward officers shall be a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and one member of the board of athletics.

Sec. 4. All ward officers shall hold their office for six months, beginning at the time of admission into Boyville.

ARTICLE IX.—Boards.

Section 1. There shall be a Board of Public Works, a Board of Athletics, a Board of Health, and other boards that may be necessary to carry on the Boyville business.

Sec. 2. The Board of Public Works shall have charge of all buildings and grounds used by Boyville. It shall see that such places are kept clean and in good condition. This board shall be chosen by citizens at the general election.

Sec. 3. The Board of Health shall report any boy who is not clean physically or morally and this board shall choose three physicians who will examine the boys of Boyville for sports and health, free of charge. The chairman of this board shall be appointed by the mayor. There shall be three members.

Sec. 4. The Board of Athletics shall be composed of one boy from each ward and shall organize teams for outside games and for league games within the organization and shall arrange place and time of such games. It shall have charge of all paraphernalia in the gymnasium. The captain and manager of the team shall be admitted as members of this board. Each member of this board shall be selected by the members of the ward from which he comes.

ARTICLE X.—Taxes.

Section 1. Each member of Boyville will be taxed the sum of ten cents per month to carry on necessary work.

Sec. 2. Three cents of this amount shall go to the general treasury of Boyville and seven cents will remain in the treasury of the ward.

ARTICLE XI.—Rules of Election.

Section 1. Every citizen must register to vote in the general election of Boyville.

Sec. 2. A citizen must have been a member of Boyville for at least two weeks in order to vote. He must belong to some ward of Boyville.

Sec. 3. All taxes must be paid in order to vote.

ARTICLE XII.—Meetings.

Section 1. There will be one town meeting once a month, on the first Monday evening, at 7:30.

Land Party Convention—Boyville

A Section of Election Day Parade—Boyville

Sec. 2. Ward meetings will be held every two weeks at 4 p. m. in the school ward.

Sec. 3. Other ward meetings will be held at place and time selected by that ward.

Sec. 4. Special meetings may be called by the mayor and council.

ARTICLE XIII.—Order and Guards.

Section 1. All citizens will constitute a committee to keep order in meetings and each citizen will be expected to see that all rules and laws are enforced at all times and places.

Sec. 2. A chief guard shall be appointed by the mayor, who will appoint one assistant in each school to see that all laws are enforced.

ARTICLE XIV.—Amendments.

An amendment to this constitution may be passed by a two-thirds vote of the citizens of Boyville.

Sunflower State's Bible School Superintendent

Myron C. Settle

Myron C. Settle, the State Superintendent of Bible Schools in Kansas, is endowed by natural qualities and inclination of heart for the service he is expected to render. He is a practical and theoretical worker in the great school of the church. He was educated at Butler College, spent one summer at Chicago University and one year at a school for Bible School workers at Hartford, Conn.

He has been State Superintendent of the Bible School work in Kansas since April, 1908. He came direct from a business career with the Belknap Hardware Company, Louisville, Ky. He quickly adjusted himself to the new life and conditions he found awaiting him in the Sunflower State.

The schools of Kansas have advanced along all lines during his term of service. More than 10,000 people have enrolled in teacher training classes. About 261 adult Bible classes have been organized and twenty-one schools have reached the "front rank" standard at the date of this writing. The motto, "We can do it, if we will," is rapidly being changed to "We can do it, and we will."

Superintendent Settle has a genial personality, energetic movement and a persistency in entreaty. He speaks with a clear voice and has the business-like bearing. Mrs. Myron C. Settle was chosen this year as the Elementary Bible School Superintendent of Kansas. Husband and wife think along the same lines and have similar qualifications. They are already inseparably connected with the word progress in Kansas, a word spread out all over that huge rectangle of smiling sunshine. "The golden age lies onward, Not behind, the pathway through the past has led us up; The pathway through the future will lead on, and higher."

GEO. E. LYON.

President Taft Writes R. A. Doan

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

April 16, 1910.

My dear Sir:

I congratulate you on the success that you have had in organizing and maintaining a Sunday School class. The weekly opportunity for the discussion of moral and religious subjects in such a presence can not but be of the highest benefit to the community and to the members of the class.

Sincerely yours,

R. A. Doan, Esq.,
Nelsonville, Ohio

Texas Made Good

By E. E. Elliott

More than 600 Men at State Brotherhood Convention, Dallas, May 10th

From north, south, east and west, the Rangers flocked into Dallas, Tuesday, May 10th. The occasion was the Second Annual Brotherhood Convention. It began at noon and lasted until midnight. Your Assistant Secretary presided at the round table conference in the afternoon. The banquet at five o'clock was held in a skating rink at the City Park, the only available place large enough. Between five and six hundred men sat down together. There were a dozen long Texans with short speeches on the program. The Netz Sisters Quartette and the Texas Christian University Male Quartette and Todd Bros.' Quartette furnished music. At the evening session the Central Church was crowded with 800 men from all parts of the Lone Star State, some having traveled more than five hundred miles to be present. J. K. Shellenberger traveled a thousand miles to deliver his masterful Brotherhood address. He won his way into the hearts of the Texans to such an extent that he stayed over and addressed the convention the next day. Such enthusiasm we had not seen since the Luna Park Convention in Pittsburgh, and we want to say that Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Missouri will have to give some to out-distance Texas in either numbers or enthusiasm. The speeches were of a high order and we look for great results from the Local Brotherhoods of the Lone Star State. The State Brotherhood Chairman, J. O. Shelburne, of Dallas, displayed untiring energy in his work for the Brotherhood session. He advertised the fair and then delivered the goods. Shelburne is all right; a splendid executive, bubbling over with enthusiasm, a good presiding officer with a glad hand and a warm heart. We thought we knew every class of masculinity in the Brotherhood, but we didn't know Texas until this visit to Dallas. They are thorough, consecrated, God-fearing, Christian men, who line up definitely behind each of our varied activities with a keen display of enthusiasm and common sense. We take off our hat to the Brotherhood of the Lone Star State and give them "Three Cheers and a Tiger."

Can We Take New York?

Something for Christian Men to Think About

By W. BAYARD CRAIG,

Pastor Lenox Avenue Church, New York City

The Laymen's Missionary Movement that is keeping this country started in New York. I attended the great banquet at the Hotel Astor, so other meetings, and I heard eloquent speeches on Christian Union, as essential to missionary efficacy, but from beginning to end, mention of the "Disciples of Christ" was hard. There were placards and statistics on the wall, but our name was not there. We are not known in New York. We have no place in the national and international religious councils. The Metropolitan press does not know us. Until we have commanding representation in New York we cannot be known and generally recognized throughout the United States and the world. That may seem to be an extravagant statement, but it will not be denied by those who have studied the situation. New York is the commercial center, the religious center and the news center of the nation.

We have reached a point in our growth when the satisfactory progress of our cause demands a church that will represent us creditably in New York, a church that will be a pride and satisfaction to our people throughout the world. It is regarded as good business to spend millions every year to advertise a good razor or a medicine. I appeal to CHRISTIAN MEN: Does not good Christian business demand that our people put forth an effort sufficient to make the Christian Church and its work conspicuous in New York?

We have a good church at 56th street, with a most genial and winsome pastor in Brother W. L. Fisher, and at the Lenox Avenue Church, 74 W. 126th street, we are happy and harmonious, but neither of these can hope to attain a commanding position in New York by the ordinary process of growth.

An adequate lamp post for the light in this city calls for a good location and that cannot be had for less than $200,000. A building worth while would cost $250,000 more. It would require a membership of 1,000 to maintain such a plant, with an adequate preacher and assistants.

IS IT PRACTICABLE? Is there any use talking or thinking about it? It seems to be entirely practicable, and the effort would not detract or diminish the offerings to Missions, Education or benevolence. The spirit of giving grows by exercise. Ask Brothers Long or Chapman if that is not true.

If a church or an individual or a combination of both would gather a fund of $100,000 and come to New York with some such proposition as this: Here is $100,000, get the two churches and the detached Disciples in Manhattan together, you have already $200,000 in available resources. Add this to our $100,000, that will make $300,000. Now create a board of trustees of men our brotherhood would know and trust. With such a start they can raise more money in New York, more can be raised in the West. The whole brotherhood would become aroused and interested as soon as an enterprise of this magnitude and desirability took on the air of success.

The Manhattan Disciples would, I am confident, respond to an appeal like that. All would join in an effort to secure such a metropolitan church.

We have already a thousand Disciples in sight

Lenox Avenue Church, New York City

for such a central church and perhaps as many more waiting for some such inspiring call as this.

Remember, in conclusion, men, that Long Island contains more people than all California; that as many more New Yorkers sleep over in New Jersey; that the combined population of Greater New York, including the Jerseyites, is larger than the population of any State in the Union save Pennsylvania and Illinois; that the population of New York, without the Jersey shore, is twice that of Kentucky and growing faster than ever.

There is no longer room to doubt that New York will, in a few years, be the largest city of the world.

Let us have a strong, representative, commanding church in New York and from that influential position sweep the continent with our plan.

New York City For Christ

By JOSEPH KEEVIL, City Missionary

In the conquest of the cross, during the First century, the great cities, the strategic points in the world's life, were taken. These centers of influence and power became the centers from which went the influence of the gospel, until the whole Roman empire was won for Christ. We need to recognize this fact in our program of missions today. If our nation is saved, the Church permanently established and Christ's sovereignty recognized, it will be accomplished by the Church winning the cities for Christ. If we ultimately triumph and demonstrate our right to exist, it will be because we have proven the simple gospel of Christ in its purity and power can win against every form of organized evil. New York City, with its four and a quarter millions of souls, is a challenge to the faith and heroism of the Disciples of Christ. To admit we cannot win in this city is to admit Christ's work a failure and his gospel powerless; or that we have not accepted the truth as it is revealed. This we cannot believe; but rather, with growing faith in the plea, in the power of truth and in the power of God, we are ready to affirm, we are abundantly able to win, when we are willing to be used to that end by the Master.

We have enjoyed one year of a real united effort in City Mission work. The work has been largely one of experience. We were compelled to discover the places and methods for the most effective service, and enter upon such work as could be done with the resources at our command. During the year three mission churches were established,—Ridgewood Heights, Edgewater, N. J., and the Russian Congregation on the East Side. This gives us five missions under the direction of the Disciples Missionary Union; as many missions as self-supporting churches. This, truly, indicates real life and activity in the cause of the Master.

The Flatbush Church, our oldest mission, under the efficient leadership of W. S.

Rounds, is making splendid progress. They have a church membership of 105, a Bible School of 101, members added during the past year 14, and raised a total of $2,145.00.

Ridgewood Heights Mission started in January, 1909. We have now a church of eleven members, Bible School of over 100. Robert Wittchen, the energetic young minister, is making his work count in this rapidly growing section of the Borough of Queens.

The Edgewater Mission was started in October, 1909. A church has been organized with fourteen members, a Bible School with sixty members, a chapel erected costing about $800. This work, under the consecrated leadership of M. M. Smyser, will make splendid growth. Their first offering for Foreign Missions, was given the first Sunday in March and they have established the standard of an average of over $1.25 per member.

The Russian Christian Congregation, in the heart of the East Side, is now established, with fourteen immersed believers standing upon the simple New Testament platform. They are pushing with zeal the work of giving the gospel to their people. 245,525 people of Russian parentage in New York City offer an inviting field of labor for these brethren. The present large immigration from Russia brings large responsibilities. These thousands are coming to our shores and it is our duty to give them the gospel of Christ. To this task the brethren have come; and with the help of the Mission Boards, they are determined to accomplish this work. There are successful classes, teaching them English, conducted by P. F. Jerome, meeting four nights each week, that is proving of great help to them.

The distinct City Mission work at Humboldt Street Church, Brooklyn, is supported by the Disciples Missionary Union and the American Christian Missionary Society. Here we carry on a work among the girls, in the form of a sewing class, with 80 members, an Athletic League for the boys, and a Hebrew Mission for the Jews. This work is growing and proving a blessing to the Church and community. Plans are prepared for a Mission Hall, to cost about $14,000. When this is erected, with the larger equipment, a splendid work can be done in this great manufacturing section of the city.

Last year the churches in the city contributed over $1,000 for City Missions. This amount, augmented by a liberal appropriation from the American Christian Missionary Society, has made possible the work. The work is before us, we have only just begun to contribute our part to the solving of the great problem of our city's redemption. The cause is of God. He has called us not only to Sonship, but to workmanship, in this great enterprise of saving humanity. Into the depths of sin and the deepest degradation our brother has fallen; let us rally as men to this work and give every soul in this fair land a chance to be lifted out of sin and be again a man. This is the call.

Home Missions. The call of the millions in the home land who know not Christ. The call of the masses, crushed and burdened with conditions out of which only the power of the gospel can lift them. The call of the multitudes coming to our shores from every nation, tribe and tongue. Shall we answer? When the Christian manhood of America is aroused and enters upon this stupendous task to which God is calling him, New York, and every other city, and the whole land will be won for Christ. Shall we answer?

JOSEPH KEEVIL,

Supt. City Missions.

704 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

* * *

The Lenox Avenue Union Church of Disciples in New York City held its first meeting in the new Church building on September 12, 1909. The building is located at 74 West 126th Street, in the centre of the northern part of Manhattan known as Harlem. This building cost something over $31,000, and is built of brown stone, and is four stories high. This organization is planning to conduct an all-round work for every day in the year. The size of the building is 25x100 feet, and the building is finished with hard wood trim throughout. An excellent hot water heating plant is located under the sidewalk, allowing the entire basement to be used for bowling alleys. The first floor is arranged for use of the Bible School and the young people's meetings. The second floor has a splendidly appointed reception room at the front of the building, which opens into the large and commodious assembly room. The third floor contains class room, large banquet hall, and complete kitchen arrangements. The fourth floor has the living quarters for the superintendent of the building.

This congregation formerly occupied a church building at 41 West 119th Street and with the sale of their old property are entering a new building with practically all their bills paid and the property free from debt.

This congregation was organized on October 6th, 1889, with twenty-three members, under the leadership of James M. Philputt. After serving thirteen years, he was succeeded by J. P. Lichtenberger, whose pastorate covered seven years. W. A. Harp has served the congregation for one year, and was succeeded on October 1, 1909, by William Bayard Craig, ex-Chancellor of Drake University.

There are about 300 members at the present time, and the church work is well organized. Hon. W. H. Olmsted is the President of the Board of Trustees, and the church membership includes many prominent business men in New York City.

* * *

The annual dinner of the Disciples Missionary Union of Greater New York was held at the Broadway Central Hotel on the evening of March 8th. This was the largest affair of the kind ever held by the Union and brought together 250 persons. An address was given by Mornay Williams, Esq., a prominent lawyer of New York City, speaking on the work of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Mr. Williams is a noted Baptist and made a strong appeal for union in common work of the Baptists and Disciples, and said he would hail the day when Denominational lines would be no more. Dr. I. N. McCash of the A. C. M. S. made a stirring appeal for the work of home missions. Judge Willard H. Olmsted, the President of the Union, was toastmaster. A flashlight picture shows every man at the guest table, wearing the familiar badge "I have subscribed for 'CHRISTIAN MEN.'" Our New York agent, P. F. Jerome, with a group of hustlers, solicited every man at the dinner to subscribe for CHRISTIAN MEN and a splendid list was secured. The work done in the Missionary Union is commanding the respect and approval of the membership in Greater New York.

Bowling Alley, Lenox Avenue Union Church, New York City.

The Layman's Climax

The series of great Missionary conventions of men, for men and by men, which began, properly speaking, with the Canadian National Congress in Toronto in April of last year, and which has since swept to and fro in the United States, reached its flood tide of enthusiasm and inspiration in the Men's National Missionary Congress, held in the Auditorium, Chicago, the first week in May. From the first address by Bishop Anderson to the final adoption of the resolutions declaring a national missionary policy for the United States, this convention was characterized by sanity and consecration. We Americans are accustomed to conventions. Foreign travelers remarked that here everyone they meet seems either going to or coming from a convention. But these are not conventions of the ordinary sort. In the first place they are distinctly religious; in the second place they are distinctly masculine, and in the third place they are distinctly powerful. There has been no overwrought emotional emphasis. Sober, slow-thinking, solidity of statement rather than overwrought emotionalism and hysteric pietism, has marked the addresses, the resolutions and the entire tenor of the movement. Its significance both for missions abroad and for the Church at home is incomprehensibly great. In thunder tones these conventions cry out that American manhood has not lost its grip upon the great fundamental principles of Christianity. Coming at a time when an academic discussion of Christian evidences was rife, these gatherings have put the discussion out of commission and brought near the day of a practical application of Christian tenets to every phase of life far and near, low and high.

The movement itself does not end here. The men who planned these great campaigns so wisely will not neglect to plan for the perpetuity of the interests and purposes now aroused.

And—greatest of all—the Church herself, having discovered the tremendous power and the unshaken loyalty of the manhood within her ranks, will not allow the lessons taught to fall by the wayside. Having, like the servant of Elijah, seen the vision of the encamped masculine hosts of God gathering round her great leader, she will with a new vigor, with a wider horizon and a surer hand, go into the great battle for the Christianization of home lands. This, after all, is the real question. What matter if Christianity conquers on the Congo only to lose the day in Chicago? Here and now in America the Church of Jesus Christ is entering upon her greatest trial. It is not before councils. It is no mere matter of debate in academic halls. It is no question of the speculations of philosophers nor the hypotheses of scientists. It is the test of the times. It is the trial of strength with adversity. It is the battle with the slums. It is the warfare against wrong. It is the combat with crime. It is the cheering of the discouraged. It is the comforting of the comfortless. These are the great issues of life: the battle for bread, the wrestling with disease, the hoping against hope, the ability to keep the mind clear, the heart pure and the body clean. Christianity must be able to do these things. Christianity must be able to make of the groaning tenement a temple of happy choristers. The alley must become an avenue of life. Christianity must make men right and laws right. She must be able to banish unrighteousness and, to paraphrase Zangwill, set up the Kingdom of Heaven in the republic of men.

Wireless Whispers

-V.A. GOSS-

"I desire to express my thanks for the Centennial booklet and badge which you were so kind to send."—BENJAMIN SMITH, Zionsville, Ind.

* * *

"Please send special envelope containing complete information as to how to organize a local Brotherhood."—T. S. WASSON, Ellensburg, Wash.

* * *

"Find enclosed $5.00 in payment of twenty subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN. Some are renewals and some are new subscriptions."—A. B. HOuze, Kendallville, Ind.

* * *

"In answer to yours of the 16th, as to how I got the forty-six subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN, I just went and got them; that is all. Only three refused."—C. T. MORRIS, Webster City, Iowa.

* * *

"Enclosed please find $6.25 for twenty-five subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN from the Compton Heights Christian Church. This is just a few of what we expect to get."—CHARLES W. SHULL, St. Louis, Mo.

* * *

Charles B. Hahn, concerning whose work we are publishing an article in this month's magazine, entitled "The Boy Movement," is engaged in the preparation of a work on the question, entitled "Boyology," or something similar.

* * *

"I think it is the greatest movement in recent times and every church should have a Brotherhood. I am glad to know the movement is gaining impetus as it is, and my prayer shall be that it will still continue to grow until all our men shall be in line for the Master's work."—GEORGE C. AYDELOTT, New Orleans, La.

* * *

O. L. Smith, of Emporia, Kan., was invited to speak before the Kansas State Normal Y. M. C. A. on a recent Sunday afternoon on "The Ministry as a Life Calling." Mr. F. E. Brown, a member of the Emporia church, is considering devoting his life to the ministry. He recently won first place in oratory at the Kansas State University.

* * *

LOST—Between the office of CHRISTIAN MEN, Kansas City, Mo., and Grenola, Kan., photograph labeled "D. N. Manley," either mailed to wrong address or lost in the mail. Anyone having knowledge of the same will confer a favor by reporting it or sending the photograph to 419 R. A. Long Building, Kansas City, Mo., or D. N. Manley, Grenola, Kan.

* * *

One of our General Members, R. A. Willard, located in Buffalo, N. Y., is at work heart and soul in the Buffalo Union Temperance League. The idea of the Union Temperance League is to unite every society that stands for temperance and with united forces to rid New York State of our worst enemy, the liquor traffic. "Save the Boys" is the motto on the letter-head of that organization.

* * *

Charles C. Wilson, pastor of our church at Bellefontaine, Ohio, is occasionally available for lectures under the auspices of Brotherhoods, Chautauquas, etc. His subject is "Hawaii—The Paradise of the Pacific." A number who have heard him, including P. H. Welshimer and Stephen J. Corey, speak in the highest terms of these lectures, which are illustrated by pictures.

* * *

Our Bible School Editor, P. H. Welshimer, who is the minister of our great church at Canton, Ohio, publishes a weekly paper called The Canton Christian. It announces that during a certain month the average attendance of their Bible School was 1,800. Every department of the church is represented in the twelve columns of the paper, one column of which is devoted to the Bible School Lesson for the day.

* * *

"Enclosed find money order, I suppose you know what it is for. It is for CHRISTIAN MEN magazines. I bought a new pony just about a week ago and would have sent the money for the papers but I was so wound up in my pony. Yours is the best yet on the market."—ERRETT O. SALA, Minerva, Ohio.

P. S.—"The principal trouble with wild oat sowing is that somebody always has to help reap the crop."

* * *

"Secretary E. W. Allen and Brother A. F. Hensey will be with us Friday for a men's luncheon. We have our March offering next Sunday and expect to more than double the amount given last year. Enclosed find $5 for twenty subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN. It gives me a lot of pleasure to send this list, as I know they will help us in doing more earnest and efficient work for our Master."—PAUL R. HAWKINS, Lathrop, Mo.

* * *

The Highlander, Vol. 1, No. 1, issued at Pikeville, Ky., February, 1910, is before us. It is edited by that stout old warrior, R. B. Neal, and devoted to the cause of the Mountaineers. It contains a number of groups of mountain people engaged in various religious enterprises and gives the appearance of being both well printed and well edited. Its price is fifty cents per year and we commend it to all who would maintain their interest in this remarkable field.

The Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, Main Street Church, Rushville, Ind., where R. W. Abberly is minister, has published a very neat and attractive folder giving the programs for the seasons. Some of the topics considered are "Street Improvements," "The Boy Problem," "The Free Public Library," "Men and the Church," "Modern Newspapers and Reform." The officers are: President, Dr. C. H. Parsons; Vice-President, J. A. Titsworth; Secretary, W. A. Stockinger; Treasurer, Frank Thompson.

* * *

We learn that the Local Membership of the church at Camargo, Ill., has been doubled and the Sunday-School more than quadrupled in attendance during the pastorate of L. B. Pickerell, who has been there for the past two years. He is now engaged in a like work for the church in Findlay, Ill., where he began on March 5th. Already new interest is manifest in the securing of a splendid club of forty subscribers for CHRISTIAN MEN in this church. Last year Brother Pickerell sent us a fine list from Camargo, most of whom have renewed this year.

* * *

Dr. E. T. Davis, Physician and Surgeon, Queen Esther Sanitarium, Kansas City, and a loyal Brotherhood man, writes as follows: "If you know of any of our ministers who are half sick and need a systematic course of treatment to enable them to do a whole man's work instead of half a man's work, send them in. I have one room I would like to have one or two occupy all the time. It will cost them only their food and medicine, which will amount to about $5 per week. My services are theirs." This is a noble offer indeed and reminds us of the Good Samaritan.

* * *

We are in receipt of copy of the banquet program rendered at Hustonville, Ky., on March 18th, at which Mr. Joseph Severance, of Frankfort, acted as toastmaster. W. S. Willis, pastor at Hustonville, welcomed the guests, who were in attendance from several adjacent towns. On the program appeared D. M. Walker, of Stanford, who spoke on "A Man's Place in the Kingdom of God;" Prof. S. S. Robinson, "Our Boys;" W. G. Montgomery, of Moreland, "Our Citizenship;" Prof. J. M. McVey, "Over the Hill to Hustonville;" W. H. F. Jones, "Our Ministry;" F. M. Tinder, "Our Homes." The toasts were interspersed with songs and music. With such wealth of talent the affair could not have been otherwise than a very great success.

* * *

During the recent Central Illinois Ministerial Institute at Peoria, two opportunities were given for discussing the Brotherhood outlook around the banquet table. Our Assistant Secretary, Mr. Elliott, conducted a conference and question box for an hour the first evening and at the next banquet a number of Illinois ministers spoke briefly on "The Good of Organizing a Local Brotherhood and the Value of CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine as an Enthusiasm Generator for all Departments of the Church." A most enjoyable time was had at these gatherings, which were held in between the sessions of the institute proper, which, by the way, was of a very high order. We may look for great results along the Brotherhood organization line in Illinois.

* * *

"Enclosed find check for $12.50 for fifty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for one year to the enclosed list. I have been so well pleased and benefited by CHRISTIAN MEN that I could not resist an opportunity of presenting the matter to others to gain from its excellent thoughts, ideas and good works so beautifully expressed. I trust that each subscriber will be benefited by this grand little book and will become so attached to it that when their present subscription expires they will not only renew, but will tell others of the good derived from it and increase the subscription list ten-fold. I cannot express my appreciation of CHRISTIAN MEN, but know that it will grow greater and better and more popular as time moves on." —J. W. McFERRAN, Moberly, Mo.

* * *

The Brotherhood at Lubec, Me., where R. Lee Bussabarger is minister, are laying foundations for a room 40x30, which is to be next to the church and to be used for Brotherhood work. The Brotherhood will also get behind the base-ball team organized by the Loyal Bereans. Those who remember Brother Bussabarger as two years captain of the base-ball team at Transylvania University, know that the Down Easters have made a very fortunate selection in making him captain and catcher of their team. We shall expect this team to win a majority of its games throughout the season. They began with a terrible lambasting of their opponents in the early part of this month, the score standing 20 to 4 in favor of the Brotherhood team.

* * *

Here is something spicy we cull from a letter of Brother Amzi Atwater, Bloomington, Ind. Brother Atwater is a loyal friend of CHRISTIAN MEN and has been a minister of the Word for more than fifty years. We quote:

"If you can get the churches and Sunday Schools to stop the fool Santa Claus business and trifling theatricals and give the boys and young men half the program at least instead of turning four-fifths of it over to the girls (who are generally now our main orators in a Sunday-School exercise), you will make a good beginning. Suppose you put out a book full of inspiring selections of great missionary sermons and fiery anti-saloon speeches and lofty orations against vice and sin, and praise of the Gospel of Christ and get the churches to set the young men to delivering them, that will help. Try it."

* * *

Monday evening, March 14th, L. B. D. C. No. 276, of North Yakima, Washington, enjoyed its regular March meeting in the social parlors of the church. Dainty tables were set and a bountiful banquet of sixty covers was served by the ladies of the Aid Society. After supper and the sociability which it prooted, a musical program was given, being arranged by Prof. Giovanni Ottiano, Chairman of the Musical Committee.

Violin solo—Professor Ottiano.

Quartette—Harry Neal, Roy Gale, Royemper and James Broulette.

Instrumental solo—Prof. T. H. Toll, accompanied by Miss Doris Arrowsmith.

Instrumental solo—Gale W. Blish.

A social hour was then indulged in, a number of the men arising as the spirit moved them and spoke at different times. The informality of it and the good fellowship were very enjoyable, indeed.

Our thanks are due Secretary G. D. Yeager for the interesting report of this meeting.

* * *

At the Congress of Disciples at Bloomington, Ind., W. S. Lockhart, of Fayetteville, Ark., read a paper on "The Church and Men," which enjoyed the rare distinction of being both scholarly and sympathetic. The paper revealed the enormous amount of work Mr. Lockhart had done to go at his subject in a state of preparedness. He was emphatic in his utterances as to the function and capability of the Church and as to its duty toward the man within its ranks and the man without. The portion of it devoted to an exposition of brotherhood principles was clear and attractively presented. We shall hope to make some excerpts from this paper for our columns.

O. W. Lawrence, of Decatur, Ill., reviewed the paper and announced his sympathy with the practical view toward which it aimed.

There was an interesting discussion by Messrs. Shaw, Denton, Buckner, Winders, and a number of others.

By the by, Ashley J. Elliott, of Peoria, a brotherhood man, was elected Vice-President of the congress and presided at a number of its sessions with grace and dignity.

* * *

"Enclosed is draft for $10, my pledge to the Ten-Dollar League. I am glad to make this payment."—FRED S. NICHOLS, Table Grove, Ill.

* * *

"I herewith enclose $10 which I pledged at the Pittsburgh convention. I wish also to be put down as a general member."—J. C. DISERENS, Mount Healy, Ohio.

* * *

We are in receipt of many local church papers which reflect the energy of the local congregations. Among them we mention The Massillon Messenger, Massillon, Ohio; The Bulletin, Footville, Wis.; Christian Monitor, Warren, Ohio; The Lyons Christian, Lyons, Kan.; The Canton Christian, Canton, Ohio; The Greeting, Peoria, Ill.; The Franklin Circle, Cleveland, Ohio, and The First Christian, Springfield, Ill.

"I am indeed surprised that I am the winner of the second prize for February. I will do my very best to advance the interest of the Brotherhood work and will wear my fob and carry my card to remind me daily of our pledge card ideals."

C. E. RASH,
Plainville, Kan.

* * *

Appel Leaves Springfield

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH CO.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

E. E. Elliott,
Kansas City, Mo.

"Mail me quick one watch fob Brotherhood emblem, solid gold. We want to present this to Appel. He goes to Chicago, May 1st."

F. W. Burnham.

In response, the fob was sent by registered special delivery and we have the following additional:

"Your prompt attention brought the watch fob to us bright and early Tuesday morning. We had time to get it suitably engraved and ready for presentation that evening. The farewell reception to Brother Appel was most delightful except for the general regret over his going away. President H. T. Swift named committees on local arrangements for State Brotherhood convention which meets with us this year. Judge Kane in his 'remarks' presented the Brotherhood emblem. Brother Appel was taken by surprise but responded in his frank and earnest fashion. The pastor read the letter of appreciation and good wishes from the General Brotherhood."

F. W. BURNHAM,
Springfield, Ill.

* * *

About fifty men from Seattle churches took a special car to Tacoma night of April 13th to hear Evangelist Charles Reign Scoville.

* * *

"I am sending you two more names to add to my list of forty recently sent."

L. B. PICKERILL,
DeLand, Ill.

* * *

"Find enclosed $1.50 for three years' subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN and the special prize booklets by Mr. Macfarlane."

D. B. TITUS,
Rupert, Idaho.

Brotherhood Achievements

After four years' strenuous work of their minister, the First Church at Lincoln, Neb., has sent H. H. Harmon on a trip to the Holy Land. Would that more of our churches would emulate the example.

* * *

"Have been out the last two nights to country churches with Brother Shellenberger for the purpose of organizing."

W. C. WESTLAKE,
Trenton, Mo.

* * *

"Enclosed find postoffice money order for $9.25 for nineteen emblems and quarterly dues for eleven members."

E. M. POLK,
Elkhart, Ind.

* * *

* * *

"Since sending in the club list other members say that they must have CHRISTIAN MEN. They desire their subscription to commence with the April number if possible."

J. F. FAUST,
Portland, Ore.

* * *

"I am glad to report that one of my young men twenty years old told me last Lord's day of his earnest intention of entering a university next September to prepare for the ministry."

C. E. RASH,
Plainville, Kan.

* * *

Portland, Oregon, Local Brotherhood No. 294 is the latest affiliation from Oregon. They send for Certificate and Membership Cards for thirty-one members and have undertaken some of the various activities mentioned in the Model Constitution.

* * *

"I desire to be identified with the greatest movement in the world."

R. A. WILLARD,
Buffalo, N. Y.,
General Member No. 250,

"P. S.—Please send one solid gold lapel button."

* * *

"CHRISTIAN MEN for April has not knocked at my door. Others tell me about the good things. I am anxious. Have I offended? What is my punishment? Whatever my sin, I have repented and suffered. I pray for forgiveness and restoration."

CHALMERS MCPHERSON,
Fort Worth, Tex.

* * *

"We are planning a luncheon for two of our Men's Bible Classes and the time will afford a splendid opportunity for the organization of a Brotherhood. We expect a hundred and fifty or two hundred men. Watch us start a Brotherhood."

A. R. LIVERETT,
Cameron, Mo.

"Our Men's Club is on the point of meeting into the Brotherhood."

J. N. CRUTCHER,
Sioux City, Iowa.

* * *

"The Brotherhood movement is the best thing in the church world today."

EX-CONGRESSMAN BENTON,
Neosho, Mo.

* * *

"We expect to organize a Brotherhood here next week. Kindly send me thirty copies of the Covenant and a sample of the button."

JOHN A. JACKSON,
Sheridan, Ind.

* * *

"The church which is successful today is the one which has a Brotherhood behind all local activities."

F. F. WALTERS,
Joplin, Mo.

* * *

"Enclosed find check for $14.74, dues for sixty-seven members for quarter ending June 30th, and seventy-five copies CHRISTIAN MEN for same period. We are getting along very nicely."

H. T. FIELDS, Treasurer,
L. B. D. C. No. 261,
Bedford, Ind.

* * *

The men of Norwood Avenue Church, Toledo, Ohio, affiliate with the General Brotherhood and order Brotherhood emblems for every man. M. H. Pugh is the treasurer. The men will have their certificate engrossed and framed before the State convention, which meets at Toledo early in June.

* * *

The church at Riverside, Cal., has begun work on the organization of a local Brotherhood, forty-one signatures to the Brotherhood Covenant at one meeting. They order supplies from the General office—50 copies Model Constitution, 50 Covenant Cards and 20 of the tracts, "How to Organize." C. G. Deck is the correspondent.

* * *

The Howett Street Church at Peoria, Ill., was organized as a church last year. Now comes the men organizing themselves into a local Brotherhood and asking for affiliation papers. Arthur W. Leu, president; Fred Strubach, vice-president; A. F. Riley, secretary; Frank Berg, treasurer. William Price is the enthusiastic Brotherhood pastor.

* * *

"Our County Judge, B. M. Rice, has joined our Brotherhood. He accompanied twenty-eight of our Brotherhood men to Knoxville last Thursday night, where we were entertained by the Knoxville Brotherhood."

E. F. YOUNG, President,
L. B. D. C. No. 259,
Galesburg, Ill.

We have copy of the program printed by the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, Main Street Christian Church, Rushville, Ind., which contains the names of officers and committeemen and the program for the meetings beginning October 20th and ending May 11th, a very commendable pamphlet. Dr. C. H. Parsons is the president; John A. Titsworth, vice-president; W. A. Stockinger, secretary, and Frank Thompson, treasurer. The committees are Music and Program, Membership, Social, Employment and Sickness.

* * *

"While at Findlay I called attention to CHRISTIAN MEN and have a club of thirty-two subscribers as the result. Brother L. L. Carpenter had dedicated the church in Findlay and, of course, they were glad to see his likeness and read the short notice. While I waited for my train at Tuscola I secured three more subscriptions and at DeLand five additional. There may be others who would like to take the magazine at Findlay."

L. B. PICKERILL,
DeLand, Ill.

* * *

The Brotherhood at Franklin Circle Church, Cleveland, Ohio, are holding regular meetings on definite dates. Their last one was opened with prayer by W. F. Rothenburger, the pastor. The Religious Committee, headed by A. R. Teachout, reported that the Brotherhood was a help to the Sunday-School and the prayer-meeting. An address by Prof. H. C. Ditmer; solo by S. E. Roof, followed by a social hour with doughnuts and coffee. These gatherings are proving very beneficial and of great spiritual influence to the local work.

* * *

"Our local Brotherhood has a membership of 100, with monthly meetings. The last meeting took up the Bible School problem and we think the work of the Brotherhood has increased the attendance of men at both the Bible School and the church services. The Brotherhood will have charge of the services the last Sunday evening of the month and it will probably take the form of a platform affair, with a relay of speeches by the laymen."

W. F. ROTHENBERGER,
Cleveland, Ohio.

* * *

H. I. Prusia, one of the State vice-presidents of the Iowa Brotherhood, lives at Mason City. A year ago he sent a splendid club of subscribers for CHRISTIAN MEN and this year increases the list to nearly fifty, but says: "I think there will be more to follow." Recently, C. H. Devoe, an enthusiastic Brotherhood pastor, was called to the church and on April 12th they held a Brotherhood banquet. They have voted to affiliate with the General Brotherhood. You can always tell a live Brotherhood atmosphere by the enthusiastic men who lead.

* * *

The Daily Gate City of Keokuk has a half page devoted to the Laymen's Missionary Movement, as related to Keokuk, with a handsome two-column picture of J. O. Boyd, who is president of L. B. D. C. No. 288, of Keokuk, and also president of the Federation of Organized Laymen. We have an unusually fine body of men in this city and the relationship between them and the Brotherhood organizations in other churches is close and effective, with the result that Christian manhood is recognized as a definite social and civic force.

* * *

During the sessions of the Southwest Missouri District Convention at Aurora, 100 men banqueted together with George L. Peters, toastmaster; E. E. Elliott and W. F. Richardson, of Kansas City; ex-Congressman Benton, of Neosho; and F. F. Walters, of Joplin, as speakers. More laymen than ministers were present. Men came from as far away as Neosho, spending two days and two nights to make the trip. Joplin, Springfield and Marionville also had good delegations present and the messages of the speakers were delightfully inspiring. We look for the formation of many local Brotherhoods in Southwest Missouri as a result.

* * *

"In regard to the article in April CHRISTIAN MEN, I note that many old subscribers do not renew their subscriptions. I have been thinking the matter over carefully and as a suggestion do you not think it would be a good plan to select a man from each locality where the magazine is sent and let this gentleman see that each subscriber whose time has expired be solicited again, the General office to make a list from time to time of all expiring subscriptions and mail them to the various representatives for CHRISTIAN MEN? I will be glad to act as your representative for Elkhart, Ind., and this is the way I handled the list sent you in February."

E. E. BENTON,
Elkhart, Ind.

CHRISTIAN MEN office is always glad to receive suggestions. We saw the philosophy of this some time since and furnished a list of expirations to our various representatives throughout the country, but the response thus far has been small. At this writing 700 subscribers whose time expired in December have not yet renewed and the magazine is going to them this month under a 2-cent postage stamp. Brethren, this is the most serious thing commanding the attention of the General Brotherhood at this moment, the retaining of our expiring subscriptions.

* * *

Friday, April 19th, the Associated Brotherhoods in Kansas City gave a complimentary banquet at the Densmore hotel to President Peter Ainslie and Secretary I. N. McCash of the American Christian Missionary Society. Speakers were Burris A. Jenkins and Geo. H. Combs, Kansas City; Secretary McCash and President Ainslie, of Baltimore, who gave his great address upon "The unfinished task of the restoration." The banquet hall was filled with Kansas City ministers and laymen. A unique souvenir program gave a general statement of the work of our home society, together with pictures of the officers of the society.

The Associated Brotherhoods of Kansas City are beginning to get behind all of our great works and when our business men become aroused to the necessities of our cause less will be allowed to suffer.

* * *

Here is the kind of an invitation gotten out by Local Brotherhood No. 279;

Chicago, April 23, 1910.

DEAR FRIENDS: You are cordially invited to attend an Entertainment and Social, given by the BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST, of the Douglas Park Church of Christ, Turner and Sixteenth streets. STEREOPTICON LECTURE and Instrumental Music. COME, make yourself at home and enjoy a good social evening. BRING A FRIEND WITH YOU.

Fraternally yours,

ALVIN ARIE,

Secretary B. D. C.

Thursday Evening, April 28th.

EVERYTHING FREE.

* * *

"I will try to tell you something of our good meeting with Mr. Shellenberger. He is great and just full to the brim of Brotherhood. We met around a banquet table and had what you might call a confab and when we went home that evening we had greater vision of the Brotherhood and now feel that we are going forward to greater things. We will give a social program to the men of the community on April 28th. We hope by this means to get better acquainted with the men and get some of them into the Brotherhood. We wish to thank you for letting us have Brother Shellenberger with us. We enjoyed his brief stay greatly."

ALVIN ARIE, Secretary,
Local Brotherhood No. 279,
Oak Park, Ill.

* * *

The men's Brotherhoods of our two churches at Peoria, Ill., will build a mission tabernacle on May 30th. They have issued a very attractive mailing card which is headed "Sunday-School Building to be Erected in One Day by the Men of the Christian Churches of Peoria, Assisted by the Volunteer Service of Local Carpenters' Union No. 183." This is followed by a program of a banquet to be served May 13th and the Building Day program May 30th, Decoration Day. A picnic dinner will be served by the ladies of the two churches and memorial service conducted by W. F. Turner, pastor of the Central Church. On Friday, June 10th, the West Bluff Mission building will be dedicated by Dr. Arthur Holmes, who is to address the Brotherhoods of the city of Peoria on the same evening. We hope to present a fuller account of this enterprise and a picture of the building itself in course of erection next month.

* * *

One of the first churches to organize a local Brotherhood after the plans inaugurated at New Orleans was the First Church of Springfield, Ill., where F. W. Burnham is the minister. These men have been pursuing definite work for men in the community regularly from the inception of the movement. At recent meeting reports of departments recalled the fact that, without noise or red fire the Brotherhood is getting things accomplished. A case was reported of a man in the hospital sick with tuberculosis, in need not a Christian, but because of acquaintance had asked for assistance. Without drawing upon the funds of the Brotherhood the men one by one, responded with ample aid to meet the need.

J. M. Appel, State president of the Illinois Brotherhood, who was also the first president of the Springfield local Brotherhood, is leaving Springfield to take up residence in Chicago. At a farewell reception held on April 29th he was presented with a solid gold Brotherhood emblem watch fob as a token and reminder of his fellowship.

* * *

"Good fellowship at flood tide, wholesome enthusiasm at the boiling point, and transfiguring optimism at the shining summit of Brotherhood brotherliness characterized our men's meeting last evening. Tall Timber more modestly known as J. W. Underwood of Ashtabula, pumped enthusiasm into willing masculine receivers and gave us a vision of the majestic possibilities of a local Brotherhood by delivering a stirring address on the Brotherhood movement. The Ashtabula quartet sang, like the 'Morning Stars' are reputed to have sung on a similar occasion, and our orchestra played as if they were playing for the fun of it and their life depended on making every man of us through the fibres of his being vibrate like a Jew's harp. Net proceeds Forty-seven charter members and one club of twenty subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN. We are going to contract with Shellenberger to raise the charter membership to seventy-five in the month of May."

J. F. WILLIAMS, Geneva, Ohio.

* * *

Independence Boulevard Brotherhood No. Kansas City, Mo., the first Brotherhood organized under the Model Constitution, is following the programs printed in CHRISTIAN MEN. To each meeting they invite members of a neighboring Brotherhood, having one of the visitors talk on the program. April 21 they invited the Jackson Avenue Brotherhood including the pastor, Rev. F. L. Bowen, who made a talk on City Missions. The local Brotherhoods in Kansas City are lining up solidly behind all our missionary enterprises and are securing the attention and personal services of many of our best business men who are giving time, talent and money to missions. At the Jackson Avenue Church February 22d, President R. A. Long announced that a body of men members of local Brotherhoods in Kansas City had each agreed to give $200 per year to city missions, one-half which is to go toward securing property for future churches in the outlying districts and one-half toward work already established. A number of prominent laymen are represented upon the City Missions Committee of great Sioux City. Effective May 1st, the time of which man is to be devoted exclusively to this work and the Brotherhoods will furnish work-regularly for a number of mission points assist them in becoming self-supporting churches. Many of our churches in Kansas were thus aided in their infancy and their existence to the seed thus sown.

* * *

Once in a while a man discontinues his subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN. Our correspondents usually display a good deal of consideration at such times, but here comes one that set to music. This is the first discontinuance ever made us happy. It need not be inferred, however, that all the poetry that comes to our office makes us happy. Some of it gives us a pain. Anyhow, the attached was so good that we felt that while Brother Bulfin could spare us we could not spare him, hence we have renewed his subscription for one year.

STOP MY CHRISTIAN MEN.

I guess I'll have to drop you, too,
And honestly, I rue it.
I really meant to see you thru,
But, fact is, I can't do it.
The work I hoped to see advance,
Each day proceeding onward,
Has robbed me of a helper's chance,
By daily slipping downward.
It is like the splash that has its place,
Perhaps about the middle,
But sends its ripples in a race,
Disturbing all the puddle.
So, when our failure splashes here,
The ripples spread around us,
Dimming someone else's cheer
A thousand miles beyond us.
So, stop my paper, if you please,
I simply have to drop it.
My Christian Men forget the fees,
And so I have to stop it.

Sincerely,

O. J. BULFIN,
Coleta, Ill.

* * *

The following is clipped from a note of J. N. Crutcher, widely known pastor of the First Christian Church of Sioux City, Iowa: "Our Men's Club has been in existence about three years. It has done fine work along social and educational lines. But the men were not satisfied to 'meet and greet and eat.' They wanted a special thing to work for. I write their plan, which is now in operation, hoping the idea may be used by other brethren:

The church at Holly Springs, an inland town about twenty miles from Sioux City, has now had regular preaching for four years. The Sioux City Club is conducting services each Lord's day at Holly Springs, the men going out in New Testament style, in pairs, speaking both morning and evening. This work is divided up so that it will not be a burden upon anyone and the enlarged interest in the 'Club,' which is soon to become a 'Brotherhood,' shows that it is bound to succeed. It is expected that the brethren will continue to do this work until September, by which time they hope to have things in condition for a meeting to be held by the writer. We have a good building and plenty of 'means' at Holly Springs and a pastor is to be employed after the revival.

"The value of this plan, aside from its spirit of unselfishness and its blessing to our sister congregation, will prove a benediction to every man who helps in the work. It may discover some 'ministerial timber.' It may do a number of things. I am sure that it will help our local work tremendously; it will develop the talents of the brethren and make them even more efficient, and it will be a practical demonstration of the missionary idea."

* * *

Following is the proposed constitution of the Federated Brotherhoods of St. Joseph, Mo., which is an organization of all the men's clubs of the churches of all protestant bodies of that city. Our own men in L. B. D. C. No. 250, St. Joseph, have a prominent part in the movement, and are represented in the officiate, which is as follows:

FEDERATED BROTHERHOODS OF ST. JOSEPH, MO.
President.....J. A. Cottell
Vice-President.....A. L. Ernst
Secretary.....E. F. Willis
Treasurer.....C. M. Guthrie

Executive committee: R. O. Powelson, R. M. Biggerstaff and F. A. H. Garlich.

ARTICLES OF ORGANIZATION.

1. This association shall be known as the Federated Brotherhoods of St. Joseph.

2. The object of this association is to unite for the promotion of the religious and moral welfare of St. Joseph, in such ways as may give effect to the combined influence of the various Brotherhoods.

3. Any Brotherhood or similar men's organization of the churches of St. Joseph may become a member by reporting its organization to the secretary of this association and by furnishing two representatives for the Board of Delegates.

4. The business of this body shall be managed by a Board of Delegates composed of two delegates from each organization.

5. The officers of the Federated Brotherhoods shall be a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer, who, with three others, shall constitute an Executive Committee, these to be elected at the annual meeting of the Board of Delegates to be held on the second Monday in February.

6. There shall be two general committees appointed annually by the Executive Committee immediately after the election of officers, a Civic Committee and a Religious Committee, with one delegate from each Brotherhood on each committee, the chairmen of these general committees to be members of the Executive Committee. It is recommended that a similar Civic Committee and a Religious Committee be organized in each local Brotherhood with the two delegates as chairmen of these local committees, corresponding to the general committee, of which they are members.

The Beginning and the End—Peter and Finis

Here are two men of kindred physical appearance as well as kindred spirit. They are no relation in the flesh, so far as this writer knows, but they are blood brothers in the Spirit.

Peter Ainslie is pastor of the Christian Tabernacle Church in Baltimore, where he has done monumental work under the shadow of the Rome See and as President of the American Christian Missionary Society it is probably just to say that he is making his great influence felt as much as any other man who has ever been honored with that position.

Finis Idleman is the saintly pastor of the Central Christian Church of Des Moines. In taking up the work laid down by H. O. Breen, he succeeded to a great church, to a great field and to a great opportunity, and he has measured to the top of it all. Kindly, gracious and true, a faithful preacher and intelligent student, a forceful leader, lover of his brethren and servant of Jesus Christ, his ministry is a shower of spiritual blessings in the heart of the capital city of the State of Iowa.

Photo by Hostettler, Des Moines

The Brotherhood Charter

"Certificate of Membership was duly received and the men universally declare it is a corker."—GEORGE JACOBSON, Secretary, L. B. D. C. No. 266, Knoxville, Ill.

* * *

"Our Membership Certificate will be framed and on exhibition at our next meeting."—A. L. HOCKETT, Secretary, Local Brotherhood No. 262, Jackson Avenue Christian Church, Kansas City, Mo.

* * *

"Our Charter closed with sixty-three members enrolled. It will be engrossed and presented to the Brotherhood next Sunday."—ALVIN FORREY, Secretary, Local Brotherhood No. 272, Omaha, Neb.

* * *

"Certificate received and have had charter members' names engrossed and am having it framed. The brethren that have seen it praise the certificate very much."—J. E. ARRANTS, Secretary, L. B. D. C. No. 275, Bristol, Tenn.

* * *

"We are certainly very much pleased with the Certificate of Membership in the General Organization, which Mr. Macfarlane brought to us on the occasion of his recent visit. Our men consider it an ornament for the walls of the church of which we may all be proud."—R. O. POWELSON, Secretary, L. B. D. C. No. 250, St. Joseph, Mo.

* * *

"The Certificate arrived just in time for our last meeting and caused much favorable comment. By next meeting we hope to have it framed and hung permanently on the wall of our meeting place."—R. W. JOHNSON, Secretary, L. B. D. C. No. 284.

* * *

"Our Certificate of Membership has been completed and exhibited to the members. I thought it was very neat and seemed to be proud of it when framed and in its place in the church, which it will be very soon."—C. F. PULTZ, Secretary, Local Brotherhood No. 282, Washington, D. C.

* * *

"The Charter was duly received and highly appreciated. Our church is comparatively new, but considerable enthusiasm has already been aroused in the Brotherhood and with such a man as Brother J. W. Porter for President, there is no doubt but that we will keep things moving in our end of the city."—P. K. FERRA, Secretary, Local Brotherhood No. 285, Lexington, Ky.

Winners of the Medals in April

L. O. Newcomer, Mt. Vernon, Ohio, wins first prize with 135 individual paid in advance subscriptions.

Miss Eva Lemert, Ann Arbor, Mich., wins second prize with 64 individual paid in advance subscriptions.

R. C. Lightcap, Pittsburgh, Pa., wins third prize with 63 individual paid in advance subscriptions.

It Was Easy

Who Will
Be the Winners in June

Maybe
You

Try It
Today!

FIRST PRIZE—SOLID GOLD
SECOND PRIZE—SOLID SILVER
THIRD PRIZE—BRONZE

RATES:

Clubs of 20	- -	25c
Clubs of 10	- -	35c
Single Subscription	-	50c

Present rates of subscription are not guaranteed beyond July 1, but the prize offer will be continued from month to month.

It Is Easy to Get Subscriptions
for

Time Limit,
June 1 to 30

To the person sending us the Largest—Second Largest—Third Largest List of Subscribers, we will give above prizes absolutely free, but they must be members of the Brotherhood in order to be eligible to wear the Brotherhood Emblem. In case of a tie for any of the above prizes offered, a prize similar in all respects with that tied for will be given to each of the persons so tying.

The Brotherhood Calendar for 1910

Beginning with the Annual Meeting in February

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary, Wooster, Ohio

JUNE.

1. Brotherhood Possibilities.—An enlarged vision coming from experiences of the past. An organized POWER of the kingdom.

2. Good Citizenship.—A call to Christian men. Some problems that are crying for solution which only Christian men can solve.

JULY.

1. The Kingdom of God a Social Institution.—An emphasis on the necessity of light-heartedness as well as the gravity of Christians.

2. Is the Church a Fruitless Institution?—A study of how God treated a dying nation. Ez. 37.

AUGUST.

1. The Annual Picnic.—The Social Committee will arrange for a day of rollicking joy for every Brotherhood man and his family or his friend.

2. Church Extension.—A careful study of the institution that gives permanency to our work.

SEPTEMBER.

1. The Brotherhood and the Bible School.—How the Brotherhood can boost the Bible School. The Brotherhood's attitude to the men's class.

2. The International Convention.—This is when we determine to go en masse to the biggest Men's convention the Disciples of Christ have ever held. "On to Topeka!"

OCTOBER.

1. State Elections.—Principle above policy. Manhood above party. Courage of convictions everywhere.

2. State Missions.—A study of the calls of our State to men strong in the faith of Jesus Christ.

NOVEMBER.

1. Civic and National Reforms.—Here is where we lock arms with the W. C. T. U., the Bible School, the Y. P. S. C. E., the International Reform Bureau, et al, in the onward march toward a stronger manhood and purer womanhood.

2. A Harvest Home Meeting.—Thanksgiving. A season of special rejoicing for the goodness of God.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worthy of his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

FEBRUARY.

1. Annual Meeting.—Once around, and what has happened. Yearly reports, and annual address.

2. World-Wide Missions.—Golden opportunities and social responsibilities in relation to the Foreign Mission field.

MARCH.

1. The Integrity of the Home.—Marriage and divorce. A debate. Invite your wives and sweethearts.

2. From Bethany to Olivet.—Easter. A week of meditation. A study of our covenant.

APRIL.

1. Is the Church a Necessity?—Can we get along without it? If so, what will take its place?

2. Home Missions.—America's problems, and their solution.

MAY.

1. The Brotherhood and Fraternities.—A program for the Fraternal Committee. Can the Brotherhood be made as rich in fellowship as the lodge?

2. The Brotherhood and the Boy.—What is the Brotherhood's attitude to the young character of the boy? Why are more boys on the street than in church and Bible School?

The Brotherhood In June

1. Brotherhood Possibilities

2. The Brotherhood and Patriotism

Prepared by J. K. Shellenberger, Field Secretary

NOTE—These programs go into great detail in order to be thoroughly suggestive. They cover a very wide range in order that the treatment may be as thorough as desired and at the same time program makers are at liberty to select only such features as they deem practicable. Brotherhoods are especially cautioned against getting too many long addresses. Where several addresses are used, in addition to a debate, the time limit should not be more than six minutes each. Here are the suggestions carefully worked out. Make your own adaptations. Be sure you make the meeting interesting. Be sure you make it thorough. Be sure you make it effective.

Regular Meeting For June, 1910

Topic: Brotherhood Possibilities

The object of this program is to get a vision of the possibilities and power of organized manhood.

We would suggest that two addresses be given as follows:

I.—The Necessity of Organization.

Fundamental law of nature is organization. Show how each of God's creatures and creations does its part and does not duplicate nor nullify the work of anything else.

Organization means harmony.

Examples: Orchestra, large industries, armies, the successful church.

Interpret practically Ephesians 4:11-13.

II.—The Power of an Organization.

No organization is of value unless it is hitched on to a worthy object. Two things are necessary, then, in order to make our organization powerful.

1. Articulation.

Each part must complement every other part. All must work to one great end.

2. A Worthy End.

The object must inspire the workers, else enthusiasm will die. It would be foolish to buy a threshing machine for a toy.

In the Men's Brotherhood these two things are paramount:

It's articulation is perfect when ideally organized. Note the ideal:

"All the men of all the church at all the church's work."

Present the ideal organization according to the Model Constitution.

Its object is all inspiring. The Kingdom of God among men is the definite object. This can only be brought about by the church, like the Master, "going about doing good unto all men."

The building of the Kingdom is the most soul-inspiring proposition ever put before men.

An organized body of men avoids Duplications,

Overlappings,
Nullification of effort,

And brings about

Concentration of effort,
Dignified uniformity, and Assured success when hitched up with Omnipotence.

We would also suggest a debate on the question,

"Resolved, That the church would be more effective if all organization was set aside and each individual was permitted to do or not to do according to his own impulses."

Follow this with a

Decision of Judges.

Then throw the question open to the house for one-minute speeches, after which call for a decision of the house on the merits of the question.

Crystalize your discussion of the evening by passing a resolution:

"That we organize the men of our congregation more thoroughly, so that every man and boy connected with it has some definite task to perform each week."

Follow with a social period, in which the officers can plan how they may more effectively organize, and those who are not at definite work can find a definite task to undertake.

Program for Special Meeting of the Local Brotherhood for June, 1910

A PATRIOTIC SERVICE

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary

General Topic: CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

A Call to Christian Men

This meeting should be in charge of the Civic Committee. Fourth of July, the Anniversary of American Independence, is upon us. As Christian Men, it is well to consider our Christian obligation and duty to the Nation that gives us homes and protection. Below is printed a suggestive program. In following this, you can hear yourselves keeping step with fifteen thousand other fellows, marching in the same direction and to the same music.

Christian Men will foster patriotism in other ways than in pyrotechnics, hence the following study and program:

I—Music, Orchestra or piano solo.

II—Hymn, "America."

III—Responsive Reading, Isaiah 6.

IV—Prayer.

V—Hymn, "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

VI—Address:

1. "The Call for a Christian Legislature."

Its relation to

1. Christian Socialism.

What is it? See W. T. P. Bliss "Christian Socialism." Also Morris Hillquit "Socialism in Theory and Practice." Also "Gospel of the Kingdom," 1909, Josiah Strong, Editor. "The Profit of the Many," Root; and "Jesus Christ and the Social Question," Peabody.

2. Public Utilities.

Railroads.

Waterways.

Telegraphs.

Telephones.

3. The Labor Problem.

Strikes.

Taxes.

Injunctions.

See "Practical Christian Sociology," by Wilbur Crafts, Internat. Ref. Bureau; also "Patriotic Studies," ibid.

4. The Cry of Poverty and Pauperism.

Distribution of wealth. See "Social Crisis and Christianity," chapter on "The Present Crisis," by Walter Rauschenbush, also "In the Fire of the Heart," by Ralph Waldo Trine.

5. The Answer of Christian Men to This Call.

2. "The Call of Civic Reform."

1. The Need of a Vision.

Of things as they are. Note Isaiah, 6 Chap.

Of things as they ought to be.

2. The Need of Moral Courage.

On the part of officials.

On the part of editors.

On the part of voters.

On the part of wives and daughters.

See Judge Lindsey's articles in Everybody's beginning October, 1909, ff; McClure's April, 1907; David C. Phillips' articles in Cosmopolitan, 1906; "The Shame of the Cities," by Lincoln Steffens, McClure's, 1902-3; "Gospel of the Kingdom," March, 1909.

3. "The Call of Temperance."

1. The Cigarette Problem.

The International Reform Bureau, Washington, D. C., furnishes ample information. The facts stir any patriotic soul.

2. The Saloon Problem.

See "Temperance Reform in 1907," Woolly & Johnson; "A Century of Drink in the U. S.," A. G. Feklandt; "Anti-Saloon League Year Book," Columbus, O.

3. The Reform Wave.

See index to current periodicals for 1908 and 1909.

4. Christian Men's Attitude to the Problem.

4. "The Call of the White Slave."

1. The Method of Traffic.

2. The Motive of the Traffic.

3. The Awful Slaughter of Girlhood.

4. Christian Men's Attitude to the Problem.

References, "The White Slave," $1.50, Louis Albert Banks; McClure's, November, 1909; Charities, Feb. 20, 1909; files of "Clean Politics," Indianapolis, Ind.; W. C. T. U. literature is rich in information. The facts are appalling. Look them up.

VII—Address—"The Call of Past Victories Unto Future Conquests."

1. The Freedom of Monarchial Tyranny The rise of Democracy.

2. The Emancipation of the Mind.
Galileo, Copernicus, Bacon and Des Cartes.
3. The Emancipation of the Soul.
Luther, Calvin and other reformers.
See Lindsay's "History of Reformation," Vol. 2, $2.50.
4. The Overthrow of Slavery.
5. The Emancipation of Woman.
6. The Temperance Victories.
See "Religions of Authority," Sabatier; "Eighteen Centuries," White; "The March of Christ Down the Centuries," Wilbur Crafts; "Practical Christian Sociology," ibid.
7. The Answer of Christian Men to This Call.
What shall it be?
Read Rauschenbush "Christianity and Social Crisis," Chap. "What to Do."

III—Hymn, "The Star Spangled Banner."
X—Reading, Mazzinni's Address to the Young Men of Italy." See "Orations of Homer to McKinley."

X—Reading, "Declaration of Independence."

XI—Hymn, "Hail Columbia."

XII—Social Hour.

XIII—Prayer and Benediction.

N. B.—The object of this program is to arouse a desire among the fellows to know more about our country's problems. Knowledge brings inspiration and determination. No one Brotherhood has the time to observe this whole program as arranged. Choose the portion you can use in your community.

We are well aware that few could afford to buy all the books mentioned, but one good book bought and mastered will crystallize in strengthened manhood. Why not start a Brotherhood library. Each man contribute a book.

Again, nearly all the books mentioned are in up-to-date public libraries and many of them will be found in the wide awake preacher's library. Any or all of them can be secured through CHRISTIAN MEN.

Echoes from the Program

"The March meeting of our men was a good one."—A. B. HOUSE, Kendallville, Ind.

* * *

"We held our regular monthly meeting last Monday night, March 28th, giving the program, 'The Integrity of the Home.' We invited the ladies and they accepted our invitation royally. In the debate, 'Resolved, That it is better to be married than single,' two of our young men won on the affirmative over two of our married men on the negative. Of course, you know they had the best of the question. The ladies say we men are all right."—J. J. GROVE, Ames, Iowa.

* * *

The Jackson Avenue Local Brotherhood No. 12, Kansas City, observed the program, "The Integrity of the Home," at their semi-monthly meeting in March. The ladies were invited and more than a hundred and fifty men and women were in attendance. In the debate, "Resolved, That it is better to be married than single," two young men on the affirmative put over two married men on the negative. A bowl of real "Kansas punch" was served by the wives of the officers and it was voted one of the best social affairs ever held by the Brotherhood.

* * *

"The men are very much pleased with the March number of CHRISTIAN MEN. The notes of the Sunday-School lessons are the best I have read and are written in 'A Man's Way.' Our Bible School has six departments, all organized, and begins the new quarter with increased interest.

At our missionary rally, twenty men were present to hear Brother E. W. Allen, as he gave us the commercial value of foreign missions. Our men opened their eyes. In the evening, Brother Hensey brought his appeal home to everyone present. We increased our offering from $48.00 to $80.00 last year. Our Sunday-School has increased its offering to State Work fifty per cent. On April 1st, our Bible Class will have a banquet and a number of special dates are on for the future."—P. L. HAWKINS, Lathrop, Mo.

* * *

Mr. J. D. Barnhart, President of L. B. D. C. No. 252, at Niagara Falls, reports that our annual calendar is just the thing. The March Devotional Program entitled "From Bethany to Olivet" was given most successfully. The Niagara Falls Brotherhood concludes that heretofore their meetings have been a little bit too long and dry. Now the business will be taken care of principally by their Executive Committee. They have adopted a simple, yet impressive initiation degree for new members, taking about fifteen or twenty minutes to carry out. It makes them laugh and gains their good will and at the same time has its serious import. President Barnhart began early in March, advising with his April Committee on the subjects of the April meetings. The specially adopted motto of this Brotherhood, "The Men of All Nations for the Man of All Men."

* * *

"Our Brotherhood is doing nicely. Our meetings are live and enjoyed. We are using the programs as arranged by Brother Shellenberger, whom I think is to be congratulated on the real subjects he selected. Our men are very much pleased with CHRISTIAN MEN and the Brotherhood idea is just what we have been waiting on. We are going to use the prize program this month. I think it deserved the prize."

S. R. PEDEN, President.

L. B. D. C. No. 287.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE Brotherhood Counting House

April Club Orders for Christian Men

A. B. Houze, Kendallville, Ind.....	20
J. W. McFerran, Moberly, Mo.....	50
W. R. Wilson, Bunceton, Mo.....	20
A. M. Nettleton, Hutchinson, Kan.....	150
L. W. Swen, West Liberty, Iowa.....	10
W. E. M. Hackleman, Indianapolis, Ind..	11
L. E. Singer, Hammond, Ind.....	24
W. M. Snider, Toledo, Ohio.....	24
G. H. Clark, Rennsalaer, Ind.....	30
F. R. Eaton, West Rupert, Vt.....	20
Paul A. Meyer, Evansville, Ind.....	25
L. B. Pickerill, Deland, Ill.....	42
Alfred Budd, Ashtabula, Ohio.....	11
L. O. Newcomer, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.....	135
Geo. W. Hofrichter, Cleveland, Ohio.....	24
Miss Lulu Reed, Beaumont, Tex.....	20
Earl Abernathy, Concord, Ill.....	20
E. E. Benton, Elkhart, Ind.....	24
W. E. McGowan, Harrison, Ohio.....	10
R. H. Newton, Durango, Colo.....	10
C. E. Hood, Baltimore, Md.....	24
Chester A. Kerr, Portsmouth, Ohio.....	26
Miss Eva Lemert, Ann Arbor, Mich.....	64
E. C. Gullion, Lebanon, Ind.....	11
J. R. Gilbert, Pasadena, Cal.....	20
J. H. Snider, South Bend, Ind.....	20
Barclay Meador, Lebanon, Mo.....	25
F. Snider, Uniontown, Pa.....	15
B. R. Johnson, Toronto, Ohio.....	20
Zwinglius Moore, Deming, N. M.....	25
R. C. Lightcap, Pittsburgh, Pa.....	63
J. K. Shellenberger, Sheridan, Ind.....	21
W. C. Westlake, Trenton, Mo.....	31
C. W. Cauble, Martinsville, Ind.....	20
S. A. Hendryx, Oskaloosa, Iowa.....	20
H. D. Williams, Kalamazoo, Mich.....	40
F. H. Alexander, Warren, Ohio.....	24
J. D. Hull, Mishawaka, Ind.....	32
J. T. Shreve, St. Joseph, Mo.....	100

* * *

Dues Received from Local Brotherhoods in April

No.	Name.	No. Members.	Amt.
293.	Roanoke Christian Church, Kansas City.	10	$ 1.50
287.	John Archer, Treasurer, Pittsburgh, Pa.	20	3.00
294.	A. L. Foster, Portland, Ore.	30	4.50

295.	Hugh McClellan, McKinney, Tex.	47	2.
291.	E. M. Polk, Secy., Elkhart, Ind.	11	1.0
259.	J. I. Kirkham, Galesburg, Ill.	14	2.
261.	H. T. Fields, Bedford, Ind.	67	10.0
296.	S. A. Hendryx, Oskaloosa, Iowa.	33	5.
297.	J. J. Faris, St. Joseph, Mo.	10	1.
294.	A. L. Foster, Portland, Ore.	1
300.	J. R. Gilbert, Pasadena, Cal.	45	6.
301.	E. J. Haney, Peoria, Ill..	23	3.
302.	Walter C. Crain, St. Louis, Mo.	33	4.
304.	W. H. Pugh, Toledo, Ohio.	28	1.
262.	A. L. Hockett, Jackson Ave., Kansas City, Mo..	3
303.	Rev. H. D. Williams, Kalamazoo, Mich.	38	5.

* * *

April Purchasers of Quest of the Yellow Pearl and Centurion's Story

Prof. Woodruff, Indianapolis, Ind.
H. G. Chase, Santa Barbara, Cal.
Milo Atkinson, Covington, Ky.
Milton Carter, Lowville, N. Y.
Dr. T. S. Wasson, Ellensburg, Wash.
C. G. Cantrel, Prentice, Ill.
Rev. J. F. Williams, Geneva, Ohio.
Irwin Hale, Joplin, Mo.
T. L. Trotter, Parsons, Kan.
Rev. Dean L. Bond, Marietta, Okla.
Wm. Southern, Jr., Independence, Mo.
A. F. Chapin, Chillicothe, Mo.
Burke Leavenworth, New Franklin, Mo.
L. C. Brink, Harrisville, N. Y.
Cecil J. Armstrong, Troy, N. Y.
W. D. Endres, Harvey, Ill.
F. E. Mantle, Hiram, Ohio.
D. B. Titus, Rupert, Idaho.
O. L. Smith, Emporia, Kan.
Wm. L. Garrison, Garden City, Mo.
M. L. Ericson, Denver, Colo.
Arthur Jones, Dallas, Tex.
J. B. Strode, Lincoln, Neb.
Fred B. Carey, North Tonawanda, N.

Stranger.
Herman Blough, Johnstown, Pa.
J. R. Gilbert, Pasadena, Cal.
R. D. Barrett, Riverton, Iowa.
Elder B. Goslin, Columbia, Mo.
Mrs. Lina Deitz, Norwood, Ohio.
H. S. Rice, Fulton, Mo.
W. W. A. Chatterton, Oakland, Cal.
Dr. E. H. Miller, Liberty, Mo.
L. M. Wheeler, Montgomery City, Mo.
H. D. Smith, Hopkinsville, Ky.
L. O. Harvnot, El Centro, Cal.
J. B. Weldon, Boonville, Mo.
Miss Ferne Peterson, Kansas City, Mo.
Mrs. E. H. Merry, Blue Lick, Mo.
James N. Crutcher, Sioux City, Iowa.
Chas. H. Seib, North Tonawanda, N. Y.
Alfred Smith, Pomona, Cal.
F. H. Mellen, Minneapolis, Minn.
S. C. Dumnick, Lemoore, Cal.
Edgar Brown, Bloomington, Ill.
F. D. Eisenhart, Burlington, Iowa.
J. C. Reynolds, Arrowsmith, Ill.
Fred W. Deane, Franklin, Pa.
Wm. Smith, Fayette, Mo.
W. B. Ragland, Waco, Tex.
H. E. Turner, Mt. Healy, Ohio.

* * *

Winners of Centennial Booklet Prize in April

J. W. McFarran, Moberly, Mo.
L. B. Pickerill, De Land, Ill.
L. O. Newcomer, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.
Chester A. Kerr, Portsmouth, Ohio.
Miss Eva Lemert, Ann Arbor, Mich.
Barclay Meador, Lebanon, Mo.
R. C. Lightcap, Pittsburgh, Pa.
New General Members in April.
L. B. Pickerill, De Land, Ill.
E. S. Norton, Avalon, Pa.
Isaac Wright, Bluefield, W. Va.
W. F. Jones, Camp Point, Ill.
R. A. Willard, Buffalo, N. Y.
E. L. Eaton, Gordon, Tex.
Clifton E. Rash, Plainville, Kan.

* * *

Statement of Contributions in April

W. M. Templeton, Wahiawa, Oahu, Hawaii. $10.00
Josephus Hopwood, Lynchburg, Va. 1.00
Local Brotherhood, Portsmouth, O. 10.00
N. Jarrett, La Belleview Christian Church, Steubenville, Ohio. 5.00
C. Buckner, South Bend, Ind. 5.00
Local Brotherhood, Norwood Ave. Church, Toledo, O. 5.25
Local Brotherhood, Douglas Park, Chicago. 3.00
Local Brotherhood, Ann Arbor, Mich. 10.00
Isaac Wright, Bluefield, W. Va.10

General Certificates Issued to Local Brotherhoods in April 255—Wichita, Kan., South Lawrence Ave. Church.

296—Oskaloosa, Iowa.
297—St. Joseph, Mo., Mitchell Park.
298—Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Second Church.
299—Bellvue, Pa., Bellavben.
300—Pasadena, Cal.
301—Peoria, Ill., Central Church.
302—St. Louis, Mo., Compton Heights Church.
303—Kalamazoo, Mich., Park St. Church.
304—Toledo, Ohio, Norwood Ave. Church.

* * *

Emblem Sales in April

L. B. Pickerill, De Land, Ill. $1.25
B. F. Palmer, Philipsburg, Pa.40
R. L. Eaton, Gordon, Tex. 1.25
Roanoke L. B. D. C. No. 293, Kansas City, Mo. 40
C. A. Mangum, Pres. L. B. D. C. No. 272, Omaha, Neb. 3.35
Central Illinois Ministerial Institute, Peoria, Ill. 3.70
H. L. Kunce, Kansas City, Mo. 1.25
E. M. Polk, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 291, Elkhart, Ind. 7.60
J. I. Kirkham, Treasurer L. B. D. C. No. 259, Galesburg, Ill.15
R. A. Willard, Buffalo, N. Y. 1.25
Isaac Wright, Bluefield, W. Va. 1.25
Alvin Arie, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 279, Oak Park, Ill.25
W. H. Pugh, Treasurer L. B. D. C. No. 304, Toledo, Ohio. 3.75
Isaac P. Conn, Pittsburgh, Pa.40
F. W. Burnham, Springfield, Ill. 5.00

Purchasers of Organization Material in April

V. Hays, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.
Leon Arpee, Nelsonville, O.
B. F. Palmer, Philipsburg, Pa.
Rev. C. W. McLeod, Oskaloosa, Iowa.
W. M. Templeton, Wahiawa, Oahu, Hawaii.
Dr. W. J. Fenton, Mystic, Iowa.
W. M. Baker, Poplar Bluff, Mo.
Will A. Harding, Columbus, Ind.
O. P. Harnish, Hutchinson, Kan.
L. D. McClean, Canton, Mo.
E. C. Lunger, Williamsport, Pa.
C. W. Cauble, Martinsville, Ind.
F. L. Petit, Lafayette, Ind.
J. W. Hills, Blanchard, Iowa.
S. M. Perkins, Davenport, Iowa.
G. H. Clarke, Rensselaer, Ind.
C. L. Funk, Osceola, Iowa.
C. H. De Voe, Mason City, Iowa.

P. H. WELSHIMER

The Bible School Lessons for June

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—JUNE 12.

“THE CANAANITISH WOMAN.”—MATT. 15:21-28.

American Revised.

21. And Jesus went out thence, and withdrew into the parts of Tyre and Sidon. 22 And behold, a Canaanitish woman came out from those borders, and cried, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a demon. 23 But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us. 24 But he answered and said, I was not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel. 25 But she came and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me. 26 And he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to the dogs. 27 But she said, Yea, Lord: for even the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table. 28 Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it done unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was healed from that hour.

Time—A. D. 29. Place—Borders of Tyre.

Introduction. The Pharisees were openly opposed to Jesus. Even some of his disciples would go no more with him, because his kingdom to be established was not such as they had desired. Doubtless with a desire to better prepare The Twelve for their great work, he withdraws from the crowd and goes to spend a little time in Tyre and Sidon. Read with this lesson, Mark 7:24-31.

Explanatory. 21—Tyre and Sidon were the principal cities of Phœnicia, a little country northwest of Capernaum, lying along the Mediterranean. These were known as very wicked cities, and in them heathen worship prevailed. This is the only time that we know of Jesus ever passing out of his own country into foreign territory. 22—The woman in this lesson, according to Mark, was Greek. Being Canaanitish, she was of the stock of those who inhabited Palestine before Joshua's conquest. Syrophœnician, as she was an inhabitant of that section of Syria which was once Phœnicia. As a Greek, she was a heathen religiously. She had no chance to hear nor see Jesus before this, and as his fame had spread abroad, she heard of him and doubtless had a longing to have him near if he might heal her daughter. Now that he has come, in some way she has learned of his presence and seeking him, prays for her daughter's healing. 23—Jesus kept silent for the purpose of testing her faith and learning the attitude of the disciples in the matter. They were Jews and had the Jewish ideas, and when she did cry after him much they besought him to send her away, doubtless desiring, of course, that he would first heal her daughter. 24—Jesus had been sent to the Jews only, who were the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This was in the wisdom of God and was his plan. If he had come to the Gentiles first, the Jews would never have believed. 25—The woman now prostrates herself before him, saying, “Lord, help me.” 26—The Gentile was regarded only as a dog in the eyes of the Jew. Jesus now uses a Jewish phrase and talks from the Jewish standpoint, meaning, the bread of my healing power is for the Jews, the children. “Is it wise to take the bread from them and cast it to the dogs?” Or meaning, to take my power and influence from the Jews to the Gentiles? 27—She merely asked for a crumb. What faith, what persistence, what need. She was equal to the occasion. 28—Here is a compliment to faith—“Great is thy faith.” Her wish is granted. “And her daughter was well from that hour.”

Comments on the Lesson.

The Canaanitish woman had heard of the Great Healer. She knew he was called the Son of David, for his fame had spread abroad. Hopelessly she had looked upon her child, wishing that the Master were near that she might go to him or that he might be brought to her, but alas! for days her hope had been in vain. How happy she must have been when informed that he was in the vicinity, and she goes to the house where he and the disciples were stopping and there intrudes and presents her petition. Not only was she a woman of faith, but of love as well.

It was a mother's love that led her into the presence of strangers and before the Savior of the world. Doubtless on the one side was fear, inferiority and timidity; on the other, her sick child, and that love which sends a mother into a burning building to snatch her child from death. That was the love that sent this mother into the presence of strange men to plead for the life of her child. Her heathen religion could not help, and now she longed for the man to speak a word, who had proven his power by his works. How the heart of the compassionate Christ must have been touched as he saw the yearning and read the anxiety and the sorrow in the mother's face. He, too, had a mother, and he saw his mother in every mother's face. Every true son does. This was the last resort, and the mother would not be put away. She knew he could help, and help he must. Through her pleading, she gained the ear of the Master. How simple her prayer. She believed, she was in earnest, she had something for which to pray, she made known her wants without affectation, she meant what she said and said what she meant. Her persistence made manifest her faith, and through faith, a blessing came. It is right for a mother to be exercised for the health of her child. The world is full of mothers today, who would go any distance and suffer much for the earthly life and health of her child, but alas! how many of these mothers think only of the earthly life and not the best side of that, and do nothing either by setting the example, by teaching, by prayer or by throwing around the child the proper influence to have the soul's life saved? As heaven is more than earth and the soul more than the body, as eternity is more than time, is it not worth while to develop a character that will endure? May the Lord help us to be concerned about the weightier matters and to always be busy about the right thing, for what shall it profit if we gain the whole world and lose our own soul?

Questions for Class Use.

I, Jesus and the Disciples. Why did Jesus cross into Phœnician territory? What was the attitude of the Pharisees toward him at this time? Why had some of his disciples forsaken him?

II, The Canaanitish Woman. What was the religion of this woman? How do we know she had heard of Jesus? What led her to see him? What can you say of her prayer? Did Jesus treat her unkindly? Why did he not answer her at first?

III, Faith. In what was her faith made manifest? Can you name other instances in which Jesus praised great faith? What is faith? How do you get it? How do you make it manifest? What is the value of faith in the Christian system?

LESSON 3—JUNE 19.

"THE PARABLE OF THE SOWER."—MATT. 13:1-9, 18-23.

13 On that day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side. 2 And there were gathered unto him great multitudes, so that he entered into a boat, and sat; and all the multitude stood on the beach. 3 And he spake to them many things in parables, saying, Behold, the sower went forth to sow; 4 and as he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the birds came and devoured them; and others fell upon the rocky places, where they had not much earth: and straightway they sprang up, because they had no deepness of earth: 6 and when the sun was risen, they were scorched: and because they had no root, they withered away. 7 And others fell upon the thorns; and the thorns grew up and choked them: and others fell upon the good ground, and yielded fruit, some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. 9 He that hath ears let him hear.

18 Hear then ye the parable of the sower. 19 When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the evil one, and snatcheth away that which hath been sown in his heart. This is he that was sown by the way side. 20 And he that was sown upon the rocky places, this is he that heareth the word, and straightway with joy receiveth it; 21 yet hath he not root in himself, but endureth for a while; and when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, straightway he stumbleth. 22 And he that was sown among the thorns, this is he that heareth the word; and the care of the world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful. 23 And he that was sown upon the good ground, this is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; who verily beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.

Time—A. D. 28. Place—Shore of the Lake of Galilee or Capernaum.

Introduction. Jesus here gives a great truth by means of a great parable. He often spoke in parables. By this means his enemies could not pervert his expressions. The people would often listen to a parable, when they would turn from a plain statement. A story has always been used in getting the attention of the people. Lyman Abbott defines a parable as a fictitious narrative, true to nature, yet undeceptive, veiling a spiritual truth under a symbol for the purpose of conveying it to the minds reluctant or indifferent.

Explanatory. 1-2—A great multitude gathered about Jesus as he went to the sea side. He entered the boat and from that pulpit told the story of the sower. 3-9—These verses are explained by the Master himself, in verses 18 to 23. The picture is that of a farmer sowing his seed. This could be easily understood by all his hearers. People are always interested in an illustration taken from the life which they live. Four kinds of soil are mentioned here—the wayside, rocky, thorny and the good. His disciples understood the story, but did not catch its spiritual meaning. They ask what it means. In verses 18 to 23 we have the Master's explanation. 18-19—"Wayside ground." Wayside soil is the same as the other, only it has been made hard by the feet of travelers. In scattering seed, some would fall upon this ground. (Luke 8:5.) The birds would come and pick it up before it had time to take root and grow. This is true of some people. A man hears the Word, but does not fully understand it. Before he has time to understand, the affairs of the world take his mind away from the teaching. 20-21—The rocks of Palestine are limestone and are covered with a thin layer of soil. The seed on this soil sprang up quickly. This soil also soon became parched and dry; so with men, some hear the Word gladly and receive it, but it is not deeply planted and when tribulation and persecution arrive, brought about by the Word, the hearer stumbles, falters and falls. 22—The thorny ground was pre-occupied with roots. It was a rich, productive soil, yet the thorns were so rank that they soon crowded out the seed and took possession; so there are many men who hear the Word with good intent and understand it, but permit worldly care and ambition and desire for the possession of riches to grow in their lives instead of the fruit produced by the Word of God, and they soon become unfruitful. 23—The good ground is the open heart that gladly receives the Word and assists it in growing. This is the only kind that bears a harvest.

Comments on the Lesson.

Jesus was a great teacher. Never man spake as he spake. His parables were illustrations in his sermons, and they illustrated the truth he had in mind. They were taken from the everyday life of people. The simplicity of his teaching was its charm. The common people heard him gladly. This is the greatest compliment that can be paid to any speaker. The seed that is sown is the Word of God, and we as teachers and preachers sow the seed. We cannot always tell the kind of soil on which it is being cast. There yet remains four kinds of ground. One of the tasks to be performed is to endeavor to keep the ground from becoming beaten ground. This can be done by teaching the children. We must lead them to Christ before sin makes a beaten path in their life. Another task is that of breaking up the hardened ground and getting it ready for the seed before we do the sowing. It then becomes good soil. The farmer in casting his seed was aiming only at the good soil, but accidentally some fell upon the beaten path, so we in our preaching and teaching will often find our seed falling upon such soil. Shallow soil produces no crop and shallow people produce no Christian fruit. When a man joins a preacher instead of the church, or simply comes to secure friends, to secure position and to have good standing among the people, he is a stony ground hearer. The saloon, the dance hall, inordinate desire for wealth, place, power or pleasure, are the thorns that grow up in many a life and crowd out the good seed which has been sown. The only way we can have a crop in a thorny field, is to plow out the thorns. The only way to make life worthwhile is to dig out the thorns that choke the growing seed. We can only tell the good soil by the harvest. When we find a crop is poor, knowing we have the right seed if we preach the Gospel, we should look to the soil's cultivation. A revival meeting is on, hundreds of people accept the Christ. In six months, many have gone back and walk no more with Him. We then know the soil with which we have been laboring. It is our duty to break up the hard ground, dig out the rocks, root out the briars and replant the Word of God.

Questions for Class Use.

I, Parables. What is a parable? What is the use of a parable? Name six other parables that Jesus used.

II, The Sower. In the lesson, who is the sower? What is the seed that is sown?

III, The Soil. Name the four kinds of soil used in this lesson. Can we always tell the kind of soil with which we are laboring as we sow the Gospel seed? How can we prepare the stony and the thorny ground for the good seed? What are some of the birds that come today and pluck away the seed from the beaten ground?

LESSON 4—JUNE 26.

"THE PARABLE OF THE TARES."—MATT. 13:24-30, 36-43.

24 Another parable set he before them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man that sowed good seed in his field; 25 but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares also among the wheat, and went away. 26 But when the blade sprang up and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. 27 And the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? whence then hath it tares? 28 And he said unto them, An enemy hath done this. And the servants say unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? 29 But he saith, Nay; lest haply while ye gather up the tares, ye root up the wheat with them. 30 Let both grow together until the harvest; and in the time of the harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather up first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn.

26 Then he left the multitudes, and went into the house; and his disciples came unto him, saying, Explain unto us the parable of the tares of the field. 37 And he answered and said, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man; 38 and the field is the world; and the good seed, these are the sons of the kingdom; and the tares are the sons of the evil one; 39 and the enemy that sowed them is the devil; and the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are angels. 40 As therefore the tares are gathered up and burned with fire; so shall it be in the end of the world. 41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that cause stumbling, and them that do iniquity, 42 and shall cast them into the furnace of fire; there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth. 43 Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He that hath ears, let him hear.

Time—A. D. 28. Place—Shore of the Lake of Galilee or Capernaum.

Explanatory. 25—Two kinds of seed are in contrast here—good and evil. The evil is compared to the tare, which is known to us as darnel. Instances of men sowing tares in a neighbor's field are on record. Trench tells of an instance in India and of another in Ireland. It is probable that the practice was not unknown among the people in Christ's day. 26—Early in the growth, the tares could not be distinguished from the wheat. It was not until the blade sprang up that the difference was known. 27-28—Only an enemy would sow tares. Only an enemy sows evil seed in the world today. The desire of the servants was to pull the tares from the field and give the wheat a chance. 29—The tares and the wheat grew together and the roots were interwoven. It would be impossible to pull up the one without rooting up the other. 30—Let both grow together until the harvest, which will be the day of separation, then the tares will be gathered out and burned and the wheat placed in the barns. 36—This and the parable of the sower are the two which the disciples could not interpret, and hence Jesus was asked for an explanation. His explanation of this parable is here given. 37-39—The sower of good seed is the Son of Man. His field is the entire world; the good seed the sons of the kingdom; the tares the sons of the evil one; the enemy, the devil; the harvest, the end of the world, and the reapers the angels. 40-42—Here Jesus makes a great comparison in these verses. As, at the harvest time the tares are gathered and burned with fire, so shall it be at the end of the world. Christ will send forth his angels and in this earthly kingdom the evil ones shall be separated from the righteous, and as the tares are burned so shall the evil be punished, and as the wheat shall be placed in the barn, the proper place for it, so the righteous will shine forth, bright as the sun in the kingdom of the Father.

Comments on the Lesson.

This parable is one of the most abused that Jesus gave. Jesus is not talking simply of the church. He says "the field is the world." The kingdom here is used in the wider sense of the whole world, in which there are both willing and unwilling subjects. There had been a disposition on the part of the disciples for the destruction of the wicked. One would say, "Let fire come down from heaven and consume them." It was Peter's impulse to smite them with the sword. The disciples would begin at once to root out the wicked. This was not God's way. In this there is danger of also rooting out the wheat. The lesson teaches that the Son of Man is not responsible for the evil of the world. He sows the good seed, the devil sows the evil. But the good and evil will remain together upon the earth, and at the harvest time—the end of the world, a separation will come, when the evil will be separated from the good and will be destroyed, while the good, like the good wheat, will be gathered into the place prepared for it. Herein lies the great lesson of the parable. It is an impressive picture which Jesus gives of the punishment of the wicked and the reward of the righteous. Let no man deceive himself by thinking that simply because he is a creature of God that there will be no punishment for him if he is disobedient. No other fact in the Scripture is taught with greater emphasis than the destruction of the wicked and the reward of the righteous. Some have thought this parable alluded to the church, and the wheat and tares compared to the good and the bad in the church, and that we were to let the two grow together until the end, when the angels will make the separation. But Jesus was not talking about the church. He was talking about the world. The Scriptures are plain on the duties of the church relative to those who walk not according to the faith. The inspired apostle tells us in his letters to the churches, the classes from whom we are to withdraw. To withdraw from the unrighteous in the church was not the thought in the minds of the disciples relative to the separating of the wheat and the tares. Their idea was to kill the wicked and permit the good to live. When we think of the glory to be given to the righteous, heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ, a heavenly home, glorified body, to live forever in the perfect kingdom, to shine forth with glory as the sun in the kingdom of the Father, is it not worth while to strive for such a blessing? And is it not the greatest work in the world to lead others into the life that they too may receive the Father's blessing? "O! ye of little faith." Be faithful in the battle, "quit you like men." When the day is done, what joy awaits you.

Questions for Class Use.

Who sows the good seed? What is a tare? In this parable, did Jesus allude to the entire world or simply to the church? Does he teach in this parable that the wicked are to be allowed to hold membership in the church and that it would be wrong to withdraw from them? How long are the tares and wheat allowed to grow together? Why not root out the tares today? When are they to be separated? Who are the reapers? What does Jesus teach concerning the destruction of the wicked and the reward of the righteous?

LESSON 1—JULY 3.

"PICTURES OF THE KINGDOM."—MATT. 13:31-33. 44-52.

31 Another parable set he before them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field; 32 which indeed is less than all seeds; but when it is grown, it is greater than the herbs and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the heaven come and lodge in the branches thereof.

33 Another parable spake he unto them: The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till it was all leavened.

44 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hidden in the field; which a man found, and hid; and in his joy he goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

45 And again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a merchant seeking goodly pearls; 46 and having found one pearl of great price, he went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea and gathered of every kind; 48 which, when it was filled, they drew up on the beach; and they sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but the bad they cast away. 49 So shall it be in the end of the world; the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the righteous, 50 and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth.

51 Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea. 52 And he said unto them, Therefore every scribe who hath been made a disciple to the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a householder, who bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old.

Time—A. D. 28. Place—Shore of the Sea of Galilee or Capernaum.

Introduction. In this lesson Jesus gives us pictures of the kingdom. Again he makes clear his truth by means of a parable.

Explanatory. 31-32—The mustard seed was the smallest usually sown in Jewish fields. Likewise the mustard plant was the greatest among herbs grown by the Jews. So the kingdom of heaven, like the mustard seed, was small in its beginning, but later became a great kingdom. When Jesus gave it, this parable was prophetic, but is now being fulfilled. The kingdom was established on the first Pentecost after His resurrection and is still growing. 33—Leaven quietly diffuses itself through the mass in which it is placed. The kingdom of heaven spreads itself in like manner through society. Three measures of meal was the amount used by a woman in an ordinary baking. 44—In olden times, in the absence of banks, men buried articles of value in the ground. In this case it was presumed the owner was dead and after a long time the treasure was found, otherwise the owner would not have sold it, knowing the treasure to be there. The man finding this treasure, hides it again and sells all he possesses and buys that field because of the treasure. The points of significance are these: As a man for joy will give up all that he has to possess a rich treasure, so will men filled with joy, give up everything for the blessedness of the kingdom. It is the greatest treasure to possess. 45-46—The merchant in seeking pearls, doubtless had secured some, but when he had found one pearl of great price, he went and sold all he had and bought that one. As the pearl of great price is to be sought above all else, so the kingdom of heaven eclipses everything else in value. 47-48—Here the kingdom is likened unto a net which gathers every kind of fish. The good were gathered into the vessel, the bad were cast away. Here the kingdom represents the church; the Gospel net gathers two classes—the good and the bad. 49—So at the end of the world, the angels shall come and separate the wicked and the righteous. The wicked shall be destroyed and the righteous shall be saved.

Comments on the Lesson.

How quietly the leaven of the kingdom works and how surely; as quietly as the penetrating rays of the sun. A sermon is preached, a tract is given, a Bible is placed in the hands of an individual, a song is sung and a prayer is heard. Some life is started in the straight and narrow road, and as the light shines, others are attracted. Through his good work and words, still more are reached. From other lives a good influence goes forth, the leaven is working, and ere we know it, the entire community has felt his presence and the whole is leavened. If we want to know the result of the leaven, simply compare a Christian community with one that lies in heathen darkness. Jesus never deceived. He spoke the truth plainly. He knew whereof he spoke. He has set the blessings of the kingdom far above everything which this world can afford. Pleasure, power, fame and wealth are trivial as compared to the blessings of the kingdom of God. Jesus teaches that if we understood the blessings to be ours, we would gladly give up everything we have to secure these blessings. What we need today is more faith to believe what Jesus has said. People frequently condemn the church because in its evangelistic work it gathers into the net all classes of people. When one goes fishing, he cannot always pick his fish, furthermore, the Gospel is for all the world. If men are picked up with the Gospel net, it is ours to receive them, and after we have taught them, and labored with them, if they fall away, the blame lies not with us. Here again Jesus teaches in simple and plain terms and emphatically that there will be separation—the good are to be saved and the wicked are to be punished. We may argue about this, try to explain it away, call it unreasonable, enlarge upon God's mercy and all that, but still the One who spoke with authority and who will be the judge of the quick and the dead, and who is infallible, says, "The angels shall come forth and sever the wicked from the just, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth." Do you believe the Teacher? If so, your duty is clear.

Questions for Class Use.

I, Leaven. What is leaven? How does it work? What is the application in this lesson?

II, Treasure. Why do men place their treasures in a field? Why did the man sell all he had to buy it? Would the owner have sold the field had he known the treasure was there? What is the application in the lesson?

III, Pearls. In what respect is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a pearl? Which is of greater importance—to possess all the pearls of earth, or the kingdom of heaven? While all cannot possess great pearls, the humblest and poorest can possess the Pearl that is above price. Do you possess it? Can you give a good, conscientious reason today for not possessing it? Won't you accept it today?

IV, The Net. What is the lesson we gather from the net? What does Jesus teach regarding the separation of the wicked and the righteous? Does God give every man a chance to be saved if he wants to be? If you are lost and have an opportunity to be saved and reject it, can you censure anyone but yourself? It is up to each man to lay hold of the Gospel rope and help to save himself. Have you done it? If not, blame no one but yourself.

Weis "Complete Office on Legs"

The Most Practical Desk
for Your Office

The Files You Need at Your Fingers' Ends

This handsome Flat Top Desk is supplied with any combination of nine kinds of filing drawers. These are made for filing Letters, Index Cards, Folded Documents, Catalogs, and shallow drawers suitable for Legal Blanks, Papers, Electros, Etc.

Select just the drawers you need when you need them. Your correspondence also should be kept at your fingers' ends. This and many other practical features are embodied in this handsome desk.

No. 555

Pat. App. For

$22⁰⁰

Delivered

SOLID OAK—SANITARY—HANDSOME

The pattern shown above is equipped with a drawer for 4,500-3x5 index cards, a vertical file for 5,000 letters, two small and one large storage drawers with plain solid bottoms. Also two extension side shelves.

Made in Solid Oak, finished either golden or weathered and equipped with any combination of the nine kinds of drawers at price quoted above. Birch Mahogany $24.50, delivered. Freight Paid east of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas. In and west of these states add 15 per cent.

Write for catalog "C," our compendium of information on "Space Economizers"—filing cabinets, card indexes, etc. Catalog "B" shows sectional bookcases in all popular finishes and designs. (Both Catalogs free.)

The Weis Mfg. Co.

22 Union Street, MONROE, MICH.

AGENTS

THE U. S. DRY CHEMICAL FIRE EXTINGUISHER

Phenomenal opportunity to make big money quick. Get an appointment. It will make you independent—you will always have abundant money, pleasant position, and your time will be your own. No Experience Necessary. Honesty and industry is all we require.

LISTEN: Edw. McGough, Ohio, says: "Made $160 last week. Easiest thing in the world. Everybody buys. Everybody satisfied—me best of all." E. J. Dirr, Mich., says: "Never dreamed of anything selling so easily. 18 orders one day—profit, $22.50. No trick at all. Just show and take the money." That's the way it goes—every man coining money. F. J. Baughman, Ohio, says: "Sold 15 first day. Going fine, fine, FINE, ship 250 at once. Hurrah for more business." L. C. Gordon, Ind., telegraphs: "Ship 150 today. All sold out. Everybody wants to buy." Wonderful opportunity. We offer honest, ambitious men a chance to make thousands of dollars. No matter where you live, write at once. Don't delay. Territory going fast. O. R. Joy, Ill.: "Started out 10 a. m., sold 14 by 3 o'clock." You can make this year selling the U. S. Fire Extinguisher to homes, factories, schools, stores in your territory. Amazing invention. Marvelous combination of mechanical and chemical forces. Kills fire in the wink of an eye. Absolutely guaranteed. Sells on sight. New field. Everybody needs it. Saves life, property, insurance. Stupendous money maker for agents, general agents and managers. Exclusive territory, protection, co-operation, assistance. 166 2-3 percent profit. No Risk. Fascinating. Permanent.

$4000.00

You need absolutely no experience. We teach you how to make one-minute demonstration that surprises, startles and amazes everybody. We want a good man in every territory to fill orders, appoint, supply, control sub-agents. Get an appointment at once.

SEND NO MONEY. Only your name and address on a postal card for complete information, offer and valuable statistics on fire losses Free. Investigate. Write at Once. Give name and county.

Address THE UNITED MFG. CO.,
139 Mill St., LEIPSIC, OHIO
Reference, Bank of Leipsic. Capital, $1,000,000

Magazine and the Bible Lesson Helps
For the Brotherhood Bible Class

Prepared by
P. H. WELSHIMER

RATES

20 copies, One Quarter	$1.25
40 " " "	2.50
100 " " "	6.25

Order and Pay for Quarterly
Like other Bible School Supplies

CHRISTIAN MEN

Address R. A. Long Building
Kansas City, Mo.

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers

Weis "Complete Office on Legs"

The Files You Need at Your Fingers' Ends

The Most Practical Desk
for Your Office

This handsome Flat Top Desk is supplied with any combination of nine kinds of filing drawers. These are made for filing Letters, Index Cards, Folded Documents, Catalogs and shallow drawers suitable for Legal Blanks, Papers, Electros, Etc.

Select just the drawers you need when you need them. Your correspondence also should be kept at your fingers' ends. This and many other practical features are embodied in this handsome desk.

No. 555

Pat. App. For

$22⁰⁰

Delivered

SOLID OAK—SANITARY—HANDSOME

The pattern shown above is equipped with a drawer for 4,500-3x5 index cards, a vertical file for 5,000 letters, two small and one large storage drawers with plain solid bottoms. Also two extension side shelves.

Made in Solid Oak, finished either golden or weathered and equipped with any combination of the nine kinds of drawers at price quoted above. Birch Mahogany $24.50, delivered Freight Paid east of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas. In and west of these states add 15 per cent.

Write for catalog "C," our compendium of information on "Space Economizers"—filing cabinets, card indexes, etc. Catalog "B" shows sectional bookcases in all popular finishes and designs. (Both Catalogs free.)

The Weis Mfg. Co.

22 Union Street, MONROE, MICH.

Texas and Oklahoma

And all Important

Points

In the SOUTHWEST

Easily reached by

Correct Train Service

FRED HARVEY MEALS

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers.

Weis "Complete Office on Legs"

The Most Practical Desk for Your Office

The Files You Need at Your Fingers' Ends

No. 555

Pat. App. For

$22.00

Delivered

SOLID OAK—SANITARY HANDSOME

The pattern shown above is equipped with a drawer for 4,500-3x5 index cards, a vertical file for 5,000 letters, two small and one large storage drawers with plain solid bottoms. Also two extension side shelves.

Made in Solid Oak, finished either golden or weathered and equipped with any combination of the nine kinds of drawers at price quoted above. Birch Mahogany $24.50, delivered. Freight Paid east of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas. In and west of these states add 15 per cent.

Write for catalog "C," our compendium of information on "Space Economizers"—filing cabinets, card indexes, etc. Catalog "B" shows sectional bookcases in all popular finishes and designs. (Both Catalogs free.)

The Weis Mfg. Co.

22 Union Street, MONROE, MICH.

Texas and Oklahoma

And all Important Points

In the SOUTHWEST

Easily reached by

Correct Train Service

FRED HARVEY MEALS

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers.

MUHLBACH'S Historical Romances At a Great Bargain

These Wonderful Historical Novels carry the reader into palace and hotel, camp and boudoir, and unveil the glance of espietry that stayed the march of armies, or the vaulting ambition that changed the destiny of nations. You see and feel how love, hope, aversion, ambition, jealousy and intrigue entered into the lives of men and women and changed the course of empires. Napoleon divorcing the Empress Josephine, the only woman he ever loved, and marrying the daughter of the hated Austrians, that he might found a dynasty and bring to pass his dreams of universal empire, is only one of the many thousands of tragic events so full of passion and tears, of sacrifice and achievement. These romances form a theme such as never before employed an author's pen, and Muhlbach performed the task with a literary skill and loving fidelity that has never been surpassed. No fiction, no drama can compare with these wonderful novels, and you will find them not only fascinating and intensely interesting, but reliable and truthful as well. Mail the COUPON below for free examination in your own home.

Only 7c a Day Buys This Great Work

Eighteen Volumes. Half Morocco Binding. 9,000 Pages. Gilt Top. These are the titles below.

Vol. I. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia.	Vol. VII. The Daughter of an Empress.	Vol. XIII. The Merchant of Berlin.
Vol. II. The Empress Josephine.	Vol. VIII. Joseph II. and His Court.	Vol. XIV. Louis of Prussia and Her Times.
Vol. III. Napoleon and Blucher.	Vol. IX. Frederick the Great and His Court.	Vol. XV. Old Fritz and the New Era.
Vol. IV. Queen Hortense.	Vol. X. Frederick the Great and His Family.	Vol. XVI. Andreas Hofer.
Vol. V. Marie Antoinette and Her Son.	Vol. XI. Berlin and Sans Souci.	Vol. XVII. Mohammed Ali and His House.
Vol. VI. Prince Eugene and His Times.	Vol. XII. Goethe and Schiller.	Vol. XVIII. Henry VIII. and His Court.

MUHLBACH'S HISTORICAL ROMANCES cover the period of the great crisis in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blucher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. This new Riverside Edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Silk Cloth, gilt tops, titles stamped in gold.

HERE is our Bargain Offer. Send no money now. Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful Riverside Edition for 10 days' examination in your own home. You can then decide for yourself whether or not you wish the set. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you decide to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only fourteen months until our special price of $29.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $56.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $29.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middlemen's profits. We ship direct from the factory to your home at the lowest possible price in any way. If cloth binding is preferred, please write "Half Morocco" in coupon to "Cloth" and fourteen months to nine months.

The Riverside Publishing Company, CHICAGO

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers.

Name _____

Address _____

Occupation _____

Please ship me for examination _____

I enclose $1.00 as first payment and the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only fourteen months until our special price of $29.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $56.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $29.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middlemen's profits. We ship direct from the factory to your home at the lowest possible price in any way. If cloth binding is preferred, please write "Half Morocco" in coupon to "Cloth" and fourteen months to nine months.

Christian MEN

Volume 4 KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, JULY, 1910 Number 1

L. O. NEWCOMER

Per Year 50 Cents Per Copy 5 Cents

Christian University
CANTON, MISSOURI
(Founded 1853)

For the higher education of your sons and daughters.

Canton is on the Mississippi River and the Burlington Railroad, 157 miles north of St. Louis, 279 miles west of Chicago, 239 miles east of Kansas City, 17 miles north of Quincy, 22 miles south of Keokuk.

Christian University occupies a hill one-half mile from the "Father of Waters." One of the most ideal locations imaginable.

Academic, Classical, Scientific Ministerial and Music.

For Ministerial students who desire to earn a part or all of their way through school by preaching in neighboring cities and towns. Missouri has more churches of our faith than any other State in the Union.

The suburban location of Canton insures low cost of living, while University expenses are made as reasonable as efficiency will permit.

Containing views of the University and in and around Canton, together with descriptive catalogue, MAILED FREE upon application to CARL JOHANN, President, Canton, Mo.

Next Session Begins Tuesday, September 13, 1910

Drake University
"The College of the Bible"

You will find here the best opportunity:

To earn part or all of your school expenses
To fill pulpits while studying
To prepare for the mission field
To fit yourself for complete service

Other Colleges
Liberal Arts, Medicine, Dentistry, Law,
Education, Fine Arts

For Catalog Address Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa

The Bible College of Missouri
Columbia, Missouri

Devoted wholly to BIBLICAL and RELIGIOUS instruction. NO TUTIONS. Endowment $150,000. Property worth $50,000.

Just across the street from the UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI, all the facilities of which are at command practically free of charge. Students received into PREPARATORY work, both BIBLICAL and LITERARY, by Bible College and UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL.

Abundant opportunities for self-support.

For Catalog address Charles M. Sharpe, Dean

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers.

ADELPHIAN BIBLE CLASS, MT. VERNON, OHIO

L. O. NEWCOMER, TEACHER—348 MEN IN PICTURE

Five years ago there were twelve men in this class. Twelve plus the teacher, Lawrence O. Newcomer, newly installed pastor of the church at Mount Vernon, Ohio—twelve men plus the teacher plus a large ideal. Now it has a total enrollment of five hundred and thirty-five and the attendance has reached as high as three hundred and forty-eight. It took five workful years to do it, but it was done.

The class is composed of men ranging in age from twenty-one to eighty-five years. It is cosmopolitan in its membership. One Adelphean has been sentenced to the legislature. Two have been paroled therefrom. There are eight lawyers, and doctors enough to take care of the people after the lawyers get through with them. We assume the presence of undertakers, although they are not listed. There are merchants, clerks, contractors, mechanics, traveling salesmen, farmers and ex-dispensers of the cup that kills. The organization consists of the teacher, an assistant teacher, president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, assistant treasurer, committee on policy, a devotional committee and one on music.

To Mr. W. E. Sefton, an elder of the church, we are indebted for the following information regarding the class:

The Plan "In our work we know no man after the flesh, but are all one in our effort to bring men to a higher conception of their relationship one to the other and the Master who gave himself a ransom for all men. Members are furnished with proposal cards on which to write the name and address of persons whom they solicit and who express a willingness to become members. These names are proposed to the class, who by a viva-voce expression receive them into membership. Each new member is furnished with a class button to wear on the lapel of his coat and a copy of "The Bible Students' Manual," whose author is the present teacher. This manual is furnished for the purpose of giving men a clear and intelligent conception of the plan of salvation as enunciated by Christ and his Apostles. It is prized very highly because of the vast amount of information it contains relating to God's dealing with the children of men. As soon as a man becomes a member of the class he imbibes the spirit of emulation and goes out to tell the story of the comradeship of the class to his friends and unhesitatingly invites his auditor to come and see and join the class. The growth has not been spasmodic but steady, and this has been especially true of this last year, in which time the class has almost doubled in membership. The inspiration coming from this class has had a great influence on the Bible School in general, so that it, too, has grown correspondingly in every department. The fathers becoming interested in the Bible class have encouraged the organization of a Cradle Roll and a Home Department, the former numbering 150, with 68 in the Home Department. Such a spirit of emulation and fraternity as exists is simply irresistible and can and will result in an enlargement of our present quarters, and the dissemination of the Bible teaching in all its power and simplicity as it could not have been done had not the Adelphean class been organized and developed as it has been. Eternity alone can only measure the good influence and uplifting of men that has been accomplished through its influence and teaching. Continually the question is being asked, "What is the secret of getting and holding men in a Bible Class such as the Adelphean and others of its kind?" I answer there is no secret. Men are hungering and thirsting after righteousness and a better knowledge of God and His love. The first thing, then, is a loyal, capable, unassuming, God-fearing and man-loving teacher, who knows no man after the flesh.

The Teaching Zealous and energetic and who lives like Christ not only in the pulpit but in his daily walk and talk among men. Such a one is an inspiration and influences men to such an extent that they at once imbibe his spirit and go out from his presence imbued with a desire to bring others under this God-like influence. Such a teacher is irresistible and as a result you soon have an army of persistent and irresistible helpers who are continually bringing in additions. No sensational or questionable methods are desirable. Work, work, and keep working. Last, but not least, teach the truth as contained in the Bible. Hold up the Bible as the word of God, adding nothing to it and taking nothing from it. Where the Bible speaks let the teacher speak and where the Bible is silent let the teacher be silent. Teaching about the Bible and expressing opinions discrediting its sayings will never build up a Bible class. Men are not drawn by destructive teaching. "I if I be lifted up will draw all men to me," says the great Shepherd. Hold up Christ, talk Him and live Him. An exaltation of the Bible and the old paths are what men today are reaching out after. The lack of this kind of teaching makes a dearth of men in the church and class. The Gospel is the power of God and if you want to interest men and enlarge your school teach the Bible and the Bible only.

Faith in the Master coupled with zeal, co-operation, determination and an exaltation of Christ will bring results such as obtain here in Mt. Vernon. We claim no patent on the methods employed here. Go thou and do likewise and you will be blessed with results such as have come to us.

We could not possibly close this record without allowing the pastor and teacher himself to have a word to say. He begins with some remarks about this class being a fine-looking body of men, which we have blue penciled on the theory that the picture speaks for itself more eloquently than even Mr. Newcomer could write. What follows is an excerpt from his own story of the class. In a place or two it may be a paraphrase of the article of Mr. Sefton, but since it comes from another angle we repeat it without considering it a repetition.

"It is commonly said that there is more of a fraternal relationship existing in the Adelphean Bible class than is found in any lodge in the city. The great work accomplished by this organization in Mt. Vernon we believe would be impossible to exaggerate. In fact, its influence is not only felt in the city but extends throughout the entire county.

Although the class was organized in April, 1905, when the present minister took charge nearly four years ago, there was an attendance of from 12 to 15 men. While the class has experienced a gradual growth from the beginning, the greatest results have been attained during the last year. Before the class became Special Days large enough to fill the room special days were arranged, such as "Visitors' Day," "Ladies' Day," "New Members' Day," "Rally Day," etc. The climax was reached, however, when we had "Picture Day." An expert photographer came from Cincinnati with a panoramic camera and we conducted an open air service, after which the picture was taken.

Although it rained and twice our men ran away to seek shelter, we succeeded in having the picture taken with 348 men present. Had the weather been favorable we doubtless would have reached nearly five hundred.

Rainy Day Picture During the past year few Sundays have passed but what one or more persons have been admitted into the fellowship of the class, eighty being the largest number admitted on any one day. Each new member signs a card, giving name, street and number; also if a member of any church the name of the church. In this way a careful record is kept of all the members. On entering the class each man enrolls on a slip of paper and the record of attendance is kept by the secretary. Besides the regular officers and committees required for an organized class we have our relief committee, advisory committee, etc. We have our city divided into wards and precincts, with our captain and lieutenants. Each man is expected to look after the territory assigned to him. Our service is opened by singing and music by the orchestra. The lesson is conducted largely on the lecture plan, but the opportunity is always given to ask questions, and many questions are put to the class. Many are asking the question, "What is the secret of getting and holding men in the Bible class?"

I believe every church should have a Men's Bible class. It helps to keep up attendance. It helps financially, and last, but not least, it brings souls into the Kingdom of God. This is the normal evangelism. A large class of men is an inspiration to any church and preacher.

Five years ago there were twelve men in this class. Twelve plus the teacher, Lawrence O. Newcomer, newly installed pastor of the church at Mount Vernon, Ohio—twelve men plus the teacher plus a large ideal. Now it has a total enrollment of five hundred and thirty-five and the attendance has reached as high as three hundred and forty-eight. It took five workful years to do it, but it was done.

The class is composed of men ranging in age from twenty-one to eighty-five years. It is cosmopolitan in its membership. One Adelphian has been sentenced to the legislature. Two paroled therefrom. There are lawyers, and doctors enough to care of the people after the law through with them. We also have the presence of undertakers, although they are not listed. There are clerks, contractors, mechanics, salesmen, farmers and ex-dispensary the cup that kills. The organization consists of the teacher, an assistant president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, assistant treasurer, committee on policy, a devotional committee and music.

To Mr. W. E. Sefton, an elder

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor

E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

A. LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

C. CHAPMAN - - - - -	Fullerton, Cal.	J. H. ALLEN - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.
GEORGE F. RAND - - - - -	Buffalo, N. Y.	BURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
H. STOCKTON - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.	ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

P. C. MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
---------------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum

—in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 4

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, JULY, 1910

Number 1

Oncomer Newcomer

On the front cover is the picture of L. O. Newcomer. He never made a million dollars, got arrested or scuttled a ship. He is not a captain of industry, but an industrious captain in the army of the Lord. His name breaks into the head lines because he is the teacher and principal man-getter in one of the largest men's Bible Classes in America. He is pastor of the Christian Church at Mount Vernon, Ohio, and teacher of the Adelpian Bible Class.

"He that ruleth his own spirit is greater than he that taketh a city," according to holy writ, and so in our humble latter day opinion, he that buildeth a Bible School is greater than he that busteth a trust or aviateth from Sisquoc to Podunk.

To tell the honest truth, and we try to do this at all times, we do not know very much else about Mr. Newcomer. We asked him to tell us something about himself and he wrote us unnumbered pages of legal cap about the Bible Class. We asked him to have somebody else write something about him, and back again came pages of closely packed lines about the Adelpian Bible Class, and only a phrase or two about the man behind the men who themselves are behind the class. This seems to be another case where a man of rarely constituted personal force has preferred to lose himself in his work. Possibly this is a secret of great Bible Classes. The big thing is no man; it is the class. Of course, the man there, aspiring and inspiring, touching the buttons, pulling the strings, scraping the spark plugs, watching the radiator, testing the clutches, pumping in the lubricant, inflating the tired and deflating the proud, brooding over the whole, pointing never to himself, but always to the Great Pathfinder and to the road ahead. The thing to consider is the class. The aims are the class aims, the message is a class message, and the achievements are class achievements. Here perhaps, lies the vein of genius in the man who builds a great Bible Class. He does not elaborate the plans which only inspired men can succeed with. The working specifications are such that the humblest man can understand them, and the work done to make the class greater and better is a work in which every man can and is expected to take part.

We wish we could tell you more about Newcomer, but we can't. Perhaps we have put it all in the title. Newcomer is an Oncomer. In this practical work that concerns itself with things to be done, we are caring less and less about family pedigree and college filagree and more about what a man is and is going to be and what he does and is going to do.

We do not know whether Mr. Newcomer is high born, or university bred, or even whether he has matriculated in the school of matrimony, but we infer from his appearance that those delicately chiseled features come from a strain that is blue and that some good school has had a hand in packing his brain with the intelligence that shows in his work. We would even hazard the speculation that the flaxen locks upon his head are often smoothed by loving fingers and that the anxious look which his face has worn ever since the Adelpians entered into that last big contest with Nelsonville is often chased away entirely by the tender words of an adoring wife. A young lady who listens to the labored dictation of these words suggests, "What if he isn't married?" Very well, then, he isn't, we hazard again the speculation that he is going to be. Again, we point to our head lines, Oncomer Newcomer.

Light on the personality we are considering breaks from the pages written by W. E. Sefton, an elder of the Mount Vernon Church, regarding the Adelpian Bible Class. We quote: "He is in addition a loyal, capable, unassuming, God-fearing man and loving teacher, who knows no man after the flesh. Zealous and energetic, he lives like Christ, not only in the pulpit, but in his daily walk and talk among men, and such a one is an inspiration and influence to men to such an extent that they at once imbibe his spirit and go out from his presence imbued with a desire to bring others to this God-like influence."

While the writer does not say in so many words that he is writing of the teacher of the Adelpians, we feel sure that that is what he means. He has written down as his ideal of the teacher and minister the reality which for six years has been going in and out among the members of the Adelpian Bible Class as it grew from fifteen to an enrollment of five hundred and thirty-five and from an attendance of twelve to as many as three hundred and forty-eight.

We spoke of the subject of our editorial sketch in the June number as a man of promise in that we believe him to be a type of young business men who were making it a rule of their lives to seek first the Kingdom of God. Newcomer has demonstrated himself to be a great man-getter and class builder, and we believe also that he is a type. All over the country today our ministers are studying the methods of man-getting and the secret of man-handling. Bible Class men know but one Newcomer, and we hail Newcomer the Oncomer; but he is not the only oncomer. There are scores of them, many of whose names pop into mind at the moment—honest, earnest, manly, saintly men who are building great Bible Classes and great Brotherhood organizations, whose significance to the Kingdom of God cannot be flashed into head lines nor set down in sober words.

It is significant to us that the two greatest Men's Classes among us have been builded one by a layman, R. A. Doan, and the other by a minister, L. O. Newcomer. The point of approach of these two class builders must therefore be very different, but the result is the same. This is of significance to all of our churches. No church need sit down and wait for some preacher to build a great class for them since the class at Nelsonville shows a layman can do it just as well, and no preacher need mope in his study waiting for some wonderfully gifted layman to come along and build him a great Bible Class, since the work at Mt. Vernon indicates that the preacher can do it himself.

Hail to the man-getter, whoever and wherever he is, who flings down his nets or stacks his coin and turns away to become a fisher of men or a collector of human toll on the broad highway of life.

North America for Christ

On the 18th of May nearly fifty men sat down together in the Hotel Manhattan in New York City to plan what will undoubtedly prove to be the greatest religious propaganda in the history of North America. These men were secretaries of the International Y. M. C. A., representatives of the Brotherhood organizations of many religious communions in this country and a sprinkling of specialists in religious work among men connected with Sunday-School and other church organizations. James G. Cannon of the Fourth National Bank of New York City was elected chairman and Hubert Carleton, general secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, was elected secretary. The plan is to inaugurate in the year 1911 and '12 a great "America For Christ" campaign to consist in the main of ninety great conventions in as many cities in the United States and Canada, to be followed by sub-conventions to the number of several hundred in tributary territory. The meetings are not intended to be enthusiasm generators alone, nor are they to be gatherings in which a mawkish sentimental evangelism of a type already too familiar shall predominate. It is planned to make the meetings of such a character as to reach the men of a city with a definite gospel that will be informational as well as inspirational; that will enlist for the time being in a common service all religious organizations in the city and employ them in a hand-to-hand campaign to win men to Christ and the Church. The work will be laid out in divisions—Bible study, evangelism, boys' work, sociological endeavor and so on. A team of specialists will be in charge of each department. They will aim to train the church, to tell the church how to reach men, and to tell men how to serve the church. There will be hundreds of noonday meetings to reach men of all classes, shop meetings, street meetings, commercial club and hotel meetings, Board of Trade and Exchange meetings, and, in fact, every place where men are together will be seized upon from some vantage point as a means of teaching and preaching. There will be speakers of sufficient eminence and ability to be able to demonstrate the practical relationship between Christianity and civilization, between the church and commerce, between Christ and industry and social welfare. The plan will involve the bringing together upon the program of men of statesmanlike capacity, sanity of thought, clarity of vision and all-compelling optimism. The result of such conventions so generated and organized as to for the time being open a door of opportunity onto every floor of city's life above and below the ground will be incomprehensibly great. The Hotel Manhattan meeting adjourned after authorizing the chairman, Mr. Cannon, to appoint a committee of ten, which in turn was to nominate an executive committee of forty who are to have general charge of the campaign. This committee has been named and consists of the following:

Charles T. Thompson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Frank H. Field, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Elmore Harris, Toronto, Ont.; Frank Dyer, Chicago, Ill.; Fayette I. Thompson, New York City; Hubert Carleton, Boston, Mass.; P. C. Macfarlane, Kansas City, Mo.; Marion Lawrence, Chicago, Ill.; A. L. Phillips, Richmond, Va.; Wm. H. Pheley, Philadelphia, Pa.; Fred B. Smith, New York City.

Plenty of time is to be taken in which to prepare for the movement and lay the foundations broad and deep. It is believed the enterprise will from the beginning command the cordial coöperation of the tremendous religious force which really exists in America. It is of significance to the Disciples of Christ because it is a union movement and represents an honest endeavor to enlist the whole Protestant Church in a great sane program of evangelism. As the allied armies of the civilized world march on to Peking, so the allied armies of the Church of Christ in North America are to march on towards the stronghold of ignorance and sin. Already we behold Satan falling as fire from Heaven.

Our Consistently Insistent Persistency

Some of our friends tell us that we are working the renewal business awful hard—Almost frantically. This is so. We have to. But you know Uncle Sam does not treat the monthly periodical anywhere near as generously as he does the weekly in the matter of subscriptions. A weekly journal may be sent a whole year after it is delinquent, or fifty-two times, while a monthly may only be sent on a third of a year, or four times. That is, a weekly has just thirteen times as good a chance to retain and build up its circulation on the basis of renewals as a monthly. Consequently, if you find us thirteen times as energetic in the endeavor to secure renewals, you understand the reason, we are trying to overcome our handicap. We have to be thirteen times as frantic to get each name back on the roll in order to get an even break with the other periodicals that are contending for your patronage.

At this writing some 3,000 names on last year's subscription lists have failed to heed the repeated requests to renew their subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN. (C) half that number we are placing a 2c postage stamp in order to get the magazine to the subscriber and stay within the ruling of the Postoffice department. This is a laborious and expensive process and a task from which we would gladly be relieved. We could summarily cut off the subscriptions when they expire and have a clear conscience but a lot of disappointed subscribers—well meaning procrastinators who intended to renew but—!

We want to hold every name we have and secure many new ones, but as we have no paid agents and rely altogether upon the loyal assistance of some one, two or three men in each local church, you will readily gather our predicament at this moment. We must have relief, and have it quick. Men in various localities are responding nobly, but there are not half enough of them.

Now that you understand the situation, won't you help us, and that promptly? Renew your own subscription if it has expired. If the club subscription in your church has expired, constitute yourself a committee of one to secure renewals and add many new names. What is everybody's business is nobody's business. Make it your business. If somebody else is already at work on it, help him. Push the thing. Boost it. Get it over with and be ready for the next good deed. Do it in a man's way.

CHRISTIAN MEN is bettering with each issue. We are engaging for coming months as splendid articles as can be prepared. They come from men of experience, men who know how to write and who know how to do things. Yesterday is gone. Tomorrow hasn't come. The only time you have is now. Do it when you have time, which is at this instant. Please! Can you resist our consistently persistent persistency?

Individual subscriptions.50 cents per year

Clubs of ten.35 cents per year

Clubs of twenty.25 cents per year

All payable in advance. Bible Schools can order at club rates and pay on quarterly basis, the same as for other Bible School supplies.

On To Boone

The preparations for the great Brotherhood convention at Boone, Iowa, in connection with the annual State Convention, are going forward rapidly. The program will be one of the strongest ever offered.

The plan being adopted by the Iowa State Brotherhood Committee, to promote the attendance at this convention, is unique as well as apostolic. They are asking each Brotherhood to form several teams of two men each who are to go from church to church in their respective districts, speaking in behalf of a large attendance at the convention. A very handsome banner is being prepared and will be presented to the club whose team members travel the greatest number of miles in behalf of the convention. We will not be surprised to find that some of these teams have traveled not only hundreds but thousands of miles in this cause. What could testify more eloquently to the abundant faith and glorious potentialities hidden among the men of Christ's church in Iowa.

Make Good or Make Way

No man can take time to carefully read the practical articles on Brotherhood work in this issue without realizing that we expect a good deal of the men who are entering into this affiliation. This is true. It may just as well be recognized first as last, that when it comes to the organizing and handling of men it takes work. This is the most difficult problem in all the world. "The proper study of mankind is man" sang the poet long ago, and the proper object of every Christian man is the study and organization of men for Christian service. One of our great leaders has said: "To be a Christian is to get Christ's point of view and to organize it into life." The object of the Brotherhood is to get all these men who are trying individually to organize their lives according to Christ's own plan into a fellowship where the power of the individual organizations will be immeasurably enhanced. This is Christ's own idea of the Church. We certainly do lay out in the accompanying pages a plan for activities that is going to require work. We believe that the Church has a right to demand exactly the same standard of efficiency in service that business or trade or industry does. The men who read this magazine are ninety-five per cent of them efficient in business or labor. They do their work. They do it well. They know that they must make good or make way. This is the seemingly pitiless standard of efficiency which the commercial world imposes. The Church imposes just as high a one. Are ye able to be baptized with the cup of consecration? To be girded with the towel of service? Are you ready to put your hand to the plow and keep it there? Are you willing to leave houses and lands and business and counting rooms and work benches and sports and amusements and social pleasures just for a little time each day in order that you may devote your time and talent to the things of God, to the activities of Christ, to the beckonings of His Holy Spirit?

These, dear friends, are the serious questions that confront you. The success of this movement is not the mere matter of a constitution, of a name, of an emblem, of a covenant, of a few dribbling cents a year, of any sort of tithing of the mint and the anise and the cumin of your manhood's powers. It is the actual consecration of your heart and hand and brain to this work. If you will serve God and the Brotherhood in whatever capacity you may be called, whether as an executive in chief, as the head of a department or as a mere toiler in these honored ranks, let me repeat, if you will serve with the same efficiency that you must serve or starve in the world of secular activity, you can and will contribute to making the Brotherhood organization a glorious success in your church. Can you do it? No; change the form of the interrogative. Will you do it? The men of our churches today remind us of nothing in the life of Christ so much as that infirm man lying at the pool of Bethesda. Jesus, from His throne on high, looking down on you men in the churches today in your attitude of listless indolence, sees that you have been now a long time in that case and asks as He did on that historic occasion by the gurgling waters of the Angel's Fountain: "Wouldst thou be made whole?"

The Bible School's Greatest Individual

BY P. H. WELSHIMER.

(Stirring Editorial from our Bible School Editor.)

Life Talks—Meat Eaters—It's the Dull Pace That Kills—Samples of Push

Every officer in the Bible School holds an important post, but the most important is that of the teacher. The music, sociability and equipment are all important factors in the making of a successful school, but these are all simply a means to an end. Without teaching, the school is a failure. The greatest problem in Bible School work today is that of the teacher. He holds the key to the situation. With a good teacher, all problems are easily solved. With too many, it seems only a trivial task to be a teacher of a class, whereas it is the greatest work God ever committed to the hands of men.

The teacher who succeeds in the highest degree must have the following characteristics: First, he must be a Christian. We demand that the man in the pulpit shall be a Christian. Why not demand the same of the teacher? The pupil is impressed as much with the life of a teacher as with his words. They may not remember what he says, they will never forget what he does. Personality is everything. "Let your light so shine" applies to the teacher as well as to other people. The standard of Christian living for the teacher should be as high as that for the preacher. It is rank inconsistency to have any other than a Christian man or woman to be standing before a class and teaching the Word of God. It is the teacher's business to lead his pupils to Christ and train them for Christian service. How can a non-Christian do it? Not only should a teacher be a Christian in name but in reality.

In the great Bushwick Avenue Methodist Bible School at Brooklyn, N. Y., it is said there are eighty-seven teachers, not one of whom plays cards, dances or attends the theatre. All are consecrated to their work and avoid the very appearance of evil for their pupils' sake. With them if eating meat causes people to offend, they will eat no meat while the world stands. The teacher is the shepherd of the flock. Each teacher in the Bible School should be made to feel that he is an assistant pastor, whose duty it is to have pastoral care over those he teaches.

Second, the teacher must be interesting. An interesting teacher is one who knows what to teach and how to teach it. The day is past when the teacher can rush into Bible School fifteen minutes after the session has begun, pick up a lesson leaf and sit down before the class, have a responsive reading, ask a few questions from the leaf and expect to hold the attention of his pupils and build up his class.

The Bible is the greatest book in the world; it contains the greatest truths; it is the most fascinating and interesting of all books, and he who teaches aright must know the Book. In this day of teacher training classes, teachers meetings and commentaries there is no excuse for any teacher to go before a class poorly prepared. Our public schools employ specialists to teach our children five days in the week. Is it not wise to provide for their spiritual instruction one-half hour a week the best it is possible to secure? People who go to Bible School go to be taught and they desire to be taught the Bible. Nothing else can take its place. Current events, politics, sociology and scores of other problems of the day will fail to hold the attention in the Bible School class. In the Bible School on the Lord's Day the Bible should be taught, and the teacher will hold his pupils best who knows how to present the lesson in an interesting way. Dull teachers, like dull preachers, can soon kill an audience. Other things may draw for a time, but in the last analysis it takes the teaching to hold.

Third, he must be interested. The interested teacher will love his pupils and will strive in every way possible to do them good. Here is what some interested teachers in the Canton Bible School do: One girl living two and a half miles from the church, having to pass through long, dark, shady streets, through one of the most dangerous sections of the city, never misses teachers' meeting, is always present to greet her class on Sunday morning when the first one enters and never permits rain, snow or cold to prevent her attendance. Her absentees are carefully looked after; her sick are called upon and she keeps sweet all the time. She is interested and the attendance in her class shows it.

Another teacher with a large class of young ladies secures positions for his girls when they are out of employment. He goes to offices and stores and the homes of people and places his girls. He gets up at 6 o'clock on Sunday morning and telephones to the homes where the girls are liable to oversleep. He passes the telephone list around and has other girls in the class help him. He calls upon everyone who is ill and upon their parents when they are ill or in trouble. He sees that his absentees are all looked after carefully. He is on the lookout for every opportunity to commend the work which they do. He is interested.

Another teacher of young men read one evening of several boys in the city being locked in the city prison for stealing bicycles. He went to the prison, talked to the boys, then to the mayor and the probate court. He secured a promise from the boys that they would start to Bible School and attend regularly if he would secure their release. He pleaded for the boys before the court and saved them from a sentence in the reform school, got them positions in a factory and brought them to Bible School. Some of them have obeyed the Gospel; they are faithful fellows. He is making men of them. He is an interested teacher.

Another teacher of young men, with some of the boys of his class, calls upon the absentees and the sick. He picked up three boys swearing on a saloon doorstep one day, secured their names and addresses and after working hours, astride his wheel, he rode to their homes and secured their promise to start to Bible School. Two of them came. He made them welcome, visited them frequently and they became regular attendants and are now in the church. Many other examples might be given of the interested teacher. In brief, he will know the pupils, meet them in their own homes, sympathize with them in adversity, rejoice with them in prosperity, be watchful for opportunities to commend the good they do, be regular and punctual at the school, always prepared to teach and always optimistic.

The Secret is Out!

R. A. Doan Tells Why They Organized a Brotherhood in The Great Nelsonville Bible Class

- 1st. Because we want to be a unit in a great organization which we believe can be made the most powerful force in Christendom.
- 2d. Because our class motto is "The Other Fellow" and we see in the Brotherhood an opportunity for us to reach out beyond our own little community and be of some service to many "other fellows."
- 3d. Because it seems to us that only by binding together as a solid whole the various interests of men among our churches can a great projectile be formed which may be fired with effect upon the enemy when occasion arises. Satan doesn't greatly fear our pop-guns and hap-hazard firing.
- 4th. Because we like men--and lots of 'em. There is great inspiration simply in the knowledge that we are associated with thousands of men.
- 5th. Because the systematic work of the Brotherhood organization will bring into existence many new local organizations and will put ginger into some of the old ones.
- 6th. Because we want the benefit of the advice of men who are giving their entire time to the study of the "man-problem." We need the help of specialists and experts.

Built in a Day, or The Little Red Hen at Peoria

Many years ago there used to be in the children's story books "The Tale of the Little Red Hen." Some of our readers will remember this busy little red hen. She found a grain of wheat and said to the assembled poultry yard, "Who will plant this grain of wheat?" The roosters said "I won't," the hens said "I won't," and the pullets said "I won't." Then the little red hen said "I will," and she did. The grain grew tall and high. "Who will thresh this grain of wheat?" said the little red hen. The roosters said "I won't," the hens said "I won't," and the pullets said "I won't." The little red hen said "I will," and she did. When the grain was threshed the question of grinding it into flour and kneading it into bread and putting it into the oven and baking it were all put up to the sons and daughters of the feathered kind, with no response, but when the little red hen produced the round, white, toothsome loaf and asked "Who will eat this loaf of bread?" the roosters said "I will," the hens said "I will," the pullets said "I will," and even the little fluffy chickens cheeped "I will." "No, you won't," said the little red hen. "I will," and she did.

One night last January before the assembled men of Local Brotherhood No. 301 in the Peoria Church, one little red hen in the person of Earl D. Stout called attention to the fact that the West Bluff Church now had a fine building lot—thanks to the generosity of several Brotherhood men—and the question was, who would build them a church on it? Instantly the Brotherhood resolved itself into a sisterhood of little red hens. "I will," said Buckwalter, the president. "I will," said Elliott, the teacher of the Brotherhood Bible Class. And "I will," said Bradley and Stout and Sturgeon and Collins and Fish, all ex-presidents of the Brotherhood. "I will," said Holloway and Rotchford. "And I will, too," said Leu, president of the Howett Street Brotherhood. William Price, minister of the Howett Street Church, was a bricklayer in England, and he was the sauciest little red hen of all, for he said, "I will lay the brick." W. F. Turner, pastor, sidewinged into the ladies' chantecler class by proposing to carry the hod.

Nor did all this promising vanish into thin air. This was real little red hen talk. A day was selected—Decoration Day, a fitting time, as it seemed to these Brotherhood men, to erect a memorial to Jesus Christ. At 7 o'clock in the morning of Decoration Day the Brotherhood men—the hewers of wood and drawers of water for the force—began their labor of piling joist upon joist, scantling, flooring and shingles conveniently to hand. Union carpenters, sixty-seven in number, who donated their work, arrived at 8 o'clock in a body. As railroad men predominate in the Peoria Brotherhoods, the honor of driving the first wire nail fell to F. H. Odell, agent of the Burlington railroad, and that of driving the first thumb nail to Ashley J. Elliott, another railroad man, but as it was his own thumb nail that he drove, we treat the incident as of only one of personal interest. The sound of Odell's hammer was drowned almost instantly by the volleying hammers of the carpenters' infantry. Earl D. Stout, for two years president of the Central Church Brotherhood, bossed the job, but not from a position on the fence. In fact, this church has no fence. The only thing that looked like a fence was the rope stretched by the police department to keep back the crowds which arrived every minute on street cars, automobiles and other conveyance and afoot. Three big policemen with silver stars and brass buttons paced slowly up and down within the rope while the contractor, architect and president of the carpenters' union kept things from going awry on the job. Things moved with machine-like precision from start to finish. Every time Earl Stout held up his hand, 200 hammers drove 200 nails into the building. The president of the carpenters' union encouraged his men by circulating freely among them.

The Commissary Department, in charge of Mrs. W. J. Steube and Mrs. A. W. Lewis, occupied two large tents on the opposite corner, where dinner was served to the men in relays. Wives, daughters, mothers and sweethearts spread yellow butter on thick bread, and there was plenty of ham and jam and home-made pastry so necessary to the occasion. Telephones installed in the tents frequently announced messages of congratulation from various portions of the country.

The noon hour memorial services were presided over by A. I. Buckwalter, president of Local Brotherhood No. 301 of the Central Church. There was singing and remarks appropriate to the occasion were made by the two pastors and others. It took Noah a good many years to build his ark, but if he had had this bunch of Brotherhood men he needn't have begun it until the rain drops had begun to patter. H. B. Holloway, chairman of the Finance Committee, established a stand upon the ground and announced with gratification that cash was in hand to pay every detail of expense.

And they built it in a day.

Not only built it, but ceiled and painted it, built a coal shed in the rear, laid a brick walk in front and graded the grounds about. It stands today on a prominent corner of a beautiful street where no church stood before, a monument to the energy of the Local Brothers of Disciples of Christ, aided and abetted the union carpenters of Local No. 183.

 and what does this building of a church in Peoria by a Local Brotherhood organization mean? In the opinion of those experienced in Brotherhood work it is an omen of awakened life in the church. Not in every community can men repeat the Peoria achievement, but there are other activities for the head, hand and heart of men of any locality. The recent men's Missionary Movement as it swept the country manifested man's ability in missionary work. In every local church the question of finding and holding men is the supreme problem. This church at Peoria has mastered the details and demonstrated her ability to deliver the finished product. The Brotherhood General Office in Kansas City is prepared to furnish printed information showing the practical plans for using men in every department of the church, and congregations which have no Brotherhood organization should send for these plans, call their men together, organize a Local Brotherhood affiliated with the General Organization and go to work to build up The Kingdom of Jesus Christ in a man's way.

2

4

6

The West Bluff Chapel, Peoria

7:00 a. m.—Earl Stout assembling the men.
 8:00 a. m.—One side up. 200 men on the job.

3.— 9:00 a. m.—The skeleton.
 4.—12:00 noon—Roofing it over.
 5.— 4:00 p. m.—Applying the paint.
 6.— 4:45 p. m.—The completed structure.

A Vaccination That Took

J. T. SHREVE
Pastor Wyatt Park Church

Ever since J. T. Shreve became pastor of the Wyatt Park Church, at St. Joseph, Mo., he has been determined to inoculate the congregation with Bible School enthusiasm. He began by advocating the possibility of building up a great church through a well organized Bible School. Later, at a regular meeting of the Official Board, the idea was elaborated upon and it was proposed that they begin by launching a Brotherhood Bible Class. The Board very enthusiastically adopted the plan and all but two of the members signed up for the Brotherhood class, according to the Bricker Contract plan. April 3d was set as the day to inaugurate the movement. With this official stamp of approval upon the plan, the minister went before the people with a request for their hearty co-operation. How they did respond! Enthusiasm spread not only among the members, but throughout that part of the city.

Then the women said, "Me, too. If the men can do that, we can." In two weeks, by personal work and sending out a hundred "welcome" post cards, which have appeared in CHRISTIAN MEN and which can be obtained from the Brotherhood office or the Standard Publishing Co., of Cincinnati, they had a Brotherhood class of seventy, a Loyal Women's class of eighty-four, a Loyal Berean's class of fifty-three and a class of girls under sixteen years of age, numbering thirty and known as the Willing Workers.

This is the way to start things with a rush. Each of these classes is pushing for a membership of one hundred and the school is rapidly growing from a meager hundred and fifty to a flourishing five hundred, and the best of it is that they are going to stick. All precautions are being taken to prevent a sag from the high mark, or a summer slump. E. McCausland, the hustling superintendent, after Sunday-School workers and students as in his busy, successful life he has after life insurance. A. O. Vaughn is President of the Brotherhood class, and they he is the man for the place, thoroughly to all good works. The picture we present is not the best he ever had taken, but it is the best we could get and we think it will be good to Brotherhood men everywhere.

The Local Brotherhood Organization is the next step forward to which the men of the church are looking. In explaining the success the pastor suggests and emphasizes the value of securing the endorsement of the Brotherhood officers first and then taking it to the church not as an ambitious plan of the minister, but with the sober sanction of the Godly upon whose shoulders has been placed the responsibility for the work of the church.

This must seem to all readers eminently wise. There cannot be too much recognition of the place of the scriptural officers of the church at the head of every enterprise that has to do with church activities.

A bulletin from the pastor sixty days after the inauguration of this Bible Campaign reads as follows:

"Our school is growing rapidly and intensifying all the time. Our Brotherhood Class is doing fine and the men very enthusiastic. Growing in numbers weekly. The same thing can be said of our Loyal Workers Class and Loyal Bereans Class. As a result of our movement, Wyatt Park Church is taking on new life. The building filled at every service and frequent additions are made. The members are all jubilant over the splendid outlook."

Since our information comes very largely from the minister, it would be natural that we would have no word as to the place of his important personality in the work which has been and is being done, but our readers can make a proper estimate of the value of the man behind the guns.

A. O. VAUGHN
President Brotherhood Bible Class

Beer on the Bier

L. C. OBERLIES

Lincoln, Neb., once more moved into the column in the April elections by a decided majority. The temperance people are high spirits and that sterling Christian gentleman and Brotherhood man, L. C. Oberlies, broke out as below:

AN OPEN LETTER.

Says Lincoln, Neb., to Milwaukee, et al.:
Excuse us, Sister Milwaukee. We meant harm. We just couldn't help it. You see, wasn't you we wanted to lick. It was some of those bad boys of yours—those corpulent ones, you know. You remember they came here recently, or sent representatives. They told us how much we needed to reinstate your 'famous' brew. They reminded us of how we were suffering for 'personal liberty.' They told us we needed forty grog shops very much. Incidentally, they spoke of how nice $1000 would seem in our school treasury. They told us of how healthy that beer is, how it tints the face such a nice pink, how good it tastes 'going down.' They didn't answer that impertinent woman who asked out in meetin' 'How does it taste coming up?' We went out to hear your boys speak at these meetings, but we are a stubborn lot. Excuse us for what we did, will you, Milwaukee? We secured a stout bed slat, and, laying Anheuser, Stortzy, Metzy, Schlitzzy, Kruggy and all the other bad boys across our motherly knee we spoke in no uncertain tone. We administered the thing that Solomon championed. You remember he said once, 'A rod for a fool's back,' but no offense intended.

"It wasn't that we didn't like personal liberty; I guess it was because we did. It wasn't that we are not anxious for money; we wanted to save ours. It wasn't that we didn't know our own business; it was 'cause we knew it mighty well. We know where our butter and 'lasses come from. We ain't so slow.

"So we sent those checkered vest boys home.

"Now, Milwaukee, don't you take it as a personal matter. It was intended as no slam at you. We like you. You are a hustling, big, enterprising city, but to be friends we don't have to drink the same kind of butter-milk, do we?

"I most know you will forgive us when you remember that out in the wide, healthy, God-loving, God-fearing West we are a little blunt in our manners. We are so flat out with things, you know. We love to look at our thousand hills speckled over with grass-fattened cattle, and acres and acres of corn-fed hogs, and square sections of rich alfalfa and wheat and corn and oats until our cribs and bins just bust right out laughin'—we like it, I say. We just love to look at this material prosperity and take off our hat to the great Giver of all these blessings and say, 'Lord, we don't need any other stimulants. This is enough. This good ozone, this wide stretch of rich lands and brown-ribboned breaking, this bracing breeze, these sweet-smelling apple blossoms, this picture of health and prosperity—this is enough. This gurgling spring will be all the stouts we need.'

"So, Sister, keep your 'famous' for those who have to have it. We are getting just oodles of blessings without it, and we shouldn't be greedy, should we, and want the whole earth?"

Brotherhood Banquet at Urichville, Ohio

The Ohio Brotherhood Convention

Was held on Friday afternoon, June 3d, in the city of Toledo. The Brotherhood session in the afternoon was merged with the Bible School and the first address on the program was by R. A. Doan, of Nelsonville, on "The Brotherhood Bible Class." Brother Doan made a modest but practical and forceful talk on methods of class building. His address was wonderfully reinforced by the presence of over 200 members of his great Berean Bible Class. These men came by special train from Nelsonville, 200 miles distant, and startled the city of Toledo by their orderly march behind their own band from the Union Depot to the church.

This class saved the convention so far as the attendance was concerned and they seemed to constitute a full two-thirds of all the men present and were steadily loyal in their attendance upon the convention sessions. The Brotherhood session proper began with the formation of a parade at the Central Church for a line of march through the main streets of the city to Zenobia Hall, where the ladies of the Central Church had prepared a sumptuous meal. P. H. Welshimer was Grand Master, and with the Toledo pastors by his side led the procession, followed immediately by the band. Three hundred and sixteen men were in line. Arrangements had been made for four toasts of ten minutes each and an address by the Toastmaster, P. C. Macfarlane, of thirty minutes. As it was extremely desirable to begin the evening session in the church promptly, the four speakers consented to cut their addresses from ten minutes to seven in order to make a place for an address by R. A. Doan on "Brotherhood Values," while the General Secretary postponed his own address to the close and took what time remained, or about fifteen minutes.

The first toast, "To The Man of the Hour," was responded to by T. W. Pinkerton, Kenton. This speaker's reputation is such that it was impossible he should begin an address at a banquet without a burst of that glorious good humor for which he is famous, but he speedily carried his hearers on to the high ground of lofty spiritual thought and his address on "The Man of the Hour" as a Christian man is one which will not be forgotten soon.

E. J. Meacham, of Portsmouth, responded with the toast "To the Man With Bare Arms, Bare Head, and Bare Heart." To say that this was happily done is to say something very trite, but there was nothing trite in his treatment of the theme. Few men understand the man whose face burns before the glowing forge of the hand-to-hand life struggle as does E. J. Meacham, who made us all see and feel with him.

H. E. Stafford, of Massillon, responded to "The Future Brotherhood." Stafford is a wit and in his soul a poet. He began with a witty sally which touched very near the two speakers who had preceded him and before the close his remarks boomeranged him off his own pedestal; but for seven minutes he had us thinking high thoughts and has been kind enough to recast his address in the form of a serial article, which we hope to present to Brotherhood readers soon.

President Miner Lee Bates, of Hiram, created much enthusiasm by his response to the toast "To the Coming Ministry." The speaker began with the idea of the boy and in a sequence that was glowing yet warm and tender pictured the call of the ministry to the young men of our day. Timekeeper Pinkerton allowed the President of Hiram to run over time from seven minutes to twelve and were all regretful that even then his flowing words must be checked.

Mr. Doan's address upon "Brotherhood Values" followed. He was greeted with cheers when he arose to speak and began in modesty, with a simple directness that was very forceful, to tell what he thought to be the supreme values in the Brotherhood Movement and explained why he had led his great class at Nelsonville to form itself into a Local Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ.

The General Secretary followed with a short address upon "Brotherhood Principals" and made an appeal for sufficient funds to liquidate the small indebtedness of the Ohio State Brotherhood for the past year and to put something in the treasury for operations in the coming twelve months. The sum needed was $55.00, and most of this was subscribed before the convention closed.

The banquet was enlivened by delightful music by a local orchestra and one or two lightful solos rendered by a brother from Marion, whose name unfortunately has slipped the writer's mind at the moment. The men marched back to the church promptly and were in their seats so that the evening service began on time. The Brotherhood men occupied the main floors of the Central Church, with ladies in the galleries. The first speaker was F. W. Burnham, of Springfield, Illinois, and his theme was "The Brotherhood Practical." Those who knew Brother Burnham as a thoughtful student of the times and a forceful speaker, were not at all surprised at the character of his effort at Toledo. He was received with the greatest applause and it is not too much to say that nothing more level to the needs of the hour could have been delivered. He was followed by Arthur Holmes, of Philadelphia, a live man from a dead town. The subject of his message was "Jesus' Challenge to Men." He charged the church with a foreshortened horizon and a tendency to expand its energy in the mere building up of an organization and argued that "Jesus' Challenge to Men" was not a call to build up an organization, but to be an organization, the objective of which structure, but output. His was an earnest, entertaining and inspiring message, and, marking as it did the close of the Brotherhood session, left the men in a state of red hot resolution to do something. This is a good mood and at the same time a dangerous one. The danger lies in the fact that no adequate task will be presented to the men. The very best thing that any Ohio church or minister can present to the men in the present mood to be used is to organize a Local Brotherhood and the adoption of the Brotherhood plan of activities. Like the man in the Porches of Bethesda, the men of our churches have been waiting a long time in that case and now that they are in a mood to be healed the healing must come quickly if at all.

The election of officers to serve the State Brotherhood of Ohio for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

M. E. Baker, president; H. H. Pounds, vice-president; Wm. Spanton, secretary; E. F. Grabill, treasurer. Meacham, Kemp, Richards, T. L. Lowe, Goode and Ward were made the executive committee.

No report of the Brotherhood session could close without recording appreciation of the watchful hospitality of the Brotherhood of Central Church of which Dr. Richards is the president. The Norwood Ave. B. D. C. No. 304, was also ready to do its part. There is nothing finer than the winning spirit of fellowship among the men and the increasing assumption of the responsibility which is the direct results of organization of local Brotherhoods.

* * *

In printing the photographs of volunteers in the May issue of CHRISTIAN MEN we watched the pictures of Frank E. Harnar, volunteer of Newton Falls, Ohio, with that of Charles E. Cobbey, our minister at Chester, Neb. All editors claim the right to change things occasionally and in this instance it was only after the matter had been printed that our attention was called to the error. We wish to apologize and make it not for the fact that several pictures were on one plate, we would most gladly republish the photographs with names of proper owners attached. Both of the men are good to us and while we endeavored to honor the individuals for what they had done, it was the result rather than the men who justified the space. It is our purpose to follow these men through their various careers and CHRISTIAN MEN readers may expect to hear more of their achievements in the years go by.

HAWKEYE CONVENTION, JUNE 30. Men's Brotherhood Session.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

2:00 p. m. sharp—Program opened by the Arion Male Quartet.

Invocation.

2:15—"The Greatest Movement in Church History—The Brotherhood." Subject discussed under five heads, in short speeches, by five high power men of Iowa.

1. The need of men's organizations in the establishment of Missions and the evangelization of the world, by W. H. Darner of the Eaco Flour Co., Des Moines.

2. The need of the organization of men in the development of Civic Reform—By Hon. Emory English, State Printer, Mason City.

3. What the Brotherhood can do in the development of Bible Study Classes—By Dwight Lewis, Sec. Iowa R. R. Com., Des Moines.

4. The Responsibility of the Brotherhood in the training and development of the boys—By W. J. Pilkington, Editor Trades Journal, Des Moines.

5. What the Brotherhood can do in the great moral reform crusade—By M. F. Odle, Attorney, Iowa Anti-Saloon League, Des Moines.

Quartet.

3:45—Local Missions and the Relation of the Brotherhood to the I. C. C.—By B. S. Denny, Sec. of I. C. C., Des Moines.

3:55—The State Bible School Work and the Brotherhood—By W. T. Fisher, Sec. Iowa Bible School, Des Moines.

4:00—Address, Dr. Arthur Holmes, University of Pennsylvania, Pa.

Quartet.

6:00 p. m.—Banquet; place to be assigned later.

Music by Convention Quartet.

Address, Sec. Shellenberger of General Brotherhood Board, Kansas City, Mo.

Address, W. F. Burnham, Springfield, Ill.

Election of officers.

THURSDAY EVENING.

7:45—Quartet.

Prayer.

8:00—Address, Dr. Arthur Holmes, University of Pennsylvania.

The Convention quartet is under the direction of Mr. Tolbert MacRae.

The time, place and price of the banquet will be given later. Let your pastor know as soon as possible if you expect to be present so that reservation can be made for you.

Our Mutual Admiration Society

Behold How These Brethren Love One Another

E. E. Elliott,
Assistant Secretary

J. K. Shellenberger,
Field Secretary

What Shellenberger Thinks of Elliott—

"Elliott furnished the lightning and I gave them thunder. Elliott is all wool and a yard wide." (This last statement is to be taken figuratively because Elliott's nickname when a boy was Slats and there is as yet no perceptible rotundity or tendency to tuberosity). He did some mighty fine work at the Texas Convention. Many would have fallen down just where he made a magnificent success. Elliott was Johnny on the spot every time. The fruit and success of all that we did was largely due to his incessant, good natured persistence."

What Elliott Thinks of Shellenberger—

If our Field Secretary has one quality which excels others I should say it is optimism. He can warm up to a cold audience like a hot stove to a refrigerator. Enthusiasm follows in his wake. As a man handler, we think he compares favorably with any walking delegate. Many leaders can stay with men and see the work through; few can tell men how they can work alone. He is a deep student, a wise thinker and a quick actor. He traveled a thousand miles to get to the Texas State Convention, expecting to deliver a thirty-minute Brotherhood address. With five minutes notice, he condensed it to fifteen minutes and delivered it hot from his heart, demonstrating his ability to shoot the stars as well as knock the persimmons.

The University on the Bluff

A hearty invitation of George W. Buckner, pastor of the First Church at Canton, Mo., seconded by President Johann and Dean Lockhart, of Canton Christian University, resulted in a visit of the General Secretary to that beautiful city on the Mississippi in the early part of April.

The men of the church and of the University are thoroughly alive to Brotherhood possibilities and we have probably the largest proportion of subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN, proportion of the town being considered, at Canton that we have in the Brotherhood.

A most enjoyable banquet was served at the church, when Brotherhood ideals were discussed. The following day a visit was made to the Christian University, where an address was made in the chapel on the subject of "Man's Preacher," and on the Brotherhood organization problem in a special called meeting of the ministerial students.

Canton Christian University is situated on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River. There are few more sightly locations in the United States for a college. The building proper is a substantial structure of brick and masonry and it is flanked upon the right by Stockton cottages, a row of six neat brick houses erected out of a portion of the Stockton Endowment Fund of $50,000, which are reserved to students and teachers of the university. The high, rolling bluff, the outspread landscape of vivid green, with the great river rolling majestically through the center of it, make a vision that one only forgets in contemplating the human element in the school itself.

President Johann is a man of varied experiences. Forty years ago, he came to this country from Switzerland, and husked corn in Illinois while he learned the language. He made a contract to husk a hundred and sixty bushels of corn for a man who was a sort of paedagogic school teacher. The schoolmaster's education was limited and he was soon enjoying the assistance of the bright young Switzer in preparing the morrow's lessons. Knowledge of his got abroad and the school board took thought unto itself. "Why," it said, "cannot we get to teach our school the man who husks our teacher?" So the cornhusker became a teacher at $40 per month, which was not as much as he got for gathering corn, and the work was more agreeable. Another year he was paid $85 a month. Shortly after this he heard D. R. Lucas expound the apostleship of the Disciples and accepted it. He entered the faculty of Eureka College, married and remained there until he saw two of his own daughters graduated from that sterling educational institution. For eight years President Johann has been at Canton. His sweet and gently helpful spirit, that makes us think of Jacob Riis, has saturated the institution. During his incumbency, fire leveled the institution to the ground, but, phoenix-like, the walls have risen again. R. H. Stockton, a business man of faith and of visions, some time since, added $50,000 to the endowment of the institution and it is in position to render in the future, as it has rendered in the past, splendid educational service to the Brotherhood.

But the best thing about Canton is the student body. Here are a hundred and sixty young people whose personal appearance and air of quiet enthusiasm gives one the impression that they represent the very flower of our young people in the Mississippi Valley. Among them are seventy-five young men preparing for the ministry and many of these are in charge of aggressive churches. Canton enjoys especial facilities in the matter of keeping its students at work in the church while adding to their mental equipment. One young man told me his churches were paying him $1,190 per year while he was getting his education. This was exceptional, but there are numbers doing nearly as well. The ministerial students seem to be of a very high class and the teaching force, headed by President Johann and Dean Lockhart, impresses one as very capable. Some of the professors, after graduating at our best schools, have done finishing work in great universities and the impression one gets from their power and from the esprit de corps which seems to predominate the whole institution is that here is a singularly happy combination of educational forces and opportunities.

It is a notable fact that 1,260 conversions resulted from the ministerial work of the students of Canton Christian University in the last calendar year. Canton has contributed a number of men to our National life, among them E. L. Powell, one of the greatest preachers in America today, while two of her alumni are in Congress today.

Any consideration of the prospects of Canton University would be incomplete that did not include the latest addition to their force in the person of Chancellor Louis S. Cupp. Mr. Cupp is a young man, widely known among us as a successful minister and evangelist. He is a man's man, practical, hard-working, self-respecting and consecrated. He has but recently entered upon the duties of this position, but his friends feel that his past record is a guarantee of future success.

The Flesh and Blood of Brotherhood

By CHARLES S. VOORHEES, President L. B. D. C., No. 225, Wichita, Kansas

CHARLES S. VOORHEES

Our first meeting was held on October 3, 1909. Only a dozen men responded. The first thing we did was to organize a Christian Men Club and our membership jumped from ten to thirty-four church members. On the following Sunday our pastor being absent, the men of the Brotherhood filled the places of the regular choir. We started meeting every Sunday afternoon, as we found so much to do that we simply could not miss a Sunday. Our membership has steadily increased until now it includes all of the leading men of the church.

Following the Centennial we held an Echo Brotherhood meeting with Brother Roth as speaker of the day. We next gave a Brotherhood banquet, which was followed by a musicale, both of which were successes in every way.

November 14th was Men's Day at our church and the men had charge of the meeting. Full male chorus and speakers from within the Brotherhood.

In one of our meetings we decided that we were keeping God's house and that when anyone called at our home we would have men at the door to meet them, especially strangers, and make them feel at home. If a friend calls at our own personal home we do not sit still and let him come into the house and find a seat and not speak to him. But is one home entitled to any less consideration than the other?

In January we again took charge of church services in the absence of our pastor. We had a carefully arranged program and gave the seven Bible "Musts" by seven Brotherhood men, which has been previously mentioned in CHRISTIAN MEN.

In February we followed the World-Vision Mission program as arranged in CHRISTIAN MEN. For speaker we had a man who had just completed a trip around the world. He also held the "Volunteer Service," and two of our men volunteered for the ministry.

We are to hold our Easter program in April. One of our Brotherhood volunteers hesitated for financial reasons, but our Comrade Paul fund, which we will raise and distribute through the General Brotherhood, has given him assurance of a safe passage and he will go. He says he hardly expects to draw on this fund but it is an assurance to know he can in case of necessity.

When our Brotherhood was first organized we had a Bible School of 135 to 150. We had a Men's Class of never more than fifty. On February 13th we had twenty-five men in the Brotherhood class and 300 in the Bible School and the attendance has kept up ever since. Last Sunday we had fifty men in the Brotherhood class and had our picture taken. Total in the Bible School last Sunday was 519. Last year we gave for Foreign Missions about $65. This year we were apportioned $100. Some of the old-timers shook their heads and said we wouldn't raise it. At last accounts we had raised $145, which was twice as much as last year, and still going up. Somehow we just cannot account for this. It seems that the men woke up and everybody got suddenly busy and now we haven't room enough and will have to build a new and larger church. We are all saying "Rah for the Brotherhood!"

Brotherhood Bible Class, South Lawrence Local Brotherhood No. 225, Wichita, Kansas

Campaigning With Holmes

Arthur Holmes is a pleasant soul. The face of him is good and the form of him is goodly somewhere he has accumulated muscles of steel, lungs of leather and nerves of brass. He does not dodge or flinch. With banquets on the right of him, dedications to the left of him and celebrations in front of him, he gallops grandly on. Nothing seems to disturb him much except, of course, when he fails to get his speech off on time. Then those sitting around him can notice a slight bubbling and sizzling inside, but when the flood-gates once loosened this subsides and with the oratory of his system, the professor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania can lie down to the sleep of innocence and forgetfulness, whether on an Ostermoor mattress curled up in the corner of a waiting room pending the arrival of a train due at 2:49

Incidents With Holmes

Only once did the writer see him really jarred, but that was when he spilled the jam on Mrs. Brown's tablecloth at Galesburg. It would jar anyone to jar the jam jar away Holmes jarred that jam jar. The sight of the jar jarring the jam on the tablecloth jarred Mrs. Brown, but she was very nice about it, and so was Mr. Brown, and so was Holmes, but not the General Secretary. He was tickled stiff. The biggest jar of all came, of course, when Mr. Holmes reads the letter. Well, that was not the worst thing that happened to Mr. Holmes. This is revealed in a letter from J. K. Shellenberger, dated at Ellettsburg, Ind., which reads as follows: "Holmes left a good impression and his best of trousers." This reminds us of Kipling's story, "The Taking of Lungtungpen," which, if you have never read, do so at once, for you have several good laughs coming yet.

Unfolded

The Holmes tour began at Buffalo on Thursday evening, June 2d, in a banquet served at the Y. M. C. A. by the Brotherhoods of the frontier towns. G. M. Kirby was master of arrangements and Geo. F. Rand, a director of the General Brotherhood, was the toastmaster, and presided with force and dignity. The long room, which Dr. Long told us was historic as the one in which J. Campbell White and his coadjutors outlined the plans for the seventy-five Laymen's Missionary Conventions, was filled with banqueters. Mr. Holmes was accompanied here by the General Secretary, P. C. Macfarlane. A number of subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN and a number of members of the Ten-Dollar League resulted from this meeting. Mr. Rand made the generous offer to duplicate every Ten-Dollar League pledge signed, and as a result the Brotherhood coffers have several hundred dollars more in them with which to prosecute the promotion and extension of the work. E. A. Olley, State President of the New York Men's League, was an honored guest. There were many short addresses, but fear of omitting some prevents us from attempting to name any of these speakers. The absence of R. H. Miller, pastor of the Richmond Avenue Church, on account of serious illness, was especially felt, as he, together with B. S. Ferrall, pastor of the Jefferson Street Church, who was present, had worked very hard for the success of the gathering. There was an opportunity for conference on Brotherhood problems, and all in all we felt this to be a most auspicious opening of the Holmes Tour. The attendance was splendid and the interest great.

The next stopping point was the Toledo Convention, but this will be mentioned in a separate article.

Doantown

Sunday, June 5th, the General Secretary and the Special Secretary were due at Nelsonville, Ohio. Nelsonville is known to many as the home of the Berean Bible Class, without doubt the greatest men's class among us. The men were weary from their all night journey home from Toledo and the day's work, but they turned out on Sunday morning in the rain to the number of four hundred and two. The meeting was held in the High School building and the address by Dr. Holmes roused them to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. Another contributing element to the success of the day at Nelsonville was the presence of W. E. M. Hackleman, of Indianapolis. This sterling leader of song is never so much at his best as when directing a congregation of men. His chorus and solo work evoked rounds of applause from the Bereans. At the morning hour in the church the General Secretary spoke on "The Brotherhood as a Church Asset." In the afternoon he spoke on "Brotherhood Activities," to a meeting of Local Brotherhood No. 315, into which the Berean Bible Class is organized, and was followed by Prof. Holmes in one of the greatest of his addresses. Wm. Gibson, President; Henry Verity, Vice-President, and Allison Bowers, Secretary, of the Local Brotherhood, were on the platform, and announcement was made that the charter roll of the Brotherhood was just closing with something like a hundred names upon it.

At the close of the afternoon service, the funeral of a member of the Berean Class was held, and it was thought-inspiring to see the two or three hundred men of the class marching down the street in two long lines, escorting the remains of their dead brother and standing with uncovered heads while the hearse passed through the lines to the church. Such a simple and unassuming demonstration of fraternal care and interest was to us a most eloquent illustration of the coherency of this great class as well as the power of leadership which it enjoys in the teaching of R. A. Doan and in the preaching of W. S. Cook.

Joe Cannon's Town

Danville, Illinois, the home of Uncle Joe Cannon, when he is at home, was our next destination, a beautiful city, with unending miles of brick pavements and block after block of well-kept lawns, with graceful trees and well built houses. Here the spirit of hospitality materialized in the person of William E. Adams, pastor of the First Church, and H. P. Blose, President of the First Church Brotherhood. A Presbyterian brother, Mr. Fithian, with a brand new motor car, gave us a most enjoyable spin through the beautiful streets of this comfortable little city, and presently we found ourselves at Lincoln Park and in a spacious banquet hall. Tables were laid for three hundred men, but W. E. Adams, of the First Church; S. S. Jones, of the Second; J.

Scott Hyde, of the Third, and C. S. Evans, of the Fourth, were the only men in evidence. Then, at a signal, the side doors were opened and long lines of marching men appeared while the orchestra boomed out a march strain, and the tables were quickly filled. The men of the Fourth Church, the baby church, some forty strong, stood and sang a song of promise and purpose and the announcement was made that they had just organized a Brotherhood with twenty-three members. The General Secretary was heard and the usual brilliant and inspiring message of the guest of honor, Dr. Holmes, followed. Many subscriptions for CHRISTIAN MEN were received and a membership roll of the Ten-Dollar League opened. This fine body of men, representing four aggressive churches in an important city, was one of the most inspiring sights which greeted us in the first week of the Holmstrom tour. Although not accustomed to frequent meetings together, the gathering was thoroughly organized and full of significance, not only for the Brotherhood Movement, but for the churches themselves. A conference on Brotherhood methods was held at the close.

Danville is a nice town to get into, but it is a hard town to get out of. The hour of 3 a. m. found us waiting at the switch for the train that was thirty minutes late.

Barnettville

Galesburg came next. This is where J. Barnett is with the great Bible Class which takes more than a hundred and sixty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN, and it is where Local Brotherhood No. 267 hangs up its hat. E. F. Young is President of the Brotherhood. But Galesburg was not our home, having gone out into the wilderness to the region round about Knoxville.

At Knoxville Clark W. Cummings is pastor and it is the home of Local Brotherhood No. 267, of which James Dennis is the President. This was the day of the annual picnic of the Christian Churches of Knox County. Therefore it came to pass that straightway we journeyed down from Galesburg to Gilbert's Grove, which is over against Knoxville as it were about a stone's cast. The grove was full of white dresses and blue ribbons and lunch baskets, carefully covered up, since it was about the ninth hour of the day. There were a bevy of laughing, dancing children, and that was all. A thin looking picnic for ne urches, wouldn't you say? Prof. Holmes and I said so, too, until by and by our ears caught the merry crack of the base hit and the wild, strident yells of close packed throngs crowded upon the side lines of a base-ball diamond. We hied us o'er the brook and through the glade to the pastureland, where the calves and pigs had been huddled in a corner while the base-ball clubs of the Knoxville and Galesburg churches contended upon an improvised diamond for the championship of Illinois and the world.

Base-Ball Game

A notable audience had gathered. Stephen J. Corey, of Cincinnati, was crawling on his hands and knees up and down near the first base line, eating grass and yelling like a wild man from the Congo. Dr. Holloway, who is away up on the Scriptures, suggested that Corey was giving an imitation of Nebuchadnezzar. "Not on your life," said Barnett, of Galesburg, who is away up on base-ball. "He is giving an imitation of Hughey Jennings." "Who is Hughey Jennings?" asked Holmes. "A Theological student of the same school from which Billy Sunday graduated," suggested Blackwalter, President of Peoria L. B. D. C. No. 301, who had just blown in on a hand car. "I thought Jennings was a base-ball player," observed Holloway, Jr., of Peoria L. B. D. C. No. 301, who had occupied a berth on the same car. "I thought our men were ball players, too," softly murmured James Dennis, President of the Knoxville Brotherhood, as he noted the final score of the game, Galesburg 18, Knoxville 3. "And did I eat all that grass for nothing, didn't I?" asked Corey, who had been rooting for Knoxville.

"Yes," said Barnett, glowingly, "you did," and added, as he viewed alternately the soil stained fingers and the shaven places in the cover patch, "you must be full of grass. I don't know now whether you are a candidate for the bath tub or a hay baler."

But Stephen J. Corey, he of the gentle, kindly eye and the modest, manly message, reminded the exultant Galesburg booster that he was a candidate to make a speech on Foreign Missions, according to the program, at 3 p. m., and that all the clocks in Central Illinois were at that time striking the hour.

The scene was changed to a high platform, a cheery choir, with lofty trees and a wide expanse of seats. The umpire called game and Corey went on the mound for the Foreign team. He wound himself up slowly and floated over a little out drop on medical missions in China. "Strike one," the umpire called, and from that time on the Secretary held the home audience completely at his mercy. In shoots, jump balls, high fast ones and mysterious fade-aways baffled, bewildered, instructed and inspired the listeners for an hour, and then, train time coming, the genial Secretary himself faded away.

The Comet

The General Secretary was down for a speech next. But after Corey's performance his courage failed him. "Me for the bench," he whispered to Prof. Holmes. "You will have to spread-eagle this crowd." Holmes did it. Elliott in one of his breezy moments said that Shellenberger could shoot the stars as well as knock the persimmons. Holmes did not content himself with stars. He reached for the comet itself. Holding the great ball of fire in his right hand and seizing the elusive tail with the left, he painted the blue sky with golden streamers, draping Pleiades and Orion from the bending branches of the overhanging trees. It was an inspiring message that he delivered. His hearers were alternately provoked to laughter and moved to sober thought. The contrast of the Luna Park Convention at Pittsburgh with these happy-hearted men and women under the trees were marked, and yet their interest was not less intense nor their enjoyment less keen as they hung on the words of this gifted interpreter of Christ's message to man.

In the interim, between the afternoon session and the evening one, we were most graciously entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown. But this is where Holmes let the jam upset take place, and we pass it over in considerate silence.

In the evening electric lights glowed amid the shadows under the trees and the patient audience gathered yet again. Judge Rice, of Galesburg, presided, and the first address was made by the General Secretary on the subject of "All the Men of All the Church at All the Church's Work." Dr. Holmes followed with the address upon the "Brotherhood and Church Efficiency," which has been received everywhere with such evidence of approval. During the busy day, time was found for a conference on Practical Brotherhood Methods with Presidents Young and Dennis and members of the Local Brotherhoods. A number of other ministers of the county were present, and it is a source of regret that the Secretary does not retain in his memory the names of all of them, that they might be quoted.

At the close of this meeting, the General Secretary was compelled to return to Kansas City, to take up administrative and editorial duties, and Mr. Holmes and Mr. Shellenberger joined forces in a continuance of the tour.

The Sansculottist

The first of their meetings was at South Bend, Ind., on the night of June 8th, on which Shellenberger reports: "About a hundred men present, ladies in the gallery. Holmes went beyond himself. Three Brotherhoods present—Mishawaka, Ind.; Indiana Avenue, South Bend, and First Church, South Bend. Almost every man present a Brotherhood man." This is the place where Holmes became a sansculottist. Readers are directed to the first pages of Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus" for an interesting train of reflections on the estate of man as a mere straddling biped, which, if memory limps not, the gifted Scotchman intimates we should all become if it were not for our good friends, the tailors.

The meeting at South Bend was felt by our secretaries to be a very profitable one, and we trust a like feeling was generated in the breasts of the South Bend men themselves. George W. Hemry was our correspondent in arranging this meeting.

Two and two, like the animals in the ark, Shellenberger and Holmes journeyed themselves to Elkhart, Ind., where W. E. Hatter, President, and E. M. Polk, Secretary, of L. B. D. C. No. 291, had been prominent in arranging for a Holmes meeting. About two hundred and fifty were present, eight churches participating by invitation from the pastor, S. G. Buckner. Holmes made a great speech from the enthusiastic viewpoint. At the close, he presented the plan for membership in the Ten-Dollar League and Secretary Polk said after the meeting that he felt certain the Elkhart Brotherhood would become a League. At this meeting a federation of the city Brotherhoods was effected and a committee on nominations was appointed to report on the following Wednesday at the Trinity M. E. Church. Pastor Buckner is a moving spirit in this federation movement. His Brotherhood is alive and wide awake.

Elkhart

Parts of Indiana are thirsty regions, especially on account of the activity of some of our Brotherhood men in the Northern end of the State, hence it was with considerable joy that the secretarial twins wended their way

Peoria

Peoria, which aspires to supply refreshments for the nation. About seventy-five men were present. The leaders were disappointed in attendance, but it was probably due to the fact that a great majority of the Brotherhoods were suffering from strained backs, hammer thumbs and broken legs as a result of carrying hods, driving nails and falling from scaffolding in the erection of the West Blue Church, a few days before. One Ten-Dollar Leaguer is reported as a result of this meeting. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon, President Holmes delivered the dedicatory address when the new church, of which more is said elsewhere in these columns, was consecrated to the work of our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ.

The Holmes meeting at Eureka was held at 3 p. m. About a hundred and twenty-five men were present, occupying the central section of the church, while millinery was massed up the side lines. Superlatives are exhausted. Suffice it to say that each speaker gushed in sequence like a California oil geyser. The meeting took a practical organization turn and forty-two covenant cards were signed, with twenty subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN. Eureka has had a Brotherhood organization for a year or more, of which A. E. Robeson, attorney, is the President. Plans for affiliation and reorganization were decided upon and David H. Shields was appointed temporary chairman of the committee on organization. He and the former President will doubtless work on the affiliation upon such a basis that the serviceable elements of the original Brotherhood may be retained when the larger program of activities provided for by the General Bro-hood is adopted. Mr. Shellenberger writes that Holmes made a great address. Reports on the meetings at Lovington and Chicago, Illinois, which have been held, are not in hand as this matter is prepared. These and the rest of the Holmes tour will be treated of succeeding issues. Enough is known to show that the tour will prove an unqualified success. Arthur Holmes is a rare man. He has wrought hard at the one great problem of his thinking, which is the subject of men and the church, and has now the manuscript of a book upon the subject, ready for the publishers, and we doubt not that he is to make a notable contribution to the thought of the church in America upon this subject. It is our hope that the growth of the Brotherhood Movement will be so fast and the support of it by our men so generous that it may be possible to add Prof. Holmes to our Secretarial staff. Of course, Prof. Holmes says that this is impossible; that it does not agree with his plans of life, and so on, but we confess to a belief that the Lord will open a way for us to make it apparent to Arthur Holmes that his place of service is as a strong right arm of the Brotherhood Movement. We look to the time when our Secretarial force will include a staff of specialists.

Eureka

Our Dream

Men who will be in the Brotherhood Movement what White, Speer and Mott are to the Foreign Missions or may render service like to that of Fred B. Smith, of the International Y. M. C. A., in evangelism, and who in the department of the church and men specifically may take a place in our work like that of Stelzle in the Presbyterian church. There is need of such leaders and we have men in the communion who, if allowed the opportunity which comes with a connection with a great organization such as the Brotherhood is to be, may render untold service to the cause of Jesus Christ.

Wireless Whispers

WANTED:—Copy of January, 1909, CHRISTIAN MEN. Address with price C. R. Stauffer, 34 Dudley St., Syracuse, N. Y.

* * *

On the letter head of W. A. Chastain, our minister at Monroe, Ga., we note rubber stamp impression "Georgia wants no free revenue."

* * *

Edward Owers, General Member No. 273, was elected State Superintendent of Bible Schools at the Texas State convention at Dallas.

* * *

"Thanks for the Watch Fob. It is beautiful and I am indeed proud of it."

OSCAR W. RILEY,
Lowell, Ohio.

* * *

"Our Brotherhood has pledged one thousand dollars for our new building."

S. E. FISHER,
Champaign, Ill.

* * *

"Very sorry we were unable to have Dr. Holmes with us. He would do us great Good."

S. E. FISHER,
Champaign, Ill.

"Enclosed find fifty cents for renewal of CHRISTIAN MEN. Don't want to be without it. Welshimer is fine on the Bible lessons."

E. R. CRABTREE,
Covina, Cal.

* * *

"I wish you well in your great undertaking and hope you will be very successful in arousing the men of our churches."

HORACE KINGSBURY,
Carlton, Victoria, Australia.

* * *

"We more than made good on our dollar per member for the March offering and will also on the May offering."

C. A. MANGUM, President,
L. B. D. C. No. 272.

* * *

"I have watched the growth of the Brotherhood with pleasure and am pleased with CHRISTIAN MEN." C. W. Ross, Evangelist, Jacksonville, Ill.

* * *

The Brotherhood at Franklin Circle Church, Cleveland, O., has regular meetings at definite dates, and always has a good program. At their last meeting Rev. Frank Ward, of the Sight and Hope Mission, was an unexpected speaker who delighted the audience.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 252, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., is trying to do its full share of Missionary work. They contributed $10 to the New York Christian Missionary Society and have also done the same for the American Christian Missionary Society this year.

* * *

"Our Brotherhood gave $10 to state work and $10 to American Christian Missionary Society this year."

JAS. D. BARNHART,
President L. B. D. C. No. 252,
Niagara Falls, N. Y.

* * *

From far away Everett, Mass., comes a club of subscribers from the hands of F. T. Mellich, a traveling man who not only orders the magazines for the other men of the church but requests four copies for himself. Between the lines this means missionary work for CHRISTIAN MEN and the Brotherhood.

* * *

Up to the close of April, receipts of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society showed a gain of about $13,000 over the same period last year. We are happy to feel that a portion of this is due to the activity of Local Brotherhoods and individual Brotherhood men developed throughout the country.

* * *

"I received the Prize Centennial Booklet and Badge and take pleasure in saying that it will only be a short time until you receive more subscriptions from L. B. D. C. No. 311, West Philadelphia.

SAMUEL WISLER, JR.,
President.

* * *

"We want to organize the men in our congregation. Will you please send me by return mail proper literature for this work. We have just closed a very successful meeting. Now is the time to put our men to work."

D. P. TAYLOR,
Bessemer, Ala.

* * *

An announcement of the Twenty-first Annual session of the summer school of Drake University, comes to hand. It is carefully prepared and reveals a splendid program of work for earnest students under the direction of capable men during the summer period. It serves to remind us how heartily this school is endeavoring to meet every responsibility of a great educational institution.

* * *

One of the leading men of the church at Allerton, Iowa, was at the Luna Park meeting in Pittsburgh and came home on fire with Brotherhood enthusiasm. On a recent evening they got their men together and Mr. Elliott went up from Kansas City and spoke to them on Brotherhood organization. We hope for great things from this thriving community. Roy Polly is the minister and several staunch Brotherhood men are behind him in his desire for a Brotherhood organization.

"Our men's luncheon under the direction of the Men's Bible Class, was a rousing success. One hundred and fifteen men were present. This class was organized last October with seven members and it now has over a hundred and twenty enrolled. Brother W. A. Shulberger, of Trenton, Mo., was the chief speaker and he delivered the goods."

A. R. LIVERETT,
Cameron, Mo.

* * *

"BROTHERHOOD."

For a view of the real perspective of life and mental grip on relative values of things and circumstances and unseen realities, all discussed in a hard-headed, business fashion recommend to young men the "Brotherhood" for live ones only. Meets on Sunday morning at ten o'clock, in the Green Room, Third Floor Fellowship thrown in—(An extra red apple top of a heaping basket).

Lenox Avenue Christian Church,
74 West 126th St., New York.

* * *

Prominent Brotherhood men are prominent otherwise. J. J. Grove, president of the Local Brotherhood at Ames, Iowa, and member of the Iowa Brotherhood Committee, was elected president of the Iowa Retail Merchants Association at their annual meeting in Burlington. The Ames Intelligencer says: "The continued success of the Association lies greatly with the president, as his responsibilities are heavy and in choosing Mr. Grove as their leader as president, they have placed their confidence in a man well able and deserving who will make the next year the greatest in all its history."

* * *

Each month we acknowledge under the Counting House headings, clubs of subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN received. Many of our worthy representatives send in additions after the club list is printed. We cannot always make mention of these men, but shall do so wherever possible.

Among the recent additions have been the following sent in by Geo. W. Hofrichter, Cleveland, O., C. T. Morris, Peru, Ind., L. B. Pickerill, Land, Ill., Benjamin Smith, Zionsville, Ind., C. Gullion, Lebanon, Ind., W. E. M. Hackman, Indianapolis, Ind., C. M. Chilton, Joseph, Mo., W. R. Strachan, Tacoma, Wash., Alfred Budd, Ashtabula, O., Guy M. Withe, Kansas City, Mo.

* * *

This is the kind of announcement issued by the Bellavben Bible Class, at Bellevue, Pa.

"BELLAVBEN BIBLE CLASS"

Klass Nite

Thursday, May 19, 1910.

Special Music—Ekoes from Ballavben.

Special Lunch—Including frozen cream donated by E. E. Reick Co.

Awl This 2 B Fre.

Business session will be short and important. Bring your gazette-Times for the free library contest and a new member or friends.

Put on your old gray bonnet and drive in Thursday evening, May 19, 1910.

Sincerely,

E. S. NORTON, President.

The newspapers at Elkhart, Ind., are giving headlines on the first pages to the work of our local Brotherhood under the enthusiastic guidance of Rev. S. G. Buckner, the pastor. At a recent banquet, attended by sixty Brotherhood men, a committee was appointed to canvass the naming of aspirants for local political offices. The committee report will be made to 125 members of the Local Brotherhood. The Brotherhood also urges members to attend a caucus to assist desirable candidates. Captain Pecker, of the Salvation Army, spoke on "Rules, Tools and Fools." This Brotherhood will entertain Dr. Arthur Holmes at their banquet June 8th. They have eighty members and intend to have a hundred by the time Dr. Holmes is there.

* * *

A kind brother in Ohio flirts his pen at us because of a flippant remark about pain producing poetry. "The muse," quoth he, "is coy, best, and chilling remarks may incline her to take wings and fly away."

In part, we are inclined to agree with him. It is very easy for the man in the editorial chair or the speaker on the platform to be witty at the expense of the humble striver in any department of human endeavor, and we do not think it is nice. Poets and mothers-in-law have suffered in this particular, above all others and the world well knows as it laughs at we can do without neither. The next time anyone catches us trying to be smart at the expense of the worthy aspirer we hope he will prove us as gently and as graciously as did the one who inspires these confessions.

* * *

First Christian Church at Los Angeles, where A. C. Smith is the pastor, H. H. Morrow is president and J. S. Winchester, secretary, respectively, of the Local Brotherhood, began a five weeks campaign for men Sunday, May 8th. Their attractive postcard announcement reads:

1000 MEN WANTED
AT THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Corner Hope and Eleventh Streets
TO HEAR LIVE SUBJECTS DISCUSSED
BY THE PASTOR.
Rev. A. C. Smither.

These services are conducted under the auspices of this church. We will furnish inspiring music, uplifting addresses, and give you the glad hand.

H. H. MORROW, President,
J. S. WINCHESTER, Secretary.

* * *

A post card from Jerusalem bearing a picture of the Jordan River and a note in Herbert Moninger's well known hand gave us much joy a few weeks ago. His message is one for our readers. Above the picture of the Jordan has been written in the familiar words of Matt. 3-13, "Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to the Jordan unto John to be baptized of him," and the note reads:

The Holy Land is ours. Oh, the thrill! We have a happy party—Morgan, Green, Tarp, Kendall, etc., all here. Hope to hear of five hundred new Front Rank schools by the time we return June 20th. Am happy here, but I miss the strenuous S. S. Campaign. Wish every Bible School teacher could take this trip. Am more enthusiastic about Sunday-School since coming here. Have many things to say, but cannot say them now. Sincerely."

* * *

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. The General Secretary has repeatedly promised the great Business Men's Bible Class at Trenton, Mo., to be with them at one of their festive gatherings, one of which occurred May 26th. As usual we hoped to be there but deterred in our purpose, sent Mr. Elliott and judging by the headlines and column articles in three of the daily papers, he must have completely captivated the gathering. Here is what one paper said:

"The speaker of the evening, E. E. Elliott, made one of the happiest and pertinent addresses of the season. He is supposed to be an office man, but his efforts on the rostrum show him to be an excellent man for field work. He has a manner and an expression of his own which takes well with an audience and his points are embellished with bright, new, crisp stories that have the true ring to them."

* * *

The Loyal Sons Class at Marionville, Mo., where R. W. Blunt is the pastor and of which Mrs. U. L. Coleman is teacher, holds the unique record of having conducted a successful evangelistic meeting this spring. The men who did the preaching were Carl Swift, Porter Suttles, Charles Hawkins and Roscoe Wylie. The aim of the meeting was not so much evangelism as revivalism, with especial emphasis on the Bible School and general church efficiency. The results in attendance and enthusiasm amply justified the effort. The young men mentioned are students in Drury College and have each one of them supplied the pulpit during the two months' absence of the pastor on a much needed vacation.

The class aims to maintain its organization at a high standard of efficiency. Of course they read CHRISTIAN MEN.

CHRISTIAN MEN acknowledges indebtedness to Charles S. Turner and Mrs. Coleman for courteous replies to our letters seeking information about this work.

* * *

The Christian Business men of Texas are displaying a wonderful interest in the affairs of the Texas Christian University in the crisis brought upon this growing institution by the fire which destroyed their building a few weeks ago. Three of them in cities removed from the present site of the university have almost dropped their business to push forward the interest of the institution in the time of its extremity. As a result, the city of Fort Worth has made a splendid offer of more than a quarter of a million dollars to equip the new institution, and the location has been changed to that city. The interest was intense, as a number of other cities bid for the institution. The men of Texas feel that this is the time and the opportunity for placing the Texas

Christian University in a position where it can serve the cause of our great Brotherhood in Texas with the greatest efficiency in the long years of usefulness that await it.

They are to raise another quarter of a million for endowment. The present affords a fine opportunity for persons of means to erect memorial buildings in connection with a worthy educational enterprise.

* * *

We claim the right to mix things here in this office once in a while. The magazine CHRISTIAN MEN contained the statement that J. W. McFerran, of Moberly, Mo., was a house-mover by profession. Don't you believe it. This was a case of "brain storm." Brother John W. Crewson, of Moberly, is the house-mover. He is also Superintendent of the Bible school, a general hustler and a good fellow. J. W. McFerran is president of the C. E. and an enthusiastic Brotherhood man who brought in fifty paid up subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN in March and thereby won a Brotherhood prize. S. Boyd White is the teacher of the men's class in this splendid church which is making itself felt throughout the whole city. He is also the pastor of the church; a man's man and a solid one at that is White. His wife is a charming lady and prepares the most delicious scalloped eggs that ever happened—at least that ever happened to me. May they recur oftener than Halley's Comet. The difference between Halley's comet and Mrs. White's dish of scalloped eggs is that the comet carries his own tail while I cheerfully bear the tale of the eggs where'er I go. In closing we are moved to say that the eggs were delightfully fresh and we much fear that Mrs. White will think the writer of these lines is also. What we started to remark, however, was since the eggs were so fresh, it is too bad that the man who wrote that first "Wireless Whisper" we are trying to straighten out, got things so badly adled.

* * *

The following song is sent us by Ira E. Carney, the enthusiastic Brotherhood pastor of Local Brotherhood No. 291, Eldora, Iowa.

Tune, "Everybody Works But Father."

THE FATHER SONG.

Every Sunday when the sun was warm
 Father dug some bait,
 Sauntered down to the river bank,
 There to sit and wait,
 Until the church bells all rung out,
 The preacher rung off, too,
 The neighbors said it was a fright,
 The way my dad would do.

CHORUS.

"Everybody works but father,"
 Has gone clear out of date.

Ever since the Brotherhood movement
 Struck the reprobate.
 Father had a headache,
 Every Sunday then.
 But now he's Grand Chief Mogul
 In a Bible class for men.

Now the Sunday paper waits,
 And week day fishin's fine.
 Any kid would like to chum
 With that old dad of mine.
 Ma keeps smiling all the time,
 Just doubt it if you dare.
 I'll tell you now the fellows know
 My dad is on the square.

This appeared in the May number of "Pluribus Unum," a spicy church leaflet edited by Brother Carney. At a recent county convention Brother Carney represented the Brotherhood movement.

* * *

COLETA, ILL., May 30, 1910.

CHRISTIAN MEN,
 Kansas City, Mo.

DEAR BRETHREN:—

And so the scurvy little card
 I sent to you last winter,
 With all its statements cold and hard,
 You've handed to the printer.
 'Twas hardly worth the public gaze,
 Nor had I grit to ask it;
 I tho't the screed would end its days
 Down in your office basket;
 And tho' I wrote to have you quit,
 You've turned a better caper,
 You didn't mind my word a bit,
 But still send on the paper.
 Well, bless your heart, you're good indeed.
 We're truly glad you met us;
 The style of friends that fellows need
 Are those who won't forget us;
 Who love you tho' you're weak and rash;
 Whose heart is strong and tender
 And true, altho' your ready cash
 Could scarcely be more slender;
 Whose grip is firm and keeps its hold,
 Relaxing ne'er a minute;
 Whose soul is pure as tested gold,
 For Christ Himself is in it.
 I thank you for your kindly grace,
 It holds a man together,
 And helps him show a smiling face
 In life's contrary weather.
 And here's my 50 cents again,
 I strained a point to make it;
 You wouldn't stop my CHRISTIAN MEN,
 So now, God bless you, take it.

Sincerely yours,

O. J. BULFIN.

Brotherhood Achievement

"Our treasurer and our secretary were selected as delegates to the State Brotherhood meeting at Rochester, in June."

JAS. D. BARNHART, President,
 L. B. D. C. No. 252, Niagara Falls, N. Y.

E. F. Daugherty, of Wabash, Ind., is calling upon his Men's Brotherhood to become a living link in the Foreign Mission work. He is expecting to find 100 who will give 50¢ per month. Daugherty does things.

A recent letter from H. I. Prusia, President L. B. D. C. No. 306, says, "Everything is the right color here."

* * *

The Brotherhood at Newark, Ohio, has organized an employment bureau. They are doing a great service to both employer and employee.

* * *

The men of Texas grow enthusiastic for brotherhood work at Dallas State Convention. Many calls for Field Secretary were made. Texas is in earnest.

* * *

"The Brotherhood program April 13th, was successful."

C. L. HAYS,
Eldora, Iowa.

* * *

The men of the second church, Youngstown, Ohio, Reynolds, pastor, have raised $100, bought a Chinaman to Hiram, and are educating him for a native missionary.

* * *

"Our Local Brotherhood will observe Home Mission Day on May 15th. We are following the programs outlined in CHRISTIAN MEN."

W. G. ORAM,
Washington, D. C.

* * *

"The men at South Broadway Church have just been organized. We desire to affiliate with the General Movement."

GEORGE F. W. BRIERLIE, Secretary,
Denver, Colo.

* * *

"The Brotherhood had charge of the church services last Sunday evening, and it was an inspiring sight to see so many taking such an active part in the church work."

GEO. W. HOFRICHTER,
Cleveland, Ohio.

* * *

S. G. Buckner organized a Brotherhood at Rolling Prairie, Ind. There were forty-five at the banquet, thirty-eight signed the covenant and twenty-four subscribed for CHRISTIAN MEN. Brother Wickham is the enthusiastic pastor.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 311, West Philadelphia, Pa., orders an emblem and CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine for each new member of the brotherhood. May we hope that other brotherhood organizations will catch the spirit of this example and do likewise.

* * *

The men of Central Church, Toledo, Ohio, affiliated with the General Brotherhood with twenty-five charter members, and then, through H. W. Culp, sent in thirty-six subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN. Any Brotherhood which makes itself solid with the General Brotherhood organization and gets every member to take CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine is sure to succeed.

* * *

"News Service" is the appropriate heading of letter issued by the Lenox Avenue Union Church of New York over which William Maynard Craig has been requested to continue his pastorate indefinitely. P. F. Jerome is Financial Secretary and enthusiastic Brotherhood friend.

* * *

"Our Brotherhood Bible Class has just completed one year. Enrollment thirty. Ordinary class collections $36.00; special expense $4.00, Brotherhood expenses CHRISTIAN MEN, dues, supplies, etc., $21.00. For partition, etc., basement room, $56.00. Total $113.00."

C. L. HAYS,
Eldora, Iowa.

* * *

At the time these lines are penned the great Ohio Brotherhood convention is in progress at Toledo. If there is one thing which the Buckeyes excel in it is advertising. CHRISTIAN MEN office receives no less than a dozen local Ohio church papers. These have been chock full of the Brotherhood convention for a month. The Buckeyes believe in printers' ink and plenty of it.

* * *

The Brotherhood at Massillon, Ohio, recently had a hundred men to a meeting where a paper was read by S. G. Edgar on the White Slave Traffic and discussed by Prof. Thomas and Austin Bailey. The High School mandolin club and Brother Denton, rendered music and the proposition looking to a City Brotherhood to meet every three months was presented.

* * *

Tuesday evening, May 10th, W. A. Shullenberger, the pastor at Trenton, Mo., delivered the chief address at Cameron, Mo., at the Men's Bible Class luncheon. Other speakers were E. T. Harris, J. N. Munsell, S. D. Thompson, Baxter Waters and A. R. Liverett. T. W. Pontius was the toastmaster. One hundred and fifteen men were present. Enthusiasm was great.

* * *

"We just had a rousing meeting with several new members. Next month is our turn to entertain the other Local Brotherhoods—Methodist and Presbyterian. This Brotherhood Union meets quarterly and is becoming a power in local affairs."

R. W. JOHNSON,
Secretary L. B. D. C., No. 284,
Modesto, Cal.

* * *

The Brotherhood of Portsmouth, Ohio, have fitted the basement of the church for gymnasium work. They have put in a system of shower baths, and a large plunge bath. These baths are open to the men as they return from their work both morning and evening. They have also organized ball teams among the boys. Condition of membership on the teams is the ability to play ball and membership in Bible school.

* * *

The Hiram College Glee Club gave a concert in the Franklin Circle Church, Cleveland, O., under the auspices of the Brotherhood. Four hundred and twelve people were present and they thoroughly enjoyed the meeting, which was presided over by H. H. Pounds.

This is a feature that each Brotherhood can handle under the auspices of the Cultural Committee and will do much toward making each Brotherhood's programs successful.

The Brotherhood at Elkhart, Ind., called a meeting of the citizens of the city, raised $5,000 in twenty minutes for prosecution, enlisted fifty deputy sheriffs inside of an hour, arrested ten of the most flagrant violators, all in one afternoon. Fined them $1,000 each and placed them under suspended sentences of six months' imprisonment if a drop of liquor is ever found on their premises. The blind tigers got their eyes opened and the theater is as quiet as a funeral.

* * *

The ladies in the past have been doing mostly all of the church work but since forming the Brotherhood our men are getting busy. Our Local gave a Mystery Tea at the church June 14th, the proceeds to go to building fund. We take up the subject of "Brotherhood Possibilities" at our meeting next Sunday afternoon. We averaged over seventy at each service in March and sixty-five in April.

ALVIN ARIE,
Secretary, L. B. D. C. No. 279,
Chicago, Ill.

* * *

Field Secretary, J. K. Shellenberger, attended the annual fish fry of the Local Brotherhood at Wabash, Ind., which is presided over by President F. G. Carpenter, son of the late L. L. Carpenter, known and loved by our people throughout the earth. The other officers are Vice-President, Murrill Durnbaugh; Secretary and Treasurer, Carl Von Ammermann; Steward, Daniel Showalter; Pastor, E. F. Daugherty. Great results are anticipated from this Local Brotherhood under such splendid leadership.

* * *

A Brotherhood has been organized within the great Men's Berean Bible Class at Nelsonville, Ohio. See R. A. Doan's reasons for organizing a Brotherhood elsewhere. Governor Harmon addressed the Bereans on a recent Sunday. Four hundred and forty-seven men cheered the State Executive and their Bulletin of May 29th contains a long autograph letter from the Governor to Mr. Doan.

* * *

Sunday evening, April 24th, at the Franklin Circle Church, Cleveland, Ohio, occurred a Men's Brotherhood Service. H. H. Pounds presided. An anthem was sung by the Men's Chorus, scripture lesson read by Carl Brown, prayer by A. R. Teachout, cornet solo by H. Elfers, duet by Messrs. Sapp and Jenkins, addresses by Prof. S. R. Hoover and Attorney William Gillie. A splendid, inspiring service is reported.

* * *

We have copy of The Call, issued by the Howett Street Local Brotherhood, Peoria, Ill., for their first meeting, Monday, May 16th. Besides a splendid array of talent the announcement itself displays unusual ingenuity on the part of whoever got it up. It ends with this statement:

"Bring a fellow workman or neighbor with you if you can."

We are preparing to hear more from this enthusiastic group of men.

Jackson Avenue Local Brotherhood No. 262, Kansas City, observed CHRISTIAN ME program, Mary Jones vs. The Church. John I. Williamson, President Linwood Boulevard Brotherhood, was the judge. W. W. Wright, Secretary Independence Blvd. Brotherhood was prosecuting attorney, while J. E. Taylor of Jackson Avenue, defended the church. Mr. Doctor Gilman made a splendid prosecuting witness, but the jury "hung." This was one of the most enthusiastic Brotherhood meetings ever held by Local Brotherhood No. 262. About two hundred people were in attendance.

* * *

Local Brotherhood No. 276, North Yakima, Washington, to the number of fifty discussed the Home Mission Program in May. O. F. Elliott and A. C. Vale, of Selah; P. N. Campbell, of Wapato; F. A. Tuse, of Yakima City; W. H. Devaney, of Pomona Heights; Ralph Harris, of Toppenish, and M. L. Rose, of North Yakima, were the orators. Reports from these various points created so much enthusiasm that a committee was appointed to take charge and distribute Brotherhood work in the several places. This means the Yakima Valley will go solid for the king.

* * *

"Our Brotherhood recently held a joint meeting with the Sisters of the C. W. B. M. having charge of the evening services in connection with the offering for Home Missions and we had a very good meeting with nearly every man taking part. I believe the members of our church know more about Mission and what our Missionary Board is doing about home work, than they have ever known. We had a full house and besides we got a good offering for Missions despite the fact that our little congregation is making efforts towards a new building."

C. W. PULTZ,
Sec. L. B. D. C. No. 253,
Washington, D. C.

* * *

The Howett Street Local Brotherhood, Peoria, Ill., held their first meeting Monday May 16th. M. W. Rothford spoke on "Our National Brotherhood." Pastor William Price delivered an address on "The King and Government of England." Mr. Price is an Englishman and well qualified to speak on the subject. E. N. Miller, a Brotherhood man from the Central Church Brotherhood furnished music. This was followed by an open discussion, luncheon, general hand-shaking and getting together. Arthur W. Leu is president and affiliation papers will be sent in shortly. This is one of the two local Brotherhoods which built the West Bluff Chapel in the remarkable time of one day.

* * *

"We have been having good attendance at our Bible Class and have had some splendid programs. I have been much pleased with the splendid reports in CHRISTIAN MEN showing the work of the Brotherhood.

"If I were to complain in any way, it would be that we do not have the outline of the program in time to get much good from it for the first meeting in each month, and this possibly could be remedied by publishing three grams in the June Number, then in the number give the last program for July the first for August."

C. A. MANGUM, President,
L. B. D. C. No. 272.

We saw the philosophy of this the moment we read the letter and three minutes later a program was enroute to Mr. Shellenberger to include the first July program in June. This emphasizes what we have continually said, is, that the Brotherhood is making the magazine and the general office simply puts together.

* * *

One of our members here, Brother Runk, in Philadelphia a short time ago and the privilege of explaining the great aims and objects of the Brotherhood movement and what it has done for us in Philipsburg. Please send organization material to them. We have sent them a number of CHRISTIAN MEN and trust this will result in a Local Brotherhood organization in the Third Church Philadelphia."

RUNK & PALMER,
Philipsburg, Pa.

The above was received at Kansas City on May 14th. On May 21st, application for certificate came from West Philadelphia and also order for thirty-three copies of CHRISTIAN MEN and order for thirty-three Brotherhood emblems. This is true Brotherhood Missionary work.

* * *

AKRON, OHIO, May 10th.

Had a fine banquet here tonight. Over hundred men. I go to Kenton in the morning to fill Brother Shellenberger's date."

R. A. DOAN,
Nelsonville, Ohio.

We feel greatly rejoiced in the able laymen whom we are able to press into Brotherhood service. Mr. Macfarlane's sad mission to California precluded attendance at Texas State Convention. Mr. Shellenberger left his work in the East and went to Texas. R. A. Doan, of Nelsonville, Ohio, spoke at Akron and Kenton, the latter date referred to above. Mr. Doan is a layman and a layman of distinction, who finds time aside from managing large industry, to devote energy to working men. In February we published a picture of three hundred and forty-one men in Mr. Doan's Bible Class at Nelsonville, the above extract of letter shows they did not stop there.

Brotherhood Missionary Work

By B. F. PALMER, President,
L. B. D. C. No. 254, Philipsburg, Pa.

Accompanied by Brother L. G. Runk, Chairman of our Social Committee and all around hustler, I went to Orvis, Pa., where we found about fifty men gathered by Brother J. L. Harvey, who had already been enthused by a visit to the Philipsburg Brotherhood. They had song service and music by a male quartette, followed by Brother Runk with an address on the objects and aims of the Brotherhood. I also contributed to that portion of the program and assisted in forming a Brotherhood. Every man present arose and took the Brotherhood pledge. This promises to be one of the strongest Brotherhoods in this section of Pennsylvania. Officers were elected and you will hear from them direct.

At the close, splendid lunch was served by the young men of the church, and we predict great results from this Brotherhood of active young men and deem it a great opportunity to aid in its organization.

* * *

A Voice from the Congo

Just while the doughty ex-president has turned all our attention to Africa, there comes a letter from one of our missionaries at Bolenge. From that communication we clip the following and thereby pass on to our readers the responsibility of answering the call which is echoed therein:

"We have cause for rejoicing just now; a letter came bearing the good news that another station site would be given to us as soon as the terms were made. This is assured. Lotumbi, on the Momboy river. This is a wedge entering a great mass of God's children. Rejoice with us. Say, in the Brotherhood can't you find us two more doctors, at least? This new grant calls for a doctor and where is he? Our Christianity must mean more than dollars and cents. It should mean what Paul told Timothy in his first letter, chapter 4:16: 'For in doing this thou shalt save both thyself and them that hear thee.' It should mean life and death, life if we give our life and death if we keep ourselves for ourselves. God grant that we may get these men and that soon.

"Yours in His righteous cause,

"CHAS. P. HEDGES."

Great Men's Bible Class at Hastings, Nebraska—Watch Them—They've Only Started

BIBLE SCHOOL NOTES

"Governor Harmon was in Nelsonville last Sunday and addressed our class for twenty minutes. He was greatly pleased and said he had never seen anything like it. 447 men present."

R. A. DOAN,
Nelsonville, Ohio.

* * *

As an example of a successful Men's Bible Class, A. R. Liverett, of Cameron, Mo., organized a class last October with seven members. It now has an enrollment of more than a hundred and twenty. At a recent luncheon given by the class one hundred and fifteen men were present.

* * *

"We had 2,535 at Bible School yesterday at the City Auditorium. The total attendance of all Canton schools was 10,136. By this you will note that one of every four who went to Bible school, came to our school."

P. H. WELSHIMER,
Canton, Ohio.

* * *

"Received my first number of CHRISTIAN MEN this morning and desire to say that I am perfectly delighted while reading its contents, as the greater portion deals with men and more especially with Christian Men."

T. A. SMITH,
Greenville, Texas.

* * *

The Volunteers of America, in Detroit, Mich., subscribe for CHRISTIAN MEN in quantities for Bible Class use. C. C. Blakely, leader of the class, writes "We are using CHRISTIAN MEN the same as other churches. Each member has a copy to read and study from. Every one is delighted with these lessons."

The great Bellavben Bible Class at Beller's Pa., has a novel scheme for taking care of their mailing list. The names of the members are typewritten by the carbon process on perforated gummed stickers thirty-three names to the page. When communications of any kind are sent to the members, the sticker is pasted on the envelope or postal card. They also have a printed list of names and addresses of the membership arranged alphabetically. There is a suggestion in this for other men's organizations.

* * *

The Bible schools of Nortonville and Winchester, Kansas, have undertaken a way to raise money for a new building enterprise, according to a large announcement which comes to us.

BALL GAME

CHRISTIAN BIBLE SCHOOLS

NORTONVILLE vs. WINCHESTER

SATURDAY, APRIL 30th, GAME AT 3:00 p. m.

Admission 10c.

BENEFIT NEW BUILDING FUND. COME.

* * *

"Please send me for the Christian Bible School 200 B. D. C. Buttons for our Business Men's Class. I have never seen anything that has made a hit like these buttons have. Had fifteen calls yesterday that I was unable to supply. The former supply of one hundred was exhausted a week ago. The men seem proud to wear them and we are also proud to see them do so. We surely had a great school yesterday, 87 in the Men's Class; offering $100."

W. C. WESTLAKE,
Trenton, Mo.

The Carlisle Christian Sunday school, of which Harry T. Alumbaugh is president, is circulating open letters from W. J. Bryan, J. M. Wanamaker and H. J. Heinz, that are full of stimulus and inspiration to all Bible school workers and which show especial appreciation of the enterprising work done by this splendid school.

* * *

Enclosed find check for $2.50 for ten additional yearly subscriptions for CHRISTIAN MEN. It gives me pleasure to report these additional subscriptions and to let you know you are sure your paper is doing great good for our people."

W. E. McGOWAN,
Supt. of Sunday School.
Harrison, Ohio.

* * *

Sunday, May 1st, is a day long to be remembered at Nelsonville, Ohio, for on that morning in the Y. M. C. A. building, the school gave a service in honor of the old soldiers. The Berean Bible Class has twenty survivors of the Civil War regularly enrolled, and conceived the idea of honoring them while they are living instead of after they are dead. Fifty-three of the old soldiers attended and a sweet service was never experienced. Three hundred sixty-six men were in the class. A sea of flags, patriotic songs and eight hundred and sixteen men, women and children in the school, cheered the old veterans. This is the home of J. A. Doan, who teaches one of the largest men's Bible classes in our Brotherhood.

* * *

Bedford Wants a Contest—Who Dares?

Bedford, Indiana, has had several large adult Bible Classes, but not until the first of the present year did she have a class of men that took place with the great classes of the present men's movement.

I taught a mixed class that had long been the pride of our Bible School. When a man of the Brotherhood wanted a Brotherhood class, and it was suggested that the pastor should teach such class when organized, many shook their heads. They said, "Your big class will be out of your hands then. You will have only a few men to begin with. You will not put the men's class up to any large enrollment.

So your large place of opportunity will be gone. Don't you do it." But the thing was done. We started with twenty-six men. We now have 130. We have not had any contest or special efforts to increase our enrollment. We challenged Book's Class of Columbus, Indiana, but they were not disposed to try the men of the Oolitic metropolis. Book closed his lids. He possibly thought we were a hard set to beat. So we have worked away according to a few well tried plans at home. But we would like to try some Brotherhood class about our size.

The features that have made us are as follows: 1. Every man signs a card when enrolled, and gives his street number. 2. We have a class organization that works. 3. Our secretaries check up the attendance as the lesson study proceeds, no one knowing, unless he watches for it, that the work is going on. Thus we keep our study time as free as possible from details. 4. The teacher and officers never miss an opportunity to solicit the boys during the week, and they speak of the class to them at every opportunity. 5. We notify absentees by card. We vary the form. Nothing has worked like this plan of notification of absentees. 6. We take our offering, distribute papers, and make important announcements the last five minutes of our study period. 7. We have a separate room for our work.

We have just inaugurated the plan of having special visitors from out of the city. A few Sundays ago we had W. E. M. Hackelman, of Indianapolis. We gave him the entire study period, and he led the men in songs and choruses. As a result old, sour fellows who had not smiled in months, nor sung for years, let loose the contraction of facial muscles and smiled and sang. Eighty of them came back at night and sang in a men's chorus at the regular church services, entering the church in a body.

We have just got a good start. We have set our aim high. Some of the half score or more classes that now lead us may as well get ready to go back and sit down, for we want a seat further front.

Our officers are, J. R. Rutherford, President; H. T. Fields, Vice-President; C. H. Strupe, Secretary, with W. H. Mallott and D. B. Dodds as assistants; J. B. Foster, Treasurer.

The long strike is over, and 126 cars of cut stone are leaving Bedford daily.

H. A. DENTON.

What Must the Church Do With Its Men?

Told About in

The Brotherhood Organization Package

15c in Stamps, to cover cost of Printing and Postage Only Brotherhood General Office

Program for Local Brotherhoods, July, 1910

I.

TOPIC:

"The Kingdom of God a Social Institution"

Prepared by J. K. Shellenberger

I.—Opening Exercises.

1. Song "Loyal Men," published in May Magazine, p. 27, or can be ordered from J. F. Williams, Geneva, O., 1c each.
2. All stand and repeat the covenant.
3. Prayer, closing with the Lord's Prayer in unison.
4. Special music.
5. Bible reading, Rev. 21:1-8.
6. Hymn "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord."

II.—Program of the Evening.

1. Address by a local brother. "What is the Kingdom of God?"
 - (a) What? A condition of society.
 - (b) Where? On this earth. Prove this by second chapter of Daniel and the Lord's Prayer.
 - (c) Principles of the Kingdom:
 1. Trust: "Our daily bread."
 2. Brotherliness; Forgive as you would be forgiven.
 - (d) Conclusion: The Kingdom of God is an ideal sinless social condition to be realized in this earth. "The Spirit of America Must be Made the Spirit of the Kingdom. Here is a Man's Job for American Men."—Arthur Holmes.

2. Address, "A Man's Place in the Realization of the Kingdom."
3. Address by the president, "How can this Brotherhood aid in the progress of the Kingdom of God."

Suggested Points:

 - (a) We can raise the standard of politics.
 - (b) We can guard each other's interests more than we do.
 - (c) We can be more helpful to each other than we are.
 - (d) We can take a more vital interest in the conduct of the church than we do.
 - (e) We can take a more vital interest in the missions of the church than we do.
4. Debate—Resolved that the World is Growing Worse. Two speakers on each side, six minutes each.
5. Open Parliament — One minute speeches from the floor.—"What can do to make it better."
6. Mr. President—Try to make this meeting lead up to some local practical particular thing looking to social betterment which your Brotherhood can do, and get it started by the appointment of committees, etc., before this meeting adjourns.

Figs or Thistles—Is the Church a Fruitless Institution

II.

- I.—What Has the Church Done for Europe? Historical study—10 minutes.
- II.—What has the Church Done for America? Historical study—10 minutes.
- III.—What Has the Church Done for Today?
- IV.—What Ought the Church to do for Tomorrow?

- V.—Debate. Resolved that the social and industrial problems of today are church problems.
- VI.—Open Parliament — One minute speeches. "Fruit I think the Church Should Bear."

Mr. President.—Remember to make arrangements for the annual Brotherhood picnic in August.

August Program for Local Brotherhoods

I.

THE ANNUAL PICNIC.

The Brotherhood Calendar for 1910

Beginning with the Annual Meeting in February

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary, Wooster, Ohio

JULY.

1. The Kingdom of God a Social Institution.—An emphasis on the necessity of light-heartedness as well as the gravity of Christians.

2. Is the Church a Fruitless Institution?—A study of how God treated a dying nation. Ez. 37.

AUGUST.

1. The Annual Picnic.—The Social Committee will arrange for a day of rollicking for every Brotherhood man and his family or his friend.

2. Church Extension.—A careful study of the institution that gives permanency to our work.

SEPTEMBER.

1. The Brotherhood and the Bible School.—How the Brotherhood can boost the Bible school. The Brotherhood's attitude to the men's class.

2. The International Convention.—This year when we determine to go en masse to the largest Men's convention the Disciples of Christ have ever held. "On to Topeka!"

OCTOBER.

1. State Elections.—Principle above policy. Manhood above party. Courage of convictions everywhere.

2. State Missions.—A study of the calls of our State to men strong in the faith of Jesus Christ.

NOVEMBER.

1. Civic and National Reforms.—Here is where we lock arms with the W. C. T. U., the Bible School, the Y. P. S. C. E., the International Reform Bureau, et al, in the onward march toward a stronger manhood and purer womanhood.

2. A Harvest Home Meeting.—Thanksgiving. A season of special rejoicing for the goodness of God.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worthy of his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

FEBRUARY.

1. Annual Meeting.—Once around, and what has happened. Yearly reports, and annual address.

2. World-Wide Missions.—Golden Opportunities and social responsibilities in and to the Foreign Mission field.

MARCH.

1. The Integrity of the Home.—Marriage and divorce. A debate. Invite your wives and sweethearts.

2. From Bethany to Olivet.—Easter. A week of meditation. A study of our covenant.

APRIL.

1. Is the Church a Necessity?—Can we get along without it? If so, what will take its place?

2. Home Missions.—America's problems, and their solution.

MAY.

1. The Brotherhood and Fraternities.—A program for the Fraternal Committee. Can the Brotherhood be made as rich in fellowship as the lodge?

2. The Brotherhood and the Boy.—What is the Brotherhood's attitude to the yeasting character of the boy? Why are more boys on the street than in church and Bible School?

JUNE.

1. Brotherhood Possibilities.—An enlarged vision coming from experiences of the past. An organized POWER of the kingdom.

2. Good Citizenship.—A call to Christian men. Some problems that are crying for solution which only Christian men can solve.

P. H. WELSHIMER

The Bible School Lessons for July

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—JULY 10.

“REVIEW.”

American Revision.

Introduction. The review may be made one of the most interesting lessons of the quarter, and without preparation it can become the dryest and dullest.

Suggestive Lessons for Review Day

I. A Drill Down.—Who has not enjoyed the old-fashioned spelling school, where we lined up around the room and spelled down? Those were the days of good spelling, too. A Bible drill is just as interesting and beneficial. From the lessons of the quarter let the teacher prepare a list of from 100 to 200 questions, covering the quarter's work. Divide the class or department or entire school into two divisions and have a drill down. Announce it before the day. Let people spend a few days in getting ready for such a drill down. The interest will be marked.

II. Special Talks.—Select four or five from the school to deliver five-minute talks on phases of the work. Let one speak on the persons, another on places, another on events, another on the teaching of Jesus, and another on the practical lessons for the day. The following subjects might well be discussed: “The Miracles of Jesus;” “Faith as Exemplified in the Lessons;” “The Character of the Twelve Whom Jesus Called;” “John the Baptist, the Hero;” “Why the People Were Opposed to Jesus;” “A Cure for Doubt;” “The Compassion of Jesus;” “The Parables.”

Lesson Subject of the Quarter

1. “The Power of Faith.”—Matt. 9:18-34.
2. “The Mission of The Twelve.”—Matt. 9:35; 10:15, 40-42.
3. “The Question of John the Baptist.”—Matt. 11:1-11.
4. “Warning and Invitation.”—Matt. 11:20-30.
5. “Two Sabbath Incidents.”—Matt. 12:1-14.
6. “Temperance Lesson.”—Prov. 23:29-35.
7. “The Growing Hatred of Jesus.”—Matt. 12:22-23, 38-42.
8. “The Death of John the Baptist.”—Matt. 14:1-12.
9. “The Multitudes Fed.”—Matt. 14:13-21; 15:29-39.
10. “Jesus Walks on the Sea.”—Matt. 14:22-36.
11. “The Canaanitish Woman.”—Matt. 15:21-28.
12. “The Parable of the Sower.”—Matt. 13:1-19, 18-23.
13. “The Parable of the Tares.”—Matt. 13:24-30, 36-43.

LESSON 3—JULY 17.

“PETER’S CONFESSION”—MATT. 16:13-28.

13 Now when Jesus came into the parts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Who do men say that the Son of man is? 14 And they said, Some say John the Baptist; some, Elijah; and others, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets. 15 He saith unto them, But who say ye that I am? 16 And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. 17 And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jonah; for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father who is in heaven. 18 And I also say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of es shall not prevail against it. 19 I give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth, shall be loosed in heaven. 20 Then charged he the disciples that they should tell no man that he was the Christ.

From that time began Jesus to show his disciples, that he must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the Jews and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and the third day be raised up. And Peter took him, and began to reprove him, saying, Be it far from thee; this shall never be unto thee. 23 He turned, and said unto Peter, Get behind me, Satan; thou art a stumbling-block unto me; for thou mindest not the things of God, but the things of men. 24 Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me. 25 For whosoever would save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it. 26 For what shall a man be profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and forfeit his life? or what shall a man give in exchange for his life? 27 For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then shall he render unto every man according to his deeds. 28 Verily I say unto you, There are some of them that stand here, who shall in no wise taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom.

Time—Autumn of A. D. 29.

Place—Near Cæsarea Philippi, not far from the head waters of the Jordan at the foot of Mt. Hermon.

Explanatory. 13—Cæsarea Philippi, formerly known by the name of Panium, built on a lime-stone foundation and had been improved by Philip and by him called Cæsarea Philippi, in honor of the reigning Cæsar and himself. "Son of Man." This phrase was frequently used by Jesus. He was more than a mere Jew or a Samaritan or a Roman. He was a man. 14—There were conflicting ideas as to who Jesus was. Nazareth said he was the carpenter's son, yet she could not account for his mighty works. Jesus now desires to know what the disciples have learned from the people concerning him. Some thought he was John the Baptist, others thought he was the prophet Elijah because of his boldness in his preaching. Others, because of his sorrowful tone of speech, thought he was Jeremiah, while others, not knowing who he was, thought he must be "one of the prophets." All regarded him as a prophet, but none thought him to be the Messiah. Prejudice and preconceived opinions blinded their eyes. 15-16—"But who say ye?"—Jesus asks this question directly of the disciples. He cared more for the thoughts of the disciples than of the multitude. This is a personal matter, each one must answer for himself. "The Christ, Son of the living God."—This was the confession of Peter. "The Christ."—By this he was recognized as the promised Messiah. "The Son of the living God."—This was his recognition of his divinity. He is placed above the prophets, and as the Son of God he has a "peculiar and unique relation to the Father." 17—"Blessed art thou."—Jesus pronounced a blessing upon Peter because of his confession. Bar-Jonah was the son of Jonah. The Father in heaven had revealed this fact to Peter through the wondrous works and words of Jesus the Messiah. Peter had seen the Son incarnated in Jesus, the Son. 18—"Thou art Peter."—This word Peter in the Greek is Petros, which means a stone. The word rock in the expression, "upon this rock I will build my church" in the Greek is Petra, which means a great immovable mass of rock; hence Jesus means, "thou art a small movable stone," and in contrast, "upon this great immovable rock I will build my church." Petros is Peter; Petra is the rock. This is evident from the reading of Isa. 28:16; I Peter 2:4-8; I Cor. 3:11. The church is not built upon Peter, as the Catholics claim, nor was it built upon the revelation of the truth about Jesus, as many claim, but was built upon Christ himself as the foundation. It may be argued that Christ being the builder, cannot be the foundation. In answer, the reader will notice that in John, the tenth chapter, Jesus uses two figures in alluding to himself, in which he says he is both the door for the sheep and he is the Good Shepherd. The building of the church was in the future—"I will build my church." "The gates of Hades" means the gates of the underworld shall not be powerful to prevail against it. Jesus, the foundation of the church, was thrown into the grave and its gates could not hold him there. He burst them open and came forth victoriously. As the gates shall not prevail against the church, neither shall they prevail against the superstructure. 19—The church and the kingdom are here synonymous. The keys were used to unlock and were placed in the hands of Peter. On the first Pentecost after the resurrection of Jesus, in the temple at Jerusalem (Acts, second chapter) he opened the doors to the Jews. Again he opened to the Gentiles, when he preached to Cornelius and his friends at Cæsarea (Acts, tenth chapter.) To bind is to prohibit; to loose is to permit. It means Peter was to submit the conditions on which men would be admitted into the kingdom. The conditions he said was given him by the Holy Spirit, hence the conditions stipulated by him on Pentecost were ratified in heaven. How significant the preaching of the apostles relative to the entrance to the kingdom. It was directly in harmony with the statement of Peter when he used the key at Pentecost and Cæsarea. Since the door was opened, it has never been closed. 20—It was better for the disciples not to announce that he was the Christ. Many would have desired to crown him; those who disbelieved in him would have been more desirous of putting him to death. The hour had not yet come to make his Messiahship generally known. 21-22—Now begins to disclose to the disciples the nature of his Messianic work. They were not ready to receive this message before. Their dream had been that of an earthly political kingdom, with Jesus on the throne as king. Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him as though Jesus was disheartened and despondent. Peter did not whereof he spoke. 23—Satan means adversary; in that Peter was opposed to the plans of Jesus, he was his adversary, a stumbling block and an offense. Peter's was on the things of men and not those of God. 24—Any man to be a disciple of Jesus must put away selfish desires and be ready to endure suffering. 25-26—If we live for this world only, we are saving our life, but lose eternal life. If we deny ourselves for the sake of Christ, we shall have eternal life. Our lives should be for Christ. To gain the world and lose the soul is the greatest loss possible. There is nothing a man can give in exchange for his soul. 27—At the final coming of Christ he will reward every man according to his deeds. 28—In this verse, Jesus alludes to another coming, not the final, but one nearer at hand. At this coming he will enter upon his reign as king. After having been exalted at the right hand of God, his kingship was declared on the day of Pentecost. (Acts 2:33-36.) There were some standing there who would not taste of death until they did see this.

Comments on the Lesson

The church is a divine institution. Christ is its builder and its foundation. The institution rests upon some foundation. The church of Christ is built upon the rock. The church was established on the first Pentecost after the resurrection of Jesus. Here Peter used the key given him by the Savior. At Cæsarea when Cornelius and his family were obedient to the Gospel, the Gentile world had opened to it the door. This door has never been closed, neither has the plan of entrance been changed. The plan set forth by Peter is the Gospel plan of salvation. When men comply with the conditions laid down on Pentecost, they are infallibly saved. We have no right to give our opinions when the Book speaks plainly. Jesus left the telling of the story and the setting forth of plans in the hands of men. To men he delegated the responsibility of preaching the Word and there is no record of any man being pointed the way to life by any other method. The apostles were united on the plan of salvation. They may have disagreed on plans and methods of work, but never upon the great plan of human redemption.

Questions for Class Use

I. The Confession. Why did Jesus ask the question of the lesson? Had they up to this time believed Jesus to be the Messiah? Why did they say he was the Baptist? Why Elias? Why Jeremiah? Why one of the prophets? What was Peter's confession? How did Peter know that Jesus was the Christ?

II. The Foundation. What is the meaning of Petros? What is the meaning of Petra? On what did Jesus build the church? Is the church synonymous with the kingdom? When was the church built? When was the foundation laid? What was meant by the gates of hades not prevailing against it?

III. The Keys. What is meant by the figure, the keys? Who was to be the bearer? Where did Peter use the keys?

IV. The Death of Jesus. Why did Jesus desire silence regarding his Messiahship? Why did he not before this show them more clearly that he must die on the cross? Why was it necessary for Jesus to die?

V. The Mistaken Disciple. In what sense was Peter an adversary? What was Peter's conception of the reign of Jesus?

VI. The Test of Discipleship. What is the test of discipleship as given by Jesus? How can a man take up his cross? What is meant by losing one's life in this world and finding it in the next? What shall a man give in exchange for his life?

VII. The Second Coming. When will the Son of Man come in his glory with the angels? When did the Son of Man come in his kingdom?

LESSON 4—JULY 24.

"THE TRANSFIGURATION"—MATT. 17:1-18.

And after six days Jesus taketh with Peter, and James, and John his brethren and bringeth them up into a high mountain apart: 2 and he was transfigured before them; and his face did shine like the sun, and his garments became white as the light. 3 And behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elijah talking with him. 4 And Peter answered, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, I will make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah. 5 While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold, a voice from the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him. 6 And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were afraid. 7 And Jesus came and touched them and said, Arise, and be not afraid. 8 And lifting up their eyes, they saw no one, save Jesus only.

And as they were coming down from the mountain, Jesus commanded them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of man be risen from the dead. 10

And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the scribes that Elijah must first come? 11 And he answered and said, Elijah indeed cometh, and shall restore all things: 12 but I say unto you, that Elijah is come already, and they knew him not, but did unto him whatsoever they would. Even so shall the Son of man also suffer of them. 13 Then understood the disciples that he spake unto them of John the Baptist.

14 And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a man, kneeling to him, and saying, 15 Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is epileptic, and suffereth grievously; for oft-times he falleth into the fire, and oft-times into the water. 16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. 17 And Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I bear with you? bring him hither to me. 18 And Jesus rebuked him; and the demon went out of him: and the boy was cured from that hour.

Time—Autumn A. D. 29, six days after our last lesson.

Place—A spur on Mt. Hermon, north of Cæsarea.

Introduction. The main summit of Mt. Hermon was 9,050 feet above the level of the sea. It is snow-capped the year round. "The transfiguration is the point of contact between the Old and New Testaments."

Explanatory. 1—Six days after the confession at Cæsarea, Jesus took Peter, James, and John into Mt. Hermon. 2—Here He was transfigured before them. The appearance of his person was changed, his face and raiment shined like a light. 3—The disciples learned that the strange visitors were Moses and Elias, possibly by their conversation, for they had never seen them before. In Luke, the ninth chapter, we learn their conversation was relative to the death of Jesus. He had, six days before, made known to the disciples that he was to die in Jerusalem, and now these representatives of the old dispensation come to confer with him. 4—Peter spoke from impulse, not from judgment. The proposition was to build booths out of the branches of the trees, in which three glorified persons were to dwell. Mark says, "He knew that he should say for they were frightened." 5—A cloud overshadows them and from it comes the voice of God. He said, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, hear ye him." This was the same declaration that was made at the baptism of Jesus, except the command to hear him. This was uttered in the presence of Moses the lawgiver, and Elijah the prophet; the voice meant that the teaching of Jesus should take precedence over the law and the prophets. Peter referred to this declaration in II Peter 1:16-18. 6-8—Fear came over the disciples. They fell upon their faces. The heavenly messengers departed. Jesus touched them and said, "Arise, be not afraid." 14-16—From Luke we learn in the morning they came down the mountain to the multitude. A man met them whose son was a lunatic. The disciples had been unable to cure him because of their lack of faith. 17—Jesus was displeased with the manifestation of weak faith. 18—The affliction of the child was caused by a demon. Jesus rebuked the devil and the child was cured from that very hour. 19—The disciples came to Jesus apart from the multitude and asked why they could not cast out demons. Jesus gave unbelief as the cause. He rebuked their weak faith by stating that their faith had been smaller than a grain of mustard seed, for that much faith would be powerful enough to remove a mountain. How weak their faith must have been.

Comments on the Lesson

Peter, James and John were with Jesus in most of the important events of his life. Peter was to be the one to first preach the Gospel on Pentecost. He was to bear the martyr's crown. James was to be the first Christian martyr and John, the youngest of the disciples, was to remain upon the earth after all the other apostles had departed. Jesus was in prayer in the moments that led up to the transfiguration. Moses, the law-giver, and Elijah, who represented the prophets, came to talk with him. Peter was so over-powered with both joy and fear that his first impulse was to remain on the mountain and build for the Master and his heavenly visitors three booths. But there was work for both Jesus and the disciples to do. Their days could not be spent on the mountain-top. Down on the plains were the multitudes waiting to be healed and to be taught. Mountain-top experiences are wholesome and inspiring only when they send us back to the plains to do better work for the Christ. There are many people in the church today who are regular in attendance at conventions and are always in line for the dress parade, but who forget the common duties when the convention closes and the parade is over. When the disciples opened their eyes they saw no one but Jesus only. He is our law-giver, our prophet, priest and king, our all and in all. One of the hindrances to great works in the world today is the lack of faith. Some of the best compliments ever passed by the Savior were upon those who had great faith. Some of the bitterest rebukes he gave were administered to those whose faith was weak. More faith today will give us more work, it would mean more churches and better and greater churches, more consecration, better buildings and more adequate equipment; supply the pastorless churches with preachers and the churches without pastors with churches, give and send young men into the ministry and more missionaries to the ends of the earth. In our plans we forget to consider God. We walk by sight, where we should be walking by faith. We forget the promise, "Lo! I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." Every man who has blessed the world and helped to extend the kingdom of God has been a man of great faith.

Questions for Class Use

I. The Transfiguration. Where did the transfiguration take place? Who was present? Why were Moses and Elias present? How was Jesus transfigured? What did the voice in the cloud say? What effect did this have upon the disciples? What was Peter's request?

II. Healing the Lunatic. Why couldn't the disciples heal the lunatic? What effect must the failure have had upon the multitude? How did Jesus rebuke them?

LESSON 5—JULY 31.

"A FORGIVING SPIRIT"—MATT. 18:21-35.

21 Then came Peter and said to him, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? until seven times? 22 Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times; but, Until seventy times seven. 23 Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, who would make a reckoning with his servants. 24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, that owed him ten thousand talents. 25 But forasmuch as he had not wherewith to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made. 26 The servant therefore fell down and worshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. 27 And the lord of that servant, being moved with compassion, released him, and forgave him the debt. 28 But that servant went out, and found one of his fellow-servants, who owed him a hundred shillings; and he laid hold on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay what thou owest. 29 So his fellow-servant fell down and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee. 30 And he would not; but went and cast him into prison, until he should pay that which was due. 31 So when his fellow-servants saw what was done, they were exceedingly sorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done. 32 Then his lord called him unto him, and saith to him, Thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou besoughtest me: shouldst not thou also have had mercy on thy fellow-servant, even as I had mercy on thee? 34 And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due. 35 So shall also my heavenly Father do unto you, if ye forgive not every one of his brother from your hearts.

Time—Autumn, A. D. 29.

Place—Probably Capernaum in Galilee.

Introduction. Jesus had been talking to the disciples about humility and the punishment inflicted upon those who caused his followers to sin. He also instructed the disciples about their treatment of those who offend them. Peter was interested in this subject of reconciliation and forgiveness and hence asked the first question of the lesson today.

Explanatory. 21—Peter was generally the first to speak. He was known as the impetuous one. His question was, "How often shall I forgive my brother when he sins against me; shall it be seven times?" The rabbis had said three times. Peter now goes far in excess of their spirit and wants to know if seven times would be sufficient. 22—Jesus says seventy times seven. Not that this number, which would be four hundred and ninety, is the limit, but he lays emphasis upon the word seven. It means there will be no end to the times we will forgive a brother, but forgive every time he sins against us. 23—Jesus now likens forgiveness in the kingdom of heaven to a certain king, and the king represents God. The servants are those to whom God has committed great blessings, opportunities and important trust. Reckoning is the bringing to a man's heart the consciousness of his sin. Sin is compared to debt. We have here a great and a small debtor. 24-30—The Jewish talent was equal to $1,600 of American money, hence 10,000 talents would be equal to $16,000,000. This would place the debt in a hopeless condition. The king had brought into his presence this debtor and because he was unable to pay, demanded him and his wife and his children and all he had to be sold and the payment to be made. The servant saved himself by going down and praying and in his prayer saying, "Have compassion upon me, give me time and I will pay all." The king was moved to compassion and did more than give time; he forgave the debt. The $16,000,000 debtor went out and found a poor fellow who owed him $15, laid hold of him, took him by the throat and demanded payment. The $15 debtor offered the same prayer which had been offered by his creditor, but the one who had been forgiven much would not listen, but cast him into prison until he should pay the debt. 31—The unjustness of this deal was noticed by other servants. They came and told the king all that was done. 32-33—We here have the forgiven $16,000,000 debtor in the presence of the king. He is reminded that he has been forgiven a great debt and yet had refused to forgive one of his fellow servants a small debt. One had had pity on him; he had refused to have pity for another. 34—In this case the king canceled his promise and the old debt stood. It was impossible for him to pay it. He was turned over to the tormentors until he should pay it off, which meant that his whole life should be in torment. 35—The application that Jesus makes is that we have all sinned against God and unless we are willing to forgive men who have sinned against us, our Heavenly Father will not forgive us the sins we commit against him.

Comments on the Lesson

We need the lesson of forgiveness. Only a great soul can forgive. Only a mean, small one can refuse to forgive. In the Lord's Prayer, Jesus teaches us to pray for forgiveness as we have forgiven those who trespass against us. If we refuse to have a forgiving spirit, we are not of Christ and hence must not expect forgiveness from him. Troubles in the home, in the church, in society and in business would vanish were a forgiving spirit always exercised. How inconsistent for one to expect God to forgive, when he would be unwilling to forgive his fellow men. Sometimes the man who is most sinful towards God is the most unreasonable in dealing with those who sin against himself. One of the ways that we can know that our sins are being forgiven by our Heavenly Father is by looking at our own forgiving or unforgiving heart.

Questions for Class Use

What was the occasion of Peter's question on forgiveness? What did Jesus mean by seventy times seven? What is the application of the story which Jesus gave? When God forgives our sins today, are they wiped out forever? Will forgiveness on the part of an alien be all that is necessary for him to do to receive forgiveness of his own sins? What must an alien do to first have his sins forgiven? After one has become a child of God, what must he do to continually receive forgiveness for his transgressions?

LESSON 1—AUGUST 7.

"JESUS ON THE WAY TO JERUSALEM"—MATT. 19:1-2; 13-26.

1 And it came to pass when Jesus had finished these words, he departed from Galilee, and came into the borders of Judea beyond the Jordan; 2 and great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there.

13 Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should lay his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them. 14 But Jesus said, Suffer the little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for to such belongeth the kingdom of heaven. 15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

16 And behold, one came to him and said, Teacher, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? 17 And he said unto him, Why asketh thou me concerning that which is good? One there is who is good; but if thou wouldst enter into life, keep the commandments. 18 He saith unto him, Which? And Jesus said, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, 19 Honor thy father and thy mother; and Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. 20 The young man saith unto him, All these things have I observed; what lack I yet? 21 Jesus said unto him, If thou wouldest be perfect, go, sell that which thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me. 22 When the young man heard the saying, he went away sorrowful; for he was one that had great possessions.

23 And Jesus said unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, It is hard for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven. 24 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. 25 And when the disciples heard it, they were astonished exceeding, saying, Who then can be saved? 26 And Jesus looking upon them said to them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible.

Time—Autumn, A. D. 29.

Place—Perea.

Explanatory. 1-2—Jesus left Galilee and came into the coast of Judea beyond the Jordan. The multitudes followed him and he healed them there and answered many of the questions of the Pharisees. In this lesson we have his reception of the children and his conversation with the rich young ruler. 13—Read also Mark 10:13-16 and Luke 18:15-17. The people were desirous of having his hand placed upon their children and a prayer offered for them. For this purpose they brought them to Jesus. They did not, as many have inferred, bring them to Him to have them baptized or receive church membership. They simply desired the Great Teacher to bless them. The disciples thought it best to not molest him with the children, and hence rebuked the parents for intruding. 14-15—But Jesus requested that they permit the children to come and keep them not back; he taught that those in the kingdom of heaven are like the children. He did not mean that the kingdom of heaven is composed only of children, but those in the kingdom are child-like and inherit the child spirit, etc. (See the eighteenth chapter, first six verses.) 16—We here have the conversation of Jesus with the rich young ruler. See Mark 10:17-32 and Luke 18:18-23. We know by these references this was a young man. He was a ruler, he was rich and he was in earnest, for he came running. His one desire, seemingly, was to have eternal life. From the writers it will be noticed that he realized eternal life was to be inherited, but he knew that inheritance was the result of doing. 17—Keep the commandments. He was under the Mosaic law and he complied with the law. Jesus' will had not yet gone into effect. A different answer would have been given after Pentecost. 18-19—"Which commandments shall I keep?" Jesus repeated the last six in the decalogue. Doubtless these were the ones more frequently violated than the others, hence he quoted them. 20—A moral young man is here, all these commandments had he kept from his youth up, can he be lacking anything yet? 21—Jesus said if he would keep the commandments perfectly, observe their spirit as well as letter, he would sell all he had and give to the poor and he would have treasures in heaven, then he was to come and follow Jesus. 22—What a test this was. He desired eternal life and he loved his possessions. The demands were great and "He went away sorrowful." 23-24—Jesus teaches that the rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of God. Imagine a camel trying to get through the eye of a needle, yet Jesus has said this is easier than it is for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. 25—No wonder the disciples were amazed at this saying and they asked, "Who can be saved?" 26—Jesus taught them that with men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible. The thought is that rich men are liable to trust in their riches and have little desire for the kingdom of heaven. Their riches become an obstacle in the way to the higher life. Not only will riches oftentimes keep a man out of the kingdom of heaven, but the desire for riches and the eager pursuit of wealth will likewise become a barrier. Read II Timothy 6-9. Jesus teaches that it is possible for God, though it be a difficult work, to save a rich man. Every man who is saved must be saved by the terms of the Gospel. Men cannot serve God and Mammon, but they can serve God with Mammon. Riches in place of being a hindrance to man, can, if properly used, be an aid to the entrance to eternal life.

Comments on the Lesson

There is nothing in this lesson to indicate that Jesus taught infant baptism or infant church membership. Infant baptism is from paganism and crept into the church after the death of the apostles. The parents, doubtless, were desirous of having the children blessed and prayed for by the great and good man. In the case of the rich young ruler, we see a man who might have proved a great help to the kingdom of God by coming earnestly to the Master to learn what to do to inherit eternal life. Today we have to go after men and lead them to the teacher of the Word that they may be taught. Here was one so interested that he came running. Would that men might do so today. For, "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness." Jesus was able to read the heart of the young man and knew that while he desired eternal life he loved his riches more. What he meant to teach was that there should be no barrier between Christ and man. We should love the Lord our God with all our heart. If today there are barriers in the way of Christian service they should be removed. "If an eye offend thee, pluck it out." "If thy right arm offend thee, cut it off." This is still the teaching of the Savior. Jesus' will went into effect on the First Pentecost after his resurrection. The answer now given to those who seek eternal life is, have faith in Christ, repent of your sins, confess him before men and be baptized into his name; we must also have the spirit that would lead us to give up father and mother, brothers and children, houses and lands, if need be, for the sake of Christ. If we are to be his disciples we must take up our cross and follow Him. While riches may often hinder one from entering the kingdom, if properly used and if the life be consecrated, riches can be of great help and with them we can extend the kingdom. One doesn't necessarily have to possess many thousands of dollars to be kept out of the kingdom; there are men who will let a single dollar shrivel their souls and turn their aspirations away from righteousness and truth.

Questions for Class Use

I. Jesus and the Children. What did Jesus mean when he said, "Of such is the kingdom of heaven?" Give another example in which Jesus pointed the disciples to the children for a lesson. Why did the disciples object to the children being brought to him?

II. Jesus and the Rich Young Man. What good characteristics are indicated in the young man's life? What would be the standing in a community of any young man whose life corresponds to that of the young ruler? How is eternal life obtained? Did Jesus teach that it is an inheritance? What must a man do today to inherit eternal life? Why didn't Jesus give the answer then that was given on Pentecost and ever afterward? Why did the young man go away sorrowful? What did Jesus teach about riches and the kingdom of heaven? What is a rich man in the estimation of Jesus? According to the teaching of Jesus, must a man have millions before he can display the spirit of the rich man? How can riches be made to help a man obtain eternal life instead of hindering him?

Christian Men Magazine

And The

Masculine Bible Lesson Helps, Man-Getter and Class-Builder

Order and Pay For Quarterly

20 Copies, one Quarter, .	$1.25	50 Copies, one Quarter, .	$3.12
25 " " " .	1.56	75 " " " .	4.68
40 " " " .	2.50	100 " " " .	6.25

First Month FREE if you send order by July 8th

Provided the supply lasts. A postal card will bring the Magazines promptly. Address, E. E. ELLIOTT, Circulation Manager,

R. A. Long Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

THE Publishers Failure

Places in our hands the remainder of Their Greatest Publication.

Ridpath's History of the World

9 Massive Royal Octavo Volumes, 4,000 double-column pages, 2,000 superb illustrations. Brand New, 1st edition, down to date, including peace treaty of the Russia-Japan War, beautifully bound in Half Morocco.

At LESS than even DAMAGED SETS were ever sold

We will name our price only in direct letters to those sending us the Coupon below. Tear off the coupon, write name and address plainly, and mail to us now before you forget it. Dr. Ridpath is engaged in his work is done, but his family derive an income from his History, and to print our price broadcast for the sake of more quickly selling these few sets would cause great injury to future sales. Sample pages are

WEIGHS
50 LBS.

Review of Reviews says:

The reader feels himself in the hands of an author who possesses not only a wide acquaintance with books, but also the correlative of a keen knowledge of men and human nature, and a singular breadth of view and sanity of judgment.

The New York Christian Advocate says:

Ridpath's "History of the World" is the only general history which may justly be ranked as classic. The reader will find in it more solid and authentic information relating to historical questions than could be gleaned from a whole library of more diffuse but less valuable works.

The Boston Post says:

John Clark Ridpath is above all things a historian. His historical works are accepted as standards in schools and colleges as well as in business houses and homes. His style is simple, his manner charming.

The Christian Herald says:

No other work of its kind has ever supplied a history so well suited to the needs of all classes and conditions of men. We cheerfully commend this most popular and complete of all world histories to our readers.

The New York Independent says:

It will be a great addition to any library. In the variety and arrangement of its materials it is encyclopedic and its illustrations have been taken from the highest sources.

Bishop Newman says:

In reading Ridpath I experienced the pleasure often realized when looking at some grand panorama. The superb pictures of temples, palaces, scenes, events, and men add a charm to the clear and vigorous style of the learned author.

$1 BRINGS COMPLETE SET
Balance Small Sums Monthly

RIDPATH takes you back to the dawn of history, long before the Pyramids of Egypt were built; down through the romantic, troubled times of Chaldea's grandeur and Assyria's magnificence; of Babylonia's wealth and luxury; of Greece and Roman splendor; of Mohammedan culture and refinement; of French elegance and British power; to the rise of the Western world, including the complete history of the United States and all other nations down to the close of the Russia-Japan War.

RIDPATH'S enviable position as an historian is due to his wonderfully beautiful style, a style no other historian has ever equalled. He pictures the great historical events as though he were happening before your eyes: he carries you with him to see the battles of old; to meet kings and queens and warriors; to sit in the Roman Senate; to march against Saladin and his dark-skinned followers; to sail the southern seas with Drake; to circumnavigate the globe with Magellan; to watch that thin line of Greek spearmen work havoc with the Persian hordes on the field of Marathon; to know Napoleon as you know Roosevelt. He combines absorbing interest with supreme reliability, and makes the heroes of history real living men and women and about them he weaves the rise and fall of empires in such a fascinating style that history becomes as absorbingly interesting as the greatest of fiction.

RIDPATH'S is conceded the Greatest History ever written. It is so beautifully written your children will learn to love it. It will add to your store of knowledge which is power, and to the richness of your life.

SEND COUPON TODAY AND WE WILL MAIL SAMPLE PAGES FREE

WESTERN NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION
CHICAGO

FOLD HERE, TEAR OUT, SIGN AND MAIL

Please mail without cost to me, SAMPLE PAGES of RIDPATH'S HISTORY containing photographs of Napoleon, Queen Elizabeth, S. M. Bates, Caesar and Shakespeare, maps of China and Japan, diagram of the Canal, etc., and write me full particulars of your special offer to CHICAGO MEN readers.

Name.....

Address.....

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

CHAPMAN - - - - -	Fullerton, Cal.	J. H. ALLEN - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.
GEORGE F. RAND - - - - -	Buffalo, N. Y.	BURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
STOCKTON - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.	ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
---------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 4

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, AUGUST, 1910

Number 2

The Builder

The man who builds a church today is greater than the king who built a pyramid. Some day the pyramid will lose itself in the sands, the heaped up blocks will fall apart or the stones themselves crumble into dust. The little time church away out on the prairie founded on a $300 loan from the Board of Church Extension will be more enduring. The wood of it may rot or burn; the cyclone may blow the building away; some day the plowshare may tear it away across the site, or of its foundations only scattered rocks remain like the first church building of the restoration movement lying leaf-strewn amid the ragged woods of Southwestern Pennsylvania. But the church is still enduring. Men have come out of it whose lives and labors have influenced the race and the weight of whose worth will tell in the scales at the judgment day.

George W. Muckley is a builder. For nineteen years, or is it twenty? he has been Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, which carries church buildings in its hand. When the missionary evangelist has done his work, when the tent is folded and the organization is formed; when the young congregation begins the life test, it is the Board of Church Extension which grows a toughening shell upon the back of the tender thing. Men in the old churches and men in the old states, perhaps, do not always recognize the wonderful service which this church building society has accomplished, when the history of this generation is studied it will be perceived that the work of our people differs from its work in other generations in particular because of the more permanent occupation of fields. In other generations our people have evangelized successfully, and yet there are fields in which because of such evangelism we ought to be primal in numbers and influence, where practically nothing remains. That was because the campaign was not followed up. The land was exploited, but not possessed. Today with the admirable coördination of our evangelistic, missionary and church building forces, we send out no skirmish line until we are prepared to support the movement with the battle line. We win fewer empty victories because today once in possession of the field we garrison the country and immediately prepare to occupy and fortify. The Board of Church Extension is the right wing of the army of occupation, and the man who has done more than any other person to make the work of the Board widely known and directly effective is George W. Muckley. He was not the first Secretary of the Board, but he is the one under whose consecrated labors it has come to be the mighty force it is among our people. The Board itself has been composed of wise and right-aiming Christian business men—some of whom have been laymen and some preachers, for, take notice, a preacher may be a business man, and in sooth, most of them are, else had they starved and theirs with them. But George W. Muckley has been the personal representative of that Board; he has gone from it to the people for the gifts to create the fund, and from it again to the fields where the money was to be used. He has made the Board of Church Extension a living reality to the two thousand churches who give to its work, and to as many churches who have been helped into life and labor by its funds.

The Corresponding Secretary of the Board is an awfully nice man. Everybody likes him; everybody knows him; and it is hard to write about a man that everyone knows and likes. What, for instance, should we tell you? That he is a graduate of Bethany, one of the choicest men ever bred in that wonderful school whence have come so many to grace our churches and to prosper our mission fields? Should we say that he has a charming wife, and two or three wonderfully fine boys, one at least of whom is a graduate of Ann Arbor and a practitioner of the law. No use to tell anyone that George W. Muckley's hair is brown like a nut and keen like a razor; that his face is only less round than a moon and with fewer mountains on it; that he has a dumpling for a chin, and two larger ones for cheeks. He looks like Wanamaker some. His features are balanced, clean, crisp—a likeable business face, with a broad brow that masks the place where Muckley thinks, where he conjures up five finger exercises, dabbles with figures and subtracts gloom and multiplies cheerfulness for the church entering upon a building enterprise.

The eye of the Church Extension Secretary is another feature that seems to come up in memory. It is a clarified piece of optical development. When Muckley speaks it snaps, when he laughs it twinkles. And, of course, the Muckley lids help to make the Muckley eyes. Remember, when he is not entirely convinced, how dryly, not to say slyly, the upper lids drape a fringe of soft lashes over the light from the unconsenting mind? And then, when he is surprised ious, how a little angle begins to grow in each upper lid, and grows and grows till the face of the Corresponding Secretary is as long as a flour barrel. Astonishment or apprehension honks like a horn from every line of it.

The voice of him is crisp to crackling. His speech abounds in historical allusions. It bristles with epigrams. Cross him and he bristles brashly. Approve him and he will pile on another modern instance.

He is a confident soul. One gathers the impression that he knows what he did yesterday and why, what he is about today and on which account, whither he will trek tomorrow and wherefore. He is not so tall, but there are one hundred and seventy pounds of him, when he gets on the scales, and he weighs a ton on the platform. He looks like a Derringer but goes off like a Colt's automatic. The people who have known him longest love him best. He is modest. He recommended someone else for stellar honors when we should come to write of Church Extension, but that one would himself most heartily agree that we have done simple justice to the man and some credit to the cause when we honor him as the man who, more than any other, has made the Board of Church Extension a living, breathing, building potentiality among our people today.

For all Mr. Muckley's twenty years of service, and the strapping sons who call him father, he is among the youngest of us. He tells a story with zest and attacks his dinner without scruples. He has courage and candor—and the latter is rarest. He owns a home in Kansas City, a cottage at Macatawa and a place toward heaven, where he expects to find church steeples in his crown. He is an energetic package and has more engine power than a torpedo boat. His middle initial is supposed by man to stand for Washington, so that when offering day comes around he may say: "Brethren, I cannot tell a lie. We have not money enough, therefore I had to cut down the appropriations with my little hatchet. Some of them I lopped off altogether. Give us more money so we won't have to cut. Let us practice conservation."

But as for ye editor, he has supposed that W. might stand for something else, Worker, perhaps, since he is such a very great laborer in behalf of the churches. Anyway, the whole of him stands for a great ideal, and that ideal is an adequate Church Building Fund. Our fund has grown steadily with a slightly accelerated pace, but our responsibilities have grown much more rapidly. It's not a mere figure to say that our funds have been added to while the need of those funds has been multiplying.

The first Lord's Day in September is set apart for the annual offering for Church Extension. Every pastor and every member of the church who as a member of CHRISTIAN MEN, should have a part in this offering, through his church, if the annual offering is taken, as it surely should be, or through a direct gift if no other means are assured. Local Brotherhoods will observe the Church Extension Program published elsewhere in this number, and lend their pastor and the officers of their church the most enthusiastic support in preparing for and receiving the Church Extension Offering. Supplies for the offering may be obtained from Geo. W. Muckley, Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, Kansas City, Mo.

In Twenty Years

To have handled $1,800,000 in loans with a loss of but $563 is a splendid record. And the record becomes all the more remarkable when we remember that it has been loaned to struggling mission churches that could not borrow elsewhere. This is the record of our Board of Church Extension. It has gathered $813,515 in twenty years and has received over $992,000 as returns on loans and interest, and helped 1,354 churches. It has invaded forty-six states and territories.

The American Christian Missionary Society, through their evangelistic work is organizing churches at the rate of one a day. These churches must be housed else they die. Hence the Church Extension Society must build at least one church every day, for it finds itself already 600 in arrears, and pleading cases are multiplying.

The plan of operation of the Church Extension Fund has been an evolution. Originally no loan larger than $500 could be granted to any church, and only to churches costing $2,500 or less. In 1890 the limit was raised to $1,000, but only on churches costing $5,000 or less. Thus the feeble fields only were helped and those of large possibility were left untouched. Finally the limit was removed and the amount loaned was left to the judgment of the Board.

Another and later feature was the decision to not only loan money to build houses, but also to purchase lots in good locations in larger cities. This began our work in the cities with a degree of permanency that enlists the coöperation of many who would pay no attention to our work were it not that they feel that it will abide from the first.

The plea of the small place and the feeble church is a strong plea indeed, but the plea of large possibilities is much stronger. Hence it has become the purpose of the Church Extension Society to not only aid the A. C. M. S. to plant churches in the country and in villages, but to also enter the large cities at the strategic point. Here they are planning to help provide buildings planned for graded Sunday-School work, and for all other practical work demanded by a church in a large city.

Four per cent interest for the use of money is a low rate. And yet this rate of interest pays all the expense of operation and puts a surplus in the principal fund. The principal in the Church Extension Fund always remains intact. It is written in the original constitution that the expenses of operation shall be paid from accruing interest, but no part of principal shall be used as expense fund. This is the secret of the fact that $5,000 in five years will do the work of $12,422 and pay its pro rata of operating expense besides.

Church Extension defies the law of physics and makes perpetual motion possible. A gift of five thousand dollars by a church or individual becomes a fund named for the donor. Thus your money in your own name goes on, never decreasing, but working and multiplying its power, when your mortal clay has ceased to be. Such a monument is better than a cold marble slab or a granite pedestal standing in the cemetery.

One million dollars is the amount needed by 1912. It must be forthcoming else our work be crippled. We believe our wide-awake business men will see the common sense of Church Extension administration and will place large sums at its command, that these means may grow and fruit in years to come.

One hundred thousand dollars is the call for this coming offering. The first Sunday in September is the time. Let every church and every wide-awake man give liberally, not only because the call has been made, but because of the wonderful opportunity for service to the kingdom now as never before. Our churchmen have the money. The A. C. M. S. has opened the fields, and the Church Extension Board has the organization ready to administer it. Will your church be in line? Will you have a part in raising the One Hundred Thousand dollars needed this year? Answer these questions the first Sunday in September to the Glory of God and the extension of His Kingdom on the earth.

Another Prize Offer!

TO the person sending us one hundred or more paid in advance subscriptions to Christian Men Magazine during the period

August 1 to 31, inclusive, we will give
ABSOLUTELY FREE
 A Solid Gold Brotherhood Emblem
 Watch Fob

To the person sending us more than seventy-five and less than one hundred individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give

ABSOLUTELY FREE
 A Solid Sterling Silver Brotherhood Emblem
 Watch Fob

To the person sending us more than fifty and less than seventy-five individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give

ABSOLUTELY FREE
 A Bronze Brotherhood Emblem Watch Fob
 Each Prize will be suitably engraved with name of winner
REMEMBER, this offer is limited to the month of August, 1910. Mail lists so they will bear August Postmark.

RATES:

Clubs of 20 - - - 25c
 Clubs of 10 - - - 35c
 Single Subscription, 50c

A Personal Word to The Subscriber

If the above smiled at you outside the cover of CHRISTIAN MEN this or an previous month, it is another reminder from the Circulation Manager that your subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN has expired. If so, you very probably noticed the two-cent stamp we were compelled by the postal laws to place on the wrapper in order to get this month's magazine to you and keep within the boundaries of that narrow obligation. Two cents is a small matter to you, but it looms large on the financial horizon of this magazine, when multiplied by three thousand, which is the approximate number of subscribers who have failed to answer repeated requests to renew and have likewise not notified us to discontinue sending the magazine. We said two months ago that we could stop the paper when the time ran out and not only have a depleted subscription list but a whole lot of disappointed subscribers.

You want the paper and we want the money. A coin card is included in every expired subscription the last month. Everything we know to do we have done, and are doing, to encourage our friends to renew promptly. We are calling attention in this way also with the hope that you will renew at once. If you do not know whether or not your time has expired, look at the date on the wrapper. If it says any month previous to September, 1910, this word is meant for you. If the wrapper has been destroyed and you cannot tell, send in renewal anyhow and we will extend your subscription one full year. Many are our friends who are expecting to get, or have already started, a club of both new and old subscribers, but who have failed up to this date to get the club to us. To all such we would say that we appreciate your efforts in our behalf and will be obliged if you will send in the renewals at once, as it is costing us two cents per month for every delinquent after four issues. This is unfair to us and unfair to the subscriber who has renewed his subscription with a club, which is being delayed. Brethren, this is a serious appeal. Will you not so consider it and aid with us in making possible our service to the Brotherhood cause and especially to the subscribers within your own local community.

Fishing for Men

BY P. H. WELSHIMER

One of a series of stirring editorials by our Bible School Editor, Superintendent of our great Canton, Ohio, Bible School, minister of the church and teacher of one of the largest adult Bible Classes in the Brotherhood.—Editor.

The Bait that Caught Ten Men for the Bible School

I. A Baby Arrived at the Home.

Three days later the good superintendent of the Cradle Roll called, enrolled the baby in the Bible School and left a certificate which was soon framed and hung upon the wall. Flowers were sent to baby and the mother. Three months later Cradle Roll Day was observed in the school. A special invitation was sent to the parents to bring the baby. They came, and the father carried the boy. Everybody noticed the baby, and in doing so noticed the father. He was delighted and there were many invitations to return. It was the first time he had been to Bible School for years. It was "so different" from what he had expected. He came the next Lord's Day, enrolled, and now you couldn't get him out with a block and tackle. It pays to work the Cradle Roll. You not only get the baby, but you get the rest of the family as well.

II. He was a Stranger and They Took Him In.

He arrived in town early in the week. A man from the Bible class met him at luncheon, introduced himself, asked him if he attended Bible School and began to talk of the Bible School with the enthusiasm of a life insurance agent who expects to land a $50,000 policy. In the evening he sent another man from the class to call upon him. Every day that week a man called and put in his claims for the Bible School. Lord's Day morning a gentleman called to usher him to the school. He could not resist these invitations. He came, he saw, he enrolled; he is still coming.

III. Men Drew Him. A little six-year-old son desirous of going to Bible School was accompanied one morning by his father, who simply came to show the boy the way, not intending to stay, much less to enroll in the school. On entering the school he saw men everywhere. Men in the vestibule, men in the aisles, men in the pews, men on the platform; it was a man's school. They were sociable men, friendly men; they made him feel at home. They shook hands with him at the door, in the vestibule, in the aisle and in the pew. When he left the building many shook hands with him again, they shook him in and shook him out. It was just what he had been looking for. Here was a great body of men, and here was a man who longed to be with men. He brought his boy the next Sunday; he brings him every Sunday.

IV. Music Hath Power to Charm.

To sing, "I want to be an angel, and with the angels stand, a crown upon my forehead and a harp within my hand," makes little boys lie and helps to keep the men away. Soul-stirring music, music that is true to the Gospel, music that has life, people who sing as if they meant it, a leader who knows how to lead; everybody, big, little, young and old joining heartily in the songs, an orchestra that puts life in the audience and makes the blood tingle, this is an attraction for the man who has music in his soul. To many men whose daily round is that of hard but honest toil, life doesn't furnish much music. To such a one, Bible School music will be inspiring and will draw him to the house of God on the Lord's Day. Let us put music in the worship, where it will reach the most people and do the most good. Music has taken possession of many a heart where a sermon could not enter. In the Canton school, two orchestras meet at 8 in the morning to rehearse the music for the day. Many people can be seen sitting in the building an hour before the worship begins, listening to the orchestral strains.

V. The Word Taught. People desire to know what the Book says. Men err because they do not know the Scriptures. In the class, the teacher never taught doubts, the people had enough of their own. Plainly, kindly, but emphatically, he spoke where the Book spoke. He knew how to divide the Word; the Bible was no longer a jumbled up mass of platitudes and contractions, but a systematic library of truth. It became a new Book. This man who was desirous of finding truth was attracted to the young men's class and the teaching that holds him there.

VI. No Dull Moments. Number six, not many years ago, had attended Bible School. It was a slow train, running on a narrow gauge track. He was a busy man of affairs and did things with dispatch. He dropped into Bible School one Lord's Day and he saw things moving. People came on time, the school began on time. The superintendent, reception committee, door men, ushers, everybody moved as though they were going somewhere. There were no pauses. There was a time for everything and everything was on time. The school was not poor. With a thorough organization, every department was running by system. To this business man this was business. It dignified the work. He looked upon it no longer as a woman's task or a child's play. Bible School to him had come to mean something worth while for a man. He is now an important factor in that school.

VII. He was Caught in the Contest. The school was in a spirited contest with a sister school. The workers were talking contest by day and night. Clerks in the stores, men in the factory and in the office were talking contest with the enthusiasm of baseball fans. People not only talked, but they worked and they came to Bible School. This business man, who was caught by the contest net, had always maintained that he couldn't get up on Lord's Day morning in time for Bible School, as he worked until twelve o'clock on Saturday night. It was through the efforts of the splendid force of workers, with the contest spirit in the air and a great company of new pupils lining up for service, the man was induced to attend, as a visitor, on Lord's Day morning. He saw the other men who labored as late as he. The school was a revelation to him. He fell in line, and today he leads the forces in the Bible School enterprise.

VIII. He Lived for His Boys. A man had three sons. They were bright, capable boys. They were all in the public school. He toiled six days to provide food, raiment and shelter for his sons. There was no task too arduous for the father to perform for the welfare of those boys. He loved them as he loved his very soul. He looked into the future, he saw those boys as manhood's estate—what kind of men would they be? Reason said, if they were to make the most of the oppor-ties presented them and were to be of the right caliber, they must be brought under the influence of the Gospel. The father could not ask the boys to do the thing which he was refusing to do, so for the boys' sake, he, the Lord's Day morning, said: "Come boys, let's go to Bible School." A boy will do what the father does. Every boy looks at his father as a hero. He desires to be like him. And when the father started to Bible School, the boys naturally wanted to go. And when the father came once with the boys he ever after wanted to go. Today the father and mother, with their boys, are regularly in the school.

IX. He Couldn't Get Away From Mother's Songs. One beautiful spring morning a man out for a stroll stopped in front of the church to listen a moment to the singing. The song being sung was one he had heard his mother sing in days ago. It brought to the mind a flood of memories; he saw again the old home—mother singing in the twilight, brothers and sisters playing on the lawn. In that moment he lived his childhood days over again and longed to be as clean as when he was a boy. He there resolved to live a life that would be pleasing to that mother, if she were enabled to look down from the skies and behold the walk of her son. He came into the Bible School, enrolled in a class, later became a Christian, and today can sing with a truth, "Tell Mother I'll be There." Mothers cannot know the far-reaching results of the lullabies they sing. "Cast thy bread upon the waters and thou shalt find it after many days."

X. Somebody Loved Him. A middle-aged man with a family to support became ill and was removed to the hospital. Several men of the class were notified of his condition. They called to see him, took flowers to him and flour to his family. They called to see him repeatedly; talked with him about the school. A prayer was offered for him and his family. This moved him to tears. When he recovered he longed to be with those who had been his friends in time of need. He had found someone that was interested in him. If you want men in your school, go after them, make them feel at home when they come, have something for them worth while when they get there, be interested in them. Be diligent in season and out of season. This is the price of success. This is the way to catch men.

Men's Bible Class, Beatrice, Nebraska—Watch Them Grow—They've only Started

Last month we credited the above picture in error to Hastings. Now, Hastings has a splendid Men's class, under the leadership of their sterling pastor, R. A. Schell, but they have not Hasted fast enough to catch Beatrice with a class like this one.

The Hawkeye Brotherhood Convention

BY E. E. ELLIOTT

Number Two

The Second Iowa Brotherhood Convention will be set down in history as a record breaker in more ways than one. In the first place, the men themselves were present to listen to and participate in the discussions of the church problems of the day. C. N. Kinney, State Chairman, was there, flanked by more than a hundred men from Des Moines. There were laymen from the Mason City L. B. D. C. No. 306, who had traveled sufficient mileage to run off with the banner offered by the State Brotherhood Committee. The Brotherhood tent was general outside headquarters. Hackleman was there and so was Merritts, of St. Louis, and Shellenberger, our Field Secretary, and DeGafferelly, a real bass singer from Des Moines. These men composed an impromptu quartette and served tempting music at all hours, inside and outside the convention auditorium.

The Banner

Prominent Men

At 2 o'clock Chairman Kinney opened the session and H. E. Van Horn, of Des Moines, offered prayer. W. H. Darner, a traveling man of Des Moines, got half way through a splendid paper on "The Needs of Men's Organizations in the Establishment of Missions" when his time ran out. Hon. Emory English, State Printer, of Mason City, followed with a paper on the "Needs of the Organization of Men in the Development of Civic Reform," which was terse and meaty, and so good that the Convention voted unanimously to have it printed. Next came Dwight N. Lewis, Secretary of the Iowa Railway Commission, who teaches a large men's Bible Class in the Central Church at Des Moines. His subject was "What the Brotherhood Can Do in the Development of Bible Study Classes." Mr. Lewis' address was extemporaneous, but showed that the man and the subject were closely related. The boy problem was appropriately presented by W. J. Pilkington, editor of the Trades Journal, of Des Moines, a publication which has a larger circulation than any similar journal published in this country. The speaker was full of his subject and his time ran out before he quit talking. Next came M. F. Odle, attorney for the Iowa Anti-Saloon League, who told "What the Brotherhood Can Do in the Great Moral Reform Crusade." He caused the Brotherhood men to open their eyes wider and gave them a clearer insight into the confines of the Hawkeye State. W. T.

The Boy Problem

Denny and Fisher

Fisher, State Superintendent Iowa Bible Schools, spoke upon "The Brotherhood and Bible Schools." B. S. Denny, State Secretary of the Iowa Christian Convention, is a small speaker but a hard hitter, and he told these Brotherhood men clearly what should be done in regard to the support of our varied interests, local, State and National.

The Banquet

E. A. Nye, of Des Moines, was toastmaster at the Brotherhood banquet in the basement of the church. There ever was a closer packed banquet hall we have not been in it, but a better served banquet under similar conditions we never attended. Hackleman was there with his two quartettes and a lot of trumped up songs, on about C. N. Kinney, the gray-haired chairman, another to the State Committee and J. J. Groves, the groceryman of Ames, with something about sand and sugar, etc., we did not catch it all. Additional verses to State and National Secretaries sleeping in depots and on railway trains and not coming home even when it rains. We are not higher critics, so it sounded like poetry to us.

The Speeches

Speeches were made by Walter White and F. E. Smith, of Cedar Rapids, J. J. Groves, of Ames, O. M. Penock, of Clarinda, and others whose names we didn't know or have forgotten. The Assistant Secretary was also permitted to impose himself upon this throng, and as usual was still talking when the gong sounded. He secured respite long enough to present a silver medal to C. S. Medbury, won in the recent CHRISTIAN MEN subscription contest.

After the banquet came a breathing space before the evening session in the upper room. F. W. Burnham, of Springfield, Ill., was the chief speaker. J. K. Shellenberger, Field Secretary, was introduced to the audience, but the hour was late, the weather torrid, and the program already overcrowded, conditions over which no one had control, prevented him from delivering his inspiring Brotherhood message. He was due to deliver it and would have done so had conditions been different. Next year we hope to have him present it.

How to Organize

We almost forgot to mention that the Iowa men not only subscribed freely for CHRISTIAN MEN, but carried home our organization material in large quantities. This presages much good for the Brotherhood work during the coming year.

inspires us to say that it is not so much what we hear at these large gatherings that is worth while, but it is what we carry home and impart to others that really counts. The Brotherhood has a neat organization package, and while a man may have the Brotherhood reached to him over and over again at a convention, he does not get it all unless he gets the organization package.

Dr. Holmes Sick It was expected that Dr. Holmes would be at Boone to deliver his masterful address on "What Shall the Church Do With its Men," but on his tour in the interests of the Brotherhood his voice gave out and he was forced to return to Philadelphia before the Iowa date. No one is more sorry for this than Dr. Holmes himself and the Brotherhood General Office. He has a wonderful message for men. Some of the local churches he recently addressed are already at work upon plans his address inspired.

Ottumwa Next

Next year the Iowa Convention meets at Ottumwa and it is hoped that the session will be made simultaneous with the C. W. B. M. session, when all the men can be together and of one accord to plan for handling the great issues with which the Church today is grappling.

Missouri Brotherhood Convention

June 22d the Brotherhood Convention at Jefferson City was a combined session of the Brotherhood and Educational interests. Paul Moore, newly elected State President, so well and favorably known as the energetic Assistant editor of the Christian Evangelist, spoke upon "How the Brotherhood can Help the Nation." Brother Moore, though a tall man and a short speaker, made some sledge-hammer hits. He was followed by Hon. E. M. Richmond, of Bowling Green, presenting "State-Wide Prohibition."

Then came the Educational session with J. M. Sharpe, of Columbia, and F. A. Moffett, of Springfield, and following this, the most interesting and enthusiastic session of the entire convention—the Round Table and Question Box on "Brotherhood Methods and Organization," led by Mr. Elliott. During the heat of the discussion as many as four men were on their feet at once. The outcome was that the Brotherhood session and the Women's session next year will be simultaneous and every effort will be made to get our laymen to the convention in large numbers. There will be laymen on the various convention committees and the new Brotherhood committee will begin at once to line up Missouri men for definite Christian service. Brother F. E. Udell, of St. Louis, called attention to the fact that all of our various National organizations have had their struggles in the beginning and it takes these conferences to give us a definite understanding of what we have to do. Brother Udell urged the recognition of laymen not only on the convention programs, but on committees, and his suggestions were received with enthusiasm.

Cape Girardeau gets the convention next year.

With the Jack Rabbits

As these lines are being penned, arrangements are on for the annual gathering of the men in Nebraska. This State has an organization known as the Christian Men's League, which took form some years ago. Louis R. Smith, of Lincoln, is the Secretary, in whose hands arrangements for the convention are most properly placed.

The convention will be held at Bethany Park, Neb., the beautiful assembly ground near Lincoln, Saturday afternoon and evening, July 30th. At this writing, the program is not yet complete, but the General Brotherhood will be heard at the banquet and also at the evening session. As the convention does not close until the following day, a large gathering of Brotherhood men is anticipated. We hope to have Field Secretary J. K. Shellenberger make his inspirational Brotherhood address at the evening session. The General Brotherhood tent will be open and a cordial reception awaits visitors who may rest in its shade, sit in our chairs and write letters back home on Brotherhood stationery. If you are a "Jack Rabbit," prick up your ears and gallop over to Bethany Park for Saturday afternoon and evening and you will be well repaid for the journey.

Sufficient Unto Themselves

W. A. Shullenberger, Minister, Trenton, Mo.

What a great big cosmopolitan thing a large men's Bible Class is today. Take, for example, the Business Men's Bible Class at Trenton, Mo., of which W. A. Shullenberger is teacher. It is in itself a complete industrial combination. At the close of this article we print a list of the different crafts and professions represented. It will be seen that a man could live his whole life within the circle of this class and never lean upon the shoulder of any other than a Brotherhood man. Let us trace him through the whole cycle of life's vicissitudes without taking him out of this great Bible Class:

Assuming that a man's life begins when in the Spring his fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, before he can hope to engage the attention of the fair sex he must be properly groomed. The necessary tonsorial operations and preservations will be furnished by the barber member of the class and the furnishing goods man, also in the class, will attend to the up-to-date draping of his person.

The next most natural thing to do is to take a young lady for a drive. Well, there are two liverymen in Shullenberger's class ready to serve him. He will patronize one until the bill gets so big he cannot face it, and then he may turn to the other.

If the horses are gentle and the lanes are shady, the next requirement, the engagement ring, will be furnished by the jeweler member of the class.

Then, being a Brotherhood man, he is naturally right up to the minute and wants things done on time, so he would call on the janitor member of the class to see that the church is in readiness at the appointed hour, and of course the teacher of the class will be called in to perform the marriage ceremony.

Immediately there comes the wedding journey, and in the Bible Class are a railroad conductor, two locomotive engineers, and two other railroad men to see that the bridal party gets away.

On his return he must needs have a house to take his bride to, and there is a real estate man in the Bible Class to sell him a home and an abstract man to guarantee the title. If he has not enough money to pay for it, there are capitalists in the class who will lend him a nice sum and a Bible Class lawyer who will attend to the drawing of the mortgage. A Bible Class painter and paper hanger will decorate the walls and a Bible Class furniture dealer will equip it for occupancy. A grocer and miller, members of the class, will see that there is always plenty to eat, the oil merchant will furnish the illuminating elements and the coal dealer will keep the household comfortable.

If he is a business man, there are an accountant and a clerk in the class who would likely be willing to serve him, and there is a traveling salesman, a necessary adjunct to any widely successful business. If he is a tiller of the soil, this salesman would probably sell him a lightning rod, a washing machine, or there are four hardware dealers, members of the class, to attend to those or any other hardware needs.

If he has money, there are two bank employees who will see that it is properly taken care of.

There is a mail carrier in the class who will afford means of communication direct from his house or office to friends and relatives in distant climes.

If he should be suspected of keeping valuables in his house and it should be entered by persons with evil designs, there is in the class the city attorney to prosecute those and other offenders against the peace and dignity of the state.

When his first-born is heralded by two editor members of the class, he can buy the appropriate box of cigars from the Bible Class men, or, if he prefers, a barrel of apples from the wholesaler. If the baby cries for Castoria, two druggists are ready with the Fletcher brand.

Baby will need milk, and he can buy a cow from any one of the farmers in the class, and there is a feed merchant to furnish the cow with hay and bran.

Being married and owning a cow and a baby, he will, of course, not think of going without life insurance. He can have the services of two companies and remain inside the class.

He can buy a piano for his parlor from one member and another will teach his wife to play and sing.

When the cow kicks the milk bucket over on his Sunday clothes, there is a cleaner and a dyer in the class ready to remove the traces of bossie's incompatibility.

There are a tax collector and a court treasurer to see that he pays his fair share of the cost of government, including the salary of the legislator member of the class and who, being a Bible Class man, is therefore honest and has no source of income except that which he derives from the State.

When his wife goes away to the county fair, hooray! there are a cafe man and a hotel man waiting to supply his needs.

If his married life proves a failure, there is a police judge to reduce the ordinary pictures of domestic peace and one or two lawyers always on hand to institute divorce proceedings.

In case of the latter necessity, and when he breaks up his home, there are at least three men of occupation unknown to help get his goods out on the lawn while the actioneer member of the class will sell them for him.

Although his chances of life are much enhanced by the absence of doctors in the class, sooner or later the end must come to him, and when it does, the deaf and dumb brother can preach his funeral sermon and the class will feel assured that no untruths will be uttered.

Hardware Merchant.....	4
Wholesale Grocer.	2
Police Judge.....	1
Jeweler.	2
Editor.	2
Lawyer.	3
Traveling Salesman.....	1
Capitalist.	2
Merchant.	1
Bank Employee.....	2
Actioneer.	1
Retired.	2
Mail Carrier.....	2
County Treasurer.....	1
Farmer.	3
Everyman.	2
Croaker.	2

Wholesale Produce.....	1
State Legislator.....	1
City Attorney.....	1
Farmer.	1
Coal Dealer.....	1
City Collector.....	1
Laborer.	4
Miller.	1
Music Teacher.....	1
Furniture Dealer.....	1
Hotel Keeper.....	1
Railroad Man.....	2
Accountant.	1
Gents' Furnishing Goods.....	1
Real Estate.....	1
Oil Merchant.....	1
Cigar Maker.....	1
Farmer.	3
Railroad Conductor.....	1
Feed Merchant.....	1
Druggist.	2
Clerk.	1
Locomotive Engineer.....	2
City Clerk.....	1
Paper Hanger.....	1
Cafe Man.....	1
Life Insurance Man.....	2
Abstracts.	1
Music Dealer.....	1
Janitor.	1
Cleaner and Dyer.....	1
Occupation unknown.....	3
Deaf and Dumb.....	1

Oh, You Hoosiers

August fifth, at Bethany Park, twenty-one miles southwest of Indianapolis, will occur the Second Annual State Brotherhood Convention, with H. A. Denton, S. G. Buckner, Garry L. Cook, Assistant Secretary E. E. Elliott and others of more than local fame, together with a great host of Indiana Brotherhood men, who will make the air ring with glad songs and stirring speeches. Brand new, crisp, bright, fluttery lantern slides will be thrown on the screen in front of the hotel after the evening session. Most of these slides have been made especially for the Brotherhood and many of them will make their initial appearance on this occasion. If you live in Indiana and are interested in the Brotherhood movement, you cannot afford to miss this convention. It will mean much to our cause in the State. The fellowship will be grand, enthusiasm at the bubbling point and you will go home jammed to the roof with information and inspiration on the present day most vital subject, "The Men of the Church." If you are a minister, you cannot do better than to take a group of your men to Bethany Park. If you have a Brotherhood, it will help operate advantageously. If you do not have a Brotherhood, the gathering will stimulate an organization. If you are a layman, suggest to your men the advisability of sending some delegates, including your pastor, of course; pay his expenses and he will realize that you believe in Brotherhood.

The Future Brotherhood

BY H. E. STAFFORD

The contribution that any age or institution will make to the future, can best be judged in the light of what it has made and is making. Applying this criterion, we can best determine the future success of the Brotherhood by what it has done and is doing. Observation has revealed that the elements which we shall consider, have already been manifest in the work of the Brotherhood.

First.—The Brotherhood will be the organizing force of the Church. That the men of the Church in the past have not been organized, that they have not achieved much, that they have latent powers, excellent appreciation, and large capacities for the Christian work, we will all grant. It remains for the Brotherhood to gather up these threads of activity and inactivity, and weave them into a fabric of splendid achievement. There is no other institution in the Church that is adequately prepared to do this. The official board will not; it is not its province. Reception, social, and charity committees will not be successful; and we firmly believe that the organized men's class of the modern Bible School will not suffice. Men, especially outside the Church, want to be affiliated with something larger than the Bible School Class. Not even the local organization is sufficient to attract all the men. It has been the writer's experience, that laboring men and business men refused to join the local Brotherhood until he showed them that the local organization would be directly affiliated with the General Brotherhood. They declared the labor unions and the lodge interested them, because the local institution was part of a great international organization. They said their experience had been that the isolated institution passed away after the first year or two of enthusiasm had died out. The National organization is required in order that the local Brotherhood may tie up to something big. Thus the General Brotherhood appeals to men and is attracting them in a most practical way, organizing them into a great working force within the Church.

The Organizing Force

Second.—The future Brotherhood will be a greater factor in adjusting the Church to meet the conditions of the times. This is a practical age. Some one has called it "The corn-raising, the cattle-feeding, the house-building, the machine-manufacturing age." When an enterprise is suggested, the preëminent question is, will it pay? Men, dominated by this spirit in the business world, are carrying it into the Brotherhood, and through the Brotherhood, into the work to the Church; and faith is being seasoned with the salt of common sense. No longer will a few enthusiastic people attempt to build a $50,000 Church on $5,000 capital. Churches will not be erected to show the highest spire, but to worship in; not for beauty, but for business. Evangelistic meetings will no longer be held, that 500 or 1,000 heads may be counted and advertised through the papers; but that the Church may be brought nearer to Christ; that lives may be saved; the most atmosphere of the community change; business made more honest; the burden of the poor lifted; the lazy made indusous; municipal government cleansed; and the kingdom of God so possessing men, that all institutions of evil must go. The future Brotherhood lays hold of the problems of the Church and its work, and will see that time and money are not spent in keeping up denominational walls and over-lapping in Christian work. Christian union will not come by way of the orthodox theologian, but by way of the practical Brotherhood man.

An Adjusting Factor

On the other hand the Brotherhood of the future will inspire the Church to a larger vision of the times. This is an age in which large things are done, and done in the largest possible way. The merchants say, "It is too far around the Cape, let us buy the Isthmus and dig a way across," and Uncle Sam accommodates them with the Panama Canal. "We need another railway across the north of the continent," say the dealers in meat, and the Dominion Government agrees, "All right, you begin at the Pacific and we will begin at the Atlantic, and meet you in Winnipeg, where we will drive the golden spike," and it is done. Someone says, "There is an ideal place for a steel plant on the southern shore of Lake Michigan," and Mr. Gay replies, "Very well, we will buy several thousand acres." And a $10,000 steel plant and a $20,000,000 city is produced in almost a day. That is the way we do things in the world of affairs. The everlasting go of the business world will be caught by the Brotherhood, and put into the work of the Church, and the successful business principles of the new world of affairs will become those used to advance the kingdom. Thus the future Brotherhood will answer the call of the times:

Give me men to match my mountains,
Give me men to match my plains;
Men with empires in their purpose,
Men with eras in their brains.

Third.—The future Brotherhood will evolve a positive, a masculine Christianity. The work of the Church will no longer be a side issue for men, a kind of favor which they bestow on the preacher because he happens to be a pretty good fellow, nor yet because they feel it their duty; but the work of the kingdom being presented to them by the Brotherhood as a man's work, to be done in a man's way, it will appeal to them, and they will accept it as a first consideration. Board meetings will no longer be bores, but pleasant undertakings, because Brotherhood ideals will present big problems in a big way. The sacred work of the Church will become a real joy.

Again the future Brotherhood will bring Christianity down to the everyday life of men, as they live it, not only in the Church and in the home, but on the street, in the market and in the shop. It will help men to judge a man by what he is, not by what he pretends to believe; by what he does, not by what he says. It will impress on men the fact that truth speaks strongest, and best enforces itself when inculcated in the life, rather than remaining in precept. Thus the prayer of the poet will be answered:

God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinion and a will;
Men who have honor—men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And scorn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog,
In public duty and in private thinking.

Fourth.—The Brotherhood will bring a closer relationship between men and the minister. Because of the close association between the two in the Brotherhood work, men will come to understand and appreciate the work of the minister. They will learn his problems, understand his trials, and become acquainted with some of the burdens which he is called upon to bear. This fuller knowledge will bring a closer sympathy.

On the other hand, the minister will discover, because of his contact with the men, that he does not understand the men as he ought: therefore, if he is a true man, he will follow the guidings of the Brotherhood and go out into the street, into the counting-house, the office, the store, and study the conditions, temptations, and trials of men. He will go into the factory and foundry. He will stand in the midst of the noise, smoke, and breathe the gases that the men have to breathe eight and ten hours a day. The writer made such a trip to one of the foundries a few days ago, and he saw two men handling a great chain with links like a coupling link. These men balanced an iron pipe weighing several tons, while other men with ten-pound hammers, struck off from it heavy cast-iron shoulders. Another set of men caught it as it was passing, and whirled it in position in a space of such small dimensions that a misstep would have meant their death. Another set of men were handling levers controlling thousands of tons. As the writer watched, he thought, remembering the last ministerial meeting he attended, how inadequate was the average teaching and preaching to impress these men. After such a study of the conditions under which men are forced to work and do business, one feels much more sympathetic, and the minister, returning to his half-written sermon, generally commits it to the waste-basket. Such studies teach the preacher that his sermons must be fact and food, not flower and figure. Thus the future

Men and

Minister

Brotherhood will put the preacher to the exhibition of every faculty that is in him in order to meet the needs of the times. Men are asking that he not only preach practical truth, but that he first demonstrate that it is practical by living it out in his own way. Some time ago, the writer met a very shrewd business man, a member of Brother Medbury's church, and asked him what was the secret of Medbury's power. He replied, "It lies in this one thing. He lives every day what he preaches. I do not mean by that that he is just a good man, but that he has tested in his own life a proposition before he gives it to us; therefore, when he says be this, or do that, we know that it is right, because he has lived it."

Such close sympathies between man and preacher will lead to a most joyful and happy service together. The Brotherhood will aid in sounding the optimistic note. It will see the cheerful side, and cause the laugh, not the sigh. In the words of S. W. Gillilan:

I've toiled with the men the world has blessed,

As I've toiled with the men who failed;
I've toiled with the men who strove without zest,

And I've toiled with the men who wailed.
And this is the tale my soul would tell
As it drifts o'er the harbor bar:

The sound of a sigh doesn't carry well,
But the lilt of a laugh rings far.

The men who were near the grumble side,

Oh, they heard not a word he said;
The sound of a song rang far and wide,
And they hearkened to that instead.

Its tones were sweet as the tales they tell
Of the rise of the Christmas star,
The sound of a sigh doesn't carry well,
But the lilt of a laugh rings far.

If you would be heard at all, my lad,
Keep a laugh in your heart and throat,
For those who are deaf to accents sad
Are alert to the cheerful note.

Keep hold of the cord of laughter's bell,
Keep aloof from the moans that mar;
The sound of a sigh doesn't carry well,
But the lilt of a laugh rings far.

The Mysterious Ten

By EDWARD B. BAGBY

The Ninth Street Church, Washington, D. C., during the early years of its history tried various experiments with men's organizations but none succeeded. Just when the pastor was getting blue over his abortive efforts he began to feel a new force in the church and could not locate it. Things were being done and he hardly knew how. Then he heard whispers of "the mysterious ten." It seems that ten men had gotten together without officers, or name, or constitution, or time or place of meeting, but bound together simply by the common purpose to do for Christ whatever needed to be done. The best work of the mysterious ten, whose pictures appear here, was the organization of the Berean Bible Class, which has grown till now over two hundred men are enrolled in the Bible School and the average attendance of the two classes is over one hundred. One of the most effective means of building up the class was the going out of the ten in companies of two to call at the homes of the men and solicit members. Another good feature was the origin of a fund to educate members of the class for the ministry. Six young men have thus far been assisted. At the Pittsburgh convention a young minister with whom I was lunching, touched the Berean button on his coat and said, "I have never failed to wear this button and never look at it without gratitude to the men of the class who helped me through college." I met another, a student at Bethany College, who said in the last two years he had added over five hundred to the churches. The Bereans found him, discovered his talents and sent him to school. About seventy-five men of the class have united with the church during the past nine years. The class gives an annual banquet to the men of the church, and make themselves responsible for one service when there is a special sermon to men

E. B. BAGBY

The work of the ten was the precursor, if not the direct cause of the organization of the Fifteenth Street Church of Washington, and also of the new movement for a Y. M. C. A. on Capitol Hill. But the most effective work cannot be told as it has never been a matter of record. This silent pervasive influence grows greater every year and no one can estimate the final results. "Not to be ministered unto but to minister," is the best man's motto for men. The finest machinery is useless without power. Develop spiritual power and machinery will be developed through which it may work.

Fort Smith, Ark.

NOTE—The following are the names of "The Mysterious Ten" in the order in which they occur on the preceding page: Dr. Geo. T. Prewitt, E. A. Stevens, Edgar A. Kitchin, W. F. Pierce, T. R. Pirtle, H. F. Harmon, Harry S. Welch, N. W. Bridges, Henry Brewood, D. L. Shook.

Brotherhood Conventions Ahead

Nebraska, at Bethany, Saturday, July 30th

Indiana, at Bethany Park, Friday, August 5th

Illinois, at Springfield, Tuesday, September 13th

Kentucky-Oklahoma, et al, coming along

Plan to attend the one in your State

The Brotherhood Movement

A paper read by Judge J. N. Haymaker, of Wichita, at a Ministerial Institute in Kansas

Editorial Note:—We regard this as quite the most discriminating utterance upon the subject of Brotherhood essentials which we have seen from the pen of any man and invite for it careful reading from all who are seriously studying the great question of Men and the Church.

Judge J. N. Haymaker

The Brotherhood movement was inevitable. Of the desirability and necessity of such a movement there can be no manner of doubt.

There is enough latent, unused potential energy and ability on the part of the men in our churches to revolutionize the church, the state and the world, if only quickened, directed and made effective.

It reminds one of the unmeasurable potency of our mountain streams and great waterfalls, which for centuries have gone to waste with the world all about in want of the very things that potency could have brought them if only rightly apprehended, directed and applied.

You know what science and business have done and are doing with this great white power today. Conservation and application of natural forces are the keynote of the times.

A Great White Power

Even so we have a great white power in the church. We want our leaders, our scientists, our Christian business men to apprehend, direct and apply this power. We want them to set machinery alongside of it. To transfer this unused, heretofore neglected, latent and wasted power into the electricity of usefulness, beneficence, philanthropy and religion that can be carried around the world and make the waste places thereof blossom like a garden of the Lord.

All hail, then, the Brotherhood movement. But the great problem is how best to organize, direct and make efficient this movement. The organizing part is simple and easy comparatively speaking. A nice banquet, a good speaker, the election of officers, the enrollment of members—the thing is done. But what is done? Has any practical good been accomplished? I answer yes, a little, but a very little. The recognition of the necessity for organization is a first and primary step. The election of officers and enrollment of members is a second and essential step. But what then? Perhaps a little history may be illuminative. I narrate only what has come under my personal observation.

At the Central Christian Church at Wichita, at a great debt-raising rally under the direction of Joseph Powell, imported from New York and known as the Brotherhood man, and under the auspices of Brother E. W. Allen, our pastor, at the time a great organizer and zealous leader, the Brotherhood movement was inaugurated under seemingly most favorable conditions. A large membership was enrolled. One of our prominent members was elected president. The organization was properly officered. Committees were appointed and we were ready for business. I think I voice the sentiment of pastor and people when I say that great things were expected of the movement thus so happily inaugurated.

At first the attendance was fairly good and the interest among the men at least normal. We began by inviting the leading men of our city and country around to address us on subjects of living interest upon which they were peculiarly qualified to speak—governors, congressmen, editors, lawyers, ministers and leaders of thought and activity along all lines in which men might be supposed to be interested and a consideration of questions which might be thought useful and uplifting to church and society generally. We had some magnificent addresses and I doubt not some little good was done in an educational way. This line of policy was pursued until we ran the gamut of all the available speakers in both our city and the country around. The attendance of men at these meetings was fairly good, but I do not think any speaker, however prominent or popular,

A Disappearing Brotherhood

ever felt particularly complimented by the size of his audience. I think I am easily in the bonds of moderation when I say the attendance was meager. Some little work was done outside in a benevolent way. Some little good was done toward helping a larger attendance at church and other services, but it was inappreciable and hardly worth mentioning. And thus the first year rolled around. The second year our pastor thought it wise to enlarge the scope of our entertainments, make them more popular, invite women and children to be present and thus appeal to a larger constituency and try to make our church a popular meeting place for young and old and people of all classes and conditions, the thought being to popularize the church in a general way and to provide good wholesome entertainment for the people, many of whom never entered its doors or that of any other church. The Brotherhood entered heartily into the work and for the greater part of another year we followed it with varying fortunes. Sometimes when we had a light and attractive entertainment that struck the popular fancy, we had a room full of people. A moving picture show, high class graphophone entertainment, musical concert, drew good attendance from both church and non-church going people.

Entertainments of a higher order and of a more religious character were far less attractive. In a word, we became competitors of the cheap down-town amusement caterers and as long as ours were free and almost as good we did fairly well in drawing crowds. The church in the judgment of the pastor, reaped some indirect good in attracting a certain class of people to it as a center of entertainment, in the first place, and as a place of worship in the second place, and while it helped to increase attendance at preaching services to a small extent, the burden of securing the right kind of attractions in time became so great and the good accomplished so relatively small, that the effort was discontinued and the movement passed into "innocuous desuetude." So much for our local experience. During this regime the movement became temporarily popular in some of the denominational churches and I was invited to make addresses to many of the Brotherhood organizations in our city, to all of which I responded when possible, and in this way I came in touch with the movement not only in Wichita but in some of our neighboring towns. I have made inquiry with regard to the success of the movement in these various churches and I believe in every instance the experience of our local church has been that of neighboring churches, though many of them did not meet with the degree of success that accompanied our effort because of inefficient leadership, undesirability of location, etc. In truth, because of our apparent success under comparatively favorable conditions I think we were the means of stimulating other Brotherhood organizations which, after a very brief existence, gave up the ghost. At this time I do not know of a successful going Brotherhood organization in our city of a year's age. I think we should consider the subject in a practical rather than a theoretic way, and give facts and experience due significance. In this light, and measured by this standard, I can reach no other conclusion than that the Brotherhood movement as administered up to date, limited to the circle of my observation and knowledge, has proven a failure. Is this a necessary result? In the language of Mr. Kipling, that is another story. Speaking for myself, I do not believe it is; yet, speaking for myself alone, I believe for a considerable time at least the progress, I mean true progress, of the Brotherhood movement will be slow. It will take time, study, work, and, above all, example, to make the movement common to our many churches and as practical and effective as it should be.

Ultimate Collapse

May I enumerate what I consider some of the reasons why we did not achieve greater success? In the first place I think we relied too much on the entertainment feature. Our lectures and addresses were all good, but they did not reach the spot. In a city it is hard to compete with organized places of amusement. We have 5-cent shows, 10-cent shows, 25-cent shows, 50-cent shows, etc., and infinitum ad nauseum. In the summer we have our Wonderland Park, where music, vocal and instrumental, theatricals, hurly-gurlys, chute the chutes, loop the loops, bowling, and all sorts of attractions furnish amusement and recreation for men, women and children. Large capital is invested in the amusement business; men of energy, experience and resourcefulness are at the head of it and it is easy to see that our well meant efforts in this direction must in the end have proved unavailing. I do not criticize the efforts along these lines. Instruction and entertainment undoubtedly have their place in a movement of this kind, but I do not believe that permanent interest can be maintained and much permanent good accomplished by a too exclusive reliance upon them. In the second place I do not believe the work was well distributed. We did not sufficiently enlist the individual services and individual interest of our members. Neither do I make this statement in the way of criticism. I have no doubt our pastor, upon whom fell the burden of the work as leader, and who had his work deeply upon his heart as I well know, realized this as much as I or any one could. With the multitude of burdens incident to the pastorate of a large city church resting heavily upon him in the very nature of things he could not devote the time, energy and thought necessary to lead and carry on the movement.

If there had been provided for us a definite program from time to time, with something for every man to do, something to call out the varied talent and ability of the members themselves, something in which they would have taken an interest the result might have been different. Even this would have required an alert, active, resourceful and sympathetic leader to direct and inspire the organization.

Now from my experience in connection with this movement, I believe these things are necessary for the success of the work. In the first place, I believe every organization should be affiliated with a head, or central, organization. The advantages of such connection are obvious. The leaders connected with this central or head organization are men of education, leaders of thought, spiritually minded and enthusiastic in their work, who devote all their time, talent and energy to it. These men not only think and plan for the success of the work, but in addition they come in contact with live, active men devoted to the same line of work throughout the country, and are constantly getting new ideas, suggestions and points of information from them. They are peculiarly fitted and prepared for this work. There should be a vital connection between the local organization and this central or head organization. The central organization should, in my judgment, furnish a program or outline of work, or order of business for every meeting of the local organization. Then, when the local organization met, there would be an outline to follow, something to do, and the men in the local organization would not be thrown entirely upon their own resources. This program, or order of business, should be varied so as to furnish something for every member to do; at least give every member an opportunity to do or say something if he so desires. This would avoid a one-man body. It would create an interest on the part of every member. It would help to develop and call forth all the latent ability in the organization. This program or order of business should be and would be elastic. While it would map out a course to follow, it would not require that it be followed slavishly or to the letter. It would leave room for lectures, entertainments and special occasions. But its great advantage would be that if none of these things were on the program there would still be something definite, instructive, interesting and beneficial to do on the part of the members themselves. Again, I would borrow something of the good features of the fraternal organizations of the day, something of the Christian Endeavor Society, something of the Young Men's Christian Association, something of every good and successful going organization of the day.

Definite Program Needed

Affiliation Essential

What would a fraternal organization be without its ritual? If every lodge organized was left solely to itself to initiate and carry out an order of business or program of exercises and entertainment, few of them would live six months. I think I cannot over-emphasize the importance and necessity of this feature.

The local organization should make reports to the central body at stated times.

They should pay small dues.

They should be in touch with headquarters and headquarters should be in touch with them. If interest lagged they could write to headquarters for suggestions or help, or headquarters, noting the flagging interest, might offer them helpful suggestions, furnish them with speakers, or get up a revival in some way. The methods of the correspondence schools could be used to advantage in this connection.

A Brotherhood Organ

The Brotherhood paper should be put into the hands of every member and every member should be urged, forced if necessary, to read and study it. Any compulsion short of death would be justifiable to this end.

If the local organizations were affiliated with a central organization, in this way they would naturally and necessarily be affiliated with each other and they would help to quicken and sustain interest. They could learn of each other, borrow of each other, lend to each other courage one another, hold friendly conferences like the Sunday-Schools, etc.

Knowledge of the fact that the organization stands not alone but is part of a larger organization, is in itself helpful and inspiring. Then I believe each organization should have something definite of accomplishment in view. The thing to undertake would depend somewhat on local conditions. It might be a church debt to liquidate, a church building to improve, a new one to build, to become a living link in a state, in home or foreign missions, to increase the attendance at Sunday-School or church services, or whatever the desired datum, whatever the goal, let there be something definite and something worthy of accomplishment kept steadily in view. I believe this something should be a matter of great concern, and should be decided upon and after careful deliberation and consultation with the pastor and, perhaps, with the central organization.

Of course, after all is said and done, a great deal of the success of a local organization must depend upon the leader. Too much care cannot be exercised in this selection, but a good leader will look all the while for the development of the latent powers of the individual members, so that when his term expires there will be another or others capable of taking his place. So much for the structural or external features of the movement.

But granted that a local Brotherhood is successfully organized, that it is properly officered, that it is affiliated with a Spiritual Aim central or head organization, that it has some special and laudend in view toward which it is striving still I believe that such a movement cannot and will not be successful in the best sense unless the supreme, overwhelming, overpowering purpose and aim is the spiritualization of the body.

We must not depend too much upon externals, too much upon members, too much upon the machinery of organization, too much upon apparent business or financial success to the neglect of the spiritual growth and development of the individual. This should never be lost sight of. The question has no doubt often presented itself to the thoughtful among us whether or not in the pride and exultation of the discovery of the right initiatory steps and form of procedure incident to induction into the kingdom we have not failed to emphasize the greater importance of a right spiritual development after such induction. Surely there is need along this line for the laymen of our church. If we were all alive spiritually as we should be there would be little need of the movement.

Church work should take care of itself in a great measure. The movement will be of little value comparatively speaking, whatever its apparent success, if we overlook this important feature. Here again the affiliation with the right sort of a parent body may be of inestimable help and value.

These men should be, must be, selected because of the richness and ripeness of their spiritual natures. Contact with them, direct and indirect, will be helpful. In addition to this it will be theirs to see that the movement does not become formal, conventional and devoid of spiritual grace and life. If the Brotherhood movement is organized and developed along these lines, I believe, under the blessings of God and with the coöperation of the ministry and the men in the pews, it may become one of the greatest auxiliaries in building up the church and extending the kingdom ever devised by human thought and human effort.

Presuming that the reader has followed

Judge Haymaker's arguments closely to the end, it seems fitting that we should call attention to the coincidence of his views with those of the general Brotherhood officers. Our points of agreement can be easily grouped something as follows:

First, the practical failure of most Brotherhood movements in our local congregations in the past, due in the main to the failure to conceive that the Brotherhood must be essentially a religious organization rather than a social or amusement combination.

Second, that Brotherhood movements have failed is no argument that they cannot succeed.

Third, there must be an earnest purpose to succeed at no matter what cost of time and labor on the part of individual members.

Fourth, there must be a definite and uniform program calling for regular meetings and providing subjects of consideration and plans of activity. (See our annual calendar and monthly programs in every magazine.)

Fifth, there must be a relationship between the local Brotherhood and some central organization. (See our plans for affiliation of the local Brotherhood with the General Brotherhood.)

Sixth, there must be a Brotherhood periodical, of general circulation. (CHRISTIAN MEN is that. It now goes to twenty thousand men and its subscription list is growing steadily.)

Seventh, a definite service in behalf of the church and church enterprises. (See our plan of committee organization and our annual calendar of activities.)

Eighth, adaptability. (Note the extreme elasticity of the Brotherhood program of activities, providing for adaptation to all sorts of local conditions.)

Last and greatest of all, spiritual aim. The purpose to develop and employ the higher qualities of Christian manhood. Without this there can be no real Brotherhood, no service, no fruit and no perpetuation of life. We propose a Brotherhood organization whose objective shall be the enlistment of men in the service of Christ and the church. We propose that the cementing bond shall be a sole covenant to pray and to work for the union of God's people and the extension of Christ's kingdom.

We owe a debt of gratitude to Judge Haymaker for this splendid exposition of Brotherhood principles and feel that it will not only do great good but comes to us with a cheering significance as confirming the judgment upon which we have expended thousands of dollars and months of time and also as indicating that all over the nation men are ready to strike hands with us in our early propaganda in behalf of an aroused and enlisted Christian manhood.

Brother for Brother

BY E. B. BARNES

If, as Christians, we have been slow to learn many of our great lessons, we have not been slow to forget them, nor to put them to the test when properly directed. It took eighteen centuries for the church to learn the meaning of brotherhood, but it will take more than eighteen milleniums for the church to forget it. Today we know better than ever the obligations that rest upon us for the salvation of those in distant lands, bound to us by the "one blood" of which all nations are made; and we know that we cannot escape the "go" of the great commission and be guiltless. In the same spirit that constrains the missionary to carry the glad tidings to a distant shore, let our Brotherhood men carry the gospel to the heathen at our door, the downtrodden, the unchurched, and even to the respectable pagan who makes pleasure his god and the grave his goal. To every class we must carry the Christ, but particularly to those who are deep in the mire, upon whose ears no gospel has fallen, save the messages of despair; let us commend that Power which puts a new purpose into broken lives, a new song upon their lips, and a new light in their sky. For this outcast, whom we have turned over to the Rescue Mission and the Salvation Army, is our brother. We got out from under his burdens and allowed some one else who was bigger and more brotherly to lift them; meanwhile we were learnedly discussing the problem of how to reach the masses. The shrewd eyes of the world saw this failure of ours and found a voice to herald it, and a disposition to show a disapproval of our work by handsome contributions to those institutions which took on themselves burdens which we would not touch with one of our fingers. While the Scribes and Pharisees of our day were discussing the questions of texts and textuaries, the despised and uncultured Samaritan came by and did the work that we professed to do, but failed because we were so busy in discussing and defining. We made reputations for scholarship while the men without any reputation for scholarship were making men. The battle of the books took the place of the saving of men, and, as in the days of Luther, so in our own time, the church was more concerned with scholasticism than with flesh and blood. Big-brained men in the pulpit forgot the big-boned man in the pit, and though he cried in his distress, his language was uncouth, and it took some one who had a comrade's heart to dig him out—and too often that comrade was trained only in the simple school of brotherhood. We should have been at the front in all such work, but we forgot, and God had helpers who remembered to be kind. But we have come to see that if an unclad African in the wilds is a trophy of redeeming grace in the hands of the missionary, the man in rags in America, vile and degraded, is as worthy a prize in the hands of our men. Any church can save the lovely, but is the church equal to the task of saving the repulsive? The Brotherhood movement says, "Yes," and with great emphasis. It is for us to show that we are brothers to those who seem to be brothers to the brute. Begin today.

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Wireless Whispers

"The Men's State League of the Churches of Christ of New York at the late Annual Convention voted to change its name to the Brotherhood."—C. G. VAN WORMER.

"Holmes and Shellenberger made a great hit here. As a result we organized our Brotherhood Thursday night, with about twenty-five members."—A. L. HUFF, Lovington, Ill.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is a power just developing in the church. The little book is certainly a gem of purest joy serene. You will hear from us plenty from now on, I think."—ROBERT SIMONS, Lufkin, Texas.

"I have enjoyed reading the last few numbers of CHRISTIAN MEN and felt as I was sending in my subscriptions that others should have it, and I found the twenty-two enclosed names without exception ready to subscribe."—GORDON S. WILSON, New York City.

One speaker at the Brotherhood conference of the Laymen's Missionary Movement very happily set forth the difference between the two movements by saying the Laymen's Missionary Movement is an inspiration and the Brotherhood Movement is an organization.

The men of Newark, Ohio, are very enthusiastic over the new Brotherhood organization. After a union meeting Sunday evening, R. C. Armentrout and Pastor W. D. Ward reported the men's session of the Toledo convention. These men will probably undertake this fall to liquidate the church debt.

C. T. Morris, the man who won the gold medal in the CHRISTIAN MEN subscription contest for the month of March, continues to send us a club of subscribers wherever he goes. The last is from Plymouth, Ind., from where he sends us ten subscribers and says, "I will get twenty next time."

At a meeting of the City Brotherhoods of Elkhart, Ind., June 8th, a Brotherhood Federation was effected. A committee on nomination was appointed to report at a subsequent meeting. S. G. Buckner, our enthusiastic pastor at Elkhart, was a moving spirit in this federation. His own Brotherhood is alive and wide awake.

The Disciples' Missionary Union of Greater New York have elected the following officers for the coming season: President, A. S. Vance, Brooklyn; Vice-President, Dr. W. Bayard Craig, Manhattan; Secretary, C. B. Drake, Brooklyn; Treasurer, L. Preston Gates, Manhattan; Trustees, W. H. Olmsted, L. Preston Gates, H. E. Davisson.

The Campbell Year Book, arranged by William Burlay, Portsmouth, Va., paper five cents, cloth seventy-five cents, is one of the best that came to our notice in the way of a memorial of our first Centennial. It is a carefully culled selection from the sixty-six books published by Mr. Campbell for every day of the year. We know of nothing yet published among us which is calculated to reveal literary character and lofty spirituality of aims as this. The book may be had from the compiler, and we are informed that its proceeds will be devoted to the building up of Portsmouth Mission Church.

As it is impossible for the Brotherhood secretarial force to spread itself enough to answer all the calls that are made upon us from time to time press into service men who can tell the Brotherhood story on a convention platform. We did this in the case of the New Mexico-West Texas convention held at Clovis this year. Frank Talmage, Hagerman, gave an excellent address on "The Brotherhood." J. O. Shelburne, State President Texas Brotherhood, made the Brotherhood address at the Louisiana State Convention, at Cheneyville. R. A. Doan, of Nelsonville, Ohio, made the Brotherhood address at the New York State Convention at Rochester. We are under obligations to these and many other brethren for their timely assistance and the service which they poured forth from their open hearts in behalf of our cause out to inspire our men everywhere to similar deeds. Not every man can make a Brotherhood talk. Some can who think they cannot. Whenever you get as full of the Brotherhood as these men are you will find it impossible to keep still about it.

"We have recommended to our committee that they have a representative group of men dine together down town at some restaurant at least once a week, and especially the executive committee of the meetings, for some time before we reach a city. Then we can have had a men's meeting at some down town office every day. I think it would be a help to make a solid Brotherhood organization to be continued after the meeting is over and call this a Brotherhood meeting. This encourages workers for the work after we are gone, and this work cannot be overdone. We will be glad to work the matter through committees and give it a fair trial. So many men have simply gotten together for a banquet to establish a Men's Brotherhood, and when called upon to make a talk at the close of our meetings the banquet is about all they have to

This is not the fault of the Brotherhood movement, but the failure of the men in charge of the local field to grasp the vision. I am glad to help establish a program by which the Brotherhood can be a mighty boon in every meeting held by any evangelists."—REIGN SCOVILLE.

Brotherhood General Office is more than any of the ministers who are continually bringing Brotherhood enthusiasm into the lives of their men. For instance, there is one W. Comstock, small in stature but big in handling ability, at Mound City, Mo. When Comstock discovered CHRISTIAN MEN was a good thing when he was pastor of the church at Sheffield, Mo., one of Kansas City's leading mission points. He got every man in the church, and some besides, to subscribe. The local field could not hold Comstock. He was sent to tackle bigger and harder fields.

He next turned up at Mound City, where he has successfully rehabilitated one of our stable self-satisfied churches. We say "rehabilitated" when possibly a better word would be "rejuvenated." He organized a Men's Bible Class with ten men. At last accounts their enrollment was 225, and still climbing. Next he tackled a Brotherhood which now has thirty members, with the attendance going up. They have held some very interesting meetings and have more on tap. They have gotten under the County Convention, and will boost it. A few weeks ago they ordered CHRISTIAN MEN for the Bible Class, and now Comstock writes, "Am hoping to send you a bunch of subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN." This is the kind of encouragement the Brotherhood General Office likes and the kind without which faith counts for little. We need more like Comstock. Don't you hope we get them?

Brotherhood Achievement

Local Brotherhood No. 276, North Yakima, Wash., to the number of fifty, recently discontinued the Home Mission program."—O. E. BERRY.

Bellavben Bible Class is in a newspaper and hopes to win a library. These at Bellevue, Pa., are always doing the same things.

We had a preliminary meeting last week, thirty-four present. Kindly send any information that would help us in organizing."—H. EDGAR, Toledo, Ohio.

Please forward literature bearing on the Brotherhood organization. Nothing of the kind here, and I believe it is time to get busy."—CHARLES RICHARDS, Bluffton, Ohio.

Send me one hundred covenant cards and copies of the constitution of the Brotherhood. I will send them."—CHAS. A. COAKWELL, Ironton, Ohio.

I am organizing a Brotherhood Bible Class and will suggest that they affiliate with the General Brotherhood."—R. W. MERRITT, Fargo, Okla.

We have had a committee appointed to look into the organization feature of a Men's Brotherhood in our church."—RAYMOND A. SMITH, Indianapolis, Ind.

Our little Brotherhood here is gaining in membership every day. We expect great things for it. We could not get along without CHRISTIAN MEN."—CAREY H. ROUSH, Hillsdale, Ohio.

A banquet given by the Christian Church in Canton, Mo., to the other churches of the county, it was decided to organize a County Brotherhood. We appreciate any information you can send to how to go about the organization."—J. JENNINGS, Secretary, Windsor, Mo.

J. B. Lehman, President Industrial School, Southern Christian Institute, Edwards, Miss., asks for Brotherhood literature to assist in organizing a Brotherhood among the negro boys of his school.

"Last Saturday night at the Metropolitan Church they had me tell them of the work of the Brotherhood. I urged them to tie up with the National organization."—VAUGHAN DABNEY, Chicago, Ill.

"With reference to blanks for quarterly report, these are very suggestive of the work to be done and should do much toward keeping the organization active."—F. C. VAN ETTEN, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 318, Davenport, Iowa.

"Our charter and membership cards were received in due time and the men seem very much pleased. I thank you very much for your prompt attention to this matter."—F. C. VAN ETTEN, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 318, Davenport, Iowa.

"Please send a full package of 'How to Organize' and other literature of value in getting things together in the Brotherhood movement. Hope to be able to send good reports from this place soon."—H. MULKEY, Secretary Men's Club, Clarendon, Tex.

"It may be of interest to you to know that two members for whom we requested cards are members of Sixteenth U. S. Infantry, now on their way to Alaska. We have three members of this company on our roll, men who came into the church at our recent Scoville meeting."—C. R. STEVENSON, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 316, Little Rock, Ark.

"It was decided to hold a debate at our next meeting, subject, 'Whether Prayer Meetings Are a Help or a Hindrance to the Church. Resolved, If a help they should be continued, if a hindrance they should be dropped.' This was proposed by one of the board of officers and is a subject our church has been fighting for the last fifteen years."—SAMUEL WISLER, JR., President L. B. D. C. No. 311, West Philadelphia, Pa.

The largest charter member list of any local Brotherhood received by the General Brotherhood office thus far is that of Nelsonville, Ohio, with 110 charter members. These Brotherhood men at Nelsonville are in the habit of doing things on a large scale, and while there are several Brotherhoods whose present membership exceeds that of Nelsonville, they are anxious to build theirs up until it heads the list, and with the enthusiasm and inspiration of their capable officers we doubt not that they will make good.

At a recent meeting of L. B. D. C. No. 253, Washington, D. C., the following program was rendered: Are you satisfied with the Church? W. G. Oram, pastor; Are you satisfied with the Bible School? E. A. Zeigler, superintendent; Are you satisfied with the Brotherhood? A. A. Ackerman, president; Are you satisfied with the C. E. Society? C. C. Stark, president; Are you satisfied with your work in the Church? Open discussion. Every man present, including visitors, took some part in the discussion, and a very pleasant evening was had.

"We have organized a Brotherhood here and are striving mighty hard to get it into the right kind of working order. Have about thirty members and have had two debates which have been very interesting. First we debated the question, 'Resolved, That the Lodge is doing more for the elevation of mankind than the church.' It was a mighty good discussion. Then we debated the question, 'Resolved, That all bachelors over thirty-five years of age should be taxed at least five per cent of their incomes to build homes for maidens over fifty years of age.' This, too, was very interesting. Our next debate will be between three ladies from the Ladies' Bible Class and three men from the Brotherhood Bible Class. I am hoping to send in a bunch of subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN."—C. W. COMSTOCK, Mound City, Mo.

"I organized a fine Brotherhood with thirty-two charter members at Rolling Prairie last week. Ira O. Wickham is the minister there. Last year he was in business in Elkhart, when the Brotherhood found him and brought him to the Christian Church. He studied for the Lutheran ministry. He is our 'pick up.' I have received an invitation to go to New Carlisle next week, where I expect to organize their men. I think so long as the organizing forces of the General Brotherhood are inadequate the men all over should do more of this work."—S. G. BUCKNER, Elkhart, Ind.

Brother Buckner has struck the sympathetic chord of the General Brotherhood organization. He is doing what we pray others will do, and he does it with a knowledge of what should be done. No half way Brotherhood work for him. He organized his own men at Elkhart into a Local Brotherhood, affiliating with the General Brotherhood, to which they contribute their annual dues of $1.00 per year per member. In addition they are doing Brotherhood missionary work. This, fresh from the pen of the minister, says: May our Brotherhood men everywhere go to adjacent churches and assist in organizing good, healthy Brotherhoods. It will help Brotherhood work tremendously and can help the General Brotherhood without helping the local church, for the local church is in the ministeries of a local Brotherhood. Whenever our men take interest in local problems, State, National and World Wide problems will be readily solved.

The following is from a pastor who has seen the Brotherhood movement grow in his church in a few months from a wobbling condition to a strong and aggressive Christian force and ought to be a suggestion and an inspiration to many other pastors who have the same problem:

"Eighteen months ago I gathered these fellows (about eighteen of them) together and persuaded them to organize a Brotherhood. During this time it was hard sledding. The fellows thought at first 'nothin' in it.' I finally allowed them to meet without a carefully prepared program. And made them.

"It was uphill work much of the time, but the fellows began finally to get interested. We had a 'Photographers' Night,' 'Communion Men's Night,' 'Teachers' Night,' 'Farewell Night,' etc., ad infinitum."

"Now, they eagerly go after these programs. As I sat in that Foreign Mission meeting referred to, I said, 'Can it be! These are the fellows I pulled together eighteen months ago?' Then, they were without a doubt and seemingly without talent, and now, reported, we can give as good a program as I ever attended outside of way-up conditions."

"And they are the ordinary fellows. No college man among them. Few even high school men. But the Brotherhood is making them. What this Brotherhood can do for its men every other Brotherhood can do for theirs. They are getting to work on personal evangelism, too."

Local Brotherhood No. 316 is in the Christian Church at Little Rock, Ark., where J. N. Stevenson is the secretary and J. N. Johnson is the enthusiastic pastor. Their quarterly report shows four meetings held during the last month, with an average attendance of twenty-five. They have received sixteen members since the organization, making the present rollment seventy-six, with every man wearing the Brotherhood emblem. They have collected $48.50 in local dues, and after paying a balance of $13.75 in the Brotherhood treasury for the Bible School they have two classes of members, both of which contain a number of Brotherhood men, as well as other men not affiliated with the General Brotherhood. The outlook for work the coming season is good. The Brotherhood is located in a climate where it gets warm in the summer time, as it does

y places, some of the churches finding it necessary to abandon all services except possible Sunday-School, but the First Church has never yet been forced to take such a step. Their main effort now will be directed toward doing the Brotherhood work constantly between the men, and when the warm breezes begin to blow, hope to take up definite work with lead earnest.

had planned with our men for a delegation to go down to Bethany Park, and you can put on me for a speech on Civic Righteousness and a goodly number of our men present.—S. G. BUCKNER, Elkhart, Ind.

Enclosed find thirty cents, fifteen cents to pay for one package of organization material sent me, and also please send one package of Judge T. W. Ogg, Clinton, Mo.”—R. JENNINGS, Windsor, Mo.

Have been reading with much interest from CHRISTIAN MEN what some of the other brotherhoods are doing and made it convenient to read at our meeting the other night a few of the clippings from places where they are doing things.”—C. R. STEVENSON, Secretary B. D. C. No. 316, Little Rock, Ark.

Our Sunday-School is in a flourishing condition and your CHRISTIAN MEN is a great help to our men. We hereby give you a rush order for twenty additional copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for one year, starting with July, which please send at once.”—W. E. MCGOWAN, Har-ron, Ohio.

We are progressing famously in the new work here. Friday night we banquet the Methodist Brotherhood, of La Porte, Ind., as the result of a contest. La Porte is forty miles distant. They will charter a special car and bring about seventy-five men.”—S. G. BUCKNER, Elkhart, Ind.

I have just received my CHRISTIAN MEN and I am more than delighted with it. Please accept thanks for the fine picture, write-up and all. This is great.”—L. O. NEWCOMER, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

“You may put me down for an address at Bethany Park on August 5th. May we have a good time and a big crowd.”—H. A. DENTON, Bedford, Ind.

“One week from today our Brotherhood will have an old-fashioned picnic in the shades of a big spring five miles from town.”—H. T. FIELDS, Treasurer, L. B. D. C. No. 261, Bedford, Ind.

“I have received the enclosed hint of the expiration of my subscription and return with fifty cents. I do not want to miss a number of CHRISTIAN MEN.”—E. S. ALLHANDS, Amity, Ark.

“CHRISTIAN MEN is doing a work among men that cannot be told in words.”—W. H. GRIFFIN, Sherman, Mich.

“Hope to have photo of my Brotherhood base-ball team in new suits soon.”—R. LEE BUSSABARGER, Lubec, Me.

“Can’t stop CHRISTIAN MEN. Need it. So put me down for ten copies, beginning with the July number.”—H. C. GRESHAM, Mutual, Okla.

“I have enjoyed reading the pages of your well edited and up-to-the-minute journal. It is the very kind of a magazine that our men have long, yes, too long, needed.”—B. W. PETTIT, Albia, Iowa.

“Please send by return mail seventy-five Bricker Contracts. We are hustling for the men in this town of twelve hundred. Watch out for us.”—EDWIN T. CORNELIUS, Augusta, Ill.

“I was authorized by our Brotherhood to get a hundred covenant cards and some organization material. We have an enrollment now of twenty-eight and prospects for more.”—A. C. WITMER, Secretary L. B. D. C., Mishawaka, Ind.

“We are going to have a fish fry July 20th, when we expect to enroll a few more members.”—A. C. WITMER, Secretary L. B. D. C., Mishawaka, Ind.

Elliott's Signature

flowing signature of the Assistant Secretary. Our elder brother and Mormon contemporary of Kentucky mountain fame, R. B. Neal, says:

“Say! Had lots of fun over your ‘John Hancock’—showed it to several who ‘look for the man’ in picture puzzles and they failed on it. If you will have me a cut made of it, I’ll put it in the Highlander and offer a prize to every mountain boy and girl who can figure it out.”

Fred B. Smith, Secretary International Committee Y. M. C. A., says:

“I hope I will be forgiven if I say to you that it took our whole office staff to decipher your signature. I have seen a good many crazy ones, but I give yours first place.”

Frequently our correspondents flutter their lips at the General Office in regard to the

BIBLE SCHOOL NOTES

"Please find enclosed sixty cents in stamps, for which please send by return mail fifty Brotherhood Bible Class buttons. We need them."—H. PICKERING, Lorraine, Ohio.

"The Brotherhood is the best thing that has even come our way."—O. C. BOLMAN, Havana, Ill.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is worth its price for Sunday-School lessons alone."—J. C. ROUSCH, Moffat, Colo.

"I like CHRISTIAN MEN very much. The Sunday-School lessons are fine."—W. J. BEARD, Phoenix, Ariz.

"Please find enclosed renewal for CHRISTIAN MEN. I like it very much."—J. O. KEMP, Mansfield, Ohio.

"You are giving us inspirational articles. We rejoice at your success."—E. M. PARDEE, Lexington, Neb.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is fine. I could not do without it. I keep every number."—WM. S. STACY, Delta, Colo.

"With a class of over fifty Loyal Sons I think we will be able to affiliate."—FLOYD A. BASH, Dorchester, Neb.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is a great paper. May it continue to grow in grace and favor."—T. F. DRISKILL, Corsicana, Texas.

"One of our young men is not getting his paper. He says he cannot keep house without it."—H. I. PRUSIA, Mason City, Iowa.

"Enclosed please find sixty cents, for which please send by return mail fifty Bible Class buttons."—R. W. MERCER, Fargo, Okla.

"I enjoy CHRISTIAN MEN and recommend it to men's Bible classes wherever I go in my work."—LE ROY F. SARGENT, Havana, Ill.

"I read CHRISTIAN MEN in preference to my letter mail. I find it most easy to obtain subscriptions."—J. F. SMITH, Lorraine, Ill.

"We, as men of a Bible School, like CHRISTIAN MEN very well indeed. Surely it is working wonders."—W. H. CRUM, Literberry, Ill.

"Enclosed find 60 cents for which send 200 Bricker Contract Pledge Cards as soon as possible."—F. E. WIREPAUGH, Toledo, Ohio.

"The Quest of the Yellow Pearl,' as a story, is a gem indeed, and makes a gift both worth giving."—FLOYD A. BASH, Dorchester, Neb.

"At a business meeting of our Loyal Sons Bible Class we decided to adopt CHRISTIAN MEN for a class help."—F. L. MILLER, Waynesville, Ohio.

"CHRISTIAN MEN Lesson Helps are about the best thing for class room use we have seen, next to the Book itself."—A. FRED GILBERT, Tonawanda, N. Y.

"The magazine is fine and we never want to be without it. When we have read it we pass it on to others who cannot take it."—A. BUTLER, Napa, Cal.

"My men's class has over a hundred and twenty men. Organized in October we have seven. Watch us start a Brotherhood."—A. LIVERETT, Cameron, Mo.

"Having changed our address recently, we have not received CHRISTIAN MEN. We miss the paper very much."—JOHN W. NUGENT, Block P, Pueblo, Colo.

"We are delighted with CHRISTIAN MEN. The outlined programs are especially helpful. West Virginia needs more Brotherhood."—I. GRISSE, Fairmount, W. Va.

"Enclosed please find draft for a hundred copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for May and June. These are for our Men's Class. It is great."—J. T. SHREVE, St. Joseph, Mo.

"The magazine is great. My individual subscription has expired and I send our class order for forty instead and we may need more."—FLOYD A. BASH, Dorchester, Neb.

"Please forward forty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN to my address at once. We expect to use the magazine in our Alpha Men's Class."—C. M. BURKHART, Greenwood, Ind.

Herewith check for $1.30 for which please 100 Brotherhood Bible Class Pledge Cards and 100 Brotherhood Bible Class Buttons.—M. B. MEACHAM, Portland, Ore.

Enclosed find $4.55 for which please send CHRISTIAN MEN for one year to my Bible Class in the Christian Bible School.—J. D. KENRIDGE, County Judge, Lewistown, Ill.

Our Ladies Class desires to use CHRISTIAN Bible Lesson Helps. Please increase our order to twenty-five beginning this month.—A. ANDERSON, Roanoke Church, Kansas

We are in need of more copies of CHRISTIAN MEN and must say we are very much satisfied. Our Sunday-School men are enjoying them very much.—W. E. MCGOWAN, Marion, Ohio.

The Men's Bible Class at Mansfield, Ohio, has an enrollment of a hundred and thirty. Our aim is for two hundred. These men at Mansfield are not saying much, but are working mighty hard.

Find enclosed check for $1.25. Please send twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for next month, beginning with July. These are for Forest Avenue Christian Bible School.—T. ROBERTS, Superintendent, Knoxville, Tenn.

I think our paper is the best, most virile, and best magazine there is. The first copy I went through from front to back without a yawn and I have been doing the same with every new copy.—A. FRED GILLIE, Tonawanda, N. Y.

I note from the list of prize winners in the last issue that Oklahoma is not represented. I wonder after it will be if I can prevail upon those interested to take CHRISTIAN MEN and see the value there is in it.—R. W. APPLGATE, Oklahoma City, Okla.

We had 456 men in our Class yesterday. A gentleman was with us in a great song service. He is a fine fellow and all right. It was one of our greatest services and broke all records for attendance.—R. A. DOAN, Marionville, Ohio.

Please send me twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for June, on the same terms as the Volunteer Bible Class, three months for $1.00. We opened a class in another place. Please send forty copies next month.—C. C. KELLY, Detroit, Mich.

The Volunteers of America Bible Class at Detroit, Mich., on the day of organization had seven members present, the second Sunday nine, the third Sunday twelve, the fourth Sunday eighteen. They order twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for the use of the class. C. C. KELLY, correspondent, says about CHRISTIAN MEN: "I never saw anything like it. I shall take CHRISTIAN MEN wherever I go."

EDITOR'S NOTE: These magazines are used by the Men's Bible Classes of Volunteers of America.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is like the wine at the feast. In each issue I can see that you have saved the best until the last."—W. L. McILVANE, Wenatchee, Wash.

"We are mighty proud of our snappy magazine, and wish heartily for its success. Herewith draft for $6.25 for twenty-five copies for the year."—F. E. SMITH, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

"Our Brotherhood class, while still in its infancy, is steadily moving ahead in numbers and helpfulness. We congratulate ourselves on having such an interesting and painstaking leader as Brother P. F. Jerome."—GORDON S. WILSON, New York City.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is all the name implies, and the explanation of the lesson from week to week is worth much more than the price without taking into consideration all the valuable articles dear to the Christian heart."—H. G. OTTO, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Being from the first a subscriber and reader of CHRISTIAN MEN, I wish to speak of its true worth and merit. This year's numbers have been filled with good things and each issue better than the previous one."—L. B. PICKERILL, De Land, Ill.

Christian Church Bible School at Trenton has been advertising in large headlines in the daily papers. Here is the way they brought daily papers. They brought 489 out one Sunday and 782 out the next Sunday. Question: Does it pay the church to advertise?

"Find enclosed draft for payment of quarterly dues on twenty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN. Our men like it and are making better and better use of it. Its notes on the lessons and its suggestions as to ways of making the men see how to do a man's work in a man's way, are splendid."—S. H. ZENDT, Bloomington, Ill.

The Brotherhood Bible Class at Albia, Iowa, where C. V. Allison is pastor, is up and doing things. The class sent out thirty-four letters in one week and every member is working. Results thus far have been most satisfactory and this class is undoubtedly to be one of the strongest men's organizations in Southwest Iowa.

We understand there is a great Men's class in the Baptist Bible School at Rochester, N. Y., which in a way eclipses anything of the kind in the country. We are hoping for some tangible information for the benefit of our readers from our special representative who will be in attendance at the New York State Brotherhood convention at Rochester on June 30th.

"Our Men's Class is to begin May 1st. We have seventeen signed in two Sunday afternoons—nearly double the men in our church. The women have caught the enthusiasm and are planning a big Women's Class. We have been able to interest men who have not been attending any kind of religious service."—E. A. LONG, Milwaukee, Wis.

The Brotherhood Bible Classes of Massillon and Toledo, Ohio, are in a spirited contest. At this writing Toledo has 386, as against Massillon's 454. The Massillon Messenger, in commenting on the contest, says "The Toledo Brotherhood is composed of workers. This Brotherhood will win by a spurt of their ambition. Look out, for they are bad on the ending. They will be sure to make a most desperate effort to score heavily."

The Ohio Sunday-School Convention, at Cleveland, included what was probably the greatest demonstration ever made by men in any State. It was estimated that ten thousand men were in the parade, with many bands. The largest hall in Cleveland was entirely filled and three overflow meetings were necessary to accommodate the crowds. R. A. Doan and a number of men from the great Berean Bible Class, Nelsonville, Ohio, were in attendance.

Paul A. Meyer is a letter carrier at Evansville, Ind. He saw the large quantities of CHRISTIAN MEN going through the Evansville postoffice, and under the authority of the postal laws he examined one. "Just the thing for our Bible Class," remarked Mr. Meyer. In the next mail came a letter to CHRISTIAN MEN office: "Enclosed find $1.56 for which please send me twenty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for three months, beginning with July issue." Paul A. Meyer, Carrier No. 30, Evansville, Ind."

The Brotherhood Bible Class in our church at Eugene, Oregon, was organized in August, 1908, with seventeen members, and in August, 1909, secured international certificate with thirty-four members. A splendid history of this class appears in the Eugene Daily Guard of recent issue. The class now has attendance of upwards of 100, including some of the most prominent and successful business men of the city. Old and young, rich and poor, meet on common ground going from class room to morning service together. They have a beautiful pennant on the wall of the church bearing the class colors and the word "Brotherhood." The newspaper says, "A morning with the class will positively cure the worst case of blues, and regular attendance is a permanent cure for spiritual dyspepsia and will drive the demon of infidelity. Eugene is proud of the Brotherhood class, which is one of the largest of the kind in the State and one of the best of its size in the United States."

N. B. This class uses CHRISTIAN MEN Bible Lesson Helps.

Golden Opinion

By

FRED B. SMITH

I regard CHRISTIAN MEN about the liveliest paper that comes to my hand month by month. I have a good pile of literature of this kind but look forward with keen interest every time to reading at least partially if not fully, your Magazine. It is great and I believe had a large place in the progress of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ.

FRED B. SMITH

Secretary, International Committee, Young Men's Christian Associations

NEW YORK CITY

SEPTEMBER.

The Brotherhood and the Bible School.—How the Brotherhood can boost the Bible School. The Brotherhood's attitude to the school's class.

The International Convention.—This year when we determine to go en masse to the next Men's convention the Disciples of Christ have ever held. "On to Topeka!"

OCTOBER.

State Elections.—Principle above politics. Manhood above party. Courage of convictions everywhere.

State Missions.—A study of the calls of our State to men strong in the faith of Jesus Christ.

NOVEMBER.

Civic and National Reforms.—Here is where we lock arms with the W. C. T. U., the Bible School, the Y. P. S. C. E., the International Reform Bureau, et al, in the hard march toward a stronger manhood and purer womanhood.

2. A Harvest Home Meeting.—Thanksgiving. A season of special rejoicing for the goodness of God.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worthy of his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

AUGUST No. 2

Prepared by J. K. Shellenberger

SEPTEMBER No. 1

TOPIC—Church Extension

Opening Exercises.

- Hymn.
- All stand repeat the Covenant.
- Prayer.
- Special music.

Program.

- Address—"The History of Church Extension Among the Disciples."
- Address—"The Purpose and Method of the Church Extension Fund."
- Recitation—"Bogges' Ride."
- Address—"The Appeal of Church Extension."
- Pass a resolution urging your church to do definite things for Church Extension work on the first Sunday in September.
- Appoint a special committee to see that they are done.

I.—Social Period and Closing Exercises.

- For free material on the above program, apply to Geo. W. Muckley, Secretary Board of Church Extension, 603 New England Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

TOPIC—The Brotherhood and the Bible School

I.—Opening Exercises.

- 1. Special music.—Boy's chorus, or orchestra.
- 2. Hymn.
- 3. Scripture reading.
- 4. All stand, and repeat the covenant, closing with Lord's Prayer.

II.—Special Program.

- 1. Address—"What Is a Successful Bible School?"
- 2. Address—"Why Should the Adults in a Community Meet for Bible Study?"
- 3. Address—"The Relation of the Brotherhood to the Bible School."
- 4. Debate:
 - Resolved—"That the adult movement in the Bible School should be abandoned,"
 - or
 - Resolved—"That the Bible School is without Scriptural mention, therefore unwarranted."
- 5. Resolution to form a Brotherhood Bible Class.

Instruct the Bible School committee to secure information on "How to Start a Bible Class of 100 Men," from General Brotherhood office, Kansas City, Mo.

III.—Social Period and Closing Exercises.

THE Brotherhood Counting House

Statement of Contributions for May and June

Mt. Vernon, Ind., Brotherhood.....	$ 2.50
Yorktown, Ind., Brotherhood.....	2.50
Elkhart, Ind., Brotherhood.....	5.00
South Bend, Ind., Brotherhood.....	5.00
Mishawaka, Ind., Brotherhood.....	5.00
Fort Wayne, Ind., Brotherhood.....	4.75
Spencer, Ind., Brotherhood.....	5.00
Martinsville, Ind., Brotherhood.....	5.00
Sheridan, Ind., Brotherhood.....	5.00
Canton, Mo., Brotherhood.....	16.50
Evansville, Ind., Brotherhood.....	3.55
G. E. Gordon, Chattanooga, Tenn.....	2.50
Wabash, Ind., Brotherhood.....	7.00
Allerton, Iowa, Brotherhood.....	4.50
Business Men's Class, Trenton, Mo.....	5.10
Buffalo, N. Y., Associated Brotherhoods	35.00
Nelsonville, Ohio, Brotherhood.....	25.00
Danville, Ill., Brotherhood.....	30.00
Galesburg, Ill., Brotherhood.....	25.00
G. E. Roberts, Osceola, Iowa.....	5.00
Elkhart, Ind., Brotherhood.....	25.00
South Bend, Ind., Brotherhood.....	25.00
Dr. S. M. Martin, Seattle, Wash.....	10.00
Eureka, Ill., Brotherhood.....	25.00
Fulton, Mo., Brotherhood.....	25.00
St. Louis, Mo., Associated Brotherhoods	25.00
C. W. Corn, South Bend, Ind.....	25.80
Geo. F. Rand, Buffalo, N. Y.....	41.00
Marshall, Mo., Brotherhood.....	25.00
Moberly, Mo., Brotherhood.....	13.00
Lovington, Ill., Brotherhood.....	25.00

Emblem Sales in May and June

S. H. Zendt, Bloomington, Ill.....	$1.00
E. F. Young, Galesburg, Ill.....	.40
E. A. Budd, Ashtabula, Ohio.....	.45
J. N. Jessup, Little Rock, Ark.....	4.35
P. F. Jerome, New York.....	.40
E. M. Polk, Elkhart, Ind.....	.40
M. E. Biggs, Omaha, Neb.....	.15
Rev. J. A. Jackson, Sheridan, Ind.....	.40
Rev. L. M. Anderson, Ada, Okla.....	.25
W. H. Graham, Abilene, Tex.....	.60
E. H. Gleason, Des Moines, Iowa.....	1.25
J. H. Snyder, South Bend, Ind.....	1.10
Samuel Wisler, W. Philadelphia, Pa.....	7.20
R. A. Doan, Nelsonville, Ohio.....	1.25
E. A. Kliese, Council Bluffs, Iowa.....	1.80
C. R. Stevenson, Little Rock, Ark.....	7.50
Frank Maple, Clinton, Ill.....	.40
Mrs. Myers Boyd, Uniontown, Pa.....	1.25
H. A. Slater, Ada, Mich.....	.40
W. W. Allison, Marietta, Ohio.....	.50

H. Pickering, Lorain, Ohio.....	20
J. H. Snyder, South Bend, Ind.....	30
J. K. Shellenberger, Elkhart, Ind.....	40
J. K. Shellenberger, South Bend, Ind.....	50
Rev. D. D. Dick, Rossville, Ill.....	20
Richard Booth, Sharon, Pa.....	10
Allison Bowers, Nelsonville, Ohio.....	90
J. J. Grove, Ames, Iowa.....	30
Chester J. Killam, Syracuse, N. Y.....	0
A. G. Collins, Chico, Cal.....	5
Ziba Kellum, Buffalo, N. Y.....	0
Rev. A. W. Mercer, Fargo, Okla.....	0
E. E. Benton, Elkhart, Ind.....	25
J. K. Shellenberger, Boone, Iowa.....	30

Winners of Centennial Booklet Prizes May and June

Rev. J. D. Hull, Mishawaka, Ind.
W. C. Westlake, Trenton, Mo.
Earl D. Stout, Peoria, Ill.
Rev. J. F. Williams, Geneva, O.
H. W. Culp, Toledo, O.
E. E. Doane, Beatrice, Neb.
Sam'l Wisler, West Philadelphia, Pa.
J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky.
Rev. M. S. Decker, Shreve, O.
W. T. Hilton, Greenville, Tex.
Rev. F. L. Moffett, Springfield, Mo.

New General Members in May and June

268—W. F. Jones, Camp Point, Ill.
269—E. E. Elliott, Kansas City, Mo.
270—P. C. Macfarlane, Kansas City, Mo.
271—Will A. Harding, Columbus, Ind.
272—L. B. Pickerill, Deland, Ill.
273—Edward Owers, Graham, Tex.
274—Wm. Pearn, Crowell, Tex.
275—Geo. H. Morrison, Abilene, Tex.
276—Arthur A. Evarts, Dallas, Tex.
277—J. C. Welch, Lubbock, Tex.
278—Wm. B. Phillips.
279—M. S. Decker, Shreve, Ohio.
280—Theodore Kellogg, Kipton, Ohio.
281—H. C. Ballew, Mill Grove, Mo.
282—A. J. Hollingsworth, Bethany, Neb.
283—S. M. Smith, Exira, Iowa.
284—A. H. Seymour, De Smet, S. D.
288—J. W. McFerran, Moberly, Mo.
289—F. M. McCollum, Raceland, La.
290—Hugh A. Slater, Ada, Mich.
291—W. K. Ash, Columbus, O.
292—Arthur Holmes, Philadelphia, Pa.
293—Thompson the Egyptian.
294—Eugene Curless, Eugene, Iowa.
302—F. H. Glenn, Nevada, Mo.

ues Received from Local Brotherhoods in May and June

	Members	Amt.
1—L. J. McConnell, South Pasadena, Cal.	30	$ 4.50
9—E. F. Young, Galesburg, Ill.	1	.15
8—E. A. Budd, Ashtabula, O.	4	2.40
8—J. C. Berkey, Buffalo, N. Y.	37	5.55
3—C. L. Hays, Eldora, Iowa.	14	.70
7—I. L. Harvey, Orviston, Pa.	51	7.65
1—E. M. Polk, Elkhart, Ind.	8	.40
5—Percy T. Bouyer, San Francisco, Cal.	16	2.40
2—C. A. Mangum, Omaha, Neb.	65	9.75
6—W. H. Peden, Mason City, Ia.	38	11.40
0—T. S. Foster, Rock Island, Ill.	20	3.00
9—Walter Bagby, Portsmouth, O.	15	5.05
8—C. H. Goff, Sheridan, Ind.	50	7.50
1—Sam'l Wisler, W. Philadelphia, Pa.	48	7.20
3—F. H. Wilbern, Mt. Vernon, Ind.	17	1.70
5—J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky.	1	.15
2—E. A. Kliese, Council Bluffs, Ia.	17	1.70
4—H. P. Faulkner, Philipsburg, Pa.	9	1.35
2—L. A. Stevenson, Niagara Falls, N. Y.	30	4.50
6—W. R. Strachan, Tacoma, Wash.	59	8.85
6—C. R. Stevenson, Little Rock, Ark.	46	7.90
4—M. L. Anthony, Seattle, Wash.	48	13.00
5—R. B. Hendron, Wichita, Kan.	41	6.15
9—Alvin Arie, Oak Park, Chicago, Ill.	17	2.55
7—H. F. Babcock, Sawtelle, Cal.	25	4.60
9—W. F. Yerian, Fort Wayne, Ind.	23	3.45
8—F. C. Van Etten, Davenport, Iowa	25	3.75
7—R. C. Powelson, St. Joseph, Mo.	88	13.20
5—Allison Bower, Nelsonville, O.	109	16.40
2—A. L. Hockett, Kansas City, Mo.	10	3.00
3—Edward L. Miller, Mansfield, Ohio	53	7.95
0—J. J. Grove, Ames, Iowa.	24	3.60
2—A. G. Collins, Chico, Cal.	17	2.55
9—E. L. Stevenson, Saratoga, Cal.	11	1.65
2—Rev. O. M. Pennock, Clarinda, Iowa	40	6.00

General Certificates Issued to Local Brotherhoods in May and June

- 5—San Francisco, Cal., West Side Church.
- 6—Mason City, Iowa, Christian Church.
- 7—Orviston, Pa., Church of Christ.
- 8—Sheridan, Ind., Christian Church.
- 9—Portsmouth, Ohio, Christian Church.
- 0—Rock Island, Ill., Memorial Christian Church.
- 1—West Philadelphia, Pa., Third Christian Church.
- 2—Council Bluffs, Iowa, First Christian Church.

- 313—Mount Vernon, Ind., Christian Church.
- 314—Seattle, Wash., Queen Ann Hill Church.
- 315—Nelsonville, Ohio, Christian Church.
- 316—Little Rock, Ark., First Christian Church.
- 317 { Santa Monica, Cal. } Santa Monica Bay District of { Ocean Park, Cal. } The B. D. C.
{ Sawtelle, Cal. }
- 318—Davenport, Iowa, First Christian Church.
- 319—Fort Wayne, Ind., West Creighton Ave. Christian Church.
- 320—Ames, Iowa, Church of Christ.
- 321—South Pasadena, Cal.
- 322—Clarinda, Iowa, Christian Church.
- 323—Mansfield, Ohio, First Christian Church.

Purchasers of Organization Material in May and June

- Rev. Geo. C. Aydelot, New Orleans, La.
- Rev. Chas. A. Musselman, Norman, Okla.
- Rev. J. T. LeBaron, Fredericktown, Mo.
- C. W. Shaw, Youngstown, Ohio.
- Rev. C. A. Freer, Millersburg, Ohio.
- Rev. J. D. Houston, Gage, Okla.
- G. W. Woodbury, Belle Vernon, Pa.
- E. N. Lavin, Galesburg, Ill.
- H. I. Prusia, Mason City, Iowa.
- Rev. A. R. Liverett, Cameron, Mo.
- Ira N. Miller, Lincoln, Neb.
- Jack Allen, Cleburne, Tex.
- Frank A. Craig, Cedarbough Place, Ind.
- F. T. Mellish, Everett, Mass.
- Elroy M. Anderson, Ada, Okla.
- J. S. Royce, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.
- J. H. Snyder, South Bend, Ind.
- A. E. Fosuer, Enterprise, Ore.
- James N. Crutcher, Sioux City, Iowa.
- M. E. Baker, Hiram, Ohio.
- Rev. Chas. W. Perry, Quaker City, Ohio.
- Sam'l Wisler, Jr., West Philadelphia, Pa.
- Dr. E. E. Sherman, Keosauqua, Iowa.
- W. W. Gilliland, Los Angeles, Cal.
- D. P. Taylor, Bessemer, Ala.
- Dr. H. J. Hall, Franklin, Ind.
- P. F. Marion, Wellsville, N. Y.
- Jacob R. Buddy, West Philadelphia, Pa.
- J. E. Crossman, St. Louis, Mo.
- H. G. Weaver, Reading, Pa.
- Geo. E. Hopkins, Bellaire, Ohio.
- R. G. Dickens, Wellsville, N. Y.
- C. H. Goff, Sheridan, Ind.
- Mrs. Gertrude S. Harmon, Des Moines, Ia.
- R. P. Sheppard, St. Louis, Mo.
- Rev. R. O. Wickham, Rolling Prairie, Ind.
- E. A. Kliese, Council Bluffs, Iowa.
- Frank H. Snow, Petaluma, Cal.
- Robert Grieve, Glendora, Cal.
- T. A. Smith, Greenville, Tex.
- C. E. Simpson, Rensselaer, Ind.
- H. Mulkey, Clarendon, Tex.
- Rev. W. T. Fisher, Des Moines, Iowa.
- Frank H. Snow, Petaluma, Cal.
- Rev. J. Chas. Richards, Bluffton, Ohio.
- J. B. Schuman, Edwards, Miss.
- A. H. Kent, Pond Creek, Okla.
- Rev. Crain, Frederick, Okla.
- Rev. Geo. Fowler, Roswell, N. M.
- Jos. A. Wherry, Danville, Ill.
- Mr. Stevens, Chicago, Ill.
- Rev. C. H. Hands, Flanagan, Ill.
- Mr. Brady, Richmond, Mo.

Emmet C. Gibson, Pittsburgh, Pa.
 Rev. Thos. A. Stamp, Superior, Neb.
 E. E. Robeson, Eureka, Ill.
 Rev. Raymond A. Smith, Indianapolis, Ind.
 C. Melvin McKay, Barryton, Mich.
 C. E. Wells, Gravity, Iowa.
 Dr. R. J. Jennings, Windsor, Mo.

May and June Club Orders for Christian Men

Earl D. Stout, Peoria, Ill.....	32
L. J. McConnell, South Pasadena, Cal.....	20
Thos. G. Picton, Portland, Ore.....	20
J. K. Ballou, Colusa, Cal.....	10
Rev. J. F. Williams, Geneva, Ohio.....	25
Miss Mertie Millson, Yates Center, Kan.....	20
C. W. Cauble, Martinsville, Ind.....	20
A. D. Baum, Fairfield, Neb.....	20
E. E. Elliott, Aurora, Mo., Convention.....	19
W. D. Ward, Newark, Ohio.....	23
C. T. Morris, Argos, Ind.....	23
J. K. Shellenberger, Mt. Vernon, Ind.....	11
R. A. Cornell, Traverse City, Mich.....	20
H. W. Culp, Toledo, Ohio.....	36
Sam'l Painter, Turtle Creek, Pa.....	20
C. R. Stauffer, Syracuse, N. Y.....	20
E. Clare Harding, Mexico, Mo.....	12
E. E. Elliott, Dallas, Texas, Convention.....	77
Rev. Leroy M. Anderson, Ada, Okla.....	20
Guy Withers, Kansas City, Mo.....	10
Robt. A. Parker, Fresno, Cal.....	20
Geo. B. Evans, Chagrin Falls, Ohio.....	17
J. C. Netherton, Kansas City, Mo.....	50
E. E. Doane, Beatrice, Neb.....	36
Rev. W. A. Chastain, Monroe, Ga.....	21
A. B. Painter, Newark, Ohio.....	100
Sam'l Wisler, West Philadelphia, Pa.....	33
Rev. C. B. Stevens, Newton Falls, Ohio.....	21
L. L. Davis, Elwood, Ind.....	20
J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky.....	35
H. Pickering, Lorain, Ohio.....	20
Rev. M. S. Decker, Shreve, Ohio.....	40
Judge J. D. Breckenridge, Lewistown, Ill.....	13
Robert Stewart, Rochester, N. Y.....	24
Rev. H. H. Jenner, Springfield, Ill.....	20
R. B. Helser, Centralia, Mo.....	21
Rev. Talmage Defrees, East St. Louis, Ill.....	12
Jack Allen, Cleburne, Tex.....	20
W. T. Hilton, Greenville, Tex.....	50
William Spanton, Akron, Ohio.....	28
V. C. Thompson, Youngstown, Ohio.....	29
R. T. Ramsey, Denver, Colo.....	20
W. A. Shipperton, North Yakima, Wash.....	30
W. M. Ellis, Sherman, Tex.....	20
Rev. F. L. Moffett, Springfield, Mo.....	30
F. T. Mellish, Everett, Mass.....	20
R. W. Fillmore, Des Moines, Iowa.....	16
C. W. Hall, Danville, Ill.....	17
C. P. Branum, Dallas, Tex.....	40
H. F. Babcock, Sawtelle, Cal.....	22
Sam'l Wisler, Jr., West Philadelphia, Pa.....	10
Gordon S. Wilson, New York City.....	22
Earl Roberts, Des Moines, Iowa.....	12
P. C. Macfarlane, Danville, Ill.....	17
Elmer Thomason, Covina, Cal.....	20
A. F. Musselman, Pomona, Cal.....	16
P. C. Macfarlane, Buffalo, N. Y.....	16

J. K. Shellenberger, Toledo, Ohio, and Elkhart, Ind.....	6
C. C. Blakely, Detroit, Mich.....	0
J. K. Shellenberger, Eureka, Ill.....	0
Rev. Robt. Simons, Lufkin, Tex.....	0
C. M. Burkhart, Greenwood, Ind.....	0
W. M. Ellis, Sherman, Tex.....	0
Clarke Sanford, St. Louis, Mo.....	1
F. L. Miller, Waynesville, Ohio.....	0
F. B. Nickerson, Little Rock, Ark.....	21
Sam'l Wisler, West Philadelphia, Pa.....	10
E. E. Elliott, St. Louis, Mo.....	14
W. T. Roberts, Knoxville, Tenn.....	20
J. O. Shelburne, Dallas, Tex.....	28
Rev. H. H. Bradbury, Auburn, N. Y.....	15
Rev. C. E. Pickett, Petoskey, Mich.....	20
J. Blaine Reeve, Rushville, Ind.....	20
P. C. Macfarlane, Lincoln, Neb.....	19
C. T. Morris, Plymouth, Ind.....	10
Percy H. Wilson, Akron, Ohio.....	11
E. E. Elliott, Jefferson City, Mo.....	22
A. S. Harry, Falls Mills, Va.....	20
A. L. Chapman, Boise, Idaho.....	21
A. W. Stansbury, Marcus, Iowa.....	25
I. E. Jackson, Winder, Ga.....	33
P. C. Macfarlane, Northwest Itinerary.....	22
F. W. Gray, Steubenville, Ohio.....	20
J. K. Shellenberger, South Dakota and Minnesota.....	89
E. E. Elliott, Boone, Iowa, Convention.....	49

May and June Purchasers of Yellow Pearl and Centurion's Story

A. M. Hazzard, Kansas City, Mo.
T. D. Butler, Batavia, Ill.
H. C. Usell, Caldwell, Kan.
Reed Gentry, Kansas City, Mo.
E. A. Long, Milwaukee, Wis.
Rev. A. W. Luce, Excelsior Springs, Mo.
Geo. W. Esswine, North Yakima, Wash.
J. P. Easter, Coquille City, Ore.
Rev. Robt. B. Chapman, New Berlin, Ohio.
Stranger.
J. Foster, Santa Paula, Cal.
H. E. Sackett, Beatrice, Neb.
A. L. Witmer, Williamsville, N. Y.
M. L. Munn, Wichita, Kan.
Stranger, Pittsburgh, Pa.
A. R. Moore, Seneca, Kan.
C. H. Wires, Campbellsburg, Ind.
Rev. Edward Owers, Graham, Tex.
J. B. Chambers, North Yakima, Wash.
D. C. Nutting, Washington, D. C.
W. D. Bartle, Corydon, Ind.
Rev. Floyd A. Bash, Dorchester, Neb.
Mrs. T. A. Felkes, Vienna, Mo.
Dr. J. L. Holloway, Dallas, Tex.
J. G. Hull, Joplin, Mo.
W. H. Baker, Williamsville, N. Y.
E. P. Huff, Kansas City, Mo.
E. M. Peterson, New Bedford, Ill.
Cecil Franklin, New Carlisle, Ind.
W. W. Allison, Marietta, Ohio.
Mrs. A. A. Craig, Lexington, Neb.
Rev. C. L. Stauffer, Dallas City, Ill.
Rev. L. C. Brink, Harrisville, N. Y.
M. R. Ely, Puyallup, Wash.

P. H. WELSHIMER

Bible School Lessons for August

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—AUGUST 14.

“THE LABORERS IN THE VINEYARD”

—MATT. 20:1-16.

American Revised

1 For the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that was a householder, who went out early in the morning to hire laborers into his vineyard. 2 And when he had agreed with the laborers for a shilling a day, he sent them into his vineyard. 3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing in the market place idle; 4 and to them he said, Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way. 5 Again he went out about the sixth and the ninth hour, and did likewise. 6 And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing; and he saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle? 7 They reply unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard. 8 And when even was come the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the laborers, and pay them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first. 9 And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they received every man a shilling. 10 And when the first came, they supposed that they would receive more; and they likewise received every man a shilling. 11 And when they received it, they murmured against the householder, 12 Saying, These last have spent but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, who have borne the burden of the day and the scorching heat. 13 But he answered and said to one of them, Friend I do thee no wrong; didst not thou agree with me for a shilling? 14 Take up that which is thine and go thy way; it is my will to give unto this last, even as unto thee. 15 Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? or is thine eye evil, because I am good? 16 So the last shall be first, and the first last.

Time—A. D. 30. Place—Perea.

Introduction. In closing the 19th chapter, Jesus said, “But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first.” The lesson of today is an illustration of this fact. The statement was made for the benefit of the disciples. Peter had said, Behold! we have forsaken all and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?” and Jesus had said, “Everyone that hath forsaken brothers or sisters, or father, or mother, or children, or lands for my name’s sake shall receive an hundred fold and shall inherit everlasting life.” In the parable now given emphasis is not laid upon the amount of work that is done, but upon the spirit in which it is done. Jesus also desires that the disciples will follow, not for the sake of reward, but for His sake and the sake of service.

Explanatory. 1—This parable is true to life. Jesus spoke of the condition that existed in His day, and exists even today. Men came with implements for work to the market place, the place where the crowds gathered, and there the employers could easily find them. 2-4—They worked by the day. A penny would be 15 cents of our money. The Jewish day began at 6 o’clock. At 9 o’clock the householder, turning, found others waiting at the market place whom he sent to the vineyard, and promised to pay what was right. 5—At 2 and 3 o’clock he did likewise. 6—Again at 5 in the evening he found others idle. He met them with the question, Why stand ye here all the day idle?” 7—They replied, “Because no man has hired us.” They were not wilfully idle; their idleness was compulsory, for no man had hired them. Although late in the day, as soon as the call came they proceeded to work. No salary was fixed. They were to receive what was right. 8—The day is over and the steward calls in all the laborers and pays them, beginning with the last hired. 9—Men who worked an hour received the price agreed upon by the first for a day’s work—15 cents. 10—When the ones came who had worked all day, they likewise received 15 cents, the amount for which they had agreed to work. 11-12—The ones who had toiled all day were not complaining because they had not received enough, but their complaint was that the others had received too much. Envy was written all over their faces. 13—No wrong was done. The agreement between the laborer and the employer was fulfilled. 14-15—The good man of the house said, "I will give unto this last even as unto thee," for it was lawful for him to do as he desired with that which was his own. "Will you have a jealous eye because I am good?" Jesus closes the parable by saying that as the last became first and the first last, so it shall be in the Kingdom, for many will be called and but few chosen. The call goes to all. The chosen are the ones who accept and comply with the conditions of the call. All are called and all may be chosen if they desire. God's will is that all be chosen.

Comments on the Lesson

This lesson is a rebuke to the inquiry, "What shall we receive?" The disciples were spending long hours at service and had given up much to follow Jesus, and when Jesus appreciates their service and sacrifice, yet He wants this to be prompted by the best spirit possible. When He first called them to follow him He talked not about thrones and rewards; His subject was "work." "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." When a sacrifice has been made the compensation will appear. "The first shall be last and the last shall be first," means that many that are first in the amount of work shall be last in the point of reward, and many that are last in the amount of work shall be first in point of reward. The spirit in which the work is done and the sacrifice made is the measure of value. This also furnishes a lesson of encouragement to those in the kingdom who cannot do much, but who have the right spirit and put forth the best effort. Jesus has said, "If there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that the man hath and not according to that he hath not." This parable is not an encouragement to idlers. The people in the parable went to work as soon as they were called. Had they refused the calls of the first, second, third, fourth and sixth hours and waited purposely until the last hour, so as to render as little service as possible, their pay would doubtless have been different. The reward is not to the shirker, but to the willing servant who does the best his circumstances allow. Doubtless there are many laboring in the kingdom today who, because of their conspicuous place and time of service may think the reward will be greatest. They may sometimes be actuated by a mercenary spirit or a desire for applause; while in some lone corner of the earth, unnoticed, one of God's children may be toiling in a small circle, actuated by one purpose—to do the will of God and serve his fellow-men. Here the first shall be last and the last shall be first.

Questions for Class Use

What is the occasion of Jesus' giving this parable? What unworthy spirit did the disciples sometimes manifest? Were any of the laborers in the parable treated unjustly? Were any given more than they deserved? Will God treat any servant in His kingdom unjustly? Is there a probability that one of God's servants will receive more than he merits? Is it true in the world, often the first shall be last and the last shall be first? In what sense is this true in the kingdom of Heaven? What should be the spirit of Christ's workmen?

LESSON 3—AUGUST 21.

"JESUS NEARING JERUSALEM"—MATT. 20:17-34.

17 And as Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples apart, and on the way he said unto them, 18 Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of Man shall be delivered unto the chief priests and scribes; and they shall condemn him to death, 19 and shall deliver him unto the Gentiles to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify: and the third day he shall be raised up.

20 Then came to him the mother of the sons of Zebedee with her sons, worshipping him, and asking a certain thing of him. 21 And he said unto her, What wouldst thou? She saith unto him, Command that these my two sons may sit, one on thy right hand, and one on thy left hand, in thy kingdom. 22 But Jesus answered and said, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink the cup that I am about to drink? They say unto him, we are able. 23 He saith unto them, Ye shall indeed drink: but to sit on my right hand, and on my left hand is not mine to give; but it is for them for whom it hath been prepared of my Father. 24 And when the ten heard it, they were moved with indignation concerning the two brethren. 25 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Ye know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority ver them. 26 Not so shall it be among you: but whosoever would become great among you shall be your minister; 27 and whosoever would be first among you shall be your servant: 28 even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.

29 And as they went out from Jericho a great multitude followed him. 30 And behold, two blind men sitting by the way side, when they heard that Jesus was passing by, cried out, saying, Lord, have mercy on us, thou son of David. 31 And the multitude rebuked them, that they should hold their peace: but they cried out the more, saying, Lord, have mercy on us, thou son of David. 32 And Jesus stood still, and called them, and said, What will ye that I should do unto you? 33 They say unto him, Lord, that our eyes may be opened. 34 And Jesus, being moved with compassion, touched their eyes; and straightway they received their sight, and followed him.

Time—Spring of A. D. 30. Place—Perea, near Jericho.

Introduction. Jesus, with the disciples and the multitude, is now going up to Jerusalem. The lesson records an interesting conversation between Jesus and the disciples, also the opening the eyes of the blind men. Read in addition to the lesson text in Matthew, Mark 10:32-52; Luke 18:31-34.

Explanatory. 17-19—This is the third time Jesus has made known to the disciples the fact of His coming death—once before and again following the transfiguration. He made this known to the disciples alone, not to the multitude. Luke says, "And this saying was hid from them; they perceived not the things that were said." The program as Jesus here gave it was carried out to the letter. 20—Salome, the wife of Zebedee and the mother of James and John, made a certain request of Jesus. She was simply voicing a desire of her sons. They were a party to the request. 21—Jesus desires her to be more definite, and said, "What wilt thou?" She understood not the nature of His kingdom, as the disciples had also misunderstood it. The places of honor were on the right and left of the king. Her request was that her two sons might occupy these chief places. Previous to this the question had been discussed among the disciples as to who should be greatest. Jesus had then called a little child and set him in the midst and said unless they became as a little child they should not enter the kingdom, much less occupy an important place in it. Jesus had just been talking about the ones who should be first and last. These lessons were not understood or had been forgotten. These men were human beings and desired first place, not merely to be better enabled to serve, but simply to be first. 22—Jesus knew they asked ignorantly. They understood not the way to the seat of honor. The cup was a symbol of suffering and of death. In this sense Jesus used it here. The baptism to which Jesus here alludes is the baptism of suffering. 23—They may go through suffering and be led to death, but to sit on the right hand and on the left is reserved for those for whom it is prepared by the Father. These disciples did drink of the cup and endured the baptism. James suffered and died a martyr; John was banished to Patmos and suffered much for the Christ and His kingdom. These men did become as little children and were worthy of the honor and glory to be bestowed upon them. 24—The spirit of selfishness was among the disciples. The ten heard the request of the mother and were indignant. The best places were to be handed out they, too, wanted a chance. 25-27—Jesus here becomes a peace-maker and teaches one of the greatest lessons ever given His followers. The government in that day exercised arbitrariness. That was the spirit among those that ruled. This was not a Christian spirit and should not prevail among the disciples of Jesus. He came from the carpenter shop at Nazareth, with His hands hard and horny with toil and said, "Whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant." This is the law of greatness; this is the road to royalty. 28—Jesus' own life illustrated the lesson. He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister; to give His life for a ransom to humanity. If they would be great they must walk in the steps of the Master. 29-30—Jericho, the most beautiful city of Palestine, lay on the way to Jerusalem. It was a warm and shady spot in the valley of the Jordan. Josephus calls it a "little paradise." Its rose gardens and palm groves made it a city beautiful, but as beautiful as was the city, more beautiful was the work done by the Son of Man as He passed through this city for the last time on His way to the cross. Blindness was prevalent in the East. As the procession followed Jesus through the city, two blind men, one of whom was Bartimæus, called for help. 31—The multitude rebuked the blind men for their disturbance. Doubtless none of the crowd doubted the power of Jesus to restore the sight. They were selfish and unsympathetic. They had their sight and cared but little for the poor fellows sitting at the gate. 32—Jesus heard the call of the blind men. 33—What a simple prayer, "Lord, that our eyes may be opened." 34—On His way to the cross with the great burden of setting aright His disciples; teaching them the greatest lesson of their lives, Jesus is the same compassionate being, touched by suffering, hears the two way-side prayers, touches their eyes and restores their sight. "And they followed him." Why shouldn't they?

Comments on the Lesson

Jesus teaches the great lesson of Christian service. It is not wrong for one to desire the first place, provided he desires it for the right purpose and is willing to walk to it on the right road. The place should be desired not simply for having the place but that it may be used in doing the most good. The way up always comes through service. Many people today occupy chief places who are not up, but in reality are down. Office doesn't make the man, but the man makes the office. There are some men sitting in city councils who are greater than some other men who sit in the national congress. The men who are a blessing to humanity are the men who serve humanity. Theodore Roosevelt, Booker T. Washington and Joseph Folk are great in the eyes of American people, not because of conspicuous places occupied, but because of services rendered. The world opens its door to the men who can keep humble. The dogs bark at the man who struts down the street. Every man today who will follow Christ to the best of his ability and who will do His will has a cup from which to drink. This will be true as long as the two opposing forces of good and evil are in the world. Jesus had to deal with two kinds of blind people—the blind disciples and the two blind men at the gate. The first blindness is sometimes more difficult to cure. All through their schooling with the Great Teacher, he was continually opening their eyes; there were many things that they could not understand. Each day was full of surprises, and not until after Pentecost did they fully understand. The multitude would not spoil the program nor stop the procession, nor inconvenience Jesus by having sight restored to the blind men. Many in that audience doubtless would worship Christ, make prayers and sing psalms, but would not have service rendered. Is this true of the followers of Christ today? Worship is a prelude to service. We worship that we may better serve. The order of service and change of program should never stand in the way of doing good. The multitudes' mind was far above suffering humanity. Their eyes were fastened on Jesus. There are some today who see Jesus only when looking skyward; but he sees Him best who sees Him through suffering humanity. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, my little ones, ye have done it unto me." "And they followed him." If all who have been blessed with the Gospel of Christ, whose eyes have been opened, who see and believe the truth in Christ, would be as considerate as the blind men and arise and follow Him, how mighty would that procession be today.

Questions for Class Use

I. Going Up to Jerusalem. Where is Jerusalem? Where is Jericho? Why was Jesus going to Jerusalem? Previous to this, upon what occasion had He spoken of His death?

II. The Mother's Request. Who was the mother of James and John? Who was their father? Where were they reared? What was their occupation? What was the request? What effect did this have upon the other ten? What was the answer of Jesus? When is it right to seek first place today? Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? From what cup did Jesus drink?

III. Restoring Sight to the Blind. How many blind men were healed? Why was the multitude with Jesus. What was the attitude of the multitude towards the blind men? Give the name of one of the blind men.

LESSON 4—AUGUST 28.

"JESUS ENTERING JERUSALEM"—MATT. 21:1-17.

1 And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and came unto Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then Jesus sent two disciples, 2 saying unto them, Go into the village that is over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me. 3 And if anyone say aught unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them. 4 Now this is come to pass, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken through the prophet, saying,

5 Tell ye the daughter of Zion,
Behold, thy King cometh unto thee,
Meek, and riding upon an ass,
And upon a colt the foal of an ass.

6 And the disciples went, and did even as Jesus appointed them, 7 and brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their garments; and he sat thereon. 8 And the most part of the multitude spread their garments in the way; and others cut branches from the trees, and spread them in the way. 9 And the multitudes that went before him, and that followed, cried saying, Hosanna to the son of David. Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest. And when he was come into Jerusalem, the city was stirred, saying Who is this? 11 And the multitudes said, This is the prophet, Jesus, from Nazareth of Galilee. 12 And Jesus entered into the temple

God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money-changers, and the seats of them that sold the doves; 13 and he saith unto them, It is written, My house shall be called a house of prayer; but ye make it a den of robbers. 14 And the blind and the lame came to him in the temple; and he healed them. 15 But when the chief priests and the scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children that were crying in the temple and saying, Hosanna to the son of David; they were moved with indignation, 16 and said unto him, Hearest thou what these are saying? . And Jesus saith unto them, Yea: did ye never read, Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise? 17 And he left them, and went forth out of the city to Bethany and lodged there.

Time—A. D. 30. Place—Jerusalem.

Introduction. We today study the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem. All Gospel writers record the entry into Jerusalem. Read Mark 11:1-9; Luke 19:29-47; John 12:12-19. The day of Jesus' triumphal entry is observed in many churches as Palm Sunday. Jesus came to Bethany on Friday, the next day He observed the Sabbath, and on the first day of the week made His entry into Jerusalem. Between the last lesson and this we found the call of Zaccheus, the parable of the pounds, and Mary's anointing of the feet of Jesus in Bethany.

Explanatory. 1—Bethphage was a village between Bethany and Jerusalem. Bethany was a Sabbath Day's journey from Jerusalem, being a little less than two miles distant. 2—The disciples were sent to the villages nearby, where they found an ass and a colt as Jesus had said. These were brought to Him. 3—This question was asked, as the other Gospel writers show, and the answer Jesus gave was given. 4—5—This quotation is from Zech. 9:9. Jesus rode upon the ass, as it was a symbol of peace; the horse was a symbol of war. 6-7—It was customary when kings rode in a procession to have the beast covered with robes and trappings. 8—Many had gone from Jerusalem to Bethany to see Lazarus, who was an object of curiosity because he had been raised from the dead by Jesus. Others were coming in to observe the Passover feast and many were anxious to see Jesus because of His miracles and His teaching, hence there was no question about getting a multitude together. To spread their garments and the branches of a tree in the way was a mark of honor. 9—"Hosanna" was an expression of good wishes, similar to the English when they say, "God save the king." 10—Jerusalem knew the person Jesus, but when they saw the crowds following Him and singing praises to His name, the question was not, "Who is the Person?" but "What is His office?" 11—The multitude were sure that He was a prophet and hesitated not to answer. 12-13—From the other writers we learn that upon His first entry to the temple, Jesus simply looked around and saw the conditions. On His return the day following, He cleansed the temple. If they had been selling honestly and not charged exorbitant prices, they could not have been justly called robbers. The fact that oxen and doves were being sold and money being exchanged was not a sin; the sin was in the fact that they were dishonest in their dealings and had come to forget that their selling was a matter of convenience or only a means to an end, which was worship. They had come to use the house of God simply as a place for making money, and that, too, dishonestly. When any church gets that view of the matter, it is time to clean up. 14—Jesus conducts His work in the temple, making it a place for helpful service, and by healing the blind and the lame He showed that honest work in the house of God when intended to help humanity, was justified. 15—The chief priests and the scribes had always been against Jesus. His popularity was a thorn in their flesh. They couldn't stand to hear the children singing His praise; they became indignant. 16—These men appealed to Jesus to quiet the tumult. All of a sudden they had become sticklers for good order. Strange they had not desired this when dishonesty was being practiced by those who sold. 17—During this week Jesus spent His nights at Bethany, where He had friends, with whom it was a pleasure to lodge.

Comments on the Lesson

Today the multitude cries, "Hosanna to the Son of David" and within four days all deserted Him. Men are applauded today and criticised tomorrow. Our triumphal shout means but little unless we follow it with a life of service and devotion. Amen from the pew is good, but get up and follow when out of the house of worship is better. When He came in contact with the jealous priests and scribes, they were so narrow and so completely absorbed in their own little circle that all the wonderful works and mighty words He spake and the admonition and the devotion of the crowd could not lead them to follow Jesus. "There are none so blind as those who will not see." What a relief it must have been to Jesus to get away from the crowd, away from its carping critics, from the turmoil of Jerusalem and retire to the quiet at Bethany, and there spend the night at the home of some loving friend, or possibly alone communing with His Father, for the end was in sight; the shadow of the cross was already falling across His path. The storm clouds were gathering, to soon break forth with all their fury, and Jesus needed that strength that came from the Father.

Questions for Class Use

I. The Triumphal Entry. Did Jesus make the triumphal entry because the prophets said He would, or did the prophets say He would because He was going to? Why did Jesus ride on an ass instead of a horse? Why had He never permitted such a demonstration before this time? What attraction was there at Bethany for the multitude to go from Jerusalem? What is meant by "The Son of David?"

II. The Effect Upon the City. What effect did the triumphal entry have upon the people of Jerusalem? Was Jesus a stranger to Jerusalem? Was He a stranger to the temple?

III. Cleansing the Temple. What sin was being committed in the temple? Was it wrong to change money and sell oxen and doves in the temple if the prices were just? When in the wrong do people yield to authority as readily as when in the right? Why is it not wrong to heal the lame and blind in the temple?

LESSON 1—SEPTEMBER 4.

"TWO PARABLES OF JUDGMENT"—MATT. 21:33-46.

33 Hear another parable: There was a man that was a householder, who planted a vineyard, and set a hedge about it, and digged a wine press in it, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into another country. 34 And when the season for the fruits drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, to receive his fruits. 35 And the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another. 36 Again, he sent other servants more than the first; and they did unto them in like manner. 37 But afterward he sent unto them his son, saying, They will reverence my son. 38 But the husbandmen, when they saw the son, said among themselves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and take his inheritance. 39 And they took him, and cast him forth out of the vineyard, and killed him. 40 When therefore the lord of the vineyard shall come, what will he do unto those husbandmen? 41 They say unto him, He will miserably destroy those miserable men, and will let out the vineyard unto other husbandmen, who shall render him the fruits in their seasons. 42 Jesus saith unto them, Did ye never read in the scriptures,

The stone which the builders rejected
The same was made the head of the corner;

This was from the Lord.

And it is marvelous in our eyes?

43 Therefore say I unto you, The kingdom of God shall be taken away from you, and shall be given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof. 44 And he that falleth on this stone shall be broken to pieces; but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will scatter him as dust. 45 And when the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, they perceived that he spake of them. 46 And when they sought to lay hold on him, they feared the multitudes, because they took him for a prophet.

Time—A. D. 30—Tuesday, April 4th. Place—In the courts of the temple at Jerusalem.

Introduction. The close of the ministry of Jesus is rapidly approaching. This is his last week. This is one of the most critical weeks of His life. What is to be done must be done quickly. His last mighty appeal is now being made to the Jews. Jesus was endeavoring to turn the tide that carried with it the destruction of the Jewish people. But their hearts were hardened; they would not yield. He reasoned, He argued; He was kind. In the 23d chapter of Matthew we have His phillipic, which He delivered against them, which aroused them; prejudice was the strong wall, which would not yield.

Explanatory. 33—In this parable, Jesus laid before them a great truth. They did not recognize at what He was aiming until they had given the answer. The vineyard is the kingdom of God, the planter is God. Jesus describes the work of planting the vineyard, completely. This had been done; the people were familiar with the description. They dug a wine press from the solid rock. In this grapes were placed. They were then tramped by the feet of men. The juice from the grapes passed through an opening provided for the purpose, into another excavation lower down the hill. The Jews lived in the cities and went out to their farms in the morning and returned in the evening. A tower was built in the vineyard, which was a place in which to watch the vineyard and provide shelter in time of storm. 34-36—The husbandmen were dishonest. When the servants came to collect the proceeds which belonged to the owner, they beat one, killed another and stoned another. The second group of servants were reated likewise. 37-39—Then came the son. They killed him. 40—Jesus now asks a question. He waits for their answer. "What will the lord of the harvest do with the husbandmen?" The Jewish interest was aroused. They could see the unjustness of the treatment of the servants and of the son. They answered aright. "He will destroy these men and give the vineyard into other hands." 42—Jesus now turns the parable; He alludes to himself as the corner-stone. 43—As they could see the unjustness of the treatment of the husbandmen in the vineyard, Jesus would now have them see that the vineyard is the kingdom of God and that God will take away this vineyard from those who have rejected His servants, the prophets who have come before, and who will now take the life of His son. Jerusalem was to fall, the Jews were to be a scattered people. How true was the statement of the Savior. It has all come to pass. 44—Jesus is the chief corner-stone. The Jews tried to pull down the stone, and in so doing, it fell on them and crushed their hopes and fondest desires. 45—They now perceived the import of the parable and saw that Jesus was speaking of Himself as the Son of God and they were the people who were pulling down the corner-stone, and slaying the Son of the owner of the vineyard. 46—Aroused to the point of frenzy, they would gladly have laid hands upon Him, but coward-like they feared the multitudes.

Comments on the Lesson

Christ is here the hope of glory. Without Him it is impossible for men to be saved. "No man cometh unto the Father but by Me," said the Savior; "I am the way, the truth and the life." "There is no other name among men under heaven, whereby we can be saved." The Jews had prophecy and fulfillment to show them that Jesus was the Messiah, the Savior of the world. Prejudice was the veil that blinded their eyes. They would not listen. We look back at the Jew and censure him for his foolishness in rejecting the Messiah, but all about us today are men who are wise with the wisdom of the world, who see the effects of Christianity on the lives of men, who have access to the word of God, who have opportunities of attending worship in the house of God, who know something of the claims of Christ upon the lives of men, who know that in a very short time they must go down into the grave. The wonder is today that these men in a Christian world will be broken by the rock of Christ Jesus. In the days of His flesh, Jesus could not do mighty works where there was unbelief. Neither can we today. The preaching men need is that which strikes down the sin of unbelief. Men believe in a half-hearted way, many give intellectual assent to the truth of the Scripture, but what we need is faith that prompts to be, to do and to live. Christ is everything to a man or He is nothing to him. As there was a day of reckoning in the parable, so will there be for every man. Yours may be only a few hours off—are you ready for it? This is too serious a matter to be trifled with. Eternal life, heaven and all that implies is at stake. What will we do with Jesus? This is the question to consider just now. What you do with Him will determine what He will do with you. You can have what you choose; choose now.

Questions for Class Use

I. Parable of the Vineyard. What is a parable? Was the story of the vineyard easily understood by the people? What is the vineyard in the parable? Who is the householder? Who were the servants? Who is the son? Was the vineyard given over to the hands of other husbandmen?

II. The Corner-stone. What is the purpose of a corner-stone? What do the scriptures say about Jesus' being the corner-stone? How can a man fall on this stone? How can the stone fall on him? What effect had these parables upon the Pharisees? Why did they not put Him to death at once? What did the multitude think of Jesus?

A very few Sets of the new Practical His- tory of the World

At Fifty Cents on the Dollar

DO YOU care to take advantage of the greatest opportunity that has ever been offered in the book field? Do you want to secure the most interesting, pleasing and popular Historical work that has ever been written?

Complete in seven magnificent volumes; bound in half morocco with every page printed on halftone paper; beautifully illustrated with cuts taken from actual photographs; magnificent colored lithographs; complete indexes and many features which make this work fill a special place in historical literature.

THIS COMPLETE SET SENT FREE for your examination.
We prepay all charges.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating." We know the best way to Advertise this Meritorious Work is to get it in the hands of the people. We know wherein we talk. We placed two sets with the Drake University students and it led to a sale of more than five hundred.

In order to get this valuable work in the hands of a few representative people and advertise it more thoroughly we are going to give a limited number of CHRISTIAN MEN readers an opportunity to secure this work at half-price and on their own terms. It is positively the greatest work of its kind ever published. It gives the history of all nations and peoples from the earliest time down to the present.

IT IS WRITTEN in an intensely interesting style, eliminating useless, verbose and cumbersome details and bringing out the social, industrial and attractive phases of History, clothing the subject with flesh and blood pulsating with the real life and social activity of all ages.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS are apt and artistically executed: Mr.
Sylvester, the editor-in-chief, made four trips to Europe and Oriental Countries in securing actual photographs with which to decorate this work. Its readableness and charm will appeal to the person not ordinarily attracted by this subject. Its eminent authority and imperative occasion for, will appeal to the scholar. This work meets an actual demand that is existing.

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

A. LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

C. CHAPMAN - - - - -	Fullerton, Cal.	J. H. ALLEN - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.
GEORGE F. RAND - - - - -	Buffalo, N. Y.	BURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
H. STOCKTON - - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.	ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

C. MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
------------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 4 KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, SEPTEMBER, 1910

Number 3

The Sunflower Guardian and People's Friend

Like his Master who trod the Galilean hills in the far away time, Walter Roscoe Stubbs, Governor of Kansas, keeps close to the common people and they hear him gladly. His oft expressed ambition is to serve the mass instead of the class.

Standing six feet, erect, broad shouldered, deep chested, he presents to you a splendid type of what the Creator intended the human biped to be. He smiles down on you and takes your hand in his friendly palm and you surrender then and there, for he has made you his friend henceforth.

Rather an unusual though ideal combination, this man. Kindness and genuine chivalry ooze from every pore of his body, while upon his brow is stamped a steady firmness absolutely immovable under conviction. Beneath his brow are set glinting, smiling eyes, blue as the azure depths, which always seem to say, "I trust you, so be on the square." His nose, neither Grecian or Roman, is a mighty fine type of good old-fashioned Quaker-Hoosier-American nose. His lips neither thin and grasping nor thick and purposeless, but just what a strong, purposeful, generous, sympathetic man's lips ought to be. Crowning all is a very halo of golden hair. See him and you say, "A striking true, indeed." Had he lived in Norsemen days his image would have been emblazoned on shields and his rank would have been that of a king.

On November 7th, fifty-two years ago, back in the state where the Rileys and the Harrisons and the Beveridges grow, they laid him in his mother's arms. He was a red-faced, squirming, husky little fellow with veins running full of Quaker blood, and that is the stuff out of which William Penn and his kind were made. This Quaker blood made good again in the case of Walter Roscoe Stubbs.

His father was a farmer and so was the boy when not in the common schools. The cry of "Westward, ho!" of the seventies lured him to Kansas plains. To Kansas University belongs the honor of training him for service though it was never his privilege to carry from the institution a diploma. However he rose from student to nurseryman, from nurseryman to farmer, from farmer to railroad construction contractor, thence to State representative, finally stepping into the highest office Kansas has to give is a story worth telling and hearing. But space forbids all but passing glimpses of the man in these years.

The smell of fresh tilled soil and of growing crops never fail to thrill his soul and arouse his deep-set sympathy with the class that forms the base for our pedestal of civilization. Even in his public life he still lives close to the soil. But it is as a railroad construction contractor, handling giant propositions as everyday affairs, that his ability to solve problems and command men first excites interest. What wonder that he who has trudged home from the country school with empty dinner pail on one arm and cowhide shoes tied together and swung over the other—who has set on the bank of the creek with discrowned hat, wiggling his toes in the black mud and dreaming dreams of coming greatness while the fish would not bite—who has struggled for the best that Western schools could give in pioneer days—who has trained and pruned and grafted tender twigs to get the best results—who has marched in the many millioned ranks of the tillers of the soil—who has bored his way through the enigmatic plans architects had dreamed, and has dared to risk his fortune and his reputation on his ability to realize them in the concrete—who has answered the call of his fellowmen and gone to the halls of State to plead their cause and work for their interest—who now, by virtue of the 34,307 plurality vote of the State of Kansas, sits in the most honored office the Sun Flower State has to give—what wonder, we say, that this man can sympathize with the people! He knows men because he has walked with them and struggled with them. His life has been the life of men. What wonder the people love him! He is of them and they know their own.

His enemies—and he has them like all other strong men—call him fanatic and reformer, while his friends call him the father of safe and sane legislation. "What helps Kansas to do her duty to the world is Kansas' need is one of his working principles; and woe be unto the man—banker, manufacturer, railroad president, merchant, it matters not, who attempts to thwart him in realizing what he believes to be for Kansas' highest good. Because Governor Stubbs has filled the executive chair of Kansas for the last two years she has safer banks, less child labor, smaller sale of intoxicating liquor as well as cigarettes. More power is given to the district courts and less to the corporations. State house lobbyists are under State regulations and a limit has been set to railroad freight rates. She has purer food. She is making etermined effort to conquer tuberculosis and protect the public health, and has er highways of all kinds. Her cities of fifteen thousand and over are er the government of a commission elected by citizens, and, by the way, in e elections a woman is a citizen. Is it a marvel, then, that his foes call a "reformer" and his friends an "executive of marked ability?"

When you look into his eye you do not need to be told that he is shrewd.
d his shrewdness manifests itself in his politics. He knows the game, and knows his State. He knows his own strength and seldom underestimates that his contestant. When he plays he plays to win. But the contest must be a. He always seems to know which cards are out and has the ability to com-his opponent to play his trumps when they are of least value. A strong ampaigner with few equals is Mr. Stubbs, and in these campaigns he knows v to get the people's vote. Not with money, but with friendship and genuine vice he secures the loyalty of his friends. Ask the rank and file of Kansas p will be their next Governor and almost invariably they reply, "Stubbs, of urse. You can't beat Stubbs. He's got the votes."

His home life is ideal. His wife adores her husband and he returns heart-rob for heart-throb. Two sons and two daughters complete the family circle.
his home is where you see the man. There the politician and the constructivist are laid aside for the husband and father. Sometimes when the day has en full and the toil arduous you will see him by his fireside, seemingly in revels of a dream. But, look again. His eyes are looking inward. He is ecting carefully pigeon-holed matter from the crypts of memory. There is fect system in his brain as well as in his desk. When he wants a fact he ows where to get it, and when a principle is involved he finds it catalogued, edy for use. At these times the family respect his silence and leave his cogi-ations undisturbed.

His interest in spiritual things have maintained throughout his thus far busy
i. His Quaker constancy holds him to the religion of his youth. But it is n uncommon to see him quietly wending his way with Mrs. Stubbs to the st Christian Church of Topeka, where Chas. A. Finch is the honored pastor.
His common advice to young men everywhere is "Make room for Jesus Christ your life now; it is not only manly, but nothing else is safe and sane."

His experience has been wide, he has journeyed with statesmen and presidents and formed companionship with the noblest and the best. His nature is many-sided and his influence far reaching.

It is a hearty welcome Governor Stubbs is extending to the coming International Convention of the Disciples of Christ at Topeka, October 10th-19th.
It was through his influence that the doors to the great rotunda of the magnificent capital building were thrown open for convention headquarters. Here, in the Kansas halls of state, will trophies from the conquests of the Gospel of Christ be displayed. Surely the day is coming when the Kingdom of the World shall have become the Kingdom of the Lord and his Christ.

Vacation's Over—Big Things Planned

By P. H. WELSHIMER.

One of a series of stirring editorials by our Bible School Editor, Superintendent of our great Canton, Ohio, Bible School, minister of the church and teacher of one of the largest adult Bible Classes in the Brotherhood.—Editor.

Rally Day

Rally Day has come to be one of the most important of all the days in the Bible School calendar. During the summer, many are away on vacations, and many others who remain at home become negligent in performing their Bible School duties. The purpose of Rally Day is expressed in the word, Rally. All the forces are rallied on that day for a greater and better school. It is a home-coming to those who have been absent. It comes at the time of year, generally a Lord's Day in September, when people have all returned and hence can be easily reached. Not only is it a time to reach all the members of the school, but affords a splendid opportunity for enlisting new pupils. In this article our aim is to set forth Rally Day plans, which may aid in achieving the greatest good.

I. Program. If I were going to keep boarders and should invite a number to take a meal with me to sample the board, I would not have a turkey roast as a sample unless I expected to have the same or better every other meal in the year. I would desire to give the people that which they might reasonably expect every day through the year. I would then hope to keep them regularly. Many Bible Schools make a mistake in putting forth a Rally Day program that cannot be maintained through the year. People come in to visit that day and are misled. They are not attending simply to listen to fine speeches and hear great music. They are attending Bible School and desire to see the work that is to be done, not on a special occasion, but on every Sunday of the year. Hence do not have a great spread during the Bible School period. Have your regular classes, with every teacher present and on time, well prepared to teach the lesson. Let the opening and closing exercises be well planned, but let them be on general lines to be followed during the whole year. People then know what to expect, and they will return the next Lord's Day. If the entire program is given over to music, readings, recitations and fine speeches, they will not feel that they have been to Bible School. This they can get at any entertainment most any week in the year. On Rally Day morning it is well to have a combined service. Following the Bible School program let the part of the morning service be given over to Special Bible School feature at which time Rally Day addresses can be given and the music can be a feature. At this service it is profitable to have from three to a half dozen people of the school to give short talks on some special phases of the work, outlining the plans and aims for the year. The building should be beautifully decorated with flowers and flags.

II. Who Should Be There? Everybody should go to the school on Rally Day, but especially would it be expected that the teachers and Bible School officers would attend. Every man and woman in the church who can possibly so, should be present. The very presence of all the members of the church will have a mighty wholesome influence over the visitors of the day and will often be a factor in inducing them to become pupils in the school.

II. Reaching the People. The teachers should call upon every absentee and if possible upon every neighbor, before Rally Day, requesting their attendance. This will also induce the pupils to bring with them their pupils. Not only should the teacher call, but in the organized class, committees, in fact every member of the class who has been regular in attendance should call upon those who are negligent. Visit new people, endeavoring to get their promise for the day. A Rally Day Card can be used to good advantage in the school. The neighbors sign it, promising to attend on Rally Day, and return the card to the collector, keeping one end, which detached, is a reminder that a promise has been made and must be fulfilled. Door knob callers have been used successfully. On the card is an invitation to the family to come to the Bible School Rally. On Friday night they are placed on the door knobs of the neighbors. Saturday morning, the family on opening the door, receives a greeting from the school with an invitation to be present on Rally Day. (Care should be taken that these cards are not hung on the doors of those who are attending Bible School elsewhere.)

V. A Letter sent to every member of the school and church, to hopeful people and others who may become interested, setting forth the purpose of the day, with a cordial greeting and an invitation to be in attendance, is a splendid factor in securing attendance. It should be well advertised in the papers of the community. Let it be known that it is to be an extraordinary day. Bulletin Boards should be placed in different sections of the town or city that all the people may read as they pass. They attract attention and help to reach the people.

V. Have an Aim. Plan for big things. Ask for just as many people as you can possibly get in your building. This advertises the work as though you were going to have them. It is easier to move people to do big things than it is small ones. People will work when a big job is before them. They take pride in doing big things. When they talk about a big day on Rally Day it is something to talk about, and they feel freer to approach the people with an invitation. When a man builds a twenty-story business block in a city, everybody knows about it. When he opens a store, all are desirous of having a look inside. When another builds a peanut stand on the corner, nobody talks about it, nobody cares to look inside. The difference is, one is a big thing and the other is small. Big things attract the people.

VI. Following the Rally. When Rally Day is over, the names of many visitors will have been secured who didn't enroll. Have the best people of the school call upon them during the week, and invite them to return and enroll in the school. A letter to the visitors, expressing satisfaction in having them present, also containing an invitation for them to return and become regular in the school, and if impossible to do that, to visit again, would be timely. All members of the school, especially those who have been absent for a time, who do not appear on Rally Day, should be called upon and the reason for their absence ascertained. If at first you do not secure them, go, go again.

VII. Vacation Experience Meeting. The week following the Rally, a class social should be held by every class in the school, to help get the new pupils acquainted and renew old friendships. This meeting can be made very interesting by having each person give an account of his vacation; tell where he went and what he saw. Many will have been in other schools. They should be asked to tell the best things they saw in the schools they visited. Light refreshments can be served and the evening made most profitable and helpful. It will help to start the autumn work briskly.

VIII. Rallying from the Pipit Rousing announcements from the pulpit two or three weeks before the Rally will be helpful, and at least one sermon should be devoted to Bible School interests. If there be persons in the audience who are not affiliated with the school, this sermon could be made most helpful as a means of opening their eyes to duty and setting forth the possibilities of Bible School work. Many people are not in the school today because they do not know the importance of the work. The pre-Rally sermon, when thoughtfully prepared and enthusiastically delivered, can be made a mighty factor in the success of Rally Day and all other days of the year.

The Nebraska Brotherhood Convention

Another Notable Gathering

It was announced last month that the men of our churches in the commonwealth so noted for long-eared corn as well as Jack Rabbits, would gather in annual session at Bethany Park, the quiet, inviting Camp Grounds on the margin of the village of Bethany, which everyone knows is the seat of Cotner University, one of the most efficient institutions of learning of the entire list claimed by the Disciples of Christ. The Brotherhood sessions were advertised for July 30th, but began several days previous and lasted until the close of the gathering, July 21st. The convention was not noted for the numerical attendance, although fully as many folks passed through the turnstile this year as in previous years, nor did the warm winds from off the shores of Northwestern Kansas, which kissed the cheeks of the campers, besides contributing to a modest coat of tan, causing a generous patronage of the ice cream pavilion and camp pump, make the Nebraska Convention any more famous this year than last. The one thing which made the Convention essentially different was the attendance and participation of the men from the pews. The conference and question box in the afternoon was one of the most interesting sessions of the entire Convention. The banquet at the evening dinner hour was attended by nearly one hundred men, and Mr. Elliott's brief, pointed address on "How to Organize," was punctuated with frequent applause and was said to have been a most helpful message. Others who graced the program were C. A. Mangam, of Omaha, newly-elected State Secretary of the Nebraska Brotherhood; L. C. Oberlies, Nebraska State Superintendent of Bible Schools, and Judge Strode, Vice-President of the Berean Brotherhood of Lincoln, and State Vice-President elect, who performed the daring feat of Toastmaster. In the evening in the tabernacle Prof. Bert Wilson, of Cotner, told the Brotherhood what it could do to help the University, by securing first, men, and second, money, both of which are indispensable to efficient college work. He said the Berean Society was asking the colleges for ten men in the mission fields, and the colleges did not have them; that churches were crying for ministers and the colleges could not furnish them. He plead also for a sufficient endowment for our schools in order that the maximum of efficiency might be attained at the minimum expenditure. While a shower of rain fell, it was full of fire, and the men will soon forget it. Then came Mr. Shelleberger who gave the address of the evening to the most appreciative audience. It was a fitting crown for the day and the men will not soon forget the brilliant exposition. Many of the attendants at the Convention asked for the field man in Nebraska at once to fanning the enthusiasm generated, and assist in organizing Brotherhoods in the local churches of the State. The men of Texas asked to send something, at their Convention in Dallas.

The resolutions passed by the Nebraska Brotherhood will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Why a Class for Men Only?

By L. O. NEWCOMER

There is much discussion today regarding the propriety of having a men's class or a mixed class. Which will result in the greater good? Which will be the more productive in the interests of Sunday-School work? Before undertaking the work of building up the Adelphean Bible Class I had always thought it best to have a mixed class. I believed that young men would be more regular in attendance and take a greater interest in the work if their sisters and sweethearts were with them in the same class. In my first pastorate I had a Bible class composed of men and women, and in another pastorate a class of young men and young ladies. In both these classes the efforts of the teacher were marked with a reasonable degree of success. However, in both classes it seemed hard to keep up an interest and to increase the membership of the class. Sunday-School work had been looked upon by the men as the work of women and little children. It was hard to interest them in the work which they did not think belonged to men. Men love the work of the church, it is not natural for them to do the work they believe is designed for women only. They will interest themselves in an organization that is composed strictly of men. The many lodges, or secret societies, in the world today show how men like to be banded together as men. We say that our "Bible Class" is a Men's Organization," will at once give it the influence that will commend it to the minds of men. A prominent lawyer in this city not long ago chanced to hear some men talking about Newcomer's Bible Class. In the course of conversation one of the men remarked, "Why, I hear they have 425 men (we have 515 enrolled) in that class." The lawyer was surprised and replied, "Why, I didn't know that many men went to Sunday-School in the United States."

And such is the way men have looked upon the Sunday-School. A class whose teacher is a man, whose officers are men, whose committees are composed of men, and whose banquets are served by men, is an organization that must necessarily commend itself to the men of any city.

It will not only command public attention, but its influence will be felt in every phase of the moral, political and religious life of the city.

Again, in a men's class each man has an opportunity of expressing himself, an opportunity, which it is said, a man does not always have when the women are present. At any rate if he does not express himself there is no excuse. We do believe that men are more willing to express themselves and to ask questions than they would be if the women were present.

The men need Bible instruction as well as do the women and little children. The church as well as every other organization needs influence and money. Men have both the influence and the money. When we get a man for the Bible class that usually means that three or four more members are added to the school. It is a compliment we pay to our sisters, when we say that they are not only willing, but usually glad to go with their husbands to church and Bible school. Then the children are quite likely to attend the same school the parents attend. The man supports the family. Whatever is contributed to the work must come from his earnings. He will contribute according to his interest and ability. But he must first become interested before he can be induced to give according to his ability. In the Bible school men are taught the way of life. Many of men will sooner or later become Christians. This I believe is the sanest, safest evangelism. While there may be exceptions, yet, generally speaking, I believe that every church in the city or large town should have a Bible class composed "strictly of men."

Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

The Topeka Convention

People ask: Are we to repeat at Topeka in October the success of the First Brotherhood Convention at Luna Park at Pittsburgh? We have no hesitation in saying, Yes, we will surpass it. In the first place we shall have more time. The first Brotherhood Convention was cut down to two sessions, and these came on the first day of the Convention. Every one was hurried, the time was short; there was great confusion and uncertainty in the minds of the incoming delegates and it was difficult to get attention. Notwithstanding this, we had a great convention. The Brotherhood Session this year comes on Monday, the 17th of October, which is the last day of the Convention. We shall have three full sessions, morning, afternoon and evening. In the matter of inspirational value, as to singing and speaking, they should reach as high or a higher mark than before. There will be a greater opportunity to hear from men on the floor, and we shall be able to precede the Convention session with a series of conferences held every day at some convenient hour on different phases of practical Brotherhood work, so that we shall enter the main Convention with a far clearer conception in the minds of our auditors as to what we are talking about.

Every local Brotherhood, every men's club and every men's Bible class should send delegates to this Convention. Not many laymen have been in the habit of attending these Conventions. Not many will attend this one unless the men's organizations take it in hand to send them. Any club, class or Brotherhood that takes it upon itself to send delegates to this Convention will find it one of the best investments they could possibly make. Lodges, labor unions and political organizations find that it pays, and pays well, to send their representatives. Pastors, presidents, teachers or other officers, or even individuals should bring promptly to the attention of the local men's organizations the matter of sending such delegates.

Full information as to railroad rates, etc., may be obtained from J. W. Going, Chairman Topeka Convention Committee, Topeka, Kansas, as well as from this office.

The Thing Wonderful

BY VAUGHAN DABNEY.

VAUGHAN DABNEY
Minister L. B. D. C. 279
Chicago, Ill.

We were aware that "The Thing"—purposeful, constructive—was at work among our people. Wonderful things had been told of its varied and manifold achievements; of its powerful influence over men; of its ready adaptability to any condition.

To the men of Douglas Park Church, anxious of having so potent an ally, we wrote to Kansas City requesting that "The Thing" be shipped to us. By registered mail we did not receive a large, mysterious looking box, but a letter and small package. Surely there was some mistake! The Thing—mighty, resourceful—could not be contained in so small a package! Perhaps our request had been misunderstood. To settle the matter we read the letter, and examined the contents of the parcel. No mistake had been made; our request had not been misunderstood; for we discovered that "The Thing Wonderful" seemingly was nothing less than a men's organization. This organization was called the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ.

Then burst forth the exclamations. "Men's club," said one, "why we are surrounded on all sides by churches with similar organizations. There are two Methodist churches, two Congregational churches, a Baptist Church, a Presbyterian Church, a German Lutheran Church, a Swedish M. E. Church, not to speak of the plants of the Jews, Catholics and Latter Day Saints, all within a radius of six or eight blocks."

"Look at our equipment," replied another. "What can we do in such a building? We only have one room, in size about twenty-five by fifty feet." "Too many organizations," "Church membership too small," "We don't know how to run a Brotherhood," came from all sides.

But there were those stories of the work of "The Thing Wonderful." We must have it, equipment, or no equipment; prestige, or no prestige. We organized; obtained a charter; held a few meetings; waited for "The Thing" to begin its work. Much to our surprise we beheld no mighty works. True, it evidenced life now and then by faint tremors of effort, but we witnessed no such manifestations of strength as we had anticipated.

About this time—fortunate for us—we received a visit from a man with a long name, James Knox Shellenberger, Field Secretary of the General Brotherhood, who brought us encouraging reports of "The Thing's" activity in other places. We besought him to tell us how to obtain the most efficient service from our ally—"The Thing Wonderful." He talked. We listened. We learned. A light dawned upon us. So the power of "The Thing" depended upon our effort! How strange. We gained confidence. We began to work with energy. So did "The Thing"—and it has been at work ever since.

But you say, what has "The Thing" done? Is it practical in a small church? We shall endeavor to answer your questions, and tell what it has done for our church of about a hundred members.

In the first place, men have been trained in Bible study. At our devotional meeting held the first Sunday afternoon in every month, the truths of the Book are brought to bear on the problems of the present day life. In this service men talk, sing, pray, who have never before done so.

"The Thing" next demanded a big social gathering for men. Could we do it? It had never been done before. But we had no thought of disobedience. We obeyed, worked, succeeded. This fest is repeated once a month on a week night. Music, lectures, debates, stereopticon pictures, fun, "elbow-to-elbow" intercourse, eats—these things make the meetings interesting and enjoyable.

A deep interest in missions has been aroused by "The Thing." Two live men from our Brotherhood took in the recent Laymen's Missionary Conference and returned to stir up the church. Our offering, though small, trebled the amount given last year.

We also might mention that needy families have been helped; union meetings with Brotherhoods of other churches have been held; the church building wired so that electricity might supersede gas.

But we think that "The Thing" has done even more. Strange to say, about the time of the appearance of "The Thing" in our midst, the church debt, which for some six or eight years has burdened the members, was assailed. The attack was successful. The debt was reduced seventy-five per cent in six months and by the end of this year there was no debt at all. Of course, the church auxiliaries assisted. Every man and child helped. What can we expect when the head of the family is actively engaged in church work? The influence of "The Thing" is felt in the home—a silent, dominant, achieving force!

What of the future? It is hard to tell. We do not expect to have a great number enrolled. Owing to conditions previously noted this is impossible. But we expect to grow slowly and surely, and gain efficiency at any cost. We have plans for our future work, but to execute them we must have better equipment. However, it seems that some day in the near future we can carry out our program, for has not "The Thing" spoken through our finance committee and said that when the remainder of the debt is paid we shall have a better building?

We also hope to influence the other churches, and feel sure by fall they can report two more Brotherhood organizations in the city of Chicago.

But what is "The Thing Wonderful"? What a queer expression. Can we have a church, no matter how small, possessing a help? We can hardly define it. "The Thing" is in every church—no matter the size. In many cases it is yet dormant; in some instances it is already at work. This "Thing," which is fostered by the prayer and endeavor of all true believers, which has been called into being in our churches by our great Brotherhood movement, which is the force the Master would have operate in every community—"This Thing Wonderful" we call the Spirit of Brotherhood!

Chicago, Ill.

The Duty of the Church Man to the Civil Government

By Judge Rutledge Isaacks, Midland, Texas

JUDGE RUTLEDGE ISAACKS
Midland, Texas

Under the auspices of the newly formed Brotherhood at Midland, Tex., where H. R. Ford is the vigorous pastor, a series of eight addresses, two each Sunday evening for a month and with each of the four churches furnishing two speakers, has just been concluded. Topics considered were: "What a Layman's Organization Could Do for Midland," "The Layman and Christian Missions," "The Layman and the Bible School," "The Man Behind the Movement," "The Essentials of True Manhood," "The Churchman's Civic Duties," "The Relation of the Layman to His Pastor."

The address of Judge Isaacks was one of the best in the series. The Judge is a prominent member of the First Church of Midland, and the address is so very excellent that we venture to think the readers of CHRISTIAN MEN will like it as well as those who heard it, hence we print it below almost in full:—

It is as much the duty of the churchman to do the things required of him by the civil government under which he lives as it is his duty to do the things required of him by the church of which he is a member; and this civic duty is imposed upon him by virtue of his church relationship.

"Render, therefore, unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and unto God the things that are God's," said Jesus upon one occasion.

I believe that I am correct in construing the language used by our Savior to mean that it is the Christian's duty to perform and do those things required of him by his country, by the government under which he lives; and on this assumption, I shall discuss briefly some of the duties of the American Christian.

Our country is one in which all powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed, which means the same as the Divine injunction, "All things whatsoever you would have men do unto you, do you even so unto them." The citizen of this country must govern as well as be governed. He is both a sovereign and a subject. He is under authority, but only by and to the extent of his and his fellows' consent. He is in authority, but only as one of many, except when given preferment in official position by his fellow-men.

The Electorate

The most important duty of the citizen is the electorate. He is called upon at frequent intervals to determine by his ballot those to whom authority shall be temporarily delegated, and the policies to be pursued in the administration of the government.

This is a duty that the churchman has no right to shirk, but it must be confessed that it is one which many of our otherwise most consecrated Christians strenuously avoid and neglect to perform. Many instances and illustrations could be given of the churchman's failure of duty in this respect.

It seems to me that it has been but a few years since those who were considered the leaders in the churches disdained to take an active interest in civic or political affairs; especially was this true of the preachers, but it must be conceded, and happily so, that a radical change is being made in this respect. This is especially noticeable in this State in our local option elections. The preachers and leading members of the churches now are the leaders in our local option contests, and this accounts for the fact that the saloon is rapidly being eliminated from our State; but in this connection it must also be conceded that the Christian man—preacher as well as layman—has, in the election of officers to enforce our local option laws been sadly, I might say almost criminally, negligent in his civic duty. For instance, many counties and communities have adopted local option, but in the election of a sheriff, county attorney and county judge to enforce the law, the same people who voted against the saloon hadn't the moral courage to go upon the hustings and see to the election of officers who would enforce the law they had worked so hard to obtain.

Need of Christian Officers

I see before me a friend of mine from one of the most populous counties in Texas, who can verify the statement that that county has a number of times voted saloons out by respectable majorities, but as many times they have failed to elect officers who would enforce the law, and the result has been that that county has each time at the first opportunity voted to repeal local option.

One of the most glaring instances of the failure of the Christian citizen to perform his civic duty is in the election of the governor of one of our great Southern States. Ex-Senator Carmack, who devoted the last and best years of his life to civic righteousness and war upon the saloon, was murdered upon the streets of the capital city of that great State. The assassin was promptly indicted, and before a jury of unbiased and unprejudiced men was convicted of murder and given a sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary. He, as he had a right to do, appealed his case to the Supreme Court of the State. After a long and careful consideration that Court held that he had had a fair and impartial trial, and affirmed the sentence given him by the lower Court. Before the ink was dry upon the opinion written by the Supreme Court affirming the sentence given him by the jury, and before the prisoner had time even to see the gate of the penitentiary, of which he had been consigned by the laws of his country, the governor issued a complete pardon and released him. This happened in the great State of Tennessee, the home of Andrew Jackson and Sam Houston, a State that has given to Texas so many great men. It would not have happened had the Christian citizenship of the State of Tennessee been as alert in selecting State officials as they are required to be by virtue of their citizenship and by the Divine injunction of our Savior. I not be made to believe that in the State of Tennessee, or any other of the States of the American Union, especially in one of the Southern States, that the better element of the people is in the minority, and it is only when a churchman fails in his civic duty that such undesirable citizens as Governor Patterson of Tennessee are placed upon the public as officials.

Miscarriage of Justice

Christian Juries Another illustration of the failure of duty on the part of the churchman has come peculiarly under my notice in his efforts to avoid the little but important matter of jury service. Many of our best and most consecrated Christians will go to almost any extent to avoid this duty. I have known good Christian men to ask to be excused from jury service on the ground that they were busy, at the same time suggesting that there were plenty of loafers who could be obtained as jurors without any inconvenience to them. The churchman who has no higher conception of his civic duty than to attempt to shift one of the most important duties of citizenship to an admittedly irresponsible and incompetent person is sadly deficient in the best and truest attributes of Christian citizenship. Possibly most instances of this kind arise from a failure to give proper consideration to the importance of the subject; but that is the object of this little talk—to get you to think of your civic duties. If I shall be able to get a considerable number of you to think about this matter I shall feel amply repaid.

The failure of the Christian citizen to give moral support, sympathy and encouragement to an officer who is honestly trying to enforce the law is another illustration of his failure of duty. No one is more entitled to the moral support, encouraging words and heartly commendation of the good man than the official who is honestly and conscientiously trying to do his duty in the enforcement of the law, but a lack of moral support and apparent indifference on the part of the better element of the people frequently discourages activity on the part of the officers, who would otherwise be diligent in the enforcement of the law. You should remember that the criminal, the man who violates the laws, always has his friends; there are always ready sympathizers to give him encouragement and sympathy, while as a rule we are prone to let the officer bear all the responsibility and express but little commendation or sympathy for his acts.

An instance of this kind, illustrating the point I am trying to make, was recently called to my attention by the reading of a speech of the Hon. Pat Neff, county attorney of McLennan county. It was his closing argument in what is now the celebrated Fitch case, one of the first cases tried for violation of our new statute making it a felony to engage in the business of selling intoxicating liquor in local option territory. The trial was long-drawn out, continuing possibly a week, and of course every inch of the ground being contested. Mr. Neff is one of the most conscientious Christian officials in the State of Texas, and he had been diligent in securing the evidence and presenting it to the jury. After the case had been tried and he was making his closing argument he referred to the fact that during the six long and tiresome days there was scarcely an hour that some friend of the defendant did not approach him and give him words of encouragement and sympathy, but during all that time not one man had spoken to the county attorney a word of sympathy or commendation. It is a sad state of affairs, my friends, when a county attorney of one of the greatest counties in the State, in a city where two of the great denominational universities of the State are located, has to fight his battles for the enforcement of the law, in such an important matter as this especially, without one word of commendation or sympathy from any one of the thousands of professed Christians in the county of McLennan and in the city of Waco.

Prophets Needed

We need more preachers like Elijah. Such a preacher in this day would no doubt be unpopular with some of his congregation, but who consecrates himself to Christianity must smite evil in all its forms, though in doing so he may lose his social position and possibly his salary. It is easy to denounce the petty gambler and the poor wretch who boozes whiskey; it is easy enough to condemn the penniless rogue and friendless wrongdoer, but it is not so easy to denounce the big tax dodger and the corrupter of governments. To denounce and condemn the powerful criminal requires an iron nerve and a soul that is inspired by the example of our Savior in driving the money changers from the temple.

CHARLES I.

CHARLES NOWLAND

State Secretary Oregon State Brotherhood

You have heard that some irresponsible newspaper reporters circulate rumors one day, denying them the next. So have we. Nothing like that in magazinedom—oh, no. Last month we printed a pen picture designed by Charles Voorhees and instructed our printer to run the smiling countenance of the Kansan with the article. Printer-like, he found a picture labeled "Charles," and being an Englishman and all Charleses looking alike to him, inserted the cut of the genial Oregonian. Out in Wichita, Mrs. Voorhees received her husband's copy of CHRISTIAN MEN and, like the good wife of many another subscriber, "glanced through it." She gimpeted and read through the article from her husband's pen. "Quite a good article," thought Mrs. Voorhees, casting an affectionate gaze back to the features of Charles the I. She was iustifiably shocked in failing to recognize the photograph as that of her husband. "Is this a joke or am I dreaming?"

The Two Charleses

CHARLES II.

CHARLES S. VOORHEES

President L. B. D. C. No. 235, Wichita, Kansas

quoth Mrs. Voorhees. "This is not my Charles."

As fast as Uncle Sam could carry it, one copy of Mr. Voorhees's photograph, reproduced above, with the following brief note: "This is my own copy of Mr. Voorhees's picture. Please return it to me."

Now, we don't happen to know whether or not Charles Nowland has a wife, but we would say from looking at that high-bred countenance that he either has one or expects to have; and with due apologies to Mr. and Mrs. Voorhees, we wish to say that historians and printers alike claim the right to mix things occasionally. We, ourselves, were shocked when we learned of it and do not blame others for taking exception to the impersonation. Both men are good looking and above all are leaders in Brotherhood work in their respective communities. Long live "The Two Charleses."

The Need of Organization of Men in Development of Civic Reform

Solid Shot From a Sharp-Shooter

By HON. EMORY H. ENGLISH, State Printer, Des Moines, Iowa

Were I to assert that God is holding us accountable for the shortcomings of those in charge of our civic affairs, I would state the truth, for one of the great charges of omission charged against the men of the church will be our ineffective and unorganized efforts to be a force for good in municipal affairs in our homes and cities.

Should any of us be charged with being inefficient in our home communities that argument would instantly be dropped, yet a summary of the things any of us may have done during the past year, or any other given period, in the uplifting of civic ideals or the betterment of civic morals, would be very humiliating, I am sure, to possibly every man in this presence.

I am not extravagant in statement when I say to you that the great body of Christian men are falling short of their opportunity in allowing to pass unimproved the possibilities of moulding public sentiment and influencing official action in the various municipalities of our various commonwealths. You say it takes a politician to look after these things and accomplish anything in that region. In this statement is contained a confession of your real weakness. Even the importance of reform in municipal conditions and the crying need of men of Christian character in official station in public life, has not served to arouse the importance of our individual action. One Christian man so aroused with an army of the agents of iniquity, who themselves pay tribute to his worth and influence by always seeking to enlist his efforts in their behalf through some subterfuge or misrepresentation of conditions or issues.

Therefore, in order to arouse the Christian men to action, it has become necessary to first organize them, and through organization secure some degree of effective action.

After all, my friends, organization is but coöperation, and we will all agree that the coöperation of good people is just as essential as the harmonious good-fellowship so noticeable in the ranks of the enemies of good morals and clean government. In fact, it has come to be recognized that because of either the blindness or the lassitude of good people, or the antagonisms which have existed between church organizations, the forces of iniquity have long flourished in our municipalities. And it is fitting and proper that our church—our people of all others—should lead in the effort to bring together the organized forces of Christianity in a sane, determined and effectual movement which shall improve the morals and guide the civic development of our cities and towns.

It is worth while for you and your Christian neighbor to come to an understanding as to who may be the best man, the cleanest man, to be mayor, to be councilman of your town. The man who runs the saloon on the corner, or if the legalized sale of liquor is not tolerated in your community, the boot-legger in the back of the livery stable or at the stock yards knows who is best for him to support; he never makes a mistake in his kind. Should you be less zealous than he in guarding your own interests and those of your family?

And when you select these officials, you are placing in their hands the morals as well as the business affairs of your community for two years. Control of these matters largely pass from your hands to theirs. And the kind of men selected by you and your fellows is an unerring index of the sort of administration you will enjoy during their incumbency.

But have you, in fact, enjoyed any great part in the selection of these officials? Doubtless many of you always vote; only a few men ever neglect that duty, but that is only a small part of your whole duty. It is just as essential that good men be encouraged to become candidates as it is to vote for them after their names appear upon the official ballot. Nearly always the right kind of men are unavailable simply because of the absence of their names from the list of candidates. It is always the plan of the enemies of good morals that none such appear if they can prevent it.

It is entirely possible that you have never concerned yourself about the necessity of good men becoming candidates for city and town offices. Upon solicitation they will tell you that it does not pay; that it hurts their business; that the good people are forgetful and do not stand behind a fearless and efficient official. Nearly all of these statements are true, too true, you will admit. But, if you are like the average well-meaning citizen, who believes in good morals and wants a clean city administration and rigid control of all evils, you doubtless have never even spoken to anyone about being a candidate with these principles in mind, and therefore have never had such excuses given.

By reason of his activity, his persistence and his cunning, the saloon keeper, the pool-hall proprietor, the boot-legger and the gambler wield infinitely more influence and power in civic affairs of our communities than does its Christian citizenship. And it is not because he is more right to do so; not because he is more able, and surely not because the community wishes him to, but simply because he is a man of action; because he recognizes his own selfish interests at stake and is alert and aggressive in behalf of same.

Were a division effected of the vote of every community whereby we would have established a governing class and a governed class, you would protest with all the vigor of a free-born American citizen, and all the vehemence of righteous indignation were the saloon keeper, the boot-leggers, the brothel keepers, the pool-hall proprietors and the gamblers classed as the governors and yourselves as your family and your Christian neighbors as the governed, yet by your own attitude year after year you permit such a situation to exist in fact, in your community, without serious protest, at least without effectual remedy.

Is it not time that Christian men should step in and thrust aside, so far as possible, the class above referred to who are active and influential in every community? Will we admit that we are powerless in the presence of this element?

There is not a community that cannot be made vastly better by the organization of the Christian men whose object is the betterment of civic affairs. Results may be slow in maturing, but finally they will prove worthy of the effort put forth. Already in many of the cities the leaders have gathered aggressive men from the ranks of the various church Brethren ds and formed organizations that e wrought for good and for rightness.

in many of the cities of the State the ing picture show is just now an espemenace to the morals of the young ple and children who form the large ion of the audiences. These shows depicting crime in all its revolting
ns. The cleverness of the pickpocket the boldness of the housebreaker es an indelible impression upon the ng mind; likewise the fascination of n and the brutal nature of the foot-a and murderer, for all are depicted n the moving picture canvass, and in a few communities are they censoricentious and sensual suggestion are ad among the young by these moving ures and they are hard to suppress or late without organized effort on the of the good people of a community.

oncentration of effort directed to-al clean pictures, the elimination of rayal of crime and sensual suggesfrom the picture programs, will se the community and a wholesome rm can be easily effected. The man-nent of these crime-breeding conts will respond very quickly to public ment created by Christian organizaand removal of objectionable pict-obtained.

another evil which is wrecking young hood and young womanhood is the ic dance hall. I need not portray ou the awful consequence of uned passion and lust fanned into flame he associations formed and particil in by those who frequent these s of so-called amusement. There place in decent society for the dance and every one of them can be shut n thirty days in any community if Christian men of that community
t.

The slot machines and the shaking of dice at cigar stands are other evils that will also yield to public sentiment when directed in right channels by the conscientious activity of Christian people.
Vicious and lewd billboards constitute another blight which affords opportunity for municipal reform. All these offensive and injurious elements can be banished from any city or town with an orgainzation of the moral forces of the community earnestly and vigorously at work.

And the saloon itself is gradually, if not rapidly, disappearing. Hardly a year passes that does not witness a decrease in the number. The saloon interests recognize the growth of temperance sentiment and right now are rallying as they never rallied before. They already boast of control of several General State As-semblies and even say that in event the anti-saloon forces secure the convening of constitutional conventions by the action of the people and the assembly, they will be able to control it and circumvent any action injurious to them or the traffic.

I have touched upon just a few of the most important matters within the scope of the Brotherhood organization in the mission of civic reform. The outlook for this work is almost without limit. A vigilant organization of Christian men who not only have the will to work and enjoy the power of Christian fellowship and the grace of Divine assistance, but gain the experience necessary to success for their cause in political warfare, will bring about more wholesome conditions in any community and reinforce the work of the church and its allied societies which need the support and strength of the men of the church in every department of life's activities.

Practical Unity—A Modern Achievement

How the Nelsonville Brotherhood and Berean's Bible Class
Work for a Union of God's People

BY A STAFF CONTRIBUTOR.

A practical demonstration of real united effort in church work is being made this summer by the Brotherhood and Men's Berean Bible Class at Nelsonville, Ohio. During the months of July and August the Methodist, Presbyterian and Disciple churches are holding union Sunday evening services. The meetings are held in the different churches in turn and the pastors fill the pulpits—a visiting pastor speaking in a church other than his own each time.

At the request of the Berean class a special invitation was given to the men of the town to attend these meetings in a body and a promise was made by the ministers that they would speak especially to men and that music and all the program would be conducted with special reference to men.

At this writing a service of this kind has been held in each of the churches and a most profound impression has been made upon the people of this community. Space was reserved for the men each evening and there has never been more than one hundred men present. Last Sunday evening over two hundred men attended services in the Methodist Church. As they marched to the church in a body, quietly and orderly, each man's heart thrilled with the sight and many people gathered along the line of march and witnessed the inspiring procession.

And the men like it. They have sung a song each time and have entered every service with much fine spirit. The question as to why men do not go to church is no longer being raised in Nelsonville.

A lot of time has been spent by these people bemoaning the fact that men do not go to church. This time had been spent in planning services that would appeal to men. Men want to be religious and we have given them no avenue through which they could properly express their religion. If more preachers would study men more and theologians less the question of men at church services would solve itself.

Shall the Brotherhood Tie to One Particular Thing?

Charles S. Holt, of Chicago, in his address to the Federated Brotherhoods of Keokuk, Iowa, answers the question tersely.

A movement is greater than a revival sometimes. Brotherhood means responsibility and a willingness to assume that responsibility. It is no disparagement that women are not members, but an evidence that men are willing to go forward and meet responsibilities that duty places upon them. Brotherhood implies fatherhood. It cannot be broader than Christianity. Brotherhood rests on the fatherhood of God. Its life rests upon the life of Christ.

Some people criticize the Brotherhood saying they stand for nothing.

At the first organization there were many opinions as to what should be the paramount aim. Some wanted one special aim, others pleaded for another, some wanted temperance, others asked for missionary work, still others thought to build up a fund for aged ministers should be the feature. These specialties were too narrow, and the Brotherhood stepped into life with the purpose of stimulating all kinds of good works.

The fundamental idea should be, if the church is cold and careless in its methods

There should be no fault found with Christian-We fail in our loyalty to the church and our coldness weaken the church. If a right it does not prevail in our church we should go out of it and knock, but remain in and st. That is the best remedy for bringing out a better spirit and building up a strong church. The Brotherhood does not stop to ask the cause of the standstill in the church, but goes on working and achieving in the true spirit of unity and love for Christ and His church. Men should not make church membership a farce. The Brotherhood teaches men their responsibility and puts them to work in their local field. This is the mission of the Brotherhood.

Resolutions Adopted by the Nebraska State Brotherhood Convention

RESOLVED, That we commend the work done by the men of the Nebraska Christian Citizens' Council and take pride in the fact that they were among the first to consider the organization of men of the church for Christian work. That we commend the work of our State officers, for what they have done in view of the difficulties under which they have labored.

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this meeting that the name of this organization be changed to the Nebraska Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ and that the organization shall henceforth affiliate and co-operate with the General Brotherhood.

RESOLVED, That the President-elect be and be instructed to appoint a committee on State Constitution who shall confer with the officers of the General Brotherhood organization, and report at a meeting of the officers to be called by the President, and that such executive committee composed of the State officers is hereby empowered to adopt such temporary constitution as the governing rules of this body until the next meeting of this organization. Be it further

RESOLVED, That the Nebraska Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ in convention assembled, do hereby recommend to the churches of our great commonwealth,

1. All existing men's organizations, whether called Brotherhoods or some other name, affiliate with the General Brotherhood movement.

2. All churches not having men's organizations should bring their men together and organize a local Brotherhood according to the plans of the Model Constitution of the General Brotherhood movement.

RESOLVED FURTHER, That we bespeak the warmest sympathy with the General Brotherhood movement on behalf of our ministers and churchmen everywhere, to the end that the cause of Brotherhood may be materially promoted in this section from this time henceforth, and that our men in each county will endeavor to come together in county conventions at least once during the year, and lend their co-operation to the State and General officers in promoting the organization of local Brotherhoods in the churches of their respective communities. Be it further

RESOLVED, That our District Conventions from this time henceforth provide a place on their respective programs for recognition of the Brotherhood movement, to the end that our laymen will become more interested in the cause of Christ in the District, and the State, which will lead them to a proper conception of our country-wide and world-wide movements. We also urgently recommend the appointment of laymen on our convention committees and on the convention programs. Be it further

RESOLVED, That we urge our men to lend their moral and financial aid to our work in this State. That we pledge the support of the Nebraska State Brotherhood to the Nebraska Christian Missionary Society, Cotner University, The Christian Reporter, our State paper, to the end that the state of our cause will be materially improved, and the value of each as an institution for the promotion of the cause of Christ be materially enhanced. Be it further

RESOLVED, That we heartily commend the untiring labors of our State officers, W. A. Baldwin, State Secretary; L. C. Oberlies, State
 Bible School Superintendent, and the State Board as well, who have labored long and lovingly for the sake of our cause in this great State.

Officers elected for coming year:

President, Harry E. Sackett, Beatrice.

Vice-President, Judge J. B. Strode, Lincoln
 First Church.

Secretary, C. A. Mangum, North Side,
 Omaha.

Treasurer, J. B. McLucas, Fairbury.

High School Bible Students

BY DWIGHT N. LEWIS.

DWIGHT N. LEWIS

One of the inspiring addresses at the Iowa Brotherhood Convention was delivered by the author of this article, Secretary of the Iowa Railway Commission and teacher of a large Men's Bible Class in the Central Christian Church, Des Moines. At our earnest solicitation, he has prepared for CHRISTIAN MEN readers this most timely and, to say the least, unique article on the question of Bible Study in the great public school system of the Hawkeye State's capital city.—EDITOR.

It has long been the contention of the writer that Bible themes and Bible study were as full of interest to men—young and old—as it ever was, and that if preachers and teachers would cease trying to find some other way to interest men religiously, and go back to the old book with the same energy and ingenuity some have displayed in getting away from it, the response from men would be surprisingly gratifying. There is no question but that men are today as hungry for the realities of the Gospel as they were on the day of Pentecost. Men are not caring so much about theological "frog fuzz" splitting; they are not caring whether Calvin was right or Luther wrong, but they are caring to know what man's real and vital relation is to his fellow man and to his God. These facts have been demonstrated to me time after time, until with me it is a settled fact, and what small success may have attended my efforts, I attribute to my sticking close to the Book of Books.

Hungry Men

During the winter of 1909-1910, Mr. Charles R. Drum, of New York City, Chairman Religious Work, International Committee, Y. M. C. A., delivered addresses to the boys and young men in Des Moines, and in his talks to the high school boys, suggested the organization of clubs for the study of the Bible, and vital questions generally. As a consequence of this awakened interest, some of the leading young men of North High School honored the writer with an invitation to work with them for the purpose of organizing a club. In this group of boys, I found a senior class president, both the editor and business manager of the high school paper, the captain of the football team, with several players, members of the debating teams, and leaders in school life generally. A fine group of fellows, and I felt honored when requested to become their leader in the study of the Bible. From the middle of winter until the track athletics and activities of graduation time interfered, every week a group of young men met and studied the Testament. It was unusual, if very desirable, to see big, husky foot-ball fellows with their arms under arm going to spend an evening with the great Hebrew characters. Though I did jocularly call it "their prayer-meeting," they didn't allow anything to interfere with their attendance, and that showed their interest. From this Bible study class, a number of the boys who had not been attending church or Sunday-school became regular attendants. None of the fellows were members of the church I attended, nor were they members of my Sunday-school class. I was careful not to intrude my church or Sunday-school on their attention, unless they made inquiry. However, eventually a number of boys enrolled in my young men's Sunday-school class. The winter's study was most satisfactory and the club will again take up its work following the foot-ball season this fall.

The Foot-Ball Captain

East High, soon after North High's splendid example, organized a similar club, under the direction of one of the teachers; the group of boys of West High, the largest of Des Moines' high schools, organized, requesting me to help them out, which, of course, I did.

The Star Quarterback

I met with several weeks, but found I could not devote so much of my time to the work, and we interested the foot-ball coach for next season. A splendid young man, graduate of Drake University, and the star quarterback of the Iowa State in college foot-ball. He told me afterward it was a new work to him, for he had not taken much interest in such things, but he felt its need, that he was delighted with the opportunity it afforded him to meet with the boys in so vital a relationship and that it was going to be a better thing for him than football for the boys themselves.

I believe the men of our Brotherhood should take steps to organize high school Bible classes everywhere. Men should take hold of this work who haven't forgotten they are boys, and will try to look at life's problems from the standpoint of the adolescent. Bible study should be made most attractive, and—you value the soul of the boy—don't attempt the lesson leaf plan of question and answer. Listen to what one of my high school boys writes me today. (He is spending his vacation working on a farm.) This young man is related to some of our great teachers and preachers: "I attended a small Sunday school in a real country church. Everyone was amazed at once, a list of printed questions was read, mostly unanswered, and class dismissed."

Fill up the Bible study hour with real live discussions. Get places fixed in mind by maps—learn of the customs, habits and government of Bible people—and of other peoples during same period; compare and discuss. Discuss other religions in vogue at the time, aside from the Hebrew

Try It Yourself

conception of Jehovah. We would get so interested that instead of one hour, our sessions would often run into many hours. Interest did not lag, and the boys brought to the discussions all the freshness and vitality of youth—and let me tell you a man must keep thoroughly posted and abreast of the times if he wants to associate acceptably with high school fellows. But it's a man's work—and to the Brotherhood let me say, "Get busy."

Des Moines, Iowa.

A Brotherhood Relic

BY A PASTOR WHO HAD ONE.

Our old organization was brought together before the National organization was established, several years ago. Its membership consists of all kinds of men, in and out of the church. For the most part, they are middle-aged and old men. It was built up about a man (the president) who did not think overly much of the church; a man who believed that men could be just as good Christians out of the church as in. No loyalty to the church. No meetings except an annual banquet, no dues, no other activity except financing a lecture, or something like that once or twice a year.

However, there is a group of fine fellows of the church, from twenty-five to thirty-five or forty, who can do things. We were anxious to have the new work of our General Brotherhood presented and are pleased that it has now been done. Our new president is about thirty-five or forty years of age, a business man, and we are going to establish a strong Brotherhood and get into the great game and do great good. That a great many mistakes have been made by forming our men's organizations on the first plan stated, is manifest on all sides, yet in many places organizations are launched under this plan, instead of on the basis of the Model Constitution of the General Brotherhood. Some of these organizations exist without any particular license for several years, but when the individual around which they are built is gone, the organization itself falls. It is inevitable, just the same as removing a pillar from beneath a statue. It will crash to the earth below and be rent asunder. The Model Constitution and program is built up around an ideal democratic organization, with officers who are known by their personalities and their convictions. Its committees are composed of men in the ranks who feel themselves to be a part of the organism or machinery which propels the machine itself. These are the kind of organizations which are doing "a man's work in a man's way." The other is stagnant, a good deal like my neighbor's automobile left in front of his home with the power turned on, not doing anything or going anywhere, but just standing still and rattles and smells.

Supply Exhausted

When the Centennial convention closed the committee found themselves with several hundred copies of the Centennial Booklet on hand. CHRISTIAN MEN bought a supply for prizes in subscription contests, giving a booklet and a badge outright to any who would send twenty-five or more subscribers. In this way we have disposed of several hundred copies of the booklet, the last one going to E. Jackson, Winder, Ga., who sent in thirty-three subscribers. We have closed this account on our books and those who failed to take advantage of this opportunity to secure this much coveted publication have missed it.

We will have another valuable keepsake in the way of a book to offer as a prize to be announced shortly. We hope that many of our readers will add it to their libraries in this way.

Sunset Journeys

The General Secretary on the Treadmill

By THE GENERAL SECRETARY

A few weeks ago at a banquet in New York City a gentleman from Seattle was to speak to the toast, "The Great Northwest." As he rose to view it was apparent that his weight approximated 400 pounds. "Behold," said the toastmaster. "The Great Northwest." The sally brought down the house, but let it be said right here, not even four hundred pounds of eloquence could do justice to the Great Northwest. It is really a great relief to the dweller in the low-skyed East where one must literally shoulder the zenith out of the way in the morning before thinking high thoughts, to get out here into the great wide world of God and glory, where the firmament is above the clouds and the horizon goes away back and sits down.

This is the land of future empire. Here is the hope of the nation's future greatness. Montana gurgles with irrigation ditches and the fragrant bloom of curing alfalfa perfumes the air like holy censers. Idaho has carpeted the floors of her valleys with rich fields of golden grain, and her hillsides are sheathed in living forests of countless wealth, while silvery streams of unnumbered horsepower shoot from her mountain canyons, ready to turn the wheels of growing industry. Of Washington and Oregon what shall we say? Of their mountains of fir? of their fruit laden trees? of their glorious rivers that teem with the burdens of a world commerce or break their mirror-like surfaces to reveal the slipping, shining sides of myriads of noble fish, that come crowding in from the bountiful sea to fling yet greater riches into the lap of the land to which God has been so good?

The civilization that grows here in the heart of rich natural resources is a goodly one, because it is a civilization in which Christianity is a factor. The man who pressed across untraveled deserts and through trackless forests to save the great Northwest to the Union, Marcus Whitman, was a missionary, and a missionary heart still pulsates in the land. Not all the wealth of Klondyke, not all the over-heated blood of sudden riches, nor all the wild excesses that seeth and eddy in the currents of primal passion stirred when men battle face to face with death for the most glittering prizes of life, have been able to over-top or crowd out these Christian elements.

In this religious development the people desiring to be known as Christians only have played a most important part. There is scarcely an important city in all the Northwest in which they are not leaders in Christian accomplishment.

To the Northwest in the early summer General Secretary was dispatched with instructions to visit the conventions of all Coast States, and every local Brotherhood organization which had thus far been formed and affiliated with the General body.

The first stop was made at Spokane. Charles Reign Scoville was here in a general meeting with more than one thousand attendances to date, and as the meeting and Washington State Christian Endeavor Convention were in session at the same time, a Brotherhood meeting was impractical, but the ministers of Spokane, with their usual hospitality, arranged for a noonday luncheon in honor of a number of their out-of-town guests at the famous Davenport Cafe. Bruce Brown presided, and Pastors Stevens and Allen assisted him in doing the honors. Addresses were made by J. L. Garvin, of Seattle; H. Willett, of Chicago; C. R. Scoville, of every where, and the General Secretary, from Irwas City.

There was already great interest in the Brotherhood movement in Spokane, and the prospect for the organization of strong bodies of men in each of the churches there immediately is good.

Idaho Idaho came next on the itinerary. The South Idaho Convention, which we had been courteously invited, was already past, but the Northern Convention was in full blast at Nezperce. So was the celebration over the advent of a railroad to the little city with the Indian name.

The ride down from Spokane was not interesting by the presence of a dozen Nezperces, who had been in attendance at the Christian Endeavor Convention. Their arrangements were well tailored; they entered the parlor car and paid the fare thereof, at the diner and generally deported themselves like thoroughbreds. To watch these quarter-faced, happy-hearted, well-bred sons of the soil, and realize that less than a generation ago their fathers rode naked to the battle field, and came home gory with scalps to feast on fricasseed dogs, while their mothers killed the wounded and mutilated the dead, was to be convinced that here was a mighty miracle of Christ which no criticism could discount and no superlative egotism of socialist conceit put aside.

It seems to the writer that Grangeville is the name of the place where they dumped us off the Northern Pacific train, and we waited for the new train to Nezperce—the train that never came. We waited, and we waited and waited. Again and again watchers reported that smoke was visible in the distance, but it remained in the distance. Distance may be an enchantment, but it does not furnish transportation. The pastor of the church at Grangeville was lending us comfort and ination, but this also was unconvertible into transportation. Here it was 6 o'clock and we were due to make a speech at 8 in a Convention in Nezperce which we must reach by means of a train which had not come. Although, firmly convinced that both engineer and conductor had been charmed into innocent dreamland by the eloquence of the Home Missionary Secretary, I. N. McNash, who was addressing the Convention that afternoon, we turned our footsteps toward a livery stable.

"I got a team all right," said the livery stable man, "but you ain't got no license to get to Nezperce with 'em tonight. They're too slow."

"I don't want a license," quoth the General Secretary. "Give me that whip up there on the wall, and I will get the team to Nezperce."

"But this nigh horse here, the brown one—that old bugger, he just lays down and turns over in the harness every time he sees an automobile," urged the livery man, "and that road out there is full of them gas machines coming back from the celebration." "That's right," said ourself, "we'll pass the next one on the other side, and let him turn back again."

So we went to Nezperce; got in there just in time to see the evening session closing. At the Nezpercians would not be denied, so the Brotherhood speech came off only a little behind the schedule. And then came the banquet, a sumptuous spread at the hotel, to which we all sat down at 11 o'clock, and in which the Secretary arose to speak at the early hour of a quarter to twelve. Think of that, for a man with a three-hour speech on his mind, and to be reminded that the Governor of the State of

The Governor Idaho, who sits beside him at the table, is to speak next upon Christian Citizenship. Well, all things have an end, and the Secretary's speech had one. Then got up Governor Brady. The Governor looks like an Irishman, and he bears a name that certainly is not Parisian, but he belongs to the Congregational church and boasts a Britan ancestry. His address was lacking in the usual fulsome platitudes which are the sick in trade of so many politicians when before a confessedly religious audience. Instead he talked simply in square-toed English with the manner of a man who was among his own kind of people. Governor Brady told the audience that three-fifths of the State of Idaho was now under local option, that state-wide prohibition was a present issue, and that in his judgment it would carry, making Idaho the first prohibition State west of the Rocky Mountains. Such a statement from the Governor of a State in the far West, who is a candidate for re-election, sounded almost too good to be true, but the men of Idaho received it with wild cheers. It is too bad that science does not permit the naming of the other man who talked. There were several of them, and the bountiful feast satisfied both the mind and the body. With grateful recognition of the genial hospitality of George H. Ellis, pastor of the church at Nezperce, the wanderer upon the face of the globe went down to the livery stable, aroused his somnolent steeds and saw them buckled, still snoring, horse fashion, into the harness. It is a long road from Nezperce to Grangeville at two or three o'clock in the morning—a long road and lonely, with naught but the north star for company. There are more ups and downs to the mile on that road than any other that rises into memory. Besides it was cold. The Secretary had an overcoat hanging on a hall tree in Kansas City where the temperature was 91 at midnight, but that was a long way off. In vain to tie the lap robe around his shoulders! In vain to wriggle his heels and twiddle his toes in an endeavor to keep warm! He arrived at Grangeville as stiff as the iron we stir the fire with. Cold, gray dawn was creeping over the hills as he dropped into bed for a scant two hours of slumber before train time. Later Governor Brady turned up on the train, having had recourse to a flying machine or something of that up-to-date sort, and traveled with us all day. A most companionable sort the Governor is, the best type of the self-made man. His culture is ripe and far gathered. He gives one the impression of having gone to school to the whole world, and he has conned his lessons well. Long may he live and much may he prosper.

Walla Walla Walla Walla, what does it mean? I forgot to ask, but what it stands for in memory is quite clear; a pleasant Sunday morning, sunshine playing on broad, well paved streets, church bells ringing and all the world glad to acknowledge that God is good. A wonderfully pleasant, homey town is Walla Walla, with cherries in its crown, every home a cottage and every cottage green swarded and tree girdled, and the trees heavy with the wonderful cherries. Great, sable Bings, huge Black Republicans, or the gleaming red of the Royal Annes bedecked like sparkling jewels the nodding branches.

As is the case in so many of these cities, one of the best church buildings and on the best corner belongs to our people. Here the hospitable pastor, S. G. Fisher, flanked right and left by cordial, whole-souled men, gave a welcome, and at the morning service there was a Secretarial sermon on Brotherhood ideals, followed in the afternoon by a men's meeting at which practical instruction in the work was given, with a glorious cherry feast on the lawn of Dr. Montgomery and a delightful luncheon at his table sandwiched in between.

Waitsburg Time snatched away the Secretary while the afternoon meeting was still in progress, and a motor car on the Northern Pacific Railway took us to Waitsburg. For torpid livers allow me to commend one of these railroad motor cars. They do not run so awfully fast, but they are warranted to shake thoroughly. Passengers are well shaken after taken. There is an unauthenticated story that a Judge of the Supreme Court emerged from a short ride in one of these cars, with his false teeth missing from his mouth. An agonized search discovered them in the tail pocket of his frock coat. It was given as his judicial opinion at the moment that had he ridden much farther his wig would have been in his shoes.

Whatever the shaking, the warm hospitality of Pastor Thompson, of the Waitsburg church, was sufficient to compose us immediately. There was an old-fashioned supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Price. Our host had tripped across the country in a wagon train fifty-five years before. The broad acres that he came to have been good to him, and certainly he and his kind wife were good to another Missourian who had tripped on rails of steel in three or four days over a distance it had taken them five months to cover. The town of Waitsburg was singularly afflicted with Secretaries on this particular Sunday night. Over at the Christian church I. N. McCash discoursed to a mass meeting of the women of all the churches, while at the Presbyterian church the writer was telling the story of the Brotherhood to a similar gathering of men. After it was all over the ladies boasted that they had a larger attendance and a better address; something which none of the men were heard to deny.

Dayton Dayton, Washington, is where W. H. Harris is pastor, and what a genial, warm-souled man he is. It was here that the East Washington State Convention was in session, and never were a church and pastor more zealously courteous in the entertainment of guests. The Convention opened on Monday night with a two-ringed circus; that is, the stellar attractions who had the night before electrified Waitsburg, appeared together upon the same platform. Dr. McCash spoke first, as became him. "Grace before meat," said R. E. Jope, of the program committee, having in mind the spareness of McCash and the plusness of Macfarlane. R. P. Shepherd, of the Christian Publishing Co., all the ardor of his Celtic soul burning out of his kindly eyes, was in the Convention, and helped to represent the outside world. Mrs. Atwater, of the C. W. B. M., was also present. It was to the Secretary's regret that the call of the wild in the Yakima Valley lured him on, and he was compelled to depart before the next session. It was at the train that we actually caught up with I. N. McCash. Hitherto we had only seen his coat-tails flapping out of town or off the platform as we flapped in or on. We journeyed together for a whole day. One by one the great problems of the Brotherhood at large were taken up, discussed, and settled, and when we parted there lingered upon the horizon not one great question crying for solution. The ghosts were laid, the enemies were anesthetized and the tangled threads of contemporary Ecclesiastical history were woven into the seamless robe of brotherly concord.

I was very anxious to get to North Yakima. In Chicago last spring I saw the biggest apple that ever was. It was so big that I actually had to have it. It cost me twenty cents. They told me it came from North Yakima, and wanted to go to North Yakima and get twenty cents back.

"This castle hath a pleasant seat," said Duncan, when he visited the Thane of Dor. North Yakima, too, hath a pleasant Hills to the right of her, hills to the left of her, hills in front of her; sun-crowned rock-capped mountains and snow-fed valleys, and they all help to make North Yakima a pleasant place to live in. They know how to treat a Secretary in North Yakima. When I met him with an automobile, there was a doctor and his wife, a lawyer, and the Secretary of the Brotherhood. How I wish that I could remember all their names, but I can't, except Yeager's, the Secretary, and I won't mention his because that would not be fair. The doctor was driving the car, and he showed me that the Yakima Valley would have been an awfully good place to plant the Garden of Eden. There were peaches till you could eat them, cherries till you could not cheer, and apples till you could not ap—oh, well, there were a lot of them, and a lot of other things. The only fruit that I do not remember having seen growing was cocoanuts and bananas, but if Yeager should write me tomorrow that there were growing there, too, I should believe him, or at least I should give it as much credit as I did some other things those awfully good fellows filled me up with that afternoon. It was on this motor ride that the sojourner was moved to paraphrase some very ancient and honorable poetry. When done with it looked something like this: "Little drops of water, on little grains of sand, make the bare desert a very plenteous land." In a rash moment I dared to recite this for the benefit of the three. Not even courtesy could stand so near them. They seized me, those two men—and even the lady was merciless—seized me and held me under in an irrigation ditch until the next string of rising bubbles signified repentance.

Morton L. Rose is the pastor of the church at North Yakima. It is a big church, 500 members, I think they told me, and Rose is a popular pastor. No one willing to be buried or buried without him. He marries and arranges marriages, nor tarries, but hurries, all through the live long day. The men of North Yakima are a live lot. Their Brotherhood organization is one of the oldest in the State. They know how to do things, and did them. One hundred and fifty men sat down to the banquet and it was a good banquet. The ladies provided it. Wisely they put it on the table all at once, and flitted away like birds of paradise. President Ralph Harris gave the order to charge. In a surprisingly short time the men had advanced from bread and butter to pie, and were ready for the real business of the evening, and maybe you think the Yakima fellows didn't know what they were there for. They came primed with questions. They had been going long enough in the Brotherhood work to discover that they needed information on a good many points. They wanted to know, you know. It began like a battle. First there was a little skirmish, and sions popped here and there along the line. Reinforcements came up, and the fire grew heavier, soon the line of battle was disordered and the questions came in volleys, while artillery, cleverly concealed behind pillars at the far end of the long tables, soon came into the range, and presently great thirteen and even sixteen-inch interrogation points were coming out from the back of the hall. But Morton L. Rose now and again placed a reassuring hand upon our shoulder, we should not be alarmed, but except during the intermissions when he was called out for weddings, baptisms and the like, he managed to keep his heart in us. After a while the questions were all answered. The Secretary had told all that he knew and some things that he didn't, then proceeded to round up the whole discussion in the most profitable manner possible to his abilities. This Brotherhood is one of the most successful, loyal and promising of us. It has behind it a record of splendid achievements. It looks forward to a great future's work, and we are confident that its influence upon the church and the community will be immeasurable.

It was here that distressing news of sickness in the Secretary's family compelled a hasty trip to San Francisco, precluding the possibility of an attendance at the Oregon State Convention, where experience of past years had taught us to look for a rare fellow-worker with the fine body of ministers and laymen who are leading our work in this great enterprise.

L. Garvin, the pastor of our First church at Seattle and a man thoroughly up on Brotherhood work, was easily prevailed upon to go and represent the General Brotherhood. We learned from many of the results of his work from him of a most cordial reception at the hands of the Oregon brethren, notably C. F. Swander, the gracious Secretary of the Oregon State Board of Missions, who has been so kind to the General Brotherhood and in contact to all the Secretaries of our Missionary interests in the matter of program accommodations.

Santa Cruz It is at Santa Cruz that the hosts of Northern California Disciples foregather annually, on a beautiful bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean, and Garfield Park. The assembly hall is a temple, octagonal in shape, and the streets hereabout are in circles, and named for pioneer preachers either in California or elsewhere, Walk Circle, Errett Circle, and so on. The salt breezes blowing over the hay fields through the giant Eucalyptus trees is refreshing and seems to be whispering continually the message of the wideness of God's love and the goodness of His grace. In the Convention lasting ten days, many great addresses are sure to be made, and many sessions held which leave a lasting impression, but none surely of more interest to our readers than that of the Brotherhood, on Monday morning, July 18th. Mr. McQuoid, of San Jose, presided ably, and the addresses were characterized by a wide range of subject matter, sound reasoning and spirited utterance. One of the most notable both in quality of thought and vigor of delivery came from L. B. Wilkes, who expected in a few days to celebrate his ninety-second birthday. At the 11 o'clock hour a message from headquarters on The Brotherhood Practical was listened to with kindly interest. In the afternoon was held the annual banquet of the men of Northern California in the dining hall. An extremely high class dinner was served by some extremely high class ladies. J. M. Hatcher, of San Francisco, presided in the absence of President George W. Morgan. Snappy addresses were made by J. R. Perkins, of San Francisco, and Dr. Durham, of San Jose, H. O. Breeden, of the United States, and—didn't somebody else make a cracking good speech? Yes, one of our brightest young men in California, and one of my best friends, too, and yet at the moment I cannot recall his name. He lives in Saratoga, doesn't he? Anyway the California fellows will all know. The banquet closed with an address by the writer on "The Backbone of Brotherhood."

A nominating committee was appointed to report officers for the ensuing year, but the names are not at hand at this moment.

Watsonville

This is the home of the bright red apple, and the big green apple and the large yellow apple, and in fact almost any old kind of apple. It is in the Pajaro Valley. You pronounce the first syllable in this name just like that good domestic word, "Pa," and with the second syllable you dispense, by means of a heavily aspirated "H," the kind of a sigh that the lady typewriter just ejaculated when she realized that we were going on again, and the last syllable just the way you "row" a boat. There you are, "Pa-huh-row," Pajaro. Well, Watsonville is in the Pajaro Valley. The Pajaro Valley is about as big as a good sized cow pasture, but they shipped four thousand cars of apples last year, not to mention hops, a hundred thousand crates of berries, potatoes, sugar beets, and some dead beats. Watsonville is the biggest thing in the Valley, and one of the biggest things in Watsonville is the First Christian Church, where D. F. Stafford is pastor. Here the General Secretary preached one Sunday morning on Brotherhood Ideals, and in the afternoon presented the practical details of Brotherhood organization. They have a fine Loyal Sons' class and, what is remarkable, more boys than girls in the Bible School between the ages of twelve and sixteen. I think it was never so seen before in Israel.

(To be continued in October issue.)

ON TO TOPEKA

October 10-17, 1910

International Convention Disciples of Christ

ALL ROADS LEAD TO TOPEKA

Special Rate of Fare from all points in the United States. Ask your local railroad agent for particulars. Convention begins October 10th. Every day has its special program.

October 17th BROTHERHOOD DAY Monday

Every Local Brotherhood, every Men's Organization, every Bible Class, every Church, whether it has a Brotherhood, Men's Organization, Men's Bible Class or not, should have representatives at this National Convention, especially for Brotherhood Day. Completed program will appear in the October number of CHRISTIAN MEN.

JUST A WORD about entertainment. The Hotels and lodging houses have arranged to increase their capacity and service during the Convention. In addition, thousands of Christian homes of Topeka's citizens will be thrown open to the guests.

If you are coming, notify the Committee Chairman, J. W. GOING, Topeka, stating when you will arrive and what accommodations you desire. This is imperative.

Wireless Whispers

"I think CHRISTIAN MEN is too good to
"—ANDRES FITE, New Albany, Ind.

"Your paper is always a welcome visitor at my home."—W. H. SMITH, Indianapolis, Ind.

"Please rush me a copy of August CHRIS-TIAN MEN. Uncle Sam must have lost mine."
—W. ROTCHFORD, Peoria, Ill.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is splendid. Cannot get without it. Kindly send it another copy."—O. E. ELLIOTT, Selah, Wash.

"You will find fifty cents enclosed for renewal to CHRISTIAN MEN. I think it is fine."— —HARD D. FORREST, New Castle, Pa.

"Renew my subscription, which expires this month. Every member of the Church should read CHRISTIAN MEN."—E. C. OWEN, Olathe, Kan.

"We have organized a Local Brotherhood with eleven members here. Hope to increase the number soon."—GEORGE WILLIAMS, Myster, Iowa.

"I hope soon to have a Men's Class using CHRISTIAN MEN. Enclosed you will find the amount for my renewal."—J. N. CLOE, Greenwood, Kan.

"I am entering a new field and hope to have a large number of CHRISTIAN MEN readers in my congregation."—B. E. WATSON, Bethany, West Virginia.

"We use CHRISTIAN MEN in our 'Loyal
Men's' Class, a class that will develop into a Brotherhood before many months."—ALVA L.
—DALE, Yates Center, Kan.

"I have missed getting my CHRISTIAN MEN for several months. Can't live in this high land without it. Will organize a Brotherhood soon."—J. E. LYNN, Pueblo, Colorado.

"The Brotherhood organization literature is to hand. I think this will be satisfactory. We hope to have a fine Brotherhood to report in September."—THOS. C. CLARK, St.
Louis, Mo.

"We enjoy CHRISTIAN MEN very much and rejoice at its success."—MRS. ED. L. GREER, Leeswater, Florida.

"B.—Even the ladies are enthusiastic over
CHRISTIAN MEN.

"CHRISTIAN MEN is the liveliest thing that comes into our office. You people are certainly doing a great work, and we congratulate you for it."—LLOYD E. HARTER, Assistant General Secretary Congregational Brotherhood of America, Chicago, Ill.

On the occasion of the General Secretary's visit to Idaho State Convention at Nezperce, he secured the subscription of Governor T.
Brady, of Idaho, to CHRISTIAN MEN. We have many readers among the men of local, state and national fame of whom we are justly proud.

The Southern Christian College, of West Point, Mississippi, announces its opening on September 7th. R. A. Burton, president, says:
"This is the only school owned and controlled by the Christian Church in the Gulf States, representing an area of three hundred and twenty-five thousand square miles."

"The last issue of CHRISTIAN MEN is the best that we have had so far. On the frontispiece we find the photograph of the indefatigable one, George W. Muckley. Down in Texas we think Muckley is not only a live, but a very live wire. He has accomplished great things for Church Extension."—Texas Christian Courier.

"Enclosed find card with order for fifty copies CHRISTIAN MEN, so that we may have them beginning with first Sunday in September.
I have not told the fellows a thing about this and propose to give them a surprise with the Magazine September 4th. Am sure they will be pleased and that your most excellent journal will become a regular visitor to our school."—
A. I. ZELLER, Cuba, Ill.

N. B. McGee, a worthy minister who may be addressed at 212 North Saratoga Street, Los Angeles, is at liberty for lecture or preaching services. Brother McGee has been kept from his regular employment for months by attendance upon an invalid son, and any employment that can be found for him will be a great help to one who has long been a faithful servant in the Kingdom.

C. C. Blakely, representing CHRISTIAN MEN in Detroit, Michigan, is a worker in the Volunteers of America and the Salvation Army. They have started a Bible Class in their Detroit posts and are using CHRISTIAN MEN Bible Lesson Helps. They are much pleased with CHRISTIAN MEN and hope to induce every Salvation Army corps to have a Bible Class and use CHRISTIAN MEN.

The Brotherhood General Office is frequently visited by out-of-town people of national and international prominence. A few days since we were honored with the presence of Prof. M. A. Honline, of Dayton, Ohio, educational director of the United Brethren. He formed an acquaintance not only with the General Officers, but with the Brotherhood idea, which was pleasing both to him and to us.

Our church at Gary, Indiana, a town which sprang up like Alladin's palace, almost in a night, until it is counted one of Chicago's thriving suburbs, believes in the use of printer's ink. A neat card headed "The Church That Welcomes the Stranger," says "All streets lead to the postoffice and we are next door South." Nelson H. Trimble is the enthusiastic minister and is entering upon his new work with great enthusiasm.

"I think with the next quarter we will add CHRISTIAN MEN to our Sunday-school supplies and put it in the hands of our men. Our Superintendent favors this, and I think we will be on your order book soon for forty copies."—R. W. SIMPSON, Pastor, New Albany, Ind.

ONE DAY LATER: "Please send us fifty copies CHRISTIAN MEN, beginning with the August issue, and continue until further notice."—S. H. REID, Superintendent, New Albany, Ind.

"I want to tell you of the splendid address that Mr. Doan gave the New York State Convention. It was one of the most inspiring talks I ever heard, filled with practical, meaty, spiritual suggestions. I am sure his address will be the starting point for many a large adult class and Brotherhood in New York. I wish he could give this talk to all of the men we have. You were wise in sending him to the convention."—S. J. COREY, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Congregational Brotherhood of America meets in their Third National Convention, October 9 to 16, 1910, at Boston, Mass. This is an eight-day convention, all devoted to men's work. The convention is made up of sixteen sessions and every session is crammed and jammed with about the meatiest program for men's work of anything that we have seen for some time. We congratulate our Congregational Brotherhood on attempting such splendid, magnificent things in the interests of the men of that great church.

We have received copy of Carlisle, Indiana, News, which devotes several columns to the dedication of the new Christian Church, and gives a graphic account of the painstaking energy of our enthusiastic Brotherhood friend, H. T. Alumbaugh, Superintendent of the Bible School. This church was partially destroyed by fire some months ago but, thanks to the energy of some of its men, backed by the minister and Bible School Superintendent, this dedication so soon after the catastrophe is made possible.

We have received from the pens of F. Doan and R. A. Stewart, two very splendid reports on the New York Brotherhood convention. Also timely convention article by Frank Nase, one of our General Directors covering the West Washington Brotherhood gathering. These reports have been so timely and complete that we have requested publication in some of our weekly journals and shall hope to have more such reports for publication, which, on account of lack of space, we are sometimes unable to get into CHRISTIAN MEN.

C. V. Allison, teacher of the Brotherhood Bible Class and minister of the church at Albia, Iowa, has a taste for printer's ink according to frequent unique announcements which come to the editorial desk. His letter is a post card containing a halftone of a gentle face which is not labeled, but we presume is the gentleman himself. Underneath the picture is this announcement: "Come, now, look a fellow squarely in the eye and give an account of your recent absence from the Brotherhood class. Study the 'Transfiguration,' Matt. 17:1-20, for next Sunday, 9:30 a. m."

"The last two issues of CHRISTIAN MEN have been exceptionally fine. P. C. Malone and his associates are putting out a strong, snappy, breezy magazine. All of our men ought to subscribe for it. When you start in to read this racy publication you are soon as interested and expectant as an athlete with a two-pound black bass on the end of his line."—The Missionary Intelligencer.

EDITOR'S NOTE: If it makes one feel like fishing to read CHRISTIAN MEN it certainly makes a fellow feel like catching something to read The Missionary Intelligencer. See Cyrus Townsend Brady's farewell to A. L. Hensley is a precursor to the Christian Union for which we have so long prayed.

"Brother Gilliland, of the New Center Church, preaches his farewell sermon this morning in the Bloomington ministry and retires from active charge of any church for special work. He certainly leaves three monuments to his memory in our midst—three beautiful thriving bands of Disciples and church homes which he has seen erected under his leadership. These far surpass any shaft of gratitude that might be erected after he has gone home. Look out after the 'Mazuma' to appear and gladden your heart for the Bloomington ex-pirers' after the next Lord's Day. I will guarantee that the next day we hold service live and get a subscription from every one of the holders of slips that you have sent us."—M. W. WILSON, Bloomington, Ill.

"Local Brotherhood No. 291, Elkhart, Indiana, entertained La Porte, Indiana, Bible Class at the close of a recent contest. Forty-four La Porte men came over on a special interurban, were met by L. B. D. C. No. 291 in a body with a band and marched through the streets to the banquet a hundred and twenty-five strong. The Elkhart Brotherhood also conducted the Sunday night rally."

the church and filled it full, the Brotherhood attending in a body. A Brotherhoodette sang and a Brotherhood man talked and all received many compliments. This Brotherhood has about the farthest to go to state convention, but will take a lot of time to get down."—E. M. POLK, President, L. B. Brotherhood, No. 291, Elkhart, Indiana.

During the Centennial at Pittsburgh, the Brotherhood gave the Centennial visitors an insight into the personalities of our prominent men, both ministers and laymen; and incidentally told the Brotherhood story by means of stereopticon exhibitions each night. This method of publicity proved so popular and valuable that arrangements have been made for a duplication of the Centennial achievement much elaborated upon at the Topeka Convention, in which all of our various societies will have a part. It will be operated various hours, during the entire Convention, with a schedule of exhibitions carefully arranged and published. During the courses of interesting and instructive lectures on the work of various societies will be given. In addition bulletins, news items, and matters of immediate importance will be thrown upon the screen. This will prove of inestimable value to delegates in attendance.

At the request of E. A. Fosner, President of the Brotherhood Bible Class at Enterprise, Minn., we publish the following quotation from a speech of Frances E. Willard, delivered at Buffalo in 1897. Brother Fosner says that the men of this class are studying the tenets of Socialism just now.

FRANCIS WILLARD A SOCIALIST.

"I am a Socialist. * * * I would take, by force, but by the slow process of law—acquisition through better legislation as the outcome of a wiser ballot in the hands of men and women, the entire plant that we call civilization, and make it the common property of the people, requiring all to work enough with their hands to give them the finest physical development, but not to become burdened in any case, and permitting all to share the advantages of education and refinement. I believe this to be perfectly practicable; indeed, that any other method is simply a relic of barbarism. * * * What the Socialists desire is that the corporation of humanity should control all production. Beloved comrades, this is the frictionless way; it is the higher way; it eliminates the motives for a selfish life; it enacts into everyday living the ethics of Christ's gospel. Nothing else will do it; nothing else can bring the glad day of universal brotherhood.

"Oh, that I were young again, and it should have my life. It is God's way out of the wilderness and into the promised land. It is the very narrow and fatness of Christ's gospel. It is Christianity applied."

H. H. MORROW, President Local Brotherhood at Los Angeles, Cal., was a welcome visitor at the office of CHRISTIAN MEN lately. The following card tells some of the things that they are doing at Los Angeles as a Brotherhood:

1000 Men Wanted

At the First Christian Church

Corner Hope and Eleventh Sts.

To Hear the Following Live Subjects Discussed by the Pastor, Rev. A. C. Smither

Man in His Home

Man in His Business

Man in His Church

Man in His Politics

The Ideal Man

These services are conducted under the auspices of the Men's Brotherhood of this Church. Inspiring music, uplifting addresses, and the glad hand awaits you.

H. H. MORROW, President

J. S. WINCHESTER, Secretary

Hawkeye Logic

"Oh, how I wish every church in the state would take up the Brotherhood idea. It would solve seventy-five per cent of their problems. I can see nothing that would do more for the Bible School work."

W. T. FISHER, State Supt. of Bible Schools
Des Moines, Iowa

Organization Notes

The Brotherhood men at Peoria, Ill., seem to be all-around artisans, as they built a church in one day, outlined in CHRISTIAN MEN for July, then they built the benches necessary to seat it. This is an attractive announcement issued by the Howett Street contingent of the Peoria Brotherhood:

A BENCH SOCIAL.

What is a Bench Social?

Why, making Benches, of course.

That is what the Brotherhood of the Howett Street Christian Church is going to do at their regular meeting, June 6th, 7:30 o'clock, p. m.

The Bible School, owing to its growth, needs more benches, and the Brotherhood men are going to make them.

Bring your hammers and saws and be on hand at 7:30 ready for work. All necessary material will be on hand.

Regular monthly business meeting will also be held.

A. F. RILEY, Secretary.

ARTHUR W. LEU, President.

There were thirty men present. President Arthur Leu says, "It would have done you good to have seen those fellows go to it. Men who had been in the habit of going to church services, and that is about all (not having anything else to do in the church), with their sleeves rolled up and working for dear life. We stopped work about nine-thirty and partook of some lunch prepared by Mr. Rotchford. After lunch, we finished the job. The meeting was a success in every way and we are all very much pleased with the way the Brotherhood work is going on. We have some other things lined up and you will hear from Howett Street later on."

Quarterly reports from Local Brotherhoods which were called for recently by the General office, are beginning to arrive, and all of them show a most splendid activity in all departments of our work. For instance, L. B. D. C. No. 276, located at North Yakima, Washington, held four meetings in three months, with an average attendance of fifty men, secured seven new members, present enrollment, sixty-four. This Brotherhood has a hundred and five men in the Bible Classes, they held one social meeting with a hundred and twenty-five men present, made one visit to neighboring church, taking twenty of their members along. They have given fraternal aid to one man and another was aided in finding employment. They secured twenty-two new subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN, making the present list forty-five. After paying all bills, they have $8.10 in the treasury. The General Secretary visited this Brotherhood on June 28th, upon the occasion of a banquet, and according to G. D. Yeager, Secretary, he opened to them a new vision of the great work, which they will take hold of with renewed vigor.

We are in receipt of the first Union application for Brotherhood certificate ever received by the Brotherhood General Office. It is from Rolling Prairie, Indiana, and states that a Brotherhood has been organized in the Christian and M. E. Churches on the basis of the Model Constitution with forty-three members, for all of which quarterly dues are remitted. The application is signed by Charles H. Heikman, minister of M. E. Church, and R. O. Wickham, minister of Christian Church. This is a town of about 100 inhabitants with two churches. The members of the Christian Church were not at work under the same condition prevailed in the other church. When Brother Wickham took charge at Rolling Prairie he began to talk the Brotherhood to such an extent that forty-five men came out to a banquet where S. G. Buckner of Elkhart, gave a practical talk on Brotherhood work. The entire proceedings as read between the lines of a letter from Brother Wickham, are so unique that we have determined to give larger space and print at some length the information which is an exemplification of the plea "That they all be one."

Frequently we hear announcement of churches that "Want their minister for life." Such was recently the case with William Bayard Craig, pastor of the Lenox Avenue Church, New York City. Now comes word of a church at North Yakima, Washington, home of L. B. D. C. No. 274, whose pastor, Morton L. Rose, according to the North Yakima Morning Herald, has been requested to stay with them the rest of his days, with the additional proviso that spontaneously poured from enthusiastic members that his life be long. We had always considered Brother Rose an exceptionally live, well-awake, Brotherhood pastor and this recognition of merit by the members of his congregation has additionally enhanced his standing with the General Brotherhood. May his exhortations be numerous.

The Nova Scotia Convention is to be held this year at Fort Williams. R. Lee Barger, pastor and enthusiastic Brotherhood man of L. B. D. C. No. 290, Lubec, Me., will represent and present the merits of the Brotherhood Movement at the convention. We are finding ourselves able to pick strong Brotherhood men in various parts of the country to act for us where we are unable to send a Secretary and often these men do as well or better than we would have ourselves. This was true of R. A. Dyer, whom we sent to Rochester, New York, for the convention. The people were delighted and assure us we made no mistake. We are sure we are not making a mistake in sending

r Bussabarger to the Nova Scotia Cone is a cheering word from Eldora L. B.
No. 283: "A year ago last May we zed a Men's Bible Study Class and sea club of twenty subscribers for CHRIS-MEN. During the past winter a Local erhood was organized. The class had ollment of thirty-five and the Brother-o date of thirty. The class and Broth-have raised during fourteen months $135, of which $56 has gone into im-ments in the basement to make class and about $35 into the current expense
I regard this as a hopeful feature of urch work, which will later express it-more finances as well as other strength."
L. Darsie, President of L. B. D. C. No. endallville, Ind., was married in June ss Grace Wharton, daughter of G. L. son, one of our pioneer missionaries.
half of the Brotherhood, CHRISTIAN offers hearty congratulations and if any of our other Brotherhood Presidents are bachelors, we urge emulation of Brother Darsie's example. By the way, did you ever know a Darsie or a Wharton who did not take up with the best there is?

"I certainly appreciate the honor conferred upon me by the Local Brotherhood, No. 261, and is is my constant prayer that I may be strengthened from the source of all strength and power, to the end that I may be of substantial benefit to the staunch little body of men I am chosen to lead, and by the grace of God, to the Brotherhood at large."—E. L.
PEARSON, President, Bedford, Indiana.

"Enclosed find draft for $8.25, for quarterly dues to the General Brotherhood from Local Brotherhood No. 270. We have at this time fifty-five members."—J. U. TREADWELL, President, Pittsburg, Kansas.

"I hope within a short time to send you a complete list of Brotherhood membership with reference to committee assignments."—W. R.
STRACHAN, Tacoma, Washington.

New York State Brotherhood Convention

BY ROBERT STEWART, ROCHESTER.

Men's League movement in the State
New York has been in existence for a of years. Dr. A. G. Doust was the resident, E. A. Olley, of Syracuse, bee last man who has filled this high
The convention this year was held in ter during the sessions of the New Christian Missionary Society. Hereto-he men have had from 4 p. m. to the ring of the night session for business e annual dinner. This year, they had eire afternoon in addition. President y address showed progress during the ear and recommended that the league its name to Brotherhood and affiliate ne General Organization. His address ollowed by other encouraging talks by men of the state. We were most in having as a representative of the el Brotherhood R. A. Doan, Leader of of Nelsonville, Ohio. His address was e spirited, devotional and inspiring. He ud the crowd. He is really an eloquent ot boisterous, or boastful, but artistic,
t unassuming, devout and, withal, busi-
e.
owing his address it was unanimously d that the name "Men's League" should doped and the name "Brotherhood" sub-t and recommending that the local orizations of church men throughout the state affiliate with the General Brotherhood.

Then came the Brotherhood banquet, which was well served by the ladies and much appreciated by the men. At the banquet, Mr.
Doan was asked for a few words and he began with such an unassuming and sincere tribute to the banquet that he won the hearts of the ladies, as he had won the hearts of the men at the afternoon session. C. G. Van Wormer was toastmaster, S. B. Lindsey, of North Tonawanda, and F. B. Messing, of Rochester, made addresses. The subject of Mr. Lindsey's address was "Special Things for the Men to Do," his key words being "organize, energize, supervise," quoting the words of a Western railroad president. Mr.
Messing emphasized his own special kind of work. He has a class at the Y. M. C. A. numbering three hundred men and boys in what he calls a live club. He teaches anatomy, physiology, bearing practically upon the care of the body, effect of exercise, proper food, tobacco, alcohol, etc. Then he teaches Bible lessons also. Amid good feeling the men single filed into the audience room, where the ladies were in session and lining
both aisles gave the Chautauqua salute.

S. B. Lindsey was chosen President for the coming year. You may look for a forward step among the men of the Empire State from now on.

Oklahoma Brotherhood Convention

Arrangements are on for the second annual convention of Oklahoma Brotherhood men at Tulsa, Thursday, er eighth. C. M. Pinkerton, Chairman, Oklahoma City. The session will begin in the afternoon, and last g at the evening, with a Men's banquet at the supper hour. A large attendance of laymen is confidently ped.

Other Brotherhood Gatherings

av, Tennessee,	-	-	September 22	Jerusalem, Maryland,	-	-	September 5
le, West Virginia,	-	-	" 15	Scranton, E. Pennsylvania,	-	-	" 6

Then Topeka

October 17. You will not want to miss this.

BIBLE SCHOOL NOTES

The following from our Nelsonville, Ohio, correspondent came too late for insertion in the August magazine:

"Late last February, the Adelphians of Mt. Vernon advised us that one of their members, C. V. Trott, had given them a fine banner because their enrollment had reached five hundred. But he made the condition that it would go to any men's class in the state which had an attendance of five hundred more than they during six months. They have just sent us the banner. Our record does not cover six months, but for the nineteen Sundays for which we were able to keep it, the record is as follows:

Nelsonville, total attendance.....	5,929
Mt. Vernon, total attendance.....	3,110
Difference.	2,819
Nelsonville, average attendance.	312
Mt. Vernon, average attendance.....	164

The American Salvation Army, at Detroit, Michigan, opened up a Bible Class a few weeks ago with five members. With the careful instructions and interest of their ad-C. C. Blakely, an enthusiastic Brother-man, and friend of CHRISTIAN MEN, the grown to thirty members. They are CHRISTIAN MEN Bible Lesson Helps and them interesting to study. So writes Ot-T. G. Alldaffer, Detroit, Michigan.

"My men's class starts off nicely. Tone present yesterday. Expect to double Sunday. Will organize the last of July can get them started on CHRISTIAN M-feel sure they will decide for it."—V-
M. WHITE, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

LATER: "Send thirty copies CH-MEN as a starter."

"Is the weather so hot in Kansas Ci-you failed to get my copy of CHRISTIAN Minto this beautiful atmosphere of 'xa-Whatever the cause may have been, the fis the same."—EDWARD OWERS, State B-School Superintendent, Dallas, Texas.

"We called for a show of Bibles amen held up CHRISTIAN MEN."—H. C.
Pleasanton, Iowa.

The Race Is On

What is claimed to be "the largest distinctive men's class in the world, not only in membership but in attendance also," is the great Hubbell class, in the First Baptist Church at Rochester, N. Y., organized in 1892 and still taught by its original leader,
Hon. Walter S. Hubbell, attorney for the Eastman Kodak Co. A good natured contest, or rather a mutual comparison of results, has been entered into with this class by the Bereans Men's Bible Class at Nelsonville, Ohio, whose teacher, R. A. Doan, is known to every Bible School and church throughout our Brotherhood.

The following statistics of the two classes at the beginning of the contest may be interesting to note:

	Rochester, Nels
Population of town.....	185,000	60
Class enrollment	997	90
Average attendance	300	10-
Minimum age limit.....	16	8
Attendance 1st contest day	237	2
Date of organization....	1892	7

The Rochester class has put it up t-men not to allow any class to beat the-ing the summer months and the race-
The Bereans hardly hope to win out them at such odds, although they will try to keep in sight. CHRISTIAN MEN will watch the course of this contesunusual interest.

The Brotherhood in Indiana

By E. E. ELLIOTT

goes Indiana, so goes the country," is a saying. In a Brotherhood way, Indiana likewise come to the front. A year ago the State Brotherhood Convention was held at Bethany Park, with a large program, and a small attendance. This year it was different. Fifty men had caught the vision of "The Brotherhood's Work in a Man's Way," and were present for the Brotherhood sessions. S. G. Cook, of Elkhart, made a brilliant address on "The Brotherhood Bible Class." H. J. Denton punctured the heavens with the message of "The Brotherhood's Call to Men." At the close came the Brotherhood banquet. Theodore W. Cauble was the temporary secretary. The nominating committee reported the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Dr. H. J. Hall, of Franklin; Vice-President, Horatio Harryman, Bedford; Secretary, W. E. M. Hackleman, Indianapolis; Treasurer, E. M. Polk, Elkhart. The usual dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid Society, followed by a number of toasts by L. Cook, Horatio Harryman, E. M. Polk, S. G. Buckner and others whom we cannot forget. Your Assistant Secretary was permitted to address this gathering of enthusiastic Brotherhood men. A treat not only in program but in social enjoyment was furnished by the boys, with frequent yells and songs.

C. M. Fillmore, author of "Tell Mother I'll Be There," sang that beautiful song and the men joined in the chorus. It was a grand day for Indiana, and is but the beginning for great things among the men of the State. Dr. Hall, the new State President, is Secretary of our National Temperance Board, and brings to his high office very great experience and ability. The Vice-President, Horatio Harryman, is an accountant of acknowledged merit, having been recently appointed expert examiner by the Governor of Indiana, and is busy auditing the books of the various counties of the Hoosier State. W. E. M. Hackleman, the State Secretary, needs no introduction to CHRISTIAN MEN readers. E. M. Polk is President of L. B. D. C. No. 291, at Elkhart, young as to age but old in man-handling ability, and as Treasurer of the Indiana State Brotherhood will be found to have a very long reach and a most sure touch and will bring to his new office the ability of a trained executive. After Mr. Denton's speech the Brotherhood Centennial stereopticon pictures were thrown upon the canvas, much to the delight of the men and women visitors of the day. The State Convention meets next May in Columbus, and with these enthusiastic officers manning the Brotherhood Ship of State there promises to be one of the largest gatherings of Indiana laymen in the history of the State.

Two Conventions

Indiana Brotherhood Session September 23, 1910, Owensboro, Ky.

9:00 a. m.—Address: "The Meaning and Purpose of the Brotherhood Movement." P. C. Macfarlane, General Secretary Brotherhood Movement." Mark Collis, Lexington, Mo.

10:00 a. m.—Address: "Do We Want a Brotherhood Movement?" Mark Collis, Lexington, Ky.

11:00 a. m.—Address: "What Do We Want a Brotherhood Movement to Be?" J. S. Porter, Lexington, Ky.

12:00 p. m.—Address: "The Brotherhood and the Local Church Interests." J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky.

1:00 p. m.—Address: "The Brotherhood and the General Church Interests." W. E. Polk, Cynthiana, Ky.

2:00 p. m.—Round Table on Brotherhood Methods, conducted by P. C. Macfarlane, General Secretary. Opportunity for questions and answer and floor discussion.

3:00 p. m.—Brotherhood Banquet. Toastmaster Dr. Allen D. Sullivan, Covington, Ky. Addresses: "The Unholiness of Ignorance" R. H. Crossfield. "Ministerial Qualifications," J. W. McGarvey. "The Key to Success," P. C. Macfarlane.

Oklahoma State Convention September 8, 1910

Men's Brotherhood Session Thursday Afternoon

2:00 p. m.—Program opened by music, Tulsa chorus.

Invocation.

2:15 p. m.—Address: "The Tragedy of It All." C. M. Pinkerton, Chairman.

2:45 p. m.—Address: "The Greatest Church Movement in the World's History." Prof. Bert Wilson, Bethany, Neb.

3:00 p. m.—Address: "The Responsibility of the Brotherhood in the Training and Development of Boys." Rev. Melvin Putman, Muskogee, Okla.

3:15 p. m.—Address: "Possibilities of the Brotherhood in This State." Judge A. N. Munden, Oklahoma City.

3:30 p. m.—Address: "Brotherhood Organization." E. E. Elliott, Kansas City, Mo.

4:30 p. m.—General Discussion: Led by A. R. Spicer, Lawton, Okla.

6:00 p. m.—Banquet.

6:45 p. m.—Last Course: "Everybody Works but Father." Rev. J. H. O. Smith, Oklahoma City.

7:00 p. m.—Address: Secretary P. C. Macfarlane, Kansas City, Mo.

OCTOBER.

1. State Elections.—Principle above policy. Manhood above party. Courage of convictions everywhere.

2. State Missions.—A study of the calls of our State to men strong in the faith of Jesus Christ.

NOVEMBER.

1. Work of American Temperance Board of the Disciples of Christ.—Here is where we lock arms with the W. C. T. U., the Bible School, the Y. P. S. C. E., the International Reform Bureau, et al, in the onward march toward a stronger manhood and purer womanhood.

2. A Harvest Home Meeting.—Thanksgiving. A season of special rejoicing for the goodness of God.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—A knowledge of services rendered heroes of former days. The Brotherhood remove the terrors of creeping age from preacher's vision. The servant is worthy his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is that of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the new year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the new year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm, bringing men to Christ.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

SEPTEMBER No. 2

TOPIC—The New Century Convention.

Prepared by Charles Finch

I. Opening Exercises.

1. "Onward, Christian Soldiers."
2. Scripture reading, Gen. 12:1-4.
3. Prayer for a Convention united, inspired and victorious.
4. All stand and repeat the Covenant.
5. "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord."

II. Prepared Program of the Evening.

1. Paper: Our Convention System, District, State and National.
2. Address: Relation of Our Convention System to Our Missionary and Evangelistic Progress.
3. Address: The questions to be discussed at Topeka.
4. Question for debate: "Shall the business of future conventions be conducted by delegates chosen from the various congregations throughout the world, or by the people en masse?"
5. Decision of the Judges.

6. Open discussion: "Why should our Local Brotherhood send at least one representative besides the pastor to the Topeka Convention?"

7. Selection of Representatives.

Bibliography—Recent issues of Christian Evangelist, Christian Standard, Christianity.

III. Closing Exercises.

1. Song, "The King's Business."
2. Social period.
3. Closing prayer and benediction.

OCTOBER No. 1

TOPIC—State Elections or Non-Partisan Politics.

Prepared by J. K. Shellenberger, in charge of the Civic League.

I. Opening Exercises.

1. Instrumental music.
2. One or two patriotic hymns. (Give body to sing.)
3. Stand and repeat covenant in unison. Close with Lord's Prayer.

Patriotic hymn.

Scripture reading.

Evening's Program. (Four six-minute Addresses.)

General introduction: "What We Stand For." (A non-partisan ballot.)

Address: "A Worthy Citizen."

Address: "A Square Deal in Politics."

Address: "A Just Administration of Law."

Debate:

Suggestive Questions:

- (a) The Convention System vs. the Direct Primary.
- (b) The Election of United States Senator by Popular Vote.
- (c) The Commission Plan of Government for Municipalities.
- (d) The English Criminal Court Practice vs. the American.
- (e) Constitutional Prohibition vs. Statutory.
- (f) Can a Christian Be a Politician, or vice versa?

Decision of the Judges.

6 Report of the Civic Committee. (The Civic Committee will be wide awake and bring in a report of work already done, as well as recommendations for future work.)

7 An Open Discussion of the Report of the Civic Committee.

Questions to the Civic Committee.

If possible, commit your men to definite principles.

Edge your men to a principle, but never to party.

In some cases, having the following card ready to distribute at the close of the discussion will prove of value. It won a decided victory in one town at least.

We believe in a worthy citizenship, a conscientious patriotism, a square deal in politics, a just administration of law. We plead for manhood above party, principle above policy, public good above private gain, faithfulness to trust, loyalty to oath, and courage of convictions in all men.

(I stand on the above platform and will vote accordingly.)

Signed
(Return to the Secretary of the Brotherhood.)

If such a movement is begun it should not stop until the last voter in the community has seen the card and been urged to sign it.

Again, the Civic Committee might suggest the matter of seeing that the coming election is the result of an honest vote.

The Brotherhood can organize for the purpose of getting every Christian voter to the polls on election day.

Look about you and under the guidance of the Holy Spirit ask what there is that Christian men ought to be doing in the interest of the election and civic righteousness; then do that thing in the interest of the kingdom.

III. Closing Exercises.

1. Song: "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah."
2. Social period.
3. Closing prayer and benediction.

Forward, March, for Topeka

Brotherhood Convention, Topeka, Kansas, October 17, 1910

We will publish the tentative program in the October magazine, which will be mailed to every subscriber and Brotherhood man in ample time to reach him before the date of starting. Every Local Brotherhood should send a representative with Delegate's Certificate, to represent your Brotherhood at the Executive Session. Under the constitution your Brotherhood is entitled to two delegates for the organization and one additional delegate for each ten members or fraction of ten exceeding four, for which you have been credited with payment of dues. These Brotherhood conventions will be repetitions of the Luna Park Pittsburgh gathering at each National Convention of our people hereafter. There will be great speeches, great enthusiasm, and you will go home inspired as thousands went from Pittsburgh.

P. H. WELSHIMER

Bible School Lessons for September

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—SEPTEMBER 11.

"THE KING'S MARRIAGE FEAST."

—MATT 22:1-14.

American Revised

1 And Jesus answered and spake again in parables unto them, saying, 2 The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a certain king, who made a marriage feast for his son, 3 and sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the marriage feast: and they would not come. 4 Again he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them that are bidden, Behold, I have made ready my dinner; my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come to the marriage feast. 5 But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his own farm, another to his merchandise; 6 and the rest laid hold on his servants, and treated them shamefully, and killed them. 7 But the king was wroth; and he sent his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burned their city. 8 Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they that were bidden were not worthy. 9 Go ye therefore unto the highways, and as many as will shall find, bid to the marriage feast. 10 And those servants went out into the highways, and gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good: and the wedding was filled with guests. 11 When the king came in to behold the guests, he saw there a man who had not on a wedding-garment: 12 and he said unto him, Friend, how camest thou hither not having a wedding-garment? And he was speechless. 13 Then the king said to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and cast him out into the outer darkness; there shall be the weeping and gnashing of teeth. 14 For many are called, but few chosen.

Time. Tuesday, April 4, A. D. 30. Place. A court of the temple at Jerusalem.

Introduction. Jesus spoke these words three days before His crucifixion. This lesson is a rebuke to the incredulity, prejudices, stubbornness and whatever in the hearts of the Pharisees kept them from accepting Jesus. Never did a man strike so straight and forcibly at the sins of the people as did Jesus in this last week of His life. Although they nailed Him to the cross, they could never forget the denunciations hurled against them.

Explanatory. 1-3—In this parable Jesus illustrates another phase of the kingdom of heaven. At an Oriental wedding, guests were invited some time before the wedding and then just previous to the event they were notified to come. 4—The most significant statement of the lesson is this sentence, "And they would not come." The king was persistent, he gave them every opportunity possible; sends the second time, tells of the preparation to which he has gone for the wedding and extends another invitation. 5—They insulted the king by ignoring his invitation, made light of it and went their way. 6-7—It was bad enough to ignore the invitation. It was worse when they told the servants who carried the message and mistreated them and killed them. If they cared not for the wedding of the king, they should not have taken their spite out on his messengers and servants. The king avenged the death of his servants. His armies were sent forth to destroy the murderers and the city. 8—By their rejecting the invitation they had proven themselves unworthy. 9—The second group of servants were ordered into the highways to invite everybody who passed to attend the wedding. 10—A multitude accepted the invitation. 11-12—It was customary at Oriental weddings for the good man of the house to furnish a gown for those in attendance. At this wedding one man was without a gown. When accosted by the king, he was speechless; that is, he had no defense to make. He was guilty. He had ignored that which had been offered him. He doubtless was contrary and wanted his own way; one of those fellows who thinks the whole world moves around him and calls himself independent. 13—Short work was made of him. He was bound hand and foot and cast into outer darkness. The separation was such as Jesus describes, which is a place of weeping and ashing of teeth. 14—Still the number chosen is so small, when compared with the number that are called, that they are called a few. The chosen are those who choose to be chosen.

Comments on the Lesson

The king is God, the Father. The Son is Christ. The servants sent are all those who brought the message of God before the resurrection of Jesus. Their city was totally destroyed A. D. 70 by Titus. The highway people were the Gentiles; the other servants were the apostles and others sent out after Pentecost. The wedding garment is the Christian's character. The man who gets into the kingdom on earth, who is unfitted for it, who will not put on the garment of a good Christian character, some time be made ashamed, and like this man will be speechless and unable to defend himself and will be cast out from the presence of God, and that shall be like the weeping and gnashing of teeth. Every man is invited to the wedding. God is no respecter of persons. The call is universal, as is also the command, "Go call men to the wedding." The reason the first crowd was not there was because it would not. Many men are not in the kingdom because they will not be. Christ has come and lived a life and died for the world and gone back to the Father. His Gospel is here and is being preached. In every Bible on every stand there is an invitation. Some are invited to the farm, others to their merchandise, some to pleasure, some to ignorance, but many are so engrossed in other affairs of the world that they never think that the invitations and commands of the Book apply to them. What we need today is preaching that will appeal to the conscience of men and make them think. A man may succeed in keeping his name on the church roll and fool the people and cause them to think he is a Christian, but the last day when the King comes in, at a glance He will know who wears the garment of Christian character and who does not. At the heavenly wedding, every man could have had a garment had he been disposed to wear it. The same is true of the kingdom of God. Every man can have character if he wants it. He must appropriate divine blessings, grow daily in grace and develop a character while becoming a Christian. Jesus believed what He said relative to the separation. Withstanding the arguments of some of the modern scholarship, the thing ascribed by the Great Teacher will come to pass. Man knows not what an hour may bring forth. There is only one safe road to pursue—to become a child of God, walk in fellowship with the Christ, be genuine, do His will and be saved.

Questions for Class Use

Why did Jesus give this parable? Who is the king? The Son? Who were the servants? Who were the first people invited? Who are the people of the highway? What is the wedding garment? What will be done with those not wearing the wedding garment? Who are called? Who are chosen?

LESSON 3—SEPTEMBER 18.

"THREE QUESTIONS."—MATT. 22:15-22; 34-46.

Read also March 12:13-17; Luke 20:20-26.

Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might ensnare him in his talk. 16 And they send to him their disciples, with the Herodians, saying, Teacher, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, and carest not for any one: for thou regardest not the person of men. 17 Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Cæsar, or not? 18 But they perceived their wickedness, and said, Why make ye trial of me, ye hypocrites? 19 Show me the tribute money. And they brought unto him a denarius. 20 And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? 21 They say unto him, Cæsar's. Then saith he unto them, Render therefore unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's; and unto God the things that are God's. 22 And when they heard it, they marvelled, and left him, and went away.

But the Pharisees, when they heard that he had put the Sadducees to silence, gathered themselves together. 35 And one of them, a lawyer, asked him a question, trying him: 36 Teacher, which is the great commandment in the law? 37 And he said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. 38 This is the great and first commandment. 39 And a second like unto it is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. 40 On these two commandments the whole law hangeth, and the prophets.

41 Now while the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them a question, 42 saying, What think ye of the Christ? whose son is he? They say unto him, The son of David. 43 He saith unto them, How then doth David in the Spirit call him Lord, saying

44 The Lord said unto my Lord,

Sit thou on my right hand,

Till I put thine enemies underneath thy feet?
 45 If David then calleth him Lord, how is he his son? 46 And no one was able to answer him a word, neither durst any from that day forth ask him any more questions.

Time. Tuesday, April 4, A. D. 30. Place. Temple Court in Jerusalem.

Introduction. All the intellectual power, trickery and duplicity of the Pharisees and Sadducees were brought into the warfare against Jesus during the week preceding His death. In the lesson of today we have three great questions, two in which the people tried to trap Him and one asked by the Master of the people.

Explanatory. 15—The Pharisees were the separatists and the aristocrats of the day. They believed in the resurrection. The Sadducees did not. In the parables we have just studied, Jesus has shown the Pharisees up in their true light. They were angry and took counsel "how they might entangle him in his talk." 16-17—The teachers did not go, but sent their pupils to entangle Jesus. "The Herodians were the political partisans of Herod." They went along to report to Herod and Pontius Pilate the utterances that might be deemed disloyal to them. They were hypocritical. Jesus knew it and told them so. They told the truth relative to Him, when they said He was true and was no respecter of persons: While this was true, they didn't believe it, hence they lied. Their question was intended to trap Jesus. Should He have said it was not lawful to give tribute to Cæsar, the Herodians would report that He was disloyal. If He said it was, this would be displeasing to the Pharisees and the people. They doubtless had in mind Deut. 17:14-15. 18—A hypocrite is one who acts in a way which he is not. It comes from the word hypocrite, a stage-actor. 19—Jesus called for the tribute money, denarius, the price of a day's labor. In calling for the coin He riveted their attention. 20-22—Jesus had told them that He saw their design. He answered them, "Render unto Cæsar the obligations that are due him, and to God the obligations due Him." They marveled and left Him and went their way. They had nothing to report to Cæsar, neither could the Pharisees find fault with His answer. 23-34—The intervening verses of this chapter give us another question asked by the Sadducees relative to a woman that married seven men. They desired to know whose wife she would be in heaven. Jesus answered, saying that "In heaven they are neither married nor given in marriage, but are as the angels." The Sadducees were disbelievers in the resurrection. The question was intended to baffle Jesus. He put them to rout. This was pleasing to the Pharisees, who believed in the resurrection. They gathered together and discussed the situation, then they came again with their perplexing questions. 35-36—A scribe posted in the law of Moses tempted Him, saying, "Which is the greatest commandment in the law?" The Pharisees had often discussed this with the thought that one commandment was more important than another. No matter which Jesus would have given, had He been specific they would have contradicted Him. 37-38—The commandment which Jesus gave was not taken from the decalogue, but from Deut. 6:5. It is great because in observing it, one must observe all commands; it covers all. 39—And the second is just as great, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This can be found in Lev. 19:18. 40—These two commandments support the law and the prophets. They embody the spirit that runs through both. 41-42—They have been asking questions of Jesus, He now asks them a question. All they have been able to do has been to marvel at His answers. He asked them a direct question—"What think ye of Christ—whose Son is He?" They replied, "The Son of David." 43-45—If He is the Son of David and you think He is not divine, how then could David when moved by inspiration call him Lord? saying, etc., c. 90 Psalms. 1. He means that David calls Him Lord, then how can He be the Son of David unless He be both divine and human? 46—This silenced them and ended their questioning.

Comments on the Lesson

It is right to ask questions to gain knowledge. The Pharisees and Herodians came not to learn, but to entrap. They had the appearance of inquirers, but they were hypocrites, laying a plot to catch an innocent man. The teaching of Jesus is that the Christian religion is a matter of character and if men possess Christian character they are bound to manifest it in their relations with their fellows. A Christian is to be a law-abiding citizen. When the nation becomes as thoroughly Christian as it should be, there will be no danger then of moral laws and civil laws interfering. In talking to the lawyer, Jesus teaches that religion should extend both Godward and manward. We are to love the Lord with the heart and soul and mind, that means with every power we have. To love our neighbor is to render just dues unto our neighbor. He who follows this teaching will live on the highest possible plane. He will be thoroughly Christian, because he will be obedient to every command of God. He will have friends, because he will be friendly. He will be loved by many people, because he will give everybody a square deal. He will be despised by some, because he will stand for and that which is right. It is not all of religion to sing songs, offer prayers and listen to sermons. Neither has one done his whole duty who does nothing but give his time and his money to benevolent work. Both are only parts of the whole. A true follower is one who loves God and worships Him, who then follows his worship with service. Religion is a true binding back to God and man. "What think ye of Christ?" is one of the greatest questions ever asked by the Teacher. His divinity is one of the established facts in history. If He is divine, and He is, His words are true. His teaching is that man has sinned and needs to be saved. He is the Savior and makes possible for all men to come. If we do His will we shall be heirs of God. If we do not do His will we shall be condemned. These are not idle words. They are true. The matter of our duty towards Him is not a matter with which we can play fast and loose. Will you not accept Him as the Christ, the Son of God, today, and let Him be your Savior? This, and this only, can guarantee you life eternal.

Questions for Class Use

- I. Tribute to Caesar. Who were the Pharisees? Who were the Herodians? Why did they tempt Jesus? How did they tempt Him? What would have been the result had he commanded them to not pay tribute to Caesar? What was His answer? How can we pay tribute to government? What place should religion take in politics?
- II. The Lawyer's Question. Who were the Sadducees? What was the lawyer's question? What was Jesus' answer? How can we demonstrate to the world that we love God? What is meant by loving one's neighbor?
- III. The Question of Jesus. What did Jesus ask? What was their answer? What had David said regarding His divinity? If He was the Son of David and David acknowledged He was the Lord, therefore what must be the conclusion relative to His divinity and His humanity?

LESSON 4—SEPTEMBER 25.

"TEMPERANCE LESSON."—GAL. 5:15-26.

But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed by another.

But I say, Walk by the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh. 17 For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; for these are contrary the one to the other; that ye may not do the things that ye would. 18 But if ye are led by the Spirit, ye are not under the law. 19 Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: Fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, 20 Idolatry, sorcery, enmities, strife, jealousies, wraths, factions, divisions, parties, 21 envyings, drunkenness, revellings, and such like; of which I forewarn you, even as I did forewarn you, that they who practice such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. 22 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, 23 meekness, self-control; against such there is no law. 24 And they that are of Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with the passions and the lusts thereof.

25 If we live by the Spirit, by the Spirit let us also walk. 26 Let us not become vain-glorious, provoking one another, envying one another.

Introduction. This letter was written by the Apostle Paul to the church at Galatia. The text of the lesson gives us an insight into the life of the people to whom Paul was writing. A church was planted in the midst of an evil, drunken and adulterous generation. Paul talks plainly as to the duty of Christian living. The lesson is applicable to every Christian.

Explanatory. 15-18—In the fourteenth verse, Paul says the law is fulfilled in this, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." He now compares the actions of some to those of wild beasts, who bite and devour one another. The result is, all are consumed. We bite and devour not only with the teeth, but with the tongue. More men are killed by the tongue than by bullets. The spirit of Christ and that of the devil cannot occupy the same body at the same time. When we walk by the Spirit, we give the lust of the flesh no chance. There is constant warfare between the Spirit and the flesh, or between holy and evil desires. Each man can decide which he will serve and this decides what he will be. The freest man in the world is he who is led by the Spirit. He knows the truth and it makes him free. We are led by the Spirit when we follow the inspired Scripture. "There is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit; and as many as are led by the spirit of God, they are the sons of God." 19-21—Paul here enumerates the works of the flesh: Fornication, one of the most prevalent sins of Paul's day and ours. Uncleanness, immorality. Lasciviousness, impurity without shame. Idolatry, worship of false deities, accompanied frequently by the grossest sensuality. Sorcery. In Paul's day it meant the use of curious arts, associated with demonology and witchcraft. All the other things named in the twentieth verse are the opposite of love, and grow out of hatred and enmity. Drunkenness was as common then as now. Everybody knows its meanings. Revellings, night prowlings, often the result of drunkenness. This is directly opposite to the spirit of a Christian and he who practices these, not necessarily all, but any one, shall not inherit the kingdom of God. 22-23—In this lesson, Paul presents two men, the spiritual and the carnal. He now describes the spiritual man. His life is one of love, both to God and man. And of joy, which is not dependent upon environment but springs from the heart and flows outward. Peace comes when the conscience is at ease. Long suffering, to be able to withstand mistreatment and insults and to be kindly. To be kind is to be gentle, respectful and courteous. Goodness is to be full of good. Faithfulness, to hold on and hold to the thing which one believes. Meekness is not puffed up, humble and kind. Self-control, to have full mastery of self. 24—Christ was crucified on the cross, so they who are His crucify the evil that is in them. Have self-mastery and self-control and walk with Christ. 25-26—If your life is controlled by the Spirit, it will be manifest to the world. If one is Spirit-led, be not troubled over it. Be not vain in the progress you make and thus provoke others who have not made rapid progress in spiritual matters. Be not envious of those who have.

Comments on the Lesson

There are some things in which we can be temperate, others total abstinence. When we speak of temperance we commonly associate it with drinking alcoholic liquors. Total abstinence is a better term. It is the temperate drinker who is the most dangerous of all drinkers, for it is by his example he makes those surrounding him believe it is not so bad after all. They follow him and are soon over the precipice. "Taste not, touch not, handle not" is the rule to follow. Christ has spoken definitely against drunkenness. "The drunkard shall not inherit the kingdom of heaven." Total abstinence in itself should be sufficient. Neither does he inherit the best of this earth. The greatest product of a nation is its manhood.

"Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

The tariff, currency and trusts are all important problems to be solved, but that which overshadows all is the liquor problem. Drunkenness robs a man of his reason. It is the Delilah that robs the strongest Sampson of his power. It turns men from office and the factory as beggars onto the streets. It takes from a man's back a tailor-made suit and places in its stead filthy rags. Instead of that comfortable bed in his home, he has the pavement and the gutter for a couch. Self-respect, self-control and decency depart. Drunkenness chases the roses of health from the drunkard's face and paints there the lily of death. It takes the children's bread and gives them a stone. It changes home into a hell. It corrupts politics. It fills jails, penitentiaries, almshouses and crowds the walls of our lunatic asylums; builds no churches, no schools, no hospitals. For every dollar it places in the public treasury, it reaches into the pockets of its victims and takes out five. It makes a man's life a hell in this world and guarantees him hell eternally in the next. The American saloon is the most notorious American thing on the American continent. It is the next beast that must be laid low. If every Christian in America would do his duty today, every saloon of the nation could be closed in twelve months. It needs courage, Christian courage, backbone and greater love for righteousness than for dollars. This is the work of God, and "the operation of God depends upon the co-operation of man." God hasten the day when the cruel monster will be slain and the people will be free.

Question for Class Use

Who wrote the letter to the Galatians? Judging by this lesson, what must have been the condition in the church at Galatia? What is meant by "Walking by the Spirit?" What works of the flesh did Paul mention in this lesson? What are the fruits of the Spirit? How can we crucify the flesh? What is the attitude of the Scripture towards drunkenness? What can the church do today towards suppressing liquor traffic? What are the signs of the times relative to drink? Who sets the example before a community—the drunkard or the tippler?

LESSON 1—OCTOBER 2.

"THE WISE AND FOOLISH VIRGINS."—MATT. 25:1-13.

1 Then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, who took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom. 2 And five of them were foolish, five were wise. 3 For the foolish, when they took their lamps, took no oil with them: 4 but the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps. 5 Now while the bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept. 6 But at midnight there is a cry, 'Hold, the bridegroom! Come ye forth to meet him.' 7 Then all those virgins came, and trimmed their lamps. 8 And the foolish said unto the wise, 'Give us of your oil for our lamps are going out.' 9 But the wise answered, saying, 'Peradventure there will not be enough for us and you: go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves. 10 And while they went away to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage feast: and the door was shut. 11 Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, 'Lord, Lord, open to us.' 12 But he answered and said, 'Verily I say unto you, I know you not.' 13 Watch therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour.

Time. The last week of Jesus' ministry. Place. Jerusalem.

Introduction. Near the close of Jesus' life He gave many parables to illustrate the nature of the kingdom of heaven. In this parable He lays emphasis upon the preparation necessary for one to be enabled to enter.

Explanatory. 1—In the days of Jesus when a Jew was married he received his bride from the house of his father-in-law, then journeyed to his own house, at which he had left a company of virgins, who with lanterns and torches were to meet him upon his arrival and accompany him into the house. The people to whom Jesus was speaking were familiar with the incident. 2-4—The five who took plenty of oil were wise; those who took insufficient were foolish. The wise not only took oil in the lamps, but took it in vessels. The foolish simply had a little oil in the lamps. 5—The bridegroom tarried longer than they had expected, and while waiting, being in the night, they slept and slept. 6—At midnight the watchman announced the bridegroom was coming. 7—All the virgins, the wise and the foolish, arose together to meet him. They trimmed their lamps and started. 8—The foolish discovered that their lamps were going out and called for help from the wise. 9—The wise could not sell; if they did, they would be left in darkness. 10—The critical hour was here, the time to march with the bridegroom. The door was soon to be opened and closed. They could enter now or never. To enter, one must have oil to make a light to accompany the party. Without oil there was no entrance. "The bridegroom came; they that were ready went in with them to the marriage; and the door was shut." The saddest verse of the parable is this one, "And the door was shut." When that door was shut, all means of access were barred. 11-12—Preparation now made, the five foolish come rapping at the door and saying, "Lord, Lord, open to us." But He said, "I know you not." That means, I have no favorable knowledge of you. 13—The moral of the parable is, watch therefore; that is, have on hand plenty of oil, have your lamp trimmed and filled, "for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh."

Comments on the Lesson

Both the wise and foolish virgins had an opportunity to go with the bridegroom. One made a complete preparation, the other a partial. If the bridegroom had come early, they all would have entered. The five were foolish in that they made but a partial preparation. It was an important event. They should have left nothing undone that would enable them to have admission to the bridegroom's house. The lesson teaches us that we should not see how little we can do to get into the kingdom, not to be fearful that we will do too much, but to be fearful that we do not do enough. Church attendance is just occasionally, when we feel like it, coming only when it suits us, calling only where we like to call, among those who are congenial; this is the work of the foolish virgin. The wise virgin makes sure that she has done all things as the bridegroom desires and in the way he desires. The wise and the foolish represent the watchful and the unwatchful. It is not a flaring light that is needed, but a steady light that shines through the night. "Some people have religious emotion enough to make a lamp glow with a flame as the appearance of sincerity, but it may only be a fitful flame of the natural feeling." This lesson teaches that grace cannot be transferred. The saints in Christendom cannot save a man unless he helps to save himself. The way to die right is to live right.

Questions for Class Use

What was the wedding custom of the Jews in Jesus' day? In what were five of the virgins foolish? What marked the wisdom of five? What is the inference of the statement that the bridegroom tarried? Was there anything wrong in slumbering and sleeping while they tarried? Why did the five lamps go out? Why didn't the five divide their oil? Did they commit a sin in not dividing? What is the practical application? Why was the door not opened when they knocked? What is the application? Is grace transferable? When is the time to get ready for death? About which should we be most concerned—how to live or how to die?

ELMER L. KELLAND, Public Accountant

Telephone 503 John

He's a Brotherhood Man.

95 William St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

TOWER'S AROMATIC ANTISEPTIC ASEPTIC TOOTH PICKS

Prolong life and save dentist's bills. If your dealer does not handle them, send us his name and fifteen cents and we will send you a box of three hundred picks.

CUTTER-TOWER CO.

184 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

PATENTS

COPYRIGHTS

DESIGNS

TRADE MARKS

JERRY A. MATHEWS

Solicitor of American and Foreign Patents and Counselor in Patent Causes

COLORADO BLDG.

WASHINGTON BLDG.

Bethany College

Seventieth Year opens September 21st. Located fifty miles south of Pittsburgh, and fourteen miles north of Wheeling, among the beautiful hills of the Pan Handle of West Virginia. Connected by rail with Wheeling, Wellsburg, Steubenville, and other Ohio valleys.

Classical, Scientific, Philosophical, Ministerial, Literary, Musical, Oratorical, Art, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Normal and Preparatory courses offered. Comfortable dormitories for young men and young women. Ideal surroundings. Graduates of Normal Department receive first grade teachers' certificates for West Virginia. Board, room and tuition the nine months as low as $125 00 per year. Special supervision given to young boys and girls. Address PRESIDENT THOMAS E. CRAMBLET, Bethany, W. Virginia, for catalogue.

K. C. S. RY.

KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN RAILWAY CO.

For Health and Recuperation, visit

SULPHUR SPRINGS, ARKANSAS

All Year Health Resort

THE KIHLEBERG HOTEL AND BATH HOUSE NOW OPEN

Illustrated Folders Sent Free

S. G. WARNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Kansas City, Mo.

HOW TO ORGANIZE A LOCAL BROTHERHOOD

WHAT YOU NEED

A.—Tract "How to Organize"		Each	$.05
B.—Model Constitution		Each	.05
C.—Covenant Cards (Serve as application blanks)		Each	.005
D.—Brotherhood Circular Literature			.00
E.—Centennial Issue "Christian Men"			.05
Cost of Mailing			.03
			.18½

ALL furnished for 15 cents in stamps, or two complete sets for 25 cents. You will need several of these for your workers

CHRISTIAN MEN

of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

LONG, President - - - - - Kansas City, Mo. T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.
HILTON, Vice-President - - - - - St. Joseph, Mo. F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

HAPMAN - - - - - Fullerton, Cal. J. H. ALLEN - - - - - St. Louis, Mo.
E. F. RAND - - - - - Buffalo, N. Y. BURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.
TOCKTON - - - - - St. Louis, Mo. ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - - Liberty, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - - Seattle, Wash.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

MACFARLANE, General Secy. E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy. J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Description—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum
in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

4

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, OCTOBER, 1910

Number 4

Peter the Fourth

BY EDWARD B. BAGBY.

Who is that good-looking boy dressed in store clothes at the head of the steps?" It was in the late seventies at old Smyrna Church, King and County, Virginia, that I asked the question. "Peter Ainslie, of Dunns- was the answer. I looked again at the lad, little dreaming he was to be my college mate, my comrade in service, my brother beloved in the Lord. He was in the upper classes of Transylvania University, Lexington, when he entered. My recollection is that he did not distinguish himself in any way at school except in the impress of his rare spirit upon professors and students. He was not conspicuous as scholar or orator, but was considered the favorite of President Graham, who teased him unmercifully and gave him tens of dollars which he did not deserve them.

His first public service was as state lecturer for the C. W. B. M. in Virginia. He prepared an address on the "Widow's Mite," and, like the woman of his parable, gave in it all that he had. He delivered his address one Sunday morning in Gordonsville and was pleased at the attentive interest of an old gentleman in the front pew. When he entered the pulpit at Somerset in the afternoon he was considerably disconcerted by the presence of this same old man; and when he found him in his audience again at Rochelle at night, he exclaimed, "Suffering humanity, what shall I do?" What he did do was to make a complete failure. When the service was over he learned that his persistent attendant was stone deaf and, though he had not heard the human voice for fifty years, had rarely in that time missed a service, saying, "I can at least bow the people in and bow them out." Ever since, when Ainslie has anyone in his audience whose presence embarrasses him he imagines him stone deaf.

In 1889, Peter became my successor as pastor in Newport News, Va. He had a useful ministry there and showed some of the eccentricities of genius. Like the Peter of the Gospels, young Peter did not at that time spend much thought on "outward adorning" or "putting on of apparel." The mainstay of the church was Dr. Robt. H. Power, the father of F. D., a typical old Virginia gentleman, always immaculate in his attire. Dr. Power offered to pilot the young preacher on his round of pastoral calls. When Ainslie appeared in a short seer-sucker coat and plug hat, Dr. Power was horrified, and said: "Go home, Brother Ainslie, and put on some proper clothes and I will go calling with you."

I had been in Washington a year when Peter came to the Calhoun Street Church, Baltimore. Some troubles arose in the congregation and the new minister thought he would be obliged to leave. He finally agreed to stay provided all officers in the church would resign and he given complete control. They did so and he became elder, deacon, superintendent of the Sunday-school, president of the Christian Endeavor Society, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, etc. It was not scriptural, but it worked. But Ainslie never cared much about reproducing the apostolic organization as he did about developing the apostolic spirit and power. He was distressed that his people did so little for benevolences. "On the whole Atlantic coast," he would repeat, "not a charitable institution, and we claim to be apostolic!" In 1895 he began the agitation for a Home for Working Girls. Some of us tried to laugh him out of it. One minister said: "Peter, you had better make a home for one good girl than provide for many." His first contribution was 11 cents from a poor girl. The home has been running now for ten years, 350 girls have been sheltered and a total of $20,000 has been expended.

Ainslie's next project was an orphanage. With resources exhausted in the establishment of the home, where was he to find money for buildings, food, nurses, teachers, etc.? Then the thought came, why not find his buildings in childless homes? He knew that if he could lay a baby "in the gracious hollow of a human shoulder where God meant some tired heart for comfort should be laid," the rest would be easy.

Temporary quarters he found for the orphans in the homes of his parish and the first convenient day Brother Ainslie takes or sends them to their permanent homes. Homes have thus been found for forty orphans.

For over one hundred years a Peter Ainslie has preached the ancient and apostolic gospel in Virginia and Maryland, for the subject of our sketch is Peter the Fourth. The first Peter was sent by the Haldanes from Scotland a missionary to this country and suffered many hardships and persecutions and was drowned trying to reach an appointment. The biographers of our Peter put great stress upon his Scotch ancestry. Peter himself is disposed to take this somewhat seriously, and of the exclusive St. Andrew's Club, made up of Baltimore's blue-blooded Scotchmen, he has been chaplain for many years. But the father, Peter the Second, was a man of rugged temper and his sermons bristled with fiery invective and was as different from our mild-mannered Peter as man could be. Peter takes after his mother and the blood that is manifest in him came through this gracious lady from good old Virginia Cavalier stock. It is on his mother's side that he is kin to that other princely Virginia preacher, E. L. Powell, of Louisville. Had you know the mother as I did you would have no trouble in accounting for the son. Add a word to the title of his book "God and Me," and read it "God, My Mother and Me," and you have the story of his life. Very beautifully did he acknowledge his debt to his mother. For years before her death she was a paralytic. He would often take her in his arms and bear her tenderly to the table. When she became bedfast no hands were allowed to take her meals but his own.

The best work of Ainslie's life has been in connection with the Christian Temple. As a venture of faith this enterprise is without a parallel among us. The scheme involved an expenditure of $60,000, and he hadn't a dollar to begin with; he laid plans for a congregation of a thousand and did not know that he would have one; he resigned his church and offered to work for two years without compensation. One morning he learned that a large plot of ground in a growing section of Baltimore that had been held for park purposes had been thrown on the market. He telegraphed to George Muckley, and faster than a express rode into the Cherokee strip, the money came from the Church Extension Board and the choice lot was secured. January 15, 1905, a chapel on the east end of the lot was opened and 237 members from the Calhoun street congregation decided to share the experiences of their venturesome preacher. The first year in the new location they increased his salary from $1,200 to $1,500. He has always worked for a mere pittance of what he might have received. One church called him, offering to double his salary, another offering to allow him to make the salary himself. In both cases he replied: "If you have so much money send me some to help in my work in Baltimore." Such splendid abandonment is the part of the preacher has affected his people. The walls of the Temple were built because the people had a mind to give and a mind to work.

It was about this time the congregation came near missing the joy of sacrificing for their institution. Ainslie had called on Mr. N., a rich banker, for a contribution for his Working Girls' Home. He gave him some money and said: "Mr. A., why don't you ask me for something for your own work?" He told me of his offer and said: "When I go to him I am going to ask for $60,000 to build a new church." One morning as he awakened he said: "Today I am going to call on Mr. N. with my request." When he picked up the morning paper he read the headlines announcing the sudden death of the banker. His disappointment was not lessened when he learned that Mr. N. had said to his secretary, "I shall give Mr. Ainslie whatever he asks me for up to $60,000." Other funds were found, the main auditorium was built in 1907 and the debt is practically provided for. The congregation numbers 800 and the Sunday-school is about the largest and liveliest in the city. Nineteen years ago Ainslie came to serve a congregation of sixty, meeting in a building worth $10,000. Now he directs the Temple and four branch congregations aggregating 1,200 in membership with property valued at $120,000.

I knew of an old lady who used to say, "While I am resting I will get the coffee." In his periods of leisure Brother Ainslie conducts a Bible Seminary. He is dean and faculty. While short of faculty and funds, the school is successful in results. For seven years the classes have averaged 100. Two preachers and missionaries and some twenty students now in our colleges have been trained in the Seminary.

The people of Baltimore attest their liking for our brother's preaching by crowding the Temple at all seasons of the year and during all sorts of weather. In spite of a mysticism that at times obscures his meaning and a premillennialism that savors of pessimism, Ainslie is a great preacher. But he is at his best when he prays. When he has had a searching of his own heart and gathers up the needs of his people and tells all to his heavenly Father, you feel that this is indeed the Temple where rests the Shekinah and the veil of the holy of holies has been taken away.

Brother Ainslie has had some unique experiences to enrich his spiritual life. At one time he was threatened with a nervous breakdown from overwork and a sore spot developed in his throat that did not yield to treatment. He consulted Dr. Wilson, a skillful neurologist, who was also a devoted Presbyterian elder. Dr. Wilson said: "Mr. Ainslie, I want you to come, not into my office, but into my parlor, for I wish to talk to you, not as a patient, but as a brother. Tell me all about your life and work." Mr. Ainslie opened to him his heart. "Now," said the doctor, "you must let the Lord help you bear your burdens; when you go to sleep at night, let your last thought be of God; when you awaken in the morning, let your first thought be of God. Cast your cares upon Him. Learn to rest in the Lord." Following that advice, Peter learned to realize the minister's prayer of Washington Gladden:

"Oh, Master, let me walk with Thee
In lowly paths of service free;
Tell me Thy secret, help me bear
The pain of toil, the fret of care."

In this life of fellowship with God, Brother Ainslie has found strength for his arduous labors, patience for life's trials and humility in the honors that have crowded his later years. This life of devotion has found exquisite expression in his little book "God and Me," now in the fourth edition, and the sales are increasing. It has been even more cordially received in England and Australia than in this country, and the author has received appreciations from such men as Alex. Whyte, of Edinburg; Geo. H. Morrison, of Glasgow, and Webb-Becker, of London.

The Evening Prayer from this booklet may disclose all that I have written:

"My Father, the day is done, with its toils, vexations, privileges and sorrows, and weary in soul and body, I come to Thy holy throne of peace and prayer."

ou hast shared my cares, felt each pang that cut my heart and stood for me every strife. Forget my wrongs, and let this day's sunset be the seal to my forgiveness of every one who has wronged me. Out of Thy grace, give me the ret of never being discouraged; teach me how to strengthen all my weaknesses, and make me to see that my sacrifice for another and the control of self belong to my ministry of love. Cover my bed with Thy unseen glory, and let me fall to sleep with a consciousness that Thine eyes are over me and that my room is aglow with Thy presence. Then I shall rest, and out of my repose I shall be ready to serve Thee better in the morning of the morrow. Amen."

Priest or Prophet

By J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary

As there have always been, so are there today two classes of leaders in the Church of God, the priests and the prophets. The priests are the crys- talizers who are satisfied with past achievement and spend their energy in holding positions fought for in days gone by. They live apart from the men and are necessarily out of sympathy with the people—God's people.

The crying need of today is the prophet—the man who sees human conditions through and beyond his theological data; the man who can relate what he knows about God—to what the heart of the seething masses most need; the man who lives among men, who knows men's lives, who loves men, who has a message for men and who dares to tell that message though he die for doing of it, who lives on high ground and sees far and clearly—this is the cry of the people to the man of God. Great souls are needed who are living en rapport with the purposes of God. These men will batter down the obstacles, solve problems, and construct timely methods. The priest may come after and crystalize the prophet's vision and his methods, but never should the priest and his crystalizations of the past become an obstruction to the leadership of the present.

This has ever been the church's danger. It was the priesthood that crucified the Christ, that stoned Stephen, that followed Paul over Asia Minor and relentlessly urged his beheading at Rome. Only as she has heard the prophet's message has the church adapted herself to the needs of the people.

There was a religious organization when Jesus came. As priest he did not seek to destroy it, but as prophet he sought to adapt it. Paul believed in proper ritualism. He taught it and submitted to it. But as prophet he sought to adapt the new born church to Western civilization. This was the object of Savonarola's fight. Likewise Wycliffe's, John Husse's and Luther's, Wesley's, Alexander Campbell's, et al. They were prophets—seers of visions who berate the church, not because of ritualism but because she has not proclaimed messages—solvers of the people's problems. The masses adapted herself to the times. Adaptation, not conformation, is the problem of today.

Annual Meeting of the Executive Council

Call for Meeting

A meeting of the National Advisory Council of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, consisting of two delegates from each State where State organizations exist, and the Corresponding Secretary from States where no State organization has been established, is called for 12:30 noon, Monday, October 17, 1910, at the House of Representatives Hall, Topeka, Kansas, for the purpose of nominating a President, one Vice-President, a Recording Secretary, a Treasurer, and seven directors, to serve for the ensuing year, and for the consideration of such other matters as may properly come before such meeting.

Men from each State should get together prior to the meeting and decide on delegates to represent their State in the National Advisory Council.

Yours faithfully,

Approved,

General Secretary.

President.

Office of the General Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, Kansas City, Missouri, U. S. A., September 25, 1910.

Annual Convention of the General Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ

Topeka, Kansas, U. S. A., Monday, October 17, 1910

The Second Annual Convention of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ will be held in the Auditorium, Topeka, Kansas, Monday, October 17, 1910, beginning at 9:00 a. m.

Special Features

Reports from Local Brotherhoods.

Remarks by State Presidents.

Introduction of eminent business men among the Disciples.

Four stirring addresses:

1. Hon. W. R. Stubbs, Governor of Kansas.
2. Bishop William Bell, of California.
3. Mr. Raymond Robbins, of Chicago.

4. Another eminent speaker of world-wide reputation, whom we are not at this moment able to announce.

This will be, without a particle of doubt, another enthusiastic and inspiring gathering, duplicating, and in many ways exceeding, the Luna Park Convention at Pittsburgh, where five thousand men were in attendance. Detailed program will be found on the following pages.

Railroad Rates to Topeka

October 11-17, 1910

International Convention, Disciples of Christ

All Roads Lead to Topeka. The following are the rates of fare from principal points in the United States. Ask your local railroad agent for particulars.

Round Trip Rates—Approximate Only.

Rate	From	Rate	From	Rate
St. Louis $67.20	Galesburg 13.75	San Antonio 29.75
New York. 63.50	Des Moines. 11.30	Dallas 19.80
Indianapolis. 59.60	Davenport 17.10	Lampasas 25.50
Buffalo. 47.37	Minneapolis 21.70	Paris, Tex. 19.80
Philadelphia.	Fargo	Sherman 17.70
Pittsburgh. 41.10	Duluth 27.70	Weatherford 21.10
Folk. 58.00	Omaha 8.20	El Paso 35.20
St. Paul. 57.80	Lincoln 8.50	Oklahoma City... 12.30
Baltimore.	St. Joseph. 3.30	Albuquerque 34.10
Chicago. 33.50	Atchison 2.05	Denver. 22.25
Portland 36.35	Kansas City. 2.70	Pueblo. 22.25
Indianapolis. 31.55	Springfield, Mo.. 9.60	Ogden. 55.00
Cincinnati. 30.80	St. Louis. 13.90	Salt Lake. 55.00
Washington 29.50	Memphis 22.00	Phoenix 55.00
Baltimore 27.70	Birmingham	Riverside, Cal. . . . 61.00
Chicago 21.00	Mobile	Los Angeles. 60.00
St. Louis 33.50	New Orleans	Santa Barbara... 60.00
Indianapolis 44.40	Shreveport 22.45	San Francisco. . . . 60.00
Peoria 16.20	Little Rock. 19.80	Sacramento 60.00
Springfield, Ill. . . . 13.40	Beaumont 29.80	Spokane. 60.00
Peoria 13.40	Houston 29.40	Portland. 60.00
Springfield, Ill. . . . 17.00	Galveston 31.40	Seattle. 60.00

The Central Passenger Association includes practically all the railroads operating in the territory west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh and north of the Ohio River to and including Peoria, Chicago and St. Louis, embodying the rates of Western New York, Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH CO.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 8, 1910.

E. E. Elliott,

Kansas City, Mo.

Central Passenger Association grants two cent fare in each direction within that territory in connection with other passenger associations, between October 8th and 20th.

I. N. McCash.

West of the Central Passenger Association is the territory of the Western Passenger Association, which has made the same reduction in their regular rates, where such rate is any more than two cents per mile.

Passengers from the North and Northeast might take advantage of regular homeseekers' rate to the Southwest by buying to Kansas City or Topeka, while passengers from the West, Southwest and Northwest can take advantage of the all year tourist rate to Kansas City, permitting stopover at Topeka. Be sure to have your ticket endorsed "Good for Stop-off," and show the conductor that you want to stop at Topeka. You can continue your journey to Kansas City after the Convention is over, and visit what is one of the best ways to be one of the largest cities in the world, and which is already one of the best.

The dates of sale on the Pacific Coast are October 7th and 8th, return limit October 31st. From territory adjacent to Kansas City dates of sale range from October 7th to 13th, final return limit October 20th. These details must have to be arranged with your railroad agent.

At the time of writing no special rate has been authorized by the Northern Pacific Coast lines, but we expect to get further and more definite advice regarding rates from Seattle, Portland and Spokane territory in time to include such revised rate in the above list. We have in our office letters from passenger agents of various railroads in substantiation of the above rates. Your ticket should not cost very much more nor very much less than the above quotations, and you can figure out approximately what your ticket should cost by figuring double your local fare from your station to any of the principal points quoted above. From other points where reduced fares have been authorized, delegates and others attending the Convention should purchase one-way tickets in each direction.

Brotherhood Headquarters

The General Brotherhood headquarters will be in the three-million-dollar State House, sharing with our other societies this massive building.

The main offices of the State of Kansas are also located in this three-million-dollar building, the most expensive architectural pile in the State. They are luxuriously furnished, for the wealthy State of Kansas enjoys elegance and has plenty of money to pay for it. There are cannon in the State House grounds, but, while they have seen service, they are not in active commission at this time.

There are three departments in the Capitol which should be visited even if you neglect all others. The first is the

Brotherhood Stereopticon Exhibit

in the House of Representatives' Hall on the third floor, easily accessible by several rapid-fire elevators. Admission to this exhibition will be by ticket only, which may be secured at the booths of any of our societies in the Capitol grounds. A schedule of exhibits and the names of the lecturers will be announced from day to day from the platform, through the newspapers and by such other means as may be necessary and possible. While this exhibition will be under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, all of our various missionary, philanthropic and other agencies, including our great National and State journals will be accorded the privilege of the hall and the service of the stereopticon machine and screen. Delegates can do no better than spend a portion of their hours of recreation at this exhibit.

The second is the Kansas State Board of Agriculture. There you will find displays of everything that in a material way has made Kansas worth the name. Another place of interest that finds lodgment under the Capitol dome is the State Historical Society. Visitors will be agreeably surprised at the character and extent of the collections. Kansas is not old enough to have relics of a forgotten age, or writings whose mystic symbols cannot be read by the people of the present day. What makes the State's collection interesting is the fact that there are many persons alive today who participated in the events that have made the State's history and provided the material for such an exhibit.

The Brotherhood Session at the Topeka Convention

The Second Annual Convention of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ will consume the last day of the Topeka Convention, which is Monday, October 17th. It will begin at 9:00 a. m. with an address by Hon. W. R. Stubbs, Governor of Kansas. Then follows twenty minutes of general reports of Brotherhood work accomplished. The closing address of the morning will be by Mr. Raymond Robbins, of Chicago, a man of National fame, who has one of the most inspiring messages our people have ever heard. Mr. Robbins is the winner on the platform and his address alone will be well worth the trip to Topeka.

At 12:30, noon, occurs the meeting of the National Advisory Court consisting of two delegates from each State, for the purpose of nominating officers and directors of the General Brotherhood to serve for the ensuing year.

At 1:30 will begin the symposium of representative men following program, as carried out at Pittsburgh. Three-minute speeches from the floor will follow, making the afternoon session one of the most interesting of the trio. There will be a thirty-minute address by one of our most eloquent speakers immediately followed by two-minute talks by State officers. The closing address of the afternoon will be by one of the most eminent and popular platform speakers of the age.

In the evening there will be two addresses, the first yet to be announced, and the closing address by Bishop William M. Bell, of the United Brethren Church in charge of the entire Pacific Coast, including Alaska.

Thus will close the Second Annual Gathering of the Men's organization and will measure off another step toward progress in this great movement of awakening the manhood of our churches. It is anticipated that the Auditorium at Topeka, which will seat between four and five thousand, will be taken to its utmost for this Brotherhood gathering. Every church, every Brotherhood, every men's Bible Class, every men's organization should be represented at the Brotherhood Convention. Nothing that an organization can do will assist so tremendously in carrying the burdens of your local church work as to send some of your men to this gathering of enthusiasts at Topeka. Your men will come home filled and thrilled with the opportunities for service in the Kingdom of God in your community.

Speakers for the Brotherhood Convention at Topeka

HON. W. R. STUBBS

BISHOP WM. M. BELL

RAYMOND ROBBINS

Hon. W. R. Stubbs, Governor of Kansas:

We have the assurance of the Governor, also of the manager of his campaign, that every effort will be made to bend his circumstances so as to permit him being present and addressing the Second Annual Convention of the Brotherhood, in the Topeka Auditorium, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., Monday, October 1st.

Bishop William M. Bell, Author and Lecturer:

A native of Indiana, educated in public schools, Normal Schools, and the Classical Seminary. Twelve years a pastor, two years President and Superintendent of the Indiana Sunday-school Association, and Editor of its State paper. Twelve years General Secretary of the Department of Home and Foreign Missions, and Editor of The Searchlight. Member of the Inter-denominational Committee which brought into existence The Young People's Missionary Movement. Received the degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1897. Elected to the bishopric in 1905 and designated as Bishop of the Pacific District with oversight of the work of his church in the States west of the Rocky Mountains, China, Japan and the Philippines. President of The California Sunday-school Association since 1907. Member of the Lesson Committee of the International Sunday-school Association. Author of "The Love of God," and "The Special Message of Our Lord."

Mr. Bell is the Bishop of the United Brethren Church, in charge of the entire Pacific Coast, including Alaska. He was brought up a Disciple and is a power on the platform.

Raymond Robbins:

Critics say of Mr. Robbins: "Raymond Robbins will make good before an audience of men. He will make them think whether they want to or not. He is up against the real problem and he knows how to handle it and how to talk about it. He could address ten thousand men and every one would stay and all hear. He is Graham Taylor, Debbs and Arthur Holmes all combined in one. Too dead in earnest about serious business to waste time making men laugh and too much alive to be dull for a minute. You will not be sorry you heard him. He will be 'a feature.'"

"Mr. Robbins was a lawyer for awhile, then went to Alaska and struck it rich. Having money enough and seeing the tragic need of something more to engage the miners there, he organized the First Congregational Church in that territory, erected a thirty-thousand-dollar house at his own expense and served five years as pastor in an entirely original sort of way. From there he came to Chicago where he and his good wife have been doing settlement work for a number of years. He is one of the leaders of the reform force in Chicago and there is an increasing demand for his addresses. Many who have heard him consider his addresses the greatest religious speeches they have ever heard." The Brotherhood program, morning, afternoon and evening, with these men, Messrs. Stubbs, Robbins and Bell and the one yet to be announced, will give the men such a Convention as they will not soon forget. Other men in the program will be some of the strongest orators among our own people and the program has been arranged and will be carried out with the least possible delay, will well repay every man among us for awaiting his return home after the close of the Brotherhood Session on Monday night. We have endeavored to get for our speakers some of the greatest pulpit orators in the country, who were worth going almost any distance to get. According to our notion, we have secured that class of speakers, and it has taken this effort to get them. We are urging our men who cannot spend a long time at the Convention to come early Saturday in time for the Bible School session, remain until the close of the Brotherhood Session on Monday night, and then the great Communion Service on Sunday afternoon intervening.

Topeka—The Capital City

As a rule the Capital City of a State is the handsomest and best residence city of the commonwealth. Topeka is the Capital of Kansas.

As the bulk of travel to and through the State originates in the East, it is proper that the seat of government should be near the border, that visitors may the sooner feel that they have been officially received. A ride of sixty-six short miles along the shore of the picturesque Kansas river carries you from the Missouri border at Kansas City to the next place of meeting of the Christian Church. From Atchison, also on the Missouri, the distance to Topeka is fifty miles.

When you arrive at the station in Topeka you will be met by the Reception Committee. Carriages, omnibuses and street cars will then take you to any part of the city.

Strangers are first impressed with the width of Topeka's streets and the magnificent shade trees that line the grass-bordered sidewalks of the residential districts.

Seeing Topeka

Sightseeing is easy. Every street has good sidewalks, and those who enjoy walking will find it a pleasure here. But it isn't necessary to walk, because there are more than five hundred automobiles and innumerable carriages, and as there are about fifty-six miles of paved streets, riding is a joy. If you do not care to walk or ride in carriage or automobile, you will find the street car a splendid way to get about. There are over thirty-five miles of electric street railway here. The track is smooth, the cars modern. It is said to be one of the best electric street car systems in the country.

After you have been shown over the city, viewed its handsome residences (some costing more than five figures), taken in the parks and the beauty of the city as a whole, make a tour of the Capitol, go out to Washburn College, stop at Bethany College, and then visit the State Hospital, which is situated northwest of the city in a beautiful location.

A Clean City

Topeka comes as near being a spotless town as possible outside the rears of advertising and pictures. Sometimes there is a little dust, but it is thoroughly bred. What there is is brought in by the thrifty agriculturists living in the surrounding country merely as an object lesson. They do not waste very much of their land in this way, however, as it is worth too much.

The city owns the waterworks, and Kaw river water is on terms of intimacy with every family in the city, and is welcomed by the stranger sojourning within the city's gates. The streets are sprinkled and kept clean. The freedom with which water is used is one of the reasons why the citizens are happy, contented and prosperous.

Reception and Entertainment

The reception and entertainment committee, through its members, will look after you when you reach Topeka. A warm welcome will be accorded to you and you will not be a stranger in a strange land. The Brotherhood spirit will be abroad in Topeka. Hotel and boarding house arrangements should be perfected in advance. A letter addressed to Mr. J. W. Going, Convention Chairman, Topeka, Kan., will be referred to the proper committee and you will be guided and assisted in every way conducive to your comfort and pleasure. A glad hand awaits you at the Brotherhood booth on the main floor of the State Capitol building and to all of the services of the Convention proper and to the Brotherhood Convention in particular you are cordially invited.

Hotels and Boarding Houses

Arrangements have been made to shelter five thousand people during the convention. The great, wide, hospitable homes of hundreds of Topeka citizens will be thrown open and will be your home as well as theirs for the period of your stay. The cafés and restaurants of Topeka will be augmented by such additions as may be necessary and their prices will be reasonable. Those desiring to make reservations should state what accommodations they desire, exactly for what days, and such requests will be accorded careful attention. As soon as you arrive at the station take a conveyance immediately to the State Capitol Building, where the reservation offices will be established. There you will secure your assignment of quarters which will be yours as long as you stay. It is important that you make arrangements in advance and we trust that many of our Brotherhoods, Men's Bible Classes and other men's organizations will send large delegations. Come as early as Saturday morning and stay until the close of the Brotherhood Session on Monday night. It has been arranged to hold all necessary special trains until the close of the Brotherhood meeting and passengers for points within a night's ride of Topeka will still get to their destination early the following day.

A Week of Prayer

The Interbrotherhood Conference, of which our General Secretary is a member, held a meeting at Chicago during the congress of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and voted to urge the Brotherhoods to unite with the International Y. M. C. A. in securing a observance of the week beginning with the second Sunday in November as a season of special prayer for men. The Brotherhood movement in general is now planning for a cordial and vigorous co-operation for this general observance by all of our churches. At the special week for the test observance by Local Brotherhoods themselves, the Interbrotherhood conference selected the week beginning with Sunday, April 9, 1911, and it is not too early to begin to plan now for such adjustments of other engagements on that week as will make the observance general and effective by all Local Brotherhoods and Men's Bible Classes and other organizations of men throughout all of our churches. The November week, it is anticipated, will give an impulse that shall carry our men into the observance of the week beginning April 9th.

We hope from time to time to receive suggestions as to the methods of increasing the effectiveness of both of these weeks, from our Brotherhood men in general through the country.

A Tale of Two Cities

CHAPTER I.

By P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor

The Story of How the Bible Schools of Akron and Canton, Ohio Knocked Out the Summer Slump

EDITOR'S NOTE. The "misnomer" title of this article is removed by the insertion of Chapter I. Of course we could not expect our Bible School Editor, who was so wrapped up in Canton, to know everything about how the Akron people conducted their campaign, although good campaign managers tell us that they necessarily keep in touch with their opponents. Regardless of how this may be we must give the Bible Schools of Canton credit for the result and hope to present to our readers in the November issue a voice from the "Tip-Top" City.

Akron, Ohio, known as the "Tip-Top" city, with a population of 69,000 and forty-four Protestant Bible Schools, is situated in Summit County. Twenty-four miles to her south, in the adjoining county of Stark, lies the beautiful city of Canton, with a population of 52,000 and thirty-two Bible Schools.

In the early Spring, the Akron Sunday-School Association extended a challenge to Canton for an attendance contest, to run from the first Lord's Day of May to the last Lord's Day of August—eighteen Lord's Days in all. The challenge was accepted, and thereby hangs a tale. During that period, Akron's total attendance was 155,910; Canton's, 163,214. Canton led by 7,331.

During the same time, the First Christian school of Canton was competing with the four Christian schools of Akron. The Canton school had a total for the four months of 31,270 or an average per Lord's Day of 1,737. The four schools of Akron had 27,292 or an average of 1,516 per Sunday.

How it was done. Let it be remembered that this was a hot-weather contest, at that season of the year when most people are on their vacation and the attendance in most schools is generally small in comparison with the rest of the year. Both cities prepared for the contest in a business-like way.

Akron employed a Sunday-school Secretary, who gave his whole time to the Sunday-school work of the city. An office was opened in the Y. M. C. A. building of that city. Canton employed no secretary, but the Superintendents' Association of the city comprised the contest committee, and the writer was selected as press agent. The Y. M. C. A. secretary received the reports of all the schools of the city, each Lord's Day, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon 'phoned the same to the secretary in Akron, who gave him the report of the Akron schools. At the evening service, in all the churches, an announcement of the results of the day was made.

The attendance of each school for the period of the contest was posted in a conspicuous place in the Y. M. C. A. building, where all who passed might read.

Akron, in addition to large window posters, used much space in the newspapers. In Canton, a banner was stretched through the public square, bearing the slogan, "Boost for Canton's Bible Schools." Every Thursday evening, from a fourth to a half page space was bought in the daily, and an attractive advertisement told all the city of the contest that was on. These were often illustrated with attractive cuts. August 14th, Canton had a city-wide rally, in which all the schools used a uniform rally cad. The Saturday evening before the contest closed, a tallyho party, composed of eighteen men, driving four horses covered with bells and carrying large banners with the inscription, "Go to Bible School Tomorrow; Akron Must Be Beaten," drove through the streets of the city, while a man with a megaphone told the story of the contest and urged all the people to Bible School the next morning. Sunday morning dawned fair. The streets were crowded with people on their way to the various schools of the city. The total attendance for the day was 13,924 in Canton and 11,287 in Akron. In the First Christian School of Canton there were 2,818, 637 of whom could not get in the building, but were taught in an overflow class in front on the street.

The contest developed workers; everybody became interested. People who had thought they could do nothing did much. They used their telephones, they called on their neighbors, they got other members of the family and they talked to people in the stores, in the factory and the shop. Everywhere and at all times the one subject of conversation was "The Akron-Canton contest."

Men used their automobiles and carriages on Sunday morning to bring the aged and invalids and many who live too far away to walk to the services and who could not come by trolley.

Bible School men wore Bible School pins. Through all the streets of the city on Saturday night could be seen workers from different schools of the city inviting the passers-by to get in somewhere on Sunday morning.

Some people took short vacations; some took none. When away, all tried to be at home on Lord's Day. In the First Christian School, a teacher and her family were visiting at Niagara and Buffalo. They had first planned to stay over Lord's Day until Tuesday. Saturday night came, they took the boat for home and arrived in Canton at 9 a. m. in time to be in the school. The assistant superintendent planned a half dozen times to take his vacation and each time gave it up to be in the school on the Lord's Day. Many people who were away through the week hurried home on Saturday night to be here at the school on Lord's Day. One man who worked at a factory all day Saturday and all night Saturday night, had his wife bring his clothing, razor and shaving mug to him, a distance of four miles, on Sunday morning. He took his bath, shaved and changed clothing at the factory and was at Bible School at 8:30. Railroad engineers and conductors climbed from their trains on Sunday morning after an all night's run, hurried home and changed clothing and were at Bible School a few minutes after 9.

When visitors came to spend Lord's Day with Canton people, they were brought to Bible School or left at home alone. People in the city who had not been in Bible School for forty years, were induced to come. They were delighted and scores of them enrolled and will be regular in attendance hereafter. In the First Christian school alone, 347 people enrolled during the eighteen Lord's Days, and twenty-one babies were added to the Cradle Roll. A good spirit prevailed throughout it all. The schools came closer together, each learning from the other. The contest was simply a means to an end. It awakened the people to a sense of opportunity and duty. It magnified the Bible School work. It developed latent talent. It helped many to form the Bible School habit. It was a good lesson on unity, showing what can be done when all peoples work together. It caused many people of the world to marvel, showing them that the Bible School work is a big thing. It has proven that great things can be done in the summer time and that one of the great secrets of success is work.

The Layman's Call

By J. K. SHELLENBERGER

Isaiah was a statesman. His specialty was foreign relations. Civic Righteousness was his theme. He was a diplomat—an adviser of kings—an originator of policies. He gave his life to his state. His very soul was burned out in purifying the civic ideals. His nation died, but Isaiah's work survived.

Isaiah was no mere preacher of other-worldism. He was a man of this world with a message for his own times. He was rich, refined, cultured, intellectual, manly—a man among men. His riches were devoted to his cause. His intellect compelled attention at home and abroad. His refinement and culture opened the way to the courts of his day. He gave his time and his talent to the solutions of his nation's problems; and in outlining a world policy for Israel he set the standard for successful diplomacy in later times. His nation heeded him not and reaped the consequences.

Isaiah opened his heart to the spirit of the Eternal and caught an accurate vision of Israel's condition. He was not experimenting. He was positive in his position. He saw because his life moved with the divine currents. He wrought and died. No granite spike nor bronze statue marks his resting place. What matters? His monument is the rising standard of international and civic relations three milleniums after his day.

Isaiah heard the call of his God to the service of his nation, and the ages have been enriched by his life. And men!—"God is Calling yet."

"Give me not scenes more charming.
Give me eyes

To see the beauty that around me lies;
To see the shine of souls, see angels shy
Among the faces of the passers by.

I do not ask for sweeter music than
The common, daily Symphony of man."

George Washington heard the call of God and prayed his way through the winter at Valley Forge and won the fight for liberty. Abraham Lincoln heard the call of God and forged his way to fighting ground for his nation. When the battle seemed against him and the nation was about to be rent in twain; his secretary found him in the midnight hour, half dressed, clutching to his breast little Tad, scalding his brow with his tears, and between his sobs gasping the prayers that kept our country "one and indivisible."

Listen, men! Do you hear the bitter cry of the million children aged seven, ten, eleven, plodding and breaking at looms, factories, and in mines? That's the voice of God to you, "Go save my children."

Listen, men! Do you hear the cry of the million broken homes? Divorce has done it. The American home is tottering. This is the voice of God to you, "Go save my homes!"

Listen, men! Do you hear the cry of millions of hungry children and heartbroken mothers? Strong drink and gambling have done it. 'Tis the voice of God to you, "Go save my people!"

Listen, men! A great army of hoarse-voiced men cursing from the pit of poverty. Greed and graft and gloating inhumanity keep them there. 'Tis the voice of God to you, "Go set my people free!!"

The call of God is not to believe but to love; and love begets action. "If ye love me ye will keep my commandments" is the dictum of the Master.

Men of the Brotherhood, is it love that stirs you to action? No? Then act for love and soon your hearts will burn with fire. The greatest work that lies before us is to open the doors of our brightest intellect and biggest hearts to the call of God. Nothing but the best can bring this world to Christ. Build your men strong and alert. Teach them to love mankind. For "The hour is coming when the walls of this present church

Shall melt away, and in its stead shall rise
a noble church

Whose covenant word shall be deed and love.

Not 'Credo' then, 'Amo' shall be the pass word through its gates.

Man shall not ask his brother any more
'Believest thou, but, lovest thou'

And all shall answer at God's altar, 'Lord
I love.'

For hope may anchor, Faith may steer
But love, great Love, alone is the captain of the soul."

Streets vs. Sunday-School in the Life of a Boy

BY CHAS. B. HAHN.

CHARLES B. HAHN
Probation Officer, Salt Lake City

The boy is not a new problem, but we cannot be able to help him along in church work until we know him.

By Knowledge The average boy goes to Sunday-school and there he hears his teacher talk as if he did not know very much about the world, when ten chances to one the boy understands more than his teacher about the temptations he must fight.

Frankness A teacher must be frank with his boys. He must make his boys feel that he is up and abreast to what is going on in the world. A boy does not care to hear the good side of all the boys in the Bible. He knows they were not all perfect. If they had been they would not have been real boys; neither would they appeal to him. He does not care to be told about a good little boy who never did anything wrong and then died.

Temptations

We know, and the boy should be taught, that all the men who ever accomplished anything had to fight temptations and were strong because of these fights. Boys sometimes get an idea that all Bible boys were what they call goody-goody fellows, who did not get out and buck against the world.

Reason for Boycott

Boys boycott the Sunday-school sometimes because they get an idea that it is for little children. They go there and are asked to sing "I'm a Little Lamb of Jesus." They feel that it is too babyish for them and so do not want to return. I am in sympathy with them in this. The gospel, whether presented in song or story, must be as big as the boy who listens. The whole trouble is that the officers and teachers in a great many places want to run the school to please themselves rather than the boys.

The Sunday-school has become a place where girls and small boys like to go. But there are new plans being formed to change all this and, thanks to the many new movements inspired of God, the church and Sunday-school are rising to a new order of things.

Men, great strong men, are coming to the front to lend their aid and are putting the church work on a high standing among the people of the world.

Unchristian Homes

So many boys come from homes where the parents do not attend church that the greatest care should be exercised in dealing with them. The teacher should realize that he alone can make those boys Christians, for he must remember that they will not have any encouragement nor sympathy at home. The parents of these boys reason that they have done their whole duty when they have sent their boys to some Sunday-school when the boy feels like going.

Parents' Duty

There is not a parent in a thousand that wants his son to be worse than he himself; all want their sons to be better, to have more than they, yet they have no right to expect it unless they can help by example.

In some localities there is not a boy in thirty who has a home life that tends to help him. Among the working classes the parents are too busy to give their boys any semblance of a home life, while among the wealthy and well-to-do, society takes so much time that the children are left to shift for themselves quite as much as the poorer classes are.

The consequences are that a generation is growing up without the proper home training that has counted for so much in our American life. We must face the facts, and they are cold, bare facts. What is to be done?

Church's Duty

The church must come to the rescue. The boys must be made to feel at home there. Places must be provided that will attract and be the same to them as the home associations should be. Boys do not entertain as they once did. There are not as many home gatherings as there once were, so the boys must find in the church a substitute for this training. I am speaking generally. There are yet to be found many homes that are like the ones of a generation ago, but not so many.

The rooming houses, the flats and restaurants are taking away much that rightfully belongs to a good home. Nothing to do, nowhere to play, the boy soon finds his way into the bright places along the streets of our well-lighted cities. There are more temptations today than ever before and it is easier for a boy to enter.

Changed Environment

Electricity has made night into day and made a boy who was once at home in the dark ruin because he was permitted to go out at night when he was yet early in his teens.

Amid the dazzling lights, the soft music, the bright colors and perfumes he hears that Sunday-school teachers are slow, that Sunday-schools are not the places where real people go, but for those who are cranky and sour on the world and some little children who do not know any better. Amid such surroundings (for the lights, colors and music he hears so much that the devil wants hidden) the boy sees that he will be ridiculed if he attends the church on the corner.

The Brotherhood's Problem

Our only hope is to make some kind of provision in our churches for the boys that will appeal to them. He must be made to feel that it is a man's religion. The ones to solve this problem are the men of the Brotherhoods. It's a man's work if there ever was a man's work to be done. Every man was once a boy, even if some men we know could not have been real American "kids" at the age of adolescence.

Today so many men are so wrapped up in their business affairs that they do not have time to devote to their boys and it is largely because of this fact that many boys do not follow in their fathers' business. A man's son should be worth many times more to him than dollars, but so often money comes first. The father thinks that if he gives his son a education, dresses him well and provides a house to live in, he has done his duty. Do not believe that father is wrong. First of all he should know his boy; he should have his confidence, rather keep it, for there comes a time in the life of every boy when he will either be won or be lost by his father. In either case it is usually the father's fault. Life's stream sweeps many a lost boy because some father or mother failed to keep the boy's confidence. Then why are more boys on the streets than in the church and Sunday-school?

The lack of interest on the parents' part is one reason. Then boys do not want to dress up on Sunday. It is so much easier to sit around the house and eat, or, in the summer, to go over on the vacant lot nearby and play ball or to the river swimming or to talk to the fellows on the corner.

Gang Sometimes the gang plans to go or to do something on Sunday afternoon and all the members must be present at the shack in the morning to help plan. The corner offers an excitement and the boy feels freer there than at Sunday-school, where they talk about people who are all dead, and about all kinds of "ites," as one boy said. These corner gangs must be reached. There is no need of breaking them up, they can be used. Get the leader into the Sunday-school class and the rest will come. The Sunday-school class composed of a gang and a sympathetic teacher will do and achieve wonders.

Boys of Of course, the average boy is not interested in what happened ages ago unless it is something exciting. He wants to know what is happening now, and are not the mission fields alive with wonderful stories of real heroes? The teacher must be tactful so that he can draw lessons from the "ites" of today. He must be ready to talk base-ball "ites" and missionary "ites." Real live issues and Jesus Christ is here today and He can be made to be felt in the every-day life of the average boy if the teacher wills it.

Christ of today the ever-living Christ. Not Jesus crucified and dead, but a living and reigning Lord that is still moving the forces of the world. He can come into the hearts of the boys today if presented in the right light. He can rule every act, he can be a real living Savior. But it all depends upon the teacher.

The Sunday-school must offer the boys what they get other places, only the surroundings must be different.

The majority of boys are interested up to a certain age in their Sunday-school. Then a change comes. They see their fathers and older brothers boycott the church, so they do likewise. It is the father's duty—aye, the Brotherhood's duty, to impress upon its members the value of church attendance. They are

Man Admir ation living examples every one of them to some boy. A boy that admires a man will do what that man does. If that man goes to church the boy will find a pew there, too. A most sacred duty for the Brotherhood members. Money, talk and all else that men can do will not help a boy as much as a living example. All are so ready to sacrifice all to Christ except themselves. Once give self and the problem is solved.

Wireless Whispers

"You Brotherhood folks are giving us a fine paper."—J. G. WAGGONER, Canton, Ill.

"Enclosed find payment of Ten-Dollar League pledge for the year 1910."—W. J. FELL, Jacksonville, Ill.

"Enclosed find ten cents in stamps for pamphlet on Anderson Boy Movement."—H. E. WILSON, Marshalltown, Ia.

"I have missed my last two or three copies of CHRISTIAN MEN. I cannot get along any more without it."—A. S. FELTERMAN, Portland, Ore.

"Two copies of CHRISTIAN MEN have come into my hands and it is so near just what I want that I write you to send me one dozen copies of the latest number."—MRS. ETTA L. PAINTER, Holmesville, Ohio.

"Please credit the enclosed to my subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN. The paper seems to be getting better, all the time, if such a thing could be possible. Maybe it is we just love it more."—BISHOP M. HOPKINS, Medicine Lodge, Kan.

"Eight o'clock meeting. About sixty men out. Stayed with me till eleven o'clock. Business being done right here and every prospect for good work the coming year. A very full committee organization already. They hold semi-monthly meetings. C. H. Daum is an enthusiastic president."—P. C. MACFARLANE, Riverside, Cal.

"Please find enclosed check for $1.80 for thirty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN. When you send us our next month's order, please increase the number to forty-one copies. I think there is no better paper published for men who are interested in Sunday-school and church work than CHRISTIAN MEN magazine."—RICHARD BOOTH, Sharon, Pa.

The Brotherhood at Lubec, Maine, is a very live issue and has loaned its pastor to the General Brotherhood to represent us at the Nova Scotia Convention. He has also been asked to present the Brotherhood work at the New England Convention, which meets in Brocton, Mass., September 8th to 11th. We are grateful to the Brotherhood at Lubec and to Brother Bussabarger personally for this service.

At Stanmore, New South Wales, there is a Brotherhood organization called The Enmore Men's Brotherhood, of which Geo. T. Walden is a leading factor. One of our preachers from the United States, Horace Kingsbury, now in Australia, addressed this company of men on two recent occasions and was much impressed with their work. We hope to present detailed information to CHRISTIAN MEN readers in an early issue.

"Personally, I would not be without CHRISTIAN MEN, as I find it a valuable paper for the Sunday Lessons as well as interesting reading matter for anybody. I most assuredly believe that the Brotherhood Movement can be equaled for "A Man's Work in a Man's Way" and if there is any way to interest elder male members in such a movement I am certain a good one could be organized. If I can be of use to the interest of the Brotherhood Cause, I am at your service."—W. WEATHERLAND, Fort Smith, Ark.

"The Bible School is now better organized and more prepared for better teaching and greater growth than ever before. The Lay Aid, with its subdivision, is qualified to accomplish almost anything it is asked to undertake. On the other hand, the Brotherhood has passed the experimental stage and is waiting to put its organized strength back on any hard problem or task given it. The Brotherhood will be a mighty factor in the work of the First Christian Church here this year."—Massillon, Ohio, Messenger.

The thirty-one members of Mishawaka, Indiana, Local Brotherhood are a live group. Recently they had their annual fish fry with oceans of fried fish and the necessary accompaniments. After the material feast came the spiritual repast, presided over by President Fred A. Clauson. Address of welcome by H. D. Hull, pastor of the church, to the visiting clergymen. R. O. Wickham, of Ramoth, and S. G. Ickner, of Elkhart, Indiana, L. B. D. C. No. 327, and S. G. Ickner, of Elkhart, Indiana, L. B. D. C. No. 29, both of whom made inspiring addresses and inspired the Mishawaka brethren to greater activity.

"We are aiming to lay special emphasis on men's work during the coming Fall and Winter. I also expect to organize a Brotherhood. I believe it will be a good thing to begin getting every man I can to read CHRISTIAN MEN."—JOSEPH KEEVIL, Brooklyn, N. Y.

EDITOR'S NOTE:—We strongly commend Brother Keevil's action. The magazine opens up to the masculine mind a view for activity which moves him to a more cordial assistance to any appeals which are made to him for any kind of support, physical, political, personal or financial. We shall look forward with pleasure to the opening up of this work by Brother Keevil.

The Disciples' Missionary Union of New York conduct an English School for Russians at 63 East Second St., New York City, in which fifty-one students have been enrolled. At the recent commencement exercises a feature of the evening was testimonies of students, given in English, of the value of the school to them in their work. The course taught is "English for Coming Americans," by Peter Roberts, of the International Committee, Y. M. C. A. A number of the students have already been enabled through the teachers of the School to secure their first citizenship papers.

The Pacific Christian has this to say of the Men's Banquet at the Long Beach Convention: "Now I must tell you of the men's banquet held at the M. E. Church. The ladies of the First M. E. Church did the serving. It was a splendid meal. About 150 men sat down to eat but did not 'rise up to play.' E. L. Curry was toastmaster. This is his annual habit. Toasts were replied to by Mayor Windham, A. C. Smither, Lloyd Darsie, P. C. Macfarlane and F. M. Dowling. It was a joyous meeting and filled with enthusiasm. The absent Chas. C. Chapman was remembered and a 'glass of cold water' was taken, standing, to his health. This was a delightful affair."

The Editor of The Christian Courier gives the following as an old song that they used to sing in Bethany College. We consider it a worthy sentiment for the men of today.

Firmly stand together, boys,
Battle nobly for the right,
Cherish motives just and pure,
Keep our motto e'er in sight.
Days are dark and dreary, boys,
Sailing o'er life's troubled sea,
When our barques are freely manned
Then the currents stronger be.

CHORUS.

Work with might and work with will Thus our motto to fulfill,
Ceasing not with little gain,
But to loftier heights attain;
Work that all our deeds may be Harvested in eternity.

The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago graduated a class of twenty-three young men and twenty-two young women, the largest in its history, at the close of the August term of 1919. This class extends the number of graduates for the year, having completed the full four years of Bible study to ninety-one. The total enrollment of the Institute for the year was greater than ever before. Fifteen different States and countries were represented in the membership of the class, the wide distribution being indicated by the fact that California, Massachusetts, England and Japan had representatives, while Illinois, in which the Institute is located, had only seven. Sixteen young men will enter the ministry, some of them continuing studies in theological schools. Twelve of the class will enter the foreign field, the remainder engaging in definite Christian work. Seven of the class supported themselves in full during the two years and twenty in part. The closing week was characterized by thorough written and oral examinations. The graduating exercises were held in The Moody Church, the president of the board of trustees, Mr. Henry P. Crowell, presiding and presenting the diplomas. Dr. William Evans, the director of the Bible course, made the address to the class on the theme, "Christianity and the Spirit of the Age." All the exercises were under the direction of Dr. James M. Gray, the Dean of the Institute.

B. Williamson, enthusiastic Brotherhood friend and business man of Buffalo, New York, head of the Williamson Commission Company, live stock commission merchants, was a recent caller at the Brotherhood General office and gave us a few moments enjoyment of his splendid fellowship as he was returning from a visit on the Pacific Coast. Brother Williamson reports stirring times in the Pacific Coast country. He is a member of B. S. Ferrall's church in Buffalo and besides an enthusiastic Brotherhood man is a grand supporter of CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine, having sent in more subscribers than any individual in the State of New York. This, despite the fact that Brother Williamson is not what you might call a young man in years. He rejoices with us in our splendid circulation of 20,000 copies.

Through an unfortunate misunderstanding in regard to allotment of time at the Kentucky State Convention, the Brotherhood was crowded entirely out and the excellent program which was under active preparation a month ago was not carried out. No one is more sorry for this than the Brotherhood General Officers and to make up for it, we hope, sometime during the coming winter, to have a rally of Brotherhood men in Kentucky to last a couple of days, at which ample time will be given to the work in which the men of the pew are so vitally interested. We are indebted to President Crossfield for his great energy in our behalf, regardless of the disastrous results of the effort. We are also under obligations to Mr. J. W. Porter, President of L. B. D. C. No. 285, of Lexington, for timely assistance, and to other Brotherhood men throughout the Blue Grass State who lent their influence toward preparation for the affair. Another year we feel justified in saying that our men will have ample space upon the regular convention program in Kentucky.

Peoria, Illinois, is the home of two Local Brotherhoods, the Central and parent church, L. B. D. C. No. 301, and Howett Street Church L. B. D. C. No. 329. It was the privilege of your Assistant Secretary to visit both of these organizations, between bites of bass and crappie in picturesque Peoria Lake. The lake itself, in reality the Illinois river, at this point spreads its green waters over broad stretches of clam shell bottom several miles in length, and upwards of a mile in width, like grass on golf links; and the fish, ah, me! nothing like them in Kansas City, nay, if Missouri fish are one-half as greedy for shiny minnows as those sleek, fat bass which caught upon the Assistant Secretarial fish hook in Peoria Lake, we will feel amply repaid for the journey to the White River country which George L. Peters is urging us to make another season. But we started out to tell about the Peoria Brotherhoods. There is really little to tell about them, for CHRISTIAN MEN readers already know their history. We visited the Central Brotherhood, No. 301, at their regular monthly meeting, and was permitted to speak briefly to them upon salient points of Brotherhood success. This enthusiastic group has recently changed officers, electing Wayne Wilson, President; E. J. Haney, Vice-President, and A. W. Wallis, Secretary-Treasurer. President Wilson sells Singer sewing machines, Vice-President Haney is a railway mail clerk, while Secretary Wallis is a purveyor of real estate. With such talent leading the organized Brotherhood forces there is every reason to look for reports of great progress in the coming season. The Brotherhood at Howett Street is a live wire in their community. Everyone knows that Howett Street has a Brotherhood, and that it's busy. Every time they have a meeting it is advertised well in advance. On the occasion of our visit the Brotherhood had charge of the evening church services in absence of the pastor, William Price. What do you think this Brotherhood Program Committee did? They button-holed the United States Congressman, J. V. Graff, to speak the subject, "Christianity in the Hawaiian Islands," upon which the M. C. was authorized. The meeting was remarkable for the large attendance, despite the torrid temperature, that's only what they looked for, as the "Booster" committee had "billed" that whole end of town. We were there, and listened to the great address, the male quartette, male chorus, while masculine leadership was everywhere apparent. If we were permitted to make predictions we would say that there will soon be a City Brotherhood in Peoria after the pattern of the St. Joseph, Missouri organization, and that the men of all churches in Peoria will begin to exert the power they control in matters of civic progress. Much good is in store for the Brotherhoods to do work, and these are some of them. When they are associating themselves with their fellow Brotherhood men in the City Brotherhood, they will incidentally be carrying on their local work with greater facility.

Organization Notes

"We are going to organize a Brotherhood at this place. Please send us necessary organization material."—THOS. C. PERRY, Beaver City, Neb.

"We are trying to organize a Brotherhood in our vicinity and would be glad to have you send us a package of organization material."—FRANK SPELLER, Windsor, N. C.

"Brother P. C. Macfarlane was with us last evening and addressed the men of our church on the Brotherhood movement and we decided to perfect an organization at once and am enclosing an order for the printed material which will assist us in this work."—W. F. BRANCH, Stockton, Cal.

"As we have organized a Loyal Men's Bible Class and wish it to affiliate with the General Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, I herewith enclose money order for $1.65 for dues, beginning July 1st. We are hoping to send in a good, large membership list in the near future."—J. H. Fox, Peru, Ind.

"Enclosed find express order payable to the Treasurer for $2, for which kindly send me copies of the Model Constitution and Pledge Cards, an equal number of each. Would like to have these before the 31st, if possible. It is our intention to boost for a big Brotherhood in this end of the city. We would be glad to get all the information possible on methods of getting new members, etc."—T. E. WIREBAUGH, Toledo, Ohio.

This is the way the Nelsonville Brotherhood does it:

"The date of the Brotherhood meeting for this week has been changed to Friday evening, July 29th. You will remember that every member of the class and Brotherhood is asked to bring at least one boy to this meeting. Boys from ten to sixteen years of age are wanted, and you can bring as many as you want. We expect to have not less than one hundred boys present. The meeting will be in the church at 7:30 and a social affair will be given in the basement after the program. The program will be of interest to boys. If you haven't a boy of your own borrow one from your neighbor and bring him."

Northern Indiana is becoming a Mecca for Local Brotherhoods who are going over to Macedonia and helping their fellows to organize. According to the black headed newspaper announcements, the Mishawaka Brotherhood at their recent fish fry had as honored guests, R. O. Wickham, of Rolling Prairie, L. B. D. C. No. 327, S. G. Buckner and E. M. Polk, of Elkhart, Indiana, L. B. D. C. No. 291. We are also in receipt of a stirring announcement of the gathering from A. C. Vitter, Secretary of the Mishawaka Brotherhood.

"Just at this time our Brotherhood is a little quiet, this being the vacation period, but we have a large attendance every Sunday. The men seem interested and nearly all subscribed for CHRISTIAN MEN again this year. They all like the magazine. We hold regular meetings on the last Tuesday of the month. We deviated a little last month, inasmuch as we were entertained by the C. W. B. M. in the city park. There were about a hundred and twenty-five present and reported a jolly time. At our regular meetings we follow the program in CHRISTIAN MEN and have some very good papers and talks on the different subjects."—ALBERT TREECE, Wooster, Ohio.

enclosed find money order for dues for our Local Brotherhood No. 289. We are still working. Had a good meeting on the 15th inst. We are following the program as printed in CHRISTIAN MEN. Three of our men went to San Francisco, Cal., on the 16th, to a Brotherhood meeting in order to hear Brother P. C. Macfarlane. He reported a fine time. Brother Macfarlane gave us an exceedingly helpful address. We are home feeling well paid for our trip."—J. SEIVERSON, Saratoga, Cal.

The Peoria Brotherhood men continually do nothing to get themselves into print. They decided to meet at the West Bluff chapel on Decoration Day to paint the building. Before this could be announced even, two Brotherhood men jumped in and gave it a coat of paint. Now they propose to build brick flues and install stoves on Decoration Day in preparation for the Evangelistic meeting to be conducted by V. E. Harlow, beginning about December 1st. In the meantime arrangements are on for a chapel Builders' banquet, at which the Brotherhood will banquet the members of Local Carpenters' Union who so kindly assisted in the erection of the building.

Herewith I enclose copy of program to be presented at the next meeting of our Brotherhood. Our programs are all prepared and given by the members of the Brotherhood, music is interspersed and a lunch is served at the close of the session.

"SUBJECT, TIMELY TOPICS.

- 1st. Ohioans, law-abiding people.
- 2d. The meaning of Graft probing.
- 3d. The Political Boss.
- 4th. What are political insurgents?
- 5th. Muck-raking.
- 6th. Government officials and partisan politics.

ROBERT B. CHAPMAN, New Berlin, Ohio."

The following from one who does not care to have his name unduly advertised but is perfectly willing to let everyone in the United States have the benefit of his successful method will give the readers of CHRISTIAN MEN a suggestion along devotional lines:

MY DEAR FRIEND:—I am addressing this letter to each of the men who signed the 'prayer card' some weeks ago. The knowledge that you have been praying for me has given me more help than you will ever know. I come to you this week asking something definite of you and I know you will not disappoint me.

"1st. Pray that the influence of our class may continue to reach an ever-widening circle.

"2d. Get at least one man to come to class next Sunday who has not been coming lately.

"Pray and help answer.

"With growing confidence in the triumph of the Lord's work among men, I am,

"Yours cheerfully,"

The Brotherhood General Office is in receipt of an enterprising call issued by the Santa Monica Bay District Brotherhood, for their annual meeting August 25th, at Ocean Park. This is the Brotherhood organization formed by the churches at Ocean Park, Sawtelle and Santa Monica. We hope to have a writeup of this organization, its method of formation, operation, etc., for presentation to the readers of CHRISTIAN MEN at an early date. The General Secretary addressed a meeting on August 25th and reports a most enthusiastic gathering of Brotherhood men.

Here is the letter:

SAWTELLE, CAL., August 15, 1910.

"DEAR BROTHER.—A regular meeting of the Christian Brotherhood of Santa Monica Bay District will be held Tuesday, August 25th, 7:30 p. m., at Ocean Park Christian Church.

"You are urgently requested to be present. This will be the most interesting meeting we have held and one of vital importance to you.

"Brother P. C. Macfarlane, of Kansas City, will be present and conduct a model business session, also speak on the backbone of the Brotherhood.

"It is up to you to Do YOUR DUTY. Invite every Christian man you know to be present! Make this a personal matter!

"BE ENTHUSIASTIC!

"We should increase our membership to 100 at this meeting.

"Show Brother Macfarlane we are Brotherhood members in deed as well as in name.

"LET THIS BE OUR BANNER MEETING.

"Yours Truly,

"H. F. BABCOCK, Secretary."

Here is the way they do in the Berean Bible Class, at Nelsonville, Ohio.

HEY THERE, MISTER!

There is to be a

Berean Home Coming Sunday Morning, September 4th.

We want every man who has ever attended our Men's Bible Class to be here that day. There will surely be five hundred men in attendance if you come. If you fail to come we may have only four hundred and ninety-nine. If the Y. M. C. A. auditorium will not hold 'em we'll meet out doors. Tell every man you see.

SPECIAL MUSIC

We expect to have a picture taken of the whole bunch

Men's Parade at Topeka

By D. P. GRIBBEN, Chief Marshal

D. P. GRIBBEN
Kansas City, Mo.

All aboard the airship for Topeka, October 15-17, 1910. There is great interest being manifested in the Men's Parade at our National Convention to be held at the Capital of the Sunflower State. Saturday, October 15th, is the first great day for men, real live men, and these worth while days are to last over Monday, the 17th.

We originally set our mark for 2,500 men to take part in the great Men's Parade Saturday at 10 o'clock, but we have doubled our estimate and are now looking for twice that number. The Brotherhoods will be on hand and men's classes are coming in large numbers and not only from Kansas, but from all States, and many will bring entire classes.

The happy arrangement brings Bible School Day on Saturday with the parade at 1 o'clock. Gov. Stubbs will lead the line of march. The hour is certainly a good one and the through which we are to march is most beautiful.

We desire to call the attention of the Brotherhood classes to the fact that we want a banner, flag or motto that you may have brought and carried in this parade. If you have a hand in your class or Brotherhood bring it with you to assist with the march. If the Pennsylvania State S.-S. Convention get 8,000 men in line and Ohio State S.-S. Convention can line up 14,000, we certainly can have our 5,000 men very easily.

Following the Bible School Day there will be two other days of special interest to every man and every man of our Brotherhood should arrange to attend Sunday with its great Bible School session in the morning, and the communion service in the afternoon. This sacred service should be attended by every one possible.

Monday, Brotherhood Day, should be the biggest ever. We are to have one of the greatest programs for this day that we have ever had at a National Convention and it is to be a men's program from first to last.

Special trains are being arranged from the larger cities in all parts of the country. This will insure special service and nothing more than 2 cents per mile will be charged from any point. Men, let us make this a great National Convention, and a great convention for men. We look to the Brotherhood classes to do their part loyally and enthusiastically. If every man stands in his place and falls in line where duty calls we will have a great convention.

Yours for 5,000 men.

Brotherhood School of Methods a Unique Feature

Each day during the Topeka Convention, beginning with Wednesday, October 12th, and ending Monday, October 17th, will occur the Brotherhood's School of Methods, which will convene in the House of Representatives Hall in the State Capitol building between the hours of 4:30 and 5 o'clock p. m. During this 30 minutes will be thrown upon a stereopticon screen the pictures of men who are doing "A Man's Work in a Man's Way." Questions will be asked and answered, each day some special feature of the Brotherhood work will be considered exhaustively; for instance, on Saturday, October 15th, which is Bible School Day at the Convention, we propose to discuss the School of Methods the question of the Brotherhood's relation to the Bible School and vice versa. On other days other phases of the Brotherhood's relation to our general causes will be asked and answered. These will be among the most profitable sessions of the entire Convention, and to miss them will rob you of great profit. Immediately following these conferences will resume the regular program of Brotherhood pictures, with a change of program twice or thrice daily. These programs will be announced on the ground at Topeka.

New Century Prize Offer

DURING the month of October we have determined upon another prize offer for individual paid in advance subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine. Note the time limit. October 1st to 31st, inclusive, we will give ABSOLUTELY FREE for 25 individual paid in advance subscriptions one Gold Plated Brotherhood Emblem Lapel Button or Scarf Pin.

For More than 40 and less than 50

individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give a Rolled Gold Brotherhood Emblem Lapel Button or Scarf Pin.

For More than 50 and less than 75

we will give choice of Solid Gold Brotherhood Emblem Lapel Button or Scarf Pin, a Bronze Brotherhood Emblem Watch Fob or Rolled Gold Brotherhood Emblem Watch Charm.

For More than 75 and less than 100

individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give choice of Gold Plated Brotherhood Emblem Dumb Bell Cuff Links or Solid Sterling Silver Brotherhood Emblem Watch Fob.

For 100 or More individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give choice of Solid Gold Brotherhood Emblem Dumb Bell Cuff Links or Solid Gold Brotherhood Emblem Watch Fob.

Remember this offer is limited to the month of October, 1910, and all envelopes must show an October postmark.

NOVEMBER.

1. Work of American Temperance Board of the Disciples of Christ.—Here is where we lock arms with the W. C. T. U., the Bible School, the Y. P. S. C. E., the International Reform Bureau, et al, in the onward march toward a stronger manhood and purer womanhood.

2. A Harvest Home Meeting.—Thanksgiving. A season of special rejoicing for the goodness of God.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worth his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the new year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year ahead. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

OCTOBER No. 2

By W. A. BALDWIN, State Secretary, Nebraska

TOPIC—State Missions.

I. Devotions.

- Doxology.
- Concert reading, Acts 1, 1:9 (standing).
- Repeat the Covenant.
- Prayer. For Our Judea (State).
- Hymn, "I Give My Life for Thee."

II. Program.

- State Map Talk. Ten minutes.
Population, Nationalities, Percentage of Disciples.
Statistics—Products, Wealth, etc.
Location Cities and Towns.
Location Christian Churches.
- Address, "The Opportunities in Our State." Ten minutes.
In the Cities.
In the County Seats.
In the Towns.
In the Country.
- Address, "Our State Missionary Society." Fifteen minutes.
History.

Its Effectiveness.
Its Future.

- Special Music.
- Open Discussion. Twenty minutes.
Subject: "State Missions Are Fundamental and Necessary to All Missionary Enterprises."
Introduction: Five minutes affirmative; five minutes negative.
Two-minute speeches.
- Clincher: "What will THIS Brotherhood Do THIS Year for State Missionary Work?" Ten minutes.
(Apply to State Secretary for material.)

III. Social Period.

Pin slips of paper on each brother's lapel with name of a county in the State. Each be called by that name when addressed.
Decorations: State colors.
State seal monogram on programs and a large design for decoration.

NOVEMBER No. 1

By DR. H. J. HALL, Secretary American Temperance Board of the Christian Church

TOPIC—World's Temperance Day.

Opening Exercises.

1. Music. Male Quartet. (Temperance Song.)

2. Scripture Lesson. Repeat ten of the strongest temperance Bible verses.

3. Patriotic Song—America.

4. Prayer.

5. Male Quartet. Solo and chorus.

Evening Program. (Three seven-minute addresses.)

1. Abraham Lincoln as a Temperance man.

2. The American Temperance Board of the Church of Christ. (Its work, plans and needs.)

3. Why does much voted dry territory continue wet?

Other Suggested Topics for Addresses.

a. Words of cheer. All Temperance Organizations.

b. The testimony of science on the use of Alcohol.

c. The Brotherhood's protection of boys from drinking.

d. The work and possibilities of the Inter-church Federation.

Debate: Resolved, That the Gothenberg system is preferable to prohibition.

Other Suggested Questions.

a. The medical use of alcohol leads to its beverage use.

b. Is the appetite for liquor inherited?

c. Should we have a State Inebriate Hospital?

Decision of judges.

Report of the Civic Committee on the progress of the temperance cause in their town and county. General discussion following.

3. Closing Exercises.

1. Song—"Stand up, stand up for Jesus."

2. Social period.

3. Distribution of scientific temperance literature.

4. Close with Mizpeh benediction.

Note—Helpful literature can be secured on these topics from Dr. H. J. Hall, Secretary American Temperance Board of the Christian Church, Franklin, Ind.

Music at Topeka

W. E. M. HACKLEMAN
Leader of Song

Speeches will not be the only form of ear-pleasing and heart-rending to be indulged in at the Topeka Convention. Music and song will have a large part in the affairs of the day. To lead in this portion of the program we have selected one who needs no introduction to an audience of The Disciples of Christ, as he has been a familiar figure for a number of years at all of our National and many of our State conventions. Professor Hackleman is not the finest singer among us, in fact as a soloist we do not admire him overly much. But in his ability to get music out of masculine throats we believe he runs neck and neck with the very best song evangelists we have among our own people. It has been our pleasure to hear him at the head of great choirs, and congregations composed entirely of men, and as leader of the Centennial Communion Service of Song at Pittsburgh he demonstrated to our entire satisfaction the possession of those qualities which make for success in the musical line. Attendants at the Brotherhood Convention are assured of many delights in music, which will be arranged by this genius. Mr. Hackleman is the author of a number of beautiful hymns written especially for men, and has compiled hymnals for Church, Sunday-school and Brotherhood meetings. He holds General Brotherhood membership card No. 310, and the Brotherhood emblem will be noted shining on the lapel of his coat.

How the Preacher Won Judge Rankin

By J. K. SHELLENBERGER

"Hello, Judge!"

"Hello, Parson. Come in. Have a chair. Fine morning, isn't it. By the way, they say you had a warm time in the council last night. How was it? Tell me about it."

"Rather warm, sure as you're alive. We thought we had sufficient names and some to spare. But that committee is as wet as a soaked rag and has about as much conscience. Had it not been for Mr. Wilkins they would have declared every dry man in town ineligible to vote, I suspect."

"Mr. Wilkins held them level, did he?"

"Indeed he did. It is almost unusual to find an attorney who has the backbone to risk his reputation in this local option fight. But Mr. Wilkins doubtless feels his reputation is made. He tells me he has voted Prohibition ever since the movement was inaugurated."

"Mr. Wilkins would doubtless have made a better living had he not been so radical, however."

"How about his character, Judge Rankin?"

"Well-l-l-l, you know we lawyers are not supposed to look deeper than the surface. Facts and results are the things with which we deal."

"'Facts and results,' you say, Judge; and I suppose your estimation of them depends largely on the seer's viewpoint. The 'facts' in this case are that Mr. Wilkins did his duty, paying no heed to the sneers of the Mayor, the frowns of the committee, nor to the cursings of the Chief of Police."

"Well! you must have had an interesting time!"

"Indeed we did. The council chamber was filled with wets; some of them drunk. They swore and smoked and spit until the atmosphere was both hot and livid. The Mayor not only participated, but joined in the cursings. There was scarcely an honorable citizen in town who was not viciously maligned. When U. S. John Merideth was presenting the petition the Chief of Police interrupted him by openly calling him a liar."

"Did the Mayor allow such a thing to go unreprimanded?"

"He did until I called upon His Honor to permit one who was speaking in behalf of the people to be heard without being insulted."

"Had to call the court to order, didn't you?" laughed Rankin.

"Yes; and when I did the Chief walked behind my chair, clutched my collar and hissed between his teeth, 'O black devil, I'll get you for that; so I don't.'"

"What did you do?"

"Never recognized the fact that he was in existence."

"Well, the petition was granted and the time of election set, I understand."

"Yes, that's the 'result.' We thought at one time they were going to throw out sufficient names to lose the petition but we detailed four men to slip out and hustle as many more as could be gotten. Then I had up my sleeve forty-four names who had signed with the disapproval, understanding their names would only be used in case of extreme necessity. So when we filled up the first big gap they had made, I quietly remarked, 'Just as well be square. We've lots more where those came from.' The bluff worked and concluded we had more names lying than we really had."

"And so the fight is really on. Par- you'd make a politician if you'd your conscience. You've got the all right. You're always ready for the next move and seem to see what the fellow is going to do before he does it. You ought to be the leader of this local option campaign."

"Do you really think so?"

"Yes, I do. But I suppose your crowd will put some pious old jay, who doesn't know the Civil War is over, at the head of our forces. That's the trouble with the temperance people. You never get the right men to the front. And when you do, the whole bunch will lie down on the leader the minute the fight gets a little bit warm, and the political pot begins to boil."

"Not always, Judge. There are some men who will stand by the guns without being paid for it."

"Not many, I tell you. If such fellows as you would go to the front, and we could depend upon piety for loyalty, I think I'd have cut my crowd years ago. But what's the use? The temperance fellows throw you down, and there you are. Influence lost, position gone, and whiskey grinning in your face. You're right morally, but you can't win. Your men won't stick. They'll lie down before the campaign's half over. You'll see I tell you—"

"Hold on, Judge. Let me say what I came to say. What you say is true to history so far as this old town is concerned. But, Judge, I came into this office this morning for the purpose of changing the course of history."

"What do you mean, Halliday? You're going to turn the world upside down, are you? Well, you are like all the other preachers. You think because a thing ought to be, therefore it will be."

"But I tell you conditions are what men make them; and the majority are against you. It's no use—"

"Wait, Judge, listen to me. You said if I were at the head of the local option forces you'd have some faith in the movement. I appreciate the compliment, and now I want to say that I am at the head. They organized last night at the Christian Church and I was chosen Chairman of the campaign—"

"Good for—"

"Hold on, please. Let me finish. I did not come to tell you that, except incidentally. This is what I wanted to say. With you at the head of the politics of this thing we can win; and I came to ask you to organize this movement politically. I'll take the publicity end and together we'll win."

The Judge gasped, then frowned. Though they belonged to different churches, yet he and Mr. Halliday had been close friends. The Judge was a man, every inch of him. And yet that strange inconsistency that is found in many a good man was an element of the Judge's character. He was Superintendent of one of the largest Bible Schools in the city. As such he had been a success, according to the readings of ten years ago. But for the last eighteen months his influence had been waning and his Bible School had been shrinking. The Judge himself was on the point of resigning. He was also the leader of the dominant party in the politics of his county and congressional district. Six years had he been on the bench. This honor was handed him by the political machine of which he was head. A candidacy for congress was the plum they were offering him at this particular time. While there were many good men voting with the Judge's party, yet to say that his party was dominated and controlled by the saloon element of the county and dis-strict is but to state a fact that is patent in more places than in Johnson County. Hence when Mr. Halliday said to the Judge that he wanted him to organize and conduct the political end of this local option fight it took his breath. "The nerve of the preacher!" thought the Judge. Everybody knew the Judge was the manager of the "Wet's" campaign two years before, and to him was credited at that time the defeat of the "Drys" more than to any other force. In fact it was said, and undisputed, that whatever the Rankins wanted politically they could have. For ever since they had sent the old leaders, Henderson and Harnley, to the "pen" for embezzlement the Rankin crowd had had undisputed sway. The Judge was an organizer and his brother was an excellent lieutenant.

Mr. Halliday was a new comer to the city. But he and Judge Rankin had been friends from the start. A virile man was Halliday. He was kindly disposed toward all men, even to his bitterest enemies, but he had firm convictions on moral questions. His backbone had lime in it. When he wanted to say reformatory things from the pulpit it never occurred to him to ask old Elder Jenkins, the Board of Trade manager, nor Sister Buzzabout, whether he dared. He simply said them and expected results.

He had not been in the city two months until he began preaching reform. And the strange thing about it all was that those whom he criticised the most unmercifully came to hear him the most eagerly. He was no fanatic. He was a man of clear convictions and sane judgment. The men of the city were not long discovering that his suggestions were practical and his judgments reliable. His fearless, sensible, manly frankness both pleased and attracted the Judge, and he had openly said: "Halliday is my kind of a preacher. There'll be something doing if he stays in this town a year.

And so it had come about that a friendship had sprung up between Judge and preacher, for they were only attracted by each other's talents, by that instinct in man that enables to sense a real man when he meets and compels him to give of his nature what he receives. This is not the friendship that is secured by barter and counter methods, but the give-and-help-yourself kind.

So, when the preacher made known his errand, the Judge turned pale. He leaned forward in his chair and put at his collar, as if it was too tight. His frame was quivering with excitement and his hand was visibly trembling.

"Man!" cried the Judge, "Do you know how much the doing of what you ask would cost me?"

"Indeed I do. I thought it all out last night. It will cost you your congressional ambitions, the confidence of your political friends, the machine which you have so successfully built up, the dereliction of clients and the sacrifice of arms to come for at least three years. It will cost you your social position, and your financial prestige. Your very friends will turn against you. Your brethren in the church will call you traitor and refuse to trust you. You will be accused of hypocrisy for selfish ends. It will cost you days and nights of tears and anguish and loneliness. But, Judge, few men are worthy to pay such a price for the saving of a county. You are worthy and you are able to make the sacrifice. Here is my hand in this work no matter what comes. Say you will do it."

"And in the face of all you have said you still have the nerve to ask me to sacrifice myself?"

"I'm not asking you to sacrifice yourself, Judge. God knows I'm trying to save you. You are too good to allow is whiskey-guzzling crowd to carry you on their shoulders and at the same time slap your manhood like vampires. No, Judge, cut the saloon and stand up and open for political righteousness as well as Sunday-School piety." The Judge turned and gazed out of the window, seeing nothing. Five long minutes passed in which neither said a word. Finally he turned to the preacher and said: "Halliday, you are a brave and a true man." Rising and offering his hand he continued: "Come tomorrow evening at five o'clock and you shall have my answer."

Promptly on the hour the preacher returned. The Judge's face was flushed and his eyes were shining from victory in the hardest battle he had ever fought. He grasped the preacher's hand and in a quiet tone slowly said: "Halliday, I'm with you, and—I — will — pay — the — price."

And he paid it to the last farthing.

The Practice of Christian Union

By R. O. WICKHAM

R. O. WICKHAM

NOTE.—The General Brotherhood office has seen for some time a healthy inclination on the part of churchmen of towns, cities and even entire counties, to affiliate in movements for the betterment of local civic conditions, but it has been left to the Brotherhood movement to cement organizations of men under the banner of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ. This has been done well in Texas by the Brotherhood of Collin County, an account of which we hope to present to our readers in an early issue of CHRISTIAN MEN. Likewise the churches of Sawtelle, Santa Monica and Ocean Park, California, have banded together and taken out affiliation papers in the General Brotherhood. There has been another unique Brotherhood achievement brought about by two churches of Rolling Prairie, Indiana, Christian and Methodist, in uniting their masculine forces under the banner of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, each of the forty-eight members having signed the Brotherhood Covenant and remitted dues to the general organization, regardless of church affiliation. That they are starting on the high seas toward practical civic accomplishment through the Brotherhood agency will be inferred from the following article from the pen of our Rolling Prairie pastor: Brother Wickham was educated for the Lutheran ministry, became dissatisfied, and entered commercial pursuits in Elkhart. The Brotherhood men of L. B. D. C. No. 289 found him, he saw the Brotherhood vision, and S. G. Buckner imparted knowledge regarding the plea of our people.—EDITOR.

I am sending the quarterly dues for forty-eight charter members of Local Brotherhood organized in the Christian and Methodist churches here. This town has only about 350 inhabitants and the two churches. The men in our church were not working and I learned that the men in the M. E. were not. When I took up the work here I began to talk Brotherhood (it was the Brotherhood that gave me the vision that caused me to enter the Christian ministry). The men could not understand what it was, but by much talking and work I created enthusiasm enough to get forty-six men from both churches and no church out to our first banquet. S. G. Buckner, of Elkhart, gave an interesting talk on Brotherhood work after which thirty-two men signed the Brotherhood Covenant. This proved only the beginning of interest in the Brotherhood movement and a number of men that had not attended expressed a desire to become members. We held another banquet the last Friday in June. Judge C. A. Lee, of Elkhart, delivered the address of the evening. He made a strong plea to the men to unite with the organization, after which eleven new names were added. A committee was appointed whose business it will be to consider the needs of the town and report at each regular meeting. This committee is known as "The Public Improvement Committee." The town is not incorporated and there is much work that can be done by the Brotherhood that will improve the town in every way. A feature of the movement that is already showing results is the Brotherhood service Sunday evening. The sermon is addressed to men and the entire service is made a men's meeting. This not only brings out the men on Brotherhood night, but increases the regular attendance at every service. We have started a Brotherhood Bible Class, which meets in the G. A. R. Hall. The men are taking much interest and our two churches are closer together than ever before.

"Old Man Figgers"

(Reprinted from System)

So lumber has its three classes—timber owner, producer, merchant; its three dominant elements—foresight, organization, merchandising; and for each of these a typical man—Weyerhaeuser, Hines, Long.

R. A. Long, of Kansas City, is the merchant of the lumber trade. Any one of a dozen or more of Weyerhaeuser's companies will ship more lumber than is handled by all of the Long yards, but just the same they of the Southwest look upon this lean, thoughtful, quiet man as the embodiment of shrewd merchandising in the trade.

"I heard Long make a speech at one time," said a lumberman. "It seemed to me he talked in statistics—a volume of them that would shame the census report—and yet he wove them together with Kentucky ardor and a touch of poetry that brought the lumber trade living and breathing into the banquet hall."

In a sense that is Long as he sits at his desk. He is a small, thin man, emaciated almost. Of the Henry Clay type, his features seem to come to a point, while his small mouth with its thin lips seems to testify to intensity of feeling and to indicate the statesman rather than the principal exponent, in one section, of the rough and ready lumber business. One would more readily imagine him sitting in some legislative assemblage, molding public opinion and action by the force of his eloquence, than as the central figure of a business system built up around the card index and the graphic chart.

But for all that, Long is the embodiment of merchandising, the exponent of the abstract statement. This has given him the name of "Old Figgers," though he is a young man. It all comes about naturally, this growth. He figures at one time—that was a long time ago—when he was running a hay and grain yard. He is a Kentuckian by birth, gifted with that touch of Southern eloquence and given to dreaming.

After the failure, he came to realize that dreaming and business do not go hand in hand, and that eloquence is worthless unless it is pleading the local cause of some desired change in business methods. He came to understand merchandising much as the human mind comes to see some great truth after some striking calamity. When he entered the lumber business he began by figuring the costs. He soon knew how much it cost to yard and hold the lumber, how much to market it direct to the consumer and how much to make sales in various territories.

His Estimate of Men Based on Their Work Done

"Send in Mr. So-and-So when he comes to headquarters next," said Mr. Long to a subordinate. A few days later the man arrived.

"I want you to take charge of the sales in that territory as soon as the details can be arranged."

Embarrassed at the unexpected promotion, the salesman started to stammer out his thanks and to suggest that others higher up were logically in line for the promotion.

"That's true," said Mr. Long, "but yours are the best reports that come in. You get the business and you also set the prices; my report shows it."

He had never seen the man and at the of issuing the summons did not know whether he had the personality of an actor or was as repulsive as a Satyr. He knew little about his personal habits and seemed to care less. The one thing that appealed to him was his sales record—cold, impassive figures that came to his desk in abstract statements and graphic charts. In the privacy of his office, he had figured it all out; he watched the man's career and believed in his powers as a salesman.

When Long quit the hay and feed business he tore down his shed and sold second-hand lumber for more than original cost. That gave him an idea of the increasing value of the product and a conception of the advantage of long timber against a rise. Step by step he worked out that idea until he saw eight saw mills producing in the aggregate 200,000,000 feet of lumber per year and until he owns eighty retail stores scattered over the Southwest. The Long-Bell Lumber Company is one of the first powers in the yellow pine belt. Organization and figures are Long's business weapons. At the head of every affiliated company, every branch, every department is a man of ability and training, who is given trust and responsibility. And throughout is a system of apprentices—young men at all the branches, who form a reserve ready to fill any gaps in the ranks of executives. The business must go on—and it has gone forward steadily without jar, while others have come and gone.

Although this business spreads over a vast empire, its affairs pass through Long's hands; he is in close touch with all its details through a remarkable system of reports.

At every branch and office, all records and accounts are kept in duplicate. One copy of everything comes to the home office. The branches and yards send in daily reports of receipts and sales, monthly statements of sales, of cash received, of outstanding accounts, of expenses.

All these records are classified and reduced at the home office. A complete detailed statement goes to Mr. Long. Every detail of every branch and phase of his business passes in review under his eye.

"Stocks are too big and business is falling off rapidly," he said to his general sales agent two years ago. "Yellow pine will not stand storage without rapid deterioration. This sudden business depression is going to cost thousands of dollars unless we can move our product quickly. Ultimately prices will have to come down and we might as well start now. Advise all of our trade that, for two months, we make a horizontal reduction of $5 a thousand."

He turned over millions of feet of lumber and set the pace for the trade. When he had cleaned up the surplus stocks and curtailed production sharply, the market was $2 to $3 a thousand under the figure he had named. By making a quick cut and by selling his product rapidly, he had saved loss in deterioration and also a still greater loss incident to subsequent lowering of the general market level. That was true merchandising.

These men have joined public policy with good business. "To permit the producer to take a clean sweep of his acreage, making some use of everything that comes to his mill, is conservation of waste, and good business"—Mr. Long has said. "Use all the cuttings," is a precept in Mr. Hines' organization. And to sweep a tract clean and use everything but the leaves is an old idea with Mr. Weyerhaeuser.

Sunset Journeys

Chapter Two

By THE GENERAL SECRETARY

Long Beach Long Beach is a lovely place. To begin with, the beach is wide, as well as long. I do not know any place where the sand is whiter or the ocean bluer and the water clearer than here, nor where the long breakers roll in to the sands in a more unbroken formation than here. There are no faults, no choppy waves, no balks nor bases on balls. The long swells get up away outside, take a peep at the sands, crouch and run forward, but in their eagerness presently they stand on tip-toe, and with long strides leap toward their goal, lifting their crests higher and higher, until the thin razor edge is like a sea-green mirror a mile long. For a moment it flutters, banner-like, and then the curling edge breaks into the selvage of white foam that laughs as it bends into a perfect circle, and with a crash and cry leaps upon the wet sand and scurries in hurrying sheets of living foam to tackle the toes of the children at play in the warmer stretches of the higher beach. There are lots of people who come to Long Beach. One yokel journeying up from San Jacinto way to see the ocean, on which his eyes had never yet rested, complained that he could not see the ocean for the water. Long Beach is so popular that you can no longer see the beach for the people. It is to Long Beach that our brethren in Southern California come annually for that feast of good things, that riot of reports, that whirlwind of enthusiasm, which they call a Convention. Saturday, July 30th, was Brotherhood day. Here at the morning session the Secretary was graciously permitted to unbosom himself of an address on Brotherhood Progress. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the regular Brotherhood session began. Elvin J. Curry, of Los Angeles, presided. J. B. Glover led the inspiring song service and conducted the devotions. Mrs. Princess Long hovered at the piano, and lent a touch of femininity that was not unwelcome, though unofficial. The first address of the afternoon was by President Curry, on "The Brotherhood and Fraternal Orders." This address contained a very scholarly array of information regarding fraternal orders, and as such was a most stimulating contribution to the thought of the hearers. George Ringo came next in an address on the Brotherhood and Missions, which was full of the fervor of one who has caught both the vision of the world-wide campaign now in progress and of the relationship of that campaign to the organization of our men. The final address was made by Willis S. Myers. He had a choice theme in "The Brotherhood and the Bible Schools," and well did he handle it. His paper was replete with practical suggestions, and none who heard it but must realize the tremendous contribution which the Brotherhood is going to make to Bible study. The next item on the program was a roundtable conference led by the Secretary. This gave an opportunity also to hear reports of practical work done by the Brotherhood in Southern California during the past year. Los Angeles, Pasadena, Glendora, Cincinnati, Riverside, Santa Monica and San Diego were all represented with more or less successful records of accomplishment, and in every address and in every comment there was a glow of enthusiasm and a feeling of contentment both as to the value of what had been accomplished and the possibilities for the future that were beautiful to see. All this time M. Rogers, our Long Beach pastor, of Springfield, Ill., was hustling about with preparations for the Brotherhood banquet. He began down stairs immediately. About one hundred men sat down, representative of the very best blood among our workers in Southern California, with a few national figures like Dr. W. S. Woods, of William Vorhees College of Missouri; Peter Ainslee, of Atlanta, more, and R. P. Shepherd, of St. Louis, and perhaps others. Of course some of the best men are of national prominence. Among the laymen Frank G. Tyrrell and J. G. Wier and among the preachers F. M. Dowling and A. C. Smither.

Just as the Long Beach banquet was beginning, the exigencies of a train connection sent the writer away.

Modesto As the train journeyed on we came to a place called Modesto. I keep wondering what that word means. Does it mean that the people who dwell in that town are modest, oh? Oh, no, it cannot for they are not. Yesterday Modesto was a grain field in the winter time, and a no-storm in the summer, but now it is no more. They have penned up the river and turned it loose upon the land. The grain field has become a checker board of alfalfa and peach trees. The sand storm has gone forever, and the breeze that stirred it up is a cool, refreshing zephyr that lifts the leaves on the trees until you catch the gleam of the rosy cheeks of peaches, luscious and tempting on every bough. Everywhere the gurgle of water comes, everywhere the sound of the mowing machine, everywhere the rustling noise made by the straining joints of alfalfa, stretching itself up and up over night as it must to produce at wonderful eight crops a year of which the people in the city of Modesto tell you. Everywhere, too, the sound of milk streaming into pails, for this is the great dairy country. When is a cow a peach? When she is grazing on a Modesto alfalfa farm. They all at fifteen cows and ten acres of land make you a living, while thirty cows and as much grass will make you independent life. There are four creameries here, they pay you thirty-four cents for butter and give you back the skim milk. Would you get thirty-four cents for about thirty-pounds of butter fat. In Modesto we have a church, and in the church a Brotherhood and in the Brotherhood a web—J. W.

He preached in Australia once, and laid the foundation of righteousness in the land continent, came back to win California away from the primrose path of dalliance. He has been on the job ever since, California, alas, still trips the light fantastic, dangerously near to the yawning lips of the mouth of—but J. W. Webb ran for Congress once on the prohibition ticket, and in that particular precinct he got more votes than both the Republican and Democratic candidates put together. So you see his neighbors sink a good deal of him. So do we. He is one of the most loyal Brotherhood men in California. Mr. Houston is President of the Modesto Brotherhood, and they held a most interesting, and to the Secretary instructive, meeting on Sunday afternoon, July 31st. The session was a long one, and concluded with the address of the General Secretary. These determined men with a fine appreciation of the work already done and a keen sense of the worthy enterprises to be undertaken in the next few years. Very hospitable, even though not modest, are the people of Modesto. Mr. Grundy met us at the depot with a carriage. Dame Grundy spread before us a delicious luncheon, and President Houston gave us a drive about the town, told us that Modesto had more miles of paved streets than any other city of its size in the world, and graciously sped the parting guest. The wanderers journeyed on with pleasant memories of the men of Modesto, not forgetting Mr. Houston, a former President of the Brotherhood, whose home he was entertained on a previous visit, and whom he much regretted not seeing at this time.

Who Vale, Modesto; save Chico. Now what does Chico mean? You propose it Cheek-O. Does it therefore mean the very opposite of Modest-O? Having discovered that the people of Modesto have Cheek-O, should we therefore expect that the people of Chico have modesty O? Oh, no. At least they have no modesty about the Brotherhood. A lady told me at once on arriving there that the church was twice as large since the Brotherhood was formed. Chico is about as far up the Sacramento Valley as Modesto is up the San Joaquin Valley. The two rivers, like the horns of an elk, point toward the two great valleys of California. Chico lies flat on the floor of the great valley. There is plenty of water around, with the Sacramento River on the left and the snow-capped Sierra Nevadas on the right; but nevertheless it was here that a famous experiment in irrigation was tried. The farmer planted potatoes and onions in the same bar-ren field, a row of potatoes and a row of onions, the theory being that the onions would cause the eyes of the potatoes to run water to irrigate both crops. Did it work? I do not know. Inquiries are respectfully referred to A. G. Collins, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 306. Dr. March is the President of the Brotherhood. Although it was in the heat of summer, and it gets so hot in Chico that the Diamond Match Co. located there has to store its product in the ice house, they turned out a royal group of men and a fine lot of Loyal Sons. The speech making began at 8:30 and continued with watermelon intermission until near midnight. In the early morning the journey to the Far North was continued. Mrs. Taylor, a sister of W. S. Randall, that well known Brotherhood man of L. B. D. C. No. 1, in Kansas City, came to send a word of greeting to her brother and emphasized it with a dozen delicious peaches, and half as many fragrant rosebuds. I am glad that Randy has a sister in the far West, and if he sees this before I see him, this is to say that the peaches are on their way, and so am I.

Salem

Melchizedek was the first King of Salem, but Charlie Knowland is the President of the Brotherhood at Salem, Oregon, and while he cannot be said to be without beginning of years since he was so young looking that there must have been a beginning not more than twenty-five or thirty years ago, it is our hope that there will not soon be an end to his days as President of that thrifty organization. The Secretary of the Salem Brotherhood is a live wire on his own account, and when you consider that Davis Errett is pastor of the church, and that "Doc" Epley, who scales 292, is the Superintendent of the Bible School, you will realize that there is a pretty strong group of leaders there. Consider further that Salem is the capital of Oregon, and besides is in the heart of the apple country, and it will be understood that the rest of the men are full of vinegar also, and the prospect for effective work is great. On Sunday morning, August 7th, the General Secretary disembarked from one of Mr. Pullman's slumber wagons, rubbed the sleep out of his eyes, and looked at the beauty and brightness of Oregon's capital city. At 11 o'clock there was a preaching service to which the Brotherhood man held forth for the allotted time on Brotherhood Accomplishments. Following this came a generous luncheon for men only, by men only, in the basement of the church. How is that for enterprise? Consider, ye effete Easterners, and be wise. The men of Salem grasp their opportunities. The Secretary had to leave on the 3 o'clock train, so they served a luncheon in the church on Sunday at noon, and held the men right there while the address on "How to Do the Thing" was continued, with only the slight interruption of going down stairs, until train time, when the whole-souled Epley tumbled out his big red E. M. F. car and took us to the train. Facetiously he told me that E. M. F. stands for Every Mechanical Fault. I am inclined, however, to think that E. M. F.

means Epley is a Magnificent Fellow. By the way, Epley sends his regards to Bob Waggener, of Cincinnati. Here you are, R. H. Among the guests at the Salem banquet were Dr. Brougher, of the Congregational Church, and Mr. Hendricks, of the Statesman. The Brotherhood men were clamoring for them both to speak as the Secretary left, and one of his regrets is that he did not have the pleasure of hearing them.

Portland From Salem to Portland in the afternoon is a delightful ride, much of the way along the banks of the shining Willamette, and always with towering mountains and forest-clad landscape, with here and there an orchard of gleaming fruit in view. We have a flourishing Brotherhood in Portland at the First Church, where M. B. Meecham is President and A. L. Foster is Secretary. W. F. Reager is pastor of the First Church, and T. G. Pixton at Rodney Avenue Church. Both are ex-Californians and old friends of the Secretary. The meeting was held in the First Church, with ladies present. They were massed upon the right of the speaker, while the men filled the entire left half of the auditorium solid. It was one of the finest audiences of men we have yet seen in the Northwest, which is saying a great deal, and the ladies lent distinction. They have a Sisterhood here as well, and much that was said to the men would apply to the women's organization. This was a very enthusiastic meeting. The men were flushed with past successes, and after hearing the story of Brotherhood achievements in other parts of the country they enter upon their second year of life with redoubled zeal. Some time since a movement was started in the First Church to reduce their debt by three thousand dollars, and the proposal was made that the Brotherhood subscribe fifteen hundred dollars of this amount. They rose to the occasion by making their subscriptions total seventeen hundred dollars.

Any mention of Portland that did not take account of the great work which J. F. Ghormley is doing on the East Side, would be inadequate. Here a splendid stone structure to cost $70,000 and to be known as The Central Church of Christ, is approaching completion. Lewis Montgomery is a member here, and we doubt not there will be a solid Brotherhood organization at an early date.

Tacoma Tacoma is one of the group of three great cities on the North Pacific Coast. The Southern arm of Sound is called Commencement Bay, west of where that arm lies sparkling sunlight, the City of Tacoma proudly on the lofty heights. Few cities in the have a more commanding position. From top of the ridge to the lowest strip of land the city sweeps. Beautiful park residences, broad avenues, huge blocks, a great system of docks, and acres of lumber piles, with the rising and smoke from many mills mingling with the mist that drives in from the Bay to a hovering haze that broods like a spirit over the growing industrial life of a thriving city—this is the picture. The First Church of Tacoma is housed in a splendid building, a worthy representative of a worthy cause in a worthy city. W. A. Moore, pastor, was absent, and J. J. Groom, of the Central Church, was unable to attend, but had a great meeting for all of that, but there was a Brotherhood organization already had come to self-reliance. There is nothing more notable than the new spirit of self-reliance among our men as seen upon this trip. Ordinarily, with a pastor out of town, nothing could be done a year ago toward getting the men together, but now the organization moves surely and self-reliantly toward the accomplishment of the work in hand, without it be arranging for a Brotherhood meeting, the launching of a civic righteousness campaign, or the building of a church in the city. U. E. Harmon, an attorney, is the President of the Brotherhood and a real leader among the men of the church. The Sisterhood of the church had prepared a delightful banquet, and graced the occasion by her own presence, sitting in a circle around the men, like the fringe of mashed potato around a planked salmon steak. This Brotherhood is unusually well supplied with strong men, leaders and a very fine group of young men who will be available for committee work. There is no doubt whatever that they will do a conspicuous work in the coming year. The men in this Brotherhood have been working for a federation of all the Brotherhoods of the city, and already fourteen have joined the larger association, and Mr. Harmon is also President of the Federation. He was compelled to leave the meeting before it concluded in order to attend an executive committee meeting of the larger body, but is just now planning an aggressive campaign for better civic conditions.

Sunset Journeys

Chapter Three—The General Secretary Sick

By THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY

ndicitis On Tuesday, August 30th, after suffering much pain for a week, the General Secretary placed himself in the hands of a man in Los Angeles, who diagnosed his "Appendicitis." Mr. Macfarlane was put in a hotel and after forty-eight hours of no improvement, he was removed to the Samaritan Hospital, where at this writing he now lies sick. We have had almost no bulletins from his bedside, one day encouraging and the next discouraging. Thus a operation has been avoided, which, due to his extreme weight (275 pounds), the family does not think advisable, excepting as a last resort. We have had no word from the physician and our intelligence has all been from the patient, which is of itself an encouraging sign. At the same time we are fearful of the anxiety for the welfare of this movement at this time, with many of our State Conventions already upon us and the National Convention but a few weeks away, is not putting anything toward his welfare, and for that reason if no other, we are refraining from sending him anything except advice to "keep quiet."

Be Out Soon

In his last advice he anticipated being away from the hospital in a week, but that time has passed and a telegram announces a slight relapse. We are going to ask the readers of CHRISTIAN MEN to bear with us in this temporary affliction and we shall hope to have for them in the November number a complete account of "How it feels to have appendicitis," from the pen of the recuperated patient. He does not know that we are writing this of him, in fact, we have a faint suspicion that he does not desire it. At the same time we feel that the Magazine readers and Brotherhood men in general are entitled to this news, distressing as it is, and know you will share with us and with him great sympathy in his affliction. We hope to announce as a postscript to this article his complete recovery and return to Kansas City.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 15, 1910.

"Have had a good day and have now set Wednesday, Sept. 21st, as the day I hope to leave the hospital and will arrive in Kansas City Oct. 1st." P. C. MACFARLANE.

A Voice From Canada

On Sunday, August 7th, we had the pleasure of addressing the Business Men's class at the Christian Church of St. Thomas, Ontario. The class has an enrollment of eighty men and under the earnest teaching of Brother Norton has grown in the spirit of devotion and service. Wm. Coulter is the energetic president of the class. We presented a picture of the growth of the Brotherhood, explained the Constitution and Covenant and outlined the aims and purposes of the organization. At the close of the address the president spoke heartily in favor of a local organization. In the course of his remarks he said that the idea of tying up to an international organization impressed him deeply and that he felt the usefulness of the class could be greatly enlarged by such. No doubt the class will organize early in the Fall, since much interest was also evinced by the men. A number of subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN were taken.

In the evening we crossed over to London, Ontario, eighteen miles north. The Disciples are very weak in this aristocratic city, but Brother H. B. Hayden is giving this congregation a wider vision than it has had before. We were forced to speak to a mixed audience, but the ladies seemed to enjoy the information concerning the Brotherhood. The leaders in the work of the church said "The Brotherhood is the very thing we need," and as Brother Hayden has been inspired first hand by Secretary Macfarlane, we have no doubt we shall hear of the London Brotherhood.

We regret that we were not able to speak at many other points in "Western Ontario," but since it was vacation time the pastors or churches felt the time inopportune. The work was enjoyable and the writer would offer it to pastors as a happy means of passing a few days of their vacation.

Here is a wide field for the Field Secretary and good results would follow his work.

Very sincerely,

H. E. STAFFORD.

Massillon, Ohio.

P. H. WELSHIMER

Bible School Lessons for October

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2.—OCTOBER 9.

"PARABLE OF THE TALENTS."

—MATT. 25:14-30.

American Revised

14 For it is as when a man, going into another country, called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. 15 And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, to another one; to each according to his several ability; and he went on his journey. 16 Straightway he that received the five talents went and traded with them, and made other five talents. 17 In like manner he also that received the two gained other two. 18 But he that received the one went away and digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money. 19 Now after a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and maketh a reckoning with them. 20 And he that received the five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents; lo, I have gained other five talents. 21 His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy lord. 22 And he also that received the two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: lo, I have gained other two talents. 23 His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy lord. 24 And he also that received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art a hard man, reaping where thou didst not sow, and gathering where thou didst not scatter; 25 and I was afraid, and went away and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, thou hast thine own. 26 But his lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I scattered not; 27 thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the bankers, and I should have received mine own with interest. 28 Take ye away therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him that hath the ten talents. 29 For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him that hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken away. 30 And cast ye out the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth.

Time. The last week before the crucifixion. Place. Jerusalem.

Introduction. The lesson of the talents follows immediately that of the parable of the virgins. Both pertain to the professed followers of Christ and emphasize faithfulness in service. The parable of the virgins emphasizes the necessity of watching and making preparation, while this parable tells how it shall be done. Both parables stress upon the time that must elapse before the return of the Lord. In Luke 19 we learn that they thought the kingdom of God should immediately appear.

Explanatory. 14-15—Each servant received according to his ability. The five and the one talent man was able to use just what he received. 16-18—The two and the two talent men went to work, used the talents left in their possession and succeeded in multiplying that which he had at the beginning. The one talent fellow was a coward, he was faithless, unfaithful and lazy. He digged in the earth and hid his lord's talent. This was done for safe keeping. 19—The time may seem long, but it will come when the lord returns to reckon with his servants. 20-23—The five and two talent men each stood before the lord, having doubled that which they had at the beginning. Each man was called a good and faithful servant. They were promoted to a rulership because of their faithfulness. 24-27—It was just as imperative to the one talent man as to the five to do all he could. Had he gained two talents he would have been as faithful and would have received a reward. His own confession states that he was faithless and unfaithful. Had he been faithful and industrious, the Master would not have appeared as a hard man in making a demand of the return of gain. He was too slothful to work and had been so negligent that he not even loaned the money he might secure interest. 28—Having proven himself incapable by his slothfulness, which he had was taken from him and given to the one who was most capable to use it. 29—"Everyone that hath" means he that improves that which he has, to him be given, and "from him that hath not," means the one who does not improve that which he has, from him that which he has shall be taken away. 30—The faithful servants were promoted and given a rulership and they entered into the joy of the Lord. The unfaithful and unprofitable received the reverse, away from his lord, he went to darkness and his future was filled with remorse and sorrow.

Comments on the Lesson

In Second Thess. we learn the followers of Christ ceased to be active, but simply waiting for the coming of their Lord. Jesus knew this to be one of the dangers, hence in the lesson today urges the disciples to be active according to their ability. Each talent signifies one's ability and opportunity. Each man is responsible for that which is given him to use. Each man received that which he was able to use. The Lord insists upon faithfulness from man according to his talents or his ability. We are not to be rewarded according to the success that attends us, but according to the measure of diligence and faithfulness. Jesus teaches here that heavenly reward lies in promotion. A man need not excuse himself because he has but one talent. If he uses it to the best of his ability, is active, not slothful, his reward may be proportionately as great as the one who starts with five talents. The great question that will be asked on the last day is, "Have you been faithful; have you done what you could?" In the parable of the virgins, the foolish ones failed because they took their duties too easily, where the servant fails because he thinks his duty is too hard. Men will either be promoted or degraded. To take the talents from the man was not an arbitrary punishment; it came as the natural result of the moral law. "Unused powers always fall into atrophy, paralysis and death," but the faithful, diligent use of one's power will cause them to enlarge more and more. The more a man has, the more he is capable of receiving, and generally the more he does, the more he is capable of doing.

Questions for Class Use

Why did Jesus speak this parable? In what respect does it differ from the parable of the virgins? Why was one man given five and another two and another one talent? Proportionately, had the man with five talents done any more than the one with two? What does the joy of the Lord consist? Why didn't the one talent man invest what he had? Describe this character? Why was the one talent man's talent taken from him? Upon what does promotion depend? Was the task laid upon the one talent man any greater than that upon the five or the two?

LESSON 3.—OCTOBER 16.

"THE LAST JUDGMENT."—MATT. 25:31-46.

But when the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the angels with him, he shall sit on the throne of his glory: 32 and before him shall be gathered all the nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as the shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats; 33 and he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. 34 Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: 35 for I was hungry, and ye gave me to eat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in; 36 naked, and ye clothed me; I was sick, and ye visited me; I was in prison, and ye came unto me. 37 Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee hungry, and fed thee? or athirst, and gave thee drink? 38 And when saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee? 39 And when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee? 40 And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me. 41 Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into the eternal fire which is prepared for the devil and his angels: 42 for I was hungry, and ye did not give me to eat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink; 43 I was a stranger, and ye took me not in; naked, and ye clothed me not; sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not. 44 Then shall they also answer, saying, Lord, when saw we thee hungry, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee? 45 Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of these least, ye did it not unto me. 46 And these shall go away into eternal punishment: but the righteous into eternal life.

Time. Week of the crucifixion. Place. Jerusalem.

Explanatory. 31—This is the final coming of Jesus. Such is indicated by the of His coming in His glory, bringing the angels with Him and sitting on the throne. The throne of glory is the throne of judgment. His glory will be revealed in judging. 32-33—All peoples of all nations that have ever been, will be gathered before Him. It is easy for the shepherd to distinguish the sheep from the goats, like it will be easy for the judge to distinguish between the false and the true. There will be a dividing line. 34—The kingdom to which Christ refers has been in course of preparation from the foundation of the world. It is a prepared place for a prepared people. 35-36—Entrance into the kingdom cannot be bought simply by good works. It is inherited, as is taught elsewhere by the Great Teacher. We become sons of God, then as sons of God we minister to the world in the name of Christ. When one has believed on Christ, confessed Him, repented of his sins and been baptized into His name, he must not sit down. It is then his duty to feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, care for the strangers, clothe the naked and visit the sick. That is the practical side of religion. Jesus went about doing good. We must be like Him to be His disciple. 37-39—Many, when rewarded for having rendered such acts of mercy, have been unable to understand that this was done to Him, hence their questions. Jesus teaches that we minister unto Him, when we minister unto His in His name. If we would serve Him well, we must serve humanity, in His name. Love for Christ should prompt us to do this. 41—Those on the left will be known as the unrighteous and will be cursed because they did not render Christian service in His name. From Christ's words we can see how serious it is to neglect these simple but helpful ministries. The place of punishment was primarily prepared for the devil and his angels, and inasmuch as this is to be the place to which the unrighteous shall be sent, they too, shall suffer with him. This shows the awfulness of transgression. 42-45—Those ones sent to the left had neglected to render Christian service to Him, which expressed their lack of faith, love and obedience. The service spirit must characterize the true follower of Christ. 46—Everlasting and eternal mean the same. The nature of everlasting punishment is as long as eternal life.

Comments on the Lesson

Jesus never spoke in a doubtful way. All His teaching was positive. We are men today express themselves as not believing in future punishment. Some would make us believe man gets his hell in this world and there will be none hereafter. Such teaching is not in harmony with the Great Teacher, who knew whereof He spoke. He spake only the truth. When Jesus says a line will be drawn, it stands us in haste to ascertain what we must do to get on the right side of that line. Here are great statements, spoken in simple language, so simple that all the world may read and understand, and yet men will quibble about rewards and punishment. Some would detach these verses from all other Scripture and from them preach the doctrine of salvation by good works alone. All utterances of the Master relative to our entrance into the kingdom of God must be studied in the light of all other utterances on the subject which He gave. He did not mean to teach that one is simply saved by feeding the hungry, caring for the sick, etc. That is a part of Christian duty, but it is not all. These works are the natural results of a life of faith, love and obedience toward Christ. When one becomes a disciple, these are the things he must do, and in failing to do them would forfeit their claims to discipleship and will not be known as His. John tells us that if one closes up the bowels of compassion when he sees a brother in need, he has not the love of God dwelling in him. James says that part of religion is to visit the widows and the fatherless in their affliction and keep one's self unspotted from the world. We are not saved by works alone; neither can we be saved without works. This lesson teaches us that memory shall go with us beyond the grave. In a parable, Abraham said to Dives, "Son, remember that in life thou hast thy good things." Here Jesus teaches that when men stand before Him in judgment they will remember the things they have done or have neglected to do while in the flesh. This lesson is hard on the Universalist doctrine. We have been warned, the road has been pointed out to us, we know where the line will be drawn and it is ours to choose as to which side of the line we shall be on.

Questions for Class Use

Of what judgment is Jesus speaking, in this lesson? What is meant by the throne of His glory? Has He said anything elsewhere relative to His coming with His angels? What is the dividing line of which Jesus speaks? What in this lesson indicates that memory shall go with us into the heavenly kingdom? In what way can we feed Christ, today? How long has our heavenly home been in course of preparation? What did Jesus say in the 14th of John about that home? Which will last the longer—the eternal life or everlasting punishment? What did Jesus mean by eternal life and what did He mean by everlasting punishment? What can you recall from His teachings on these two subjects elsewhere in the Book?

LESSON 4.—OCTOBER 23.

"REVIEW."

The lessons of the past quarter are as follows:

- "Pictures of the Kingdom"—Matt. 13:31-33; 44-52.
- "Peter's Confession"—Matt. 16:13-28.
- "The Transfiguration"—Matt. 17:1-8; 14-20.
- "A Lesson on Forgiveness"—Matt. 18:21-35.
- "Jesus on the way to Jerusalem"—Matt. 19:1-2; 13-26.
- "The Laborers in the Vineyard"—Matt. 20:1-16.
- "Jesus nearing Jerusalem"—Matt. 20:17-34.
- "Jesus entering Jerusalem"—Matt. 21:1-17.
- "Two Parables of Judgment"—Matt. 21:33-46.
- "The King's Marriage Feast"—Matt. 22:1-14.
- "Three Questions"—Matt. 22:15-22; 34-46.
- "Temperance Lesson"—Gal. 5:15-26.

Plans for Review Sunday

1. Let the teacher select 100 questions from the twelve lessons of the quarter. Divide the class into two sections and then question down. This has been tried by many classes and proved very successful. It is wise to make out a list of questions and let them be given to the class previous to review, that they may study them during the week. This creates interest and helps to clinch the truths that have been learned in the quarter.
2. Let someone give a talk on the peoples, another on places, another on the parables, another on other teachings of Jesus during the quarter.
3. Let there be twelve two or three-minute talks on lessons gleaned from the lessons of the quarter.

Some Questions Proposed for Discussion in Review

- LESSON 1. Where was Jesus when He gave the pictures of the kingdom? To what did He liken the kingdom? How is the kingdom like a grain of mustard seed? Like leaven? How like a treasure hidden in a field? How like a goodly pearl? How like a net?
- LESSON 2. Where was Jesus when Peter made the confession? What was the occasion of His making it? What was the confession of Peter? On what did Jesus build His church? What is the meaning of giving the keys to Peter? Who has the keys now? Why did He call Peter, Satan? What is the meaning of taking up the cross to follow Jesus?
- LESSON 3. Where was Jesus transfigured? Who were present at the transfiguration? What did God say at this time? What effect did the transfiguration have upon Peter, James and John? Why was Jesus transfigured?
- LESSON 4. How many times must a man forgive another? What was the illustration that Jesus gave on forgiveness? What application did He make?
- LESSON 5. How did Jesus receive the little children? Did He talk about baptisms and church memberships, to the children? What error has grown from the statement of Jesus, concerning His receiving little children? Tell four things about the rich young ruler. Why did he go away from Jesus, sorrowful? What did Jesus say about the man that trusts in riches?
- LESSON 6. What did Jesus mean by the first being last and the last being first? What is the illustration He gave? What was the occasion of this illustration?
- LESSON 7. What request did the mother of James and John make of Jesus? What was wrong about this request? How did the other disciples accept it? Did Jesus answer her? What was the lesson that Jesus taught about greatness? What blind men did Jesus heal near Jericho?
- LESSON 8. Where is Bethphage? Whom did Jesus send for the ass? On what did He make His triumphal entry? Describe His reception in Jerusalem. How did this please the priests and Levites? Why did He cleanse the temple? What sins were being committed in the temple?
- LESSON 9. Give the story of the parable of the vineyard and the husbandmen. What is the application Jesus made? Why did He give this parable?
- LESSON 10. What was the occasion of giving the lesson on the King's marriage feast? Who were invited first? Who second? What's the lesson of the wedding garment? Who are the called and who are the chosen?
- LESSON 11. Who were the Pharisees and who the Sadducees? What did Jesus say was the great commandment? With what question did the Sadducees come and how did Jesus answer it? What was the question of Jesus to the Pharisees and what their reply?

LESSON 5.—OCTOBER 30.

"THE ANNOINTING OF JESUS."—MATT. 26:1-16.

1 And it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these words, he said unto his disciples, 2 Ye know that after two days the passover cometh and the Son of man is delivered up to be crucified. 3 Then were gathered together the chief priests, and the elders of the people, unto the court of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas; 4 and they took counsel together that they might take Jesus by subtlety, and kill him. But they said, Not during the feast, lest a tumult arise among the people. 6 Now when Jesus was in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, 7 there came unto the house a woman having an alabaster cruse of exceeding precious ointment, and she poured it upon his head, as he sat at meat. 8 But when the disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this waste? 9 For this ointment might have been sold for money and given to the poor. 10 But Jesus, receiving it said unto them, Why troublest thou the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me. 11 For ye have the poor always with you; but me ye have not. 12 For in that she poured this ointment upon my body, she did it to prepare me for burial. 13 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which this woman hath done shall be spoken of as a memorial of her. 14 Then one of the twelve, who was called Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief priests, 15 and said, What are ye willing to give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they weighed unto him thirty pieces of silver. 16 And from that time he sought opportunity to deliver him unto them.

Time. The Sunday evening before the crucifixion. Place. In Bethlehem, the home of Simon.

Explanatory. 1—The lesson of today occurred on two different days. The events of the first six verses were on Wednesday preceding His death, while the anointing occurred the Sunday evening before. (John 12:1.) These sayings alluded to are those recorded in Matt., chapters 23 to 25. 2—This is the fourth time, according to Matthew, that Jesus has predicted His death. The Passover is the national feast of the Jews, kept in commemoration of the passing over of the death angel in Egypt just before the deliverance from bondage. 3-5—The statements in chapters 23, 24 and 25 had been made in the morning of Wednesday. That same day the chief priests and elders assembled, being in a state of frenzy because of what they had heard. They consulted with Caiaphas and desired to secretly and by a subtle way kill Jesus, but they were fearful to attempt this on the day of the feast, for the people were friendly to Him. 6—For other accounts of the anointing in Bethany, read Mark 14:3-9 and John 12:1-8. Matthew is not giving the records of these days in chronological order. He now goes back to the events which transpired the Sunday evening before. Bethany was the home of Mary, Martha, Lazarus and Simon the leper. Simon had been a leper, who doubtless had been cured by the Master, as no leper was allowed to mingle with the people. (Lev. 13:45-46.) Here was a man grateful for the help that had been given him. In this home a banquet had been made for Jesus. Mary, Martha and Lazarus were invited. Martha waited on the table and Lazarus sat at the table with Jesus, while Mary annointed Him for His burial. The disciples were also present to enjoy the hospitality of Simon's home and the companionship of Jesus. 7—John tells us the woman who did the annointing was Mary. She came with a small box of alabaster. She broke off the neck of the vase, which permitted a drop or two at a time and poured it freely on his head and feet. (John 12:3.) 8-9—Many of the disciples were indignant at this waste. Judas spoke (John 12:4) asking why this had not been sold and given to the poor, stating it would have brought 300 pence or $45. We also learn that Judas was the treasurer of the disciples, carrying the bag of money. He was not so desirous of helping the poor as he was to help Judas. 10-11—Jesus called this a good work. It was not done for show. It was prompted by love for Him and showed forth her devotion and gratitude. The poor are always to be with us. He must go away. There will be other opportunities for helping the poor. 12—It would seem that Mary had realized that Jesus was going to die and she was annointing Him for His burial. 13—She did not do this to establish a memorial, but a memorial was established because she did it. The kind act and the loving heart, the devoted and sympathizing deed have been told everywhere in memory of Mary. 14—Judas knew the sentiment abroad in Jerusalem, concerning Jesus. Knowing the desire to take Him by subtlety, Judas was determined to have a hand in the plot and make financial gain thereby. 15—"What will ye give me? and I will deliver Him unto you." He sold out for a few dollars. Thirty pieces of silver were equivalent to $15. 16—The opportunity soon came, for in a few hours there followed the kiss of betrayal and Jesus was in the hands of His enemy.

Comments on the Lesson

Look at the characters in the home of Simon, the leper. Simon, whose life would have been worthless had it not been for the touch of Jesus. He is a grateful man and appreciated the blessings received. He opens his home, makes a banquet for his Friend and invites in the villagers to spend the evening around the banquet table. Lazarus, who had it not been for the Great Healer, would at this time have been numbered with the dead. Jesus had raised him. He, too, was happy to be in His presence. Martha, the busy housekeeper, who was always cumbered with much serving, was known for her ability in this line and was glad to render service for her Master, who brought joy to the Bethany home. Mary was there, the one who always selected the better part. She was there with a $45 gift to bestow on the Master. There were twelve disciples sitting in the room. They knew the blessings He had brought to these Bethany homes, and yet some of them murmured because a few dollars expended in showing gratitude and appreciation. Some of the disciples were ruthless sincere in thinking that it was extravagant, but it showed their small natures. One of the finest touches in human life is that of gratitude and being able to fully appreciate the blessings received. With many, it is the one thing lacking. Mary was not of those individuals who didn't wait until death to give her flowers. She brought her gift to the living, not to the dead Jesus. One rose kindly placed in the hand of the living is better than a thousand strewn o'er the dead man's casket. If the dead could sit up in their caskets and hear the words of lamentation and of praise that are spoken, when the spirit has taken its departure, they would be sorry they had gone. For a man dies broken-hearted, feeling that he is not appreciated, that the world has no love for him, simply because the world has never made known its love and appreciation. The spirit of Judas was, "What will ye give me?" The man who wants to make a life will say, "For me to live is Christ." He who wants to barter and merely make a living, says, "What will ye give me?" Judas received thirty pieces of silver, or $15. Yes, more than that, he received remorse, exceeding great sorrow, the prompt of everybody and death.

Questions for Class Use

On what day did the priests begin to plot to take the life of Jesus? What had he said in Matthew 23 to 25 that had greatly incurred their enmity? On what other occasion had Jesus told the disciples of His death? When was the anointing at Bethany? Name the people in attendance at the banquet. Who anointed Him? What was the value of the ointment? Why did the disciples object? Did Judas really want to help the poor? What was the memorial to Mary? What did Judas receive for betraying Jesus?

LESSON 1—NOVEMBER 6.

"THE LAST SUPPER."—MATT. 26:17-30.

1 Now on the first day of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying, Where wilt thou that we make ready for thee to eat the passover? 18 And he said, I have sent unto the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Teacher saith, My time is at hand; I keep the passover at thy house with my disciples. 19 And the disciples made ready as Jesus appointed them; and they had ready the passover.

2 Now when even was come, he was sitting at meat with the twelve disciples; and as they were eating, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me. 22 And they were exceedingly sorrowful, and began to say unto him one by one, Is it I, Lord? 23 And he answered and said, He that dipped his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me. 24 The Son of man goeth, even as it is written of him: but woe unto that man through whom the Son of man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had not been born. 25 And Judas, who betrayed him, answered and said, Is it I, Rabbi? He saith unto him, Thou hast said.

26 And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it; and he gave to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. 27 And he took a cup, and gave thanks, and gave to them, saying, Drink ye all of it; 28 for this is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many unto remission of sins. 29 But I say unto you, I shall not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 And when they had sung a hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

Time. Thursday of the last week before the crucifixion. Place. Jerusalem.

Explanatory. 17—This was the day on which they began to prepare for the feast. Ex. 12:14-20. 18—Jesus was probably stopping at Bethany during the day. The man to whom the disciples were sent was probably a friend of Jesus. It was customary for the people of Jerusalem to open their houses to the people from out of the city, during this feast. 19—They made ready the passover by slaying and roasting a lamb and by securing unleavened bread and bitter herbs. Ex. 12:8. 20-22—The passover was observed in the evening. They reclined about a table which was laid upon the floor. Generally a piece of leather was used. The disciples doubtless did not know when the betrayal was to take place. They possibly thought it in the future. If they known it was to be that night, they would have been positive in saying, "It is not I." 23—In Palestine, several persons dipped pieces of bread into a vessel of sauce. This was served in common. 24—Although God knew Judas was to do this and the fact had been foretold, yet God knowing it did not make Judas do it. God knew because Judas was going to do it. Judas was a free-moral agent and followed the bent of his own mind. We read elsewhere that at his death he went to "his own place." Jesus here says, "It had been good for that man if he had not been born." From this we would infer that his body after death was not with the righteous. 25—Before the Lord's Supper Judas had bartered with the authorities for thirty pieces of silver. The disciples had been saying, "Lord, is it I?" Judas now joins with them, although knowing he is the betrayer. He said, "Master, is it I?" 26—At the close of the feast, while they were eating, Jesus instituted the Lord's Supper. The passover feast was observed yearly, but the Lord's Supper is weekly. The feast celebrated an event, which was but a type of the redemption of which the Lord's Supper is a symbol. "This is my body." Not a literal body, but a symbol of the body of Christ. It could not be His body literally, for that He was crucified with Him. For on the one hand was the body and on the other the bread, and when the bread was consumed, the body still remained. This is an expression frequently used in Scripture. For example, "The field is the world" and "The seven fat calves are seven years of plenty," etc. 27—The "all" refers to the disciples, meaning all the disciples were to drink of it. 28—The wine was a symbol of the blood of Christ; the loaf was a symbol of His body. The purpose in the shedding of His blood is the remission of sins. Without shedding of blood, there is no remission. In this the grace of God is manifest, atonement made, the way provided. By the shedding of blood, the blessing of forgiveness has been made possible and it now remains for man to appropriate the blessing to receive the forgiveness. Simply because Christ died in shedding His blood for the world, does not save a man, but in this act it is made possible for man to comply with the plan and be saved. He must believe, repent and be baptized and continue steadfastly, being faithful to the end, that he may appropriate the blessing that brings forgiveness. 29—This doesn't mean the literal use of wine, for Jesus did not literally drink wine again, with the disciples. This is a figurative expression, referring to the communion which Jesus has with His followers when they are communing with Him about the Lord's table. 30—During the passover supper the Jews always sang Psa. 113 and 118. They are called Hallel, because in the Hebrew the passage begins with hallelujah.

Comments on the Lesson

The Lord's Supper is not an accident. It was given by our Lord to be observed by His people in commemoration of His death. It is a memorial service. The early church observed it on the first day of each week. Acts 20:7. We learn from Paul that some in the Corinthian church looked upon it as a place of feasting and drinking, hence some drank to excess and became drunken. He wrote them that they should examine themselves, discerning the Lord's body and blood. When a man partakes simply to eat, and drinks from the cup simply to gratify appetite, he is eating and drinking unworthily. The whole purpose is to help us remember the death of Christ. When we have other thoughts in our mind than that, it is an unworthy service and we are under condemnation. Some have refused to commune on the Lord's Day because of sinful acts committed during the week. Paul does not allude to that in his Corinthian statement. It is the frame of mind one is in while communing. Communion is not with men, but with Christ. It matters not how many hypocrites may be seated about us in the communion service, we commune not with them. It is with the Lord. Here each one must look to his own communion. If a man is weak, here is one of the places he is to receive strength. We are all forgetful beings. It is so easy to forget. In this service of worship, our minds are led to dwell upon the compassionate Saviour and by the memorial of His death, we are to be helped. Communion is not an end in itself. It is a means to an end. As we look upon the picture of a friend, it helps us to think of the friend, so with the communion service. A few years ago, as a writer was leaving home one morning for the church study, his little five-year-old girl picked from her playthings a little china cup, bearing the prints of baby fingers, and she exclaimed, "Take this cup to the study, papa, and when you see it, think of me!" At that, little three-year-old Mildred came with a little gourd and said, "And when you see this, think of me." That cup and that gourd are still in a drawer in the study and every time the eye falls upon them, the faces of the little girls are seen and their voices can again be heard, saying, "Think of me." That is precisely what Jesus meant when he said, "As oft as ye do this, do it in remembrance of me."

Questions for Class Use

What was the passover feast? How long did it last? When was it instituted? How did Jesus keep it? On what day did he institute the Lord's Supper? What is the meaning of the expression, "This is my body and this is my blood?" How many were present when the Lord's Supper was instituted? Where was Jesus at this time? Was it prophesied that Judas would betray the Lord; is he then responsible for the betrayal? What is the Scriptural teaching relative to the frequency of observing the Lord's Supper? What is the purpose of the Lord's Supper? Who should observe it? Is it necessary for Christian people to know that it is to be observed the first day of every week? Should they absent themselves from the table for seventy-five per cent of the year, when it is possible to be present fifty times out of fifty-two?

ELMER L. KELLAND, Public Accountant

Telephone 503 John

He's a Brotherhood Man. 95 William St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

AGENTS

Tower's Patent Hold-Fast Paper Clips sell from office to office like hot cakes. 1,500 sent for $1.00. Sell them for $2.25 in a short time. Endorsed by Government Dept. at Washington. B. D. C., Hathaway Building, Boston, Mass.

DESIGNS

TRADE-MARKS

JERRY A. MATHEWS

Solicitor of American and Foreign Patents
and Counselor in Patent Causes

ADO BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

K. C. S. RY. KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN RAILWAY CO.

For Health and Recuperation, visit

SULPHUR SPRINGS, ARKANSAS

All Year Health Resort

THE KIHLEBERG HOTEL AND BATH HOUSE NOW OPEN

Illustrated Folders Sent Free

S. G. WARNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Kansas City, Mo.

HOW TO ORGANIZE A LOCAL BROTHERHOOD WHAT YOU NEED

A.—Tract "How to Organize"	. . .	Each	$.05
B.—Model Constitution	. . .	Each	.05
C.—Covenant Cards (Serve as application blanks)	. . .	Each	.005
D.—Brotherhood Circular Literature	. . .		.00
E.—Centennial Issue "Christian Men"	. . .		.05
Cost of Mailing	. . .		.03
			.18½

Also furnished for 15 cents in stamps, or two complete sets for 25 cents. You will need several of these for your workers

The Greatest Sermon Library in the World

JOIN THE SPRING CLUB

SAVE $7.00

Regular Price, $18.00
Club Price, 11.00

We are forming a Spring Club of 500 Preachers and Bible students to whom we offer the great Sermon Bible (12 cloth volumes) for the special price of $11.00 (regular price $18.00). Just sign and mail the coupon below and we will forward the work, carriage prepaid. Examine it—use it—for five days. If satisfactory, send a first payment of only $1.00, balance ($10.00) to be paid $1.00 each month.

SEND NO MONEY NOW JUST MAIL THE COUPON
WE PAY CARRIAGE

If not satisfactory, return at our expense. Over 152 volumes of this work already sold. The favorite among preachers and Bible students. It contains 5,000 sermon lines, more than 24,000 homiletical references and includes quotations from the most eminent American and European pulpit leaders. It offers the preacher an inexhaustible supply of suggestion, illustration, and inspiration.

THE SERMON BIBLE

The aim of this vast work is to present the choicest, most helpful, and most comprehensive homiletic literature of the present generation, in readily accessible form, for the use of preachers, students, and all other religious workers.

FOUR VITAL FEATURES OF "THE SERMON BIBLE"

- I. Under each text a full outline is given of important sermons by eminent preachers. These sermons can be found elsewhere only in periodical manuscript form, and are hence practically inaccessible.
- II. Under each text are also given full outlines of sermons which have appeared in book form, but are not well known or easily obtained.
- III. Under each text will be also found references to brief outlines of sermons which have appeared in well-known works, such as are likely to be found in a preacher's library.
- IV. Under each text are also given full references to theological treatises, commentaries, etc., where help is given to the elucidation of the text.

SERMON BIBLE CLUB ENROLMENT BLANK

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY, 44-60 E. 23d St., New York.

Gentlemen:—Please enroll me as a member of The Christian Men Club for "The Sermon Bible," and send me, carriage prepaid, a set of the books. I agree to examine them within five (5) days of receipt, and to send you $1.00 if they prove satisfactory, paying the balance in ten (10) monthly instalments of $1.00 each. If unsatisfactory, I agree to notify you and hold the books subject to your order.

Name

Date..... Address.....

NO MONEY REQUIRED Until You Have Inspected the Work and Decided to Keep It

Every member of the Special Spring Club may test for himself each and every claim made in this announcement. If, for any reason, members are dissatisfied with the work after five days' critical examination, they are under no obligation to purchase. If they are satisfied, they need send us only $1.00 within five days and then $1.00 for ten months. Remember, we prepay carriage.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY, Pubs., New York

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

CHRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	R. A. DOAN - - - - -	Nelsonville, Ohio
CERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.	T. W. GRAFTON - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.	J. N. HAYMAKER - - - - -	Wichita, Kan
M. M. COCHRAN - - - - -	Uniontown, Pa.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
---------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.
Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum
in advance. Ten or more copies to one address may be paid for quarterly—in advance.
Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 4

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, NOVEMBER, 1910

Number 5

The Topeka Convention

The International Convention of 1910 was a matter of history. It was a convention. The Topeka brethren made ample preparation for its entertainment and few conventions have been better handled in this respect. The auditorium was an ideal meeting place and the rotunda and main floor of the Capitol Building furnished an ideal headquarters for the interests. Many people had looked forward with apprehension of serious results arising from the consideration of important questions to be there discussed. As usual, this proved a groundless fear. Once Democracy and the Christ-spirit were apprehended. Our people showed their intelligence by insisting on understanding what was put before them and their sanity by deciding with practical unanimity to take ample time for the fullest consideration and understanding of the problems involved in the plan for a delegate convention and the unification of all our missionary interests. On motion of Chalmers McPherson, of Texas, numerous seconded, the committee on this subject was continued for one year, with the addition of three names and the provision that its report should be published in our papers at least thirty days before the convention, to provide ample opportunity for a study of the principles and results involved.

Another feature of the convention which had attracted much attention in advance, was the proposal of Peter Ainslie, of Baltimore, President of the American Christian Missionary Society, for a new departure in the proclamation of our people for Christian Union. This was adopted with splendid spirit through a number of conferences, and the result reached is set forth in the following excerpt from a report of this meeting appearing in the Christian Evangelist:

Be it Resolved—First, that this meeting of Disciples is a representative body, competent to create an organization to promote Christian Union; and,

Be it Resolved—Second, That as such competent body we adopt the following constitution:

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I. This organization shall be called the Council on Christian Union.

ARTICLE II. The purpose of this organization shall be:

First—To create and distribute literature bearing on Christian Union among the people of our own and other religious bodies, and to solicit and hold in trust funds for this purpose.

Second—To arrange conferences in important centers on the subject of Christian Union.

Third—To prepare and send to all religious peoples an address reciting the great cardinal principles of our movement, and urging the vital importance of Christian Union if we are to conquer the world for Christ.

ARTICLE III. All Disciples of Christ may be members of the Council.

ARTICLE IV. The Council shall elect annually a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, who shall serve until their successors are chosen, and who shall perform such duties as usually devolve upon those officers in similar organizations.

ARTICLE V. A commission of nine members to execute the purposes of this Council, and to report to it annually, shall be composed as follows:

First—The president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer shall be members ex-officio.

Second—Five additional members of the commission shall be chosen annually by the Council, to serve one year and until their successors are elected.

ARTICLE VI. This Council shall, at the call of the president, meet annually at the time and place of the meeting of the American Christian Missionary Society.

ARTICLE VII. This constitution may be amended by a majority of the members present and voting at any regular annual meeting.

When the whole audience arose, in answer to a call for a standing vote to favor the report, one of the members started "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow," and the building fairly shook with the volume of voice with which this doxology was sung. So one called for a negative vote after this, the chairman announced that all those who were opposed would now stand up and "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow," but no one arose.

During the discussion, it came out that a brother and his wife, of large means, were considering seriously the propriety of putting a large sum of money at the disposal of a board of this kind to circulate such literature as would set before the religious world the necessity for Christian Union and our contribution to that problem. Brother R. Long, with his accustomed generosity, proposed that until such provision was made the persons mentioned, or others, that the Christian Publishing Company would supply good for $10,000 a year for two years to carry out the aims of this Council.

NEXT INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION AT PORTLAND

There was considerable debate on the question where the next International Convention should go. Two invitations were before the committee on time and place, one from Boston, backed by the Baptist Ministerial Association of that city, and another from the great Northwest, backed by Dean E. C. Sanderson, L. F. Stevens, W. F. Reagor, J. F. Ghormley, S. Martin, Charles Reign Scoville, and the whole Northwest. Chairman Zoller voicing the desire of the committee to receive with heartiest courtesy the representatives of our Boston brethren and at the same time recognize the strength of the appeal from the great Northwest, presented a two-handed report to the convention. There were speeches and more speeches. The convention swung between sentiment and missionary enthusiasm and finally with a vote of thunderous unanimity decided on Portland. A resolution to acknowledge and thank the gracious invitation of the Baptists of Boston and our own churches of New England was passed with the same vim. Hence Portland is our next in 1911. City of Roses, we salute you Men of the Great Northwest, we salute you as the takers of a new Kingdom.

God and for Jesus Christ and with pleasure and enthusiasm to bring salt at your banquet board another year. The question of changing the date of the convention for next year from October to June or July was before the convention and was referred to the Executive Committee for action, and upon a more intimate knowledge of conditions than was possible at the present. Their decision will be announced as early as possible.

UPPER ROOM CONFERENCE ON THE BROTHERHOOD

After the meeting of the Executive Board of the Brotherhood, to consider the work done during the year, it was the expressed wish of Mr. Long to meet with a group of the leading men among us, who as might be gathered by invitation and make them acquainted with the results, the work accomplished, its costs, and ask for a heartier coöperation during the coming year. The meeting was held at eight o'clock on Saturday evening in the parlors of the Hotelthrop. It was assembled without any attempt to exclude anyone, the thought being that in a small conference where one could see eye to eye and talk heart to heart there would be an opportunity for the exchange of opinions, for the giving of criticism and for the welding together of hearts in a common purpose which could not but be helpful to the progress of the work in the coming year. The results were abundantly realized. But one hundred men attended, the parlors being packed to the doors. Mr. Long, in opening the meeting, repeated his call to the place of executive head of the Brotherhood Organization. He stated that the position was not of seeking, that it was strongly urged upon him and at the request of his brethren he had undertaken it; that his service had been one of joy and while the expenditure involved and for which he himself stood personally pledged, had been larger than he had anticipated, it was without any regret that he faced a deficit for two years' work of something like $25,000. He stated that he was not discouraged, but that he was disappointed and that not at the results accomplished, because in his judgment they had been thoroughly worth while, but because of the lack of a more hearty coöperation on the part of many, which he felt the movement had a right to expect. His statement was in the sweetest spirit and was received by all present as an earnest appeal to either coöperate more definitely in the work of organizing our men or else to frankly give the reasons why they could not so coöperate. As man after man arose to speak out his heart upon the subject, others listened with almost breathless interest. R. G. Frank, of Liberty, Mo., member of the Board of Directors, made an appeal to men, who had been criticising the organization, to come out frankly and say there what they had been saying privately. Two men among the most worthy and efficient of our pastors, who were in a non-coöperative mood towards the Brotherhood, frankly stated their position. One of them whose success as a Bible School worker and pastor had been unquestioned, stated that he had been enthusiastic for the Brotherhood, but had failed to interest his men in it and had come to the conclusion that there was no place for it in his work. Another pastor who had been equally successful in his Church and Bible School work, made about the same statement except that he had actually organized a Brotherhood and tried for several months to make it work and it had not succeeded and he was therefore centering all his interest in the Bible School.

Over against this, man after man was heard whose Brotherhood work had either succeeded in whole or in part and who felt that whatever failure there had been was not so much in the method as in the problem which the organization of our men presented and the optimistic note was struck repeatedly. Especially was this the case with the men who had actually organized Local Brotherhoods and which had been endowed with sufficient initiative to get over the door sill by affiliating with the National body. These men were without a single exception enthusiastic in the extreme. They presented all shapes of experience and conditions, from Arkansas to Oregon and from California to New York. Their sentiment was perhaps best set forth in the statement of C. M. Chilton, pastor of the great First Church at St. Joseph, Mo., when he said, "I believed in this thing when we launched it. I went home and organized my own men, determined to give it a thorough and effective trial with my own personal force behind it in so far as it might seem necessary and possible. As a result I say to you today that the work among my men has been the most satisfactory work of the past year. I am going on with it."

When the conference had continued for nearly two hours, although there were at least a dozen men on their feet trying to get an opportunity to address the Chair in behalf of the successful work they had done, it seemed wise to ask the General Secretary to close the discussion. This was done by reminding all present of the extreme difficulty of the task. In reporting a failure it is no more to say that the Brotherhood will not work than for the man who has tried to organize an Adult Bible Class or a Sunday-school to say that those movements are failures, because he has made an individual failure. Most of the criticisms heard are not at all criticisms of the movement nor of its methods. They are but statements of the problem which the Brotherhood has to solve. It was suggested that our people are just as inoculated with a craze for the growth of members; that it was thought that a Brotherhood could not succeed unless it gathered in everybody inside and outside the local church. As a matter of fact, while it was explained that the Brotherhood Movement was all inclusive, it was also extremely intensive. It provides a place for men from every department of the church's activity and enlarges the circle of its social life outside the membership roll. But it is not a pleasure excursion; it is rather a call for volunteers and the most successful Brotherhoods are not necessarily the largest Brotherhoods. R. A. Doan, of the First Class of 800, has a working Brotherhood of 150 members which he says has done things for his men that the Bible Class could not have done. J. A. Bannister spoke of the Brotherhood Circle of 60 or sixty men within his Bible Class, three times that number. T. W. Chilton, than whom we have no more experienced worker among men, said that the Brotherhood organization of only 100 men could be made a tremendously efficient in church work. Attention was called to two prominent Western churches in each of which it happens we have churches, a large central church and then at one side a smaller congregation. In both the large churches there was a Brotherhood movement in a state of greater or less passivity, while in each of the smaller churches there was a Local Brotherhood organization affiliated with the National body, which was more effectively effective and could point to a long line of valuable achievements. The question of success from the Secretary's viewpoint was wholly a matter of 1 deand workableness. If there can be found in any church a leader, either pastor or layman, who will take the brotherhood work upon his heart, who will adopt faithfully the plans laid down by the National body and who can rally to him any considerable number of laymen, say ten or twenty, or even as small a number as six, who will become the nucleus of the organization with an earnest desire to serve Jesus Christ and win glory to him, and project themselves into service by means of the Brotherhood program, they will achieve a success beyond their dreams.

With the feeling that the conference had been fruitful of a better understanding all around, that it had served to make the Brotherhood principle and methods better understood and had resulted in numerous eloquent testimonials to the success of the enterprise, the meeting was regretfully adjourned. An expression on the lips of many was, "I wish we might have a conference like this at every convention."

Before the meeting adjourned, Mr. Long assured them of his belief in the movement not only personally, but to the extent that he would back it financially until such a time as it should either justify itself or accomplish the contrary result; provided, of course, that Brotherhood men throughout the country should make any sort of a reasonable effort to assist him in bearing the burden.

Before going further with a report of the convention, possibly our readers would be interested to see the financial exhibit which Mr. Long put before this committee. It is herewith:

Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ
Comparison Loss and Gain, 1910 and 1909

	1910		1909
	9 MONTHS	AVERAGE PER MO.	12 MONTHS	AVERAGE PER MO.
Magazine Expense.....	*$6,840.77	*$760.08	*$4,713.79	*$392.81
Subscription..... $2,734.03			2,529.33
Advertising..... 950.49	3,684.52	409.39	664.54	3,193.87
Magazine Loss.....	*$3,156.25	*$350.69	*$1,519.92	*$126.65
General Expense.....	* 4,906.21	* 545.13	* 4,092.82	* 341.07
Office Expense.....	* 6,637.73	* 737.52	* 4,660.98	* 388.41
Travel Expense.....	* 1,353.52	* 150.39	* 1,957.57	* 163.13
Publicity Expense.....	* 55.08	* 6.12	* 1,413.52	* 117.79
Postage.....	* 400.83	* 44.54	* 500.00	* 41.67
OTHER LOSS AND GAIN	*$16,509.62	*$1,834.39	*$14,144.81	*$1,178.72
Gifts.....	*$86.20	*$9.58	$34.49	$2.87
Gifts of Yellow Pearl.....	76.47	8.50
Gifts of Movement.....	88.25	9.81
Loss Exclusive of Contributions.....	*$16,431.10	*$1,825.69	*$14,110.32	*$1,175.85
Contributions.....	3,845.46	449.49	1,849.71	154.14
	*$12,585.64		*$12,260.61

* 35

MEMORABLE SCHOOL On Saturday was an inspiring feature of a convention. The parade of Men's classes on Saturday afternoon was not only a distinguished success and an eye-opener to the people who saw it, but a matter for gratulation even by those accustomed to such scenes. Under the chief marshalship of D. P. Gribben, of Kansas City, a line apparently two miles long, which formed on the Capitol grounds and wound its way in and out among the city blocks, contained nearly two thousand men. This was a striking demonstration that men are studying the Bible and will turn out in behalf of the Adult Bible Class as readily as in a day now happily gone, they rallied to the torchlight and the transparency of the political campaigners.

The devotional and praise service was led by R. A. Doan, of Ohio. This was the first introduction of Mr. Doan to a National Convention, and it was happy indeed that they should know him first as the leader of a devotional service, for notwithstanding the wonderful organizing ability of the man who built the great Nelsonville Bible Class, he impresses one first of all as a man who walks with God. We have too few leaders of this stamp among us and no one who sat in the quiet spell of his spirit but must have felt that here is one who is a distinct addition, not only through his power as an organizer, but because of his spirit, and behold he has upon him the influence of Christ Jesus.

The address of Governor W. R. Stubbs was a remarkable and worthy utterance. The United States is possessed just now with a number of leaders who are not only successful in the world of politics, but who are great preachers of righteousness as well. In fact, one gathers the impression that these men have succeeded, not because they are politicians, but because they are righteous men. Naturally, men who have triumphed over traditions, who have disregarded the methods of conventional politicians, flung gum-shoe methods out the door and dared to stand flatly on their personal character, and make a personal appeal to the same qualities in voters and not follow legislators, men of marked individuality. Among these strongly individualized personalities, Walter Roscoe Stubbs is one of the most confirmed. He has a way of his own and a way of his own logic whose joints have been welded in the fiery forges of his own hotly impenetrable soul. Carlisle wrote a little once about clothes and the man. The force of his argument was that with clothes a man does not amount to much. Governor Stubbs' idea seems to be that with clothes oratory does not amount to much. His coat, collar and tie were gone before he had succeeded in winning the great American saloon to complete satisfaction in this Saturday afternoon address. Let it be remembered that before him was this audience of two thousand Christian men with many more of America's finest workers in the hood cheering in the galleries, and on the occasion with the information that only a few blocks away the brethren had opened headquarters for a resurrection campaign in the State of Kansas. It will be realized that this inspiring orator was not without incitation to his Dr. H. J. Hall, President of the Indiana State Brotherhood and Secretary of the American Christian Temperance Fair, thought so well of the address that he had it printed and copies of it were in circulation before the convention closed. These may be had from Dr. Hall, Franklin, Ind.

The address of Robert M. Hopkins, "A New Bible School Era," served to introduce to the convention at large the new National Superintendent of Bible School work. They saw in him a man of fine intelligence. One would at once a clear thinker, a sound reasoner and a practical leader. In the presence of this young man there is real and courage and confidence. It is a responsible position indeed, that of the Secretary of the American Christian Missionary Society, representing our National Sunday-school interests, and Mr. Perkins brings to his task not only intellectual and spiritual equipment that is worthy, but a purpose to serve which is high and holy and which must result in good to the great cause which he has espoused. Our leaders will remember that for many years he was the successful leader of the Bible School hosts of the State of Kentucky among our people.

The crowning address of the afternoon was on the "Bible School and the Christian Conquest of America," by J. McClelland, of Texas. Those who attended this address have unhesitatingly characterized it in the highest terms. Its viewpoint was essentially optimistic. Early conceiving the immensity of the difficulties which lie in the path of the Christian Conquest of America, at the same time it appraised the Bible School as the one great force which, by the aid of God, might overcome these difficulties. An inspiring task commands inspiring effort. Its effect was to arouse upon Bible School workers anew a growing sense of their responsibilities, opportunities and their obligations.

Unfortunately, none of our staff were able to attend the Teacher Training Session, but with a full attendance, a beautiful spread and C. L. DePew, of Kansas, acting as toastmaster, it would seem that an arduous imagination should provide at least a hint of a delightful occasion. The evening session on Saturday, again under Bible School auspices, was devoted to an address on "The Moral and Religious Education," by F. Shepard, of Missouri, and one on

"Men's Work in the Bible School," illustrated by Herbert Moninger, of Ohio. Mr. Shepard has been heard before in our National Conventions. Many will remember his Church Extension address in San Francisco in 1905; but his recent connection with the Christian Publishing Company as a specialist in Bible School pedagogy made his reappearance on the Topeka Convention platform of especial interest. As was to be expected, he took high ground upon the subject. He pleaded for a clearer conception of the place of the Bible and Bible teaching as the basis of all our church life, diagnosed some of our most important spiritual ills to the decline of the custom of family prayer and urged a deepening of the devotional spirit in all our Bible School work. His address was frequently punctuated by the highest applause. Mr. Moninger's address was begun in his usual happy way and he soon had the entire audience, which filled the vast auditorium, in complete sympathy with him as he dwelt upon the Essentials to More Effective Bible School Service, which he emphasized as passion, organization, method and service. The most of his address was devoted to setting forth the loyal movement which had its origin in the Loyal Sons Class started by Will H. Brown in Oakland, Cal. A number of splendid pictures were shown, among them the Adelpian Class at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and the Brotherhood Bible Class at Portsmouth, Ohio.

Any mention of the W. E. M. HACKLEMAN Convention which did not make reference to the music would be inadequate. The Leader of Song was W. E. M. Hackleman and again and again he displayed his wonderful skill in inducing large congregations to sing. The spirit in which they entered into the singing of the great hymns of the Church was really among the notable features of the gatherings. Fife Brothers Quartette was heard frequently and always with pleasure. Mrs. Princess Long and Una Dell Berry sang frequently solos and Mr. Buss with his cornet and its inspiring note had a place in the tone colorings of every session.

THE BROTHERHOOD CONVENTION This is the session that of all others was of greatest interest to our own office and presumably to our readers. Strategically, our place on the program was a bad one. To take the last day when that last day was a sort of hangover from a great Sunday, put us in an unfortunate position so far as holding the audience was concerned. We had wished for Saturday, but the Bible School people had planned for that day and made strong argument for it on the ground that it would help them prepare for a record Sunday-school on the Lord's Day. This argument and the spirit of Brotherhoodliness prevailed to such an extent that we gladly yielded our own claims upon the day in their behalf. Hence, our place upon Monday and the task of holding the convention attendance for that session.

Our first step was to prepare a very strong program. We felt that in heading our sessions with such names as those of Raymond Robins, of Chicago; Bishop Bell, of California, and Dr. Gunsaulus, of the Armour Institute, when bolstered by leading speakers among our own people, made an aggregation of addresses that would be resistless in its appeal. This proved to be the case. Hundreds of men who had made up their minds to go home at the close of the session on Sunday stayed over. Others came especially late in the convention with the idea of remaining to the Brotherhood sessions. It was decided to open the gallery to the ladies, and, in consequence, for the last day of the Convention the attendance was large. A comparison of the number of men at Convention with that at Luna Park in view of the difference in the size of Pittsburgh Convention, revealed at once that the Second Annual Convention was relatively, if not numerically, larger than the first. In addition to this, the meeting attendance had a very much ripened acquaintance with the Brotherhood work. The experience of a year does much to bring minds into closer harmony. Those who were at the Convention more than a hundred general members of the Brotherhood. There were half a dozen State Presidents and numerous Local Brotherhood Presidents, Brotherhood pastors and men in the ranks of Brotherhood work, and the result was to create in the Brotherhood sessions a feeling of sympathy and bond of earnestness which without a program, would have been an important contributing element to a successful gathering.

To our great disappointment, Dr. E. H. Long, of Buffalo, N. Y., was unable to be present.

The devotional service was led by Robert Latimer, of Pittsburgh, and from the beginning an atmosphere of prayer prevailed.

Governor Stubbs reached Topeka in the morning, after speaking the night before in St. Louis, and asked to be excused on account of a severe cold.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon extended greetings to the members of the Brotherhood, performing the duties which had been allotted to Governor Stubbs.

"I am glad to bring you greetings," he said. "I believe in the Brotherhood movement—I believe it is one of the greatest movements ever started in the history of America.

"The Brotherhood should rise up and wipe the saloon off the map, should clean officers are elected to the Legislature.

"I hope to live to see the Brotherhood about the fraternalization of capital and labor, and see our battleships turned into missionary vessels and filled with missionaries to go out to all parts of the world to teach the gospel of Christ."

The Convention proper opened with greetings from the Christian Woman's Board of Missions, by its honored President Mrs. Anna R. Atwater. Her speech was dignified and bristled with aphorisms that will not be easily forgotten. She admonished the men to be faithful, to dare attempt things worthy of themselves and not to demand fruitage before the seed had time to grow.

SENT LONG'S OF SS
terhood Convention. He rehearsed his relationship with the Brotherhood movement from the beginning, made bold the statement regarding its progress which he had referred to at the conference, reported elsewhere in these columns and which will be found published on another page of the magazine. He stated his triumphant faith in the movement and his conviction that the achievements had thus far been tremendous, worth while. In mentioning the progress of the movement to the present date, he stated that an itemized statement of expenditures, month by month, came to his desk and was scrutinized by him carefully as a report of any part of the business, and he was convinced that the money had been wisely expended and that the campaign must be carried on without narrowing of its limits and that as he was concerned, he was prepared to see the work go on and to prosecute in the same vigorous manner that he had in the past. His address was received with the profoundest attention, and its close marked with heartiest applause.

The Topeka Capital had this to say of his address:

R. A. Long, founder and president of the Brotherhood, who is a millionaire living in Kansas City and who is noted for his active participation in the religious and benevolent work of the Christian Church, told of some of the aims and hopes of the Brotherhood in his president's address.

"I believe it is one of the greatest movements ever launched," he said. "We are going ahead with the work although we haven't a dollar in the treasury."

"It was only twelve short months ago since that wonderful meeting was held in Pittsburgh, when I think we might say our movement was launched, regardless of the previous work of organization which had been accomplished."

"Only by finding out our weak points individually and collectively, can we correct them. Be careful that your criticisms are wise."

"We can't develop our program of work in a day or in a year, or even ten years, but I know in the end we shall win."

"Some say there is no room for the Brotherhood—that we are already over-organized—but I have said for God's sake show me in what way the men are organized at all—the women are the ones who are organized."

"The men, as Governor Stubbs says, as American citizens, should feel individual responsibility."

THE GENERAL SECRETARY'S ADDRESS

stated the ideals of the movement as to the organization of the men of every local church upon the basis of manhood and Christian character, not primarily to do something but to be something. Referring to the method by which these ideals were to be realized, he mentioned the local meeting, the program which makes possible the study of a uniform topic by all the Brotherhoods, and consequent uniformity of endeavor at stated periods in behalf of great enterprises of general interest to the church, while at the same time leaving the widest latitude for the concern of Local Brotherhoods with the problems of the local field and congregation. Discussing the difficulties of the situation, he stated first the immensity of the field which our religious movement covers today. In every State in the Union, and practically every territory in Canada, is organized a missionary society holding conventions, at which the Brotherhood work ought to be presented. This cannot be done without great cost. Many of them we are yet unable to reach. Every time a Field Secretary, for instance, attends a State Convention there are new calls for additional field work, appeals which must be denied until our force is quadrupled. It costs eighty dollars to mail a letter to each of our four thousand ministers, to say nothing of the cost of printing, and it would cost four hundred dollars to buy the stamps for such a letter to go to all the subscribers to our magazine. Other difficulties lie in the newness of the task. Take away from the minds of our people today the knowledge concerning the Bible School work which they did not have two generations back and imagine how difficult a task it would be in a year or two years to think of organizing Bible Schools in all our churches. Yet, the Brotherhood work undoubtedly, in the main, is more difficult than the Bible School work.

Another difficulty is the lack of trained men for such service in the congregation. Men wish to serve, but they do not know how, and sometimes a Brotherhood fails while men are learning how, and, having learned, they start in on the foundations of the failure and build it into a splendid success.

Under the head of achievements, mention is made of the wide publicity accomplished, the circulation of the magazine, reaching more than twenty thousand readers regularly; State Conventions under the Brotherhood auspices have been held so successfully, now for two years, where thousands of laymen have already been brought to a wider interest in the state missions, and all kindred interest; the two great National Conventions which the Brotherhood held; the three or four hundred Brotherhood organizations, now existing, at least ninety of which have come to their affiliation with the National organization with whom they were going forward in manly effort to coöperate for realization of the highest ideals of the Brotherhood.

The train on which Mr. Robinson was coming was late and his masterful address was not delivered until the noon session. In place of it, Mr. Lenberger's address was substituted. It proved to be a masterly exposition of Brotherhood principles, and if space permits it will be found elsewhere in the magazine.

The Convention opened in the afternoon with a number of stirring two and three-minute speeches by practical Brotherhood men. Among those who spoke were J. A. Barnett, Galesburg, Ill., D. C. No. 259; J. O. Shelburne, President of the Texas State Brotherhood, Dallas; H. J. Kirschstein, Pastor of North Side Church, Omaha, L. B. D. C. No. 272; L. F. Stephens, of Portland, Ore., L. B. D. C. No. 294; M. E. H. Kinney, President of the Ohio Brotherhood, C. N. Kinney, President of the Ohio Brotherhood, General Member No. 5; S. M. Perkins, of Davenport, Iowa, D. C. No. 318; E. F. Young, President of L. B. D. C. No. 259, Galesburg, Ill.; M. L. Rose, North Yakima, Wash., D. C. No. 276. Among the men who should have been included in this group but who were so modest that repeated invitation failed to get them to the platform, were Charles L. Voorhees, President L. B. D. C. No. 255, Wichita, Kan., and Benton Boyd, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 263, Uniontown, Pa. It is not much to say that these short addresses were from practical men, whose faces glowed the enthusiasm of successful effort whose eyes were full of the vision of future usefulness in Brotherhood or, were among the most instructive and inspiring features of the Convention.

YOND ROBINS • The most characteristic address of the noon session was probably that of Raymond Robins, of Chicago. We give a report of his address covering two columns, clipped from the Topeka Daily Capital. It seems to us worthy of a reading by every man who craves essential manliness and grip of English, even though it has a touch of naivete in it, to the purpose of seeing Christ redeeming the manhood of America.

MENT WORK One of the most remarkable speeches of the convention, in many ways, that of Raymond Robins, the Chicago settlement worker and pastor, early yesterday afternoon. Mr. Robins was scheduled to speak in the evening but failed to arrive in time and so was given place on the afternoon program. He limited his speech in order to make a quick trip to the depot in time to catch a train to return to Chicago, being in Topeka only a few hours. But his short address was filled to the brim with vigorous, aggressive Christianity. As Robins told a reporter who asked him if he had a manuscript of his speech, there was no manuscript, it was "right off the raw."

Mr. Robins is a man with a remarkable record. He was one of the early Klondikers, and he was also one of the lucky ones, for he made a fortune in that great gold rush. He practiced law before turning to the ministry, and now he devotes all his time and energies to settlement work in the Seventeenth ward of the slums of Chicago. He has had remarkable success in this work, and after one hears him talk this is not hard to explain. He has a democratic and sympathetic feeling toward the lowest, and does not consider it beneath him to address the outcasts and slum dwellers as brother or sister.

"Faith in mankind," he declared to be his motto. "Faith in those common, stupid, blundering people for whom Christ died. For we are all the children of a common father."

What we want is a mankind that is sound and strong, from the man who digs in the ditch if he digs it on the square, on up. So that the man in the ditch can take his child in his arms and say to it 'though you are the child of a ditch digger, you are an heir of the republic for whom the fathers died.'

"The doctrine of a redeemed humanity is the hope of society."

Robins told a number of interesting stories of the characters of the Seventeenth ward in which he lives in Chicago. These stories teemed with human interest, and though the characters in them had many faults, Robins showed that all of them had their homely virtues.

"I would tell you of the hunchback saloon-keeper in the Seventeenth," he said. "He has two saloons, inherited from his father. The hunchback is poor and ignorant. His two saloons are as decent as any such infamous institutions can be. That man has taken blows for his stand for decent government in the Seventeenth ward."

"I will work with anyone who will take a step forward for decency. When he won't go any further I will say, 'Brother, I'm going on.'"

"What we should do for these people is shown by Christ's first miracle, the turning of the water into wine. Christ gave those simple people what they needed to complete the joyousness of the marriage feast."

"Consider the story of the woman at the well in Galilee. She was an outcast of society, a sinner. Did Christ treat her as an outcast? No, he greeted her as He would have greeted your mother or your sister. Does He discuss her sorrow, place it on the table and probe into it?"

"No, he asks her to do one simple thing, and when you get a sinner to do one thing for right you begin to work out his salvation. She draws the water and He talks to her of the Water of Life. Then she tries to get him away from her own sin and into a discussion of theology."

"That's always the way. When you try to talk about a man's sins he wants to talk questions of theology. When you hear some one heavy on theology, it's a good sign that there's a rotten spot somewhere."

"So the woman at the well asks Christ a theological question. She asks Him whether it is right to worship in the East or in Jerusalem. Does He tell her that she is avoiding the question? No, He answers her. He takes her at her point of interest. That's the place to begin. When you want to save a sinner, attack him at a point where you can get the hook in, and get close enough to him that you can reach him with the hook."

SATISFIED BODILY WANTS

"Then there was the miracle of the loaves and fishes. Jesus had preached a pretty good sermon on the mount that day and had pronounced the Beatitudes. He preached this sermon, the greatest sermon the world has ever heard, in the open air. He did not need any of the accessories of pulpit or organ, not that I object to these, but He did not have them. Then the disciples came to Christ and said that the great crowd was hungry and that it was a long way from the town. Did He say that they had just heard the greatest sermon ever preached in this world and say that they should be satisfied with so generous a spiritual feast? No. He satisfied their bodily hunger with the loaves and fishes.

"No man ever put into the world what Jesus put into it for personal purity. Is that only for Jerusalem and 1900 years ago? Or is it for the employer of the women of the poor, who pays insufficient wages and leaves them a prey to temptation?

"It is so much easier to work with the good than with the bad. There were ninety and nine sheep safely in the fold, and one little black sheep was out on the mountain side. Would not many have argued that the shepherd should have given his care to the sheep that were in the fold and not go out into the dark and danger to search for the one that was astray? Some would reason that so many must be lost anyhow. But the good shepherd searches for that one poor little lost sheep, regardless of whether it be an accidental, incidental, sometimes, or periodic sinner.

"Preachers, if you will stand four square against the rich crook in the pew and refuse to let him buy salvation by missionary contributions; if you will let him know that he can't buy salvation from your pulpit, then the working man won't run from the church.

"In the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew Christ told of the last day, when all shall be gathered together. He used the parable of the sheep and the goats, because it was the language that the people of that country could understand. There was nothing indefinite about the meaning of those words to them.

WITH SHEEP IN SPITE OF BEER

"There is an Italian woman who lives near my tenement who guzzles beer. She drinks beer when you or I would drink water. She was raised that way and does not think it is wrong. There isn't a child born in that ward, nor a death but that she is there to help.

"In that last day when all shall be gathered together and the sheep shall be separated from the goats, I can see that old woman over there with the sheep. She feels that the Lord has made a mistake. She feels that she is out of place. She tells the Lord she feels He has made a mistake, but He says 'I was sick and ye comforted me. I was naked and ye clothed me. I was hungry and ye fed me. I was weary and ye took me in.' And I can see her say 'Lord, when did I do all this?' She lived in the Seventeenth ward, where prophets don't come. They go along the Lake Shore drive, or somewhere else. But she's square, she's honest. The Lord says 'Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these ye did it unto me.'

"Then over on the other side I see a sleek, plump rich man among the goats, but he is comfortable. He knows the Lord has made a mistake and that he belongs on the other side with the sheep. He goes up to the Lord and says, 'Lord, I was great on prophets in my day. There wasn't one of them that came to my town that I didn't give a banquet for. If there was anything I was long on in the prophets.' But Christ says, 'I came unto you and ye received me not. I was hungry and ye fed me not.'

"Democracy is the religion of Jesus Christ. Human service is the standard of man's service in God. You are an atheist if you say you believe in God but don't pray. Pray your prayers regularly and can repeat the Commandments, if you do not try to help a fallen brother.

"If ever a man was entitled to the respect of the world and to condemn the crowd, it was that one was Jesus Christ. The rabble said, 'Release to us Barabas, the robber.' The crowd says 'What of this man in whom I find no guile.' 'Crucify him! Crucify him!' I don't want Christ to condemn these people, these poor, insignificant souls, these wine-guzzling people about Jerusalem? No. Instead there is the most gracious motto that ever fell from Divine lips, 'Father, forgive them. They know not what they do.'

R. A. DOAN'S ADDRESS

One of the character addresses at the Toledo Convention was by I.

Doan, of Nelsonville, Ohio, who spoke upon "The Relations of the Brotherhood to the Bible Class." Mr. Doan, a name known to all readers in general know, is the teacher of the largest Men's Bible Class among the Disciples, numbering nearly 1000 men. He spoke in part as follows: "Last May we received a visit from the Secretary J. K. Shellenberger and organized a Brotherhood within the class numbering 125 men and growing in influence and power. The Brotherhood are those who can be depended upon for service under any conditions. They are the inner circle, so to speak, and when a pastor or teacher feels behind him the power and inspiration of such a group of consecrated men, there is almost no limit to the possibilities of work for the Kingdom in that locality. That's the way we feel about it at Nelsonville. The Brotherhood has been a very vital force in our work and has furnished a steady balance wheel spiritually that we have needed in our class organization. Today we are feeling the penetrating influence of the Brotherhood in our alization. This has been especially in the prayer league, as almost every member of the Brotherhood has agreed to pray with me each day for some definite purpose. They pray for me and pray for them by name. The influence of prayer is by far the greatest factor in our work. The Brotherhood develops men in a way that the Bible Class cannot. It gives them confidence in praying and allows us to get closer to God either personally. The far-reaching influence of the class, although its membership is large, can never overshadow the results of the Brotherhood, and as time goes on and the Brotherhood is recruited from members of the class who have been brought closer to the Master, the power for good will correspondingly increase. While we already have a splendid Brotherhood in Nelsonville, we are praying for strength to make it more efficient."

GRANT K. LEWIS'S ADDRESS "The Brotherhood and the Missionary Conscience" was the subject of the address of Grant K. Lewis, Secretary of the American Christian Missionary Society, delivered at the Brotherhood sessions. "This Missionary Conscience," said Mr. Lewis, "is one of the most significant signs of advancement in the Twentieth century. It is a fact of easy demonstration that the Christian manhood will obtain what it desires in religion the same as in business. The difficulty has been heretofore that our men have not recognized their responsibility for missions. I am speaking broadly now, using the word missions applied to City, State, Nation and Foreign Missions. The objective of the Society of today is to see that our members are properly informed—educated if you will permit the term. The ordinary layman is ill-informed upon the affairs of missions and there has been no united effort save that of the Laymen's Missionary Movement to change the reign of ignorance into an administration of understanding, and, while the Laymen's Missionary Movement to all intent and purposes was organized to push missions as a whole, it, in fact and practice, emphasized Foreign missions. It has remained for the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ to come out with a plan of TEAM WORK IN RELIGION, as outlined in resolution presented by Secretary Elliott to the National and State Secretaries' Association a few evenings ago. Men, we have simply been toying with the subject of Missions. Let us now, under the splendid leadership of the Brotherhood, take off our coats and go to work in real earnest. Let us see first of all that our ministry at home is adequately compensated. Second, let the subject of Missions in our cities be given the widest consideration. Third, that the cause of State Missions be given its place and its proper share of the support of the local church. Fourth, let us understand that a heathen saved on Broadway is just as precious in the sight of God as a heathen saved on the Congo. Fifth, that our responsibility for the widows and orphans in America is fully as great as for those in India or China. Sixth, that the great commission applies equally at home and abroad. I do not mean that Foreign missions should be emphasized the less, nor that Home missions should be more vigorously advanced, for none of them are over-emphasized, but by TEAM WORK IN RELIGION the Missionary Conscience of our men can be aroused and each of our missionary agencies will begin to receive its proper share of the moral and financial support of our churchmen. With their assistance all things are possible. Without their support, the church cannot expect to accomplish the evangelization of the world in this generation."

PRESIDENT
CROSSFIELD

Although cramped for time, through no fault of his own, President Crossfield, of Transylvania University, made one of the most forceful speeches of the Convention, in presenting "The Brotherhood Volunteer Movement."

MORE YOUNG MEN
NEEDED IN MINISTRY

"Not enough young men are entering the ministry of our church to offset the annual losses from the ministry caused by death," said R. H. Crossfield, president of Transylvania university, yesterday afternoon, in addressing the Brotherhood. "During the last twelve years there has been a great decrease in the number of young men entering our theological seminaries. The records of the theological seminaries of twenty-six denominations during this period show that there has been a decrease of eighteen per cent in the number of young men entering these seminaries to study for the ministry, notwithstanding the fact that during the same time there has been an increase in the number of communicants in these twenty-six denominations to the extent of twenty-five per cent.

"There are 1,138 young men preparing themselves in our theological seminaries. This means that only about 250 young men go out annually into the pulpit. This does not offset the loss by death and old age.

"Do you know that everyone of the 268 Brotherhoods has a committee on supply for pulpit and missionary fields? This committee finds young men who want to enter the ministry. Now there is being organized the Comrades of Paul, who will contribute five dollars a year to help send these young men through college. They will supply the wherewithal to enable these young men to prepare to preach the Gospel. This is the most businesslike, the sanest thing I have ever seen as a remedy for these conditions.

"Last year the Brotherhood Volunteer Movement issued a joint appeal on behalf of all our colleges for the ministers to preach sermons on the third Sunday in January on Ministerial Supply and at the same time prepared a program for Local Brotherhoods designed to make a direct appeal to the men of these organizations themselves to volunteer for such service. In consequence more than three hundred ministers preached upon this subject and over fifty Local Brotherhoods observed this program, resulting in more than fifty volunteers for the ministry and mission field."

BISHOP BELL

The closing address of the afternoon was delivered by that prince of orators, Bishop William M. Bell, of Los Angeles, Cal. His subject was "The Massing of Men for the Master," and although pressed for time by the early departure of his train, Bishop Bell delivered one of the notable addresses of a notable convention. His address was too good to spoil by excerpting from memory; the manuscript of it has been loaned to one of our weeklies and has not yet been returned to us. We hope in the December number to present this splendid address in full. It was remarkable for its high spiritual tone, for keenness of insight into the psychology of manhood, for a rare devotion to the purpose of the Master, combined with a rare command of language and wonderful capacity for making words flow together in streams of molten fire.

The morning and afternoon sessions were so good that the vast audience gathered together for the closing session of the great convention with appetites whetted and minds freshened for the final hour. After an unusually enthusiastic service, report of the Nominating Committee was read and a slight amendment to the constitution moved by W. L. Porterfield, of California. Both were accepted without deviation. The names of the officers will be found upon the next page of the magazine.

The first address of the evening was upon "The Relation of the Brotherhood Movement to current Religious Enterprises," by George Hamilton Combs, of Kansas City. Dr. Combs addressed himself frankly to the task relating the Brotherhood Movement and to the masculine enterprises with special prominence, such as the Laymen's Missionary Movement and the Temperance Movement, and so on. His address abounded in striking epigrams and those electrically brilliant figures of speech for which he is well known. He declared that the work was not a matter of board mittees and big machines with buzz-wheels, but that it was a massed movement in humanity which had for its object but a single aim: conversion of the world. He then showed how the Brotherhood Movement, with its special instructions from time to time in special organizations for particular purposes to serve this great purpose. Dr. Combs had alluded, in the beginning of his address, to the speaker who was to follow him upon the program, Dr. F. W. Gunsaulus, as probably the greatest preacher in the English-speaking world, and evidently shortened his own address to make way for him while the people were still leaning forward in their seats and hanging upon the words of the eloquent pastor of the Independence Boulevard Church.

Following Dr. Combs, MRS. PRINCESS LONG rendered her famous medley of patriotic songs and concluded by presenting a flag which she has used in the honoring of these beautiful bits of music at many of our conventions to a lady from the far-off province of Alberta, in Canada, bidding her take it with her as a reminder that from out of the land of the stars and Stripes missionaries were to come to kiss with the lips of service the soil of the great Northwest and take possession of it in the name of the starry flag of Bethlehem.

For the very excellent report of the address of Dr. Gunsaulus, which follows, we are indebted to the Topeka Daily Capital. And let us say here, lest we forget to mention it elsewhere, that owing to our observation never have any papers more faithfully striven to adequately and in detail the sessions of a National Convention of the disciples of Christ than was evidenced in the columns of the Topeka Daily Capital and the Kansas State Journal. True, when it came to grasping the inwardness of ecclesiastical questions, they made mistakes, and some of them were amusing to the initiated, but, as Dr. Combs said in his address, a man who never made a mistake never made anything. The Topeka daily papers endeavored to render to our Convention the same conscientious service that the Topeka people generally did, and we are grateful for it.

Dr. Gunsaulus said in part:

"What business have we behind the closed door? Not doors, but door, for there is but one door. These were the own words of Jesus: 'When thou prayest, enter thy closet and shut the door.'

"You have heard that phrase 'shut the door' from the lips under other circumstances. There are two tones, one of such sweetness and sincerity as in this commandment, and the other that may contain reproach or resentment. Perhaps when a boy you brought in the wood on a winter's day and left the door ajar and permitted the cold air or blowing sleet to strike your little sister who was sick. To the command 'shut the door' you hastily shut out the cold and snow.

"What shall we Christians shut the door of our hearts against when we pray? We can shut the door against our enemies but there are such tiny artifices in the door that we can see our enemies. Sometimes things are so mixed at the door that in shutting it someone gets half way in and we do not know whether he is a friend or an enemy. Sometimes friends with ambitions for us need most of all to be shut out. Then, too, we should shut the door against our past. The past gets into our character so easily that it is hard indeed to shut the door against it.

"Oh, how certain it is that more depends upon the nature of the door than upon our own strength.

"What is the door?

CHRIST THE DOOR "Christ is the door.

"There is no fact in the history of human nature that is able to shut out our past, our friends and our enemies from our hearts but Christ. No man could have felt the touch of divine spirit without recognizing the value of this hour.

"When thou hast shut the door, say Our Father."

"Do we know what it means to say 'Our Father?' Is a single word lisped by a child more blessed? Whoever thought, except metaphysical theologians or proud dogmatists that he meant anything else but 'brotherhood' when we close the door and pray? 'Our Father,' and not 'My Father?' The words 'Our Father' takes in the interest of all mankind and it is impossible to pray without lifting up every man. Therefore our fatherhood is the universal brotherhood. What can any brotherhood do but to 'brother?' All men are the children of God. They may be sinful or rebellious or debauched, but are His children still.

"How could fatherhood be manifested except in the child? The very moment a son of God 'brothers' me I cry 'Abba—father.' You'll never find the brotherhood through the eyes of the elder, the deacon or the preacher, but through your own. Does your brotherhood find your brother to be the nearest man to you?"

"Let us tonight pledge to seek the man nearest to us. He may be the hired man to whom you pay a decent wage, but not a Christian wage.

"The fact is, the man outside of the church is not altogether to be blamed for not believing that the church is not all it should be.

"It is a terrible thing to have just enough brotherhood among the churches to get him near the door, and not enough to get him in.

Political science has taught the word 'brotherhood,' and political science is in the hands of the mob.

HOW TO BROTHER A MAN

"God comes to humanity through humanity. us just be brother the man next to us the world will believe in the fatherhood of God. How delicately the forces must be handled in order to 'brother' a man and keep him. Have you ever tried to 'brother' a man who had a fire of appetite? Have you ever met him when his nostrils were filled with temptations, and given him your help?

"There is too little understanding of brotherhood by the preachers of today. If I had my way I would abolish Hebrew in theology and substitute psychology. Prepare as you will for evangelizing, until all your preachers are organized bosses and a great machine is organized, the whole effort fails without a touch of the holy spirit."

"Uncle Jake" Mason

BY J. O. SHELburne, CHAIRMAN TEXAS STATE BROTHERHOOD COMMITTEE

His full and proper name is Jacob Caswell Mason, and his rank and dignity is Minister of Jesus Christ and Corresponding Secretary of the Texas Christian Missionary Society, but our people in Texas and Arkansas call him lovingly "Uncle Jake." He seems at some time to have had another sobriquet, for recently, when the Governor of Kansas was meeting people after an address in Texas, those standing near heard the fiery Kansan, after looking a moment into the eyes of Uncle Jake, with slow kindling memories, ask "Is this 'Red' Mason?" and off the two marched, arm in arm, to talk of old times, college, war and courtship days.

Lest the Governor's remark lead one immediately to the conclusion that the Secretary of the Texas Board of Missions is auburn-haired, we sound a warning note. His head today is bare as a threshing floor. There is no hint of hair now or ever, let alone a suggestion as to the color scheme. Now he is as bald as when away back in 1843. He came into prominence by way of his cradle at Morganfield, Kentucky, which was the only event of his life which he permitted another to direct. Even when this he wailed a protest. Born in a log cabin, he early became used to hardship, and twelve years later, when his parents removed to a Missouri farm with eight children below him, Uncle Jake was already a grown man in appearance and mind, if not in age. Though living on a farm, the father was a stonemason, leaving the agricultural operations almost entirely to the subject of this sketch. Thus he grew to manhood.

In the early days of the civil war, bushwhacking methods of the border drove the family over into Illinois. A military company was organized in the school house, and Uncle Jake was chosen Lieutenant. In the temporary absence of the Captain, the young Lieutenant listed the entire company in the Army, the muster taking place at Fort Smith, and was sent with it to Memphis, and from there to Helena, Arkansas.

After the war he was baptized in Illinois under the preaching of B. B. Mason. Then came his marriage and the second trip to Arkansas. Preachers were scarce in Arkansas in those days. Missionaries in Thibet are now, and the Union Sunday-school grew there instead of a church. Mr. Mason undertook the preaching when a preacher who had been engaged failed to arrive. The revival grew in power and at the close of the meeting a church was established. From this time on Brother Mason operated his farm and taught school during the week, and preached publicly every Lord's Day, intending in the beginning only to preach until a minister could be secured. However, the response to his service as a preacher was so numerous that he wisely decided to leave all other work and devote his time and talents entirely to the ministry. From that day to this he has never sought employment nor sought for a place to preach. After establishing a church at Bethlehem, Arkansas, he left them with an employed minister and returned to Okolona, and performed a similar work for two years, and then became the First State Secretary of the Arkansas Missionary Society. In that capacity he established the church at Texarkana, and in seven years it became one of the strongest churches of that thriving border city.

The attention of the American Christian Missionary Society was directed to his work by reason of his great success in Arkansas, and he was asked to come to Texas and aid in establishing a church at Houston, one of the leading cities of the Lone Star commonwealth. Mr. Mason assembled twenty-four members in a hall over a store-room and in less than twelve years left them with a membership of five hundred and a property that was later sold for twenty-five thousand dollars. At Palestine, Texas, which was his last individual ministry, the missionary offerings were brought to the highest point in the church's history, but he forsook his love of home and the pastorate to which he had unreservedly given twenty of the best years of his life, and became the State Secretary of Texas Missions in response to the third successive annual appeal of the Texas State Board. As State Secretary he is now rounding out his eighth year. The cash receipts have grown from $13,500 the first year to $42,000, which was the report at the last Texas convention.

Mr. Mason's motto is "Permanent Work." He has developed a wonderful ability in judging men and in his choice of workers capable of the best business methods lies the secret of the substantial and lasting results of his work as State Secretary. Day in, day out, in and out of season, whether the farms be afloat or parching under a torrid sun, Mr. Mason is the same calm, deliberate, careful, painstaking, deep-thinking, hard-working Christian gentleman; never afraid, never embarrassed, shrinking not at the largest tasks, never refusing to grapple with problems which seem to refuse to respond to ordinary treatment. Uncle Jake is not a "quitter." Few "corn crackers" are. If our brethren anywhere throughout this vast domain, bordered on the south by the Rio Grande and the Gulf, on the west by New Mexico, on the north by the progressive new State, Oklahoma, on the east by Arkansas and Louisiana, in all an area of 262,290 square miles, want to tackle a hard job and are doubtful about the results, they send for Brother Mason. Despite his sixty-five years he swings onto the train and from the train onto a Texas cow pony (and often the pony carries him farther than the train) and arrives in time to save the day.

Every day makes a history worth writing and reading. Each night sees something accomplished, something done, that is abundantly worth while. From the beginning of his work in Arkansas to the present time there is not a single record of failure. This is remarkable, for even greater men, history records few such achievements. The church at Houston last year gave two thousand dollars for Foreign Missions and has one of the best church buildings in Texas. Palestine is looked upon as the greatest church in the State outside of the great cities, while the multitude of smaller congregations which are already, or on the way to become, permanently established, will be everlasting monuments to his faith, fidelity and hard work, and the greatest of these is hard work.

Brother Mason has not been without the bitter in his life along with the sweet that has accompanied his ardent labors.

His first helpmeet left him alone and his second wife, who has been a friend and mother to four children, died in the first marriage and two of her children are at this writing seriously ill. His life and prudent faithfulness Brother Mason credits much of the success he has attained. One daughter, Mrs. J. H. [unclear] with her husband, is a missionary in Monterey, Mexico. Few men have borne the trials and hardship of his life without an occasional grumbling or misgiving, as has Brother Mason. There has been no grumbling in his life. It is just one sweet story from first to last. His work has never been flighty; always intense; never sensational; always very much alive; never shallow but always deep and lasting. In his steps from the cradle until now the pleasure of the journey has only been exceeded by the joy of recounting it. Few men in our Brotherhood have a stronger faith or a firmer grasp upon the teachings of the Old Book. He has no malice towards none and has charity for all. He loves his brethren and has implicit faith in them. God give us more men like him.

Dallas, Texas.

State Work

The Missionary Society most important to the life of our churches and the one least known about is the State organization. In many of our States, tens of thousands of our members go through their days without realizing the existence of the State Missionary Society, and with no sense whatever of its importance or their responsibility to it.

The State Missionary Society is organized for the propagation of the Gospel in the State, for the support of evangelists, for the care of the weaker churches, and for the realization of a closer fellowship among the stronger congregations and among all the forces within the State considered as a whole. It consists primarily of an Executive Board, elected by the State Convention and composed of representative laymen and ministers from different parts of the State. This organization has a President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer, and, in addition to these, usually employs a Corresponding Secretary, frequently a Superintendent of the State Bible School Work, and also secures work for and direct the energies of numerous evangelists. The Corresponding Secretary is almost continually in the field, strengthening the weak churches and spying out the land for the location of new congregations, planning evangelistic campaigns and conferring with pastors, evangelists and workers regarding the state of the cause. As the writer remembers, David S. Burnett, one of the Secretaries of the American Christian Missionary Society, was the father of our present system of State organizations, and the success of this important branch of our work is a testimony to his wisdom and prudence. Our State Boards have from the beginning been specially successful in commanding the faithful service of efficient secretaries and evangelists. These men have served in season and out of season. They have wrought much to the profit of the Kingdom of God.

These State Boards are extremely democratic in their organization. In the nature of the case, they cannot get away from the people. Their administration is invariably faithful and judicious, one which commends itself to the best men of the church when once it is brought to their attention, and yet it seldom does come to their attention. The reason for this is that the State Missionary work is never adequately presented except at the State Conventions, and too few of our brethren themselves are in the habit of attending these conventions.

At this the Brotherhood hopes to change. Already, we have seen hundreds of laymen attracted to the State Conventions, to attend the Brotherhood session, and the program of such a convention ought always to find a place for adequate presentation of the State Work and the education of the Brotherhood men in attendance concerning it.

The State Secretary, of course, is a walking compendium of knowledge as to the work done, and plans and progress, but in the nature of the case, he cannot be everywhere at once. It becomes, therefore, the duty of the Local Brotherhood to inform its men fully in regard to this as a most important missionary duty. We published in the October number of CHRISTIAN MEN, a program to be given by Local Brotherhoods, to inform thoroughly every member of that organization upon the work being done, and offering them the opportunity to have a part in it. By common consent, the first Lord's Day in November is set apart to receive an offering for State Missions. We appeal urgently to every Brotherhood man to do his full part to make this offering a success. If you are keeping the Brotherhood covenant, you are praying every day for the extension of Christ's Kingdom. We assure you there is no more potent agency for that extension than the Missionary Society of the State in which you reside. This is true in our old States, like Missouri and Ohio; it is true in the far frontier States, like Idaho and Montana. Men, stand by your State Work and by your State Secretaries, and thereby will you make the church strong in a strength out of which may come the thews and sinews of a mighty service in a mightier way in that mightier land which lies outside the borders of your own geographical environment.

While They Last We will give away Absolutely Free one copy of The Centurion's Story of the Crucifixion and Resurrection, by P. C. Macfarlane, to each of our friends who send us twenty or more individual paid in advance subscriptions to—

“Christian Men”

Magazine,

at the Special Club Rates named below. (New or Old subscribers count on this offer.)

It is easy to get subscribers to the brotherhood journal. Hold up your own copy and tell the merits of the publication.

This offer is limited and our supply of the prizes will not last long, so please hasten your list to us.

THE PRIZE IS VALUABLE.

Don't Delay—Act Today

Tomorrow may be stolen by the Thief—“Procrastination.”

Send Subscriptions to

RATES
Clubs of
20	.	.	25c
Clubs of
10	.	.	35c
Single Subscription			50c

Room 419
926-28 Grand Ave.

Kansas City, Mo.

Team Work in Religion

A Campaign for the Enlistment of Men

At a meeting of the National Association of General and State Missionary Secretaries held in Topeka on the eve of the National Convention the following plan for a co-operative campaign in behalf of State, Home and Foreign Missions was introduced by E. Elliott, Assistant Secretary of the Brotherhood:

to the National Association of State and National Secretaries:

A Proposal

The organization with which I am identified has had under consideration for some time the inauguration of a country-wide campaign in the interest of the Brotherhood movement, which would have for its definite purpose "THE ENLISTMENT OF MEN IN THE WORK OF THE KINGDOM." Our plans have been cordially seconded by the approval of the secretaries of our various societies to whom the matter has been presented, and by their assistance our plans have taken more tangible shape and we are now ready to make A PROPOSAL to this organization for such action as you may see fit to take.

Let us in the beginning grasp the general scope of our churches, under the heads as they are handled by the Societies, and we have the following, in order named:

- 1—The Local Church work.
- 2—Home Missions:
 - a—City Missions.
 - b—State Missions.
 - c—American Missions.
 - 1—United States.
 - 2—Canada.
 - 3—Mexico.
 - d—Church Extension.
- 3—Benevolences:
 - a—National Benevolent Association.
 - b—Board of Ministerial Relief.
- 4—Educational interests.
 - a—Schools and colleges at home.
- 5—Foreign Missions:
 - a—The Foreign Society.
 - b—The C. W. B. M.

We propose to this organization the inauguration of a series of men's evening meetings preferably around the banquet table, to be held in say sixty or seventy cities of this country, beginning at Buffalo, N. Y., and moving west along the line of least resistance about like the following:

- 1—Buffalo, N. Y.; 2—Pittsburgh, Pa.; 3—Cleveland, Ohio; 4—Columbus or Dayton, Ohio; 5—Cincinnati; 6—Lexington, Ky.; 7—Louisville, Ky.; 8—Indianapolis; 9—Ft. Wayne, Ind.; 10—Toledo; 11—Detroit; 12—Grand Rapids; 13—Chicago, Ill.; 14—Peoria, Ill.; 15—Springfield, Ill.; 16—Jacksonville, Fla.; 17—St. Louis, Mo.; 18—Jefferson City, Mo.; 19—Kansas City, Mo.; 20—St. Joseph, Mo.; 21—Des Moines, Iowa; 22—Omaha, Neb.; 23—Lincoln, Neb.; 24—Topeka, Kan.;

- 25—Hutchinson, Kan.; 26—Oklahoma City; 27—Dallas, Texas; 28—San Antonio; 29—El Paso, Texas; 30—Riverside, Cal.; 31—Los Angeles, Cal.; 32—Santa Barbara; 33—San Francisco; 34—Portland, Ore.; 35—Tacoma, Wash.; 36—Seattle, Wash.; 37—Spokane, Wash., returning by way of Minneapolis and Milwaukee.

To handle such a tour we should have at least three speakers, one representing the Brotherhood movement, to present the merits of a men's Brotherhood in the local church, and organize a Brotherhood on the spot to carry out the work suggested by the speakers who follow. The second speaker can represent our work in America, including State and City Missions, Benevolences and Church Extension, while the third speaker will present the plea of Foreign Missions, and the responsibility of the churchman for that work as well as the work at home, showing what work is actually being done by each of the societies abroad.

These speakers will both inform and inspire the manhood of our churches, in a way that has never been done outside of conventions, in the history of our work. It will give every society and interest a square deal, and the time of each speaker on the program will be the same.

The details of operation in preparing for such a tour are intricate and difficult of handling. The first thing we need is a competent advertising man or Campaign Manager, who will get in touch with a hustler in each community the tour will touch, furnishing such leader with printed matter, and explicit instructions regarding arrangements, and advertising of the affair, all printed matter including tickets, posters, mailing cards, etc., to be furnished by the Campaign Manager along with the instructions, and a cordial co-operation arranged between the Central Office and the campaign points, in order that the work may be done expeditiously and without friction. This advertising manager will see that the local point understands what is wanted, and the best and cheapest methods to pursue to bring it about, and will see that no stone is left unturned to make the meetings the very largest successes possible, and that the attendance is stimulated not only from among the churchmen of the local point, but from surrounding towns as well.

We should have with the tour a competent leader of song. Any one of our song-book publishers would doubtless be glad to furnish such a man and pay his expenses for the privilege, furnishing the books necessary for the singing. We should also have with the tour the State Secretary in every State the tour crosses, and he should be accorded a place on the program.

It might be proper to change Secretaries on the trip so that each of our Secretaries will come in touch with a portion of the tour and thus be fully informed in regard to what it is doing. I would consider this a wise thing to do. This tour could begin the first Friday in January, which will be the 6th. Let us run it every day, including Sunday, when the hour for the banquet could be set at an earlier hour, say 4:30 or 5:00 o'clock, and have it out of the way by 8 o'clock, in time for the evening church services. The program and the meal together will readily consume three hours, or if time permits, it will not be tiresome, nor unnecessarily prolong the affair to a late hour to sit at the table three and a half hours. I have attended a number of banquets of business men where we sat down at 7 o'clock and stayed until midnight. This is too long, but I think our men would not complain if the affair was three hours from start to finish.

In order to finance the campaign, the Manager should be provided with a reserve fund of several hundred dollars. The expenses of the Secretaries should be borne by the various societies themselves, each society supporting its own representative. There would be no offering taken for any work, and the advertising matter should so state. The banquets should preferably be spread in the church and served by the ladies, at a popular price.

The itinerary should provide a meeting every night, and a carefully prepared schedule will see after the economy of time and travel necessary to bring this about. Each society may contribute something in the way of photographs, curios, charts, maps, and banners, to a display which will be illustrative of the work of all, such exhibit to be in charge of the Campaign Manager, or his representative, who will be the Brotherhood representative, and perform the functions of toastmaster while presenting the organization matter. The matter of programs will be controlled entirely by the Societies, thus relieving the local committees of everything save the arrangements and getting the men out to the meeting.

Such a Campaign could have nothing but good in it for the work of our combined societies. The work of one would not be emphasized to the detriment of another, for none of them are over emphasized, but in this manner of presenting the work, each and every department of our church work will be given the very best presentation possible, and the Brotherhood movement will form the organization which will be expected to carry out the suggestions of the speakers after you are gone.

The campaign might be followed in thirty days by a stereopticon lecture, showing about three hundred pictures of persons and places, which would both delight and instruct the people. This could be handled by this same Campaign Committee, with suitable advertising arrangements, free tickets, etc., although the progress of the lecturer would not be as rapid as that of the speakers on the tour.

It would be anticipated that the local church would provide hotel entertainment for the party, which would be the only out-of-pocket expense the local church would be put to, and this would about offset the usual printing expense.

In order to get the matter before the Association properly, I would move the following resolution:

RESOLVED, by the National Association of State and National Secretaries, That a plan similar to that above suggested be inaugurated by this Association, and that a Committee be appointed by the Association consisting of one representative of each National Society, as follows:

Foreign Society, American Christian Missionary Society, National Benevolent Association, Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, each society to designate its representative, such committee to elect its own chairman. That this committee be instructed to confer with the officers of our various State and National Societies and secure their co-operation in carrying the plan into execution on the earliest possible date. Be it further

RESOLVED, That a call be issued by this Association to our churches, bespeaking the most cordial co-operation of both ministers and laymen in this Campaign of Education to the end that the work of the Disciples of Christ may be furthered and every department of our activities brought up to the highest possible efficiency; which will mean:

1.—Local work adequately supported by money.

2.—That State and City Missions receive proper recognition.

3.—That the A. C. M. S., Church Extension, Colleges, be given the money necessary to carry on their work properly.

4.—That Foreign Missions receive contributions commensurate with the work, by the F. C. M. S. and C. W. B. M.

5.—That widows, orphans, the aged, the lame, the blind, etc., be clothed and fed, ministered unto with brotherly love.

6.—That the Christian ministry, the highest profession within the gift of God, be recognized as such in every way by the members of our churches, to the end that our present ministry be well paid, and that inducements are made to capable young men to make a ministry their life work.

7.—That the churchman will again take his place in the annals of the church in real earnest, doing for the church in the same manner and with the same liberality, what he does for the other agencies of life.

The recommendation was received with hearty applause and the Committee provided for therein duly appointed. This Committee met promptly, and after carefully considering the matter for an hour and a half, rendered the following report, which was presented to the General Association and unanimously adopted:

Committee Report

Your Committee recommends to the Association the adoption in substance of the plan proposed by Secretary E. E. Elliott for a Touring Party to conduct an educational campaign in the interests of the Missionary and Benevolent work by visiting seventy centers, more or less, where numbers of churches might be reached.

Your Committee further recommends that this plan be referred for final adoption to the Boards of Directors of the AMERICAN CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY, FOREIGN CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY, NATIONAL BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION and THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST. That upon the adoption of the plan each said Board will select a man to represent it upon a campaign committee that will have entire charge of the same. Each co-operating Board is expected to bear its proportion of the expense.

And your Committee further recommends that this campaign of education, if undertaken, shall be effective along the three lines of cleavage into which the work naturally falls, namely: Foreign, Home and Benevolent, taking pains to be fair to every interest involved, and also that in each State touched by this Touring Party, the State Secretary be asked to lend hearty co-operation and to attend and participate in the meetings held in his State.

Your Committee recommends, finally, that upon the concurrence of the Boards named above with the plan proposed it shall become the duty of the Brotherhood Secretary to call the Committee together for work.

Signed:

GRANT K. LEWIS, Chairman,
For the American Society,
A. McLEAN,
For the Foreign Society,
J. H. MOHORTER,
For the Benevolent Ass'n,
D. Y. DONALDSON,
For the State Societies,
E. E. ELLIOTT,
For the Brotherhood.

Immediate action will be taken to carry out the terms of this resolution, and due announcement of the details as determined will appear in all our journals.

Tennessee Tidings

Tennessee had a great convention. Memphis gave the convention a hearty welcome. L. D. Riddell is the wide-awake pastor of the McLemon Avenue Christian Church, where the convention was held. His cordial hospitality was showered upon every one.

The Brotherhood was given forty minutes on the morning program, September 22d, and the program of the Brotherhood was received with applause.

Tennessee hospitality was at its glory at the dinner hour. Out on the lawn, under spreading oaks, a dinner was spread which only a French cook or a Tennessee

"Mammy" could describe. It was a social hour. Here the Brotherhood was discussed from every point of view. Groups gathered and questions were asked. Many were the requests for local work. It is to be hoped the Field Secretary will be able to answer some of these urgent calls very soon.

P. Y. Pendleton was the presiding officer.

Tennessee pledged herself to large things for the year to come in building of the Kingdom. Not the least among the things she will do will be the arousing of her men to their privileges and duties for Christ and His Kingdom.

The Boy Scouts

By H. E. STAFFORD

How shall we interest the boys? This is a question which is being asked by our live Brotherhoods that have at heart the welfare, present and future, of their boys. The Boy Scout is the answer.

In our church was a class of fifteen real, live boys—fifteen bundles of energy and vim. During the past year they mastered six different teachers. Not because the boys were in the least bad, but because the real boy had never been discovered. Mr. W. W. Webb, auditor of the Massillon Steel and Pipe Foundry (a man who was attracted to the church by the practical way in which the Brotherhood presented Christianity as vital for everyday life), was the seventh teacher of this class. He appealed to the boys. When he took the class there were five in attendance; soon it grew to nine or ten. Mr. Webb seized upon the idea of the Boy Scouts. He presented the matter to the writer, plans were laid for announcing an organization the next Sunday. In the meantime the boys got wind of it and to our surprise there were twenty present on that Sunday. The teacher detailed each boy as a scout, instructing him to secure another fellow for the meeting and for complete organization on the succeeding Friday evening—result: forty-five boys present—and the same number filled the class room the following Sunday morning.

This movement is a contagion among boys, it spreads like the news of war. They call it "enthusiasmitis." It has answered our question, "How shall we interest the boys?" For our problem is now, "Where shall we put the boys?" It is our purpose to extend the Scout movement to all the boys of the school from ten to seventeen—then we shall include the movement in a Boys' Brotherhood.

The following is the modified Boy Scout Covenant which we have adopted:

Boy Scout Covenant

- 1. A scout's honor is to be trusted. If he declares, "On my honor it is so," that settles it.
- 2. A scout is loyal. The obligation of loyalty embraces country and rulers, parents, employers and scout masters.
- 3. A scout's duty is to be useful and to help others. He must try his best to do a good turn to somebody each day.
- 4. A scout is a friend to all and a brother to every other scout, no matter to what social class the other belongs. He must eschew snobbery and cultivate democratic good fellowship.

- 5. A scout is courteous. He must, furthermore, take no reward for his courtesy; this means "no tips."
- 6. A scout is a friend to animals. He must not give pain to any creature unnecessarily.
- 7. A scout obeys orders. He must, too, render obedience without question; but after carrying out an order he may state reasons for objecting to it.
- 8. A scout smiles and whistles under all circumstances. The duty of cheerfulness is second only to that of of obedience.
- 9. A scout is thrifty. He opens a savings bank account.

I accept the above covenant, and on my honor I promise that I will do my best to do my duty to God, my Country and my Church; to help other people at all times, and to obey Scout Law.

.....Signature
.....Address
Approved.....
Accepted

.....
.....
.....
Anyone desiring information regarding the Boy Scouts may find it in the September Outlook (magazine) and also in the August American Boy.
Massillon, Ohio.

Brotherhood Bible Class, Bedford, Indiana, Home of L. B. D. C.

General Members Noticed at the Topeka Convention

The number before the name indicates the number of membership card carried by the member:

3, Champ Clark, Bowling Green, Mo.; 6, J. Newton Cloe, Greensburg, Kan.; 7, S. M. Martin, Seattle, Wash.; 9, James Small, Kansas City, Mo.; 10, T. P. Walters, Coffeyville, Kan.; 11, John Williams, Junction City, Kan.; 31, T. L. Read, Chapin, Ill.; 34, O. L. Adams, Clay Center, Kan.; 45, P. E. Hawkins, Marion, Kan.; 51, S. E. Fisher, Champaign, Ill.; 53, F. W. Burnham, Springfield, Ill.; 87, J. H. Mohorter, St. Louis, Mo.; 89, C. L. Stauffer, Dallas City, Ill.; 94, C. M. Sharpe, Columbia, Mo.; 103, Oliver Cook, Columbus, Kan.; 113, Chas. E. Varney, Paw Paw, Mich.; 120, J. K. Shellenberger, Wooster, Ohio; 131, Tom Ray, Kansas City, Mo.; 140, W. S. Lockhart, Fayetteville, Ark.; 144, L. H. Coleman, Springfield, Ill.; 156, C. N. Kinney, Des Moines, Iowa; 159, I. W. Gill, Wichita, Kan.; 162, J. A. Longston, Independence, Kan.; 161, A. B. Clark, Burlington, Kan.; 160, S. G. Clark, Belpre, Kan.; 163, C. M. Jackson, Wichita, Kan.; 164, D. G. Zimmerman, Nortonville, Kan.; 176, W. S. Randall, Kansas City, Mo.; 177, Fife & Sons, Kansas City, Mo.; 184, J. F.

Quisenberry, Kansas City, Mo.; 186, G. W. Muckley, Kansas City, Mo.; 191, C. A. Mangum, Omaha, Neb.; 197, R. A. Doan, Nelsonville, Ohio; 204, Herbert Moninger, Cincinnati, Ohio; 205, A. McLean, Cincinnati, Ohio; 211, Benton Boyd, Uniontown, Pa.; 230, R. B. Helser, Centralia, Mo.; 235, W. E. M. Hackleman, Indianapolis, Ind.; 240, Clark W. Comstock, Mound City, Mo.; 242, C. R. L. Vawter, Kansas City, Mo.; 248, C. S. Voorhees, Wichita, Kan.; 261, C. E. Rash, Plainville, Kan.; 269, E. E. Elliott, Kansas City, Mo.; 270, P. C. Macfarlane, Kansas City, Mo.; 273, Edward Owers, Dallas, Tex.; 302, F. H. Glenn, Nevada, Mo.; 318, F. E. Udell, St. Louis, Mo.; 320, Fletcher Cowherd, Kansas City, Mo.; 329, D. P. Gribben, Kansas City, Mo.; 370, Bishop M. Hopkins, Medicine Lodge, Kan.; 371, M. B. Ingle, Harper, Kan.; 372, F. M. Rogers, Long Beach, Cal.; 373, Wallace Tuttle, Springfield, Ohio; 375, Albert E. Buss, Zion City, Ill.; 377, S. L. Jackson, Washington, Kan.; 378, J. B. Montague, Camden Point, Mo.; 379, Grant K. Lewis, Cincinnati, Ohio; 380, J. A. W. Brown, Newton, Kan.; 381, M. M. Blair, Mesa, Ariz.; 382, W. S. Austin, Temple, Ariz.; 383, W. H. Salyer, Temple, Ariz.

nt; Oliver L. Rayburn, Secretary; H. A. Denton, Minister

Year End Prize Offer

DURING the months of November and December we have determined upon another prize offer for individual paid in advance subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine. Note the time limit. November 1st to December 31st, inclusive, we will give ABSOLUTELY FREE for 20 individual paid in advance subscriptions one Gold Plated Brotherhood Emblem Lapel Button or Scarf Pin.

For More than 40 and less than 50

individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give a Rolled Gold Brotherhood Emblem Lapel Button or Scarf Pin.

For More than 50 and less than 75

we will give choice of Solid Gold Brotherhood Emblem Lapel Button or Scarf Pin, a Bronze Brotherhood Emblem Watch Fob or Rolled Gold Brotherhood Emblem Watch Charm.

For More than 75 and less than 100

individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give choice of Gold Plated Brotherhood Emblem Dumb Bell Cuff Links or Solid Sterling Silver Brotherhood Emblem Watch Fob.

For 100 or More individual paid in advance subscriptions we will give choice of Solid Gold Brotherhood Emblem Dumb Bell Cuff Links or Solid Gold Brotherhood Emblem Watch Fob.

Remember this offer is limited to the months of November and December, 1910.

The Big Brother Movement

Below we present in full the contents of a leaflet on The Big Brother Movement issued by The Executive Council of that organization, No. 1 Madison New York City.

SUGGESTIONS TO COMMITTEE ON BOYS' WORK.

on the boy in his home. You can't get into real sympathy with him till you know the life he lives, the air he breathes. Acquainted with his father and mother. The battle is half won when you have gained the confidence of the parents. By coming into the family you can often show them how to help the boy—and you can help him too.

What can be done to improve the conditions. The lack of real home life is usually the cause of the boy's trouble.

Do not give financial aid except in extreme cases. If such is needed communicate with Herbert W. Bruere, General Agent of New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor (Charities Building, Avenue and 22d Street). Mr. Bruere is interested in the movement and is glad to co-operate.

Find out the boy's teacher. She usually has a better idea of what the boy needs.

If the boy is not in school or at work the first thing to do is to get him back into school if possible. A Big Brother can do wonders in arousing a boy's ambition.

If the family needs his help, get him a job. Work in good surroundings. The Y. M. C. A. Bureaus will assist. Notify the Executive Secretary. We frequently have jobs for boys.

Find out where the boy spends his evenings. Most of them spend them in the street. Try your business to provide a better place—more attractive—not to you—but to the boy.

Have your physician look the boy over or have the executive secretary refer him to one of the physicians—Adenoids and Malnutrition. Frequent explanations of perversity are not the answer. Few boys are to be expected to be giants when they are physically weak or sick.

Take him around to one of the Boys' Gymnasiums. Several Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. gymnasiums are open to Little Brothers of charge on certain nights. Often the best thing a boy needs is a chance to get off his animal spirits. If he doesn't get wholesome exercise in the "Gym" or on the ground, he will give vent to it in mischief on the street.

Take him to your own home, and make it clear that he is welcome. It will perhaps be a revelation of "home" to him.

Invite him to call on you at your office or place of business. He must understand something of your life if you wish him to look on you as a brother.

Be interested in a boy's interests. Shooting craps may be the only real amusement he knows. Until you find what he likes about gambling you are in no position to suggest something better that will fit his case.

Take him to a ball game with you. There is no better way of "warming-up" to a boy and getting him to "warm-up" to you like cheering together.

Take him to a concert or a good clean show, and he will begin to lose his taste for the vicious shows.

Don't patronize. You may know more about virtue, but the boy probably is a better expert on temptation.

Find out whether he attends Sunday-School or Church, and take him with you to your own.

Prove your point of view. A boy who is worth while will not accept a stranger's ideas until he knows they are worth having.

Discover the boy's chief interests. If he loves music or likes mechanical work, encourage his interest and find a chance for him to develop it.

Find something for him to do in which you can arouse his interest—preferably something he can do with his hands.

Try to encourage the habit of reading. Give or lend him a book or a magazine. Spend an evening in his home and carry along a good boy's story to read with him. If he is working, get him into night school or a Y. M. C. A. educational class.

Get him to assume some responsibility, and realize his duty to help others. e. g., help a blind man across the street,—observe little habits of politeness.

Get him to write to you once in a while, and always answer him promptly.

Above all remember that you are a big brother, that you were once a boy, and be patient. Your boy is not yet a man; it's your task to make him one.

Just one thing more. On being assigned a boy, please note the request for the return of the attached slip. You may think it of slight importance, but it really means a great deal that we should know promptly that the boy will be taken care of. As soon as you have looked up the boy, kindly fill out the report card and send it to us. From time to time we shall send you letters and enclose other cards for later reports. Experience has shown that a careful filing of these cards is of great assistance to the movement.

Do it NOW. Now is the critical time when the boy needs help.

If you believe that a boy in the open is better than a boy in jail, you are in sympathy with the Big Brothers. If you believe that a boy unaided cannot always overcome the tendency of unfortunate environment, or be happy and good without any of the things which make for happiness and goodness, concur in the Big Brother Platform. If you are willing to do something yourself to help a boy you may at once become a Big Brother, and we can supply the very things who needs you to brother him a little. Give him some fun, to show him how to be manly, to take some of life's handicaps, his underfed body and undeveloped mind.

Write or telephone the Executive Secretary, No. 1 Madison Avenue, New York City. 'Phone, 1204 Gramercy.

As Others See Us

By Arthur Holmes in The Christian Evangelist

Two years ago the Disciples' Brotherhood was a mathematical point, marking the place where an idea became a reality. Since then, funnel-like, the reality has expanded and rounded out into an organization panoplied for battle with all the modern harness of office rooms in the R. A. Long building, typewriters, metal filing cases, addressographs, loose-leaf ledgers and all the other paraphernalia necessary to jab a pin through every man in the church and out and nail him down as a present or possible specimen in the great collection of "All the Men of all the Church at all the Church's work." Of course, the genial secretaries do not stick pins into anybody; but they do punch names through oiled paper slips and file them like Pharaohs in a tomb; and they do paste a man's best suit of clothes and newest necktie in a photograph album and give him a niche in the gallery of possible heroes appearing every little while in CHRISTIAN MEN.

Back of the long-range office artillery stands an office force of six clerks and stenographers, who cheerfully work Saturday afternoons and along toward the wee small hours of the morning, when the electric lights glow lonesomely and the last trolley car takes fright at its own rumbling in the cavernous streets of the City on the Bluffs.

The office force is directly commanded by one E. E. Elliott, once a near-railroader from Peoria, Ill. Elliott lives in the office, though somewhere along the cliffs there is a patient Mrs. Elliott and two little Elliotts. This is certain, for the assistant secretary keeps their pictures above his desk so as to recognize them should he accidentally meet them on the street.

Elliott is clean cut from head to foot. There are no loose ends hanging around him nor his desk. All his ideas are tagged and all his stories—even the extemporaneous ones—are carefully catalogued. He is a business man. He looks to figures like crows to corn-rows. He brings to the movement clarity of vision, details, foresight and business acumen. He is sure to count much in working out the future plans of the organization. As a low traveler and a side partner in a campaign, he is peerless. All the intricacies of railroad schedules melt for him like morning mists before the sun. He is never ruffled, never beaten, never discouraged, and generally comes home with a scalps in his belt. The Brotherhood would be congratulated in securing the special business training of such a man as Mr. Elliott.

So much for the home guard. The home squadron consists of one deep-draught, long-suited, slender, armed and dangerous. Slender, armed and dangerous, armed with a couple of twelve inch revolving guns, loaded with cold-type shot and oratorical shot redhot. In these he scouts the country about Ohio, a man who can quickly find the underground entrance and comes out and renders. J. K. Lenberger is a made philosopher. He has thought through for himself. He is never satisfied with superficial views. His deep-set eyes go down and down into a subject until they strike bedrock, and thereon he has built a life-philosophy sure and wholesome. He is an orator, full of humor and old-fashioned homespun wisdom, Dunkard-tinged and tinged. There is not a grouchy line on his youthful face, nor a gray hair in his hair, though really, he is actually on the side of forty!

Each man has his peculiar talents and each brings to the new work elements of strength which are telling mightily for the success of the enterprise.

It is interesting to know something the Brotherhood has accomplished. Beginning with the year 1, State, Louisiana; New Orleans, when the world was form and void and darkness brooded the face of Discipleism, the Convention Let there be light, the Brotherhood organized, and Kansas City took its place upon the map. In eighteen months of history, about 100 local Brotherhoods have been affiliated with the National organization with about 5,000 members, the magazine office force has been organized, CHRISTIAN MEN has been founded, edited and subscribed for by 21,000 men.

Part are some of the deeds done in the name of the Brotherhood. At Elkhart, a committee studies the careers of political aspirants in all parties and reports pedigrees to the voters before election. In the same town that fifty Brotherhood men turned deputy sheriffs and assisted in the last rites of some eight or ten liquor-selling establishments, arrested evidence submitted to the prosecuting attorneys by detectives paid from the $5,000 raised by the churches of the city. At Chicago, Ill., the Brotherhood was the direct agency in building the new far-famed church. At Nelsonville, O., R. A. Doan finds time between burning kilns of red brick to build 750 men into a fully extensive organization, one secret which forms probably the largest Bible Class in the Disciple fold. It is the business sense of this clear-headed, R. A. Doan which saw the value of cooperation. Nelsonville Local with the National organization.

There are just a few things done—the first mental steps of a lusty baby-boy in the world rich with many practical possibilities. More would be done if men knew what to do. Ministers and laymen both are eager to put this army of 5,000 men to work on things little and big for the church. They are finding themselves and finding each other and the secretaries are busy introducing locals to locals and locals to their work. While the program of future work may not be crystalized nor fossilized and as yet no prophet has arisen to cry "Lo, here," nor "Lo, there," experience has already shown that where the work is there will the Brotherhood men be gathered together. They wait for no guide-book nor cicerone. They have been in the harness but two years and though the traces show wear and some ministers complain about the armache from the pull on the reins, the breeching is as good as new.

What shall the future be?

Closer acquaintanceship with the heart of the leaders reveals something far larger than merely an organization busy with turning its own wheels. The vision of the future is not a limited vision. No wire fences have yet been erected. The home office is not afflicted with prophetic myopia. Both secretaries and workers see a goodly land, great, free, fertile, all unpossessed—giants in the way, perhaps, but faith in the ranks and a pillar of cloud and fire in the van. On the theme of the future, the secretarial eye lights with far-seeing enthusiasm for the church's growing organization, for the day when a workman's specialist, a boys' worker, an educational director and a half dozen other specialists will bring the ripest plans and best methods to our whole people to equip our men for valiant service in the kingdom.

Philadelphia, Pa.

To Every Man Who Prays

A Message to the Inner Man

To every member of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ we appeal for constant prayer during the week beginning November 13th. Let the president of the Brotherhood issue the call and urge its observance. As far as possible have one earnest prayer-meeting in every community during the week. But be understood that we are all to be persistently praying during each day as we go about our daily tasks. Let us breathe our prayers wherever we are—in the office, in the factory or mine, upon the street, in our homes. May every atmosphere be filled with the spirit of prayer for men's work among men. May a mighty wave of prayer throughout the entire week ascend each day. May those prayers be for consecration and wisdom that the great force which has been lying dormant in the hearts of Christian men and which is just waiting may be so directed that the cohorts of Satan may be struck with confusion and routed. Pray that men throughout Christendom may glory in the big work of saving the world for Christ and that there may come no content into their lives until this God-given work for men is accomplished. "Pray without ceasing."

BIBLE SCHOOL NOTES

"We are just organizing a Brotherhood Bible Class and have set our mark at 100 men by the last Sunday in October."—RAY E. DAVIS, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 292, Kendallville, Ind.

"I am now located with the church here. Will you please send twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN to A. M. McCoy for the last quarter, 1910?—ELLIS PURLEE, Red Bluff, Cal.

"Please send sample copy of CHRISTIAN MEN to Geo. L. Brown, 706 Fourth street, Santa Rosa, Cal., Superintendent of Bible School. I made a short talk on building up a school last Lord's day and they seem to be interested."—W. C. WESTLAKE, Enroute.

We are in receipt of announcement of attendance of Grandma Chambers, of Baird, Ohio, 93 years old, the oldest Bible School teacher in the world, who was the guest of the First Christian Bible School at Canton, Ohio, Old Folks' day, September 18, 1910, on which day the attendance in all was 1,593.

The following is copied from a red tag issued by the Howett Street Bible School, Peoria, Ill.:

I AM TAGGED
for Rally Day Service
Howett Street Christian
Sunday-School,
Sunday, Oct. 9, 1910,
9:30 a. m.,
and I WILL BE PRESENT.

"We are taking, as you know, three hundred copies of CHRISTIAN MEN here at our church, so that I hardly need an individual copy sent to my address. Our men seem pleased with the paper and read it quite universally. We are to have Stephen Corey here the first day of October to address the men and women at the church morning and evening. They are averaging close to three hundred men recently at their "home coming" had one hundred present. There has never been so much enthusiasm and interest in the class that I think. We are looking forward to next year, both in the class and the church."—W. SCOTT COOK, Nelsonville, Ohio.

The Baraca movement, handled by the World-Wide Union, headquarters, New York, N. Y., have a world-wide field secretary in the person of Mr. Luther M. Tesh, who is now writing enroute on a tour through the West speaking to Baraca classes in the great cities. We cordially commend the Baraca movement and our Brotherhood men should give it the most cordial reception. The Baraca classes in our Bible Schools should be fostered and encouraged by local Brotherhoods in order that "all the members of all the church" may be brought together in one organization under the leadership of the Brotherhood in the interests of the world's redemption. The Baracas can be a department of the Brotherhood work as well as the Sons and the Brotherhood Bible Classes and other Men's Bible Classes. In fact, the Brotherhood is the one which provides for the whole round life of the man within the church and the Baracas are the young men of the Brotherhood the same as the boys of the Brotherhood will be the Brotherhood of twenty years hence.

Last month we told about the great Bible School contest from the viewpoint of the West. This month we hope to tell about the same contest as viewed from the Atlantic side of the fence. This makes fine reading. The Bible Classes of the country are catching up with the vision. Now comes Jackson Avenue Bible School, Kansas City, just graduated from on stage last May. September 18th the School was 797, being the largest attendance in greater Kansas City for the day. This school has an enthusiastic Bible School pastor, an aroused local Brotherhood, well organized and managed. A Brotherhood Bible School is a great feature. All it takes to make a great Bible School is to arouse the manhood and consecrated womanhood, some middle-aged, some early risers and an infinite capacity for hard work. This will spell success in large letters.

The Bellavben Bible Class at Bellevue, Pa., exerting a tremendous influence among the people of the other suburbs of Pittsburgh, from which they draw strength. The instructor of this class is Dr. Geo. W. Gerwig, recognized in other lines than Bible study, having been supervisor of the census of Pittsburgh Allegheny County. On a recent Sunday morning he spoke upon his impressions of Roosevelt and one of Pittsburgh's daily papers devoted a half column to Dr. Gerwig's address. Needless to say, the ex-president confirmed his usual impression upon the residents of the Smoky City upon his recent visit. None of them are more enthusiastic than the group of men comprising the Bellavben Bible Class.

This class is in a library contest and at this time is standing at third place. There are many libraries to be won and as everyone is working enthusiastically, we doubt not that this name will be among the winners. This is one of the best men's Bible classes of our city. The Brotherhood and has held together in shape during the hot term. This is unusual and we congratulate them upon it.

The Business Men's Bible Class at Trenton, N. J., is continuing its work even though its pastor, Rev. W. A. Shullenberger, is leaving for another field. A very neat invitation to attend the reception of their incoming pastor, Rev. S. G. Fisher, and the same affair concerning the outgoing of their former teacher, was sent to the church parlors on Thursday evening, September 29th, has come to our desk. It says in part that "A nice program has been arranged." We congratulate the Business Men's Bible Class of Trenton upon securing such an able teacher as Brother Fisher. We have known his work in the Pacific Northwest for some time and we doubt not that his success of the future will be the achievements of the future. At the same time we sympathize with the class in the loss of Brother Shullenberger, who has been a power in the community as well as in the church. While we are extending our sympathies to Trenton, we extend congratulations to Mexico, where Brother Shullenberger will take up the work, succeeding Brother Walter M. White, who has gone to Rapid Rapids, Iowa, where his work is opening auspiciously. White, Shullenberger and Fisher make a strong trio. All eyes will be turned to them in their new fields and we doubt not that every man will make good.

In Carlisle, Ind., they have an enthusiastic Sons Class. They have just issued a very neat invitation, signed by the officers of the class, and the Superintendent of the Sunday-School, which we are very glad to reproduce and pass on to CHRISTIAN MEN readers herewith. The first letter went to the men in attendance and the second to those who did not attend:

"We were glad to see you in our enthusiastic men's class last Sunday. We are trying to make this class interesting and helpful to the men of this community. We hope you found it so and will be back again next Sunday. Our aim for last Sunday was a hundred men. We only fell short four men. We are going to reach it next Sunday and we want you to help us. Come and bring with you some other man.

"This is to be the class that is to make Carlisle famous. We expect to reach an attendance of one hundred. This will be uncommon in a town of this size, but it is not impossible. To do it, we will need your presence and your work. Some men came last Sunday for the first time and brought others with them. Every man can do as much and if we do we will have one of the great men's Bible Classes of the country. Let our aim be ONE HUNDRED MEN EVERY SUNDAY and EVERY MAN with his Bible. Make this a MEN'S CENTURY BIBLE CLASS. We want you because it will do you good and because you can do us good, and for your influence over the boys. Don't fail us Sunday at 9:30 a. m.

"Yours for a Great Class."

"If you were not in that large men's class last Sunday morning you missed sharing the fellowship and enthusiasm of the largest men's Bible Class ever conducted in Carlisle. If you don't believe this, ask the fellows who were there; there were ninety-six men present. We aimed at a hundred MEN. We are going to reach it next Sunday and we want you to help us. Come and bring some other man with you."

Here is the way they advertise the Bible School at West Pullman, Ill., where C. A. Pearce is the minister and W. B. Kistler is the Superintendent of the Bible School. West Pullman is a suburb of Chicago, as you will notice how the street numbers run up into the five-figure class:

WANTED 225.

I will be one of the 225 people to attend the CHRISTIAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL Rally on Sunday, October 9, at 9:30 a. m.

Name
Address
Solicited by.....
225.

This REMINDS me that I have promised to be one of the 225 to attend the West Pullman CHRISTIAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL Rally on Sunday, October 9th, Place, CHRISTIAN CHURCH, Wallace St., North of 119th St. S.-S. Supt., W. B. Kistler, 12015 Parnell Ave. Minister, C. A. Pearce, 11937 Wallace St.
BRING ANOTHER WITH YOU.

Organization Notes

"Please send me plans and helps for organizing twenty men into a local Brotherhood."—W. B. HARDER, Sterling, Colo.

"Enclosed find $1 for which please send to the address below two hundred Covenant Cards."—CHESTER SLATOR, New Albany, Ind.

"Our men's work moving well and I think we can send in another list of names for CHRISTIAN MEN soon."—J. SCOTT HYDE, Danville, Ill.

"Our congregation is desirous of organizing a Brotherhood. Please send me copies of the Model Constitution."—HAROLD J. GRIFFIS, Kalispel, Mont.

"We organized a local Brotherhood last night with nine members but this is not our complete charter list, so you will hear from us in a few days again."—W. B. HARTE, Sterling, Colo.

"Please send me organization material and sample copies of CHRISTIAN MEN, as we are planning to organize a Brotherhood."—G. N. STEVENSON, Bridgeport, Conn.

"Enclosed find fifteen cents in stamps, for which please send me at once the package of organization material which you referred to at Waupun convention."—R. A. NOURSE, Milwaukee, Wis.

"It is our hope at an early day to send for a certificate of membership for a Local Brotherhood. Officers have been elected and enough men have signed cards to constitute a very good organization."—G. H. CLARKE, Rensselaer, Ind.

At our September meeting I brought before our Society the matter of emblems and enclose herewith draft for $4.00 for ten 40-cent buttons which kindly forward me promptly.—RAY E. DAVIS, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 292, Kendallville, Ind.

"We are planning to organize a Brotherhood. Would like full particulars. Have been booming the work and the men are enthusiastic. Let us gather roses while they bloom. They will all take CHRISTIAN MEN."—J. W. UNDERWOOD, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Our men have recently organized a local Brotherhood and at a meeting of executive committee last night it was decided to place every member upon the subscription list for CHRISTIAN MEN. Education is inspiration."—SAM J. ELLIS, Lafayette, Ind.

"Local Brotherhood at Rolling Prairie, Ind., is getting up a club of twenty subscribers to take CHRISTIAN MEN for use in the Bible Class. Our banquet is the last Friday in the month. We now have eleven subscribers and the men want to be sure to get the next number."—R. O. WICKHAM.

"Enclosed please find 15 cents in stamps which kindly send me the literature necessary for the organization of a Men's Brotherhood. We are planning to organize in the North Church. Are taking about twenty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine at present."—ROBERT A. PARKER, Fresno, Cal.

"We are talking of organizing a Chapter of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ. We would like it if you could furnish us with some instructions or information so we will be able to have an interesting time and find the means of doing good to our fellow men."—GEO. H. MOREY, Lebanon, Ore.

At the Panhandle District Convention, Amarillo, Texas, on November 3d, J. O. Shell, District State President of the Texas Brotherhood, delivered an address and a men's banquet will be held at 8 o'clock with Jewell Howard, District Master. There will be eight toasts relative to the work of the Christian College.

"We have organized a local Brotherhood with fifteen members in the Mulkeytown Church, and hereby make application for necessary supplies for twenty members. Please send the same to me and I will mail you quarterly along with the cost of the supplies."—J. PLUMBE, Elder, Mulkeytown, Ill.

"I am pastor of the Church of Christ at Bloomingdale and am interested in men. The field is not large but I want to do some work. Please send organization material and let me see if the thing will work. Also find 50 cents additional for my personal subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN."—W. ALEXANDER, Bloomingdale, Mich.

"Send me a bunch of how to organize 18½-cent variety at once, for the inspiration of our Local Brotherhood. Our men wanted yesterday to go into it with courage and abandon. Our purpose is to make Bible study the '203 Metre Hill.' Shall view the lesson from the social angle, using Dr. Strong's Gospel of the Kingdom with CHRISTIAN MEN. Watch us grow and make the Kingdom grow."—CHAS. C. WILSON, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

As an indication of the influence of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, one of our Brotherhood friends, J. C. McNeal of Osceola, Iowa, suggested the Brotherhood of United Brethren at Lorimor, Iowa, and they have written to the Kansas City office for package of Brotherhood organization material for the United Brethren Church at Lorimor, which has been put out in the mail promptly. May we hope Brother McNeal's example in this regard will be followed by other of our Brotherhood when they have opportunity.

We were delighted with Brother Stenberger last Friday evening as he passed the way toward Philadelphia. About twenty men formed an Usher's League about months ago, but I am safe in saying that, I heard Brother Shellenberger, we will give the name to the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ and adopt the Model Constitution in the near future. Shellenberger is the man in the right place and will accomplish much for the Brotherhood movement.—

WEAVER, Reading, Pa.

COME TO DINNER.
BE BROTHERLY! INVITE YOUR FRIENDS!

Tuesday Night, September 22d, Dinner
Served at 7:30.

SPEAKERS.

W. F. Richardson, Pastor First Christian Church.

Hon. John T. Sims, Police Judge.

V. W. Grafton, Pastor Jackson Avenue Church.

Toastmaster, Mr. Joseph Stotler.

ADMISSION 25 CENTS. SPEECHES FREE.
Brotherhood, Temple Christian Church,
Kansas City, Kansas, U. S. A.

Brotherhood in Oklahoma returned Pinkerton as President for another year. Brother Pinkerton is State Manager of an insurance company in Oklahoma and knows about the State not a little. He is always busy on the State Convention to be held near Enid and has some pledges from members of churches to send splendid groups. He recently addressed the Civic Club at Marlow, Okla., and they have expressed a desire to have him come again. Brother Pinkerton has some great plans for the coming year for Oklahoma Brotherhood and the new State is coming rapidly to birth.

Men of the Temple Church, Kansas City, Kan., held their initial meeting around a banquet table the evening of September 20th. The speakers were W. F. Richardson, L. B. D. C. No. 265; Hon. J. T. Sims, Police Judge; T. W. Grafton, pastor L. B. D. C. No. 262, and E. E. Elliott, Assistant Secretary. Mr. Joseph Stotler was the toastmaster and did his work well. J. N. Crutcher, of the church, also spoke. Covenant cards were distributed and signed and a club of subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN started on this church. This church has an unrestricted field of influence in the ever-growing Kansas Territory. This promises to be a strong Brotherhood.

Men's Brotherhood of Millersburg, Mo., evidently believes in a plentiful supply of ink, as attests the following, which went out on a postcard recently:

ATTENTION, YE MEN!

Men's Brotherhood of Millersburg,
CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Meet on next TUESDAY NIGHT at 7:30 at the church. The program: 1 Good will taking part. 2 The Male Quartette give some warbles hot from the griddle. 3 Les Darsie of Uhrichsville, a typical man, will make a hearty, practical talk.

4 Something doin' in the dining room—all joining the chorus!

P. S.—You'll Miss it, if you Miss It. COME!

GEO. H. LANGE, Secretary.

The Associated Brotherhoods of Disciples of Christ of Greater Kansas City is the name of an organization which has for its purpose the interesting of the men of Greater Kansas City in the work of the church in general and the Brotherhood in particular. The regular semi-annual meeting was held Tuesday evening, September 27th, at the Jackson Avenue Christian Church, Kansas City, Mo. J. N. Crutcher, late of Sioux City, Iowa, now of the North Side Christian Church, Kansas City, Kan., spoke to the folks in the Auditorium, then the crowd went below and a splendid banquet was served by the men themselves, after which the following program was given: Invocation.....Bro. F. L. Bowen "Our Work"....President-Elect W. A. Black Five Good Stories.....Bro. James Small Missouri for Prohibition.....Alfred Bushnell The National Brotherhood..J. K. Shellenberger

The Brotherhood at Wooster, Ohio, is known as "The Philippian Brotherhood." On a recent evening twenty-two members were taken two miles into the country in an automobile truck to the home of Tracey Brothers, where the regular Brotherhood program was conducted, subject being "Church Extension." There were sixteen short speeches on Church Extension, which we believe is the record along this line, and if Secretary Muckley knows of any greater we should be glad to give prominence to it in our columns. These sixteen speeches consumed exactly thirty minutes. Following this came an address by Mr. William Harris, a banker, and Field Secretary Shellenberger, which added crispness and spice to the program. These men passed a resolution appealing to the Brotherhood and to the members of the church in behalf of Church Extension. Mr. Harris, the banker, took the Brotherhood Covenant and Secretary Shellenberger administered the obligation and received him in behalf of the organization. An old time quartette sang several selections. At the close the ladies of the household tripped in with a dainty lunch of which the men were not slow in showing their appreciation.

Think of dropping down into the midst of a hundred and five strong, red-blooded men, teeming with enthusiasm to organize a Brotherhood! Of course, not of the whole hundred and five, for some of them were visitors from other organizations, but they were there, one hundred and five strong. This is what happened to the Field Secretary on Monday night, September 26th, at New Albany, Ind. Robert N. Simpson is the genial pastor, and pastor he is, too. No man could be more loved by his men than is he, and no man can associate with him long without loving him. It did not take a banquet to get these men together. It was done in a purely apostolic way—men went after men. John O. Conklin alone was instrumental in bringing sixty-seven of these men. The Bricker contract plan was used and the New Albany men vote it a success. The Field Secretary told the Brotherhood story. Then he asked for a show of hands of those who believed it would be a good thing to organize a Local Brotherhood. It seemed that every hand went up. Those who would take the covenant were then asked to stand. Fifty-four arose. It was a splendid night. With uplifted hand they took the covenant in concert, after which Brother Simpson led in prayer. It was a solemn moment fraught with deep determination. John O. Conkli elected Chairman; H. R. Pickens, Vice president; Chester Slater, Secretary; C. A. R. Berger, Treasurer. They were already fifty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN and more subscriptions were received. No many means business. They made out application for charter before the Se left and sent in the list of charter members following day.

Wireless Whispers

"I have prevailed upon our men to try CHRISTIAN MEN."—I. W. SMITH, Prairie Depot, Ohio.

"I would not do without CHRISTIAN MEN if it cost $5 a year."—ISAAC WRIGHT, Bluefield, W. Va

"Please change my address from Tacoma to Selah, Wash. Great magazine. Do not want to be without it."—E. E. FRANCIS.

"WANTED:—January, 1909, issue of CHRISTIAN MEN. I will pay a good price to obtain a copy."—S. B. LINDSAY, 503 D. S. Morgan Bldg., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I could not afford to do without CHRISTIAN MEN. It always comes full of good thought for the Minister of Jesus Christ."—WILL T. CUMMINS, Lamar, Colo.

"Enclosed find $5.25 for which please send CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine to the enclosed list of names. My own a renewal, the rest new."—J. SCOTT HYDE, Danville, Ill.

"I like P. H. Welshimer's treatment of the lesson. Please increase our order to twenty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for our school."—J. ALBERT GARDNER, Eaton, Ohio.

"For some reason I missed the September issue of CHRISTIAN MEN. Can't preach to men without it. Be sure to fire it along, please."—JAS. A. BURNS, Aurora, Neb.

"Find enclosed $10 to pay the pledge made by D. P. Gribben for 1909, for the Ivanhoe Park Brotherhood to the Ten-Dollar League."—J. A. WAGNER, Treasurer, Kansas City.

Hello, CHRISTIAN MEN. Why did you not come to me at my new address? You are too good to miss, especially when I have paid the freight."—W. L. MCILVAINE, Seattle, Wash.

"Just home from Tulsa. Great speech by J. H. O. Smith last night. One hour and twenty-five minutes and no one tired. that?"—C. M. PINKERTON, Oklahoma Okla.

"Kindly send twenty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN to me regularly until further notice. We have decided to use these in our Bible Classes."—J. HARRY BULLOCK, Richland Center, Wis.

"Enclosed find money order for twenty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for three months. We cannot do without them here and I want to order them in time."—PAUL A. MEYER, Evansville, Ind.

"Enclosed find check for $1.60 for twenty-six copies of CHRISTIAN MEN to be used at the Forest Avenue Christian Bible School. I think it is the best Bible School paper I have ever seen."—W. T. ROBERTS, Superintendent, Knoxville, Tenn.

"Enclosed find money order $1.56 for twenty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for three months, beginning with October. We cannot do without them here and I want to order them in time."—PAUL A. MEYER, Evansville, Ind.

"Enclosed please find money order for $5.00 for Brotherhood emblems. Please send by return mail if possible, as some of our Brothers wish to attend the convention at Topeka and they wish to have their emblems for the occasion."—E. L. SEIVERSON, Saratoga, Cal.

On September 21st we had charge of the mid-week prayer meeting services. The meeting was in the interest of the Brotherhood Bible Class and was a live-wire meeting with an attendance of nearly 100 persons. —E. DAVIS, Secretary L. B. D. C. No. 292, Evansville, Ind.

"We have no Brotherhood yet, but many of our official board are subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN."

EN. We hold regular meetings to discuss the business of the church and the magazine will enlarge our vision even if we cannot use all its methods."—LESLIE V. SHOE-MAKER, Daleville, Ind.

We are in receipt of copy of the Australian Christian, volume 13, No. 32, same being the Special Number. This is the publication which has for its purpose the dissemination of the Gospel among the Disciples in Australia and New Zealand and casual observation indicates it is performing its mission well.

We are heartily in favor of the work you are doing with these interesting men in Bible Study. Last Sunday was our rally day and we had seventy-five men present, seventy-five of whom were new. Some of them would not have come had it not been for the fact that it was a men's class."—T. R. PEYTON, Boonville, Mo.

The Lord's Day League of New England is one of an organization which promises to have a wide observance of the Lord's Day throughout this country. One of their latest projects is to endeavor to close the post-office on Sunday, thus giving not only the churches, but the business men as well, opportunity to observe the day exclusively as a day of rest and worship.

We have a church at Abilene, Kan., where C. A. Smith is the minister, has a number of volunteers for the ministry in Oklahoma Christian community. Another young man has gone to Clinton Heights, Tenn., to attend the John Lewis College. Every church in our Brotherhood should strive to have young men and women preparing for the ministry as a life work.

The Christian Philanthropist, organ of the National Benevolent Association, is one of the most unshiny sheets which comes to the editor's desk. It teems with halftones of bright children and occasionally sees the satisfaction of some of the aged ones being cared for by this worthy society. Every organization among us should have a copy of the work of the National Benevolent Association.

At last! at last!! at last!!! Of course, I meant to be without CHRISTIAN MEN. It just seemed that when I thought of going I was out of money and when I had money I didn't think of it. Those post-stamps struck my pride, however, so from now on I'm going to be safe. Enclosed find for two years in advance and the 10¢ for the stamps you used on me."—B. H. BAKER, Lewistown, Ill.

The Brotherhood at Massillon, Ohio, where Stafford is the minister, have 136 men in the Brotherhood Bible Class. On a recent Sunday 102 men were present at the meeting. They have inaugurated a prize campaign for members, offering a Brotherhood emblem, scarf pin or watch fob to the man who has brought the most men into the Brotherhood Bible Class. They have sent to the General Secretary for cut of the emblem, which went to him by return mail.

The Missionary Training School of the C. W. B. M. is now a reality. It proposes to augment the work of our colleges and institutions and thus become a finishing school in the science and practice of missions, thus making the completed specialist. Prof. C. T. Paul has been called to the leadership of this school. His large experience as a teacher and lecturer on mission topics has prepared him well for this service. This school is worthy of our very best efforts and presages a long step towards the evangelization of the world.

We are in receipt of invitation to attend the Golden Jubilee of the Central Church of Christ, at Des Moines, Iowa, October 5-9, 1910. Fifty years is a long time to think about, but a short time in reality. It hardly seems that Iowa itself is fifty years old. It is surely not seventy-five, but our great Central Church at Des Moines is to have a home-coming and many of the old members will travel many miles to greet others who have gone forth or remained behind. We congratulate Pastor Idleman and his whole people upon this achievement and wish for him many returns of the golden day.

One of the shortest and most unique names we have yet seen at the head of a church leaflet is that of the Independence Boulevard Church, Kansas City. The name of their paper is simply "Others." It has one editor in the person of James Small, a large man with a small name, two associate editors, W. O. Norman and Robert Lee Swope, business manager in Calvin McGee. The paper itself is full of up-to-date information, including a large space devoted to the Topeka Convention. There will be a number of special trains every day from Kansas City to Topeka and the Independence Boulevard Church will be well represented.

Among the many church papers and leaflets coming to the editorial desk each week is that of the Temple Visitor, published by the Temple Christian Church, of Kansas City, Kan., where J. N. Crutcher is the pastor. The very first item says: "The wheelbarrow pocketbook is sometimes accompanied by an automobile taste." It also comments on the dinner for men on the night of September 22d. We do not know the connection between the wheelbarrow pocketbook and the automobile taste, and the dinner for men, but the dinner on that night was served up in automobile style and by a group of whitecapped ladies who had more than a general interest in the work. A Brotherhood will be organized in this church as a result of that gathering.

Brotherhood Class in Another Contest

Last Sunday the Brotherhood class accepted a challenge from the Allison class of Uhricksville to enter into a contest. This is a strong class of hustling men. These earnest men have made a record. We realize we are up against an aggregation of men that will work. Men of the Brotherhood class, we must start in this race on the crack of the pistol, and never stop until the last yard has been won. Every man must be out Sunday. He must bring his Bible. He must be present every Sunday. The contest begins next Sunday morning at 9:15. We must have a record-breaking attendance on the first Sunday. A close race is often won by a good start. Bring your Bibles.—Massillon (Ohio) Messenger.

Shortly after this reaches you the great struggle for the eradication of the saloon in Missouri will be on and the friends and foes of the movement will be engaged in the struggle for the life or death of the measure. In Missouri this year we hope to vote on November 6th to amend the constitution to the effect that the dispensing of intoxicating liquors in any form shall be prohibited. G. O. Nations, of Farmington, Mo., one of our stalwart ministers, is Treasurer of the Constitutional Amendment Association and both the movement and its officers are worthy of the very greatest support on behalf of the Brotherhood men in general. If the amendment fails to carry, it will be largely due to the apathy of good citizens who fail to cast their ballot. May we hope that our Brotherhood representatives will see to it that their vote is not omitted.

Down at Joplin, Mo., a local Brotherhood was organized some months ago and it did effective work for a short time and then there came a lull. J. W. Perry, an enthusiastic Brotherhood man and friend of CHRISTIAN MEN, has recently taken hold of the Brotherhood and begun again to interest the men and has already sent us fifty-eight individual paid-in-advance subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN and will immediately call the men together and reorganize by electing new officers. We have no stronger body of men anywhere than this group of enthusiasts in Southwest Missouri, and it is just a question of getting one man behind and pushing the thing to roll up not only a good sized subscription list for CHRISTIAN MEN but pushing the work of the local Brotherhood to a happy conclusion. Brother Perry has already done the one and we are looking forward with great joy to his doing the other and we have no doubt but that he will succeed.

R. Lee Bussabarger is pastor of the Christian Church at Lubec, Me. It is a long ways from Kansas City to Maine, and Lubec is in the far corner, but we have found in Brother Bussabarger a brilliant exponent of the Brotherhood idea. He is not only in demand for Brotherhood work, but for other convention addresses as well. At the recent Maritime Convention, at Fort Williams, Nova Scotia, he made four addresses, one for the C. W. M. B., another for the Convention proper, a third sermon to the Convention and then he spoke forty minutes for the Brotherhood. Later he attended the New England Convention, at Brockton, Mass., and delivered an address on the Brotherhood and the Bible School, returning at once in time to work for State-wide Prohibition in his home city. At this writing he is taking a much needed rest at his old tucky home, has bagged nineteen squirrels, dove and one ground hog in three days. makes us hungry for Kentucky ourselves.

One of our National Directors this year has been James H. Allen, President of the West Commission Co., cotton brokers and mission merchants of St. Louis and Rock. Mr. Allen lives in St. Louis and is a member of the Compton Heights Church where they have a Brotherhood organization in operation. Last year we published an article from the annual cotton letter issue of Mr. Allen's firm. We are just in receipt of their letter for this year, which is another indication of the sterling character of Mr. Allen and his co-workers. If we had more such men in business, commercial pursuits would be less arduous, and the stealing, unlicensed, together with the gambling in various forms, which is tolerated, would soon be eliminated. This is one of the hopes of the Brotherhood movement, that we may interest more men in the work of the church to such an extent that they would more willingly frown upon the evil practices which have crowded into the departments of commerce. This is largely a question of environment. Change the environment and you change the personality of the men.

We are in receipt of the following copy of resolutions passed by Local Brotherhood No. 294, of the First Christian Church, Portland, Ore.:

To Members and Friends of the First Christian Church, Portland, Ore., Greeting:

WHEREAS, It has become imperative that we make some improvements on our building;

WHEREAS, The tower on the southwest corner is apt to be condemned as soon as discovered by the building inspector;

WHEREAS, The Bible School facilities are wholly inadequate for the present demand;

WHEREAS, A duly appointed committee, "Building," in conjunction with the Board, having decided upon the plan as presented in the prospectus, whose recommendation having been duly ratified by the church, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we proceed at once to raise the necessary funds for the completion of the project. Approximate cost $5,000. It is our most earnest prayer that every member take a part in this blessed fellowship. We commend you to you in the name of Him who calls us to build for eternity.

Most sincerely in His Service, CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE,
(Brotherhood Men)
L. F. STEPHENS, Chairman.

W. F. REAGOR, Minister.

Some months ago we made announcement of the fact that the Christian Commercial Travelers' Association of America, otherwise known as the National Organization of Christian Travelers, proposed to place a Bible in every room of every hotel in this country. They are succeeding beyond the expectation of the most sanguine is apparent from the

W. E. Henderson, who was a recent at the Brotherhood General Office. In says Mr. Henderson received enough tions from the business men of Kansas place a Bible in every hotel room in nsas City, Kan., and Kansas City, Mo. les cost the Gideons 30 cents per copy. merican Bible Society, which makes the gives 33 1-3% off their cost price. At Kan., in four days Mr. Henderson se- nough subscriptions to place a Bible y hotel room in that city. The have taken this up as a spe- finite work and it has already been as one of the mightiest movements ay and is surely one that the Christian- cial Travelers can carry on with suc- Mr. Henderson is a man of sterling r. We have known him for many aveled thousands of miles together and on the same rostrum a number of Any confidence reposed in him will misplaced.

General Brotherhood office has been a with the missions in foreign lands n correspondence with a number of ding men in Africa, India and else- throughout the uttermost parts of th. From time to time we receive ging letters from them and we give h an excerpt from a letter from . Hedges, one of our missionaries at e, Africa, telling of a work among our African Mission Field. "So it's off you want, is it? Hot just from en. What more hot could be told me of the events out here and to tell out it is telling news for the Brother- The most remarkable part of our Bonyeka, a place where we have so few times and yet such a wonder- vement is started. The men from e have gone there and are doing all th very little supervision from us; teaching is as thorough as we could There are over one thousand in Sun- ool, and several hundred are attend- ching twice a week to learn more of d His gift to man. On July 27th seven were baptized there by Dr. On, July 10th forty were baptized Bolenge; a few days previous ten t Sotumbe and twelve at Songa. I ing most of my time to printing. ay when I can get a picture or two press and the boys at work, I'll send ou and try to tell you something of rk. We have just finished printing nmar Mrs. Dye compiled for us."

unday night the Field Secretary was d to speak in Robert N. Simpson's at New Albany, Ind. It so hap- hat the German Methodist men were giving a Men's Service at the same hour. Their speaker was taken sick at the last mo- ment and they were all but panic-stricken. Dr. Severinghouse called up Brother Simp- son, pastor of the Christian Church, and asked if he could help them. Brother Simp- son mentioned the fact that the Disciples' Field Secretary was in town and Dr. Sever- inghouse immediately began to plead that he be loaned to them for a twenty-minute speech, then go back and speak in Brother Simpson's pulpit. The compact was made. Mr. Shellenberger spoke eighteen minutes and was then carried back in the Doctor's auto.

It was a case of Christian Union realized. No stranger would have known but that speaker and people belonged to one com- munion and there was no compromise either. The world is one on the great fundamentals of life. When the speaker said "The need of the day is Church members who will be- come active Christians," the Methodists all cried "Amen!"

A chorus of twenty-five young men fur- nished the music. It was an inspiring sight and their music filled one's soul.

Sectarianism is doomed. Men have not the time nor the energy to give to it. But they are ready to answer to the summons of the Christ.

Brotherhood Song—Yes, I'll Be There

Tune—"Maryland! My Maryland!"

I am a brother to all men,
In a world of toil and care;
To do whatever good I can—
Others' burdens help to bear.

CHORUS—Yes, I'll be there! Yes, I'll be there!
When duty calls me, I'll be there!
Brothers, you may depend on me,
I'll be there! Yes, I'll be there!

In public or in private rank,
I'll respond to every call;
And my dear Lord, I'll humbly thank
For His grace and love to all.—CHO.

Whene'er I hear the bugle's sound,
I will heed its silv'ry blast;
In rain and shine, I will be found,
Marching to the very last.—CHO.

And thus until the end of life,
Marching with my fellow men,
I'll always aid them in the strife—
We will shout, "The vict'ry's won!"—CHO.
Words by Geo. P. Rutledge.

The Brotherhood Certificate

¶ You will see on the opposite page the reduced fac-simile of the Certificate of Membership issued by the General Brotherhood to Local organizations as they are affiliated. ¶ Here is the way to get it.

¶ First, present to your men as a whole the Brotherhood proposition, obtaining the signatures of as many of your men as will sign the Brotherhood Covenant, either one or both sections. Collect the first quarter's dues from the ones who have signed the covenant and remit the amount, together with twenty-five cents to cover the cost of the certificate to the General Brotherhood with your application. The certificate will then be issued and Local Brotherhood cards furnished for as many men as have paid dues. You can then inaugurate a charter roll campaign to get every man in the church and in the community as a member of your local chapter. At the close of the membership campaign remit the balance of the dues to the General Office, together with a list of the charter members, and Local Brotherhood cards will be furnished for all. You may then have your certificate engrossed and framed. ¶ The Brotherhood organization package, explaining more in detail and giving all facts regarding how to organize and affiliate your men, will be sent for fifteen cents in stamps. Send your communications to

THE GENERAL SECRETARY

Room 419
926-28 Grand Ave

Kansas City, Mo.

The Men's Banquet at the Wisconsin State Convention

By FRANK L. VAN VOORHIS, Corresponding Secretary

One of the most pleasing features of our recent State Convention was our Men's Banquet, which feature was introduced for the first time, but which we are sure has come to stay. There was some doubt in the minds of those interested as to the encouragement that would be given a move of this kind on the part of the men attending, but no function of the Convention was more heartily endorsed than was this. Rupert A. Nourse, of Milwaukee, was master of ceremonies, and certainly graced the office. After such a feast as only the ladies of Waupun are capable of serving, E. E. Elliott, of the Brotherhood office, who in the forenoon had given a well-received address on the work of the Brotherhood movement, was called upon and in his felicitous manner led the men assembled to the point of enthusiastic endorsement of plans for a permanent and aggressive Brotherhood movement in Wisconsin. Several of the men present, on being called upon, expressed their interest and pledged their co-operation. It was decided to leave the appointment of the proper man to push this movement during the next year to the State Board, which will hold a meeting October 4th. There is a movement needed more in Wisconsin than in this. If only we can get the men aroused and interested! We will all begin at once to arouse an interest in the general work of the Brotherhood and in our next banquet. The interest of those present is indicated, somewhat at least, in the fact that nearly every man present subscribed for CHRISTIAN MEN. We are grateful to the Brotherhood for sending us E. E. Elliott. He will have a hearty welcome any time he wants to come. May the Father bless the Brotherhood.

Reduced Facsimile Brotherhood Certificate

Know All Men, by these Presents: THAT the men whose names appear herein, having organized themselves into a Local Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, on the basis of the "Model Constitution for Local Brotherhoods" or the affiliation clause thereof, and having taken the Brotherhood Covenant set forth in Article VI, and having paid their first quarterly dues for the promotion and extension of Brotherhood work to the General Office as provided in Section XI of said Model Constitution, and having completed their organization by the election of the following officers: President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer, and the appointment of at least three of the following associates: Program, Bible School, Social, Devotional, Cultural, Civil, Missionary and Boys' Work, the names of said officers being:

President W. J. Luecke Vice-President J. E. Miller whose terms of office are as provided by the by-laws made and adopted by the said local brotherhood, and who are to serve for the said term, or until their successors are duly qualified; and the following committees having been appointed for active Christian service:

Spiritual Missionary Education Industrial Art Cultural Devotional Memorial

the said organization is hereby declared to be a Local Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, and this Certificate, numbered 266, is granted as an evidence thereof, with the understanding that it may be revoked at any time when such Brotherhood shall cease to maintain its covenant relations with its members and the general organization and with Jesus Christ our Lord, in whose name we pray that it may be of unending service to the edification of the Church, to the glory of God, to the honor of His Son and to the salvation of men.

Done by order of the Executive Board this 11 day of April 1910

President

Confidential

408 李 强

[illegible]

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worthy of his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. The Family Altar.—The family prayers, like sweet incense, fill the home with perfumes rare. We're going to start the year aright.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

By J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secretary

NOVEMBER No. 2

TOPIC—A Harvest Home Meeting.

I. Devotional.

1. Doxology.
2. Concert Reading, Thanksgiving Psalm.
3. Repeat the Covenant (standing).
4. Prayer. For wise administration of the gifts of the summer's harvest.
5. Hymn.

II. Program.

1. Address, Physical Blessings of the Year.
2. Address, Spiritual Blessings of the Year.
3. Special Music.
4. Address, Our New Responsibility.
Every blessing brings an added responsibility.
 - a. To our God, the Giver.
 - b. To society for whom it should be used.
 - c. Hence, how has this year augmented our responsibility?

5. Address, Our Larger Vision.

Spiritual blessings enlarge our vision. Opportunities heretofore unseen are beckoning unto us,—e. g., The widening harvest shown us by the Layman's Missionary Movement.

6. Music.

7. Debate: Resolved, "That the World is Growing Worse."

8. What can this Brotherhood do to acknowledge its obligations to our Heavenly Father?

III. Social Period.

Have an old fashioned apple feed. Put a basket of apples in the middle of the floor and one beside it for cores. Every man help himself. While enjoying the apples have someone tell the story of "Ye Old Time Thanksgiving." Make it a "home" evening. Get close to the fellows next to you.

DECEMBER No. 1

TOPIC—Brotherhood Benevolence.

I. Devotional.

1. Repeat Lord's Prayer in Concert.
2. Hymn.
3. Repeat Covenant.
4. Scripture Reading—James 2.
5. Hymn.

II. Program.

1. Address, The Contribution of Our Pioneer Preachers.
2. Address, Is the Salary of the Pastor Adequate to the Demands We Are Making on Him, and to Lay Something by for the Rainy Day?

3. Address, Our Benevolent Institutions.

4. Address, Our Obligation to Our Ministerial Relief Fund.

5. Debate: Resolved, "That the Church Should Commit the Care of the Poor to the Lodge and the State."

6. Clincher: What Will This Brotherhood Do for Ministerial Relief on First Sunday in January?

III. Social Period.

IV. Closing prayer for a growth in the sympathetic nature of Brotherhood Men.

Bible School Lessons for November

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—NOVEMBER 13.

“WORLD’S TEMPERANCE LESSON”

—MATTHEW 24:32-51.

American Revised

P. H. WELSHIMER

2 Now from the fig tree learn her able: when her branch is now become der, and putteth forth its leaves, ye ow that the summer is nigh; 33 even so also, when ye see all these things, ow ye that he is nigh, even at the doors.
Verily I say unto you, This generation all not pass away, till all these things accomplished. 35 Heaven and earth all pass away, but my words shall not s away. 36 But of that day and hour oweth no one, not even the angels of iven, neither the Son, but the Father
y. 37 And as were the days of Noah, shall be the coming of the Son of man.
For as in those days which were before flood they were eating and drinking, rrying and giving in marriage, until the that Noah entered into the ark, 39 and y knew not until the flood came, and k them all away; so shall be the com-of the Son of man. 40 Then shall two n be in the field; one is taken, and one eft: 41 two women shall be grinding at mill; one is taken, and one is left. 42 atch therefore: for ye know not on what day your Lord cometh. 43 But know this, that if the master of the house had known in what watch the thief was coming, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken through.

44 Therefore be ye also ready; for in an hour that ye think not the Son of man cometh.

45 Who then is the faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath set over his household, to give them their food in due season? 46 Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing. 47 Verily I say unto you, that he will set him over all that he hath. 48 But if that evil servant shall say in his heart,
My lord tarrieth; 49 and shall begin to beat his fellow-servants, and shall eat and drink with the drunken 50 the lord of that servant shall come in a day when he ex-pecteth not, and in an hour when he knoweth not, 51 and shall cut him asunder, and appoint his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth.

Golden Text. “Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation.” Matthew

Time. Tuesday afternoon, April 4, A. D. 30. Place. Mount of Olives.

Introduction. To call this a temperance lesson is a little far-fetched. We shall leavor to find the meaning of the Scripture used and let the Scripture suggest the sons for the day. We shall read nothing into the lesson, but will let the lesson ak to us. From verses 15 to 29 of this chapter, Jesus was speaking of the deuction of Jerusalem. From 29 to 32, he speaks about his second coming. In se 29, he says, “Immediately after the tribulation of those days.” That is, immediely after the destruction of Jerusalem. The first thought one would get of mediately would convey the idea of a short time, a few days. But in 2 Peter 3:4-9, learn that “One day is with the Lord as a thousand years and a thousand years as e day.” So in the lesson today, Jesus speaks of His coming. This lesson is still the future, but as Peter tells us, “The Lord is not slack concerning His promises.”

Explanatory. 32-33—When a tree puts forth its leaves, we know that Summer is
r. It is a sign that Summer is coming. So, when all these things are seen (that all the things mentioned from verses 15 to 29) it will be known that the coming the Son of Man is near, even at the door. 34—“All these things” has reference to destruction of Jerusalem, as recorded in verses 15-29. 35—Jesus’ words of phecy to pass away would mean failure to be fulfilled. He speaks here with em-sis. The words are more stable than heaven and earth. Heaven and earth will nge, but His words never. In this connection, read 2 Peter 3:4-9. In this it will seen that many people in Peter’s day were disappointed, thinking that Jesus’ words uld not come true. They had expected the end of all things. Peter, inspired, met their contentions. 36—The meaning is clear. The exact time of Christ's coming unknown except to the Father. 37-39—The point of comparison in this statement that as in the days of Noah, the people were engaged in the affairs of life and did not know of the coming of the destructive flood until it was upon them, so shall it be the coming of the Son of Man. There will be nothing special to indicate His coming just previous to His advent. The fact that we have been warned of His coming is sufficient. In the days of Noah, the people were warned. They gave no heed to the warning and went about their business, buying, selling, eating and drinking, up until the hour of destruction. 40-41—This shall be sudden. 1 Cor. 15:52. At the twinkling of an eye. 1 Thess. 4:17. Paul says we shall be caught up into the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. The righteous shall thus go. The unrighteous shall be left to die in the burning of the earth. 2 Peter 3:10. Afterward they shall come up to the resurrection of condemnation. Jno. 5:29. 42—We are to watch, for we know not when these things shall be. 43-44—If men knew the exact time, they would be watching for that time, and inasmuch as we know not the day nor the hour, the only safe thing is to watch all the time. No house would be entered by a thief if the man of the house knew the hour the thief was coming, so Christ would find none unprepared if they knew the hour of His coming. 45—The faithful and wise servant, who has been overseer of the household, to give the meat, is he who does that work well. He shall be rewarded at the coming of his Lord. Jesus has left overseers of His flock here. If they do their duty as well, the reward will be theirs, but if the servant should think the Lord has delayed His coming and judgment is a long ways off, and he becomes careless, unwatchful and ceases to provide for those in his charge, in the hour when he thinks not, he shall be cut asunder and he will go to his own place with the hypocrites, and his agony will be manifest with weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Comments on the Lesson

Jesus has spoken clearly and definitely about His second coming. The heaven and the earth shall be changed and all things shall be new. It is the purpose of God to save the world through Christ. The Gospel shall be preached unto all the nation then cometh the end. Jesus is in the Father's house, preparing a place for His disciples. He will come again and receive us unto Himself, that where He is, there we may be also. Whither He has gone, we know, and the way we know, for He is the way, the truth and the life, and no man cometh unto the Father but by Him. It does not matter to us when the end shall come, but it does matter as to whether we are prepared for it. The coming of Christ is in the hands of God. Our being prepared to meet Him lies with us. The Book speaks plainly on the subject, sufficient warning has been given and yet men are careless. If all knew that in twelve months the end would come, what a twelve months that would be. Righteousness would then cover the earth as the waters cover the sea. Men would be honest, everybody would get a square deal and yet we don't know that we shall have twelve months more of earthly life. Our time of preparation may cease tonight, before an hour we may hear the ringing of the sunset bell. We deal seriously with earthly preparation for earthly things, but we play fast and loose, and some entirely neglect the preparation for eternity. In Noah's day the old prophet of righteousness sounded a warning, that the earth should be covered with water. The people laughed him to scorn. For a hundred years he was considered beside himself. The people bought and sold, ate and slept, married, lived and died, and still the flood came not, but there came a day when the Lord opened the windows of the heavens, and the waters poured out upon the earth, and those who had prepared, viz., Noah and his family, were saved and the rest passed away; so it is now. We are warned through the preaching of the Word; the message of Jesus is with us. All that we need to know, we can know, viz., watch and be ready. To watch and be ready doesn't need to take away the true pleasure nor the charm of life. He who is watchful and prepared for his departure from this world, is best prepared to render good service to his fellow men, to put the most into life and to get the most out of it. This preparation simply fits one for the sphere in this world which his Lord intended him to have. This is the most important thing of all. If you are not prepared for the coming of your Lord, will you prepare today, this very hour, while life and opportunity are yours?

Questions for Class Use

What has Jesus said concerning the destruction of Jerusalem, in Matthew 24:15-29? What is the meaning of immediately, used in verse 29? What must precede the coming of the Son of Man? When was Jerusalem destroyed and by whom? What if we knew the exact day and hour for the coming of the Son of Man? What is the lesson to be gathered from Noah's day? What is the meaning of two being in a field and one taken and the other left? What does Jesus teach about watching? What does Jesus teach regarding the reward of the faithful servant and the punishment of the unfaithful?

LESSON 3—NOVEMBER 20.

"JESUS IN GETHSEMANE"—MATTHEW 26:36-56.

36 Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go yonder and pray. 37 And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and sore troubled. Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: abide ye here, and watch with me. 39 And he went forward a little, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass away from me: nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt. 40 And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter, What, could ye not watch with me one hour? 41 Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak. Again a second time he went away, and prayed, saying, My Father, if this cup may not pass away, except I drink it, thy will be done. 43 And he came again and found them sleeping, for their eyes were heavy. And he left them again, and went away, and prayed a third time, saying again the same words. 45 Then cometh he to the disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. 46 Rise, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that betrayeth me.

47 And while he yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people. 48 Now he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that is he: take him. 49 And straightway he came to Jesus, and said, Hail, Rabbi; and kissed him. 50 And Jesus said unto him, Friend, do that for which thou art come. Then they came and laid hands on Jesus, and took him. 51 And behold, one of them that were with Jesus stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and smote the servant of the high priest, and struck off his ear. 52 Then saith Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into its place: for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword. 53 Or thinkest thou that I cannot beseech my Father, and he shall even now send me more than twelve legions of angels? 54 How then should the scriptures be fulfilled, that thus it must be? 55 In that hour said Jesus to the multitudes, Are ye come out as against a robber with swords and staves to seize me? I sat daily in the temple teaching, and ye took me not. 56 But all this is come to pass, that the scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. Then all the disciples left him, and fled.

Golden Text. "The Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners." Matthew 26:45.

Time. Between midnight and one o'clock, Friday morning, April 7th. Place. Garden of Gethsemane.

Introduction. The Lord's Supper has been instituted in the "upper room." Jesus has spoken to the disciples of this very hour. Judas had left the room and gone to the authorities. Jesus and the disciples now go to Gethsemane.

Explanatory. 36—Gethsemane means a place of oil presses. It was now a garden. 38—All the disciples entered with Jesus into Gethsemane, but Peter, James and John went with Him further into the garden. His hour of doom was approaching; the pressure upon Jesus became grievous. He longed to have near Him these three friends. They had been their comforter in the time of trouble. He now longs for their sympathy and presence. At such an hour we are strengthened by the presence of our friends. He went a little further, that is away from the disciples. Luke tells us He first fell down, then as Matthew puts it, fell on His face, and what a prayer He offered. This is expressive of great sorrow and agony. His burden is manifest in His words. He requested that the bitter cup might pass from Him, then there follows, "Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt." This cup could have passed from Jesus had He so willed it, but it would have spoiled the great plan of God. It was God's will that men should be saved through the suffering and death of his only begotten Son. Jesus rendered obedience, willingly. Voluntarily He gave himself up and our redemption was made possible. 40-41—He came now to the disciples, who were supposed to be watching with Him, and found them asleep. He hungers for sympathy and friendship, and yet forgetful of His own sorrow, He is thoughtful of them and warns them, saying, "Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation." He knew their desire, that the spirit was willing, but the flesh was weak. 42-43—Again He prays, and returns only to find them sleeping again. 44-46—The third time He prays, using the same words. When He returns, the disciples are still sleeping. He says, "Sleep on now and take your rest." They were weary and tired, but no sooner had His words been spoken than He sees coming a torchlight procession, and again exclaims, "Behold, the hour is at hand; the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners." Rise, let us be going." 47—While speaking to the disciples, the crowd draws near.

and Judas, one of "the twelve," leads the procession. 48—This was the time of moon and yet in the moonlight the crowd might be mistaken and lay hands on wrong person, hence Judas gave them a sign that the one whom he should kiss. He. 49—And Judas approached, saying, "Hail! Master," and kissed. 50—Jesus asked, "Wherefore art thou come?" yet He knew where he had been what he was doing. This was no surprise to Jesus. Read in this connection. 18th chapter, and Luke 22:36-38, for other thoughts on the lesson. 51—Peter and of the other disciples, knowing that Jesus was to be attacked this night, had prepared for defense by carrying swords. It was Peter who drew the sword and cut off an ear of Malchus. 52—Jesus here makes a statement that needs no explanation. "All that use the sword shall perish with the sword." 53—If it was help that was needed, Father would have sent angels to the rescue. 54—But should help be given, it would thwart all the plans of God relative to the world's redemption. 55—Jesus rebuked them for their cowardice. He was with them in the temple all day and they touched Him not, and now they come by night with swords and clubs to overpower Him. It had been prophesied, and now the prophecies were being fulfilled. The disciples seeing their Master had surrendered, lost courage and fearful of the presence of a man who had fled. This is one of the most pathetic sentences of Scripture—"And all the disciples forsook Him and fled."

Comments on the Lesson

In this lesson we see the importance of friendship and companionship. The great strong, Son of God, in the hour of bitterest agony, when His soul was weighted down with trouble, looked towards His human friends for sympathy and comfort. They could little appreciate His frame of mind. They knew not the awful burden that pressed Him, and like many today, satisfied their own desires and calmly fell asleep, leaving the Man of Sorrows to bear His burdens alone. What a reproach in the words of the Master, "What! could ye not watch with me one hour?" He had suffered and would still suffer for them. But they were neglecting Him in the time of His greatest need. Jesus never said prayers; He prayed. It is one thing to say a prayer; another to pray. He first knelt, then was so overcome with the burden of His prayer that He fell prostrate upon His face. How near He came to His Father. He was always obedient, even unto death, and through His obedience we have life eternal. We think of the obedience of Jesus, is it not a small, unappreciative soul who will refuse to render full obedience to Him? While burdened with His own cares and standing in the very face of death, Jesus was not forgetful of His disciples, hence His warning, "Watch, that ye enter not into temptation." He knew them; He knew the temptations they would meet. His concern was for His disciples and the spread of the Gospel. This lesson furnishes a picture of contrast. Here is Jesus, the meek and lowly, sorrowing, suffering, ready to give His life to save the whole world. On the other hand, Judas, the narrow worldling, willing to sell the Prince of Peace for a handful of silver. Jesus, the genuine, on the one hand; Judas, traitor and hypocrite, on the other. See him as he leads the torchlight procession beneath the olive trees in Gethsemane park. Walking up as a friend to the King of Kings, he approaches Him with "Hail! Master," and then presses to His lips a kiss; but remember, the same Judas later had his Gethsemane. There came an hour when heartbroken he stood before the authorities, begging them to take back their money, and upon their refusal, threw it upon the temple floor and rushed frantically from their presence and in an out-of-the-way place hanged himself.

Questions for Class Use

Where is Gethsemane? What does the word mean? Whom did Jesus take with Him into the garden? Why did He desire the three to be near Him? Why did they not watch with Him? What did He mean by the cup passing from Him? What was Judas' sign of betrayal? Who used the sword? What miracle did Jesus here perform? What effect did His surrender have upon the disciples?

LESSON 4—NOVEMBER 27.

"THE TRIAL OF JESUS"—MATTHEW 26:57-68.

57 And they that had taken Jesus led him away to the house of Caiphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were gathered together. 58 But Peter followed him afar off, unto the court of the high priest, and entered in, and sat with the officers, to see the end. 59 Now the chief priests and the whole council sought false witness against Jesus, that they might put him to death; 60 and they found it not, though many false witnesses came. But afterward came two, 61 and said, This man said I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days. 62 And the high priest stood up, and said unto him, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these s against thee? 63 But Jesus held his peace. And the high priest said unto him, I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou art the Christ, the Son of God. 64 Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, Henceforth we shall see the Son of man sitting at the right hand of Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven. 65 Then the high priest rent his garments, saying, He hath spoken blasphemy: what further need have we of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard the blasphemy: 66 what think ye? They answered and said, He is worthy of death. 67 Then did they spit in his face and buffet him: and some smote him with the palms of their hands, 68 saying, Prophecy unto us, thou Christ: who is he that struck thee?

Golden Text. "But when He was reviled, He reviled not again." 1 Peter 2:23.

Time. Friday morning, April 7, A. D. 30. Place. The Palace of Caiaphas.

Read in connection with the text of the lesson, Mark 14:53-59; Luke 22:71; John 13-23.

Explanatory. According to John, they first led Jesus to Annas, and Annas sent him to Caiaphas, the high priest. According to Luke 22-66, the scribes and elders were together as soon as it was day. They were assembling during the latter part of the night, knowing that Jesus was soon to be brought to court. The larger number of them arrived about daylight, when the regular proceedings began. 58—It would be well to read John 18:15-18, for a more extended account of Peter's following. When the disciples fled and Jesus was led to court, Peter, anxious to see what was to be done with Him and still loving his Master, but fearful of the mob, followed afar off. His was long distance discipleship. 59-61—Many people came to falsely testify, but it was evident that the testimony was false, until finally, two testified, as quoted in verse 61. Jesus had said He would destroy this temple, but He alluded to the temple of His body. 63—Jesus held His peace. He was willing for His case to rest upon that testimony. There are times when it is well to hold our peace. Jesus was now called upon for His own testimony. The high priest attempts to put Him on his oath. This again shows that he understood fully the claims of Jesus, hence the question, "Art thou the Christ, Son of God?" 64—"Thou hast said" means, thou hast said what I am. Jesus now announces another meeting, in which He will be in the presence of the authorities and elders assembled, then they shall see Him sitting at the right hand of power, coming on the clouds of heaven. He will then be judge and they the prisoners. 65—Caiaphas uttered this kind of an answer. The tearing of his clothes was a makeshift. He was so excited nor overwhelmed by such a statement. He did it for show and effect. They considered this, Jesus' answer, to be blasphemy, and said the crime was worthy of death.

Comments on the Lesson

What a mockery the trial of Jesus was. Here in the court of Caiaphas stood the defenseless man, who had the power, with one movement of His hand, to smite from the earth forever the hostile faces that looked into His. They were determined on one thing, viz., to put to death the Son of God. They had been unable to entangle Him in words, and now as a last resort, they bring in others to lie about Him. There are times when it is wise to keep silent. Sometimes charges are preferred against us, which are so silly and so empty that it is useless to waste time or words in trying to explain. Some matters adjust themselves if left alone. To one who knew all things, as Jesus did, whose life was perfect, could read the lives of the false witnesses, who knew the motives of the elders and the scribes and other officials, such a trial as He was having must have been a bore. When He is on the rack and the authorities are asking Him with questions, He informed them that there would come a day when the scales would be turned and He would be judge and they would be at His court pleading for mercy. This aroused them and now with the claim that He was the Christ of God, they desired Him to be put to death. He was spit upon and slapped. Some struck Him with the palms of their hands, and according to Luke, He was blindfolded and smitten again and asked who it was that smote Him. Again He was alone, only Jesus being with Him, the disciples had fled at His arrest. Peter had followed. He was not in the room with Jesus. Peter was anxious to see the outcome, but in the hour of Jesus' unpopularity, he was unwilling to let the crowd know he belonged to the inner circle. We censure Peter, and yet how many there are today who imitate his example. When a church is small, badly in debt, maybe in ill repute in the community, how many there are who follow it afar off, never letting it be known that they were once a part of it. How many a man has a following while the sun shines, but when adversity comes and misfortune is his share, where are the friends of yesterday? They, too, follow afar off and many testify they never knew him. "False friends and shadows attend alike, only when the sun shines."

Questions for Class Use

Where was Jesus' trial held? Before whom was He first taken? Then to whom? Who was Caiaphas? Who were present at the trial? Where was Peter? What testimony was given against Jesus? What was His reply to Caiaphas' question? Were the people angered? What treatment did He receive from the hands of the people?

LESSON 1—DECEMBER 4.

"PETER'S DENIAL"—MATTHEW 26:31-35; 69-75.

31 Then saith Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended in me this night; for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad. 32 But after I am raised up, I will go before you into Galilee. 33 But Peter answered and said unto him, If all shall be offended in thee, I will never be offended. 34 Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, that this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. 35 Peter saith unto him, Even if I must die with thee, yet will I not deny thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

69 Now Peter was sitting without in the court: and a maid came unto him, saying,

Thou also wast with Jesus the Galilean. 70 But he denied before them all, saying, I know not what thou sayest. 71 And when he was gone out into the porch, another maid saw him, and saith unto them that were there, This man also was with Jesus of Nazareth. 72 And again he denied with an oath, I know not the man. 73 And a little while they that stood by came and said to Peter, Of a truth thou also art one of them; for thy speech maketh thee known. 74 Then began he to curse and to swear, I know not the man. Straightway the cock crew. 75 And Peter remembered the word which Jesus said.

Golden Text. "Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall." 1 Peter 5:10:12.

Time. Early part of Friday morning, April 7, A. D. 30. Place. On the way from the "upper room" and in the court-yard of the residence of Caiaphas.

Explanatory. 31—In Zech. 13:7 is a picture of a shepherd being smitten and his flocks scattered. The prophet was speaking of the Messiah. The word offend literally means to stumble. How true Jesus' words were. They did stumble in fact when He surrendered to the mob who arrested Him. 32—The angel alluded to in this statement when he appeared to the women after the resurrection. 33—Peter was certain he would never fall, and told Jesus so. Though all others might stumble, Peter never would. 34-35—All the disciples were certain they would never fall. They were now speaking when danger was not near. It is easy to be brave and courageous when troubles are afar. 69—Peter was sitting in the open court, around which the palace was built. Read Mark 14:66-72; Luke 22:54-62; John 18:16-27. From these references we learn that John sent a damsel to open the gate to let Peter in, and she found him warming by the fire. 70—When she told Peter that he had been with Jesus in Galilee, he denied it before all present and said, "I know not what thou sayest." 71—And when he had gone out into the courts, his conscience was now beginning to condemn him. Another maid saw him and said to those present, "This fellow was also with Jesus of Nazareth." 72—Here he lies again and emphasizes his statement with an oath, in order to make them believe what he says is true. 73—The word now had spread through the gathering and not only one, but many knew of his relation to Jesus. Many gathered about him and accused him, asserting that his speech betrayed him. 74—This time he began to curse and swear and said, "I know not the man." "And the cock crew." 75—"And Peter remembered." What a memory it was. Only last night his great Friend had said to him, "Before the cock shall crow, thou shalt deny Me thrice." The denial had been made, the cock crew and Peter remembered. And to help stir up his memory the Master cast His eye upon His disciple. No wonder Peter went out and wept bitterly.

Comments on the Lesson

The four writers of the Gospels mention Peter's denial. When Matthew, Mark, and Luke wrote their story of the Christ, Peter was then active in his career as a preacher of the Word. Had they been uninspired, they would have omitted this, story, but they told it all. When Peter said he would follow Jesus to death, he meant it, as is evidenced by his raising his sword in the defense of Jesus, but when he saw the one leading the Prince of Peace away, his hopes were shattered and he no longer accepted Jesus to be the Messiah and when hope and faith were gone, courage failed. But no sooner had he denied the Master, than he repented, as evidenced by his weeping bitterly. This is the mark of a good man, to not remain in sin when one has fallen, but to repent and try to make amends for the wrong that has been done. Peter warmed at the wrong fire. About that fire were the enemies of Jesus. When Jesus met him at the seaside after the resurrection and commanded him three times to feed the sheep, and three times asked him if he loved Him, he was then again putting Peter to the test. Peter never forgot this occasion, and the thoughts of his mistake doubtless helped to lead you all the way? e him more careful ever after. When he was sure that Jesus was the Messiah, after resurrection, there is no record of his ever wavering for a moment. Prison walls, stripes, even death could not shake his faith. If we desire to be courageous, we keep in the faith. Associate with friends of Jesus, keep busy in His work. This is safe ground. Reader, if you have been following afar off, will you not quicken your pace today, take your place beside the Christ of God and let Him be your friend

Questions for Class Use

Where did Peter deny Jesus? How many times? Why did he deny Him? To whom was his denial made? What had Jesus said concerning his denial? How many Gospel writers tell the story of this denial? What effect did it have upon Peter?

ELMER L. KELLAND, Public Accountant

Telephone 503 John

He's a Brotherhood Man.

95 William St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

DOWER'S AROMATIC ANTISEPTIC ASEPTIC TOOTH PICKS

Prolong life and save dentist's bills. If your dealer does not handle them, send us his name and fifteen cents and we will send you a box of three hundred picks.

UTTER-TOWER CO.

184 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

TS COPYRIGHTS

DESIGNS

TRADE-MARKS

JERRY A. MATHEWS

*Solicitor of American and Foreign Patents
and Counselor in Patent Causes*

RADO BLDG.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

K. C. S. RY.

KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN RAILWAY CO.

For Health and Recuperation, visit

SULPHUR SPRINGS, ARKANSAS

All Year Health Resort

The White Sulphur Sanitarium and Bath House Now Open

Illustrated Folders Sent Free

S. G. WARNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Kansas City, Mo.

WHY?

ROCK ISLAND TO CHICAGO

BECAUSE

The CHICAGO-KANSAS CITY Limited, at 6:30 p.m. and The GOLDEN STATE Limited at 9:05 p.m.

represent the highest type of passenger equipment, and arrive at the La Salle Street Station (only one in the business district).

SPLENDID TRAINS DAILY

For Tickets, Sleeping Car Reservation, Etc.,

J. Jones, C. P. A., 900 Main St., or G. S. Pentecost, A. G. P. A., Bryant Bldg.
KANSAS CITY, MO.

LA SALLE STATION Only Railroad Terminal on the Elevated Railway Loop

Special Subscription Bargains for Our Readers

By an exceptionally fortunate arrangement, we are enabled to offer our readers their choice of a selected list of leading popular periodicals together with Pearson's Magazine, each for a full year at very attractive prices. Your entire year's reading is provided for by these splendid subscription bargains, which cover the entire range of periodical literature.

The Publications Included in each group are for a full year, and may be ordered to one or different addresses. An extra charge is made for Canadian or Foreign Subscriptions.

	Value	Our Price
Christian Men with Pearson's and Ainslee's Magazine	$3.80	$2.60
Christian Men with Pearson's and American Boy	3.00	2.35
Christian Men with Pearson's and American Magazine	3.50	2.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Boys' Magazine	3.00	2.25
Christian Men with Pearson's and Century	6.00	5.35
Christian Men with Pearson's and Columbia	3.50	2.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Cosmopolitan	3.00	2.35
Christian Men with Pearson's and Country Life	6.00	4.75
Christian Men with Pearson's and Current Literature	5.00	3.25
Christian Men with Pearson's and Everybody's	3.50	2.60
Christian Men with Pearson's and Field and Stream	3.50	2.60
Christian Men with Pearson's and Forest and Stream	5.00	3.85
Christian Men with Pearson's and Good Housekeeping	3.25	2.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Hampton's	3.50	2.65
Christian Men with Pearson's and Harper's Bazar	3.50	2.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Harper's Monthly	6.00	5.00
Christian Men with Pearson's and House and Garden	5.00	3.75
Christian Men with Pearson's and Lippincott's	4.50	3.25
Christian Men with Pearson's and McClure's	3.50	2.60
Christian Men with Pearson's and Metropolitan	3.50	2.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Musician	3.50	2.60
Christian Men with Pearson's and Musical News	4.00	3.00
Christian Men with Pearson's and Musical Observer	3.00	2.30
Christian Men with Pearson's and National	3.50	2.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Outing	5.00	3.85
Christian Men with Pearson's and Physical Culture	3.50	2.75
Christian Men with Pearson's and Recreation	5.00	3.25
Christian Men with Pearson's and Review of Reviews	5.00	3.25
Christian Men with Pearson's and St. Nicholas	5.00	4.35
Christian Men with Pearson's and *Scientific American (new) ..	5.00	3.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Scribner's	5.00	4.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Violinist	3.50	2.50
Christian Men with Pearson's and Woman's Home Companion	3.50	2.60
Christian Men with Pearson's and World To-day	3.50	2.60
Christian Men with Pearson's and World's Work	5.00	3.35

Add eighty-five cents when Scientific American is a renewal subscription.

Two Leading Offers

CHRISTIAN MEN	Value	CHRISTIAN MEN	Value
PICTORIAL REVIEW	$4.2	McCLURE'S or EVERY-	$3.50
MODERN PRISCILLA		BODY'S or WOMAN'S
LADIES' WORLD	Our Price	HOME COMPANION	Our Price
PEARSON'S	$2.75	PEARSON'S	$2.60

Address all orders to

CHRISTIAN MEN

Room 419, 926-28 Grand Avenue,

KANSAS CITY, MO.

CHRISTIAN MEN

an of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

IS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	R. A. DOAN - - - - -	Nelsonville, Ohio
RT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.	T. W. GRAFTON - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
K NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.	J. N. HAYMAKER - - - - -	Wichita, Kan.
M. M. COCHRAN - - - - -	Uniontown, Pa.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
---------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum
in advance. Ten or more copies to one address may be paid for quarterly—in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

ne 4

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, DECEMBER, 1910

Number 6

FAMILIAR TALKS

BER

There is something about December that loosens the strings of the tightest because December looks toward Christmas and Christmas looks back to who was unselfish, to one who de the superlative genius of a life was the incarnation of the Supreme r, to ministering to the poor and helpless of earth. It is a tribute to tality of the spirit of Christ in His h that the idea of commemorating onstructive birthday with gifts rep- eing love and sympathy, coming v the centuries, has absorbed pagan and heathen ceremonials as a snow- the thawing days picks up gravel and small stones. The triumph lies not in displacing a Roman saturnalia with a Christian name, or in combining elements in the German folklore of a wood god in a celebration of a Christian feast day, but rather that pagan customs and heathen superstitions have been completely overlaid and infused with a spirit of good cheer and good will to men; so that at the Christmas season men whose lives are Christless and organizations which pay Him no Divine reverence in word or offering, vie with one another in an endeavor to recreate, not the slavish worship of a druidic sacrifice nor yet the passion-surfing orgies of a saturnalia, but the generous and helpful life, the feeling and the giving spirit of the Man of Galilee.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

In our human way of speaking, it would seem that the face of God must brighten as He beholds the heart of civilized humanity soften with the coming of December days. It is pleasantly suggestive that when the physical world, in our temperate zones, is growing hard and cold and austere, when snows and frosts wreak their vengeance on the poorly housed and the illy clad, then the heart of humanity is growing warmest and its sympathies tenderest. The man who is money mad all through the year, who has twisted and turned, who has chaffered and bullied at the bargaining in the endeavor to gain the upper hand in trade, for a few days or a few hours at least, turns his attention from getting to giving. Sons and daughters who have been selfishly absorbing what doting parents have provided through the year with hardly so much as "Thank you, Mamma," or "Much obliged, Governor," generally find something in the Christmas thought to bring them to a sense of obligation and to the bestowal of gifts that may be intrinsically worthless, but which in their suggestion of a deep running stream of filial love, are priceless to fathers and mothers. Parents, also, who have been compelled many times during the year to say "No" to the wants of pleading children, choose the Christmas season to demonstrate that love, however hardly circumstanced and deeply chasmed in by limited means, yet surges on in such a swelling tide that it may, at times, overflow the banks of frugality.

THE CHRISTMAS GROUCH

Yes, Christmas is a giving time. But after it is all over, when mothers have stitched and crocheted and embroidered, and sisters have cut and pasted, plastered and burned and grilled, frilled into gloriously impossible fashions those wonderful receptacles for gloves and hat pins and handkerchiefs and collars and powder puffs and hair combs, that the dear, sweet things so well worth to give and to receive; when Bob is drumming in the kitchen and balancing blocks on the stairs; when Ed is passing bon bons in the parlor; when Willie is fencing on the roof; when the hired girl is fuming in the kitchen; when the grandmother is holding her ears in the garret; when father has fled from the house and his box of Christmas cards to the peace and quiet of his club; when the home is strewn from cellar to attic with the confusion and clamor of the conference with the clatter and clatter of the bustle and flutter of Christmas; when the mother, dear mother, who has been the brooding spirit of it all, sits in her room with the doors fast locked in an endeavor to keep nervous protection on the outside and some peace of mind on the inside, really begins to wonder if after all she has brought as much happiness to her loved ones as she should; if John really liked the cigars, or if she would not rather have had a muff instead of a collar; when she reflects that after all we forgot to send Aunt Martha anything; and when she looks over the lists of presents received and discovers that the Uncle Jim has really quite omitted her this year; when a few quiet tears have been shed, a few deep sighs have been drawn and she smooths her hair, combs her brow and prepares to face the world again—perhaps it may be with the reflection that people are so hard to please. And they are hard to please because they have no great needs.

THE CHRISTMAS AHEAD

Christmas is just now. For most of the giving time has now come and it may be worth while to consider. Of the giving of gifts there be no end, and should be none. But is a question if the giving, in a variety of instances, has not degenerated into a mere social custom in which we give in the same spirit that we exchange calls, when a gift is only a courtesy. If this be so, it would be well to be our courtesy Christian. It would be a brotherly thing to resolve this year, of all, to give gifts to some to whom we are under no social obligation: to the expectant but the needy. Now, gentle reader, for a moment. Tell me in your hands, the money that you propose to spend this year. Is it two dollars or five, is it ten dollars or fifty, or a hundred dollars or one thousand? How much will you spend in Christmas gifts? To whom will it go? mothers, wives, friends, to whom you give, anyway? From whom the obligation of love requires the daily discharge of rapidly accumulating affectional obligations? If so, it is hardly giving in the true spirit of Christmas and those are hardly Christmas gifts.

ENDING WITH
A Christmas gift is a Christ gift, that is a gift of the sort Christ would give if He were in your place and a gift to someone upon whom Christ would bestow. Jesus taught that our neighbor is he who needs, that our brother is he whom we believe. In a moment He wiped out family distinction and obligation as they are built on a strain of blood and re-constructed it on the basis of those who are constrained by the love of the Father. Do you think yet of taking Jesus with you on your shopping expeditions this year? Take Him and let us see what difference it would make. In the first place you would do your shopping earlier and avoid adding to the torture of tired and overstrained salespeople. Jesus was a man who always got up betimes. He began the day when the day began and He seemed to know what He was going to do before He did it. In the deliberate movement of His saintly life there was all the swift celerity of the man who knows whither he is going and why and what he will do when he arrives. So, if Jesus goes with you on your shopping expeditions you will do nothing at haphazard. You will have thought out the sum total of your Christmas obligation and you will have computed, in some sense, your ability to meet that obligation so that your gifts may be gifts indeed.

In the sermon on the Mount Jesus has laid down the principles for Christmas shopping and has told you what to buy and to whom to give. It may seem strange to turn from pouring over the Christmas number of the Ladies' Home Journal to find what to give and to whom to give it and take up that dusty classic of Christian preaching, but if you take Jesus with you on your shopping tour, that is what you must do. Those who give in His Spirit will not give to those who are able to give again, and will recognize no obligation to give except the obligation of need. Can you think what a change that would make in all our shopping? Take the great stores of Kansas City for example. All day long their aisles are crowded, all day long the little cash carriers whiz and whirl and package boys run hither and yon, shoppers pull and push their way through the towering stock of goods and with afternoon come the long lines of delivery wagons which back up to the doors and as the shades of night are falling start to the South and East into the great residence districts of the city where on every hand there is the sign of plenty, where on every table there is enough, where in every wardrobe there is purple that is warm and linen that is soft.

THE CHRISTMAS
HUNGER

Out of any fifty wagons, how many start to the crowded North side, the poor North side, the cheap-living, hard-laboring, children-crowded, hungry-stomached North side of Kansas City, where the need is? The percentage is small, very small, and yet, if Jesus were in and out of our great department stores with the shoppers, He would buy not silks and laces for the South side, not turkeys and cranberries and roasts and rolls for the high feeders in the villas on the hills, but food for famished babies, real food, wholesome and nutritious food, in frolicsome and hilarious plenty for the tables that many times are bared. There would be warm woolens for the body, there would be bright pictures for the walls; there would be wholesome books for the window nooks, where women may read romance into the rooms that reek with the rime of congested living, and where men may lift up their eyes to the stirring deeds of others from which they themselves may be inspired to climb to alluring heights of achievement far above the miasma of hopeless, fruitless toil.

Really, now, is this fanciful? Is it fetched too far? Would it not be Christian? Would it not be brotherly? Would it not be otherly? and would it not be real Christ-feast shopping if we shopped not for our own but for God's own, not for our children but for our neighbor's children, not for our husbands and our wives but for those husbands and those wives to whom the coming of such a giftday would not mean a day of surfeit, would not mean a cluttering of the rooms with useless gewgaws but a re-equipping of the home with the utensils of daily service and the accoutrements for that constant war against want, to which an immense percentage of our population has been enlisted for the term of their natural lives?

YOUR CHRISTMAS OBLIGATION

It is just possible some who read this be kind enough to think that while the idea has suggestive value yet the very trueness of it may rob it of point, and the very immensity of Christian responsibility which it suggests dull the appetite for action. To all of us we come with three flatly emphatic and tersely insistent suggestions.

Every member of the Christian Church has three definite obligations that shall be met in December. Two of these are the obligations to our worn out ministers and to the helpless and the orphans, which are a legitimate charge upon our general church work, and the third is to the needy in the immediate community in which we live. The ministry demands much and gives little. He who serves in it creates an obligation which individuals are slow to recognize. Those who have dedicated the enthusiasm of their youth to evangelism and their many years to the sober constructive work of the pastorate are in their unproductive age neglected, unfed, poorly clad and poorly housed. You recognize your obligation to the man who serves you in the pulpit today. You know that you are giving him no more than a living. In many cases you are giving him less. In doing this you are conferring upon another generation the obligation to keep him from want in the days of old age. And in like manner you have received from the generation which has just been served a obligation to care for the men who served it. Our ministers are not supplicants; they would rather starve; they would rather endure the pains of penury than the woes of want than to knock, on the hand, at the door and bid you clinch the coin of charity resoundingly in the beggars' bowls. You will never need them that they are in need. Yet are men whose locks are whitened the snows of four scores of years, are widows whose eyes mist today the memory of a husband who fell in the field forty years ago and have been mothers in Israel for two generations, that will not lie down tonight on a bed of comfort nor feed their palates with foods adapted to the infirmities of enfeebled age because they cannot comfort them with mere memories of his service.

Brotherhood is great today because of them, and because our Brotherhood is great they hunger and are not satisfied. No, not because our Brotherhood is great, but because, being great, it is indifferent to its obligation to the little ones of God's earth and God's commandment.

There was once a lad with a few loaves and a herring or two and with him God fed the multitude. There is a kindly generous organization, the Board of Ministerial Relief, that cares for the sufferings of old preachers, knows about the wants and the difficulties of them and their wives and children. It is officered by loyal men and is God's instrument to do this work for you. You may have only a barley sheaf. Give it to them. If enough of the sheaves who read this article would give or contribute to the Board of Ministerial Relief, 120 North Market Street, Indianapolis, Ind., for a dollar or ten dollars, it would create a sum sufficient to bring the cheer into the hearts of a hundred veterans of the Cross whose need makes a badge of their courage and a tribute of their loyalty to the cause that made you free.

TRAGEDIES The father was killed in an accident, the mother died of a fever. There were five children, the oldest was eight and the youngest a baby. Who cares? God cares. How does He manifest His providing watchfulness? Ask the National Christian Benevolent Association, of St. Louis, which heard the cry of those orphans in the unmothered nest and went and got them and put them in a great comfortable home with food in plenty with clothing and medical care, which educated them and trained them for life and stood to them in all ways as a Christian institution can stand to the little ones, who bereft of loving parents, yet may be mothered and fathered in the bosom of God's love.

She was old and infirm. The husband, who had fought with her through the heat of life's battles, had come to the end in peace but also in poverty. He had served his God well but no competence had come to him. He died as the most of us—think of this, brethren! as the most of us must die, possessed of no sufficient property to care for the helpless loved ones who remain behind us. What shall we do with her? the people ask. "What can I do?" "What can I do?" she moans, in hopeless despondency, as visions of the poor house rise before her. On the Lord's Day, her place was never vacant in the little church. Two generations of boys and girls have heard her words of kindly admonition as she taught in the Bible school, and now must those gray hairs that are the crown of a life of service, be hid beneath the pauper's cap in a ward at the county farm? Can brethren, can sisters in the church of Jesus Christ contemplate a situation like this for one whose quiet faith and gentle life have been a sweet savor unto God in the congregation of Israel? No, they need not, for there stands among us today an institution which is a strong and vigorous servant of the cause of helpless age. Jesus himself affords the classic precedent. "Son," He said, "behold your mother." "Mother, behold your son." So today, the National Benevolent Association of St. Louis, with its sixteen homes, hospitals and orphan asylums throughout the United States, stands in the place of the beloved disciple. It is ready to be a strong son to every mother in Israel and every father in Israel, helpless and in need of a home.

But it can only be this as you give it the means. The National Christian Benevolent Association is only an institution. An institution is a graceless, bloodless, heartless thing except as men and women put these into it. The fact that the National Christian Benevolent Association shows in its name, in the list of its institutions and in the labors of its representatives the comforting and gracious heart of sympathy and strength is because the men and women who make it and the men and women who support it are themselves strong and gracious and sympathetic.

THE POINT OF THE TACK

You want something definite to do as individuals, or as a Brotherhood, to make Christmas a Christ feast, indeed. Read these figures.

$100 a year will enable the Board of Ministerial Relief to keep some aged minister and his wife from want.

$100 will enable the National Benevolent Association to provide a home for an indigent Disciple in any one of the half a dozen comfortable homes.

$100 per year will enable that institution to care for an orphan child for a year.

$500 per year will provide bed in a Christian Hospital.

$25.00 will lay a thousand bricks in the new Christian Hospital Building in Kansas City.

Now, for the immediate duty of Brotherhood organizations. Notice our program in the November magazine for first meeting in December. Hold a meeting of your Brotherhood on the subject of Brotherhood Benevolence. Work this program carefully. Put before your Brotherhood the information suggested here regarding the work of these great benevolent institutions and furnish information as to our Ministerial Relief write to the president, A. L. Orcutt, East Market Street, Indianapolis, and for information regarding the National Christian Benevolent Association write to the secretary, J. H. Mohr, 2955 Euclid Avenue, St. Louis Mo. Take the schedule of benevolent contributions set forth above. Put them before your Brotherhood organization and urge upon them the duty of assuming one of them. If they will not do this, perhaps another, to be sent to one or both of the institutions, may be received. Do something. Do it now. Do it efficiently. Fulfill this responsibility toward the great work, do something locally. Get together as a Brotherhood in some conspicuous act of brotherliness to the needy in your community at the Christmas time. One way to do this is to turn to the program for December, prepared by A. Doan, which will be found in the magazine. Begin now extended resolutions for the observance of the program for the receipt and distribution of money for the poor, called for in that program. A number of men in the course of the past year have risen up to say that the Brotherhood was indefinite. We have responded that for the most part the Brotherhood is just so definite that when it leads men up to a task they shy off from it. That which we propose for December is definite. You believe in it as hard as we do. Will you do it? Or will you pass it up and when the Lord says "What kind of a Christmas did Abel, thy brother have," instead of the old answer "Lord, the Christmas idea is indefinite."

OR "What shall we do with the Brotherhood Movement, starve it or kill it?" we are was asked by one of our brethren recent State Convention. For our part, we should answer both. Our sentiment on this subject is as abundantly obvious as that of the man who, hearing of his mother-in-law, received a telegram from his wife reading "Dear Mother is dead. Shall I embalm, or cremate?" He replied, "All three, no chances."

the Brotherhood Movement is something that can be starved by non-support, bludgeoned to death by front editorials, or stilettoed in the dark by anonymous criticisms, the sooner the tragedy is ended the better for those deeply concerned.

More seriously, however, any discussion of the Brotherhood problem, which the cui bono question is in order. The Brotherhood Movement was called into existence by a chorus of expressions from our pulpits, our platforms and our press, that seemed as unanimous as our responsibilities ever become. Its responsibilities were assumed by men who believed that the will was of God and that the need was for the sake of Christ and that the work should be done by the Church of Christ.

It is a fair question now and must be a question always whether our people as a whole, were mistaken in thinking there was a need for such a thing as the Brotherhood Movement, and it is a fair question whether the present Brotherhood organization, launched by the National Convention and confirmed in its position and place by two succeeding National Conventions, is going at the work in the right spirit, or on the right basis, whether the work is producing fruit, whether it is worth the effort it costs to get to maturity. In other and words more trite, "Is the thing worth while?" Can it justify itself to those who have put time and energy and money into it and can it commend itself to others who have as yet done nothing with it to such an extent that they will wish to undertake it?

The Brotherhood must stand or fall by the test of results.

A SCHOOL FOR SCHOOLS

The passion for the best in Bible school work is exemplified in many ways.

Bible school success has hitherto been deemed to be very largely a matter of individual genius. Wanamaker, of Philadelphia; Brown, of Brooklyn; Hudson, of Syracuse, and latterly Doan, of Nelsonville, and Welshimer, of Canton, have attracted the attention of the American religious world to their success in Bible school work.

A study of the success of these men, however, has revealed the fact that back of their success is not alone an individuality, but a principle and a method out of which the success has grown, and the men who have thus succeeded are more insistent than any one else that this method and principle, once comprehended and acquired, will produce given results in any prepared environment when applied by trained leaders. P. H. Welshimer, who, without doubt, more than any other man among us, has succeeded with all around Bible school work in the development of an organization in the training of workers and in the massing of a large student body, voices his confidence in the value of method and principle as the building force by instituting what is to be known as the Standard School of Methods. The first of these will be held the first week in January, 1911, 2d to 8th, in the First Christian Church at Canton. After the new building, now projected for this church, is completed, it is planned to hold the schools four times a year, the first week of each quarter.

Below will be found a picture of the proposed new building, which will accommodate a Bible school of four thousand and not crowd them, while an audience of about three thousand can be seated for a preaching service.

During this first term, the instructors will be as follows: Herbert Moninger and Miss Lillie Faris, of Cincinnati; Dr. Jos. Clark, of Columbus, Secretary Ohio Sunday-School Association; W. C. Pearce, Chicago, National Superintendent of Adult Work; the local helpers will be Miss Katherine E. Staub, Pastoral Helper of the Canton church; Miss Maud Moore, Superintendent of Primary Instruction in the Canton public schools and Superintendent of the Beginners' department of the First Christian Bible school; and P. H. Welshimer, Pastor of the Canton church and Superintendent of the Bible School. Below we present the course of lectures to be given.

At this school of methods there will be on exhibition, samples of Sunday-School supplies and printed matter put out by the various denominational publishing houses, as well as our own, also the best books on Sunday-School work, published by forty different publishing houses. These will be found in the workers' library, to which students will have access. This will be a fine opportunity for those in attendance to see the best things published on Sunday-School work. Orders for the same will be received, while in attendance at this school of methods. Three hours in the afternoon will be given to reading, doing field work and holding conferences. The rest of the time will be spent in the lecture room. Hiram and Bethany College will each send the seniors from the ministerial department to Canton for week's instruction.

Tuition will be $2.00 per week; rent, $1.50 to $2.00 per week, and 20 cents each.

Each year more than two thousand people come to Canton to visit the Christian Bible school and church.

Proposed New Home of First Christian Church
Canton, Ohio

Ministers will please remember we shall be asking you soon to set up one service on the third Sunday in January for a sermon on Men for the Ministry. If you are now preparing perhaps publishing list of sermon for the new year, won't you kindly find a place for this one?

They built a Christian Church in three hours in Gary, Indiana, the other day. The foreman of the job was a Brotherhood man and Brotherhood men were working everywhere from the ground sill to the roof. The Gary Union men, most of which we have Brotherhood men, were the force behind the work. The carpenters' union put up the structure in five hours and we had service that night. The painters' union painted, the electricians' union wired and the Brotherhood union lathed the building. We have a building worth $1,000 now.

Hundreds gathered to see the building and the Chicago papers had men and covering the story. The Tribune almost a page to the account.

They have been getting letters from over the country about the possibility of one day churches." It has been suggested that we set Decoration day next national day for this sort of enterprise. We ought to put up one in each

The minister of the "Five-hour church" did not belong to the Brotherhood. In a sense this is disappointing to readers, but the lapse will be overlooked when it is understood that the minister's name was Martha Stout Noble and she is married to an enthusiastic Brotherhood man, named Nelson Trimble.

Do not overlook the practical suggestions as to benevolences contained in the serial entitled "December Days" and programs for the two Brotherhood meetings in December, the first of which is with benevolences and is found in the November magazine, and the second which deals with Christmas-giving in the local community and appears in this

There come to us every month records of Brotherhood achievement that are so inspiring that we can hardly contain our enthusiasm. We print the record in the news department of the magazine, and it seems to us we have printed enough to convince Didymus himself that the Brotherhood organization, as we propose it, is a potential ideal of the highest that all in the world needed for success. To adopt the Brotherhood program without behind it the same practical energies which are deemed necessary for success in any other department of church work. There is not a Sunday-school or a Bible class that will succeed without energy. There is not a Brotherhood organization formed on the plans laid down by us that will not succeed tremendously and prove itself exceedingly worth while if church workers will go at the task—and it is a task—with anything like the same force and initiative they expect to display in order to obtain success in other departments of church work.

It has seemed wise to us to call attention to some of the specially glowing reports that come to us. For an example of successful organization work, take the following, which comes to us on a post card and which you will notice is dated November 2d:

"PITTSBURGH, PA., 11-2-10.

"DEAR BRO.:—Received the organization package and made good use of the same. Organized this evening with thirty husky men; all paid national dues to February; all paid for buttons; all paid for one year's subscription for CHRISTIAN MEN. How is that for a start? Wait! All signed the Brotherhood covenant; all stood and pledged themselves to push the Brotherhood work on to grand success. Hold! There was not one objection to by-laws or constitution. More later. J. W. UNDERWOOD."

November 15th comes the application for a certificate of affiliation and with it remittance of $19.35, covering dues for forty men and also a list of thirty-two subscribers for CHRISTIAN MEN. This Brotherhood was organized in the Belmar Christian Church, in a workingmen's district in the east end of Pittsburgh. It is struggling under a fourteen-thousand-dollar debt. J. W. Underwood, pastor, was one of the first men to organize a Local Brotherhood at Ashtabula, Ohio. His first organization was not a flattering success. They reorganized after six months and started again. This time they did better, but still by no means attained ideal conditions. When their pastor resigned a pastorate paying $1,800 to take one paying $1,200, they evinced their faith in the Brotherhood by calling a Brotherhood man, S. G. Buckner, of Elkhart, Ind., where L. B. D. C. No. 291 had made a conspicuous success. J. W. Underwood, after his year of experience with the value of a Brotherhood organization, when he assumed the difficult task of debt-raising and congregation-building in his new field, promptly organized a Brotherhood and affiliated it with the national body and placed the responsibility of these men in the support of a general men's work as a stepping-stone unto the altar of an infinitely more extended and intensive service in their own field. This man will succeed in his Church and part of that success will be because he expects to succeed in his Brotherhood work.

Take this from T. J. Golightly, pastor of the church at Caldwell, Idaho:

"A few evenings ago we gave a banquet and organized a Brotherhood. Before the evening of the banquet we had secured forty-five names. This was increased to fifty-five on the evening of the banquet. Mr. P. A. Wiley, who is president of the Idaho Mortgage and Securities Co., was elected president. He is a strong man and much interested and will give it much time. He has already pushed the work along in collecting in the moneys, and with the local and national dues he added the price of CHRISTIAN MEN. When last I talked with him he had seen twenty-six of the fellows himself and had gotten their dues and had twenty-five subscriptions for CHRISTIAN MEN. Yes, and I should have added that he included the price of a button in every one. I suppose he has turned it all over to the treasurer by this time, and it will not be long till you hear from them. Now, have you anything that can beat that? These fellows know how to do things."

This is another example of a man who has organized right. These men are not taking hold with kid gloves. They recognize that it will take energy, persistence and bulldog determination to carry through an enterprise of this sort and make it worth while, and as a preliminary they are putting their money in it and we have ancient authority for the statement that where your dues are paid in advance your man will be found to do the job, or in other words, where the treasure is there will your heart be.

For another example of a flying start and a far cry it is from Idaho, too. Find this in a letter from Geo. P. Ledger, minister of the Third Church, Philadelphia, to Field Secretary Shoberger:

"Since your visit our boys have been busy and things are booming. Started a Brotherhood class the Sunday after you were here. We have been running three Sundays now. Number, thirty-four. Not a man in the class who was identified with the school. Expect some new members tomorrow. Have set the mark for fifty by December first, one hundred by March first."

This Brotherhood, No. 311, was organized in the spring, and their initiation card is dated May 23d. Their membership has grown steadily. They pay dues on thirty-three members for the second quarter and fifty-one members for the third quarter. Samuel Wisler is the president, Horace N. Singer, secretary, Millard F. Walton, secretary, and Edgar Cramer, treasurer. They afford an example, of which we have many, of how the Brotherhood fosters the organization of Adult Bible classes. There are many churches where it has been proven impossible to launch the Adult Bible class on the strongest basis until first the Brotherhood has been organized. Here we have a concrete example, with four men having already been working for the Bible School, the support of the Bible School and the State Bible School, because the Brotherhood was there. It has been intimated to us that some have feared the payment of dues by them of a Local church to the General Brotherhood would lessen the support of the State Bible School work. This is a striking example to the contrary, and is in line with all Christian experience that the more men put into the

of an ideal away from home the they will put into the realization at home. When we have made a loyal Brotherhood man, we have made him a loyal Bible School man. Often the shortest way for many into practical service in the Bible School is through the door of the Brotherhood organization. Just as many times the shortest way into a Brotherhood organization is through the door of the Men's class. We have planned work from the beginning that it support and complement the work of the Adult Men's classes, in the firm belief that wherever we have a working Brotherhood it will add greatly to the efficiency of Men's Bible classes, and wherever there is a Men's Bible class existing, we can strengthen it and improve its results by organizing within in connection with the church a Brotherhood. Doan of Nelson-Barnett of Galesburg, and others could be mentioned, are examples of men who have found a Brotherhood organization within the Bible class an important aid to Bible class work, while Ward of Massillon, Denton of Bedford, Edge of Philadelphia, and Hull of Helena, are pastors who have found a working Brotherhood the ready means for the organization of an efficient, successful, Men's Bible class, which had not seemed an impossible feat.

But the Philadelphia Brotherhood has had a striking development along another line. There came into our office a few days ago a card issued by the Devotional Committee of the Third Church Brotherhood, with a printed list of meetings for some kind of meeting each week through the winter. What did it mean? Had some Brotherhood Devotional Committee actually taken itself seriously as to get to work and do something? Now, we have seen this possibility in the work of the Devotional Committee ever since we saw such a meeting presided over by Dr. Eli H. Long, in the Jefferson Street Church, at Buffalo, N. Y., and have written about it and talked about it and recommended it, but so much we encounter in committee appointments the disposition of men to take their selection as honorary and their duties as non-essential that it caused a little start in our office when we saw the card. Could we believe our eyes? We wrote, post haste, to Somers C. Wright, chairman of the Devotional Committee. "What does it mean?" we asked, and Mr. Wright replied with one of the sweetest stories of Brotherhood achievement we have ever read. This Brotherhood holds a meeting under the auspices of the Devotional Committee every single Lord's day. The hour set is nine forty-five. There is a reception committee at the doors at nine thirty and usually at nine forty there are enough men present to begin a prayer meeting, and at nine forty-five the leader takes charge. Topics have been assigned, the list of Brotherhood men gone over and leaders selected. Often these are men who have never before taken public part in religious meetings. They are recruits, volunteers, won to the cause of practical Christian service by the Brotherhood organization, and this letter told in lines that literally quivered with the fires of holy enthusiasm how the membership in these meetings had been thrilled by seeing young men or men unaccustomed to public speech, arise and confess to their faith in Jesus Christ and testify to his power over their lives. These meetings, interspersed with song, testimony and prayer, continue until the time for the regular preaching service. It is not a part of the Bible School, as the Bible School meets after church, and yet here is a Brotherhood so thoroughly alive to the spirit of the covenant assumed and to its obligation to Jesus Christ that in addition to regular social meetings during the month and the maintenance of a large Brotherhood Bible Class, it comes together every Lord's day an hour before the church service for an "Upper Room" meeting with the great Elder Brother. What this Brotherhood has done you can and ought to do. We ask you, fellow ministers, would it not mean much to your church service? We ask you, officers of Brotherhoods and chairmen of Devotional Committees, to seriously consider the inauguration of some such plan as this in connection with your own work.

And now we swing across the continent again. A moment ago we talked of Pittsburgh, Pa., then of Caldwell, Idaho, back again to the city where American liberty was born, and now once more over the steel-girded rivers and prairies and mountain chains to the Pacific Coast and to the sunny South, where Pasadena lies between the mountains and the sea, and wears proudly her sobriquet of the "Crown of the Valley." We quote from a letter from J. R. Gilbert, Secretary of L. B. D. C. No. 300, of the First Church of Pasadena. This Brotherhood, among the tasks of its first year, bought and paid for a four-thousand-dollar organ for the church, and for the second year of its life is assuming responsibility in a large measure for the conduct of the whole Bible School. The letter tells its own story. You who read it will not fail to reflect upon it.

"The Brotherhood holds a Men's Prayer-Meeting this evening preparatory to our revival services which will begin about the 20th, under the leadership of Dr. Breeden, and from which we expect great results.

"Our Sunday-school is having a great revival also, as we have jumped our attendance away beyond our usual figure. Our Sunday-school was recently reorganized and several of our Brotherhood men are now at the helm. As starter we determined upon a canvass to boost our attendance to four hundred, and I am pleased to state that we had four hundred and seventy-three last Sunday morning. As soon as the secretary announced the number present the writer announced that the mark had been set at seven hundred and fifty and said mark to be reached before the first Monday in February. Our annual attendance was as a rule, below the two hundred mark so you see we are forging ahead quite rapidly. Our Brotherhood class had an attendance of fifty-four last Sunday, and we would have had over sixty had we taken into account the Brotherhood men who were acting as teachers and officers."

It is just two days and two nights then a half a day more from Pasadena to Omaha, where at the North Side Christian Church, in L. B. D. C. No. 272, there is a record of achievement upon which runs into every department of church activity and is making of a poor and unhoused congregation a great and effective Christian force in the community life of this rapidly growing section. An account of their recent activities is given below:

L. B. D. C. No. 272, at North Side Christian Church, Omaha, Neb., has an enrollment of 59 with 35 men wearing the Brotherhood emblem. They held thirteen meetings during July, August and September, with an average attendance of 22. They held eight social meetings in the same period with an average attendance of 30. Their entire membership is enrolled in the Bible Class. Twelve visits to the sick were made and five floral offerings to sick and afflicted. They have 55 subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine. Remitted $17.70 local dues to the General Brotherhood and still had $5.10 in the treasury. A recent visit of Field Secretary J. K. Shelleberger inspired these men to even greater activity, and when it is appreciated that this Brotherhood is without a church home, worshiping in the Congregational Church with a Congregational minister preaching at one service and their own minister at the other, with a combined Sunday-school, our readers will understand that there is hardly a church among us which labors under such adverse conditions. C. A. Mangum, the president, is also Secretary of the Nebraska State Brotherhood.

om Rockford, Ill., where W. B. mer is the pastor, and where L. B. No. 251 has just been electing of- and planning the work of the next comes an item which shows how ly the Brotherhood can adapt itself he organizational needs of a local ch. The point lies in the following sentences: "It was decided last to give each Bible Class having in its membership a vice-president e Brotherhood, so that the basis of esentation shall be in the Bible Class that so far the Brotherhood shall federation of men from our Bible es. The fundamental basis of the herhood, in covenant and ideals, re- s." at this view of the Brotherhood nization as the all-inclusive organi- n for men in the church is grow- n other quarters is evidenced by the t decision of the Broad Street ch at Columbus to form a Brother- d by effecting a coalition for Broth- od work and the development of l life of three existing men's Bible ases. These classes all retain their organization and do their class t, but realize their solidarity as the e of the church in the Brotherhood gnization and by means of sub-or- zation with social and cultural pro- as and vigorous leadership in prac- activities, they will serve the church ealize the gospel principle of doing a the classes they realize the gospel t of teaching.

there were not in existence scores actical Brotherhoods doing success- work, it would seem that the half- n mentioned in the foregoing article d be ample assurance of the prac- ility of the Brotherhood plans. In tting go of the subject for the moment, t is iterate yet once again that the el Constitution contains the best and most practical working plans yet devised for the enlistment of men in the service of Christ and the Church; that it comprehends every department of the Church in which men may serve, and that ministers and laymen may succeed with it whenever and wherever they are willing to pay the price of success in Brotherhood work, which price, as in anything else of the kind, is just that happy combination of brains and persistence, consecration and energy which every pastor has at hand in himself and the men of any average congregation which he may be serving.

LEO TOLSTOY

Tolstoy is dead. He died as he lived, at war with conventions and conditions. Born to the Russian nobility, he sipped deep of every cup that passion draws in what is probably the most artificial and fleshly social circle in the world; then turned and set the tide of his genius to producing a series of novels that remain today the most scathing arraignment of the corrupt higher social life that this generation has known. He had been to the bottom, and his superlative power as a writer enabled him to take his readers there also. Hugo walked his hero through the underground sewers of Paris. Tolstoy wafted the gondola of romance through a network of sewers that topped the ground, where beauty without virtue and money without cost, breed a life that is unreal, unnatural and unsated save in the deepest soundings of sin. In the restlessness of his own striving soul, when life appeared a horrible phantasm, whose only waking lay in death, he prepared a rope to hang himself. But before the fatal noose was drawn, he found in religion the starting point of saner and safer living. When all the world was paying tribute to his genius he startled it by announcing his determination to live a life of complete altruism. He refused to take compensation for the books that were the product of his genius, laid aside the habits and the habiliments of his class, garbed himself as a peasant mended his own shoes, tilled his own soil and ate only the food that was the customary reward of such endeavor. That his family carefully conserved and absorbed the publishers' profits which he eschewed and that he ate his peasant's gruel at a dinner table furnished forth with the choicest productions of a Parisian chef, his rough garb staged in high contrast amid the dining clothes of sons and daughters and their guests adorned in all the brilliancy and variety which exotic taste and abundant wealth could suggest, gave to his attempted altruism a comic touch which should not be allowed to detract from the evident earnestness of a great man.

Tolstoy was accounted the freest man in Russia, one who dared to advocate the cause of the peasant against all the world and yet escaped those measures of repression freely resorted to by a government which remains today practically what Talleyrand called it—an absolute monarchy tempered by assassination. Tolstoy was supremely great as a writer and supremely great in the sympathy of a heart which itself had suffered for that great class whose daily groaning went up before him but whose sufferings, with all his attempted comprehension of it, he could never hope to fully sound. But it was not to be expected that at the same time he would be a practical man. In many respects, with all his genius, he was insular. His knowledge was of Russia and of the Russian heart, but his comprehension of the world at large, its problems and its progress, is held by reviewers of today to have been sadly limited. His latter days were made unhappy by differences with his wife, by bickerings amongst those who were bound to him by other ties of blood and affection, and by a certain contrariness of spirit, in which we behold him flee from home to the secrecy of a monastery and from the monastery still away from those whom he might have been expected to seek in the hours of dissolution.

That sickness overtook him in a mountain railway station, that in his helplessness he was ministered to at last by the wife who had cared for him for years much as a mother cares for a petulant child, that in the hour of death he was loyal to the religious faith which had made his latter life possible and that there in the inaccessible mountains the life of an old man went slowly out while seven continents watched from his bedside—this is the dramatic and stupendous stage setting in which Tolstoy played out the last scene of his life.

What made him great? In what does his genius lie? Why does the world cling to him when an old man, broken in body, haggard in spirit and shattered in the prime of his life, lays down his grey wrinkled head to die?

Was it not because of his sincerity? The world believed that Tolstoy believed his own doctrine, and it honored his genius that could so consecrate itself to the service of an ideal, even though the ideal itself be one of which the world at large wist not.

It is our custom to receive quarterly reports from every Brotherhood organization. Elsewhere in this magazine will be noted a summary of facts gleaned from several scores of these reports. We invite any man who is doubtful of the value of the Brotherhood as a coefficient in church work to scan these gleanings.

What Our State Brotherhoods are Doing accordance with the General Brotherhood plan of building the Local Brotherhoods of each State into an autonomy, which should be the expression of the Brotherhood work within the State, and to plan and supervise its own activities. The Brotherhoods have been organized in every State where the number of Local Brotherhoods warranted it. It was to be expected that in the first year, these organizations might grope somewhat and find their way whereunto they were called, but the General Brotherhood has insisted upon the organization at least as a potential

The State Brotherhoods have supervised the arrangements for State Brotherhood Conventions and have worked faithfully to secure a large attendance of them. Notable success in this regard was achieved by the State Brotherhoods of New York, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Texas, Washington and Southern California. This year, as was to be expected, the organizations are manifesting a higher degree of enthusiasm and a clearer knowledge of what they are to do and a greater amount of initiative that is gratifying to the extreme.

The Ohio State Brotherhood issued a letter to the men of every church in the State, recommending, first, that each Brotherhood study the needs of its local community and stated that to this end it would be a great help to have some Brotherhood Days, suggesting that every fifth Sunday in any month be observed as Brotherhood Day. It was proposed that a good way to observe this would be to let the men have charge of the morning service, taking up some theme or need that would appeal to the men in the resolution, and that in the evening an evangelistic service for men only be held and that at one or both of these services an offering should be taken, one-half of which should go to the Local Brotherhood and one-half to the State Committee, to enable that committee to prosecute the work it had been asked to assume.

Second, that for this year, at least, the thing which all of the Brotherhoods of the State should emphasize is the enlisting of young men for the ministry.

The advantage of affiliation of the Local Brotherhoods with the National Organization was urged in the following language:

"Much good will come to Local Brotherhoods by affiliating with the National Organization and the National Organization needs all the encouragement and aid possible from Local Brotherhoods. Therefore, we urge the affiliation of all organized Brotherhoods with the National body."

The communication enclosed a card for reply and report of existing Men's organizations. The responses to these were gratifying in the extreme. Within fourteen days one hundred responses to the letter had been received. Twenty-two churches say they will observe the Brotherhood Days and fourteen are not yet decided. This is really remarkable. When before did any State Secretary get a hundred replies to five hundred letters in fourteen days? This alone justifies the value of the State Organization. They can get closer to the local groups than any other body and will do the work with a finer realization of Christian solidarity and therefore, with a greater degree of economy and efficiency.

And this communication is not to be interpreted as a mere flash in the pan. These letters will be succeeded by vigorous follow up work, and the Ohio Committee will devote itself very largely to personal visitation. President M. E. Baker, of Hiram, has already made it possible to visit numerous Brotherhoods within the State and has arranged dates for Field Secretary Shellenberger. The members of the Ohio State Committee and others with whom they are in touch, hold themselves ready to do organization work at any time when the occasion arises, and they are thus, by vigorous campaigning, making the occasions. What a glorious thing if the Ohio State Committee can report a hundred Brotherhoods organized at the Portsmouth Convention and a score of volunteers for the ministry from the ranks of the consecrated young men of our Ohio churches.

The Ohio State Committee consists of M. E. Baker, Hiram, President; H. H. Pounds, Cleveland, Vice-President; William Spanton, Akron, Secretary; Lee F. Graybill, Massillon, Treasurer, and the directors are W. S. Goode, Lakewood, Chairman; T. L. Lowe, Columbus; E. J. Meacham, Portsmouth; J. O. Kemp, Mansfield, and Dr. C. J. Richards, Toledo.

New York is also stirring in the same practical and effective way. S. B. Lindsay, State President, is out in a letter to every church in New York with two slogans, first, "A Brotherhood in Every Church," and second, "Definite Work for Every Brotherhood."

The first definite work he proposes for Brotherhoods is in behalf of New York State Missions. He urges that State Day, November 6th, be observed and that in the event of any failure to reach its apportionment that the Brotherhoods undertake a campaign to meet the deficiency. He suggests that this be accomplished by a big missionary rally on Thanksgiving day. "Now is the time to act," he says, "Strike while the iron is hot. New York State has the honor of being one of the first States to recognize the place of Christian men in the church and to attempt their organization for effective service. This was under the title of the 'Men's League,' which was changed in the last convention to Men's Brotherhood of the State of New York."

The responses to this appeal were encouraging and the written letter is being followed up by the personal effort of President Lindsay and Vice-President Kirby and the other members of the Executive Committee of the New York State Brotherhood. Under date of November 18th, he writes "I expect to write out another letter early in the week and will send you a copy. We are getting our State literature and expect to bring it to the Jubilee Convention here (Buffalo) in June and our motto is 'Every Man for the Brotherhood.' This will be on the letterhead in prominent type."

This sounds like business, doesn't it, and the sound is not a mere imitation. It doesn't come from a phonograph but from the lungs of a real man and the letters are not signed with a rubber stamp. They are not marked "Dictated but not read." They have behind them the force and strength of men who have seen a vision of a new Jerusalem and are determined to bring that vision down to earth and support it on the shoulders of the allied men of the Church of Christ. We regret that we are unable to call on the names of the New York State Brotherhood officers other than those mentioned.

And these are only some of the Brotherhood activities which we recognize not only because of their importance to the movement, but because of their suggestive value to other similar organizations. Nor are New York and Ohio alone in such activities. C. M. Pinner of Oklahoma, is already at work on a campaign to bring six hundred men to the State Brotherhood Convention at Enid, next year. The State Brotherhood of Nebraska of which H. J. Packer, of Beatrice, is President and J. Mangum, of Omaha, is Secretary, had an important committee meeting on November 15th, report of which we expect to give to our readers in the next issue of the magazine. C. N. Kinney, President of the Iowa State Brotherhood; H. T. Swift, Illinois; H. J. Hall, of Indiana; Paul Moore, of Missouri, are among the State Presidents who are always busying themselves in behalf of the Brotherhood, while out in the great Northwest, Frank Nase, who is a director of the National Brotherhood and we believe President of the West Washington Brotherhood, is nursing a plan to have a Brotherhood in every important church in his diocese before the next State convention.

A Tri-Cities Brotherhood

The small church needs a men's organization fully as much as the large one, but the difficulties are greater; for there is inspiration in numbers, and the same is usually true as well. In the Monica Bay district we have three churches, no one of which has a membership of as many as one hundred, and the idea of sustaining three local Brotherhoods seemed impossible. But to go from Ocean Park to Sawtelle (the two towns) takes only twenty minutes on the car; and the idea of having one tri-city organization was evolved. A well-attended banquet with a good speaker from abroad, and shorter talks by men from each town, brought out about fifty men and the organization was completed.

Then it did not do what such things sometimes do; it did not die; nor is it going to. Meetings are held monthly in each town in turn, President, Secretary, and Treasurer are elected without restriction as to place, but three vice-presidents are chosen, one from each locality. Only such standing committees are appointed as can actually be used, and so far as practicable representation upon them is given to all three communities. Such a plan as this may be adopted in many places where small churches are near together; aside from the benefits that such an organization always brings, this plan serves to cement the sympathies of the different congregations together, and that is no small item. At the last meeting a new plan was instituted; at the close of the program, all brought their chairs into a circle, and the discussion was carried on informally, while two big bags of apples gradually disappeared. Next time it may be peanuts, or pop corn, or something else, but never anything elaborate. That ought to appeal to any man.

J. L. LOBINGIER.

Ocean Park, Cal.

Brotherhood Success

That Brotherhood has succeeded which has planned carefully, operated wisely, and executed precisely; which has gained the respect of men and kept it; which has striven to fill its niche and accomplish its task; which has made the church better than it ever was, nor stopped there; that has never failed to appreciate the value of leadership nor to utilize it. The life of such an organization is an inspiration, and its very presence a benediction.

Report of Assistant Secretary E. E. Elliott

To the Second Annual Convention of the General Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ:

Herewith the statistical report of your organization for the twelve months ending October 1, 1910. During our first year our energies were largely directed toward giving the movement publicity. Our second year has been centered more on the local organization, and hand to hand work in the local churches. This has necessitated much exhaustive work, the fruits of which have not as yet been gathered to the fullest extent and probably will not be for years to come.

Much seed sown by your SEED SOWING Secretaries, cannot be reflected in a statistical report. Let us understand in the beginning, also, that the results of our labors for this movement probably never can be registered numerically as can the labors of our other societies organized for profit, to use a business term, while the efforts of the Brotherhood movement will be found reflected in the results of the work of all our societies; namely, Foreign and Home Missions, Church Extension, National Benevolent Association, Ministerial Relief, and the local church organizations almost without exception, for the Brotherhood movement advocates first of all allegiance to the local church work, and pastors and laymen alike say without reservation, where Local Brotherhoods exist, that a more efficient administration of local church affairs obtains by reason of the Brotherhood organization. All of our National Secretaries acknowledge this movement as a tremendous force in lifting the burden of their work in the local church.

Then let us realize that the figures follow are not a complete reflection of the activities of the movement during the year, but that coupled to this must be the grand reports of our other societies heretofore submitted to the Convention, which our movements contributed to a great degree.

CORRESPONDENCE During the two years we have organized throughout the country 258 Local Brotherhoods, on the basis of the model constitution. We have carried on correspondence with 6,000 different people in every State in the United States and many foreign countries, regarding organizations, and have circulated more than 150,000 pieces of literature regarding the work of organization. We have received at our office in Kansas City during the year about 18,000 separate communications inquiring about the movement, which is an average of fifty inquiries per day, all of which demand prompt and complete reply, necessitating much labor on the part of the office and Secretaries.

Of the 258 Brotherhoods organized, ninety organizations have affiliated with the National Organization; there are approximately 5,000 Local Brotherhood members, and in the 168 unaffiliated organizations which are keeping in touch with the General Office by using our programs and by correspondence looking toward affiliation, there are approximately 15,000 men, making in all at this time about 20,000 men who are in touch with the movement by direct organization. Each day is bringing some of them within the fold of the National Brotherhood.

During the year the circulation of CHRISTIAN magazine has been increased (as to many hundreds of friends throughout the land) to the magnificent number of 21,000 paid subscribers, an increase in one year of 12,000. We hope to again double the list in the coming year, and with the coöperation of our pastors and during this year, we believe that not only possible but very probable. The Circulation Manager of the magazine is to enlist the coöperation of every member within the Church of the Disciples by placing a copy of CHRISTIAN in the hands of every man in every congregation. Nothing you could do would be of such tremendous benefit to your local work as getting your men reading our magazine. We have an arrangement whereby Bible classes may receive CHRISTIAN MEN in quantities, all at one address, and pay for quarterly, at very low club rates we are making. We have issued during the year 179,000 individual copies of CHRISTIAN MEN, containing 9,308,000 pages of up-to-date material relating to work of men in the church, and the demand for copies has exceeded the supply each month, to such extent that we are unable to supply orders for magazines in many instances several days after the issue has been placed in the mails. If the pages of CHRISTIAN MEN had been placed together, end to end, they would make a trail of white paper 90 miles long.

The matter of presenting the Brotherhood story from the pulpit and platform, our Secretaries have addressed in the year more than 300 gatherings of men, ranging from the great

State conventions of men in the great Central States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois,

Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas, where the attendance of laymen was notable and grand, to the local church gatherings of twenty-five to three hundred men. In this way we have been able to reach many thousands of men, who have been filled and thrilled with the Brotherhood idea, and have gone about the formation of a local Brotherhood in their local churches. The Brotherhood Movement has also been presented from State Convention platforms by others than our own Secretaries. R. A. Doan, of Nelsonville, Ohio, and R. Lee Bussabarger, of Maine; E. W. Allen, of Cincinnati; J. O. Shelburne, of Texas; F. W. Burnham, of Illinois; W. E. M. Hackleman, of Indiana; Arthur Holmes, of Philadelphia, and others whose names we do not at this moment recall, have spoken in behalf of the movement and we are finding leading men more and more anxious to know about the work, and, when once informed, they take hold enthusiastically to further the interests of the movement.

We are getting the ears of the laymen as no movement every attempted by the Disciples of Christ has ever done before. We find our men are eager to take up the work outlined in the model constitution, and are only waiting until the opportunity is offered them to take hold of the work in real earnest.

During nine months Mr. Shellenberger has traveled 30,000 miles, the General Secretary has traveled 25,000 miles, and your Assistant Secretary, who is supposed to stay at home and look after the affairs of the office, has traveled 10,000 miles, and, while not a public speaker, has delivered fifty addresses on the Brotherhood, to the very best of his ability. This makes a total of 65,000 miles traveled by our Secretaries.

We realize, brethren, that the results of this movement during the year cannot be measured by pounds of paper and printers' ink, nor by the thousands of miles traveled by our Secretaries, but this is an indication that your servants have covered the territory, and made the impression of the movement in the widest possible manner.

During the year we have issued 100,000 separate communications, letters, telegrams, etc., and 50,000 special circular letters, regarding the work of the Brotherhood, 6,000 of these communications being to ministers exclusively, the remainder being addressed to Brotherhood members, subscribers to the magazine, laymen and ministers alike.

EQUIPPED FOR BUSINESS

The General Office has an equipment commensurate with the growing organization, and is prepared to handle with dispatch all the business necessary to carry on the work of the organization. We have issued 10,000 copies of the model constitution adopted at the Pittsburgh Convention, 5,000 copies of the tract, "How to Organize a Local Brotherhood," and thousands of circulars relating to special phases of the work. We have begun to issue tracts on the movement, and 10,000 copies are just now off the press. These will receive a very wide circulation, and are of the instruc-ive sort. We have assembled all literature in a package, which we send by mail for 15 cents in stamps. We hope many of our men will call at the booth at the entrance and carry home a package of the organization material. All men who are not subscribers to the magazine are urged to not only subscribe themselves here and now, but all are urged to send us clubs of subscribers after you return home. If you are men in Bible Classes, you will find it better than to get them to using the magazine for the Bible lesson helps. Anything you can do would help so tremendously as this.

Finally, when we sum up the labors of the year, we believe you will agree with us that the work has been done well, that the advancement of the Brotherhood movement has been steady; the plan of management sane and sensible, and that a result in dollars and cents will never be reflected in the Brotherhood report, but rather will be and is appearing in the reports of our other societies. The numerical growth of the Brotherhood is not what it ought to be, or what our officers had hoped to report at this meeting, but with your assistance, cooperation and sympathy during the coming year, we hope to make our present predictions a reality.

Faith by Our Works

An Address Delivered at the Topeka Convention by J. K. Shellenberger, Field Secretary

Two years ago the hour struck and the method was born. In these two years relations have been laid. Experiments have been made; lines of tendency have been set; some things have been done; the possibilities are only beginning to be realized.

EFFACING The Brotherhood, undesignedly perhaps, is one of the most self-effacing organizations among the Disciples. It is not our ambition to be able to report large amounts of money gathered from churches into the Brotherhood treasury. Ideally, the Brotherhood will fruit the giver's treasuries. The supreme ambition of the Brotherhood is to be able to get the enlistment of men in the building of the Kingdom of God in every nook and corner of the earth. There is a time when the Brotherhood has awakened the men of the churches to the seriousness of this task and our Foreign Mission offerings thereby have been multiplied by two and five and ten; when our missionary offerings have been increased so that there is neither hill nor plain all the land that does not echo the echo with the preaching of the Gospel of Christ; when we no longer have any houseless and homeless and starving congregations; when our old and tired women and orphan children are no longer homeless and heartless; when children and adolescent and crippled men and women are seriously studying the Bible; when civic standards have been made perpendicular and legislatures issue Christian laws; when sin has been cleansed of lust, and the soul has been redeemed; when all these things and ten thousand others which men are capable of doing and ought to do, are done, then shall we feel that the purpose of the Brotherhood has been reached and our vision has been realized.

This is the work of the Kingdom. This is the work which, without men, cannot be done. The call of the Brotherhood is to men, men of means, men of talent, men of strength, men of heart.

The Brotherhood has joined hands with the Laymen's Missionary Movement. In February last it issued an appeal through the magazine in behalf of men and missions. More than fifty Local Brotherhoods observed the Foreign Missionary Program by studying the needs and possibilities of the field. We have no way of finding out, nor is it our ambition to determine, the financial effect of these studies upon our Foreign missionary offerings. However, we do not hesitate to say that the men of the local field were inspired to increased offerings. What has been true of Foreign Missions and the Brotherhood is also true of American Missions, Church Extension, State Missions and our Benevolences. A few Brotherhoods are aspiring unto living links and the time is ripening when their numbers shall be multiplied.

The Brotherhood within the past two years has exemplified the possibilities of Christian Union, as has been wrought out at North Omaha, Neb., and at Rolling Prairie, Ind.

CHRISTMAS BASKETS

It has extended the sympathetic life of men. In one city of six thousand inhabitants in the East, on Christmas of 1909 there was not a family in all that town that was not made happy through the instrumentality of the Brotherhood. It is extending fraternal aid along all social and business lines, as is exemplified by the employment bureau of Newark, Ohio, managed by the Brotherhood, and of the commercial aid that is being rendered by the Brotherhood at Elkhart, Ind.

DIGNIFIES

CHURCH BUSINESS

The Brotherhood is dignifying the business of the church. In one city it has taken charge of the finances of the church. The Brotherhood sees to it that not a missionary offering goes by unobserved, that the pastor's salary is paid every Monday morning, that the church building is kept clean and in repair. Its business is carried on as methodically as that of a bank.

The Brotherhood has built mission churches. Every reader of our periodicals is already aware of the splendid and wonderful feat of the Peoria Brotherhood in building a church in one day. In another meeting, called at night, they met and made the seats for that same building. At Newark, O., they are paying a $2,000 debt.

In another city of 100,000 in the East the Brotherhood has constituted itself into an Ushers' Committee and have taken upon themselves to do anything that is a man's work in the conduct of the church and the building of the Kingdom. Another has organized a men's chorus of forty voices for evening service.

PERSONAL EVANGELISM

The Brotherhood is becoming adept in Personal Evangelism. In one Local Brotherhood of a Northern city the men took for their slogan, "One Booze Fight for Every Week." Up to the time the Field Secretary visited them, the Brotherhood had made good; and on Sunday that he was with them strong, stalwart men made the good confession. One month before, four of these men had been in the gutter. They came that morning casting themselves at the feet of Jesus with hot tears scattering their way down the lines of dissipation deep-set in their sunburned faces. glory of Brotherhood Evangelism is that men are not satisfied with simply adding a man's name to the Brotherhood Bible Class roll, but their highest ambition is to save that man from his sin and unto the glory of God.

The Brotherhoods are beginning social campaigns in the interests of the church. The writer has had several insistent requests to hold two or three weeks' meetings for men only. Some of them are holding downtown meetings on Sunday afternoons in vacant store rooms or in theater buildings and have been successful in winning men unto Jesus Christ who otherwise never enter the church.

SOCIALIZING MEN

The Brotherhood is socializing its men. Brotherhood men are becoming acquainted with each other from the standpoint of the church. The Brotherhood is making the Church of God the social center of its men. Instead of the lodge room, the club room or the Board of Trade being the pivotal point upon which men's lives are turning, the Brotherhood is trying by little making a place for itself in the lives of men so that these men's lives revolve about the Christ and the purposes of His Kingdom. These Brotherhood men are finding that their deepest, noblest, most heart-swelling emotion is produced by their association with the Christ and Christ purposes. The ing that their very best and sweetest es of life come from their centralizabout the Man of Galilee.

TO VENTIONS ventions. The Brotherhood is bring- ing men by the hundreds to our State and National d at the Texas Convention this year, at the Iowa Convention, 500 at the io Convention, 300 at Illinois Conven-i, 300 at Nebraska Convention and at the Missouri Convention, and in er States proportionate numbers.
ese men heard for the first time many the appeals that are constantly made m convention platforms and they saw ew vision in all of its whiteness and all of its brightness beckoning them a higher life and unto a deeper consetion.

ANS UP
UNCILS
The Brotherhood is training men in civic righteousness.
In an Ohio city a Local Brotherhood was the leader in voting a of 10,000 dry. When the National organization came into being they affiliated mediately. Later on the saloon forces ought the fight to turn again the town k to whiskey and hellishness. Once re the Brotherhood men led the fight l won for God. A few months later a ounty local option was sprung and the ae Brotherhood with the same leaders n the fight once more with a thrilling majority. And finally came the fight for ar enforcement in the county seat. This ae Brotherhood went to the front once re and led in the victory that placed apreacher in the mayor's office and ected a council six-sevenths Christian, wo appointed policemen every one of om were Christian men.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS

In a Northern Indiana city our Local Brotherhood led in a federated movement.
On a Sunday afternoon they called the citizens of the city together. In thirty minutes' time $5,000 were raised for aggressive work. The sheriff was called upon to make arrests. He pled his inability and said that it would take fifty deputies to do the work that he was asked to do. In fifteen minutes' time fifty Brotherhood men volunteered to enlist in his service and before the sun went down that night ten blind tiger keepers and nine Sunday theater managers were arrested, and in less than two weeks the city of 25,000 had been cleansed of its illicit grog shops, its poker dens and Sunday theaters.

SPIRITUALITY The Brotherhood is developing the spirituality of men. In an Eastern Ohio city 150 men bound themselves together to pray for special things; and the leader of these men says, "That with these men praying as they are, there is nothing that ought to be done in this community that cannot be done."

RECRUITING THE MINISTRY

The Brotherhood is enlisting recruits for the ministry. Last January it issued a call to the pastors throughout the land. Three hundred sermons were preached urging young men to offer themselves to the ministry, and as a result fifty-four young men laid their lives upon the altar.

BOYS' WORK

The Brotherhood is giving its attention to the care of the boy. In a Southern Ohio city a gymnasium and reading room have been placed in the basement, shower and plunge baths, etc. Everything is put therein to make a boy have a good time and then in addition to that the Brotherhood has given them a leader to direct the boys in team work. Need I tell you that in this Sunday-school every Sunday morning the gallery of that great church is filled with boys with their bright, smiling and mischievous faces. These boys have learned that the Church of Christ can give them more happiness than all the world outside.

AWAKENING MEN TO POSSIBILITIES

The Brotherhood is thus awakening the men to their possibilities. They are beginning to see that the new testament idea of love is not a sentimental namby-pambyism, but a real heart-to-heart and hand-to-hand fellowship. Men of the Brotherhood are beginning to realize that the problems of humanity are not many, but one; that no man can suffer without exciting in some measure the sympathy of his brother at the end of the earth. Brotherhood men are beginning to realize that the Kingdom of Heaven is not yet, nor can it ever be, while the few are happy and the many are unhappy; while the few are hale and the many ill; while the few are rejoicing and the many are mourning; while the few are shouting and the many are cursing. The Brotherhood is beginning to give men a sense of the meaning of its name and they are becoming conscious that Jesus' idea of Brotherhood includes not only the classes but the masses; that all men are my brethren and your brethren; that Jesus died for all men—for the man in the shop and the man with the pick and shovel, for that man that lives in the mansion on the hill and in the hovel in the slum, for the man that lives in the Mississippi Valley, in the vastness of the Rocky Mountains or in the heights of the Himalayas—all men, regardless of condition, purposes, race or color; that Jesus Christ loves all men equally; his fondest dream was a real Brotherhood.

The Brotherhood is becoming conscious of the infinite possibilities of life. It sees that Jesus Christ's coming to earth was a necessity, had never a sin been committed; that it was necessary for the Divine Man, the very essence of divinity, exuding the perfumes of the Heavens themselves, to meet men whether sinful or righteous and to point out to him the fact that eternity was waiting unto him; and that his possibilities of growth were universal and immortal. And unto such visions is the Brotherhood pointing men. I am convinced that in order for the Brotherhood to do its successful work it must ever keep before men this ever-consuming vision of eternal life and worldism. He who sees only from a utilitarian point of view aims low and falls short. Only he who realizes that the three score years and ten on earth are but the entrance into an immortal life and an eternity can do his best while passing here below. That vision of other-worldism it is which stirs the emotions, makes his blood run faster, his heart beat quicker and helps him to feel that the reward is worth the sacrifice no matter how great. Hence the Brotherhood is giving the men a reason for sacrifice, it is teaching them that it is the highest good to sacrifice simply for the sake of sacrifice; but it is making men feel that that which we call sacrifice is after all but giving up the lesser for the greater. It is teaching them that of means that to give of his material wealth to the advancement of the Kingdom is an eternal investment and his rate of interest to that which is impossible for his arithmetic to compute. It teaches the man of talent that in giving his talent to the Kingdom it yields eternal returns, and of so many for his multiplication table is not able to express it. It teaches the sorrowing man that his sorrow, as a righteous man, shall be again to return to him in crown of manhood and in eternal weight of glory. It teaches the struggling man that his efforts are not in vain and for time only, but in the interests of a character that shall weather the storms of the ages. It shall pass the test of death, and shall live forever.

RELEASING
PREACHERS The Brotherhood is releasing the preachers from the ceremonialism of priestcraft to the vision of the Prophet. Men are coming to realize that it is not the best investment to pay the pastor his salary and then compel him to turn himself merely into a technical Sunday-school booster or a prayer-meeting drummer, or the advance agent of a Ladies' Aid Society, etc., ad infinitum. They are realizing that this is the work that the membership of the church ought to be doing and are glad to do; that in all these lines lie the means and the possibilities of spiritual development of the membership of the church. The purpose of the pastor is that of the prophet. First, to feed the flock and, second, to lead the flock unto spiritual things. No man can be a leader who does not stand on high ground, whose head is not crowned with the sunshine and whose brow is not moistened with the clouds. No man can be a leader whose vision is not far-reaching, who does not stand high and untrammelled. No man can be a leader whose heart and soul are burdened with the responsibilities of prayer-meeting attendance, of Bible School mechanism or of women's organization machinery. Before the church will be able to take its place in the hearts of the masses, the pastor must be released from these things and the Brotherhood is seeing that necessity. In more places than one they are sending their pastor to the study and to the mountain tops. They are saying to him, "Go, climb the heights. Take with you, if you will, a young John or James or Peter, but go at least and sit beneath the overshadowing cloud and hear the voice of the Divine and bring back a message to us of transfigured glory." They are saying to this same pastor, "Go to the sick room, to the home of the dead and the dying; minister to the weak and the sorrowing, for there are the springs of deepest emotion as well as the heights of highest vision. Then come to us and give us, too, that same inspiration unto service and that same vision as inspiration."

UP TO THE HILLS

The Brotherhood is calling men to live on high ground. It is pleading with men to have ears trained to the voice of the Divine, that they may be able to hear the notes of that divine symphony which is being played about us at every hour. The Brotherhood believes that the modern prophet is as necessary as was the Isaiah of old. It is calling for men who can enter the legislative halls of the land and there on bended knee and with head uncovered catch a vision of the yawning chasm that lies between what is and what ought to be. It is calling for men who can enter the courts of our land and there again with bended knee and uncovered head catch a vision of the chasm that lies between what is and what ought to be. The Brotherhood is calling for men who can enter into the superintendents' offices of the great manufacturing interests of this land and there again on bended knee with uncovered head catch a vision of the chasm that lies between what is and what ought to be. The Brotherhood is calling for men who can enter into the offices of our commercialism and there again on bended knee with uncovered head catch a vision of the chasm that lies between what is and what ought to be. It is calling for men who breathe the atmosphere of heaven, who live translucent lives, whose hearts are clean, whose souls are white.

THE BEST OF THEM A'

When it seemed to the English that Lucknow was all but lost and that relief was impossible; when every nerve and every muscle was strained to its breaking point, Jessie Brown, who had been ministering to her comrades on the fighting line, fell fainting in the ranks. Her friend sat beside her nursing her head on her bosom and from sheer faintness both finally slept. All at once Jessie leaped to her feet and with wild shrieks began to call to the men, "Dinna you hear it?" Dinna you hear it? Courage, courage, my boys. Dinna you hear the slogan 'On to McGregor, for he is the best of them a'.'" But neither men nor friend heard that slogan and it was thought that Jessie had lost her reason for the moment. Her inspiration, however, had caught fire. The ranks and men fought with a tenacity and bleness that had not been known in any battle. Then disappointment began to filter down deep into the hearts of the men. Once more it seemed that the cause was surely lost and the officers themselves had said, "Only a little while and we must surrender." When all at once Jessie once more leaped forward and shouted, "Dinna you hear it? Dinna you hear it? No longer the slogan, but Bagpipes and Campbells are coming. The firing ceased and every ear listened and sure enough the famous Scotch regiment was marching to their relief. Jessie Brown had lived in the highlands and her ear had been trained to hear the call of the Highlanders' slogan amid all the tumult and roar of the battle. So the Brotherhood is appealing to men of the ranks, to climb up to the hills with God, to live upon the highlands, so that no matter how hot the battle may become, how great the tumult and deafening the roar, their trained ears shall always be open and sensitive to the slogan, "On to the Man of Galilee, He is the best of them a'."

Brotherhood Bible Class, Eugene, Ore., First Church

A Tale of Two Cities

Chapter 2

By HOWARD SPANGLER

The Second Installment on How the Bible Schools of Akron and Canton, Ohio, Knocked Out the Summer Slump

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Last month Mr. Welshimer told the story from the viewpoint of Canton, the winner of the contest. This month Mr. Spangler gives the view from the "Tiptop City."

The Sunday-School situation in Akron is peculiar. There were some thirty-five Sunday-Schools which were more or less active members of the County Sunday-School Association. Superintendents of these schools had formed a Superintendents' Association, which was but a nominal organization. With the exception of the largest three none of our schools had ever conducted a systematic campaign for an increased membership and attendance.

The Superintendents are a fine set of men, but a lack of definite knowledge of Sunday-School methods handicapped them.

On the whole it is my opinion that the Sunday-school situation in Akron is not unlike that in any other city of its size and character.

Facing these conditions and hopeful that some of the above named possible results might be achieved, the Superintendents' Association named a committee of three to meet Canton's representatives and fix the conditions of the contest. This action was taken on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday the two committees met and framed the conditions, which were, that the contest should be an attendance only, that every school in both cities should stop counting at least one-half hour before the close of the session, and that reports should be exchanged by 'phone at one o'clock each Sunday. On Sunday, May 1st, the contest opened, to continue until the last Sunday in August, the grand total attendance for the eighteen Sundays to determine the winner.

Only three days remained after the joint-committee had met to organize the city for the first clash. The services of the Secretary of the Summit County Sunday-School Association were secured, and an office was opened in the Y. M. C. A. Building. Each Superintendent was notified by letter of the contest and of the time and place to report his school's attendance. The joint conditions were published in the daily press.

The first Sunday the Contest Secretary received the reports at the Western Union Telegraph office, where both phones were available. Twenty-five schools reported their attendance between the hours of eleven and one. The operators said reports came in even the next day from Superintendents who had forgotten. The first Sunday's result when published in Monday's papers was a surprise to many. The workers were aroused and made inquiries to find if their school had been reported. The Superintendents who had not returned reports were visited. Letters were written to them, and telephone reminders spoken. The second Sunday thirty-three schools sent in their reports. Five of the first twenty-five were missing which meant more work for the Secretary. Meanwhile Canton had piled up a lead of over 2,600. On the third Sunday forty-four Akron Sunday-schools made a report. Akron was over 700 ahead for the day, and everybody was in good spirits. From this time on reports were received from our full quota of schools, with an occasional exception.

Interest in the contest was maintained by press notices. The papers were quite willing to print all the Sunday-school Contest news that could be furnished. Every Monday the report of the previous day was published, together with the total to date. Comments were made regarding gains and losses. Any school reporting a large increase over the week before was mentioned by name. Each week a Roll of Honor was published. This was a list of those schools that reported an increase over the Sunday previous. Several schools kept their place on the roll for four to six consecutive weeks, which is an enviable record for any school in mid-summer.

Teachers' meetings were attended by the Secretary. Every Sunday one or more Sunday-school sessions were visited. At every opportunity the Secretary presented the contest before the school. The newspaper paragraphers constantly commented on the contest.

During July the Akron schools steadily gained on Canton. Once only 802 points separated the two cities. On a normal Sunday Akron could beat Canton, but Canton always won on the Special Days. They knew how to get the biggest results from a certain amount of effort. They possessed the ability to put every one to work, a knack gained in previous contests. Akron was experiencing what Canton had passed through a half dozen years ago. One of the Akron superintendents quoted Peter the Great, who said to his soldiers when discouraged by the constant defeats, "We must learn how to fight from our enemies."

The Superintendents' Association held regular meetings, with special meetings thrown in. The contest was always on the program. The ministers mentioned it in the pulpit.

A big rally that Canton held early in August and which increased their lead by more than 3,000 stirred all Akron. Lucretia was in danger of being snowed under. Her very honor was at stake. The superintendents met in a special session and called a mass meeting of workers. A vigorous campaign was waged and Akron Sunday-schools took school were alive to the situation. On the last Sunday but one was Akron's by 1,000. Canton had a lead of 5,700.

The last week the news columns were filled with contest matter. The advertising columns were used each night. Window cards were placed in the store windows. Even the bill-boards carried 6x10 invitations to attend Sunday-school on the last Sunday. The result was the largest attendance Akron ever knew, 287 people in forty-six Sunday-schools. Canton's attendance was 13,924 on the same day. Her majority for the eight Sundays was 7,337.

Canton won the contest on the deciding point at issue—attendance, but Akron was not without its victory. Akronwarded off its "summer slump." One school had an attendance in August thirty per cent better than in January. Every school had a larger attendance than during the summer previous. Akron put its superintendents together into an enthusiastic and helpful organization. Akron put the Sunday-school before its citizens as never before, weak schools were invigorated. One school was growing smaller each week. The Secretary dropped in one morning and found scholars in charge of a sleepy Assistant Superintendent. A spirited call to arms aroused the school and brought out 200 the next Sunday. Akron found its Sunday-school strength and received an inspiration to increase it. Akron learned how to push its Sunday-schools and secured a vision of the Sunday-school possibilities in the "Tip Top City."

The Field Secretary in Eastern Pennsylvania

During the month of September, our Field Secretary, J. K. Shellenberger, made a very interesting trip to Eastern Pennsylvania and a part of West Virginia, the account of which crowded out of the October magazine. The matter, however, is so interesting that we are able to give it to our readers, even at this late date, believing they will understand the agencies under which a monthly publication in limited space is oftentimes compelled to work.

SCRANTON CONVENTION

It was an enthusiastic gathering into which we dropped on the afternoon of September 8th, at Scranton, Pa. The Auditorium was well filled and the people were settling the saloon problem once and for all. M. S. Spear, the new pastor at Dunmore, was painting the vision and all were saying "Amen." As the Secretary listened he said to himself, "What splendid enthusiasm this church inspires. We see the vision and attempt the realization. Failure follows, but, nothing daunted, we try again. None but the church of the living God could fight and seem to fail and keep on fighting." Some day this land shall know the curse of the saloon more and it will be because the spirit kept the love of righteousness in the hearts of Brother Spear and his thousands of brethren when the battle was the hottest.

At the close of the afternoon session the Secretary was permitted to introduce the work of the Brotherhood and announce the six o'clock banquet. The ladies were fearful that not enough plates would be sold to pay expenses, but more than twice the number hoped for were sold and the banquet was a brilliant success. The spread? All we can say at present is "The Lord bless the Scranton women." It was a feast, daintily spread and served, and the speeches were no less tastily given. E. Sellers, of the First Church, Philadelphia, spoke on "The Value of Organized Manhood." He said: "The Brotherhood is no longer an experiment. It is here. It has been tested and found adequate. It is up to Pennsylvania to get in line and move with the ranks." And all the men said "Amen."

M. S. Spear told "Why I Am Organizing Christian Men," and the District Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League told of the "Power of Organized Manhood in Civic Righteousness." The Secretary gave a few minutes' talk "Some Things the Brotherhood Is Doing." Promptly, we adjourned to the Endeavor session. L. O. Knipp led the services. It was spiritual to an intense degree. Brother Knipp, pastor at Plymouth, Pa., and also holds the honor of being Interdenominational State President of the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor. For thirty minutes he led our devotions and then the Secretary gave an inspirational address on "Brotherhood Ideals and Purposes. Never was a message received more heartily than was this was. Calls for work in local churches became urgent. Pennsylvania is awake to Brotherhood work and will move forward with her usual determination. At Scranton C. E. Manley is the efficient pastor. He is faithful and is beloved by his people.

READING, PA.

Friday evening was spent with H. C. Weaver and his men, of the Reading Church. Few places can we find greater display of enthusiasm among the builders of the Kingdom than in Eastern Pennsylvania. Conservatism is rock-ribbed, but slowly these men of God are making their impression. The men of Reading had just organized a Local Brotherhood and were casting about for a constitution. They heard the story of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ and will adopt the Model Constitution. Reading will soon be in line.

PHILADELPHIA

Sunday, September 11th was spent with the First and Third churches of Philadelphia. At the Third Church where Brother Rutledge ministers, we found a wide-awake Brotherhood. G. W. Wisler is an enthusiastic president. The vacation season was just closing and the Fall campaign beginning. Brother Wisler and his men saw that there was a good attendance of men at the morning meeting. In the afternoon a men's rally was held. This was well attended and if a rapid fire of questions are any criterion, those men are vitally interested in Brotherhood work. The Third Church will be heard from this winter. They have a big field for operation and are men who are able to work their field. Sunday evening we sat at Brother L. E. Seller's table and then spoke from his pulpit. Sellers and his wife are delightful spirits. The Brotherhood message met a cordial reception from those present at the church. This was the first Sunday after vacation and the wheels had hardly begun to turn. Brother Sellers is anxious to start Brotherhood work with his men in the near future.

DUNMORE

Monday night found the Secretary back in the heights of the Wilkesbarre mountains. Dunmore is here—a suburb of Scranton. Here Brother M. S. Spear was just organizing a Men's Bible Class. The men put forth a noble front in the meeting and the ladies brought up the rear with refreshing refreshments. Dunmore's men will affiliate with the National Brotherhood and join hands with the five thousand others who have done so.

LEHIGH VALLEY

The Lehigh Valley is noted for its entrancing beauty—its views are panoramic and kinetoscopic, but is also noted for other things, such as coal, pumpkins and piety. One ride down this valley behind the anthracite engine and you will never question the religiousness of its people. A stranger begins to wonder where he is as he hears the brakeman call out, "Jerusalem!" "Jericho!" "Bethlehem!" "Nazareth!" "Egypt!" then suddenly drop to Allentown. A story is told in these parts of a fair Bible School teacher who asked her young Americans where Jesus was born. The class was stuck for a moment, then a hand shot up.

"All right, Benny," said the teacher. "Where was it?"

"Allentown!" shouted the little German.

"Oh, no," replied the teacher, "You know better than that."

Finally the class gave it up and at last the teacher said:

"Jesus was born in Bethlehem."

"Sure thing," said the boy, "I knew it was round here in the Lehigh Valley some place."

The people of this territory are religious. It is the unusual thing to find one who is not a church member. In Harrisburg we found a heroic band. We told the Brotherhood story to anxious ears. Brother J. M. Walters leading these people. They are solving the problems in a heroic way.

FAIRMONT, W. VA.

Wednesday found with the men of Fairmont, W. Va. Fairmont is a wide-awake town and our Brotherhood men are wide-awake men. They organized last February and have done good work even in vacation. Brother A. P. Jones the wide-awake president, is working at his job and his brethren are with him in his efforts. The pastor, I. N. Grisso, is enthusiastic with his men. This winter will produce a flourishing Brotherhood in Fairmont.

Once around and back to the little station in the mountains, a six hours' ride down the Elk River and we will be at the Charleston State Convention. Then we will meet O. White, the faithful Secretary of West Virginia, and a host of others.

The Charleston Convention is a thing of the past, a crowded house greeted the Secretary last night, and at the close of the meeting men were enthusiastic for the Brotherhood. Many were the requests to go to the local churches and organize their brethren. These requests we hope to answer when the convention season is over.

Shots From Shellenberger

Omaha

Oct. 20th.—L. B. D. C. No. 272, North Side Church, Omaha, is a jolly crowd. And they are just as serious as jolly. They have C. A. Mangum and his printing office as their enthusiastic booster. Mangum is seconded by about fifty of the most loyal men you ever met. No surprise, then, that this Brotherhood is succeeding.

Judge Slabaugh, of the First Church, spoke first on the "Advantages of Affiliation With the National Brotherhood." He said "As well talk of a local lodge severing itself from the grand lodge, or the local church refusing to co-operate with the larger Brotherhood and expect to do its best work, as for the local Brotherhood to try to live without affiliating with the National Brotherhood."

C. A. Mangum gave some impressions of the National Convention.

Then Field Secretary J. K. Shellenberger made his address.

The music was rich. "Everybody Works But Father" was parodied in solo until we saw "Father" working like a beaver for a Bible Class for men.

Two new members received the covenant.

Emporia

October 21st, at and on the Santa Fe Trail—Emporia, Kan., has a quiet but determined band of men. O. L. Smith is the pastor. They listened to the Brotherhood story with interest and asked many questions in their eagerness to learn more. Every man present took the covenant. Another meeting was set for next Friday night, when they are going to double their number and permanently organize. Every man present became a subscriber to CHRISTIAN MEN. These small beginnings have heretofore proven themselves prophecies of large things. Emporia will reverse the rule.

Mound City

October 23d.—The Field Secretary spoke at the Mound City Christian Church to a packed house. A good majority were men. The topic "The Tenth Amendment," which was the basis of the campaign for State-wide prohibition in Missouri. The men of Mound City are intensely in earnest regarding the fight for righteousness. J. W. Comstock, the pastor, is on high ground and he is honored for his clean cut convictions.

Galesburg

October 25th and forty-one men gathered at the First Church at Galesburg, Ill. J. Barnett is the pastor. E. F. Young is the President. He gave an account of the Waupeka Convention. His address was both interesting and instructive. The Field Secretary then addressed the meeting on the purposes and ideals of the Brotherhood. At the close of the address it was decided to take up regularly the programs printed in CHRISTIAN MEN. A Dutch lunch was the social feature. It consisted of coffee, doughnuts and wine. The service was stag and a la carte.

burg men are a manly set of fellows. They are planning larger things for the coming year than ever before.

Columbus

November 6th.—Political pot boiling. M. Baker, of Hiram, got here first. Baker is the leader. He knows every church in Columbus and.

Monday morning was spent at Fourth Avenue Church, T. L. Lowe, pastor. The house was filled. Thirty-six men took the covenant and the name of the local men's organization was changed on Monday night to Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ.

Monday afternoon found us with the Wilson brethren. Fifteen men present. They took the covenant and decided to affiliate their "Demon Club" with the National Brother-

Monday evening was spent with the Broad Street Church. H. Newton Miller is pastor. There are three Adult Men's Bible Classes in Broad Street Church. As a federation of men's classes a Brotherhood organization effected. Twenty-nine men took the covenant and a temporary organization was effected.

Monday evening was given to Chicago Avenue. The Men's Bible Class were having a business session. They invited the Secretary to meet with them and tell the Brotherhood. Fifteen men were present. Every man took the covenant and they voted to affiliate men's class with the Brotherhood.

St. Louis

November 15th.—What a splendid array of men Union Avenue, St. Louis, is able to marshal! About seventy-five were present. Paul Moore is the President. W. R. Warren, of Compton Heights; L. W. McCreary, of Hamilton Avenue, and M. Pittman, of East St. Louis, Landsdown Church, were there with some of their own men. B. A. Abbott is doing a successful work at Union Avenue. The meeting was full of interest and enthusiasm.

At the close of the meeting two great heaped up trays bearing Grimes Golden's were carried and we all had a free-for-all apple eat and a social time.

Shelbyville

November 16th.—W. L. Pinkerton has just closed a successful meeting here, but the men are not satisfied with being simply church members, so they wanted to hear about the Brotherhood. Forty-two men gathered at the banquet table. The Shelbyville band furnished the music. Eighteen men took the covenant and all caught a vision of larger service.

Brother L. Hulser is leading his people onward. The Christian Church is already a power in the community. With an efficient Brotherhood, to match their efficient C. W. B. M., the church will become a tower of strength.

1864

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY

INCORPORATED

25,000 OFFICES IN AMERICA.

CABLE SERVICE TO ALL THE WORLD

This Company TRANSMITS and DELIVERS messages only on conditions limiting its liability, which have been assented to by the sender of the following message.

Errors can be guarded against only by repeating a message back to the sending station for comparison, and the Company will not hold itself responsible for errors or delays in transmission or delivery of UNREPEATED MESSAGES, beyond the amount of tolls paid thereon, nor in any case beyond the FIFTY DOLLARS, at which, unless otherwise stated below, this message has been valued by the sender thereof, nor in any case where the claim is presented in writing within sixty days after the message is filed with the Company for transmission.

This is an UNREPEATED MESSAGE, and is delivered by request of the sender, under the conditions named above.

B. T. C. CLOWRY, PRESIDENT

BELVIDERE BROOKS, GENERAL MANAGER

RECEIVED AT

KS G.-----22.

41

PK Boston Mass Oct 17 1910

Elliott,

Care Brotherhood of Disciples Convention

Topeka Ks.

Dearest greetings so much held in common, so little in difference that against the foe and for the kingdom we are one

Congregational Brotherhood of America

016 A.M.

Wireless Whispers

L. B. D. C. No. 251, Rockford, Ill., published thirty issues of the church bulletins and contributed $50 to the budget during the past year.

One of the neat church papers coming to our desk is the Calendar, published at the First Christian Church, Rockford, Ill., where William B. Clemmer is minister. This is the home of L. B. D. C. No. 251.

A. C. Barbour, one of our most faithful members of Oregon, residing at Eugene, called at the Brotherhood office a day or two ago. He joins with all the Northwest in a hearty invitation to come to Portland in 1911.

An echo of the lost battle for State-wide prohibition in Missouri is the following song by Chas. McCubbin, of Nevada, Mo., which was sung to the tune of "Just When I Need Him Most."

Recently the Eugene Christian Bible School, of the First Church, carried off the honors at the athletic contest among the various churches of the city. In base-ball the first two games were tie. The third game was played on field meet day and was captured by our boys.

The Brotherhood is training men for elders and deacons who can and are able to lead. It is giving them a world-wide vision of the purpose and possibilities of the local church. It is doing for the men of the church what the C. W. B. M. has done for the women of the church.

O. E. Hamilton and Albert E. Buss are another enterprising team of Evangelists who use a Brotherhood organization as a powerful clincher to their Evangelistic work. It is their purpose to leave a Brotherhood organization behind them wherever they hold a meeting. Several other Evangelists have done this same thing and we see the results already in our work, and believes they do in theirs.

A copy of the Disciple, a weekly publication of the Lenox Avenue Church, New York City, William Craig, Editor, is at hand. Although the paper was established in January, 1896, this is the first we have seen. It is so good that our New York friends did not let it get as far West as Kansas City. The Disciple is a fine paper, filled with up to date information about the church at Lenox Avenue as well as the church universal.

Unique Plan for Getting Subscriptions to the Magazine

Give it to the Brotherhood of the church at Bellaire, Ohio, for the most unique plan yet getting subscribers to the magazine. A lecture was given on Monday evening, October 30, to men only, by the pastor, J. N. Scholes on "The Mystery of the Beginning," and a year's subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN was given to each ticket-holder, at half price. No admission was charged.

Brotherhood Banquet

The ladies of the South side served a banquet for the Brotherhood. It was dainty, delicious and sumptuous. The quartette—Messrs. Davis, Graves, Graybill and Long—flooded the room with cheerful and uplifting harmony. Brother Charles F. Oakley, pastor of the church at Mansfield, delivered one of the most clear-cut, comprehensive and spiritual addresses it has been a privilege to hear. Oakley should be heard on the Brotherhood problem.—Massillon Messenger, H. E. Stafford, Ed.

The Lenox Avenue Church, Disciples of Christ, New York City, does a good many business-like things. One of these is to publish each week a hectographed sheet of news releases mentioning the topics of the sermon for the succeeding day and any items of importance about our local and general work. These are sent to a list of editors in the city with a note which says: "If you can use any of the above items, please send marked copy to F. J. Jerome, 124 East 28th St., New York." A method like this will gain for a local church many columns of publicity in the course of a year that would not otherwise come. There is no boast nor boost about the matter, but real items of the kind most likely to get into print.

The Brotherhood and the Evening Services

The Brotherhood state committee has recommended that each local Brotherhood observe every fifth Sunday in every month that day, such as Brotherhood day, by taking charge of the services on that day either morning or night or both. Our Brotherhood has decided to observe the evening service and will take charge of the same. The men propose to take charge of everything, even the playing of the organ. A male chorus will lead the singing and there will be special addresses delivered on practical themes. Begin now to plan for service.—From the Massillon Messenger, Stafford, Ed.

Y. Donaldson, the new State Secretary
Missouri Missions, is getting into the harnicely. He has just issued to the Mis-constituency some facts about Missouri ons which are worthy of deep contempla-Missouri is a big State. Our church is tionally strong numerically and we doubt with the able leadership of Brother Don-and his co-workers that great things be accomplished for Missouri Missions.
next State Convention meets in Cape leau and every effort is being made to t the widest publicity in order to secure ge attendance. The Brotherhood move-will be given its proper share of the am and we appeal to our Brotherhood n Missouri thus early to get ready to go pe Girardeau several hundred strong.

al Brotherhood No. 273 is at Wooster, where Clarence S. Landers is the Presi-
J. W. Hooke, Vice-President; Hubert
Shellenberger, Secretary, and Otto Hertz-Treasurer. During the third quarter of they held four meetings with an average balance of twenty. The present members 38, and they have 40 men in the Bible
They held two social meetings with men in attendance. They made one to the sick and furnished fraternal aid case. They have 31 men wearing the erhood emblem and all of the men in Bible Class wearing the B. D. C. Bible button. Twenty of their men subscribe CHRISTIAN MEN. This is the home church eld Secretary J. K. Shellenberger and it ing great work under the sympathetic ion of Henry W. Schwan, the pastor.

The third installment of "Sunset Journeys," an account of the General Secretary's work on the Pacific Coast, died of appitis. The last account published told the visit with L. B. D. C. No. 266, of Ta-Wash. After that, there were inspirmeetings with the Brotherhoods of Seattle
Bellingham, in Washington; San Fran-Stockton, San Jose, Los Angeles, Glen-
Pasadena, Pomona, Riverside, and the tri-Brotherhood at Santa Monica-Sawtelle-Park, all in California, and meetings been arranged for at Covina and San e, when the secretarial appendix developed cute case of indisposition. After this three weeks in the hospital and a long,
his convalescence which is not yet com-ell. But we still have our appendix and not going to give it up without a struggle.
The visits mentioned were without doubt ng the most inspiring in the history of the al Secretary's experiences with Brother-work, and it is a matter of regret that assage of time and the impress of other is demanding space in the magazine have a impossible a detailed account of these o enjoyable occasions.

Just Now We Need Men Most

Just now we need men, time is most dear,
Men who'll not falter, men without fear,
Ready to help and ready to cheer,
Just now we need men most.

Chorus.

Just now we need men most, just now we need men most,
Missouri to clear of whiskey and beer,
Just now we need men most.

Just now we need men, men who are true,
Sacrifice making all the way through,
Counting no labor too hard to do,
Just now we need men most. (Chorus.)

Just now we need men, men who are strong,
Voting that right shall conquer wrong,
Voting that sorrow give place to song,
Just now we need men most. (Chorus.)

Just now we need men, answer the call,
Men who love country whate'er befall,
Vote for your homes, yes vote for them all,
Just now we need men most. (Chorus.)

When Mr. Long, the President of the Brotherhood, was on his European trip last summer, he was kind enough to remember a good many of his friends and employees in this country with gifts of different sorts. To each of the young ladies in the Wholesale Department of the Long-Bell Lumber Co., he sent a piece of Irish point lace. The thought of being remembered by their employer when so far away and with so many interests upon his mind, so touched the girls that one of them, Miss Mayme Weyer, was moved to express her feelings in rhyme. The little poem is given to our readers here, not so much because of its intrinsic worth, although it has merit, and not because it was Mr. Long's personality that called it forth, but because it is an example of very fine spirit obtaining between employer and employee, something which it is very difficult to keep up in the intensely complex development of modern corporation system.

DEAR MR. LONG:

Many a thought has followed you onward,
Out o'er the ocean, to lands afar,
Many a wish that through all your journey,
Never a shadow your joy should mar.

But now, like the birds who know their climate,
And return to their dear, remembered haunts,
Back to the "Homeland" your ship has glided,
Bringing you safely, this Autumn's dawn.

Every heart in the Long-Bell Company,
Bids you a welcome deep and true,
And especially the girls who enjoy the favor
Of being so sweetly remembered by you.

Your beautiful gift in itself we treasure,
But better,—it cheers our hearts to find
That even across the placid waters,
Amidst your pleasures you had us in mind.

The invitation of the Bellavben Bible Class for a recent Sunday reaches us on a handsome mailing card and reads as follows:

If You Are Interested
In
THE EFFICIENT LIFE
You should attend
DR. GERWIG'S PRACTICAL, INSPIRING AND TIMELY TALKS TO MEN.

Time—Sunday, 10 A. M.

Place—Bellavben Class Rooms, Bellevue Christian Church.

Subjects—Nov. 13th, "Ready."

Nov. 20th, "The Garden of Gethsemane."

Nov. 27th, "False Witnesses."

We heartily welcome every one who wishes to come.

You can help us just as much as we can help you.

No denominational restriction.

We are indebted to P. F. Hooper, Secretary of the Loyal Men's Class at Carlisle, Ind., for the following account of a banquet given by the pastor to the class:

On the evening of November 18th, Leonard V. Barbre, pastor of the church at Carlisle, gave a banquet to the members of the Loyal Sons' Bible Class, of which he is the teacher. S. D. Dutcher, of the Central Christian Church of Terre Haute, made the principal address of the evening. A year ago this class could scarcely muster fifteen. Now the enrollment is one hundred and with an average attendance of seventy. The aim of the class is to have 100 men present every Sunday studying the Bible. And it is bound to be reached, for the members are filled with enthusiasm for the work that is to be accomplished and such enthusiasm is infectious.

Last July the teacher told the class that a certain man, who wished his name withheld, would give a banquet to the class when it reached an enrollment of one hundred. The donor turned out to be the pastor and teacher, Mr. Barbre, and the affair was an enjoyable one in every way, one long to be remembered by the Loyal Sons.

Views of the Bible School Parade, at Topeka

Photo by Paul Moore

Massing for the Start before the Capitol Building

L. B. D. C. No. 272 is still doing things at the North Side Church, Omaha. The latest was on Sunday evening, November 6th, when they planned a big meeting for men. A neat folder was issued giving pictures of the male quartette and the pastor, H. J. Kirschstein, who was announced to preach especially on "The Man for the Hour." The folder carried on the back a picture of the Brotherhood organization, some fifty strong, and under it the legend "The Men Behind It." This folder, which is a very fine example of the printers' art, also carries the Brotherhood slogan, "All the Men of all the Church at all the Church's Work," and the Brotherhood motto, "A Man's Work in a Man's Way," together with the motto of the Local Brotherhood at Omaha, "The Men of Omaha for the Man of Galilee. This was prepared by the Brotherhood men in advance, and as a result was a glorious success. There were forty-five men in the chorus and twice as many in the demonstration. When it is recalled that this Brotherhood flourishes in a church which at the present time is without a home and worshiping in the home of the Plymouth Congregational Church, it is realized that these men, working under difficulties, are furnishing a glowing demonstration of the possible effectiveness of the Brotherhood organization.

On the March

L. B. D. C. No. 294, First Church, Portland, Ore., has divided itself into two wings and are generously vying with one another in a plan to reconstruct their church building. F. Stephens is President and with a pastordom like W. F. Reagor, who was a man before he was a minister, and afterward, too, for an inspiring example, they can and will do nothing less than succeed.

gleaned From Local Brotherhood Quarterly Reports

B. D. C. No. 317 is a joint Brotherhood of churches at Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Sawtelle, Cal. They have twenty-seven members from the three churches.

B. D. C. No. 316, First Church, Little Rock, Ark., has a membership of seventy-six. They all wear the Brotherhood emblem.

B. D. C. No. 315, Nelsonville, Ohio, has a hundred and twenty men in the Brotherhood. This Brotherhood is organized within a great Bible Class of more than eight hundred enrollment.

B. D. C. No. 313, Mount Vernon, Ind., has a membership of nineteen with average attendance of fourteen.

B. D. C. No. 312, First Church, Council Bluffs, Iowa, has twenty-five members of the Brotherhood and twenty-one men in the Bible Class. "We like to hear from the National oration occasionally, as it encourages us to realize that we represent such an immense body of Christian men."—L. B. D. C. No. 311, Third Church, Philadelphia.

B. D. C. No. 308, Sheridan, Ind., has a membership of thirty-six with thirty-five men in the Bible Class.

B. D. C. No. 307, Orviston, Pa., has a membership of forty-nine with an average attendance of forty.

B. D. C. No. 305, West Side Christian Church, San Francisco, has a membership of twenty with an average attendance of eleven.

B. D. C. No. 292, Kendallville, Ind., has an enrollment of fifty-two in good standing with an average attendance of forty.

B. D. C. No. 291, Elkhart, Ind., has an average attendance of eighty-seven.

B. D. C. No. 288, Keokuk, Iowa, has twenty-five members in the Brotherhood with a Brotherhood Bible Class of twenty-two.

B. D. C. No. 287, Central Church, Pittsburg, Pa., has twenty-one members with an average attendance of eighteen.

B. D. C. No. 286, Massillon, Ohio, has a membership of fifty-six with an average attendance at the meetings of fifty-five, and a hundred and eighteen men in the Bible Class. B. D. C. No. 284, Modesto, Cal., has twenty-two members of the Brotherhood, average attendance at Brotherhood business meetings fifteen, attendance at social meetings one hundred and thirty.

B. D. C. No. 283, Eldora, Iowa, has twenty-two members of the Brotherhood and twenty-five subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN.

B. D. C. No. 279, Douglas Park, Chicago, has seventeen members with an average attendance of fourteen.

B. D. C. No. 319, Fort Wayne, Ind., has a membership of twenty-six with an average attendance of fourteen.

L. B. D. C. No. 306, Mason City, Iowa, has a membership of forty-four and fifty-five men in the Bible Class.

"We were very much benefited by Mr. Macfarlane's answers to our innumerable questions. It seems we have been steering along without any object in view, but he opened to us new visions of a greater work which we take hold of with renewed vigor and can work to an end of far greater results than ever before. We have sixty-four men in the Brotherhood and a hundred and five men in the Bible Class."—L. B. D. C. No. 276, North Yakima, Wash.

L. B. D. C. No. 273, Wooster, Ohio, has thirty-eight members with forty men in the Bible Class.

"The Brotherhood took care of a brother member of the church, cared for him for a time at his home and then removed him to the hospital, paid his expenses for two weeks, but we couldn't save him. He was called to his heavenly home, but we were glad to do what little we could for him."—L. B. D. C. No. 270, Pittsburg, Kan.

"We charge $2 per year dues, sixty cents General Dues, twenty-five cents for subscription to CHRISTIAN MEN, and $1.15 for local dues. Have fifty-eight members of Brotherhood and eight subscribers not members."—L. B. D. C. No. 266, Tacoma, Wash.

L. B. D. C. No. 265, First Church, Kansas City, Mo., has fifty members of the Brotherhood, sixty-five men in the Bible Class and an average attendance at Brotherhood meetings of one hundred and forty.

L. B. D. C. No. 261, Bedford, Ind., has a social program at every meeting, but no strictly social meetings. They have a membership of seventy-seven with one hundred and twenty in the Bible Class. All members subscribe for CHRISTIAN MEN.

L. B. D. C. No. 259, Galesburg, Ill., has a membership of sixty-six and one hundred men in the Bible School.

L. B. D. C. No. 255, Wichita, Kan., has a Brotherhood Bible Class of thirty-one men.

"All our meetings are largely discussions of church work and men's relation to the church, at which several lead with short addresses, ending with a general discussion. Enrollment nineteen. Men in Bible Class twenty-five."—L. B. D. C. No. 253, Washington, D. C.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., L. B. D. C. No. 252, has an enrollment of thirty-three with a Brotherhood Bible Class of twenty.

"Our dues are two dollars per year for each member, payable semi-annually, and out of this we pay general dues of fifteen cents per quarter for each member. Local and general dues are not collected or handled separately."—L. B. D. C. No. 250, First Church, St. Joseph, Mo.

L. B. D. C. No. 294, Portland, Ore., has a Bible Class of seventy.

DECEMBER.

1. Brotherhood · Benevolence.—An acknowledgment of services rendered by heroes of former days. The Brotherhood will remove the terrors of creeping age from the preacher's vision. The servant is worthy of his hire.

2. A Visit to the Manger at Bethlehem.—The greatest gift we can give is the gift of Christ to the Christless children.

JANUARY.

1. Topics, Volunteers for the Ministry.—The Brotherhood Volunteer Movement will use this meeting in an effort to enlist men for the ministry and subscribers to the Comrades of Paul Fund, for the helping of needy students through our Bible Colleges. Let the Social Committee meet at this meeting a reception to the pastor, the local pastors. Make these ministers feel that they have solid backing in the men of the community. Thus do you demonstrate the efficiency of the man who is leading you.

2. Evangelism.—Plans for the year's work. The Brotherhood will be the Church's strongest and longest arm in bringing men to Christ.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

DECEMBER—Second Program

Prepared by R. A. DOAN

Note.—It is urged that every man bring one boy with him for this meeting.

TOPIC—A Visit to the Manger of Bethlehem.

I.—Devotional.

1. Hymn "Help Somebody Today."
2. Three brief prayers.
3. Special music.
4. Scripture, Luke 2:1-20.
5. Hymn.

II.—Program.

1. Three five-minute addresses—What the gift of Christ to the world has meant to me.
2. Three five-minute addresses—How may I use for others the blessing of this great gift?
3. Address to the boys—Christ's youth, a preparation for his great life.

III.—Business and Social.

1. A general discussion of local conditions among the needy. Appointment of committees who will have in charge the receipt and distribution of contributions for the poor. It is suggested that every Brotherhood take the responsibility of looking after the poor. Especially is it desired that children in poor homes be remembered with candies, toys, etc., as well as necessities. A very rich experience awaits every man who visits these homes.
2. A romp with the boys.

JANUARY—First Program

TOPIC—Volunteers for the Ministry.

I.—Devotional.

Hymn.
Reading of Scripture.
Repeat Covenant (Standing).
Prayer.
Hymn or special music.

II.—Cultural.

1. Addresses:
 - (a) "Paucity of Preachers."
 - (b) "The Dignity of the Ministry."
- Music.

- (c) "The reward of the Ministry."
- (d) "What constitutes a call to the Ministry."

2. "Who will go?" Make a personal call for volunteers in the spirit of feasting and prayer.

III.—Social.

Short toasts, one or two minutes each would be interesting. Let refreshments be light, in view of the fact that next month is annual meeting and banquet.

Bible School Lessons for December

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—DECEMBER 11.

"THE CRUCIFIXION"—MATTHEW 27:15-50.

American Revised

P. H. WELSHIMER

15 Now at the feast the governor was wont to release unto the multitude one prisoner, whom they would. 16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas. 17 When therefore they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ? 18 For he knew that for envy they had delivered him up. 19 And while he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that righteous man; for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him. 20 Now the chief priests and the elders persuaded the multitudes that they should ask for Barabbas, and destroy Jesus. 21 But the governor answered and said unto them, Which of the two will ye that I release unto you? And they said, Barabbas. 22 Pilate saith unto them, What then shall I do unto Jesus who is called Christ? They all say, Let him be crucified. 23 And he said, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out exceedingly, saying, Let him be crucified. 24 So when Pilate saw that he prevailed nothing, but rather that a tumult was arising, he took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this righteous man; see ye to it. 25 And all the people answered and said, His blood be on us, and on our children. 26 Then released he unto them Barabbas; but Jesus he scourged and delivered to be crucified.

27 Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the Prætorium, and gathered unto him the whole band. 28 And they stripped him, and put on him a scarlet robe. 29 And they platted a crown of thorns and put it upon his head; and a reed in his right hand; and they kneeled down before him, and mocked him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews! 30 And they spat upon him, and took the reed and smote him on the head. 33 And when they had mocked him, they took off from him the robe and put on him his garments, and led him away to crucify him.

32 And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name; him they compelled to go with them, that he might bear his cross.

33 And when they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, The place of a skull, 34 they gave him wine to drink mingled with gall; and when he had tasted it, he would not drink. 35 And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments among them, casting lots; 36 and they sat and watched him there. 37 And they set up over his head his accusation written, This is Jesus the King of the Jews. 38 Then are there crucified with him two robbers, one on the right hand and one on the left. 39 And they that passed by railed on him, wagging their heads, 40 and saying, Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself; if thou art the Son of God, come down from the cross. 41 In like manner also the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders, said, 42 He saved others; himself he cannot save. He is the King of Israel; let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe on him. 43 He trusteth on God; let him deliver him now, if he desireth him; for he said, I am the Son of God. 44 And the robbers also that were crucified with him cast upon him the same reproach.

45 Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land until the ninth hour. 46 And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? 47 And some of them that stood there, when they heard it, said, This man calleth Elijah. 48 And straightway one of them ran, and took a sponge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink. 49 And the rest said, Let be; let us see whether Elijah cometh to save him. 50 And Jesus cried again with a loud voice, and yielded up his spirit.

Time. Friday, April 7, A. D. 30. Place. Calvary.

Introduction. The Jews accused Jesus of blasphemy, which was a crime worthy of death in the Jewish code, but being a religious crime, would not be accepted by the Roman government, so in order to have the Romans sentence Jesus to death, He was taken before Governor Pilate, the Roman, with a charge of treason placed against Him. Pilate believed Him innocent, and sent Him to Herod. Herod returned Him to Pilate, who still believed Him innocent and washed his hands before the people, but not willing to secure the ill will of the mob, turned Jesus over to them.

Explanatory. 15-18—It was customary to release a prisoner at the time of the Passover. This custom of the Jews had prevailed for a long time. Barabbas was a murderer. John 18:40; Mark 15:7. Barabbas, being a noted murderer, it was the desire of Pilate to release Jesus in his stead, and thus he could evade the responsibility of his death. He also knew this man to be innocent. 19—Here is another case where a man had better take the advice of his wife. 20—The chief priests and elders were busy exciting the mob and urging them to call for Barabbas. They would rather have the noted murderer loose on their streets than the spotless Galilean Teacher. 21-22—When they called for Barabbas, then the question came, "What shall I do with Jesus, which is called Christ?" The cry filled the air, "Crucify Him." 23—It is the spirit of a mob not to reason, hence they yelled the more, "Let Him be crucified." 24—Notwithstanding Pilate washed his hands and said, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person," he was not innocent; it was for him to decide whether He should be put to death or not and by his turning Him over to the mob, he consented to His death. 25-26—Little did the people know what it meant to have His blood upon them and their children. Barabbas is led forth a free man. Notwithstanding Pilate had said that Jesus was a just man he struck Him with the lashes, giving Him a scourge, which all received before the crucifixion, then the man who had washed his hands and said, "I am free from His blood," delivered Him to be crucified. Of all the peanut politicians who ever played in the tide of times, Pilate was about the smallest. 27-29—Jesus was stripped and a robe put on Him and thorns put on His brow, in mockery. The soldiers were not displeased because of His claim, but mocked Him in the spirit of ridicule. 30-31—Behold the Son of Man being spit upon, a weak reed being placed in His hand for a scepter, and then the villains passed by, striking Him on the head, then He was stripped and His own raiment put on Him again, and the procession starts on its march to Calvary. 32—On the way they met Simon of Cyrene, whom they compelled to bear the cross. Jesus was giving way beneath it. John 19:17. 33-34—Golgotha means a place of a skull. This was outside the city, but not far from the gate. Hebrews 13-12; John 19-20. Sour wine and gall were mixed together and given to sufferers to make them feel the pain less. Jesus declined to accept. 35-36—John tells us that His coat was seamless, hence the goods in it could not be divided. On this the lots were cast. John 19:23-24. While Jesus was suffering, they were gambling for His clothes and sitting beneath the Christ, they watched Him there. How little sympathy there was for Him in His suffering. 37—The inscription, "This is Jesus, the King of the Jews," was written in three languages—Greek, Latin and Hebrew. 38—A robber was crucified on either side. This helped to give a more terrible setting to the picture. 39-40—Jesus was misunderstood. The crowd wagged their heads and reviled at Him, made sport of His claims, misinterpreted them and demanded of Him to save Himself if He be the Son of God. If Jesus had come down from the cross, He would have defeated the entire purpose of the Father. This they could not understand. 41-43—The chief priests, scribes and elders joined with the throng in making the request. 44—Even the thieves joined with the crowd in taunting Him. 45—Darkness reigned from 12 to 3 o'clock. 46-48—Misunderstanding His cry, they thought He called for Elias. In John 19:28-29, we learn Jesus also said, "I thirst." One, putting a vinegar-soaked sponge on a reed reached it up to His lips, that He might satisfy His thirst. The rest, still unsympathetic, said, "Let Him be and see if Elias will come to save Him." 50—The end had now come. Jesus cried, "It is finished," and His spirit went forth.

Comments on the Lesson

What a mockery was the trial of Jesus. The one who betrayed Him, afterward repented and said to the authorities, "He is innocent." He even threw the blood money back upon the floor of the temple and rushed from their presence. The judge said, "He is innocent." Still the people clamored for His life. Again, the judge washed his hands in their presence and said, "He is innocent, I will be free from His blood but you take Him and do as you like." How long would such a judge be tolerated today? Imagine a throng around the court house, a lot of lying witnesses who have testified, and as he who first plotted to deliver Him, comes the last hour saying, "He is innocent," and the judge saying, "I free Him," and then turning Him to the mob and saying, "Take Him and do as you like." Behold the Son of God wearing a purple robe, His brow pierced with a crown of thorns and a little stick in His hand to be a symbol of kingly power, and behold men bow before Him in mockery, calling Him "King of the Jews." Behold His blood-stained flesh, where the judge who had just said, "He is innocent" has now applied the lash. See those men one by one strike Him on the head and slap Him on the face with the palm of their hand. Others spit upon Him. Then, the robe, the crown and the scepter are laid aside and the procession starts for Golgotha. The women follow, weeping, for they were His friends.

He faints beneath His cross and Simon of Cyrene is pressed into service to help bear the burden. Golgotha is now reached, the wood is laid on the ground and the Son of God is laid upon the wood and the nails are driven through His hands and His feet. The hole has been digged, the cross is raised, it drops, and O! how the flesh was quenched, when with a thud it strikes the ground. With all His suffering the soldiers were near by and gamble for His clothing. Seven notable sentences were uttered by our Lord while He hung to that cross. They were, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." To the thief He said, "This day thou shalt be with me in paradise." Again He said, "I thirst." And, "My God! My God! why hast thou forsaken me?" "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." To John He said, "Son, behold thy mother," and to His mother, "Woman, behold thy son." Just before His spirit went forth, He said, "It is finished." For six long hours He hung there, suffering in an unsympathetic crowd. A few there were who loved Him and wept while He suffered, but the multitude taunted and ridiculed. This cross has become the symbol of salvation. It is the price of life. It is a symbol of burdens to be borne. It speaks eloquently of the awfulness of sin and the price of salvation. It shows forth the love of God and obedience of the Christ. We can sing, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory" and "The Way of the Cross Leads Home." Paul could say, "I am determined to know nothing among you save Jesus and Him crucified." Jesus said, "If I be lifted up from the earth, I will draw all men unto me." And, "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up." This death of Jesus, coupled with the resurrection, makes it possible for all men to be saved, but His death benefits us not, unless we appropriate the blessing that comes from it. Through His death He has paved the way. We must walk in the road. In this death He has offered peace and pardon. We must accept it.

Questions for Class Use

Before whom was Jesus tried? Why was He taken to Pilate? Who was in the crowd from Pilate's court to Golgotha? Who carried the cross for Him and why? Why was He crucified outside the gate? Why did He refuse the vinegar? Why did they cast lots for His garment? Why did He not come down from the cross and demonstrate His power? What were the seven sayings on the cross? Who put the superscription above the cross and why in three languages? How long was Jesus on the cross? What chapter in Isaiah furnishes a good picture of this scene? How does the death of Christ benefit us? What is the power of the cross?

LESSON 3—DECEMBER 18.

"THE RESURRECTION"—MATTHEW 28:1-20.

1 Now late on the Sabbath day, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre. 2 And behold, there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled away the stone, and sat upon it. 3 His appearance was as lightning, and his raiment white as snow; 4 and for fear of him the watchers did quake, and became as dead men. 5 And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus, who hath been crucified. 6 He is not here; for he is risen, even as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. 7 And go quickly, and tell his disciples, He is risen from the dead; and lo, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him; lo, I have told you. 8 And they departed quickly from the tomb, with fear and great joy, and ran to bring his disciples word. 9 And behold Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and took hold of his feet, and worshipped him. 10 Then saith Jesus unto them, Fear not; go tell my brethren that they depart into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

11 Now while they were going, behold, some of the guard came into the city, and told unto the chief priests all the things that were come to pass. 12 And when they were assembled with the elders, and had taken counsel, they gave much money unto the soldiers, 13 saying, Say ye, His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept. 14 And if this come to the governor's ears, we will persuade him, and rid you of care. 15 So they took the money, and did as they were taught; and this saying was spread abroad among the Jews, and continueth until this day.

16 But the eleven disciples went into Galilee, unto the mountain where Jesus had appointed them. 17 And when they saw him, they worshipped him; but some doubted. 18 And Jesus came to them and spake unto them, saying, All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth. 19 Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; 20 teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

Time. Sunday morning, April 9, A. D. 30. Place. Around and in the city of Jerusalem.

Introduction. Read in connection with this lesson, Mark 16:1-18; Luke 24:1-11; John 20:1-18; Acts 1:1-9; 1 Cor. 15:1-11. Jesus was crucified at Golgotha. Upon His death the veil of the temple was rent in twain. An earthquake tore the rocks apart and opened many tombs. The centurion confessed that Jesus was the Son of God. Joseph of Arimathea had asked for the body and had placed it in his own tomb. The sepulchre had been sealed and the guard was placed about the tomb. Here our lesson begins today.

Explanatory. 1—The women came not only to see the sepulchre but were prepared to anoint the body of Jesus. 2—The coming of the angel and the rolling away of the stone made an earthquake great in intensity. The tomb was sealed; the angel broke the seal and opened the sepulchre and sat upon the stone. 3-4—His countenance was like unto that of Jesus when He was transfigured. The guard on duty saw him; saw the stone rolled away. They shook and became as dead men. To use an expression common today, they were “nearly scared to death” and were as powerless as dead men. 5-7—In Mark, sixteenth chapter, we learn the angel had now entered the tomb and sat in one end of it. When the women came, they were astonished that the stone was rolled away, and looking in the tomb saw the angel, also the grave clothes that had bound Jesus. This was all to them a mystery. They were filled with fear, hence the angel’s admonition, “Fear not ye.” The tomb was large enough for several persons to enter, hence the women and the angel were there. The last at the cross was a woman. The first commissioned to go tell the glad news was a woman. Mark says that the angel commanded them to go tell His disciples and Peter. 8—Imagine their feeling as one mingled with fear and joy. How swiftly they must have run to carry the word. 9—And as they went, to their great surprise and joy, Jesus met them with the words, “All Hail,” and falling at His feet to worship, they touched Him. 11—While the women were on the way with the message, the soldiers went to the chief priests, narrating all things that had been done. What a wonderful story they had to tell, and they were eye witnesses. 12-14—In order to hinder the idea that Jesus had risen from the dead and hence was divine, they gave much money to the soldiers to swear that they slept and the disciples stole the body of Jesus. To sleep at a post of duty was punishable by death, but they agreed to persuade the government to save the soldiers. 15—When Matthew wrote this account, that statement was still a common report among the Jews. 16—Jesus appeared to the disciples ten times after the resurrection. It is well to read the closing chapters of the four Gospels, for the account of His appearances. Nine of the appearances were before this meeting in Galilee. 17—Even their sight could not be trusted. Some doubted. Not that He did not look natural or talk as He once had, but they did not think it possible that He should be raised from the dead. It is probable that the 500 whom Paul says saw Him, were with the disciples at this time. He had appeared to the eleven so frequently that they doubtless all believed. The doubters were possibly some of the 500 who had not seen Him before. 18-20—All power, means all authority. Jesus had never made this statement until now. He could not until after His resurrection. The word teach here means to make disciples. This is to be done by preaching the Gospel. Jesus’ public career began after His baptism, and the last thing He does is to command the disciples to teach and baptize. To be baptized into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, means that we are to be brought into subjection to the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, and in consequence will receive the remission of our sins and the gift of the Holy Spirit, then we become a child of God. We are to be taught all things as He commanded the apostles. Jesus is with us to help and protect; it means more than His presence. He guarantees His co-operation and this will be ours if faithful to Him to the end of the world.

Comments on the Lesson

Answer to the Infidel’s Argument. Mr. Infidel number one says, “It is impossible for Jesus to have been raised from the dead.” It is not more of a miracle for God to raise Jesus from the dead than it is for Him to create life in the first place. Number two says, “He was not dead.” The soldiers guarding the cross said He was, for they broke not His bones, but pierced His side with a sword and gave over His body to Joseph to be buried in the garden. It was rumored that He had said He would arise from the dead, and to prevent His disciples from stealing the body and thus make the claim that He had risen, the authorities were requested to seal the tomb with the government seal and place soldiers on guard. Every precaution possible was taken to avoid deception. Number three says, “The disciples stole the dead body.” First, what would they want with it? If it was dead, and He claimed He would arise and didn’t, He would be an impostor, and what would they want with an impostor’s body? Three days ago these same disciples were cowards and fled when He was arrested. If they fled when the living Christ was here with all His power, what made them so courageous when three days later, under the cover of darkness, they would steal past sixteen soldiers, who would kill them on the spot were they caught, break the seal on the tomb, which meant death if caught, and steal the body.

which also meant death? Does it seem possible they would run this risk? And again, they stole the dead body, how put life into it? He was seen ten times after this. They saw Him, ate with Him, heard Him, touched Him and walked with Him. They had every opportunity of knowing whether it was Jesus of Nazareth or not. If they committed the two offenses—broke the seal and stole the body, which were punishable by death, how does it happen they tarried as they did right there in the city of Jerusalem, where the deed was performed, and not one of them was put to death? The Romans enforced their law better than this. If the disciples stole the body, where were the soldiers that they permitted it? Remember that sixty-four soldiers were in charge of that tomb, sixteen serving for six hours at a time. Could they have been sleeping? Absurd. Would it seem probable that sixteen soldiers on duty would all go to sleep when serving for only six hours, and knowing, too, that if caught sleeping, death would be the penalty? When fifteen had gone to sleep, is it possible that the sixteenth one, seeing the others sleeping, would fall asleep also and run the risk? The soldiers told the true story when they went to the authorities. The entire responsibility rested upon God. He sent the angel who rolled away the stone, and then God raised Him from the dead. The only way to cover up the bad affair was for the authorities to lay the blame on the soldiers and say they slept and while they slept the disciples stole the body, and yet not one of the soldiers was put to death, for it was as the authorities had said, "We will persuade the governor and secure you." What a joke it must have been for sixteen men to go about the streets of Jerusalem, saying to all the people, "We slept last night and permitted robbers to steal the body we were guarding," when all the people knew that had they done so, they would not be alive to tell the story. If sixteen men were sleeping about the tomb, liable to waken any moment, and the disciples were in that tomb stealing the body, is it likely that they would have tarried long enough to have folded the napkins neatly and put the grave clothes in order in the tomb? Do robbers generally in ransacking drawers to-day fold everything up nicely and place it in its proper place, especially if the occupants of the house are liable to waken any moment and detect them? If Jesus was not raised from the dead, does it seem possible that the disciples would have preached so boldly right in the city where a few days before they had denied Him? Would they have suffered martyrdom, as they did, for one who had proved Himself not to be what He claimed to be? Is it possible that the civilization which we enjoy and the blessings that go forth from the teaching of God's word, could come from an impostor? for if Jesus was not raised from the dead He would be an impostor. We can sing with Paul, "Now is Christ raised from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept." He said, "I will rise again" and He did. And with Thomas we can say, "My Lord and my God." And with Peter, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God."

Questions for Class Use

How long was Jesus in the grave? About how many hours? Who were the women that went to anoint the body, on the morning of the first day of the week? To whom did Jesus first appear? What effect did His appearance have upon the women? What must have been the character of the soldiers, who seeing what they saw, still did not surrender to the Christ and join with His disciples? Why were not the soldiers put to death upon their own testimony? What is the great commission? What are some of the infidel's arguments against the resurrection? Answer these arguments as given above.

LESSON 4—DECEMBER 25.

"THE SHEPHERDS FIND JESUS"—LUKE 2:6-20.

6 And it came to pass, while they were there, the days were fulfilled that she should be delivered. 7 And she brought forth her firstborn son; and she wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

8 And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night over their flock. 9 And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid. 10 And the angel said unto them, Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people; 11 for there is born to you this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord. 12 And this is the sign unto you: Ye shall find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger. 13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying:

14 Glory to God in the highest,
And on earth peace among men
in whom he is well pleased.

15 And it came to pass, when the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing that is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us. 16 And they came with haste, and found both Mary and

Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. 17 And when they saw it, they made known concerning the saying which was spoken to them about this child. 18 And all that heard it wondered at the things which were spoken unto them by the shepherds. 19 But Mary kept all these sayings, pondering them in her heart. 20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, even as it was spoken unto them.

Time. B. C. 4. Christ's birth was four years before the beginning of our era.
Place. Bethlehem and nearby.

Explanatory. 6—In Micah 5:2 we learn that Bethlehem had been named as the birthplace of Jesus. A law had gone forth, compelling the Jews to go to Bethlehem to be taxed. Bethlehem is six miles south of Jerusalem and was crowded with people. There was no room except in the stable. 7—In a stable, Jesus was born. Here He was wrapped in strips of cloth, known as swaddling clothes, indicating that they were prepared in a hurry. The stable was in the rear of the inn or hotel. When crowded travelers often resorted to such a place. What a lowly place for the birth of the King! 8-9—To the shepherds in the fields that night the angel of the Lord came and the glory of the Lord shone round about. 10—His message was good tidings. The reason is given in the eleventh verse. Bethlehem is called the city of David because he was the most distinguished man who lived in it. The Christ, means "the anointed." 12—It would be no mistake that the babe they would find wrapped in swaddling clothes was He. 13-14—An angel choir from heaven came and sang this, the sweetest of all songs that have ever been sung. 15-16—With haste they came. Behold! the babe was found lying in a manger. 17—How eagerly they must have told the story concerning the angel, to Joseph and Mary and the others. 18-19—The people could not understand, hence they wondered, but Mary knew and pondered those sayings in her heart. 20—The shepherds glorified and praised God for all that they had heard and seen. It was truly good news to man. It is good news to us today if we accept Him. Life to those shepherds could never be the same now as before. It had a new meaning.

Comments on the Lesson

There was no room in the inn. If any home in Bethlehem had known the honor that could have been theirs by having the Christ born within its walls, what a clamor there would have been to have had Mary abide therein. The room was filled. Many have no room for Christ today because the room is filled with something else—selfishness, worldliness, prejudice and indifference. Drive them out, make room for the Christ. Prophecies were now being fulfilled, but the people knew it not. Prophecy did not make these conditions, but simply foretold them. What an interest all heaven took in the birth of the infant Savior. First an angel comes with the good tidings, then there came an angelic chorus. How sweet their voices must have sounded on the frosty air about Bethlehem that night. In their song, they described the conditions that would obtain through the coming of the Prince of Peace. The announcement was first made to the humble shepherds. They doubted not, but believing, went to see the child. The message was first told to these busy people, and they investigated to see if all they had heard was true. So today, God's greatest blessings come to the men who are busy, and if you want something done, the busy man is the fellow to ask to do it. For our sakes, Jesus became poor. How poor He was. For a babe to be wrapped in long strips of cloth and lie in a manger in a stable is about as humble a beginning as one could imagine. Born in a borrowed manger, and when He died buried in a borrowed tomb; and yet His name is above every name and before Him every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess that He is Lord of all and as such He shall be crowned.

Questions for Class Use

Where is Bethlehem? Why called the city of David? What was Mary doing in Bethlehem? Why was Jesus born in a stable? How was He dressed? What was the angel's message to the shepherds? What the song? What effect did the shepherd's message have upon the people of Bethlehem? What effect upon Mary? What effect did the angel's message have upon the shepherds? Why was the birth of Jesus delayed until this time? What prophecies can you recall relative to His birth?

LESSON 1—JANUARY 1, 1911.

"THE KINGDOM DIVIDED"—1 KINGS 12:1-24.

1 And Rehoboam went to Shechem: for all Israel were come to Shechem to make him king. 2 And it came to pass when Jeroboam the son of Nebat heard of it (for he was yet in Egypt, whither he had fled from the presence of king Solomon, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt, 3 and they sent him and called him), that Jeroboam and all the assembly of Israel came, and spake unto Rehoboam, saying, 4 Thy father made our yoke grievous, now therefore make thou the grievous service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter, and we will serve thee. And he said unto them, Depart yet for three days, then come again to me. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam took counsel with the old men, that had stood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, saying, What counsel give ye me to return answer to this people? 7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou wilt be a servant unto this people this day, and wilt serve them, and answer them, and speak good words to them, then they will be thy servants for ever. 8 But he forsook the counsel of the old men which they had given him, and took counsel with the young men that were grown up with him, that stood before him. 9 And he said unto them, What counsel give ye, that we may return answer to this people, who have spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke that thy father did put upon us lighter? 10 And the young men that were grown up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou say unto this people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus shalt thou speak unto them. My little finger is thicker than my father's reins. 11 And now whereas my father did make you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

12 So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king bade, saying Come to me again the third day. 13 And the king answered the people roughly, and forsook the counsel of the old men which they had given him, 14 and spake to them after the counsel of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions. 15 So the king hearkened not unto the people; for it was a thing brought about of Jehovah, that he might establish his word, which Jehovah spake by Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

16 And when all Israel saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse: to your tents, O Israel: now see to thine own house, David. So Israel departed unto their tents. 17 But as for the children of Israel that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them. 18 Then king Rehoboam sent Adoram, who was over the men subject to taskwork; and all Israel stoned him to death with stones. And king Rehoboam made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem. 19 So Israel rebelled against the house of David unto this day. 20 And it came to pass, when all Israel heard that Jeroboam was returned, that they sent and called him, unto the congregation, and made him king over all Israel: there was none that followed the house of David, but the tribe of Judah only.

21 And when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he assembled all the house of Judah, and the tribe of Benjamin, a hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men, that were warriors, to fight against the house of Israel, to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the son of Solomon. 22 But the word of God came unto Shemaiah the man of God, saying, 23 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and to the rest of the people, saying, 24 Thus saith Jehovah. Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren the children of Israel: return every man to his house; for this thing is of me. So they hearkened unto the word of Jehovah, and returned and went their way, according to the word of Jehovah.

Time. 982 B. C. Some authorities put it 939.

Introduction. Israel had had three kings—Saul, David and Solomon. Upon the death of Solomon, Rehoboam his son was the heir to the throne. His name means, "Enlarger of the people." He was about twenty-one years old when he became king. His mother was Namah, a young heathen princess of the kingdom of Ammon. For her, Solomon had built a sanctuary on Olivet, opposite the temple, in which she could worship Molech. From such a heathen mother came the young king. Solomon with a thousand wives and concubines could not have much time for training his son. His training would be left in the hands of his mother, and yet he was reared in the shadow of the temple. Some good came to him from that. Rehoboam was a young man of some ability, but he was proud, overbearing and insolent. He was the heir to a great kingdom. It extended from the Euphrates on the north, to Egypt on the southwest, including the territory lying between the desert and the Mediterranean except a small strip occupied by the Phœnicians, who were on friendly terms with Solomon. The twelve tribes occupied the territory of about 13,000 square miles, but including the neighboring territory which Solomon had ruled would make a vast domain of 60,000 square miles, as large as England and Wales. This was a wealthy kingdom. Read 2 Kings 10:27. Solomon's revenue amounted annually from ten to twenty millions of dollars. There were great possibilities here for a good king. The people had been burdened to make the kingdom wealthy. There was much complaint. It was the injudicious ruling and unsympathetic and untactful procedure of a hot-headed young man that practically led to the division of the kingdom.

Explanatory. 1-5—Upon the death of Solomon, Jeroboam, who had been banished to Egypt, was called home. Rehoboam, the heir, and who had been accepted by Judah, went up to Shechem, thirty miles north of Jerusalem, to which place the tribes had been summoned to confirm the successor of Solomon. The Northern tribes now selected Jeroboam to lead them in the meeting with Rehoboam. During the reign of Solomon, the people's yoke was grievous. They had been compelled to give their labors on the public buildings and other burdens grievous to be borne had been laid upon them. They now come asking if his reign will be like unto that of his father. If he will make the burdens lighter, they will serve him. Like a wise man, Rehoboam said, "Give me three days to think about it." 6-7—Rehoboam wisely called together the old men, who had been associated with his father, and asked their advice. They gave good advice and said, "Be a servant unto this people and speak good words to them and they will be thy servants forever." 8-11—This was not the kind of advice Rehoboam wanted. We can always find the kind we want, so he called for a council of the young men; inexperienced fellows; young fellows who wanted to stand in with the new king, hence knowing something of his desires would advise as he desired. They advised to make the yoke heavier, as indicated in these verses. 12-14—The third day arrives and the people meet Rehoboam again. He was haughty, indignant, answered roughly and spake as the young men advised. He said, "I will add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions." What a promising future for the people. Could they love him? Could they desire to serve him? Could they hope for anything from such a tyrant? 15-16—Israel was displeased and said, "What portion have we in David?" "To your tents, O! Israel." This was the parting of the ways. Rehoboam must look for his kingdom to Judah. The Israelites went back to their homes to make ready for war. 17-20—Adoram, a task-master, was sent by Rehoboam, but Israel stoned him to death and Rehoboam fled to Jerusalem. Word soon spread among the Northern tribes that Jeroboam had returned from Egypt, and the people called him before the congregation and made him king over Israel. Judah followed Rehoboam. 21-24—Rehoboam now assembled the house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin—one hundred and eighty thousand picked men, who were warriors, to fight against Israel, to bring back the kingdom that had departed, but God interfered and through Shemaiah informed Rehoboam that he should not go up against his brethren, that every man should return to his house. And the division was pronounced and continued.

Comments on the Lesson

Rehoboam furnishes us a splendid example of a boy poorly reared. Both heredity and environment were poor factors in the making of this king. A heathen mother, pampered and petted, gross immorality on every hand; his father with a multitude of wives. Everything was downward rather than upward. Here is an example where a father had knowledge and wisdom, but his son did not receive much of it. Solomon wrote a great book—the Proverbs, a splendid book to read on child-training and character-building, but he did not put this knowledge into practice with his own son. Another case of much preaching and little practice. It is the old saying, "No boy can select his own mother, but he has everything to do with selecting his son's mother." All men who succeed, do so because they have good advisers. It is well to listen to the men who have climbed the hill before us. The old men were wise and gave good advice. Common sense would have said to Rehoboam that their course was a wise one, but he was drunk with power, unreasoning, unsympathetic, inhuman and out of touch with God, hence his failure. A little tact, kindness and sympathy could have made Rehoboam one of the world's greatest kings, over its greatest kingdom. What he lost through hot-headedness, he thought to gain with an army of picked men. But alas! his opportunity had come and gone, he could not recall it. His hour was past. He had sown to the wind, he must now reap a whirlwind. And as he must have thought over the mistake of a few hours and as he beheld the division of the kingdom, he could think what our own Whittier has said, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these, 'It might have been.'"

Questions for Class Use

Who was Rehoboam? Who was Jeroboam? Why had Jeroboam gone to Egypt? Who was the father of Rehoboam? Who his mother? What was the extent of Solomon's territory? Were the people unjust in making a demand of Rehoboam? Did God censure the Northern tribe for the separation? Name five lessons you gather from the life of Rehoboam.

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

W. L. LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
W. L. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

W. L. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	R. A. DOAN - - - - -	Nelsonville, Ohio
W. L. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.	T. W. GRAFTON - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
W. L. NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.	J. N. HAYMAKER - - - - -	Wichita, Kan.
M. M. COCHRAN - - - - -	Uniontown, Pa.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

P. C. MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
---------------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.
Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum
in advance. Ten or more copies to one address may be paid for quarterly—in advance.
Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 5

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, JANUARY, 1911

Number 1

FAMILIAR TALKS

The Blazed Trail

Program is a nice little word. It came from Italy some time before CHRISTIAN MEN began to be published. Primarily, it means to write before, but secondarily, it means to write after, but today most commonly, it means a program, an outline or explanation of the order of service to be pursued. If a man knows where he is going he usually gets somewhere. If he does not know, he wanders aimlessly and is in danger of turning up his nose under a snowdrift. Human experience has been blazing trails since before time began. It is a dangerous thing to go off the blazed trail. There are many pathfinders of superlative genius who can go anywhere and come back, but for the most of us the highway is shorter and surer than any by-path. We

THE NEW CITY have some Brotherhoods that are wandering aimlessly. There has been put before them a program, a broad, smooth highway, leading up to the city of Effective Christian Service. The road lies over easy grades. It was built only after a survey of all feasible routes, and in the place that promises the greatest service to the greatest number of travelers. It is macadamed in sound experience. It is surfaced and graded with practicable plans of service. Every rock in its foundation is a thing actually done in Christian Brotherhood service by some man somewhere. Notwithstanding this, there are many Brotherhood organizations prone to throw a leg over the fence, kick up their heels in the clover or wander by shady streams crying to one another, lo here, lo there. It is the exception when such an organization does not come to itself with decimated ranks, rallying in some slough of despondency or swamp of uncertainties a few discouraged and disconsolate members, who are unanimous only in proclaiming the expedition a failure. They may even go so far as to proclaim the Brotherhood road a failure, when they haven't even traveled on the Brotherhood road a half a city block. True, they all got together at the Brotherhood starting point. They took the name and the covenant. They acknowledged the Brotherhood ideal, but that pronounced individualism, that striving for independence, that over-bubbling initiative which is so valuable a thing in our manhood when harnessed into a great propulsive force, becomes, in an uncharted field, a mere expulsive influence scattering energies, dissipating forces and destroying the possibility of results. Someone looking on may say these men failed because the Brotherhood did not give them a definite program. Oh, yes, dear friends, it did, but they did not follow it.

And now, would you think with us just a little over this question? We are all one in our purpose to serve God, Jesus Christ and the local church. Back of the great skyscraper on which our eyes rest as we walk together is a skeleton of steel. Back of that steel was a plan, and between the plan and the articulated skeleton was a method by which the plan became a fact of steel and stone, fashioned into the features of the building before us. Buildings do not leap together haphazard. They are not born of visions, nor do they fall into shape with the noiseless perfection of dreams. It is with the Brotherhood organization. There is a plan expressed in our slogan "All the Men of All the Church at the Church's Work," and there is a method printed in our annual calendar providing for twenty-four meetings a year. Too many, you say? No, no, we are to learn by experience. There is no lodge, there is no labor union, there are few social organizations of any character whose coherence is sufficient to make them bear the weight and strain of practical service, that meet less frequently than this. Many of them meet more frequently. Meetings, then, are the first and essential element of Brotherhood success.

Simon Stelytes on his pillar; John the evangelist, on his isle; Luther, hidden in the Wartburg; General Booth, propped in his closet for darkest London; men split by centuries and sundere circumstances, do not constitute a Brotherhood. Our church men's lives are widely sundered. There are formal clasps over the back of the pew, but there are cordial contacts here and there in the main the church of today is a congeries and not a community. It is a gregate but does not congregate. It is immune but does not communicate.

MEETINGS The first step in Brotherhood work is meetings; meetings, line meetings, where men meet as men where we strip off the starch of circumstance and the varnish of social convention and even the polished lacquer of cool self-interest and meet together as mere humans, actually longing for a society of one another, with some of the magnificent primality which remains manhood's most virile asset. That Brotherhood meeting will be best in which each man strips himself of himself and for an hour, each in the selves of

s. Better a gang, better a pack, a passion to do something and be something, than a collection of wax figures with the blood freezing in the veins. The first definite duty, then, of the Brotherhood is meetings, the realization of the Brotherhood by the breaking up of individualities, for the time, in the crucible of a sociable gathering, from which individuals fuse again into their former selves, but with something more, some few glistening particles adhering that were appropriated in the moment when the common talents lay heaped together. The first thing, then, for a Brotherhood to consider when starting out on the highway to the city of service is meetings. Have meetings. Have regular meetings. Have regular meetings at frequent intervals.

RAMS But if you are to have meetings, they must be worth meetings, or the men will not attend the second time. They must consider topics that are of interest and these must be discussed in such a way that there is not only opportunity for the imparting of instruction by those capable of instructing, but for the development of the individual members by question conference, debate, discussion, argument—those forms by which, in seeking to impart our opinions or express our convictions, we really educate ourselves and impress our personalities. Men are inert beings today. They want to be more and they will think, if the opportunity is given them. Our church organization in the past has put men in a passive voice. The Brotherhood must get them into the active voice and into the potential mode.

It is not enough that there shall be meetings and that these meetings shall be interesting and helpful from a cultural point of view. It is necessary that they shall connect with some practical issue. Men today are dissatisfied with talk that gets nowhere in particular. Many Brotherhoods fail of efficiency just here. They start with the meeting idea, they rejoice in its fellowship, but they fail to connect with anything vital. They become a mere sending up of toy balloons. Men want to think about things and then they are likely to want to talk about things, and next they will want to do the thing they have been thinking about after they have talked it into practical shape.

A LOCOMOTIVE This failure may be due to two things: First, that subjects have been chosen that do not lead to a practical issue; or, second, that the right kind of subjects have been chosen, but that the executive officers of the Brotherhood did not seize the occasion to hook on the train. Every Brotherhood meeting is a locomotive. Every program is a tender full of coal and water. Every giving of that program puts fire in the engine and steam in the boiler, and every meeting that does not usher in some practical thing to do, or an impulse to practical things already doing, is a wild engine, steaming down the right-of-way with no load attached. Our Brotherhood program involves, therefore, not only meetings interesting and helpful, but meetings with a practical issue.

Would you think about this with us now real seriously, for a minute? In the first year the General Brotherhood depended upon the local initiative in the matter of programs, only offering general suggestions. In a year's experience, from a wide survey of the field, we have seen that the Brotherhoods would succeed better if we could give them carefully thought-out topics one year in advance—just as the Bible School and the Christian Endeavor—that what the uniform topic meant to those two interests it would mean to the Brotherhood organization, hence the announcement of our annual calendar for 1910. This calendar provided for subjects for twenty-four meetings in a year. It provided subjects that related to a wide variety of things in which men are interested and all of which could have a practical issue in Brotherhood service. Some half a dozen of these were designed to interest men directly in a consideration of the church enterprises, and of our Brotherhood at large, usually denominated missions and benevolences, subjects of which the majority of our men are sadly ignorant, and to which they are lamentably indifferent. There have been perhaps a dozen subjects that directed the interest of men particularly to work in which, as local church men, they should be interested, and in which they should serve. There have been possibly a half dozen other subjects which related to sociological and civic affairs, in which Brotherhood men could wisely concern themselves.

THE BLAZED TRAIL

In preparing these programs, we blazed a trail. The meeting meant, first of all, that men should come together. It meant that the executive officers should call for reports of committees duly appointed by the Brotherhood for practical service, that the Brotherhood should hear these reports, encourage and stimulate committee activities, and direct their energies for future work. It meant that they should consider at the same time some theme of interest, after a fashion, that tended to the development of the men of the organization as a whole; and yet, it meant that these men should be afforded an opportunity not only to think and talk about a subject of interest, but to do in its behalf. A year's experience with this calendar leads to the writing of this article. Where Brotherhood have adopted it, where they have followed it faithfully, where they have to utilize its possibilities to anything a full extent, their success has been the highest. Where they have ignored it as some have, where they have followed it after a hit and miss fashion, as others have, where they have taken its form and omitted its substance, as still others have, there has been less of satisfactory accomplishment.

In this magazine we print the annual calendar for the ensuing year. It should be the backbone of your Brotherhood work. Out of it will grow every activity. Each month the magazine carries definite programs in advance to help your committee, and these definite programs contain practical suggestions that should not be overlooked.

BLIND TRAILS

It may be that the readers will feel we have gone to say little, but experience indicates we must say this over and over again, because of the disposition of so many to disregard that wisdom based upon experience of those who have gone before and got there, and to turn to wander over blind and uncertain paths and in paths which experience has yet straightened out. We would like to call especial attention of pastors, Brotherhood officers and chairmen, program committees to this matter and urge, with all our power, that you follow the Brotherhood Calendar and the monthly programs, follow them closely, use your meetings as a stimulus, as an inspiring force, and as a driving power for the dozen or more departmental activities that every successful Brotherhood organization will be carrying on.

That this tying together may itself be tied to some practical issue, we call special attention now to the two programs

January. The first of these is the Ministry as a Calling. That program was published in the December magazine and repeated in this issue. Get it, and adapt it to the capabilities of your Brotherhood organization. The outstanding features of it which you ought to be sure to give are these: First, have confidence in this program as one that will interest your men. There is an unfortunate notion among program committees that every program must be made to appeal to men outside the church. Gentlemen, this is a mistake. Get a program that will interest the men inside the church and they will bring the outside men there, and what interests the insider will interest the outsider. Take this subject, "The Ministry as a Calling." At first it does not look interesting, nor attractive. Every man has an opinion about the ministry as a calling, however. The writer has been pleased to hear a workingman discussing a single tax the other night, and in alluding to the different professions, he spoke of the ministry as "I think the most useless of all." His opinion, expressed at a Brotherhood meeting, would be likely to start something and insure a warm and enthusiastic discussion of the subject. If it is interesting. Make the most of it. In addition to the subjects in the program, try a symposium of one minute speeches, under this head: "What kind of preacher would I try to be if I were going to be a preacher." This will be useful to the minister. He will see himself as others would like to see him in a most interesting medley of well-meant opinions. Then, try to get something in your program that will interest and attract your men. Work hard to get the young men, the idealists of your congregation into this meeting in large numbers. Get one or two of them down for short talks, or have a very short debate on the ministry as a calling. Then have someone present the "Comrades of Paul" Movement. You do not know just now what the "Comrades of Paul" is, although we have written about it and talked about it in speeches for two years. You will find reference to it in another part of this issue. But present it.

THE VOLUNTEER Finally, let the pastor, or some spiritual leader, present the ministry as a calling and if the situation justifies it call for volunteers for the ministry. If it does not justify the call, impress upon the young men present the serious consideration of the ministry as a profession. You will also, in the presentation of the "Comrades of Paul," pass the pledge cards and give the men who cannot themselves respond to the call for the ministry an opportunity to have fellowship in this work through the giving of a small portion of their money to help others prepare for it.

The effect of this meeting, if properly conducted, will be to deepen immensely the interest of men in the work of the ministry. It will lead to self-examination, to individual resolutions to support more faithfully the work of the minister, without doubt, lead young men in increasing numbers to choose the ministry. That is definite, my brother. That is practical. That is the Brotherhood program for the first meeting in January. Will you do it? Will you not see that your Brotherhood walks this far on the highway to the city of Service, and sets up a milestone there?

We are asking every minister on our mailing list to reserve one service on the third Sunday in January for preaching a sermon on the subject of "Men for the Ministry." Please bear it in mind. You might give the Brotherhood charge of the meeting this night, leaving all details to them and make it a service in which you emphasize the duty of men in regard to Christian education and the opportunity which the church offers for the men to serve in its various departments.

We have said something in another place about our programs. This is of the utmost importance. Your men want something definite to do. They want a line of action marked out that they can follow. Put them at the task of maintaining the cultural and social meeting and of following faithfully, especially as to practical features, the programs laid down in CHRISTIAN MEN, and success will come. We do not say this because we have made some programs, and then want you and your men to follow them, but we say it because out of our experience we, who are as anxious that your men succeed in the Brotherhood work as you yourself can possibly be, see that success comes this way.

The second program in January will be found on page thirty-seven, with a different subject. In accordance with our plan to vary the order somewhat, we are bringing you in this program face to face with the boy question.

A Husking Bee

A Brotherhood meeting is not merely a social meeting. It is a place to get work done.

Brotherhood success depends very largely upon sub-organization. Not the mass but the man is the slogan of the Brotherhood. You have not enlisted your men if you have merely brought them together for an hour or two. You have only enlisted them when you have organized them and sub-organized them into departments and committees so each man has a definite duty and these different departmental activities, upon which the life of the Brotherhood depends and upon which the successful life of the church depends, must be carried on currently. The President of your Brotherhood is a sort of a charioteer. He is driving many activities abreast. He must know what these activities are to be, must have a clear and concise conception of what his committees are to do and see that the committees do it and that the Brotherhood as a whole knows what the committees are doing. We have given considerable space to the matter of social monthly programs. It should be remembered that in our monthly order of business the reports of committees and the discussion of activities which the Brotherhood has in hand comes first and after this a recess of from ten to thirty minutes for social relaxation, and then the program. The Brotherhood meets promptly at eight o'clock. Its business should be transacted by eight-thirty, or shortly thereafter.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Here comes the Social Committee's hour, and gentlemen of the committee, let us urge upon you to be prepared to take full advantage of it. The moment recess is declared, men are likely to lose themselves in conversation with those with whom they are acquainted, or in the discussion of features of the work with which they are charged and the strangers will be overlooked. The Social Committee, which is also usually the membership committee, does not seize the opportunity. A man may go into an organized meeting and leave a stranger before it breaks up with the feeling his aloofness very much, but during the recess if he is not reached almost immediately he feels extremely uncomfortable. This is the Social Committee's opportunity.

THE PROGRAM COMMITTEE

The Program Committee has made it for you and given it to you. The Social Committee, of course, becomes ainted with every member of the Brotherhood. Its members will immediately recognize strangers and greet them and see that they are made acquainted with one another. Find out what you can about them as soon as possible and canvass them for membership in the Brotherhood. Remember that the Brotherhood meetings are not haphazard, irregular affairs. There will be another meeting in two weeks from tonight and another two weeks from that, and so on right through the year. The aggregate of what you will be able to accomplish in twelve months is one of the greatest importance.

GASTRIC JUICES There is a remarkably close relationship between the flow of the gastric juices and the flow of the currents of sociability; hence, the wise social committee will, with considerable frequency, provide a basket of apples, a hamper of popcorn, a bin of roasted chestnuts, or a hatful of something equally unpretentious and equally effective in the promotion of sociability, to pass during the recess hour. This recess affords an opportunity for committees that have been appointed to get acquainted with each other and for the chairman to set the time for the first meeting, for conferences and for the opening of various matters of business that are under consideration, for with all the social side, and with all the cultural emphasis, the fact remains that a Brotherhood is a business organization.

During this interval also members should be reminded that dues are due, and the Finance Committee can busy itself conducting members to the Secretary's desk for this purpose.

The length of the recess is at the discretion of the chair, but from five to twenty minutes is usually sufficient.

The Model Constitution provides for the first meeting in February, which is to be the big annual meeting of the Brotherhood. The plans call for a banquet, and they ask that whatever else your program shall contain, there must be one address upon "The History and Teachings of the Disciples of Christ." Make this the great affair of your Brotherhood year. It is not too early now to appoint a committee on banquet and to call attention of the program committee to the important features and engage special speakers, and also notify secretaries, treasurers and committee chairmen to get reports of the year's work into such shape that they can be put before the organization as a whole. The results, if they have been carefully conserved, will be gratifying.

This will be a meeting to which you can invite many of the outside public and out of which will grow a new conviction and sure determination to do more effective work in the coming year.

Men For The Ministry

MEN! Yes, that is what we mean. Men. Not sissies, not mollycoddles, not time servers, not train bearers, not adulation wafters, not place seekers, but men; real, live, energetic, full-blooded, full-muscled, full-brained men. The pulpit is no place for a ham-strung soul.

The men in our ministry today are the best men in our Brotherhood. Somebody was writing an editorial not long ago and suggested that the laymen teach the preachers spirituality. We have some wonderfully spiritual-minded laymen. It may be that the greatest spirit among us just now is a layman. But our ministers are the cream of our men, and we need more cream in order that there may be more butter in our churning. To be a preacher today is greater than to be anything else that is great. The pulpit always has been the proudest platform under heaven. It never was so important as now. The world today is becoming conscious of a great spiritual need as it never has been conscious of it before. There was a time when the forms of government, or the fundamentals of philosophy were the things for which men clamored. The greatest of ancient philosophers dreamed out the plan of a republic which should perfect the lives of men.

But today we have synthesized all the philosophies into one, and out of that one get only light enough to see that the world around us is dark.

We turn now from systems of thought and systems of living to learn of Him who discourses on the systems of being.

Then, too, the pulpit is untrammelled today as it never has been before. Men may go up to God on what mountain they will. The people will wait for the vision. The preacher of today has an unlimited field for the most varied abilities, and the field is pliable, so that he may not only adjust himself to its limitations, but adjust it to his limitations. We have preachers who are eloquent and studious, but with little aptness for organization and little inclination or capacity for social life. Some of these are doing conspicuously good work. We have pastors who are talented only with a capacity for thoroughness. They are good preachers and good pastors and their work succeeds. We have men whose gifts of public speech are plain, whose message can never find other eloquence than that of earnestness, whose diamonds are unpolished and whose rhetorical flourishings are nothing less than angular, but who couple with this a practical passion for the service of men and of Jesus Christ, and they succeed. No field is so adaptable. No position promises so much in the values that are real. Theodore Roosevelt, J. P. Morgan, J. J. Hill, R. A. Long, Robert LaFollette, Frances J. Heney, Ben Lindsey, Joseph G. Cannon, Nelson Aldrich—yes, even William J. Burroughs the detective—these men, had they given themselves to the serving of Christ in the Christian ministry, with the same consuming passion that they have devoted themselves to otherwise, could easily have made a conspicuous success. True, it is conceivable that some of them at that event might today be pastors of small churches, instead of at the head of mighty enterprises, but they would have succeeded and the chances are that each, no matter where his field, would have rendered a great Christian service. They might have been poorer, and less famous, but the world would have been better.

All this is but another way of saying that the ministry is the greatest calling in the world; that it affords opportunity for the greatest talent and that it provides the most satisfying compensation known to human experience. Take the pictures of any choice dozen of our millionaires. Take the pictures of a dozen of our ordinary type of preachers sitting around on the steps of a convention, church, or hall, and ask yourself which are the happiest.

A father who is a successful business man in a Western city spoke a few weeks ago of the death of his son, who would just now be twenty-one, and he said, "Now that the pangs of my grief are assuaged by time, I do not know that I would have him back. Business life is such an uncertain proposition today." If that man's son had been designed for the ministry, could he have said that? Even where the service be half a failure and the compensation so small that it poverty, what father could feel for the life of his son in the ministry, even characterized by consecration and concentration, could be a failure?

All this; now, to say a serious and moving word to the young men. Will you not consider seriously the ministry as a calling? Your talent for it is your gift and your obligation. It is a happy work, because it is a whole-souled work, because there is a burning of bridges, because there is a narrowing of purpose, because there is a flinging away of everything but your real self, and that is expended to the uttermost. When you enter the ministry, you do not work for a salary, you do not work for an official board, you do not work for a church, but you work for God, and Jesus Christ, and humanity and a good conscience. You do not try to save yourself in the ministry, but try to expend yourself. God does not ask of a minister that he shall mortify his flesh, or endure hardships that destroy his usefulness, but he does ask that he shall give his body and soul and whole personality as a consuming fire, to burn itself out like a torch in the gardens of the Emperor of this world. It is a tremendously high while passion that to give yourself for the service of your fellow-man for the sake of Jesus Christ. It is a marvelous ecstasy, this which comes to the preacher of the Gospel when he sees souls turn to the Cross in response to his exhortation. It is glorious companionship with Jesus Christ that comes from an afternoon of calling upon his flock, when there are lying upon his heart the burdens, the griefs, the sorrows, the perplexities, the stresses, the tribulations of those whom he has visited.

The Christ whom your people will know is not, my young brother, the Christ of your impassioned oratory, not the Christ of simile and metaphor, but it is the Christ who is revealed by the spirit of your daily life. Are you wise? are you gentle? are you patient? are you hopeful? are you unselfish? are you forgiving? are you noble and generous in thought? are you willing to bear the burdens uncomplainingly? are you willing to carry the sins of your people, like a priest, unto God and to carry the message of God, like a prophet, unto your people? to be all things to all men? a friend and advisor? an inspiring leader and faithful follower? a patient organizer? a disseminator of good cheer? a constructive force in the community in which you live? a wholesome example to those without and a wholesome counsellor to those within? Are you willing to wear out your life trying to be and to do these things?

Then seriously, solemnly send yourself into the ministry. This is at once a setting apart and a putting together. You disentangle your life from the world that your soul may be bound up in the bundle of life with Jehovah.

The Local Brotherhood, on its first meeting night in January, is voicing the cry of the Brotherhood Volunteer movement for men for the ministry. Your minister has been requested to preach on the third Sunday in January on "The Ministry as a Calling." He will call for volunteers. Will you be one of them?

The Team Work Campaign

Elsewhere in this magazine, is a detailed account of the Team Work Campaign, in behalf of men and missions, being conducted under Brotherhood auspices with the coöperation of all our missionary and benevolent organizations. The advantages of this plan are obvious. In the first place, it takes off the pastor the burden of informing and inspiring his men in regard to their duty to these great general interests. In the second place, it gives opportunity for a symmetrical presentation of all these interests upon that parity to which they are entitled. Again, it puts before the men and the ministers a thing sufficiently big to be really worth working out. Here is an opportunity to hear three or four missionary experts regarding our own work. It may be interpolated here that our missionary experts are as good as there are in the world. It also makes it possible for the entire energies of the local churches to be combined in one great effort to get the men together for a missionary rally of striking proportions. Not just Foreign Missions, not just Home Missions, not just Benevolences, but all are to be considered at one time.

Under these circumstances, the effort becomes worth while and the attention of your men can be enlisted more effectively than otherwise.

The list of cities to be visited, published elsewhere, was determined upon by a meeting of the General Secretaries' Association at Cincinnati and represents their wisest choice, although they freely concede that mistakes may have been made in the itinerary. However, it is already apparent that this is going to be a striking success. We urge Brotherhood men and ministers and readers of our magazine where there are no Brotherhoods, to throw yourselves whole-heartedly into this campaign. Men and pastors in nearby churches who do not receive a visit of the committee had better arrange for delegations from their own congregations or Brotherhoods.

Frank Waller Allen, pastor of church at Paris, Mo., has come again via the publication route, with a romance of the Ohio Valley entitled "Golden Road." The book is published by Wessells & Bissell Company, New York, and sells for $1.50. It is handsomely bound, printed on a fine quality of paper with illuminated borders, a mounting so sumptuous that to know in advance the story itself must be a treasure in words. Review of the work and something of the man from whose brain the story comes will appear in the February magazine.

Brotherhood Classes, Attention!

We want a complete list of all classes bearing the Brotherhood name in order that we may keep in touch with them and have reports of their work from month to month with a view of enrolling all these classes. Whether you have ever reported your Brotherhood class to us or not, we would very much like it if you would furnish the information to us immediately. Give name and date of organization of your class, names of its officers and teachers and its total enrollment and its last attendance. Can we not have this information by return mail?

What Grafton Thinks

Is the Brotherhood Movement among the Disciples of Christ a success or a failure? For an answer to this question we must determine what we mean by success and what constitutes failure.

Most of the disappointments of the movement grow out of false standards of value. We have come to regard bigness as an indispensable element of success in everything. We have accustomed ourselves to national things, to think in large figures. Big finances, big farming, big enterprises ventures spell success. From the commercial world, it has leaped into the arena of the intellectual and spiritual and assumed for itself the title to supremacy. The biggest meeting marks the success of an evangelist, the biggest Sunday-school the successful superintendent, the biggest church the successful pastor, and that without questioning whether the converts are really converted, whether the Sunday-school is really teaching the word of God, or the church is really catching the spirit of Christ. With big numbers as the standard of measurement, we have all joined in the mad rush for the biggest, and have branded as a failure every man or measure that does not take a front rank numerically.

The Brotherhood of the Disciples is in danger of being unfairly judged by this measurement, and it is this that is doing more to discourage men in their effort to find themselves and a place in the service of the church than anything else. There may be an impression in some quarters that it is a failure because it has swept all the men of the church into ranks and, within the brief two years of its history, solved all the problems that have been trying to solve for a century, without success. It is expected to walk before it creeps, to read the constitution before it has learned the alphabet, to undertake unattainable tasks before it has learned the use of its hands and its feet. The danger of yielding to these expectations and criticisms is its weakness. To attempt to swell itself to the proportions assigned it would be to repeat the experience of the frog which tried to swell to the dimensions of the remember a Galilean teacher once started out to organize a brotherhood. He had his eye on the great world. He hoped ultimately to touch it with his doctrine, and he looked toward an organized brotherhood as a means of accomplishing the tremendous task. Then he chose twelve men, only twelve. They were just ordinary men, untalented and untrained. But he organized them into a band and invited them into his confidence and sought to imbue them with his spirit, that they might catch his vision. It was a tedious, trying experience. I wonder he did not get discouraged and declare the attempt a failure and abandon the whole enterprise. But he persisted. Overlooking the imperfections of this band of men, bearing with their infirmities, stimulating their ambitions, directing their energies, deepening their convictions, he pursued his unchanging purpose until one day, in his absence, they set the world on fire with the doctrine for which he had given his life.

Measured by his standard of success, have we reason for discouragement? If we were only willing to begin a Brotherhood movement with the few men to be found in every congregation who are really willing to follow the Great Teacher in a practical way, might not a marvelous work be wrought today? What greater work can a pastor do than to gather around him a nucleus of the consecrated men of his church, organize them into a Brotherhood, imbuing them with his spirit of service and helping them by his counsel to take up the work as they find themselves fitted for it, doing the things that most need to be done?

What if there were only a dozen for the first year, or two, or three! A dozen brave, strong, consecrated, willing men will become a power in any church. Would such a Brotherhood be successful? Not according to our modern, artificial standard. But in real service and helpfulness, what greater blessing can an overworked pastor desire? Any church can have such a Brotherhood. It may be few in numbers at first, but it will grow. However small, a Brotherhood that is doing things will attract others who have a passion for service. Devotion to duty, not numbers, was Jesus' standard of success. The greatness of purpose and not the length of the membership roll, must be the measure of the movement. Abraham Lincoln once said, "God does not require men to be successful, but He does require them to do their duty." Any work well done is a complete success, whether it is great or small.

If a few men in your church are coming up to their measurement, you have a successful Brotherhood, and you ought to thank God for bringing to His service such an organization, and show your appreciation by helping to forward the Brotherhood Movement by affiliating and coöperating with its leaders.

The Brotherhood has come to stay. It has a mission in this Twentieth century, but let us guard it from shipwreck by not attempting, at the beginning, the unattainable, or by inflating it to abnormal size and then expecting a man's work from an overgrown boy.

T. W. GRAFTON.

Comrades of Paul

There are hundreds of earnest men among our laymen who would have liked to have been ministers, but could see no way, perhaps, to care for themselves and their families while they obtained the necessary education. With some of these men, it is not yet too late, provided there can be a helping hand in the way of a loan fund to supplement their own resources and earnings. With many, it is too late. Many others have, like R. A. Long, deliberately chosen another field of activity or have confessed an obligation to further the work of the ministry and to increase the number of recruits for that ministry. To all these men, the Comrades of Paul Fund comes as a helpful medium. One becomes a Comrade of Paul by binding himself to pay one and a half cents a day, or $5 per year to go into a fund for the support of young men while they are preparing for the ministry. This fund, as it is received, goes into the General Brotherhood treasury and is held there sacred to be apportioned year by year to different Bible Colleges upon a pro-rata basis, according to the number of ministerial students. There are many persons who would like to see their money loaned to some particular ministerial students, or to students at some particular educational institution. This can be arranged by the General Brotherhood. Suppose that the Brotherhood at Davenport, Iowa, procures this year twenty signers of the Comrades of Paul pledge, which would mean a fund of $100, when it is collected. And further, suppose it is the wish of this Brotherhood that the fund be used in helping men at Drake University, one of their own Iowa institutions. We write to the Dean that we have in our Comrades of Paul fund $100 which is to be used to assist worthy students in the Bible College. In nearly all of our schools there are more men needing help than can be assisted. The Dean recommends to us one or two men and arrangements are made to loan them the money. In a particular instance a Local Brotherhood might have some special student in mind and they can arrange that this student shall receive the benefit of their loan, although that loan goes through our general fund.

The advantage of having the money contributed through the Comrades of Paul fund is that it interests men in to give only small sums. It is brought to their attention perennially by our works, and the money is not given outright, but loaned for two or three or four years, without interest, and a note taken. When this note matures, it begins to bear interest at the rate of five per cent per year. The student thus has an incentive to pay it back, and it can then be loaned to other students, going on and on through the ages, rendering an endless and priceless service.

The Comrades of Paul pledge cards can be had from this office without charge. Every Brotherhood organization should give the program on "Men for the Ministry" at their first meeting in January, and at the close of this program they should call for Comrades of Paul and for volunteers for the ministry.
Remember that this fund is devoted to the assistance of students in all our schools, except where it is stipulated that the loan shall go to a particular student of a particular school.

A Letter From President McGarvey

The following letter from President
McGarvey, written in his own hand, which comes to us as we finish writing the appeal in behalf of the Comrades of Paul, emphasizes the need for this fund more than anything else that we might say:

The College of the Bible.

LEXINGTON, KY.,

December 19, 1910.

DEAR BROTHER MACFARLANE:

I know, by my correspondence with young men through many years, that there are always a large number who earnestly desire an education for the ministry but cannot obtain it without help. If they have no one to provide for themselves, they are without excuse;
in this free and prosperous land, where there is a will there is, in all such cases, a way, provided the aspirant has brain enough and brawn enough to make a preacher. But thousands of earnest Christian young men have parents or younger brothers and sisters dependent on them for support and find it impossible to meet these obligations and at the same time accumulate the means necessary for an education. There is no more imperative demand that those who are able should render these young brethren the needed help. The College of the Bible has among its students annually from fifty to seventy men who, without such help, would find an education beyond their reach, and many of these are among the most successful as students while at college and the most useful in their subsequent lives.

From my knowledge of young men who have brains and hearts fit for the work of a preacher, I believe that there is not one in a thousand who declines that work on account of the poverty which it entails, but thousands are kept from undertaking it by financial inability.
For the scarcity of preachers in proportion to the demand for them, the churches that need them are largely responsible. Fraternally yours,

J. W. MCGARVEY.

Brotherhood Volunteer Movement

One of the works of the General Brotherhood is to emphasize the ministry as a calling, and to issue a call for volunteers. Once a year the Brotherhood Volunteer Movement conducts its campaign, which appeals to every minister to preach a sermon on "The Ministry as a Calling," on the third Sunday in January. At this service it asks that a call be made for volunteers for the ministry, and it also asks that one meeting in January shall be held dealing with the subject of "Men for the Ministry," and appeal there made for volunteers or for men who are worthy and able to give serious consideration to the matter.

In this connection we print an article by Louis S. Cupp, Chancellor of Christian University, Canton, Mo., entitled "A Plan to Make Brotherhood Volunteer Day Effective," which will be worth your reading.

* * *

A Plan to Make Volunteer Day Effective

Let the pastor and elders of each church meet before January 15th for prayer and conference concerning the crying need of more men for the ministry. Let them select, with due deliberation, one or two of the most promising young men of the church for this holy calling. Appoint a committee to call on each young man privately, and tell him the elders and pastor have singled him out for this work. Then lay upon him the claims of the ministry for his prayerful consideration. Let him think the matter over for several days.

If he decides to volunteer, have him come forward before the whole church

January 15th, at the close of the sermon on "Men for the Ministry." Follow the sermon with an offering for ministerial education. If the young man has insufficient means for securing a college education, let the church supplement his fund until he can support himself by preaching. If necessary, follow the church offering with a personal canvass, until at least $100 per year is pledged for three years. Place this money in the ministerial loan fund of the college selected. The college will lend it to your young man without interest, to be returned by him to the college after graduation, where it will be used on helping other young men for all time.

If every live pastor among us would take up earnestly some such plan as the one above, we ought to secure at least one young man for the ministry from every aggressive church in our Brotherhood, and at the same time roll up a magnificent offering for ministerial education.

Christian University at Canton, Missouri, has such a loan fund for ministerial students, and is looking to the Brotherhood to send us 200 young preachers.

LOUIS S. CUPP, Chancellor

The Brotherhood Gets a Christmas Present

DECEMBER 24, 1910.

Mr. P. C. MACFARLANE, Gen'l Secretary,

Dear Sir:

This is to advise that Mr. R. A. Long has today instructed me to cancel the charge of $23,000.00 shown on the R. A. Long Real Estate & Investment Co.'s books against the Brotherhood. We are making entry in accordance with his instructions and also crediting the Contribution Account on the Brotherhood books, closing the R. A. Long R. E. & I. Co. account.

Yours very truly,

F. J. BANNISTER, Treasurer.

The foregoing letter tells the story of a great and generous act. It comes to us as the forms for the magazine are closing. We can only say that it gives us a clean slate for the new year. Let us now go to work to keep it clean and see that at the end of the year 1911 the deficit which we are compelled to raise is very much smaller than it has been in either of the previous years, and let us prepare in 1912 to put the work on an entirely self-supporting basis.

A Human Nugget

The gold in California is not all hidden in the hills nor bubbling from oil wells yielding thirty thousand barrels a day. Some of it is throbbing energetically in the veins of noble, clean grained, soul-souled Christian men. One whose life carries an unusually high percentage of the precious metal of Christian character looks out at you from the pages of this magazine, in the sincere face of J. G. Warren, of Los Angeles.

In the state where they make presidents, J. G. Warren was born. His college degree reads from old Hiram and his first spurs in Christian service were won in Cleveland, where, in his younger days which were not so very long ago, he was a leader in Christian Endeavor and then Superintendent of the Sunday-

School and leader of music and general utility man. It was the Euclid Avenue Church which claimed his activities, and those were the days of the pastorate of Jabez Hall. Cleveland, famous among us for the quality of its laymen, spared him reluctantly when some dozen years ago he became an angel. His first duties in Los Angeles were as Superintendent of the Sunday-School in the First Church. He has been an elder there, Chairman of the Board of Officers, teacher of the Business Men's Class, Treasurer of the Southern California Missionary Society, a large contributor to its funds, director in the Y. M. C. A., and very active in all lines of Christian work in Los Angeles, has been a prominent supporter of the Brotherhood movement, and one of the largest individual contributors to its work, and the fame of his good deeds extends far beyond the borders of Southern California, even as the memory of his activities in Cleveland survive there long after his departure from the city by the lake.

While doing all the things recorded above, somehow, just as a matter of incident, perhaps, he has accumulated a fortune. Orange groves, town sites and other bric-a-brac of that nature, attach themselves to his name and title like rock candy crystals to the string. As he grows in wealth, he grows in liberality, and our best wish for him is that in his death he may escape that disgrace of which Andrew Carnegie has so feelingly warned his class.

• "Put our men behind the churches and make them Front Rank Churches," said Judge Haymaker at the Kansas State Convention.

Brotherhood
Bible Class Button

If you have a successful Men's Bible Class or Classes, organize them into a Brotherhood. You must DO as well as TEACH. The Brotherhood is the DOING part of the combination.

If you have a successful Brotherhood, organize them into a Bible Class or Classes, or get them all into the existing classes. You cannot make one man strong without the Bible and you cannot make a Brotherhood strong without it.

The Brotherhood will help the Bible Class.

The Bible Class will help the Brotherhood.

Each will strengthen the other—each will develop forces which will be wasted if the other is not there to conserve them.

The Adult Men's Class

The relation of the Brotherhood to the Adult Men's Class is one that just now seems to be having a good deal of attention. This question was one that was taken up and considered by the General Brotherhood in the beginning, and such arrangement and allotment of Brotherhood work made that the organization could never, in any sense, become a competitor of the Adult Men's Classes. The Brotherhood aims to be the one inclusive organization for men in the church, to which all men may belong. As a department of its activity, it considered the duty of all men to the Bible School, and to the Adult Class and enlists men in both half of these classes and in no way detracting from the force and power of their organizations. The work may be mutually complementary. Where there is no men's Bible class, an aggressive Brotherhood will immediately proceed to the organization of one. That it has done this successfully we can prove by a score of instances, several of which are mentioned in the magazine this month. On the other hand, where there is already existing a Bible Class, we believe that the organization of a Brotherhood within this class and in connection with it, or as a federation with several existing men's classes, will be found to solve the problem of a better conservation of the results of the Bible class work and will insure greater permanency and closer relationship of the class members to the church and to the work of the church and will in all other ways make for the betterment of a work that is already good. Examples of where this has been done are mentioned in another place in this magazine.

We have heard of ministers who have not attempted the Brotherhood work because they preferred to put their energy into an organization of Adult Men's Classes. To all such men we say that you can as readily name your class a Brotherhood class as anything else. The name is scriptural, it is spiritual, it is suggestive, it is alluring and we believe it will be a most important step toward the linking up of this Bible Class with the Brotherhood work on the basis comprehended in the Model Constitution and that whatever you call your class you can affiliate the core of it with the Brotherhood movement as readily as can any other men's organization in the church. Write to us and we will show you how.

John William McGarvey

By HALL LAURIE CALHOUN

Among the many eminent men who have shared in the work of the reformation inaugurated by the Campbells, no other name, unless it be that of Alexander Campbell himself, is more widely known or highly honored than that of John William McGarvey. He was born in Hopkinsville, Ky., March 1, 1829, graduated from Bethany College, and after short pastorates in Missouri and Kentucky he was elected in 1865 Professor of Sacred History in the College of the Bible at Lexington, Ky. After thirty years' service he was elected to the Presidency of the College of the Bible, which position he has held till the present day. For long he has been recognized as one of the most distinguished representatives of the reformation of the Nineteenth century.

Four years under him as his pupil, supplemented by seven years' association with him as a member of the faculty of the College of the Bible, during three years of which time it has been my pleasure to share with him the teaching of a course in sacred history, constitute the basis of my acquaintanceship. And yet it was not my purpose to write of him as teacher, nor even as preacher or author. His pupils, his sermons, his books are everywhere known among us. But I do wish to say some things of him as a man, so great as he is as preacher, teacher and author, he is far greater as a Christian man. It has been said that familiarity breeds contempt and that no man is a hero to his own servant, but of John William McGarvey this is not true. After eleven years of intimate association with him I can unhesitatingly say that he is far greater in my eyes than he was when I viewed him from a distance.

One thing in his character which has impressed me strongly is the purity of his daily conversation.

Another trait of his character which I greatly admire is his humility. He has less pride of opinion and more willingness to look with charity upon those who differ from him than any other man I have ever known. Some of his expressions when seen in print seem exceedingly plain, if not even harsh. To those who know him intimately and who have learned to expect the utmost frankness in his expressions and who hear the same plain statements in his personal conversation, but feel them tempered by the kindly beam of his eye and the tenderness of his tone, they lose all semblance to harshness. His native Irish wit enables him to see readily the ridiculous, and he has ever regarded ridicule, when tempered by charity, as perfectly proper. He seems harsh and unfeeling to those only who forget his charity or who fail to give him credit for it.

Another attribute of his is childlike and implicit trust in his Lord. Truly he could say with Paul, "I know him whom I have believed and I am persuaded that he is able to guard that which I have committed unto him."

The increasing weight of years which has weighed down the hopes of so many good men, seems only to make his hope soar ever higher and higher. The mellow light of life's sunset seems in him richer than its noontide glow; and one feels like saying that in him is fulfilled the words, "The path of the righteous is as the dawning light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

Another element in his character is his keen an unabating joy in the success of those men who have been trained by himself and his co-laborers for the work of the ministry. Of the more than 6,000 men who have been under his tuition, the progress of almost all who are still living is a matter of deep and abiding interest to him.

He can say with John, the beloved, "Greater joy have I none than to hear of my children walking in the truth." It is entirely laudable in him to note with pride the prominent part which "his boys" take on the programs of all our state and national conventions. He has sown bountifully in the field of ministerial education and he is reaping bountifully and enjoying the harvest immensely.

Another of his most striking characteristics is the simplicity of his words and deeds. There is about him absolutely nothing akin to pedantry. His diction is so simple that some persons who are struck by high sounding phrases and involved sentences rather than by the importance of the thought are disappointed when they hear him speak. His manner is as simple and unaffected as his words. There is never any effort to appear striking or spectacular. Like all other truly great men he relies upon the dignity and worth of his thoughts rather than upon its dress. His simplicity of manner is no studied effort. It is just the real man working in his own honest and natural way.

With the gentleness of a woman, and the simplicity of a child, and the energy of a tireless worker, he goes about always doing good. If those persons who have been inclined to consider him harsh in his treatment of those who differ from him could but know by personal association the beautiful frankness, simplicity and charity of his spirit, they would never again think of him as unkind to anyone. Remarks imputing uncharitableness to him are never made by those who know him best.

Another worthy trait which he possesses is absolute freedom from that cant which expresses itself in the pulling of wires and the rolling of logs.

He goes at all his undertakings in the most open, frank and sincere way, relying upon the merit of his cause rather than the shrewdness of his planning. He scorns that crafty manipulation of circumstances, and that shrewd management of men and things, which are the chief capital of some souls who aspire to be considered great.

Another marked trait of his character is his abiding and unshaken confidence in the Bible as the holy and inspired word of God. He believes implicitly its statements of facts. He accepts as really authoritative the commands found upon its pages, and he ardently hopes to enjoy the rich blessings vouchsafed in its exceedingly great and precious promises.

And with that statement of one of the supreme facts of his faith, this little sketch comes to an end. It has not meant to be a fulsome eulogy—such a thing would be an affront to the simple sincere man himself and to the thousands who revere his modest life. Its aim has been rather to present to the readers of CHRISTIAN MEN—and especially to the young men in its clientele—a sane and moderate statement of some facts relative to the personal character of one who belongs not alone to the college over which he presides, but to the great brotherhood whose best interests he has so long and eminently served.

Lexington, Ky.

The Holy Ground

BY ARTHUR HOLMES.

The first great need of men is for religion. This trite demand remains all intact in the human breast, in spite of many indiscriminating and abortive criticisms to the contrary. No interest more wide-spread over the earth and no topic causes livelier discussion in shop, office, market-place or social center than the eternal one of religion. One phase of it especially is fraught with the liveliest concern to most men. This is the primitive and persistent desire for a hereafter. It is the common man's one solid and stable piece of theology. The demand for life hereafter is basic. Considered solely from an intellectual point of view, there are some thinkers who insist that this world needs another to make it rational. For example, Henry Sedgwick, quoted by the late Professor James "A most exasperatingly skeptical" scientist, believes that ethics can find no rigid and scientific basis for reasonable acceptance unless the justification for self-sacrifice in this uncertain world is to be found in a greater weight of glory in another. To give meaning to the unmeaning and unfinished events of this short span; to reward sacrifice for right and future generations in reason; to fortify the soul against discouraging pessimism, corroding cynicism and deceiving sin, rational creatures demand a belief in the world to come.

But the Church cannot stop with bare, cold rationalism. Once the field is cleared of intellectual opposition to any pitiful dogma—as it is in this case—there should be no uncertain note in the ringing enunciation of it. There is a demand of values and motives to human conduct quite beyond the present conservative cognizance of unity-seeking science. Therein the mission of the church is to create faith. Faith is belief energized by love. A passionate belief is the only one that is contagious. A needed belief needs no proof. The human heart, not the human head, requires to be stayed and sustained.

Therefore, let the preacher still sound his message of the other world. In a reaction against emphasis upon a far-away heaven wherein all things were to be miraculously recompensed, ardent souls may lose sight of heaven altogether. It is well to pause long enough to remind ourselves that the supernal must always be the distinctive message of the church. Otherwise, it has no message at all. For many other single organizations, and certainly the aggregate of organizations, can well take care of this world. All of them, however, unless resting upon the church, or its hope, are but broken arches with one chord hanging in mid-air. There are issues of life that must reach into another existence for their motives and perfectment.

It will be well for the church to let its members know precisely upon what grounds they believe. This may reduce the modicum of faith, but it will insure the permanency of it. There is a wide difference between pragmatism and sentimentalism. Many a man has lost faith in his God and repudiated the church because, in the stress of some sudden affliction he found his hope built upon simile, allegory and oratory. In robust health, out under the blue sky, with the air against his cheek and the song of birds in his ears, any man may be able to quote—

"So live that when thy summons comes to join

The innumerable caravan, that moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take

His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed

By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

But in the sudden hour, all black with insistent, bounded factual force, it is vain to bolster up faltering faith by repeating words or reading sentiment.

"Can storied urn or animated bust
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath
Can honor's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or flattery soothe the dull, cold ear of death?
Socrates, the heathen, died like a man.
The Christian must live like a god.
Stoic death nor stoical life, but life triumphant must be the unique possession of the church-members, so that even when bone of his bone, life of his life, heart of his heart, goes, he may smile the patient smile of faith in—

"That God which ever lives and loves,
One God, one law, one element,
And one far-off, divine event
To which the whole creation moves."

THE LATE DWIGHT L. MOODY

The passing years serve only to increase the appreciation by Christian people of the English speaking world of the great work of Dwight L. Moody. In every great religious gathering of an interdenominational character today are to be found men whose spiritual life was quickened by thoughts of this great, simple, earnest man. What this generation owes to him in the way of Christian workers it would be hard to estimate, but along with his influencing spirit today there linger also institutions planted by him which grow in strength and widen annually the circles of their influence. One of these is "The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago." It is planning to celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary by a week of special services beginning Founder's Day, February 5, 1911.

Invitations have been sent to over six hundred graduates and former students, who are scattered all over the world engaged in various forms of Christian work.

Dormitory for Women. Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

At that time it is expected that the dormitory for women will be ready for occupancy. It has cost $200,000 and will accommodate two hundred. This is the second of the three new buildings made necessary by the steady growth of the Institute.

Last year the enrollment was six hundred and fifty-one, of whom about four hundred were men and two hundred and fifty were women.

The object of this anniversary week is simply to mark off another milestone in the history of the Institute, but also to inaugurate a vigorous campaign for awakening interest in Bible study and in individual effort to win men to Christ among Christians generally.

PRESIDENT R. A. LONG

On his Favorite Horse, "Messenger Boy," Leading the State-wide Prohibition Parade in Kansas City on November 6th

Shots From Shellenberger

November 20th—At Seymour, Ia., and by side with "Will" Fisher, the Iowa Bible School Superintendent—a royal fellow—a big-hearted, wide-sympathied companion. He spoke in the morning on the school work. The Secretary in the afternoon to men only on Brotherhood work. In the evening the time was divided in minutes each. Eighteen members of the Brotherhood here, of which E. Roberts is president; they have set for themselves the goal of a larger Bible school.

November 22d—Salina, Kan., B. L. Smith gathered a number of his men to hear the Brotherhood proposition. Twelve present and twelve covenants were taken and a Brotherhood was organized. B. L. is leading the men onward. It is not a large beginning but a good beginning.

November 24th—Thanksgiving, and the Secretary has his feet under E. D. Shellenberger's table, at Mound City, Mo. While he eats of the juiciest turkey in Missouri, he is wondering what a little family back in Ohio is doing.

November 25th—Manhattan, Kan. Everything in readiness for a good meeting. Fifty-one men present. Thirty-two had pledged themselves to membership before the Secretary arrived. They all took the covenant. The pastor, C. A. Richards, just got out of the reformatory at Hutchinson a few months ago (he was chaplain) and knows how to reach men and boys. Manhattan will do good work.

November 27th—Hutchinson, Kan., is frozen up. That is, everything but the hearts of the men. They are as warm as a sun parlor on the 4th of August. Here are a great host of earnest men. Fifty-one of them took the covenant and have determined to double their membership before their next meeting. Bro. O. L. Cook, the pastor, has a mighty working force here and he is hitching it to the church's problems.

November 28th—The first Disciple we saw in Wichita, Kan., was Bro. W. S. Priest. He was nailing the Secretary's pictures to a bill-board,—just plastering the board with them. But that is the way Priest does things. This is the home of Judge J. N. Haymaker, one of our National directors. The weather was cold, and the wind roaring, but we had a fine meeting. A committee was appointed to take the matter under advisement.

—Later word from Judge Haymaker says they will organize at Wichita.

November 29th—At Joplin, Mo. Here is a great Brotherhood. J. W. Perry is a real estate man and the President. Representatives from three Joplin churches were present. Enthusiasm reached high water mark. Bible school and personal evangelism are their special tasks. Bro. Blunt, the pastor, is happy among his men. What a glory of strength such a gathering represents!

November 30th—And we are setting down to quiet prayer with Bro. D. W. Moore and his people at Carthage. It is a real feast to a hungry soul to sit in the prayer-meeting once more. And now the prayer service is over, thirty minutes of devotion surrounded by brethren carries one close to the throne. The Secretary tells the story of the Brotherhood. The men gather about and anxiously ask questions and suggest a return date for organization. Such are the delightful experiences while on the Brotherhood mission.

December 2d—And we clasp hands with Sam I. Smith at Pittsburg, Kan. Sam's from Kentucky. But you would scarcely need to be told that, when you see his towering form, and genial smile, and feel his warm welcome. He had done his work well and a popular audience well filling the church was the result. The Brotherhood L. B. D. C. No. 270 was stimulated and twenty-six new covenants were taken. J. U. Treadwell was elected President.

December 3d—Saturday night and in Oklahoma City. The great Scoville meeting is on. More than 1,200 additions to date and meeting under full headway. J. H. O. Smith and his men are all busy in the meeting. Here is a good local Brotherhood but unaffiliated. They are going to connect and get the full current from the Brotherhood dynamos.

December 4th—Kingfisher, Okla., is all in a meeting. Lowell McPherson is the evangelist, and C. T. Runyan is the pastor. The Secretary spoke to a Union Brotherhood gathering in the afternoon. Fifteen Brotherhoods were assembled, about 100 men present. The Brotherhood is solving the problem of Christian union. This is the home of L. B. D. C. No. 333.

December 5th—D. A. Wickizer is the pastor at Tulsa. Everybody was shivering here, including the Secretary. If we are going to have winter we prefer the North to the South. But we had a meeting and organized a Brotherhood. The hearts of the Oklahoma people were in strong contrast to the weather. They gave the Brotherhood a warm reception.

December 6th—Enid, Okla., is the home of Christian University, of which E. V. Zellers is president. Here we met old friends Professors Marshall and Hart. W. Wright is pastor. On account of serious illness of his wife and child he was unable to attend the meeting. A committee was appointed to take matter of organization under advisement. Our heartfelt sympathies go out to Bro. Wright and his family. Enid University is doing a great work. Here we spoke to the largest mission class in our Brotherhood. Prof. F. H. Marshall is the teacher. It was an inspiration. Enid also claims more ministerial students than any of our other schools.

December 8th—And back to Kansas City. The day was spent in directors' meeting. It was an arduous but pleasant day. Work was done of which the Brotherhood will hear later, and which will tell for a large growth.

December 9th—Savannah, Mo., is 14 miles from St. Joseph. It has a wide awake church of Disciples. W. D. Bray, editor of the Democrat, was the Secretary's genial host. There is more fried chicken per square yard in Northern Missouri than any place on earth, and Mrs. Bray's is done to the queen's taste. An enthusiastic congregation assembled. Twenty-six covenants were taken and Paul F. Limerick was elected President. This Brotherhood will become a power in this church.

December 10th—Saturday night again and the Secretary is enjoying the homey atmosphere of Bro. H. H. Harmon's home in Lincoln, Neb.

December 11th—The morning and afternoon were spent with the East Side Lincoln Church, where Prof. Hilton is pastor. It would be difficult to find a more sympathetic audience. The men wept as they caught the vision of the tremendous possibility of organized manhood. Twenty-one covenants were taken and a Brotherhood was organized. Prof. Hilton has great hopes for his men.

December 11th—The evening was spent

H. O. Pritchard at Bethany, the home of Cotner University. H. O. Pritchard is doing a fine work among his people. The center of Brotherhood organization will be set up in the Men's Bible Class next Wednesday's day. Bro. Pritchard says they will organize.

December 12th—The morning found us in ministerial meeting at Frist Church, Lincoln. The Lincoln brethren want to enter a mid-year general Brotherhood convention. They are enthusiastic over such a thing and would take it up with a hearty will. Shall we have a mid-year Convention? Lincoln and the Field Secretary gave "Aye" with both hands up.

December 12th—Aurora, Neb. Pastor A. Burns is just leaving for Albia, Ia. Withstanding the men met and organized a Brotherhood. They realize that their work is needed all the more when they have no pastor. Dr. H. G. Morrell was chosen president.

December 13th—Sioux City is growing. We have a growing church here. W. E. Harmon has been pastor for two months. He is getting his work well in hand and the men are rallying royally to his leadership. They had already organized a Brotherhood, but met for conference on the work. We had a fine meeting in the Y. M. C. A. They have set themselves to the task of building an addition to their church for Brotherhood purposes.

December 14th.—University Place in Des Moines is the place to find a royal welcome. Brother Medbury's cordial smile had "welcome" written upon it so that one could read it at first sight. A conference at the dinner hour with the State executive committee of Iowa of which Prof. C. N. Kinney is president will be productive of good in Iowa. They are planning for larger things. The purpose of the committee is to touch the ripest fields between this and the next State convention.

The Secretary spoke to the prayer-meeting audience. There must have been 400 people present. As usual the majority were men. But there were a goodly number of women also. Thirty-one covenants were taken and twenty-two new subscriptions were taken to the Magazine. A movement was on foot that night to make the number of covenants 100 by their next meeting. And what the University Place church undertakes it generally does.

Just now Des Moines is in the heat of a fight with the liquor traffic. "Shall the licenses for another five years be renewed?" is the question. The Iowa law requires more than 50% of the signatures of the voters of a given district in order to secure a license. Our men are doing heroic work.

December 15th.—Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has two thriving churches. F. E. Smith is the pastor of the Second church. He has been with them for nearly five years. He has a noble band of men in his congregation. A year ago they started a Brotherhood. An attempt was made to affiliate with the National organization, neither did they take any definite program. The organization finally fell into desuetude. On this evening they started over again. They began with the determination of affiliating immediately and following the suggestive programs. This, we feel, will assure their permanency. Not a single organization has ceased which has affiliated and followed the programs. The Cedar Rapids men are in earnest. They will succeed.

December 16th—and in conference with the brethren at Irving Park, Chicago. We never met more earnest men than the men of Irving Park. The attendance was small from the fact that Christmas was so close. Many of the men are so busy that they remained down in the city all night in order to be early at their work in the morning.

The conference was an interesting one. The men asked many intelligent questions. A committee was appointed to take the matter up with a larger number of men and look toward an organization. Those present were enthused over the Brotherhood proposition. In fact that is the case wherever the Brotherhood proposition is put. Men listen with intense interest. And when once they understand it they invariably say: "If that is what the Brotherhood is proposing to do I am with it heart and soul."

C. C. Buckner is the pastor. He has just lately come to this work from South Bend, Ind. He is enthusiastic over his work.

December 17th—gave us a short visit in the office of the Christian Century. Brother Morrison knows how to give a cordial welcome. His enthusiasm over the proposed "Team Work Campaign" is refreshing. Brother Morrison believes in the Brotherhood most heartily. He is frank enough and manly enough to say he feels that we have not properly interpreted it to the public. This kind of criticism we covet. And the splendid thing about Morrison is, he is willing to help to bring it before the public so that they will see it in all of its wonderful significance.

December 18th.—A. B. Houze is doing a great work at Kendallville, Ind. His Brotherhood is winning the confidence of the men of the city. So true is this that we organized a Men's Federation in the afternoon meeting. A committee consisting of one representative from each church was appointed. This committee is to report in the near future plans for organization.

Kendallville organized their Brotherhood about one year ago. They have done good work in the Bible school and are having their influence in the city. We had a great day at Kendallville.

December 19th.—Winter is on in earnest in Northern Indiana. We are at Hamilton for tonight. Great things are being planned. They are looking for 100 men. A banquet is on. If the blizzard does not drive us all in we will organize a Brotherhood tonight.

December 20th.—And HOME.

A Merry Xmas to Brotherhood men everywhere!

A Conductor Evangelist

By W. S. BULLARD

What do you think of a man who runs a freight train six days in the week and preaches on Sunday? That is Isaac Wright, of Bluefield, W. Va. He is all right. We present a picture of him as he is just swinging on the caboose and then we present another picture of these same features as he swings into the pulpit on Sunday morning and shouts all aboard for the land of the sweet bye-and-bye.

Conductor Wright was born just before the war, and when he was married at the age of twenty-one, had lived all of his days in the seclusion of sparsely settled mountain districts, where a newspaper seldom or never reached and where the only books in the home were the Bible, a history of the United States and Baxter's "Saint's Rest." These he knew almost by heart. Reading his Bible one day he paused over the word Christian. "The Disciples were first called Christians," and he said to himself, "I will be a preacher. Yes, I will be a Christian preacher. Everybody will join my church and I will be the biggest man in the world." But financial losses came and the enthusiastical would-be preacher found himself laying track on a new railroad line. The boys were a whiskey-drinking, poker-playing crowd, among whom the name of God was not heard except in vain. When on Sunday morning one of these track layers laid down his shovel and pick to preach at a school house nearby, to pour out his soul against gambling and drink, but the young preacher was only a hand. He had condemned the practices of his foreman and even higher officials, and his impression when the sermon was done was that he had preached himself out of a job.

Instead the whole camp was reformed. He was placed in charge of a work train and in that position would not let his men swear.

One day when the train-master got into his cab and was free with his profanity, he was reproved by the mild but effective statement, "This caboose isn't accustomed to such language."

Promotion made Wright conductor of the freight train. His run was from Bluefield to Norton, Va., at which place he held his first revival meeting, resulting in sixteen conversions. He preached regularly on Sunday in his overalls to the railroad men. Once the train broke in two on a mountain grade and threatened a disastrous wreck and a collision with a special that was following. The brakeman got scared and jumped, but Conductor Wright climbed out of the caboose, set the brakes on car after car until the wild dash downward was stopped and the disaster averted. "Bully for you," said the superintendent. "did you pray?" "No," said a friend who was standing by, "he was braking then; he had prayed beforehand."

He is still a conductor. He preaches every Lord's day, giving his service to destitute places and is honored by officials of the road who instruct even fast trains to stop at the blindest siding and let off the freight conductor who, with sermon outlined on the back of a way-bill in his pocket, is bound for the little church behind the hill. Year after year he takes his train out and year after year he brings it in again. His record at headquarters is a spotless one, but the thing he is proudest of is not the thousands of miles he has run nor the hundreds of tons of freight that his trains have hauled, but the fact that he has baptized more than six hundred souls into the church of Jesus Christ. He has schooled his native intelligence and seated in his delightful study, among his well selected books one does think of the railroad conductor, but of the pastor and indeed he can preach acceptably to the city congregation, but he has chosen most literally give his services to the highways and hedges. Besides his personal gospel work, he has helped another man into the ministry, is helping to educate several more and is also educating a young lady for the foreign work. Nor is he yet old, but has the promise of many years of usefulness. With a double work and a double service in and for his day and generation, he will be able to say at the end, "I have done what I could; I have fought a good fight." All honor to men, who like this conductor-evangelist, not only make their own way in the world but who also continue at the same time to work God's will.

Bluefield, W. Va.

A Brace of Man Handlers

C. M. PINKERTON
Oklahoma

One of the fortunate selections for State Brotherhood President was that of C. M. Pinkerton, for Oklahoma. He is the kind of man who can mix business and religion to such an extent that you can't tell where one leaves off and the other begins. His frequent contributions to our religious press make pungent reading and already his hand in the Brotherhood work is seen. Although the State Convention is only sixty days past, a movement has already been inaugurated by Mr. Pinkerton to secure six hundred men, beside of ministers, to attend the next State Convention, which will be held at Enid in June.

The President's business takes him out over the State and he is already in demand for addresses on the subject of the Brotherhood work in many parts of the State.

Not every preacher can work successfully among the males. J. Francis Ashley, of Jasonville, Ind., is one of those who can. All day long he handles the mails, being a railway postal clerk, having a busy one-man run of two hundred and forty-four miles from Jasonville to Terre Haute and back. For nine years he has handled Uncle Sam's mails and they call him "Jim, the Quick." His record for efficiency is high. For four years he has been looking after the Lord's males and the rest of the folks, too, in the church at Jason-ville. During these four years the membership has grown from forty to four hundred. He has a working Brotherhood and believes in it emphatically as an important feature of successful church work among and in behalf of men. On this page we show a picture of Mr. Ashley in the pulpit where for six days he preaches the gospel of industry and efficiency.

J. FRANCIS ASHLEY
Indiana

Wireless Whispers

V.A. 6055

George W. Muckley, Secretary of our Board of Church Extension, represented the Brotherhood on the convention platforms of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina. He is a brilliant exponent of the Brotherhood idea and is a member of L. B. D. C. No. 1 and in addition holds General Membership Card No. 186.

The closing service of the protracted meeting held in the Jackson Avenue Church, Kansas City, was given over to the officers and members of Local Brotherhood No. 261. A chorus of thirty male voices and a male quartette furnished music and besides the ladies in the audience there were more than 200 men and 100 boys who listened to the inspiring address of the pastor, T. W. Grafton. The congregation was enthusiastic about the way the men sang. The service will be duplicated soon.

"I came here in September from Steubenville, Ohio, and I was told before coming here that this is one of the 'tuff towns of West Virginia,'" writes Charles N. Jarrett, of Williamson, W. Va. "This is a railroad town on the north and west and the shops are here, hence there is a host of men to work with. I feel that if we can get a number of men to read CHRISTIAN MEN a while we will be able to organize a Brotherhood. We are at present building a $10,000 church house and we will need to interest all the men possible."

"Where do you go Sunday evenings?" is the cover greeting of an announcement issued by Local Brotherhood No. 329, Howett Street Church, Peoria, Ill. The President, Arthur W. Leu, writes: "The Carpenters' Union has been invited to attend in a body and has accepted our invitation. Our pastor, Brother William Price, has been elected a fraternal delegate from the Peoria Ministerial Association to the Trades Assembly and has addressed the Trades Assembly recently at their invitation upon subjects relating to the work of the Church."

The Brotherhood of the Franklin Circle Church, Cleveland, Ohio, is a live wire in the community. It holds regular meetings on definite dates and has a program every time that is abundantly worth while. H. H. Pounds is president and at a recent meeting R. A. Doan, of Nelsonville, gave an address on Bible School work which was enthusiastically received. The Bible School orchestra furnished music and dinner was served by the Ladies'

League of the church. Other music consisted of a solo by Mr. Alderman, Assistant Pastor, and a male quartette. Officers were elected for the ensuing year: D. A. Depew, President; Mr. Roof, Vice-President; Earl Brown, Secretary; Charles Saltzer, Treasurer. W. F. Rothenberger is the minister.

The men of L. B. D. C. No. 329, Howett Street Church, Peoria, Ill., sent their President, Mr. Arthur Leu, and Pastor, Wm. Price to Armington on the evening of November 10th, to organize a Brotherhood. Our church at Armington has the distinction of being "The Only Church in Town," and has the exclusive opportunity to serve the entire community. R. B. Doan is the enthusiastic pastor and arranged a large gathering to listen to these Brotherhood men who know not only how to tell the Brotherhood story but have demonstrated by their organization at home their ability to do the work. A detailed account of the meeting has not come to hand but we doubt not that theirs was a successful mission and we look forward to enrolling the Brotherhood of Armington as a chapter of the General Brotherhood organization.

L. B. D. C. No. 291, Elkhart, Ind., held a splendid meeting on December 2d, twenty-seven men being present. The subject of discussion was "Resolved, That the world is growing worse," with D. M. Hoover and H. Warner on the affirmative and U. S. Cottrell and W. W. Templin for the negative. The meeting was an interesting one and after the program was rendered refreshments were served and there was a general good time.

R. A. Doan, who used to be from Nelsonville, is gradually spreading out until now he comes from most all of Ohio. He took an elder of the Nelsonville church, E. A. Wallace with him over to Glouster, Ohio, one Sunday recently and made an afternoon address on the Brotherhood and spoke in the evening on Bible School work among men. The Baptist and M. E. ministers were present in the afternoon and plans for a union Brotherhood are in the process of formation. John L. Davis of Glouster, is a Disciple who is moving on the enterprise. Our church there has no pastor at present. A night or two later Mr. Doan was found addressing a union meeting of Brotherhoods in the Methodist Church at Marietta and shortly after that he was before the Brotherhood of the Broad Street Christian Church, Columbus, Ohio, which, as a result of a visit of J. K. Shellenberger, is just pe ing its organization. While at Marietta energetic brickmaker slipped in before a at a six o'clock dinner given by the erhood at the Congregational Church. writes: "I am meeting so many nice e lately who are not Disciples that. I n danger of not continuing orthodox." will risk that, because we think the chances he nice people he meets will yield to the stible touch of the man from Nelsonville come Disciples, or at least join the Nel- lle class.

cal Brotherhood No. 273, Wooster, Ohio, tains the neighboring Brotherhood at ve, Ohio, at banquet. e are indebted to the Wooster Daily s for the following account of the affair: many months the Philippian Brotherhood ne Christian Church of this city has been ing to entertain the Brotherhood of the stian Church at Shreve. Tuesday evening essed the first event of the kind in the The Shreve delegation was met at the at 7:07 by a committee and was escorted W. R. C. hall, where the banquet took e. At 8:30, after all had become ac- ted with each other, forty-five men sat n to the banquet table. At the close of the er, J. W. Hooke, as toastmaster, arose after giving the customary introductory rks, called out the following program:

- st—Brotherhood and the Church.....
-Wm. Harris, of Wooster
- tion.....Male Quartet of Shreve
- st—Brotherhood and the Pastor.....
-Rev. M. S. Decker, Shreve
- ction.....Male Quartet of Wooster
- st—Brotherhood in History.....
-Dr. R. C. Paul, of Shreve
- to Solo.....Clyde Brandt
- st—Brotherhood in Prophecy.....
-S. G. Gill, of Wooster
- ction.....Shreve Quartet

ne following program of L. B. D. C. No. Massillon, Ohio, is so suggestive that we e it in the belief that it may be helpful othor Brotherhood program committees. e next regular meeting of the Brotherhood be on Tuesday evening at 7:30, sharp— means just thirty minutes after seven. meeting will begin promptly on time the program will be followed strictly. The ting will be opened by devotional exercises, owed by a brief business session. Without y the following program will be given:

- eral Subject.. "The Move to the Country"
- er, "The Modern Move to the Country"
-N. Mollett
- er, "The Clearing and Utilization of Our wamp Lands".....Mr. Rice
- ress, "The Irrigation of Our Arid Lands"
-Mr. Shillings
-Mr. Gorrell
- to Solo.....Mr. Denton
- ic.....High School Orchestra

ebate. "Resolved, That the great irriga- plants of the West should be under the ol of the Government and not private orations."

Affirmative, Mr. Hughes.

Negative, Mr. Slater.

Debate will be thrown open and anyone may take part.

During the business session each committee will be asked to give a written report of the work done. Every man is urged to bring another man.

Peoria, Illinois, Brotherhood No. 310, at their meeting of November 25th, debated the subject, "Resolved, That the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ is a justifiable organization." Three men on the affirmative and three on the negative. H. B. Holloway, one of the debaters, writes: "The judges unanimously decided in the affirmative. We had a splendid meeting and everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy the debate."

Big Brotherhood Bible Class Banquet

On Monday evening, December 5th, Local Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ No. 311, of the Third Christian Church, Philadelphia, entertained their newly organized Brotherhood Bible class with an elegant banquet. It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings of men that has ever been seen in that church. The distinction of being connected with such an immense body of Christian men, such as the National Brotherhood, seemed to be realized by every man present.

Owing to a severe snow storm there was only sixty-six present instead of the anticipated about ninety-five. As each man entered the church his name was tagged on his coat and therefore the strangers experienced no difficulty in making acquaintances, so the meeting was a great success from a social standpoint.

There were forty-seven Brotherhood Bible class men present, out of fifty-five enrolled, and nineteen Brotherhood men that are not connected with the class, many of whom are connected with the school organization.

The banquet opened with a prayer by Brother George H. G. Superintendent of the Bible School, after which our worthy and energetic President, Sam. Wisler, as toastmaster, gave us a short address of welcome. Short talks followed by our pastor, Brother George P. Rutledge, teacher and chairman of the Brotherhood Bible class; President W. Butterworth, of the Bible class; G. P. Lemont, W. Hopkins and G. H. Grone. Aside from these addresses special music was rendered which was enjoyed by all. At the conclusion of the banquet Brother Rutledge called a short meeting of the Bible class and appointed the following committees to work for the success of the class: Employment, Ministerial, Reception, Relief, Entertainment, Membership, Advertising, Class Attendance and Church Service Attendance. These committees involved every man in the Bible class with a chairman for each.

At the conclusion of their meeting they had decided to accept the challenge issued by the Jackson Avenue Brotherhood Bible class of Kansas City, Mo., for a contest for attendance and new scholars, continuing for three months beginning January 1, 1911. Every man was enthusiastic and determined to do his very best to beat the Kansas City aggregation and denoted their intentions by rising and saying in concert "We must win." A photograph was then taken of every man present in an immense group.

The Death of Mr. Houghteling

Mr. James L. Houghteling, founder of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, passed away recently at his home in Chicago. He was one of the foremost laymen of the Episcopal Church, organized the first Brotherhood of St. Andrew in St. James Episcopal Church, Chicago, in 1887. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew has grown in strength and power until there is hardly an Episcopal Church in this country without its chapter of the Brotherhood, and they are to be found all over the world.

A leader among the foremost Christian business men of the country, Mr. Houghteling was identified with the Young Men's Christian Association and various civic organizations of Chicago and was prominently identified with country-wide movements of Christian activity. The Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ extends its sympathy to the Brotherhood of St. Andrew and feels with it the keenest loss of a fellow workman who labored for twenty-five years with the problem with which we ourselves are grappling.

How to Make Your Pastor's Work Heavy

1. Stay away from the meeting of the church.
2. Complain about the pastor before your unconverted children.
3. Tell him you are not fairly dealt with and demand justice.
4. Tell him how badly some of his flock are doing.
5. Disobey the pastor's revival rules and teach others to do the same.
6. Sit at home on Sunday evenings and leave him with a small audience.
7. Talk down any attempt of his to reach men in some way other than your way.
8. When sick never tell the pastor, but always blame him if he does not call.
9. When he is worn out don't fail to tell him of some people who are angry because he did not call on them.

Try this program and you will drive away the spirit of God and drive the heart out of your pastor.—The Christian Visitor.

Simpson Ely's Book

When Simpson Ely died, there passed a man who, while alive, was always found contending earnestly and with facility of speech for the things most certainly believed by him. It is a fitting tribute that his son, Marcellus R. Ely, pays to his memory in giving to the public the volume entitled "Sermons, Essays and Outlines," which came from the pen of the father. The best tribute that we can pay to the man who is gone is not to raise a mausoleum to his memory nor to engrave the characters of his name in marble, but to honor the things which he honored and strive to perpetuate the things which he himself sought to build into the eternities of the world. In this little volume of two hundred and thirty pages are a complete series of evangelical sermons, a most interesting discourse on prayer, some essays and a short story on the life of the founder.

The book is bound in cloth and may be obtained from the Standard Publishing Company, or, we presume, from the son, Marcellus R. Ely, Puyallup, Washington.

The Tabernacle Society of Men of the Tabernacle Church, Columbus, Ind., of which W. H. Book is pastor, held their second annual meeting and banquet on December 12th. The wives and sweethearts of the members were guests of the society and their presence heightened interest in the subject under discussion which was Marriage and Divorce. W. H. Book had charge of the program, and the subject was the one published in CHRISTIAN MEN, "The Integrity of the Home." The speakers were John W. Donaker, Marshal Hackel, and T. A. Moore. The debate, "Resolved, That marriage is a failure," evoked considerable merriment. Two married men, G. L. Fein and Charles L. Irwin, took the affirmative of the proposition, while two bachelors, Archie Connor and Harry Short, took the negative. The judges were Gus Boyd, Thos. Bruce, and A. C. Denison, who decided unanimously that marriage was a failure. A. C. Denison rising to the right to explain to one certain person that his decision was only in fun. There was a piano solo by Esther Spannegal and also by J. D. Emmons, with invocation by W. H. Book. The officers of the society are: O. B. Shank, President; C. M. Stetser, Vice President; Ira E. Guthrie, Secretary; Charles L. Irwin, Assistant Secretary; Edw. C. Clark, Treasurer.

Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, of Washington, D. C., sends us a note regarding the opium problem with the remark that when a certain battle for good legislation was on in the legislature a preacher asked to help reply that he could not speak on such matters the following Sunday because it was the Sabbath. Well, what do you think of this? Mr. Crafts tells us that on December 21st the anti-opium bill passed the Chinese Exclusion Commission, providing for total prohibition, to take effect next year. Strong representation is being made to the British Government asking them to release China from the opium trade. Churches all over Great Britain observed December 24th as a day of humiliation and prayer, this being the fifteenth anniversary of the opium treaty, by which the British Government forced upon China this soul and body destroying traffic. We prohibit traffic in opium in this country and so does Great Britain. By what species of logic is it forced upon a nation confessedly more helpless than our own?

The Disciples in New York City are mourning the death of James Gray, Sr., a deacon in the historic First Church of New York, which celebrated its centennial a few weeks ago. Mr. Gray was a subscriber to CHRISTIAN MEN and a most faithful servant of Jesus Christ. To his son, who bears his name, and his sorrowing family, we extend the sympathy of our whole Brotherhood.

Brotherhoods are looking up at L. B. D. C. No. 1, Ashtabula, Ohio, where S. G. Buckner, formerly of Elkhart, Ind., has recently become pastor, and they have greater things in view. They have a Men's Bible class with an attendance above seventy and a prospect of immediate increase. Their first Brotherhood banquet of the fall was held November 30th, with an attendance of seventy-six, and was declared to be the best ever held by that organization, not only in excellency of the spread but in the good, live program rendered and the practical things done. A leading feature of the program was a debate "Should Christians enter politics?" Dr. Linsley and Geo. Cox on the affirmative, Theo. Smith and Dr. Holcomb on the negative. They are looking forward to the building of a larger and modern church edifice commensurate with their membership. The Brotherhood started the building fund with a subscription of $1,000, also pledging a large amount for the equipment of Brotherhood club rooms in the new building. One more piece of evidence of the Brotherhood's usefulness.

The Lord's Day's Appeal to Brotherhoods

Christian men are just awakening to the true meaning and duty of Brotherhood as emphasized in I John. All true children of God are emphatically brothers, hence the Brotherhood idea is first to grasp hands and unite with all other children of God in real brotherly co-operation, each helping the other. All that is Christlike, all that knits us closer to our Elder Brother.

After an Indian tribe first heard the story of Jesus from Missionary Duncan an aged man asked, "Did you say He is your Father and your Father?" "Yes," he replied. "Then are we brothers?" and they grasped hands. "All are our brothers. Our Elder Brother gave His life for each lost brother, so His brothers are eager to rescue, even at the cost of personal sacrifice, any lost brother who is crushed by his employer's greed, or who is wronging his employee.

As said Bishop Ireland: "God's greatest gift to giving Himself in Christ was the holy Sabbath Day." Man's chief need is eternal life, which is heart acquaintance and union with Christ. The prime purpose of the Lord's Day is that on one full day each week, freed from work and toil, God may have opportunity to enter into closest fellowship with the soul, cleanse out all the dust gathered during the week, and insure and perfect eternal life. But men's body, mind, home, social life and character also suffer when robbed of a weekly rest day by others' greed for fun or money, or by his own ignorance or indifference.

So true Brotherhood demands not only personal work for the lost nearby and mission work for the lost far off but individual united work to defend and exalt the Lord's Day. (1) Earnest study and appropriation of its spiritual blessings; (2) Study of the serious mischief to body, mind, home and character of Sunday sport and toil; (3) Persistent distribution in every home of leaflets that will educate those now ignorant of these facts so clearly proved by science and history; (4) See that Sunday laws, especially on sport, are not weakened, but strengthened where they need it; (5) Persistently insist that all officers fulfill their sworn obligation to enforce all law, encouraging and helping all who seek to enforce Sunday laws; (6) Close postoffices Sunday wherever by united effort you can secure a large petition for it; wherever this cannot be done, secure release from Sunday work for letter carriers and as many clerks as possible. The National Letter Carriers' Association and Lord's Day Alliance unite in asking churches to secure these men Sunday rest. This work just fits Brotherhoods. Colorado Springs, Toledo and many other cities have done this. Detroit office was closed Sunday beginning November 20th. For information write G. W. Grannis, D.D., 203 Broadway, New York. (7) Do all possible to release others who work Sunday; (8) Appeal to Congress and your state legislature to enact laws giving all who work Sunday a full rest during the next six days.

Thirty sample Lord's Day papers sent to anyone for 10 cents.

J. B. DAVISON,
160 Harmon Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

The Council on Christian Union

To our brethren in Christ associated with us in a movement to restore New Testament Christianity and to promote the unity of Christ's followers, everywhere, greeting:

DEARLY BELOVED BRETHREN: At our National Convention in Topeka, Kan., a Council on Christian Union was formed, as you are aware, to give special emphasis to the imperative need of that unity among the believers in Christ for which He prayed, and also to make known to the religious world in a fraternal way the basis on which we have been seeking to realize such unity, and to solicit from others any additional contribution which they may be able to make toward the solution of this great and pressing problem. The Commission appointed by said Council to carry out these purposes, together with other brethren equally interested with us whose names are hereto attached, feel, when we come to face the magnitude of the task assigned us and the great interests involved, that it is only by your united prayers with ours that God may grant us freely His wisdom and grace that we can hope to accomplish any large and enduring results. We are sure that you agree with us in the conviction that it is only as we approach this great and holy undertaking in the spirit of humility and of unselfish devotion to the interests of Christ's kingdom that we can hope to have divine assistance. We do, therefore, most earnestly recommend that we all search anew our hearts and ask God to help us to put away any purpose or motive which any of us may have cherished which is not in accord with the mind of Christ and with His great desire for the unity of His followers. If, while pleading the cause of unity with our brethren of other religious bodies, we have sometimes failed to be sufficiently careful in avoiding causes of alienation among ourselves; if in our zeal for certain truths, as we apprehend them, we have not been sufficiently mindful of the rights and feelings of others who have differed from us; if we have been uncharitable in our judgments of each other and thus have weakened the bond of unity binding us together, ought we not, at a time like this, when great opportunities are before us and when great responsibilities are resting upon us, to rise above these weaknesses to which we are all subject and seek to rekindle on the altar of our hearts the fires of mutual love and of devotion to our Lord whose holy cause we are seeking to advance?

To this end, which seems to us essential for a more aggressive and effective propaganda of the plea for unity in Christian work, we recommend:

(1) That we neglect not to pray fervently for one another and especially for those who for any reason and to any degree may be estranged from us.

(2) That those having divergent views on current practical questions hold fraternal conferences with the view of harmonizing their differences and agreeing upon some common line of action. In these face-to-face and heart-to-heart conferences we shall be better able to see, eye to eye, than by arguing our differences at long range.

(3) That we abstain from all newspaper controversies in which each other's motives are assailed, and conduct our discussions, when they seem to be necessary, in a judicial and fraternal way, which will lead to greater kindness and confidence.

(4) That we ask our editors and publishers, to whose papers we acknowledge our indebtedness for effective service in advancing all our common interests, to withhold from the pages of their journals all communications the effect of which might be to create ill-feeling and division, and that they lend their great influence to the things which make for peace and unity among ourselves, to the end that we may more perfectly illustrate the union we are commending to others.

(5) That all our ministers be urgently and affectionately requested to keep prominently before the churches to which they minister the plea for the unity of God's people, and to cultivate the spirit of unity and of fraternity among themselves and with their religious neighbors, working with them in all matters of common interest so far as they can do so without compromising their own convictions of truth and duty. In this way our ministers and local churches everywhere can aid most effectively the Commission in its propaganda in behalf of Christian union.

(6) We would further recommend and urge upon our ministers and churches the importance of deepening the spirit of reverence and devotion in our lives, and of so conducting the public worship that this spirit shall be manifest in our religious assemblies, and that they earnestly seek, both by teaching and example, to impress upon all who attend the public worship the spiritual value of such quiet and orderly behavior as becometh the house of God, and as is fitting to the recognition of His presence. We are persuaded that this spirit of reverence and devotion has a very vital connection with the cause of unity among ourselves and among others.

(7) That brethren everywhere be steadfast and cease not to teach, preach, obey and glorify Jesus as Lord of all and the only foundation and center of Christian union. "He is our peace." If He be lifted up He will break down every "middle wall of partition" and will draw all men unto Himself. If preached and followed fully and in singleness of heart He will create Christian union and will bring the world to believe and worship Him. Only in and through Him can Christian union be realized.

We feel, dear brethren, that these suggestions and recommendations which we very humbly and prayerfully submit to you, will find a ready response in your hearts and that you will co-operate with the Commission in the ways indicated, and in all other ways which may commend themselves to your judgment for the advancement of that cause which lies so near to the heart of our Lord and Master.

Sincerely praying that God and His goodness may imbue us all with such fullness of grace and truth that we may meet worthily the demands of the times in which we live and all the opportunities which are ours, we beg leave to subscribe ourselves,

Your brethren in Christ,
THE COUNCIL ON CHRISTIAN UNION.

Team Work Campaign in Behalf of Men, Missions, Church Extension and Benevolences

The Team Work Campaign presented to the National and State Secretaries at the Topeka Convention as outlined in CHRISTIAN MEN for November and later adopted by our various societies, is at this writing under active preparation with prospects for one of the most enthusiastic and successful tours ever undertaken in the interests of our united work.

A brief outline of the plan with suggestive dates has been issued by the committee and given herewith for the information of our readers.

THE OBJECTIVE is to inform our Church Men on the Subjects of Missions, Church Extension and Benevolences, and put them to work at the Problems of the Church.

There are 200,000 men (estimated) in the Christian Church, only a small part of whom understand in any adequate way what we as people are doing in the way of Missions and benevolences.

To stimulate Brotherhood work among men and boys in every church.

To inform them regarding what we are doing as a religious people, at home and abroad.

To arouse them to activity to do what we ought to do for Local, State, National, International, and World-wide evangelism.

To outline programs of Christian Service that will command the lives of our most efficient men, and the service of our entire masculine membership.

To promote "Team work" throughout the church.

THE METHOD is a succession of stirring dinners for men only, in 36 of the leading cities of our Brotherhood, in the Mississippi Valley, to be addressed by the strongest obtainable exponents of our Missionary and Benevolent work.

To reach all our men at once with all our work at once, is economy of time, concentration of energy, and a combination of forces conducive to effectual education.

THE PLAN provides for a period of publicity and organization. For thirty days the Committee will place the outline of the plan before our churches and secure their co-operation; Local Committees will arrange for the "team work" meeting, the tour, the place, the "team work" supper, the press notices, distribution of literature, etc.

Period of visitation, January and February, 1911. Thirty-six of the chiefest cities will be visited during the month of January and the first half of February, 1911. Evening or noon-day dinners will be held wherever possible. The speakers will be experts in methods of Men's Work, Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Church Extension and Benevolences.

A competent leader of song will accompany the tour and lead in inspiring songs. The Brotherhood representative will act as toastmaster and lay the foundation for those who are to address the gatherings. Each speaker will be heard for thirty minutes, making a program exclusive of the meal of two and one-half hours.

No offering for any cause will be taken. The Local Committees will be asked to provide entertainment for the speakers while in their midst, preferably at hotels, as in addition to the labor of the tour, these men will have the business of their societies to transact en route.

A complete prospectus of the tour, including specially prepared outline of the work of all departments of our National Societies—in all, a model of the printer's art—will be placed in the hands of those attending the gatherings along the way of the "Team Work" Campaign.

Every local campaign point will be asked to invite at least six surrounding churches to co-operate in securing the maximum attendance of men from the churches of the community. Each church represented will be asked to reproduce, as far as possible, the program as rendered, in their church at home.

The Cities and Dates Suggested

Buffalo, New York, Friday, January 6, 1911; Uniontown, Pa., Saturday, January 7th; ———, Sunday, January 8th; Akron, Monday, January 9th; Cleveland, Tuesday, January 10th; Columbus, Wednesday, January 11th; ———, Thursday, January 12th; Lexington, Friday, January 13th; Louisville, Saturday, January 14th; Indianapolis, Sunday, January 15th; ———, Monday, January 16th; Toledo, Tuesday, January 17th; Detroit, Wednesday, January 18th; Chicago, Thursday, January 19th; Rock Island, Friday, January 20th; Peoria, Saturday, January 21st; Bloomington, Sunday, January 22d; Springfield, Monday, January 23d; ———, Tuesday, January 24th; Danville, Wednesday, January 25th; Terre Haute, Thursday, January 26th; St. Louis, Friday, January 27th; Springfield, Mo., Saturday, January 28th; Joplin, Sunday, January 29th; Kansas City, Monday, January 30th; St. Joseph, Tuesday, January 31st; Des Moines, Wednesday, February 1st; Omaha, Thursday, February 2d; Lincoln, Friday, February 3d; Hutchinson, Saturday, February 4th; Wichita, Sunday, February 5th; Enid, Monday, February 6th; Tulsa, Tuesday, February 7th; Oklahoma City, Wednesday, February 8th; Dallas, Thursday, February 9th; Fort Worth, Friday, February 10th; Houston, Sunday, February 12th.

Fuller information may be had by writing to Headquarters of the "Team Work Committee," 419 R. A. Long Building, Kansas City, Mo.

Dates left blank are open and may be applied for by any churches in the vicinity by telegraphing the committee.

An interesting Brotherhood meeting was held by L. B. D. C. No. 259, Galesburg, Ill., Monday night, November 28th. A neat invitation issued by the social committee, M. L. Irons, Chairman, says the program as outlined in CHRISTIAN MEN will be carried out. "Resolved that the world is growing worse," was the subject of a debate. After the leaders closed, the question was thrown open for discussion. Speeches were limited to two minutes. C. E. Conners delivered an address on "Our Larger Vision." Music and a general social good time with an old-time apple feed closed the evening.

Minutes of a Meeting of the Executive Board
Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ
Dec. 8, 1910

Held in the directors' room of the Long-Bell Lumber Company, R. A. Long building, Kansas City, Mo., at 10 a. m., December 8, 1910, pursuant to the call of President R. A. Long. Present, R. A. Long, Robert G. Frank, T. W. Grafton, J. N. Haymaker, T. S. Ridge and F. J. Bannister. Absent, C. M. Chilton, Burris A. Jenkins, Frank Nase, R. A. Doan and M. M. Cochran.

Meeting called to order by President Long.

The General Secretary read the names of the officers and directors elected at the Topeka convention on Monday, October 17, 1910, to serve for the ensuing year, such officers and directors constituting this Executive Board, as follows:

Officers: R. A. Long, President; C. M. Chilton, Vice-President; T. S. Ridge, Recording Secretary; F. J. Bannister, Treasurer.

Directors: Burris A. Jenkins, Kansas City, Mo.; Robert G. Frank, Liberty, Mo.; Frank Nase, Seattle, Wash.; R. A. Doan, Nelsonville, Ohio; T. W. Grafton, Kansas City, Mo.; J. N. Haymaker, Wichita, Kan.; M. M. Cochran, Uniontown, Pa.

Minutes of previous meetings of September 22, 1909, and October 12, 1910, read and approved.

Invocation offered by Brother Grafton, after which Brother Long, in a preliminary talk, told of a visit to Baltimore, Md., and attendance upon a meeting of a Men's Missionary Movement Convention, after which Secretary Macfarlane was called upon to outline a program for the business of this session of the directors.

Brother Elliott, Assistant Secretary, made a report upon his work, and Brother Shellenberger, Field Secretary, made a report upon the work in which he had been engaged, stating that he found considerable opposition and indifference in some localities.

Brother Long suggested that the published reports of secretaries and field men be made more specific and definite, and that names and places be published in articles referring to such work. Expression from all the directors present was requested with regard to the reports made and suggestions with regard to prospects and methods for future work. Brother Haymaker, in this general discussion, suggested that all members of the directorate make notes of the suggestions offered which might be of benefit to the Local Brotherhoods and the work in general, and that they present the same to their respective local organizations.

At this juncture the board adjourned for lunch, reassembling at 1:15 p. m., at which time Brother Macfarlane submitted his program of business to be considered by the board, which was as follows:

The minutes of a meeting of the National Secretaries' Association was presented showing that a committee consisting of A. McLo and I. N. McCash had been appointed to visit Portland, Oregon, and induce the brethren there to surrender the convention of 1911 to Indianapolis and asking that the Brotherhood which was represented in the meeting by Assistant Secretary Elliott, concur in this action and assume one-sixth of the expense. Brother Long stated that while the proportion of expense was unjust to us, he would not stand back on this ground, and seconded the motion of Brother Grafton that we concur.

The General Secretary presented the question of semi-annual Brotherhood convention in the following language, quoted from the forecast of business for this meeting:

"It is the judgment of every Brotherhood man with whom we have been able to talk that our annual Brotherhood conventions are and must continue to be disappointing so long as there is any practical benefit from mutual conference and discussion of strictly Brotherhood problems. At our national convention there are present so many men who are either ignorant of the Brotherhood or unsympathetic with it that we find ourselves directing the attention of the program to meeting the state of mind. Hence, there is not a sufficient opportunity for real Brotherhood fellowship conference and exchange of views among those men who are actually attempting to do Brotherhood work and no proper realization of the growing solidarity among Brotherhood men which is to be a source of its greatest power. Furthermore, the Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Brotherhood of St. Andrew and the Episcopal Church have been in the habit of holding Brotherhood conventions running at least three days, where they have opportunity for question, debate and instructions by method. It is felt that something of this sort is essential to our own work and that we could hold, say in the month of April, a semi-annual convention, to which we would invite only Brotherhood men and those sympathetically interested in the Brotherhood propaganda. It is believed that, held at some central place like St. Louis, Indianapolis or Kansas City, should have in attendance from 200 to 500 men, and that the result would be an incalculable advantage to all forms of Brotherhood work as well as to the increasing of attendance and the making more effective the Brotherhood Day at the regular national convention in October."

After discussion it was moved by Brother Frank that the General Secretary state the case to the affiliated and unaffiliated Brotherhoods interested and ask them whether they favored such a meeting or not and whether they would send a delegate if it were held. This motion was duly carried.

Upon motion of Brother Frank, duly seconded, the General Secretary was requested to communicate with Robert Hopkins, Bible School Secretary of the American Christian Missionary Society, requesting him, with other members of the directorate of said Bible cl nization, to meet representatives of the ctorate of the Brotherhood at St. Louis, January 11, 1911, Brother Frank and her Haymaker being requested to join ident Long and General Secretary Mac-ne as representatives of the Brotherhood.

communication from Brother Hopkins ree to the co-operation of the Brotherhood btaining a list of adult Bible classes and aying a portion of the expense thereof, referred, by motion of Brother Haymaker, nded by Brother Frank, to President Long Secretary Macfarlane.

suggestion of Brother Macfarlane that additional Field Secretary be employed by Board was considered and, upon motion of Brother Haymaker seconded by Brother
g, was passed without action.

he plan for a team-work campaign in con-tion with the representatives of the other eties of the church, was presented by E. E. ott and, upon motion of Brother Hay-maker, seconded by Brother Grafton, was unanimously approved and the details of said campaign were left to the Executive Com-tee of the Board.

Upon motion of Brother Frank, duly seconded, the Board approved of a suggestion to the effect that the Brotherhood co-operate in the matter of enlisting the Disciples of Christ generally in a hearty campaign which now being launched for the enlistment of men in religious work. This campaign is being promoted by the Young Men's Christian Association and the International Sunday-School Workers of the Brotherhood for the purpose of conducting a great Home Mission Movement during the years of 1911 and 1912 among the Christian men. In the consideration of the natural condition of the Brotherhood, at Brother Long's suggestion, the duties of Financial Secretary were added to the duties of the Recording Secretary with a view to obtaining financial co-operation from the men of the church.

Upon motion of Brother Grafton, seconded by Brother Frank, the Brotherhood passed a resolution requesting that each Local Brotherhood observe the week preceding Easter in a special campaign for enlisting the men of their respective congregations in the church work and inspiring them to more devout living, and for this purpose it was recommended that the men of the Brotherhood conduct a series of evening meetings during said week.

Brother Shellenberger reported the difficulty in inducing already established men's organizations of the various churches to affiliate with the National Brotherhood, stating that in many instances the Local Brotherhood did not care to conform to the requirements of the Model Constitution. After a thorough discussion of this question it was decided that this condition was due more to a misunderstanding of the Model Constitution than to any other condition, and it was decided that we should continue to insist upon the principles of our organization.

Upon motion of Judge Haymaker, duly seconded, a resolution to the effect that the Local Brotherhood should co-operate in all instances most heartily with the work of the Young Men's Christian Association in their respective localities, was passed.

There being no further business for consideration, the meeting adjourned with prayer by Brother Frank.

O. E. HAMILTON

A. E. BUSS

efore you are the counterfeit present-ents of two of our most stirring evangelists, both of whom wear the Brotherhood
Emblem and carry General Membership
Cards. Hamilton preaches, Buss sings.
Each compliments the other. Their work is successful, as it deserves to be.

At the Topeka Convention, Mr. Hamilton placed in the hands of Mr. Elliott his pledge for one hundred dollars as a contribution to the Brotherhood Movement. He believes in it. He and his co-worker are putting into it more than money and wherever they go they seek an occasion to present the Brotherhood work.

One of the encouraging things to us lies in the fact that our evangelists generally have seen the possibilities and the promises of the Brotherhood work. Our evangelists are practical men. They passionately desire that the church shall be a man-winning and a man-holding institution.

BIBLE SCHOOL NOTES

The Men's Class at Lebanon, Oregon, is growing rapidly. B. E. Utz, pastor and teacher, tells us that it is contesting with the Young People's class for membership. It gave a banquet to the entire church and Bible School on a Friday night with a great time and as an immediate result the largest Bible School in the history of the church on the following Lord's Day morning, although it was stormy. He adds: "The men cannot do without CHRISTIAN MEN."

Out at Pomona, Cal., the men are busy in the Bible School, as indicated by the following from J. W. Wilson, President of the Men's Bible class: Attendance on a recent Sunday, 800; collection, $134.90. There were 108 men present in the Men's class with a collection of $100.82. Judge U. M. Thomas, a member of the Ten-Dollar League, announced while the offering was being taken in the Men's class that he would duplicate the amount of the contribution by the class. The first result was $35, but the men said "Let's make it $50," and finally caused the Judge to deposit his check for $50.41. Mrs. Thomas did the same with the Women's Bible class. It was the most enthusiastic Bible School service ever held in Pomona. There were twenty-one new members enrolled in the men's class. The success of the Rally Day can be attributed to nothing but personal work and lots of it. They contemplate sending copies of CHRISTIAN MEN to every member of the men's class not already a subscriber. President Wilson says that "To say that I enjoy CHRISTIAN MEN is putting it very mildly. I wish it were a weekly publication instead of a monthly."

One of the most interesting tours ever made among our people has just been concluded by Robert M. Hopkins, National Bible School Superintendent, A.C.M.S., accompanied by

R. P. Shepherd, E. W. Thornton and W. E. Hackleman, Bible School and song specialists. They visited thirteen cities in as many different states and held morning, afternoon and evening sessions in the interest of the work of the Bible School. One of the works outlined for Local Brotherhoods is that of Bible study, and when a Local Brotherhood puts itself solidly behind the Bible School it is bound to be a success.

Philadelphia Challenges; Kansas City Accepts

"Nine Sundays ago we started a Brotherhood class. It now numbers about fifty members. I want some class about the size mine to challenge us for a three months' run beginning January 1st. I presume a class in a large city would be preferable as conditions would be more nearly equal."

GEORGE P. RUTLEDGE,
Philadelphia, Pa.

The above is an extract of a letter received at this office at 1:30 p. m., November 1st. At 1:32 p. m., T. W. Grafton, pastor of Jackson Avenue Church, Kansas City, teacher of a Brotherhood class of somewhat more than fifty, was on the other end of the telephone listening to Brother Rutledge's letter. "Send it out and let me read it to my class officers tonight," said Brother Grafton. "I am certain they will vote to enter the contest. Our Brotherhood class is also new under the conditions here and at Philadelphia are very much alike." It is a pleasure for us to bring together these two classes in good natured rivalry and we shall hope to report results in future issues of CHRISTIAN MEN. A picture of the Brotherhood class at Philadelphia appears elsewhere in this magazine.

FEBRUARY.

Annual Meeting.—Yearly reports. Annual Address.

World Wide Missions.—A study of missionary fields and problems.

MARCH.

The Home.—An open meeting. Ladies invited.

Apostolic Evangelism.—A man to man campaign for men for Christ. A week of prayer and plans for Men and the Kingdom. Let this be a holy week. Plan early.

APRIL.

The Creation and Administration of Wealth.—The obligation of both rich and poor.

Home Missions.—Our Christian obligation to America.

MAY.

The Brotherhood and the Pulpit.—How the Brotherhood can enhance the power of the pulpit.

Men and the Bible School.—The power of Men in the Bible School for Heathen Missions.

JUNE.

The Church's Present Crisis.—Present conditions and the Church's responsibility to them.

The Democracy of the Master.—"Back to Christ" via the Declaration of Independence.

JULY.

The Influence of Great Men.—Each will come prepared to tell what life has influenced him most, and why.

2. The Social Aims of Jesus.—The Idealism of Jesus for the individual and for society.

AUGUST.

1. The Annual Picnic.

2. Church Extension.—Permanency necessary to growth.

SEPTEMBER.

1. The Church and Social Movements.—What has the church at stake in the present social movements?

2. The Adult Class Movement.—From Robert Raikes to America, 1911.

OCTOBER.

1. The Ballot the Power of God Unto Civic Salvation.

2. State Missions.—A unified effort in the State means a tower of strength in the Nation.

NOVEMBER.

1. National Temperance Movements.—Program by National Temperance Committee.

2. A Retrospection.—A thanksgiving inventory of the harvest just past.

DECEMBER.

1. Benevolences.—A man's duty to the Pioneers and to the Unfortunate.

2. A Practical Christmas.

JANUARY.

1. Men for the Ministry.—The ministry calls for the heroic in men. When the boys see the men of the church solid behind the guns they will take up the work.

2. What will our Brotherhood do for our boys this year.—Committee on Boys' work will collaborate with Program Committee in this meeting.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

JANUARY—Second Program.

PIC—What Will Our Brotherhood Do for Our Boys This Year.

I.—Devotional.

Hymn, "The Glory Song."

Prayer for the boys.

Male quartette, "Save the Boys."

Scripture, Christ in the Temple, Luke 2:42-49.

5. Hymn.

II.—Cultural.

1. Three five-minute addresses, What can we do for their

(a) Religious Life, five minutes.

(b) Social Life, five minutes.

(c) Amusement Life, five minutes.

See that each makes definite and practical recommendations that could be carried out by your Brotherhood.

2. Debate, "Resolved that it is more necessary for the church to provide for its boys than for its men."
Affirmative, two boys, five minutes each.
Negative, two men, five minutes each.
3. Report of committee on boys' work, with plans and recommendations, which may include the organization of a Junior Brotherhood.

Note—If a Boys' work committee has not previously been appointed the president should name one with ample time to prepare for this meeting and with a view to having the same continue in charge of the Boys' work. For copies of constitution and information regarding Junior Brotherhood, address the General Office.

III.—Social.

Refreshment and social hour, the boys being the guests of the Brotherhood.

Annual Meeting

FEBRUARY—First Program.

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER

The Social Committee should arrange for Annual Banquet. The Program Committee should arrange the spiciest program possible. Either two or three short addresses or one special address on men work. The Music Committee should add the best they have in stock to this program. The Membership Committee should see that every member is present, and in addition, just as many friends as can be gotten. The president should see to it that every committee is prepared with a WRITTEN report. These reports should be short, crisp, and to the point. The committee on nominations which was appointed at last meeting will also be ready with a report.

PROGRAM.

I.—Opening.

1. Reception of Guests, by Social Committee.
2. Music, orchestra.

3. Hymn (while all stand at places tables).
4. Offering of Thanks.
5. Dinner.
6. Music.

II.—Business.

1. Reports of Standing Committees.
2. Reports of Special Committees.
3. Election of Officers.

III.—Address.

"The History and Teachings of the Disciples of Christ."

Note—There may also be other addresses, but the Constitution provides that the principal address of this entire banquet shall be on this subject.

V.—Social and Closing Song.

Note—Make this meeting an inspiration with larger work for the coming year.

JANUARY—First Program.

(Reprinted from December)

TOPIC—Volunteers for the Ministry.

I.—Devotional.

- Hymn.
- Reading of Scripture.
- Repeat Covenant (Standing).
- Prayer.
- Hymn or special music.

II.—Cultural.

1. Addresses:
 - (a) "Paucity of Preachers."
 - (b) "The Dignity of the Ministry."

- (c) "The reward of the Minister"
- (d) "What constitutes a call to the Ministry."

2. "Who will go?" Make a personal call for volunteers in the spirit of feasting and prayer.

III.—Social.

Short toasts, one or two minutes each would be interesting. Let refreshments be light, in view of the fact that next month is annual meeting and banquet.

Bible School Lessons for January

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—JANUARY 8.

"JEROBOAM MAKES IDOLS FOR ISRAEL TO WORSHIP"—I KINGS 12:25-33; 13:6.

American Revised

P. H. WELSHIMER

25 Then Jeroboam built Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim, and dwelt therein; and went out from thence, and built Penuel. 26 And Jeroboam said in his heart, Now will the kingdom return to the house of David; 27 if this people go up to offer sacrifices in the house of Jehovah at Jerusalem, then will the heart of this people turn again unto their lord, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah; and they will kill me, and return to Rehoboam king of Judah. 28 Whereupon the king took counsel, and made two calves of gold; and he said unto them, It is too much for you to go up to Jerusalem; behold thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. 29 And he set the one in Bethel, and the other put he in Dan. 30 And this thing became a sin; for the people went to worship before the one, even unto Dan. 31 And he made houses of high places, and made priests from among the people, that were not of the sons of Levi. 32 And Jeroboam ordained a feast in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto the feast that is in Judah, and he went up unto the altar; so did he in Bethel, sacrificing unto the calves that he had made; and he placed in Bethel the priests of the high places that he had made. 33 And he went up unto the altar which he had made in Bethel on the fifteenth day in the eighth month, even in the month which he had devised of his own heart; and he ordained a feast for the children of Israel, and went up unto the altar, to burn incense.

1 And, behold, there came a man of God out of Judah by the word of Jehovah unto Bethel; and Jeroboam was standing by the altar to burn incense. 2 And he cried against the altar by the word of Jehovah, and said, O altar, altar, thus saith Jehovah: Behold, a son shall be born unto the house of David, Josiah by name; and upon thee shall he sacrifice the priests of the high places that burn incense upon thee, and men's bones shall they burn upon thee. 3 And he gave a sign the same day, saying, This is the sign which Jehovah hath spoken: Behold, the altar shall be rent, and the ashes that are upon it shall be poured out. 4 And it came to pass, when the king heard the saying of the man of God, which he cried against the altar in Bethel, that Jeroboam put forth his hand from the altar, saying, Lay hold on him. And his hand, which he put forth against him, dried up, so that he could not draw it back again to him. 5 The altar also was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God had given by the word of Jehovah. 6 And the king answered and said unto the man of God, Entreat now the favor of Jehovah thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored me again. And the man of God entreated Jehovah, and the king's hand was restored him again, and became as it was before.

Time. Jeroboam reigned twenty-two years, from 982 B. C.

Introduction. Read 1 Kings 12:13 and 2 Chron. 13. Jeroboam was the son of Nebat and Zeruah of the tribe of Ephraim. He came from common people. He had great business ability, was energetic, a leader and commander of men. Solomon had appointed him overseer of the laboring bands of the northern tribes. He was in touch with the people, knew their burdens, was sympathetic and kind. The prophet Ahijah told him one day the Lord had selected him to be king of the ten tribes. 1 Kings 11:38. Like many a man, he became impatient and could not wait. Indiscreetly, he started a rebellion against Solomon. This was immediately put to an end and Jeroboam was forced to escape into Egypt to save his life. There he married the daughter of Shishak, the idolatrous king, who later invaded Judah. When Solomon died, Jeroboam was summoned home and with the people of the north met Rehoboam at Shechem. With the division of the kingdom, Jeroboam was now made king of the ten tribes.

Explanatory. 25—This small town of Shechem was made into a strong, beautiful city. Its palaces, public buildings and fortifications, along with its location and historical associations, made it an ideal place for the capitol. This being completed, his workmen were changed to Penuel. Here it was that Jacob had wrestled with the angel. It was on the river Jabbok, east of the Jordan. 26—Jeroboam was a politician, not a statesman. He was not looking after the kingdom's welfare, but after his own selfish ends. 27—He knew the strength of religious ties and the power of association. Should the people go back to Jerusalem to the house of the Lord, they would come in contact with the people of the southern kingdom and might be weaned away from him. He had not the eye of a far-seeing statesman. A common religion would have brought about peace, but not necessarily political union. 28-29—Jeroboam broke one commandment in trying to keep another. He pretended to be a friend of the people and left the impression that he desired to make religion easy for them. Many a man has followed in the step of Jeroboam by changing God's ordinances and plans, endeavoring to simplify and make easier the religion of our Lord. An unthinking people can always be caught in a trap of lighter burdens and less responsibility. The world still wants something for nothing, and desires to pay just as low a price as possible for what it gets. In Bethel, at the south, and Dan, at the north, he set golden calves. He taught the people that these were symbols or representatives of God. Thus he was facing idolatry. 30—Jeroboam it was who thus led the people to sin. 31—He made houses in which to worship these images, and in place of selecting priests of the sons of Levi, took them from among the people. Thus one sin leads to another. 32—He changed the time of the feasts, departing from the plan instituted under Moses. In this he again discredited the Word of God. The worship in Dan and Bethel was in a measure patterned after the worship in Judah, but its heart and spirit were gone. It was purely selfish. It was a small, selfish king, who was a powerful leader, defying God's Word, leading people step by step into sins from which they would never return. 1-6. In this God's displeasure against the actions of Jeroboam is made manifest. It is made to see the folly of his sin, also how useless it is for a man to rebel against God.

Lessons from the Lesson

I. Twenty-three times it is recorded in the history of Israel that Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, made Israel to sin. Every man in life prepares his own epitaph. Jeroboam prepared his.

II. Jeroboam furnishes us a type of gigantic selfishness. God had mapped out a course for him. So eager was he to have power and place that he tried to overthrow God's plan. When will men learn that it is useless to fight against God? He thought more of gaining his own selfish ends than of having a united, prosperous kingdom. He was no statesman, merely a small politician.

III. Wasted Opportunity. He was a man with ability and opportunity. But selfishness blinded his eyes, and instead of being the great, righteous king of Israel, leading the people into right ways and honoring Jehovah, he is known today as the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin. He married the wrong woman. A man will always be influenced by the women he loves. Jeroboam's wife was an idolatress. She doubtless had much to do in advising him and making the golden calves. "Be ye not unequally yoked together." Young man, if you want a religious home, don't marry an irreligious woman. If Jeroboam ever desired to keep idolatry out of his kingdom, he should never have married an idolatrous woman.

IV. He should never have attempted to make religion easier than God intended. Jeroboam was not caring for the convenience of the people. His motive was to keep them from Jerusalem, away from the temple, Rehoboam and the people of Judah. The burdens that God lays upon a man are never too heavy to be borne, and when people begin to talk about making religious obligations lighter and burdens easier, let it be remembered that it is from the devil, not from God. How easily people can excuse themselves of religious duties, when they would not think of making such excuses in business and civil matters. We serve whom we love, regardless of the impediments in the way.

V. We here behold the power of leadership. The great mass of the people do not think for themselves. They place their confidence in the leader, hence the responsibility that rests upon leaders. Jeroboam had it in his power to make Israel to walk in either sinful or righteous paths. Had he been a true man of God, what a different story would have been written. Before him was the material with which to write and he wrote.

VI. It is useless to attempt to withstand God. God is not dead, but has His eye upon the movements of the people. The only safe way is His way. Jeroboam changed the priesthood, the worship, place of worship, and the time of worship. God saw all and visited His displeasure upon the thing. We may seemingly depart but a little from God's ordained plan, but each step away from God calls for another, and the farther we go, the further away we get. It may seem good to us for a time, but the day will come when God's displeasure will be manifest. Our chief concern should be, "Am I on God's side? If so, I am safe and I can be happy."

Questions

Who was Jeroboam? Why did he go to Egypt? Why was he king? What were his mistakes? What of his ability? What do you know of Shechem, Peniel and Mt. Ephraim? What are the lessons to be drawn from this lesson?

LESSON 3—JANUARY 15.

“ASA’S GOOD REIGN IN JUDAH”—II CHRON. 15:1-15.

1 And the Spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded: 2 and he went out to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin: Jehovah is with you, while ye are with him; and if ye seek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you. 3 Now for a long season Israel has been without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law; 4 but when in their distress they turned unto Jehovah, the God of Israel, and sought him, he was found of them. 5 And in those times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in; for great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the lands. 6 And they were broken in pieces, nation against nation, and city against city; for God did vex them with adversity. 7 But be ye strong, and let not your hands be slack; for your work shall be rewarded.

8 And when Asa heard these words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage, and put away the abominations out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken from the hill country of Eph-raim; and he renewed the altar of Jehovah, that was before the porch of Jehovah. 9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and them that sojourned with them out of Ephraim and Menasseh, and out of Simeon: for they fell to him out of Israel in abundance, when they saw that Jehovah his God was with him. 10 So they gathered themselves together at Jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. 11 And they sacrificed unto Jehovah in that day, of the spoil which they had brought, seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep. 12 And they entered into the covenant to seek Jehovah, the God of their fathers, with all their heart and with all their soul; 13 and that whosoever would not seek Jehovah, the God of Israel, should be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman. 14 And they swore unto Jehovah with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets. 15 And all Judah rejoiced at the oath; for they had sworn with all their heart, and sought him with their whole desire; and he was found of them: and Jehovah gave them rest round about.

Time. Asa began to reign 963 B. C., in the twentieth year of the kingdom of Judah. Place. The kingdom of Judah and the capital, Jerusalem.

Introduction. Read 2 Chron. 14, 16; 1 Kings 15:9-24. Asa was the grandson of Jeroboam. His grandmother, the queen mother when he began to reign, was the idolatress, Maacah. Her son, Abijah, reigned only three years. At his death, Asa came to the throne. Asa was a young man, being about twenty years of age. He had lived in a corrupt court, under idolatrous influence. About the only good influence cast about his life came from some Godly men and the temple worship. He was a close observer and noticed the bad effect of idolatry upon both the southern and northern kingdoms. He was a young man of convictions and determination, and was determined to do what he believed was right, hence we read that Asa did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, as did David, his father. The need of reform is shown by reading 1 Kings 14 and 15 chapters and 2 Chron. 12 and 13 chapters.

Explanatory. 1-2—There was a revival in the work in the early years of Asa’s reign. The reform he was working went by stages. During his first years, the people prospered and his reform went gloriously on. The account of this reform will be found in 1 Kings 15:11-15 and 1 Chron. 14:1-8. There was no external attack. The king and his people had an opportunity to build cities and walled defenses. The people went to work. They taught the Word of God. Asa himself did right and the people followed him. “There was a common work, a common hope and loyalty to a common friend.” These were factors that bound the people together. Later there was a deliverance from a common peril, which still bound them more closely. Zerah led an army from Egypt against Judah. They camped on her southern borders, twenty-five miles from Jerusalem. Asa with his army marched against them, but before he did so, he prayed. Read that prayer in 2 Chron. 14:11. A short prayer but effectual. 3-6—During the idolatrous reign, the people had been without a true God. The priest and the law had been neglected. In their trouble they turned to God, who heard them. Man’s extremity is God’s opportunity.” 7-8—Asa took courage at the promise that the Lord was with him, and continued his reform in earnest. The idols were destroyed and the altars of the Lord rebuilt. 9-10—When the people of Ephraim, Manasseh and Simeon saw that the Lord was with the southern kingdom, they came to Asa’s aid, and in Jerusalem a great meeting was held. 11—Here they brought 700 oxen and 7,000 sheep as a sacrifice, taken from the spoils they had received. Love always gives. The more religion a man has, the more willing he is to give. Love does not count the cost; it is unselfish. 12—They entered into covenants to seek the Lord. This was a pledge they took. This was the whole purpose of their being. They were dead in earnest. 13—They regarded those who would not seek the Lord as traitors, both to religion and the country. They knew idolatrous worship to be a menace and justified in putting to death those who followed it. 14-15—Here was genuine consecration. This was an enthusiastic meeting. God blessed them and bestowed upon them peace and rest from their enemies, and prosperity smiled upon them.

Lessons from the Lesson

Asa was a praying king, and like all praying men, was blessed of God. He had an army, which he used in defense, but with the army and bigger than the army was the help of God. Asa's reformation began at home. He removed Maacah, the queen mother, because she made an idol in a grove. He destroyed the idol and burned it at the brook Kidron. He drove from the country the Sodomites, who had debauched his people. When he became king, the masses of the people were headed in sin. He was a real leader, turned about and led them to righteousness. He did not cater to the masses, but stood for the right and did the right. Asa could stand success. Few men can. It did not turn his head. When a man has religion, it settles the question of giving. There is enthusiasm in a crowd. The multitudes gathered together, took vows, signed pledges and banded themselves to perform the difficult tasks. The spirit and success of Judah and Benjamin attracted the best people of the other tribes. Nothing succeeds like success. If you would win the men of your community, band yourselves together, attempt the hard things and do them. Succeed and let your success be known. Establish a goal and go after it. Get on the Lord's side and you will be invincible.

Questions

Who was Asa? What of his parentage? What of his religion? How long did he reign? What good reforms did he inaugurate and successfully carry out? What was his prayer? Why did the people of other tribes join Asa's kingdom?

LESSON 4—JANUARY 22.

"OMRI AND AHAB LEAD ISRAEL INTO GREATER SIN"— I KINGS 16:23-33.

23 In the thirty and first year of Asa king of Judah began Omri to reign over Israel, and reigned twelve years; six years reigned he in Tirzah. 24 And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer for two talents of silver; and he built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer, the owner of the hill, Samaria. 25 And Omri did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah, and dealt wickedly above all that were before him. 26 For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and in his sins wherewith he made Israel to sin, to provoke Jehovah, the God of Israel, to anger with their vanities. 27 Now the rest of the acts of Omri which he did, and his might that he showed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? 28 So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria; and Ahab his son reigned in his stead.

29 And in the thirty and eighth year of Asa king of Judah began Ahab the son of Omri to reign over Israel; and Ahab the son of Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty and two years. 30 And Ahab the son of Omri did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah above all that were before him. 31 And it came to pass as if it had been a light thing for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, that he took to wife Jezebel the daughter of Ethbaal king of the Sidonians and went and served Baal and worshipped him. 32 And he reared up an altar for Baal in the house of Baal, which he had built in Samaria. 33 And Ahab made the Asherah; and Ahab did yet more to provoke Jehovah, the God of Israel, to anger than all the kings of Israel that were before him.

Time. Omri began to reign 936 B. C. and reigned twelve years. Ahab, his son reigned from 924 to 905 B. C. Place. Samaria, the capital of Israel.

Explanatory. 15-22—We here have the history of Zimrah's conspiracy and Omri's warfare and ascendancy to the throne. 23—Omri was the commander of Israel's army following Baasha's reign. Nothing is known of his boyhood days. He was Israel's sixth king. When Asa had reigned thirty-one years over Judah, Omri became the undisputed king of Israel. Tirzah was north of Mt. Ebal. Jeroboam made it the capital after a short reign at Shechem. This was not an ideal place for the capital.

and Omri chose a better site. 24—The position of Samaria was strategic. It was a conical hill, 400 feet above a broad valley. It was six miles from Shechem, above the well-watered valley, with steep but accessible sides and a level top. This was the hill of Samaria. "It boasted strength, beauty and fertility." From it could be seen the sea and the Sharon plains on one hand and the valley of Sechem on the other. The town is now but a small village. Two talents of silver were paid for the hill, which by the heavy standard would be $3,880; light standard, $1,940. 25-26—It takes more than fortified cities and fertile countries to save a nation. One bad man may ruin it. Omri was the worst king Israel had had, and that was saying much. For a man to walk in the ways of Jeroboam speaks volumes. Omri should have done better than Jeroboam, for the condition of the country was one great object lesson, of the results of sin and disobedience to God. 27-28—It can be said of Omri as of many others, the best thing in his life was the fact that he died. 29-30—When Asa had reigned thirty-eight years in Judah, Ahab, the son of Omri, began to reign over Israel and continued twenty-two years. He was still worse than Omri, his father, or any other king that Israel had had. 31—The further one goes in sin, the less his conscience condemns him. Ahab now took Jezebel to be his wife, and served and worshiped Baal. Jezebel came from Phoenicia, of which Tyre and Sidon are the chief cities northwest of Israel. She was the master of her husband, in both religion and business. Words fail in painting the evil accompanying the worship of Baal. The worship was accompanied with such immorality that the meanest red-light district of any city is tame in comparison. The devil never had a better agent on the earth than Jezebel. 32-33—Geikie tells us the temple they built for Baal was large enough to contain an immense throng of worshipers with 450 priests ministering at its altars.

Light from recent excavations. A Moabite stone, discovered in 1868 by F. Klein, a German missionary, in the region of Moab, east of the Dead Sea, contains an inscription in Phoenician letters. It is now found at the Louvre, Paris. The record on this stone confirms the Bible's account of Omri and Ahab. The stone was set up by King Nisha, about 850 B. C., to commemorate his deliverance from Israel's yoke. At Gezer, nineteen miles west of Jerusalem and thirty-two miles southwest of Samaria, recently excavations have discovered altars, pillars and jars, the latter containing the bones of infants.

Lessons from the Lesson

Omri had good business judgment, as is seen in his buying the hill and building Samaria. Religiously, he was a fool. Some of his class can be found in the world today. The power of choice has been given to all men. What we are and will be, depends upon the choice we make. Some poet has said,

"One ship drives east, another drives west,
While the self-same breezes blow,
'Tis the set of the sails, and not the gales,
That bids them where to go.

Like the winds of the air and the wars of fates,
As we journey along through life,
'Tis the set of the soul that decides the goal
And not the storm or the strife."

It was easier for Ahab to continue in sin than to reform. The former course was along the line of least resistance. It takes an effort to row up stream; anyone can drift. A woman in the case is good if she is a good woman. Who can measure a woman's power for good or evil? Every great man and every man who succeeds can trace his successes along the line somewhere to a woman's influence.

Questions

Who was Omri? Who was Ahab? How long did he reign? Over what kingdom did he reign? Whom did Ahab marry? What influence did Ahab's wife have upon him? What do you know concerning the worship of Baal? Where is Samaria? Name some important events connected with Samaria. What light on this lesson do we get from recent excavations? Who was king over Judah while Omri and Ahab were king over Israel?

LESSON 5—JANUARY 29.

"JEHOSHAPHAT'S REIGN IN JUDAH"—II CHRON. 17:1-13.

1 And Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, and strengthened himself against Israel. 2 And he placed forces in all the fortified cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken. 3 And Jehovah was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father David, and sought not unto the Baalim, 4 but sought to the God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not after the doings of Israel. 5 Therefore Jehovah established the kingdom in his hand; and all Judah brought to Jehoshaphat tribute; and he had riches and honor in abundance. 6 And his heart was lifted up in the ways of Jehovah; and furthermore he took away the high places and the Asherim out of Judah.

7 Also in the third year of his reign he sent his princes, even Benhail, and Obadiah, and Zechariah, and Nethanel, and Micaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah; 8 and with them the Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tobadonijah, the Levites; and with them

Elishama and Jehoram, the priests. 9 And they taught in Judah, having the book of the law of Jehovah with them; and they went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught among the people.

10 And the fear of Jehovah fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat. 11 And some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents, and silver for tribute; the Arabians also brought him flocks, seven thousand and seven hundred rams, and seven thousand and seven hundred he-goats. 12 And Jehoshaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah castles and cities of store. 13 And he had many works in the cities of Judah; and men of war, mighty men of valor, in Jerusalem.

Read 2 Chron., chapters 17-22, for the complete story of Jehoshaphat's life and reign.

Time. This reign began in 922 B. C. and covered 25 years.

During this time Ahab reigned eighteen years and Joram seven years in Israel. Elijah and Micaiah were the prophets of Israel. Jehu and Jahaziel were prophets in Judah.

Explanatory. 1-2—Jehoshaphat, the son of Asa, walked in the steps of his father. Fortunate was he that good influence had always been cast about him. In the closing days of Asa's reign a border warfare had been carried on between Judah and Israel. Jehoshaphat now strengthened Judah against Israel. 3-4—The Lord is always with the man who is willing to be on the Lord's side. The prosperity attending Judah demonstrated that God was with her. The abominations of Israel were so marked and degenerating that it would seem that any man of sense would not enter into them. But sin has its attractions to any other than a noble soul. 5—Jehoshaphat was loved by the people. Presents were given him. He was rich in honor. 6-9—His joy was in walking in the ways of the Lord. He removed the high places and the images from Judah, that temptation might not befall the people. There were great revivals carried on throughout Judah. The Book of the Law of the Lord was taught and people preached from city to city. It was an educational campaign. 10—The religious fervor and the success of the united people, and the power and favor of the king in Judah, caused the surrounding nations to fear her, for all knew that God was with her. No nation made war against Jehoshaphat. Even heathen nations brought presents to the king. All courted his favor. 12—He became very wealthy. Castles were built throughout his realm and store houses were established. 13—The period of prosperity had come. The cities of Judah were teeming with peace.

Lessons from the Lesson

Asa went in the right direction and his son followed him. "Train up the child in the way he should go, and go that way yourself." Jehoshaphat was a pious but enterprising young man of thirty-five when he came to the throne. His name means, Jehovah judged. The world honors a man who has convictions and stands by them. Reforms are not so difficult as they oftentimes seem. God is always with the honest reformer. The best people are with him and all the forces of evil fear him. As his cause advances, his power greatly multiplies. Jehoshaphat had something worth while and he desired all the people to have the same thing, hence a great campaign was waged throughout Judah. Teachers of the Word went forth, declaring the law of the Lord. A generation of Bible students means a strong, growing, evangelistic church. Jehoshaphat, like all other men, was not perfect. He made his mistakes. Later in his life, his great mistake was in making an alliance with Ahab, which injured both kingdoms. He rendered assistance to Ahab in an uncalled-for war. Later, he gave his son in marriage to Ahab and Jezebel's heathen daughter. His motive was all right, but the results were bad. From 2 Chron. 19:2, we learn if we will be with God we are not to help the un-Godly nor love them that hate the Lord.

Questions

Who was Jehoshaphat? How long did he reign? What influences were around him in his early life? Why was he popular with the people? Why did the nations fear him? What kind of a campaign did he carry on in Judah? Who reigned in the north while Jehoshaphat was king of Judah? What kind of an alliance did he form with Ahab?

LESSON 1—FEBRUARY 5.

“ELIJAH THE PROPHET APPEARS IN ISRAEL”—I KINGS 17:1-16.

1 And Elijah the Tishbite, who was of the sojourners of Gilead, said unto Ahab, As Jehovah, the God of Israel, liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be dew or rain these years, but according to my word. 2 And the word of Jehovah came unto him, saying, 3 Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward, and hide thyself by the brook Cherith, that is before the Jordan. 4 And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook; and I have commanded the ravens to feed thee there. 5 So he went and did according unto the word of Jehovah; for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before the Jordan. 6 And the ravens brought him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening; and he drank of the brook. 7 And it came to pass after a while, that the brook dried up, because there was no rain in the land.

8 And the word of Jehovah came unto him, saying, 9 Arise, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Sidon, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow there to sustain thee. 10 So he arose and went to Zarephath; and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, a widow was there gathering sticks; and he called to her, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink. 11 And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thy hand. 12 And she said, As Jehovah thy God liveth, I have not a cake, but a handful of meal in the jar, and a little oil in the cruse; and, behold, I am gathering two sticks, that I may go in and dress it for me and my son, that we may eat it, and die. 13 And Elijah said unto her, Fear not; go and do as thou hast said; but make me thereof a little cake first, and bring it forth unto me, and afterward make for thee and for thy son. 14 For thus saith Jehovah, the God of Israel, The jar of meal shall not waste, neither shall the cruse of oil fail, until the day that Jehovah sendeth rain upon the earth. 15 And she went and did according to the saying of Elijah: and she, and he, and her house, did eat many days. 16 The jar of meal wasted not, neither did the cruse of oil fail, according to the word of Jehovah, which he spake by Elijah.

Read the entire chapter for the complete story.

Time. Elijah lived during the reigns of Ahab in Israel and Jehoshaphat in Judah.

Place. The kingdom of Israel.

Introduction. Conditions had come to such a pass in Israel that it was necessary for a famine in the land to arouse the people to the enormity of their sins and turn their thoughts toward the true God.

Explanatory. 1—God always finds a man to do his work. Elijah came from Thishbe, in northern Galilee. He was of the inhabitants of Gilead, the mountainous region east of the Jordan. Elijah was a mountaineer. Tradition tells us he was of short stature and rugged countenance, and that his dress was the skin of a camel or sheep, worn with the rough wool outside, tightened around his loins with a leather girdle. He was a bold, courageous man, who doubtless looked with horror upon the religious condition of his country; her cruelties and licentiousness aroused every moral fiber of his being. He met Ahab in his ivory castle at Samaria, announced the judgment of the Lord that rain nor dew should come until he should give commandment. 2-3—Elijah is commanded to go to the brook Cherith, toward Gilead, his own country. This brook was somewhere in the region of the Jordan. 4-6—God cares for his own. The brook furnished him drink and the ravens brought him food. What faith Elijah had. 7-9—While the brook was drying up, Elijah never lost faith, but tarried. Finally the word of the Lord came to him, directing him to Zerepath, a village about eight miles south of Sidon. He was now in Jezebel's country, in a lonely spot, where they would never think of hunting for a hiding prophet. 10—The cities were enclosed with walls. Standing at the gate, Elijah beheld the widow with whom he was to board. She was gathering sticks with which to build a fire. Tired and thirsty from his long walk, he called for a little water. 11-12—Then he calls for a piece of bread. This would seem to be a poor place for a prophet to board. She informed him that there was but a handful of meal in the barrel and only a little oil in the cruse. She was gathering a few sticks to build a fire to prepare what they had to eat, then she and her son would die. 13-14—Elijah is persistent. There must have been something about his manner and his personality that compelled the woman to bake for him first a small cake. She believed the message of the prophet. 15-16—God's word was true, and Elijah boarded with the widow and her son until commanded again to appear before Ahab. By reading the remainder of the chapter, it will be seen that the son of the widow became ill and died and Elijah restored him to life.

Lessons from the Lesson

God calls his men from unexpected places. God's men have always been men of faith. They have also been "radical men and have laid the ax at the foot of the tree." Men may seem to defy God for a time, but the hour of judgment comes. God's laws are immutable. There is only one safe way, and that is the way of God. When will the world learn that lesson? It is the old thought, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, etc." We are always safe if God leads. At the Cherith, Elijah lived from meal to meal. For his food was dependent upon the faithful raven, but the raven was sent of God. The widow's home was not a very inviting boarding house, but the widow's home, with God as a provider was a tempting place in which to stop. The widow entertained an angel unawares. Without the coming of the prophet, she and her son would probably have died of starvation, or had the famine not carried them away, the son when struck with death would not have been raised. Elijah's presence saved the widow and her son. The widow was hospitable. She divided the last she had with the hungry stranger. Her hospitality was rewarded. She received more than she gave. "It is more blessed to give than to receive." "The Lord loves a cheerful giver." "Freely ye have received, freely give."

Questions

Who was Elijah? Where was he reared? What do we know of his personality? Why did he appear before Ahab? Where did he board during the famine? Was it cruel of the Lord to send a famine over Israel? If not, wherein was it righteous? What is the effect of the famine? Where is Thisbe? Cherith and Zarepath? How long did the famine continue?

¶ If you have a successful Men's Bible Class or Classes, organize them into a Brotherhood. You must DO as well as teach. The Brotherhood is the DOING part of the combination.

¶ If you have a successful Brotherhood, organize them into a Bible Class or Classes or get them all into the existing Classes. You cannot make one man strong without the Bible and you cannot make a Brotherhood strong without it.

¶ The Brotherhood will help the Bible Class.

¶ The Bible Class will help the Brotherhood.

¶ Each will strengthen the other—each will develop forces which will be wasted if the other is not there to conserve them.

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST
EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

A. LONG, President - - - - - Kansas City, Mo. T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.
M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - - St. Joseph, Mo. F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

MURRIS A. JENKINS - - - - - Kansas City, Mo. R. A. DOAN - - - - - Nelsonville, Ohio
ROBERT G. FRANK - - - - - Liberty, Mo. T. W. GRAFTON - - - - - Kansas City, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - - Seattle, Wash. J. N. HAYMAKER - - - - - Wichita, Kan.
M. M. COCHRAN - - - - - Uniontown, Pa.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

P. C. MACFARLANE, General Secy. E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy. J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.
Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum
in advance. Ten or more copies to one address may be paid for quarterly—in advance.
Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 5 KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, FEBRUARY, 1911 Number 2

FAMILIAR TALKS

The question of the relationship of the Brotherhood Movement to the Adult Men's Class Movement has been an open one in the minds of many for some time. This was made the subject of a joint conference at St. Louis on January 11th between the National Field Workers' Association, of the Bible Schools, and the Executive Board of the General Brotherhood. An entire day was devoted to discussion of the subject, at the close of which the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, There is a similarity between the work and purpose of the Adult Class Movement and the movement known as the Brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ, resulting in much confusion as to the relation of the two organizations, and,

WHEREAS, It is the sense of this Committee that every effort should be bent toward securing a hearty coöperation of all engaged in both Movements, to the end that present forces be conserved and coördinated, therefore,
Be it Resolved:

1. That this Committee recommend that any existing Organized Men's Class, duly recognized by the International Sunday-School Association, will more nearly fulfill its purpose as an organization if it undertake some definite line of service.
2. That such class or classes avail themselves of the help and inspiration of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ as far as practicable.
3. That this be accomplished through the adoption of the monthly culture programs of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, all without any necessary change of name, officers or committee, as required under the International Adult Bible Class Standard.

4. That such classes as shall adopt the Brotherhood program be recognized as Brotherhood Classes and a part of the Brotherhood Movement.

5. That we recommend the appointment of a permanent Committee of four (two from each organization) on relation between the two organizations.

W. T. FISHER, Chairman.

R. A. LONG.

GARRY L. COOK.

J. N. HAYMAKER.

P. C. MACFARLANE.

MYRON C. SETTLE.

It will be seen that Section Four provides for a relationship between organized adult classes, which adopt the Brotherhood monthly cultural programs, and the General Brotherhood, on a basis not yet determined. What this basis is will be declared by the permanent Committee on Relationship, provided in Section Five and any attempt to outline a possible basis in advance of the action of that committee would be both discourteous and unwise. However, this much may be assured; that it will be some basis upon which adult men's classes may add the Brotherhood features involved in the program, and this means all of its practical work, without disturbing the present class name or organization or relationships in any way.

Clarence L. Depew announces Will T. Fisher, of Iowa, and Myron C. Settle, of Kansas, as the Bible School conferees, and President Long, of the Brotherhood, has named T. W. Grafton, of Kansas City, and J. N. Haymaker, of Wichita. An early meeting will be arranged and we hope to present the completed details in the March magazine.

What a fine lot of men the Bible School Field Workers are! No man could spend a day in joint conference, even though the difference of opinion as to the matter at issue was often pronounced, without a growing sense of respect and admiration. These men are unusually intelligent; they are for the most part thoroughly equipped for their work, keenly conscious of the responsibility which they bear, and able, in the supreme moment, to look above their own particular work to the best interests of the Kingdom at large. Beyond this they are men who, even in the heat of debate, bear themselves with a gentleness and Christian dignity that is fine and worthy. It needs not that we should write this word of them. But it is the truth and we want to say it.

We quote:

"I have heard the call of the Brotherhood for men to preach the Gospel and herewith I am responding. I am a graduate of the College of the Bible, class of 1900. For the past three years I have been practicing law. I have been quite successful, but am anxious to engage again actively in the ministry. I had intended to take this step, but the Brotherhood call brought the matter to a focus. I will not be preaching for a living, my private income being sufficient, but because I want to save men and women by the help of the Master.

"I do not desire any publicity in this matter, but thought I would write you and if I do any good in the future you might know that the influence of the Brotherhood helped me in my determining this question."

That is all. God alone knows the joy in this man's heart as he takes up the Master's work again, and eternity only can declare the results.

The monthly social meeting, which most organized men's classes aim to give affords an opportunity for cultural work for the fixing of individual responsibility and for the planning of definite work which many feel is not fully taken advantage of. Such classes could not do rather than follow the culture programs of the Brotherhoods published monthly in CHRISTIAN MEN. Whether you are contemplating organizing your men as a Brotherhood or not, we should be glad to have you make the fullest possible use of these programs. They will provide a worth while reason for the bringing of your men together. They will create an interest in our general church work and convey information that you have been anxiously wishing might be got before your men. It will increase their sense of the importance of the work of our church as a whole and will, by this means, increase in their eyes the importance of the work of the church at home. These programs will be found published monthly in advance in the pages of the magazine just preceding the Bible School lessons by Mr. Welshimer.

The Brotherhood Boy has for a long time engaged our serious attention. We have been studying plans for Boys' Brotherhoods from the inception of our movement, delayed in our adoption of any one of them by our desire to get the best, and in order that the disposition to take up such a work might be furthered through the increasing activity of Local Brotherhoods. There is no work in connection with the church that will pay such prompt and lasting dividends as a work among the boys. Neither is there any work that requires such tactful leadership, such patient and persistent superintendence. Such work will always require the tactful oversight of a wise committee on Boys' work from the Brotherhood, if a Brotherhood exists, or from a strong adult Bible class, or the official board itself. This committee will be charged with the duty of supplying, from its own rank or otherwise, the man to have direct superintendence of the work. Boys fall into groups of from ten to thirteen and fourteen to seventeen. These two groups will not mix. They must meet on separate nights and really require men of slightly different types to handle them. Where a boys' worker is not employed the boys' work committee may divide this work between two men. It will sometimes be found that a few dollars a month will insure the faithful service of some young man in the community who is otherwise engaged a part of the time. With this entering wedge the scale of compensation may rise until a boys' worker is regularly employed all the time. It will be found that his service will be intensely profitable to the church from an evangelistic point of view, as his work runs directly into the homes.

Two definite things we are asking of all Brotherhoods in February.

One is the annual meeting of the local organization, a grand roundup of all the men in the church or in the community who can be brought in touch with it. This should be the great social affair of the Brotherhood year. Make fellowship predominate. This is the time for the annual election. It is also the time for the receiving of annual reports from officers and committeemen on the year's work. It is a time to weigh that work in the balance and put the executive finger on the shortages. There were failures that might have been successes. Learn the lesson, and the next time make the success and not the failure. The annual banquet is also the time for the planning of the work for the new year. It is a poor activity, indeed, that will not, in the annual stock-taking, inventory important assets in the way of initiative for the coming twelve months. We placed the annual meeting in February because it was away from the holidays and in the mid-time of the winter's activity, so that new officers could plan and work with a view to avoiding the summer slump. There should be much cordial good fellowship and perhaps a number of short talks, but the one informing theme for an address, and which should be made the piece de resistance of the program, is the annual address on the history and teachings of the Disciples of Christ.

The second thing is a meeting of the men of your church in behalf of World Wide Missions, looking to the annual offering for missions on the first Lord's Day in March. Wise pastors will find this an unexampled opportunity to inform and enlist their men as to this great enterprise of the church. The program for such meeting, appearing in this issue of the magazine, if properly used, will be found extremely effective. In connection with it, call the attention of your men to the article on Alfred W. Place, which is printed because we believe it will be of especial interest to young men.

In connection with what is said elsewhere regarding the Brotherhood Boy, we call attention to the article on "The Adolescent Boy and Religion," by Prof. Gilkey, which appears in this issue. We doubt if our magazine has ever published an article more interesting and profitable to thoughtful minds, and no one should lay the issue down without reading it.

We are devoting some half-dozen pages in this magazine to a thorough explanation of the plans of the Men and Religion campaign, soon to be launched in the United States. The space which we give to this subject is an index of the degree of our interest in it. Mr. Long and the editor journeyed to Buffalo and devoted two very full days to an attendance upon every session of the conference having these plans in hand. There is no doubt whatever that this is to be a Laymen's Home Missionary Campaign of staggering proportions. Its general management is in the hands of a committee of ninety-seven selected from over the country at large in which we have some half-dozen members and there is an executive committee much smaller in number on which our Brotherhood is also represented. We hope that every man who has at heart the cause of Christ in America will read carefully the matter printed upon this subject in the magazine. This is the first detailed announcement of the plan of campaign, and the ministers who wish to be informed upon any matter of world-significance will, of course, give careful perusal.

At the last meeting of the Executive Board of the General Brotherhood a resolution was introduced by Judge Haymaker, of Wichita, urging that Local Brotherhoods coöperate heartily in all instances with the work of the Young Men's Christian Association throughout the country. The attention of Brotherhood men is now called to this resolution. We are aware that in some quarters there is a division of sentiment upon the subject, or a feeling that in certain particulars the Y. M. C. A. is a competitor with the church. Our directors were united in their approval of the resolution, understanding, of course, that local considerations will always be taken into account, but there was a pronounced feeling that we ought to move into closer relationship in many ways with this organization which has been so much for the young men and the church.

Unto The Fourth Generation

Will our children forget? Thomas Campbell saw a vision on the cloud. Alexander Campbell brought the vision down to earth. That which had been to a father a sentiment was made by the son a thing of logic. From being formless it became articulate, a moving, reconstructing ideal. Alexander Campbell, by his eloquence, made of this ideal a shining figure that went in and out among the people. He paved the way with postulates that have never been shaken. He armed it with syllogisms from which there is no escape. Walter Scott, with the fervor of his rhetoric, brought for it a halo of many hues. Barton Stone, with his intense yet sane rationalism, breathed into it that passion for evangelism which has made the work of the Disciples always a two-edged sword. Irresistibly, whether acknowledged or not, there has inevitably followed a readjustment of method and thinking in accordance with the more obvious New Testament forms, and with the hewing to the letter has always come the unbreathing of the Spirit through the constant demand for evangelistic results.

THE EQUILIBRIST

This, after all, has been the supreme motive of the sure equilibrist of our movement. No creeds nor methods nor theologies nor plans of campaign ever converted a man from the error of his way. Evangelists may foam and their critics may hiss, but so long as men stand up with unburdened hearts to confess their faith in Jesus, so long as there comes to them in this moment the inrushing consciousness that they are penitent, forgiven, redeemed children of the Great Father, so long as they turn out into the world to reconstruct their lives according to the principles of their new King, and doing this, essay to reconstruct society, just so long do we know that the light of the Gospel still burns.

Out of the hill country at the headwaters of the Ohio came this movement which today claims its adherents everywhere in North America. It is the temper of this age to be very critical with itself. There be some among us who, high on the circle of successful flight, have paused to preen their wings, and in consequence come hurtling down to earth with a colorless thud whose mild reverberations still echo. We are reminded of Paul to the Gallatians, to whom he says, in effect: "You were making good time; what did you stop running for?"

THE PACE

It is in order that the men of our churches may not stop running that the Brotherhood of Disciples insists in its Model Constitution that the principal address at its annual meeting shall deal with the history and teachings of the Disciples of Christ. Sermons on the plea are not heard as often as they once were. To many of us they are no longer interesting. It may seem that these sermons are at times lacking in historical perspective, that they fail of insight into either the temper of the past or the sympathies of the present, that they amount to no more than the mere shying of boot-jacks at moon-struck felines who have long given up their night wailings and gone to bed.

However this may seem to some, the present is no time to cease to preach or to teach those tenets which, once peculiar, are happily becoming common.

IS IT STALE?

It is doubtless true that some of the present-day preaching on this subject has been stale and schematic. It may have missed the mark, but that was the fault of the man who aimed the gun and not of the ammunition, nor of the moving target. For the target does move. Isaac Errett was as loyal to the principles of the reformation as Alexander Campbell, but he preached them differently, because he was addressing a different generation. So the man who seeks to cast his sermon today in the phrase and fashion of Isaac Errett, though Errett was himself a great modernist, will shoot behind the game. Fifty years ago there was need of much clamor to get attention to the subject of Christian Union. Today everybody is attentive. Fifty years ago Thomas and Alexander Campbell were strictly "our people." Today the Protestant world in America begins to be consciously proud of them also, and to count them as a part of their own spiritual heritage. Our denominational neighbor may even look up to them and down upon us, whereupon it behooves us to be exceeding careful lest our present and our future be less glorious than our past.

IN ORDER TO Not that we who write thus would ourselves be pessimistic. While our evangelism grips the hearts of men, while it still stirs the imaginations of our people, and is the test by which we measure preaching, whether pastoral or peripatetic, it must still be that we are true, in the main, to the past. Alexander Campbell was not a great evangelist, although he was a great apostle, but he had the evangelistic vision. He knew that evangelism and the Gospel were synonymous, that the Church of Christ is nothing more and nothing less than evangelism; that the cross was in order that men might believe; and that Christian union is to be in order that men may believe.

TWO NECESSITIES But there arises, in the minds of many thoughtful among us the question whether we have not preached the plea of the fathers somewhat crassly, and even somewhat hopelessly. If our popular interpretations have ever been tiresome or fretsome, it must be that it is true. Anyhow, there is laid upon us just now two necessities for a re-study of the history and teachings of the Disciples. The first lies in the fact that our evangelism and our adult Bible Classes have brought into touch with the church hundreds and thousands of men who know and care little or nothing of our past and therefore are little conscious of the enlarged importance and responsibility conferred upon them by association with us. Because of this, the Brotherhood has urged its local organizations to the duty of informing themselves, at least once a year, by means of a historical address upon this subject. And there is yet another reason. This lies in the new attitude of the Christian world toward the subject of Christian union. Other people are studying the first generation of the history of our people quite as interestedly as we ourselves. They are in a sympathetic attitude for the first time with our ideals, and it is therefore but wisdom and prudence that we should re-understand ourselves in the light of these changed conditions. Unless our writer mistakes, the next decade will witness a renaissance of interest in the work of those whom we call the fathers. New studies will be made, new books will be written, new sermons will be preached, a new consciousness of those wilderness days will come to us. We shall catch again the crusade spirit. Once more we shall feel the growing pains of destiny and every church building, every college, every publishing house, every society, every interest or institution among us pulsate with the thrill of a purpose defined, of a responsibility reassured, and a people rededicated to the realization of a vast Communion, as simple congregational unit and as broad in as the Christian universe itself.

NG DOWN Pastors, presidents
I YESTERDAY and program committees have their aton especially called to the annual ing in February. Prepare for it.
e it a glorious summary of the year's ts. Make it a grand rounding up of e men in your community. Make it nspiration for the glorious year
ed, and fill the local Brotherhood
t a fresh consciousness of its duty responsibility by a great address that establish the historical connection een the men who gather around the nnet board and that little group that icked under the trees back there in sylvania a hundred years ago and kd together of the maiden sermon of eander Campbell.

Uniontown, Pa., had their Volunteer ce on January 1st, with five recruits, llows: John Beckett, age 22; W. T.
ever, aged 22; Miss Mollie Gerke; t Griffith, aged 14; Paul Cornish,
e 14.

Returns from the Brotherhood Volunr Campaign are beginning to come in d it is a pleasure to see so many of r ministers of every rank joining in s cause. But it is also a disappoint-r to note that quite a good many e first rank have not been able to n with us in it. We realize how busy e our pastors, how many are the res that press upon them, but there ne greater than "The Men for the n try" and there could be no more ping occasion for appeal than the ent, when hundreds of other pulpits ounding the same call.

W. A. Hunt, Wapello, Iowa, replying
t: "Each One Win One Campaign," ys "I have already won one, Jas.

Walker, Morning Sun, Iowa." A list of three names comes from Austin, Minn., where B. H. Whiston is pastor. We hope to present full reports in our March issue.

In a letter from F. M. Rains, Secretary of the Foreign Society, dated at Harda, India, November 1st, which follows, is indicated the surprising way in which the last caste spirit begins to break down in India:

"One evening some high caste Brahmins invited Mrs. Rains and myself, with the missionaries, to a dinner in one of the elegant Brahmin homes. The missionaries regarded this as a remarkable incident. Such a thing in this community would not have been thought of a few years since. The caste spirit is rapidly yielding. These were all well educated men, university men, lawyers, doctors;
etc. We sat on the floor, with our shoes off, and ate with our fingers. All the people in Harda are very friendly toward the missionaries. They show them great respect.

"There is a new India and the day of her redemption draweth nigh."

An Old Maid's Church—Not

Some two years ago Frank M. Field walked into a small rectangular building in the city of Toledo, known as the Norwood Avenue Church. In the territory around were five or six thousand people, but scattered among the three hundred seats inside were exactly forty-three persons. In the Bible school he discovered a men's class of five persons.
But all this was before the Brotherhood idea came to Norwood Avenue. Now, on the site of the little frame building, stands one of the finest and best equipped church structures in the city. The men's class of five has given way to a Brotherhood class of two hundred and fifty, the largest in the city, and a splendid Brotherhood organization is developing a rugged, masculine Christianity, which is giving character to the work and is a determining factor in the spiritual uplift of the community.

In those earlier days, when the pastor was browsing around in his new field and wondering why the congregation didn't take hold of the community, the contemptuous retort of an outside man, "Huh! That's an old maid's church," gave him his cue. Up to the present they had been doing a man's work in a woman's way. They now set to work to follow the apostolic precedent by emphasizing a strong masculine leadership. And the new effort to do "A Man's Work in a Man's Way" tells the story of this transition. In two years, from a place of insignificance to one of dominant importance in the religious life of the community. Of this transition the pastor writes, at our request, and most entertainingly, as follows:

Men were pushed out into the open and made responsible. The officary of the church became distinctly masculine and men were put at the head of every department of the church so far as possible. Plans were matured that demanded men for their working, and big enough to command every possible resource. Men must get under them and back of them and push them. An organization of the men was effected. The Gospel program made its appeal for aggressive and courageous work. Our good women manifested a magnanimous spirit, loyal and true, in endorsing the change of front and in heartily standing back of every effort, with heroic sacrifice and devotion.

Brother J. K. Shellenberger came to us March 22d, 1910, and rounded our men up into a more definite organization and into affiliation with the National Brotherhood. This affiliation is a distinct advantage to every men's organization. The fountain head sends to perennial streams of good things. We are commanded by the aims and plans of the whole Brotherhood and are saved from falling into a merely local spirit of effort. We recognize the paternal oversight that expects something of us and which commands us to nobler endeavor. The following committees were appointed and are doing good service: Bible Class, Membership, Devotional, Evangelistic, Missionary and Prayer Meeting, Program and Entertainment and Boys' Committee.

The monthly meetings have been well attended. The suggested program of CHRISTIAN MEN is usually followed pretty closely and gets to the hearts of the men. They are all inspirational and helpful. The Brotherhood Days have been observed faithfully. We have a live evangelistic committee and a good service of evangelism prevails. At one of our recent men's services eleven came forward in response to the invitation. A very pleasing thing is the number of men and women coming together, husbands and wives. This is sane evangelism. We are after men. There is usually one in every house, and house visitation is effectual. The Brotherhood Bible class averaged in attendance about seventy for the last quarter.

Our Missionary Committee, owing to the recent organization, were precluded from getting back of the missionary work of the church last year. They were most efficient in getting men in line for the recent Laymen's Missionary Convention held in this city. They will make an immediate canvass following the closing of the Team Work Committee in this city on the 17th inst. This will impetus to their work. The program for the year includes monthly mission prayer-meetings in conjunction with the Christian Woman's Board of Missions.

The Boys' Committee have provided considerable gymnasium equipment. This work is just under way, but is very promising. One of the most efficient and useful organizations of the Brotherhood is the orchestra of twenty-two pieces. It is not only a great help in the Bible work but a big lift in all Brotherhood programs. A concert recently given by the orchestra, assisted by the male quartet, netted nearly $100.00.

I promised this month to tell something about Frank Waller Allen and his book, "The Golden Road," but have been so stressed in these thirty days that I could only stroll eight chapters of the "Golden Road" with dear old Mother and the little red-headed jade, before I defer till March that promised review, trusting that we may ourselves be permitted to enjoy Mr. Allen's beautiful book to the very end before having to write to tell our readers about it.

Canton, Ohio, School of Bible School Methods

School of Bible School Methods was held at the First Christian Church, Canton, Ohio, January 2d to 8th. This will be a permanent feature in the work of the church, such a school to be conducted twice a year, each to be of a week's duration. The instructors of the term were E. W. Thornton and Miss E. Faris, of Cincinnati, the former in the place of H. H. Moninger, who was detained by illness; W. C. Pearce, of Chicago; Dr. Jos. Clark, of Columbus; and Katherine E. Staub, Miss Maud

Moore and P. H. Welshimer of the local church. Others who were present and taught one or more periods were Robert Hopkins, of Cincinnati, L. I. Mercer, of Cleveland, and C. A. McDonald, of West Mansfield.

The registered attendance was 477. Seventy-one of these came from outside of Canton; some came as far as a thousand miles. At the close of each address a brief round table discussion was held. The greatest freedom was granted in the discussion of every topic.

The advantages derived from the week's work are as follows:

I. Concentration of thought upon one subject—the Bible School. Every address and every lesson taught dealt with some phase of Bible School work. Persons in attendance were from both great and small schools, and were prepared to discuss every side of the subject. The School of Methods was held in a Bible School where all that was taught in the classes was being carried out in the work of the Bible School on the Lord's Day. It had the advantage of theory plus practice.

II. Workers' Library. The Canton church possesses a workers' library, probably unsurpassed by any other school in America. It has volumes on Bible School work, missions, methods, doctrine, etc. Also catalogs and other printed matter in abundance were in the exhibit from the various publishing houses of America. Persons in attendance not only had an opportunity of examining the Canton school library to ascertain what they desired in their own school, but had access to the catalogs, thus coming in touch with what is best on the Sunday-school market.

III. Enlarged Vision. The conferences held between sessions were, in many respects, as profitable as the regular sessions of the school, as men got together and discussed their problems. All who were present were there for a purpose. They were searching for the best things. Many a man went home determined to make more of his opportunities in the future.

P. H. WELSHIMER.

We have just been asking men to give themselves to the service of Jesus Christ in the ministry. We are asking in February that our whole Brotherhood prepare to give, not only money but men, for the sake of the millions beyond the curve in the horizon. Just as we are thinking of this with all earnestness, a Brotherhood man puts in our hand these wise and thoughtful words from a recent issue of The Outlook:

The Possibility of Great Giving

The best gifts are never things; the best gift is always from within and is charged with personality. In the case of those who are able to make great gifts for the highest purposes—for the teaching of religion, the discovery of truth, the opening of the doors to education—it is often true that the spirit behind the gift is more valuable to the community than the gift itself, and the example far more influential in the long run than the great sum of money bestowed. The highest service a man can render to his fellows is some bestowal of himself in sacrifice, work, influence, inspiration. Phillips Brooks founded no college, and endowed no hospital, but he is to be counted among the greatest givers of his time. Other men poured out wealth lavishly for good and great ends, and are worthy of all honor for their large-minded and large-hearted recognition of the mutuality of all possessions, the common fortune of the race, held in trust by the few for the liberation and education of the many. It was the high privilege of the great preacher to give himself the prodigality of a man possessed of vast treasure; to pour himself out after year on the spirits of confusion, wayward, starving people, to whom he gave a vision beyond the perplexities of the hour, a clear view of the right and strength to walk in it, the truth which feeds the soul.

The Great Giver brought no money, no clothes or food with Him. No man had less at his command of those things of which men usually make gifts. He was, during the wonderful years of his active life, penniless and homeless. He was incomparably the greatest who has appeared among men. No one of all the great benefactors of mankind approached Him in the reach, power, and eternal value of His gifts! The story of His divine generosity is told in a sentence: He was Himself a gift! It was not the separate and detached gifts He gave, but by the way—the healing, the hearing, the speech, the loaves and fishes—that clothed Him with compassion and beneficence like a garment from the very heart, from which life and peace flowed; it was the complete and perfect bestowal of Himself that has begun to fill the world with light and health and love.

Here is the supreme reward of giving in purity, unselfishness, the wisdom of love: it so greatly enriches the spirit of the man who comes to possess these beautiful and divine qualities gains the privilege of a great giver. Many men and women are perfectly sincere in desiring wealth that they might use it generously for others. But great wealth comes to a few, while the inward enrichment comes to all who invite and hold themselves open to it. Every man may become a great giver if he chooses; for every man may make himself rich in the vision oul strength, the peace of spirit, which e the supreme achievements of life, and e most inspiring, comforting, enduring ings which a man can bestow on his llows.

e go to press this month with much s news matter in the Wireless Whis-Department than usual, for the rea-that our news editor, Mr. Elliott, is v on the Team Work Campaign.
hgs have been happening that were ny worthy of record, but their place ken in the February issue by marl even more important and more elful than the thrilling record of things or, which has made so important a u of each issue of our magazine.

Ve had a delightful "Volunteer" serve yesterday morning. Brother S. J. colson, of Moulton, who is with us meeting, preached. I gave a short lk and called for volunteers and two sounded. One is a sterling young counyoy who belongs to the Evangelicals, its working with us—for the ministry.
nother is a young lady, daughter of e of our elders and a devoted worker
r. She volunteered for mission work.
e are overjoyed at these results.

C. C. DAVIS, Chariton, Iowa.

he church college is our base of sup-
e. It furnishes the church with e hers, missionaries, workers. To gct it is suicide. In it is wrapped the te of our movement. Churches, missions, benevolences are as vitally related to our colleges as fruits to the roots of the tree. An alarming shortage of preachers confronts us, as a crisis, at the opening of our second century; 12,000 churches, 4,500 preachers, only 1,000 preparing for the ministry in all our colleges; at least 3,000 more needed now.

Where shall we get them?"

The Team Work Campaign, which began at Troy, N. Y., and is sweeping across the country with increasing tides of enthusiasm, will close its first annual tour on February 12th, at Houston, Texas.

It is a living, breathing, shouting demonstration of that relationship which the Brotherhood aspires to maintain between our organized interests and our men.
The plan for this campaign originated in the fertile brain of our Assistant Secretary, E. E. Elliott. After consideration in our General office and approval here, it was presented to the Association of State and National Secretaries. Many places called for the team that could not have it this year. It is easy to see that another year it will be necessary to put in the field two or three such teams and continue the tour to greater length.

Full reports of their meetings up to date will be found at other places in the magazines. We refer to this work not only as a definite service, effectively rendered, but as a hint of the scope and elasticity of the Brotherhood program.
We do not begin to apprehend its possibilities ourselves. It will grow with the years.

“Stuffy” Place

All Around Athlete and College Strong Man Who is Making Base Hits
the Kingdom in Far Japan.

There is a clean, strong face on the cover of this magazine, a face with a light on it easily discerned but difficult to describe—a light that comes and goes and comes again, and pervades the features like a possessing spirit. The friends who know and love “Stuffy” Place will recognize that this is no fancy. Others may think this the mere babbling of one beside himself with admiration for the simple goodness of a noble young man.

There are some biographic details, but what do they matter? There is, in Bowling Green, Ohio, a father and a mother. They love this boy and his wife and his two children in far Japan. The father is well-to-do, rich, we might say, if he were not living under the shadow of the Rockefeller fortune and in a land where multi-millionaires are common. His son might have horses and motor cars. He might be fluttering, moth-like, among the giddy lights that dance on Broadway. He might be wooing pleasure where the half-world takes its staccato joys in Paris, or Vienna, or Cairo. But he isn't. He is away out there in Japan, teaching the bent-browed children of the Mikado how to play base-ball, in order that later he may teach them how to be Christians.

There is a date of birth in the material before me as I write, but I do not bother even to look for it. Alfred W. Place is about as old as John was when he saw Jesus at the Jordan, and without meaning irreverence, there are times when he is remindful of John. But mostly, perhaps, you will think of Peter, the ready man, who swung his sword right lustily, who girt his fisher's cloak about him and leaped into the sea.

But, to begin somewhere near the beginning, there turned up one day at Butler College a fair-browed youth, with eyes that saw very straight and a smiling mouth that was always just breaking into a smile. Young Place brought with him, by way of baggage, a pair of baseball shoes and the sobriquet of “Stuffy.” His landlady discovered why at the very first encounter with her bounteous boarder for they do say that before her back was turned, almost, “Stuffy” had licked the courses bare and was whetting his teeth on the legs of the table. “Stuffy's” coming to Bethany was felt in more kindly ways, by more kinds of people than ever been cognizant of the coming of a student to Bethany before. One night, when every occupant of the college dormitory was driven to the lawn through various stages of dishabille, because “Stuffy” had taken it into his curly head to deposit a wet bale of hay in the chimney, a pleading voice tried to reason with the joker. “Suppose, now,” said the voice, “This were your own sister.”

“Ho,” shouted the irrepressible “Stuffy,” “Mom and Sis came over Saturday and I smoked them out, you bet.”

The time came when the college authorities recognized that the college “Stuffy” could not go on together. It was “Stuffy” who went. What happened in the interim is not within our ken, but in the course of events, “Stuffy” turned up at Butler, in Indiana.

There was no brass band to meet him when he arrived in Indianapolis, for he hadn't heard of "Stuffy" yet. Here he frazzled the youthful enthusiast. He was under serious injunctions from his father not to indulge in foot-ball. "Stuffy" had predilections for that like parlor game, which he was entirely innocent of any intention to play. But the avenging nemesis was hovering near. "Stuffy" managed to get to the very bottom of a scrimmage. When the various players picked themselves up, there was nothing still mixed with the dust at the bottom of the heap that looked like a player's uniform and a bunch of hair. Investigation revealed this to be "Stuffy". They carried him from the field with a broken leg, and all during the period of his hospital incarceration, "Stuffy" felt himself under the necessity of writing happy, cheerful letters to his father and mother about picnics that he could not attend, base-ball games in which he could not participate and college activities of which he could only know by hearsay; for "Stuffy" was the original sick kid.

His father did not know about that broken leg until Alfred had two good props under him again.

But the youthful David, for the young man was at times ruddy and always of fair countenance—(Did I mention John and Peter? Well, I take it back, for it was David, after all)—found time at intervals for serious thoughts. The young man combined modesty and grace and courage and daring in rare and unusual combinations. He was a popular hero. One day Burriss Jenkins put his hand on the young man's shoulder and said, "Place, you are the leader of all these men. Why not lead them to Christ?" Talking seriously together, they turned away from the field on the campus and sat down behind a tree. Place went behind the tree with Jenkins a harum-scarum boy. He came away a minister of the Gospel.

Chicago University came next. Here, as was to be expected, "Stuffy" went in for athletics. He played more kinds of games and played them better than any other single man in the university. In base-ball he shone especially, slamming out a home run whenever it was needed to win the game. He was one of the few men who won his "C" in foot-ball, base-ball and track. For a long time he held the 'varsity strong man's record, and we have before us a picture of him in Leslie's Weekly, in 1901, where he is written of as Chicago's strongest student, and for a time, the figures showed him to be the strongest in America. Maroon, for June 17, 1902, said, "There have been greater men in certain departments of athletics, but hardly a better all-round athlete. It is possible, also, that we have had popular heroes who were more intensely idolized than 'Stuffy,' but never one who was known personally to more people or more thoroughly liked." From the newspapers of that day we quote just one paragraph from an account of a game between Chicago and Beloit: "Place was the particular star of the Maroon team, making a three-bagger, a double and a single and bringing in the decisive run. He also made a spectacular fly catch in center field, falling flat on his back as the ball touched his mitt."

The day he graduated from the Divinity House, of the University, Mr. Place married—a little girl who is herself an athlete, and who thinks no more of trotting up and down a mountain peak for exercise than her husband used to think of trotting around the bases after he had poked the ball over the fence for a home run.

As an example of the boy's skill in bringing athletics to account for the Kingdom of God, we relate the following.

Place was doing some settlement work down in the Stockyards district, and came in touch with a young foreigner who was training for a prize fight. Alfred did his best to dissuade the young man from his intentions, but failing, decided that if he was going to fight, he ought to win, and immediately undertook his training, for "Stuffy" was thoroughly Scriptural in his own use of the gloves, fighting not as one who buffeteth the air. But by the time he had his man fit to enter the ring, he had also gained his confidence to such a degree that he was able to persuade him to give up the ring, luring him on to private study and preparation for entering the University of Chicago with the suggestion that he could make the 'varsity foot-ball team and become, in time, a famous athlete. The dream was realized. Bezdek went from the slums to the University of Chicago by the strength of his own efforts, made the foot-ball team and not only that, but was chosen as the fullback on the All-American team by the best experts of the country.

It was on a world tour a year or two later that "Stuffy" humbled the pride of Greece in the throwing of the discus. It seems there is a difference between the Eastern and the Western method. At Beirut, Syria, "Stuffy" encountered the Greek champion of the Orient, who was attending the Christian College. The field only measured one hundred and fifteen feet. The Greek champion had never thrown the discus over 100 feet, so they thought the field of ample size, but the young preacher, in his first cast, threw the discus clear out of the field and down the hill.

The young discus-thrower had a very attentive audience in Christian College at Beirut after that whenever he chose to talk about athletics. As he looked at the dark-eyed students before him he felt the thrill of a common humanity. There was born in his breast the missionary passion, which today he gratifies in his service on the foreign field. It was a passion against which he fought.

Place keeps reminding me of people I am just thinking now of the young man who went away sorrowing because he had great possessions. Place, too, had great possessions, great friendships, great ideals and ambitions. He was an American of the Americans. The most luring possible career promised him at home. But there was the passion burning in his breast. He smothered it by getting a pastorate in a small Ohio town. The smudge of it mingled with the smoky life of the iron city of Pittsburgh while for three years he labored in Bellevue Church and drew to him like a magnet the young men of that region. But the flame burst out. The passion expressed itself in action. This is what you see upon his face, that indescribable, indefinable, but extremely tangible, something that marks the man of soul and vision. Abraham must have turned over to Urr with a light like this upon his countenance.

It is now near three years since Place took his wife and two babies and an automobile with him to Japan. Perhaps he expected to motor into the hearts of the Japanese. However, his work in Japan has been more successful than he anticipated. Upon arriving in Japan he was invited to coach base-ball in two of the biggest universities in Japan. When he goes to these universities to coach once a week, from three to six thousand students come out to see the practice. When either of these teams play at home from ten to thirty thousand people come to see the games. When he began v the teams a good American high school will lick them. In fact, that is just what happened to Waseda University when they went to America the year before he came. They did not win a game in America. Keio University team, which he has coached also, has defeated actively Washington University, the U. S. Warship Fleet Team, and lastly, Wisconsin University team. In consequence of these marvelous developments in these teams, he has become known by face to thousands of people who seem very anxious for his friendship. Every winter since coming there he has been invited to speak on the big-student lecture courses in Japan. He has been honored with the chief place in programs with Count Okuma, president of Waseda University, Dr. Hamada, present president of Keio University; Tanaka, the most popular professor in the Imperial University, and many others. He is teaching Practical Theology, or, rather, Practical Pastoral Theology in our Bible College and teaching English in our Boys' High School. This year he has made a special study of the evangelistic problem in Japan with a view in mind of changing our Bible school course to conform with the evangelistic needs of Japan and not of America. The Bible School courses in Japan are all patterned after the courses in our schools at home years ago. He has made a new course and it is now under consideration by our faculty. While making this study new opportunities revealed themselves to him. In every city where he held meetings where there was located a government school of high school grade and above, the president of the school asked him to lecture to the students on an educational theme and afterwards to coach their base-ball team. Waseda and Keio universities have sent their base-ball players out in the summer to coach these school teams all over Japan so his system of play is introduced all over Japan. He writes for the papers very often and has a large acquaintance. Base-ball has opened every school of any importance in Japan both to lecture in the school and to do Christian work among the students outside the school.

He writes: "Here is what we need for our school: a good, big athletic field which will cost $15,000. My influence is scattered all over Japan and is centered in no one place. With a good athletic field I can develop the best and manliest base-ball team in Japan which will have more influence over student life than any other force in Japan today. We can have twenty thousand people out to our schools four or five times a year. We want and we need the best men in Japan in the Christian ministry and base-ball is the best point of contact for getting into the lives of the young men of Japan. I got a letter last night from Prof. A. A. Stagg, of the University of Chicago, in which he asked me to take charge of the University of Chicago team which comes to Japan this fall. He wants them to make the best impression and have the largest moral influence possible. Prof. Edgar Goodspeed of the Divinity faculty was to come with the team, but for some reason at the last minute he could not come. We regret very much this change in plans. However, since I can have absolute control over the conduct of the team we missionaries, and that includes every denomination, are rejoicing over the opportunity for good that this visit affords. My chief business out here is not to teach these heathens to play base-ball, but by means of base-ball I hope to get near enough to them to be able to convert them."

Outside of his school work and language study he is a member of the executive committee of the "National

Sunday-School Association of Japan," a member of the "Educational Committee" of the "Standing Committee of Coöperating Missions" and a member of the committee to draw up plans and courses for a school for foreign children.

This is a remarkable young man we are writing about. A man whose life has just begun. He has but barely taught his lips to frame the uncouth sounds of an oriental language. There are scores of men upon the foreign field whose life of service and achievement there is more entitled to notice than his, and the subject of this sketch urges this upon us as he replies to our inquiry. It is not that we forget the veterans that we turn the spotlight on the stripling. It was to emphasize the fact that Alfred W. Place typifies the finest of our young manhood today. Rich, cultured, popular, life-loving, he has seen the vision of the modern young man of Macedonia and gone to answer his call. If a man of ordinary gifts or ordinary talents chooses to bury himself in the Orient, we do not think much of it, but when a Moses turns out from the court of Pharaoh to lead babbling slaves in the desert, we turn to wonder and pause to reflect. There was a tragedy in the going out of a man like Place from the glow of the lights of civilization into the darkness of heathendom. But Place thought it was worth doing. He thought he ought to go, for Jesus' sake. He dared not be disobedient unto his heavenly voice. Young man, perhaps you, too, ought to go. Perhaps you ought to turn out your light, lock the door, put up the shutters upon your hereabout ambitions and go over there, to stand with Place and others in Japan, with Morrison in China, or with Dye in Africa. We invite you to think about it.

The Religion of the Adolescent Boy

By CHARLES W. GILKEY

lected from an address by Reverend Charles W. Gilkey, at the "Men and Religion Campaign" conference, at Buffalo, October 5, 1910.

in the land that gave us the Bible, are still today the inhabitants, with all their indolent inefficiency and unreliability, often see deeper into the meaning and mystery of life than we practical, unimaginative Westerners, there is a significant custom which has something to teach us here in this conference. A party of us were camping in Palestine last spring, under the care and guidance of a dragoman and ten or more muleteers and attendants, among whom was the dragoman's eighteen-year-old son, Naif. We knew too little Arabic to follow the conversations of the men; but I did happen to overhear and understand one day the exaltation of respect with which the dragoman addressed the dragoman. He did not call him leader of the expedition, nor owner of the equipment, nor employer of himself and the other men; he called him "father of Naif." It is an old custom in the Levant to address men, not as owners of property or employers of labor or recipients of public honors, but as fathers of their sons. As if a man's chief claim to honor and respect lay in the fact that he had sons to follow him—as if his chief cause for pride or shame lay in the character of those sons—as if his chief responsibility was that of training his sons to bear worthily and advance the honor of the family name!

WHEN MANHOOD BEGINS

The responsibilities of this movement begin where manhood begins; and manhood begins with the dawn of adolescence. Earlier with some boys, later with others, sets in this mysterious, incalculable change when all the elements of the child's nature, contributed by inheritance and environment and training and temperament, are as it were thrown into the melting pot of adolescence, and after years of seethe and turmoil a new and mature individuality issues forth. The beginnings of this adolescent process are marked by physical changes which the physician knows but does not yet fully understand, and by mental and temperamental changes which to the psychologist are an even more fascinating and rewarding problem. These beginnings take place in many boys as early as 12 or 13, and vary not a little in both time and character with the individuals.

A PUZZLE TO HIMSELF

With these changes begins a period and a process which lasts for years, the main characteristics of which every one who has lived close to boys in their teens knows full well by long and sometimes hard experience. It is the period when the boy is a problem and a puzzle to everybody else, but most of all to himself; when new impulses, new ideas, new ambitions, new passions stir and surge within him; when all his old standards and supports are swept away and he has not yet found new ones; when above all he most needs sympathy and understanding, and usually finds it hardest to get either. He is no longer a child, and not yet a man, but in the long process of transition between. But—and this is all-important—throughout this transition stage he must be understood and treated in terms of his future and not of his past; his problems are those of coming manhood and not of outgrown childhood; his own face is set forward and those of his friends must be. He is an adolescent—a boy becoming a man.

A TROUBLED STREAM

Many of you have taken the Gorge Trolley Trip below the Falls of Niagara, and will remember well the strange sights of that memorable ride. The sudden tremendous fall plunges the troubled water into miles of apparently endless turmoil. Now it is tossed and torn into white fury down a stretch of rapids; then for a little it slides smooth and green as if it had at last found quiet again; and then suddenly up from the depths, why or whence you cannot tell, swirls a great eddying surge of agitated water, twists itself about for a moment, and disappears again beneath the swift, mysterious stream. So it is in a boy's soul. The stream of his inner life, which had its small beginnings far back among the hills of childhood, and has been swelled by all the contributing influences of inheritance and environment and training, is suddenly plunged over the precipice of puberty into years of agitated turmoil; now it is stirred to its very depths by passions never felt before; now it is swept away by the deep strong set of new emotions; now there rise suddenly to the surface ideas and ambitions and impulses that had hitherto been hidden in the depths of the boy's nature, unsuspected by himself or his family or his friends. And it is only after years of such inner agitation that his life gradually settles into steady and strong maturity, and flows on through young manhood to the great river of life and down to the eternal sea. But—and this point is all-important for us all—when the boy's life is once over the falls of puberty it has left the high areas of childhood for the deeper levels of manhood; henceforth all its problems and its future lie below on these levels; and it is utterly futile to try to reverse or hold back the stream, however long or severe its period of storm and stress. The adolescent has forever ceased to be a child; he is a coming man, and must be treated as such.

HIS OWN RELIGION

This is the period when the normal course of a boy's life as ordered by the Providence of God, an individual and personal religious life comes to birth. Hitherto he may have absorbed with child-like receptivity the religion of his parents and his church; now he works out of all this material a religion of his own. With the crystallization of his individuality comes the crystallization of his personal religion. As the investigation of Coe, Starbuck and others have abundantly proved, these are the years when conversion, personal commitment to and choice of the Christian life—is most frequent and most normal.

These are the years when the great moral issues of life are in the great majority of cases determined. A prominent minister in the East said recently that though at first he had been doubtful whether it was wise to try to convert boys of 14 and 15 to the church before they faced the storms and stress of college life and of young manhood, he was now convinced that the best way to safeguard them and lead them through the strain that was certain to come was to bind them as high school boys to Christ and the church. A settlement worker in one of the neediest districts in London said to me last summer that they were concentrating on their boys' clubs as the one hopeful method of ultimately transforming the life of the district.

This, too, is the period when Christian workers can be most easily and effectively won and trained. As a student secretary, working in the colleges, I have been surprised and deeply impressed to many prominent Christian workers in the student world were earlier Christian leaders in the preparatory schools. In one prominent city Young Men's Christian Association a boy's department is one-tenth the size of the senior department has furnished 60 per cent of the latter's workers and 75 per cent of the board of directors. And if we knew the life histories of Christian ministers and missionaries, how often should we find that the root of their life decision lay in the adolescent and often unsuspected in their formative years.

In the "Men and Religion Movement," we are to build solidly and for the future; we must include and capture the adolescent boy in our campaign. The aim is to make this a movement for 1922, 1932 and 1942 and 1952, as well as 1962, is to win now to the Christian life the boys who will then constitute the membership and leadership of this country.

Here, too, is the field that will yield the largest immediate results. If it is true that adolescence is the period when boys most easily and naturally turn to Christian life, then the same amount of effort put forth here will yield larger returns for the Kingdom of God than in any other department of our campaign. Our responsibilities begin with adolescence, and we are not called to undertake a campaign for children. The salvation of the religious life of childhood belongs to the home and to the church, and not to a movement like this. It will be easy for us to crowd our meetings with boys under fourteen and to fill our statistics with "conversions" among them; but it will be a temptation which we shall yield at our peril—their own. If we err at this point from the well-marked and all-sufficient task which will be parents and sons in the future ahead who will not rise up to call us to account. Finally, we must not apply to adolescent boys the methods of religious work which are necessary and right in dealing with mature men. If we shall go astray in trying to work for children who have not yet entered on the period of adolescence, we shall go equally astray if we try to apply to boys in the plastic process of transition the pressure which is necessary to change the lives of mature men whose habits are set and whose character is formed. Our business is to reach the adolescent boy in the way that will reach him best.

A boy's religion must fit a boy's nature and meet its needs; and it will be as characteristic and unique as this nature is. A boy is neither a larger child, nor, as Mr. W. D. Murray has well said, is he a "little man;" he is a boy, in the transition from childhood to manhood. And as his nature then is unlike what has preceded or what is to follow, so his religion must be. What will be its characteristic features?

POSITIVE In the first place, a boy's religion must be like his whole nature, positive. All the new elements in his character are struggling for expression and urging him on to action and achievement; so, too, his religion must be self-expression and action. A religion of negations and prohibitions can never grip boyhood. We must stop our "Don'ts" and replace them with "Do." To be sure, it is not easy to tell boys just what to do as an expression of their religious purposes. But so long as the personal class of boys, and their life together in school and gang are in such need as they are today of moral cleaning up; so long as the opportunity for older boys to work for and with younger boys continues what God and boy nature have made it; there is no lack of definite and positive tasks. And even where it is impossible to prescribe definite duties, we can follow the example of the Boy Scout Movement, and leave it to the boy's conscience and ingenuity to "do a good turn to someone every day."

IDEALISM Second, a boy's religion must be like a boy's whole nature, idealistic. One of the wisest women in this country in understanding boys, who has had long years of experience in dealing with them on the moral and religious side, has said that one rarely has to spend time persuading a boy that he ought to do the right thing, or getting up his enthusiasm for it. God and nature have done that for us; we have to hold up the right ideal, and the whole impulse of the boy's nature will drive him toward it, for he is essentially an idealist. The more exacting our standards and the more heroic our appeal, the more response are they likely to awaken in the eager soul of the boy. We have to provide the goal and not the impetus.

SOCIAL Third, a boy's religion must be, like his whole nature, social. The study of boy life has shown us that with the dawn of adolescence his interest turns from individual to team games; and every one who knows boys knows what a central part the "gang" plays in their thoughts and life. The child has been an individualist; but the boy is preparing to take his place as a member of society. This fact is all-important for an understanding of the boy's religious life. We must attract him by attracting his "gang," and hold him by holding them; for the individual boy can best be reached through the social group to which he is so firmly attached. And further, we must appeal to him and set him to work by appealing to his social responsibilities. We must set him at work for his "gang" and his friends. Our approach to him, and our call to service by him, must both be social.

EXPLOSIVE Again, a boy's religion is certain to be, like his temperament, emotionally explosive. His life is not a steam engine, that works steady pressure; it is a gasoline engine that works by sudden explosions. These explosions may be distressingly calculable, unrelated and incoherent, every worker with boys knows. A series of evangelistic meetings for boys, the speaker who was more used to dealing with men than boys, asked at the close of a personal emotional appeal that who wanted to be Christians would rise. Out of our 400 present all but sixty rose. Within a few minutes many were laughing to themselves or to their neighbors at what they had done; and when those who had risen were asked to come to another meeting next day, only about half appeared. It is a boy's nature, not his fault, to be powerfully moved by the emotion of the moment, and shortly after to be moved equally powerfully by another and perhaps contrary feeling. This fact, of fundamental importance in all work with boys, makes the problem of evangelistic meetings for boys especially delicate and difficult. It means that our task is not to produce one explosion that shall shatter the whole adjusted machinery, but to coordinate and harmonize the inevitable explosions so that the total result shall be an energetic and powerful moral and religious life.

HERO WORSHIPING Finally, a boy's religion must be, like his whole nature, hero worshiping. God's method with His human children has always been that of incarnation; the ideal must be personified, the Word must be made flesh before it can be powerful. But if this is true of us, it is far more true of boys. Give a boy the right hero and you have done the greatest thing you can do for him. Bring him under the personal influence of an older man whom he can admire and v and he will grow like him as in-tably as the flower grows toward the

s. This is the secret of successful thod in boys' work anywhere. Find a leader for the "gang" or club or ss whom the boys can rightly admire ad take as their hero, and the rest will ke care of itself. Bring the boys into rsonal contact with Jesus as the great ro, and the deepest forces in their les will work to mould them into His leness.

BY LEADER It would be easy to dilate on the qualities that fit a man to be a leader of boys worthy to be their hero—but it would only discourage all. We shall often err in picking our leaders for this work; for while men look on the outward appearance, God seems to have taught boys something of His secret of looking on the heart—and some of the most successful workers with boys are men of whom we should perhaps least have expected it. But woe to that man whom boys first idealize, and then discover to be other than they expected; it were better for him, Jesus said, that a millstone were hanged around his neck and that he were drowned in the depths of the sea.

We are all eager that prayer should have a foremost and fundamental place in this movement. Is there any more important object for our prayers than this—that God will raise up among us, in every city and town and hamlet, men who can by their personal influence and example lead boys to Jesus Christ as Lord and Master and enter them for service for the Kingdom of God.

L. B. D. C. No. 311 AND BROTHERHOOD CLASS, PHILADELPHIA

Geo. P. Rutledge, Pastor; Samuel Wisler, President; Walter Kestler, Treasurer; Horace Ensinger, Vice-President;
Millard F. Walton, Secretary; John W. Butterworth, President of Bible Class

Touring With the Team Work Campaign

By E. E. ELLIOTT

TROY, NEW YORK. is 1,386 miles from Kansas City, according to the Official Railway Guide. Zero weather, snow and delayed trains were our traveling companions, but the campaign chairman, W. C. Feathers, cashier of the Manufacturers' National Bank and general all-around man, had met all the trains from early morn and when we stepped into the fluffy atmosphere at the Troy depot, about half past six at night, our man was there with not a ruffle in his feathers. Down at the church, which nestles among the collar and cuff factories on the corner of River and Jay streets, we met Denton, the pastor. Yes, Denton, of Indiana and Missouri, the very same, dressed in his glad smile and banquet clothes. Here also we embraced for the first time on this tour M. B. Madden, of Japan, who is to be one of our constant traveling companions for the next forty-five days. Now, Troy is noted for being the originator of the laundry business, exceeding in fame all the cities of China put together. Cargoes of cotton goods are discharged at its wharves and the good ships which ply the beautiful Hudson sail away with cargoes of clean linen for the masculine humanity of the universe. One of the collar and cuff magnates, whose name is a household word among the Disciples in Troy, is Van Sant, head of the Van Sant-Jacobs Company, makers of the triangle collars. They have many brands of collars, including one new collar called the Denton, named in honor of our gentlemanly preacher from Indiana. Troy is a beautiful city, nestling among the foothills of the Catskill range, covering an area of about one mile wide by ten miles long up and down the west shore of the Hudson river almost shaking hands with the Green Mountain and Bay states to the north and east, and the very name of the city is suggestive of a clean shirt, but experience shows there are some other things for which this conservative Eastern city is entitled to a place among the best cities of the land. This was readily apparent the moment we stepped into that spacious dining hall in the lower section of the church, bedecked in all the beauty of a New England Christmas time. The service was prompt and the ladies who graced the affair were decked in those pleasing garments of our sisters and mothers of New England handed down to us Westerners by the tradition of our New England forefathers. After forty-eight hours in a traveling hotel operated under the auspices of the great transportation companies of the country, this New England dinner appeared to be a feast fit for kings. We were too busy ourselves to notice if these gentlemen from the eastern border line of the Empire State enjoyed it as much as we ourselves, but we take it for granted that it was so. Grouped about the tables were shirt-makers, cutters, trimmers, office men and proprietors, all grasping hands with each other and feeling we were meeting on the level and parting on the square. The church at Upper Troy was represented by its pastor, Brother Appleman, and a block of its stern manhood. One hundred men in all took part in the feast and sixty-six voted unanimously to form local Brotherhood and affiliate with the National body. A telegram to this effect was ordered sent to the General office in Kansas City. The affair was great. The men were enthusiastic over the Team Work Campaign and the Brotherhood. Much good will result. On account of conflicting dates in Northern Ohio, your servant was compelled to take Mr. Shellenberger's place on the program and perform the dual duties of campaign manager and Brotherhood speaker. The State Secretary of New York Missions, C. R. Stauffer, who in addition to his multitudinous duties in connection with the State work is the Pastor of our growing church at Syracuse, made the address of welcome and M. B. Madden gave his stirring address on "Our Brothers Afar," touching also the work in the home land, including Church Extension and Benevolences.

BUFFALO has a body of enthusiastic, earnest and consecrated Disciples. Our fellowship began immediately upon arrival. Entertainment was provided at one of the modern hostels without money and without price. A number of our ministers from the Niagara frontier were in attendance upon the State Board meeting and we were permitted to have fellowship with them around the luncheon table at the Young Men's Christian Association. The man to whom the Team Work Campaign is greatly indebted for the splendid arrangements and proper execution of the Buffalo banquet is R. A. Willard, a business man of Western New York. His business is selling plaster and the way he plastered Western New York with announcements, letters and telegrams about the Team Work Campaign, is only an indication of the way he runs his own business. Here was also S. B. Lindsay, State President of the New York Brotherhood, who is giving unreservedly of time and energy toward the proper inauguration of a local organization of men in every church in New York State, and our prediction is that before many months the men's movement in New York State will be largely harnessed up and pulling with the National Brotherhood, for, be it known, the Empire State's Men's League, presided over in times past by such men as Dr. Eli Long, Dr. Doust and E. A. Olley, and now by Mr. Lindsay, had its origin some years before the National Brotherhood took form, and many organizations of men in our churches in New York will be soon allied with us in the great work we are undertaking. After an hour in the splendid gymnasium of the Buffalo Y. M. C. A., we visited with the pastors and business men gathered in the parlors, and received many encouraging suggestions and much valuable information in regard to Brotherhood work. Forest Avenue Church, until recently a mission point, entertained the banqueters. A heavy snow was responsible for a late beginning, but when we took up the gavel and asked Dr. Eli H. Long to invoke the Divine blessing, three hundred men bowed their heads and were silent. The dispatch with which the ladies of the church served that large number was a lesson in system. In addition to the three speakers we had at Troy, there was Grant K. Lewis, that sterling exponent of American missions, who devoted his thirty minutes to a brilliant arraying of facts and figures in relation to the work of the American Christian Missionary Society and the Board of Church Extension. Here also was attached to the Brotherhood train the National Benevolent Association and Board of Ministerial Relief in Dr. Fred Kline, of Illinois, whose simple yet convincing message on "The Gospel of the Helping Hand" is a Brotherhood address through and through. In Illinois they do not know that Brother Kline once practiced medicine in the hospitals of Cincinnati and it was only by chance that we were acquainted with the fact by some of his friends. The societies he represents have made no mistake in choosing him for their speaker. Field Secretary Shellenberger joined us at this point and from now on is to tell the Brotherhood story while we keep peace among the Secretaries and shield them from bodily harm, get them to bed at night and up in the morning in time to fill the next appointment. Others than the speakers were called for at the close of the evening. J. A. Serena, President of Keuka College, spoke three minutes and E. A. Olley, who came over with a delegation from Tonawanda, spoke briefly in behalf of CHRISTIAN MEN Magazine. Five minutes after the benediction by B. F. Ferrall, five Secretaries were whirling toward the union station packed inside a taxicab like a box of sardines, but we made the train with time to spare, our only misfortune being that our Field Secretary had sent his trunk to the hotel thinking it was his suit case, which, in size, amounts to about the same thing. The baggage man promised to forward it on the next train.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Is seventy miles southeast of Pittsburgh and twelve miles above the border line of West Virginia. J. Walter Carpenter ministers to our people here, and this is also the home of L. B. D. C. No. 263, Benton Boyd, President, and the home of M. M. Cochran, National Director of the Brotherhood, and L. W. Fogg, a Ten-Dollar League and General Member. At the hotel, immediately on arrival, we were served with a magnificent luncheon, at which about fifteen of our church men were present. After luncheon we took a trip down into one of the several coal mines in and around Uniontown. Each man was supplied with a self-lighting, non-exploding hand lamp, weighing about two pounds. With these in hand we crowded into the center of the heavy cage which hauls up the laden buggies of coal and started for the bowels of the earth. For an hour we investigated the interesting workings of an up-to-date coal mine. At Buffalo everything was snow and ice, while at Uniontown there was much mud and slush. Saturday is a busy day in that thriving city and its narrow streets were crowded with a cosmopolitan population. Returning from the mine we inspected the Uniontown church property, one of the best equipped in the East, and especially arranged for successful work in the Bible school. The banquet to 125 men was served free by the Brotherhood. Judge Cochran introduced us and the rapid fire program of speech-making began. After a delightful fellowship we were taken into the pleasant homes of the people, ourselves, with M. B. Madden, being entertained by Brother Cochran. Late to bed and early to rise caused us to hasten away from an appetizing breakfast to catch a 7 o'clock train on Sunday morning, but such is the fate of a Team Work Campaigner.

PITTSBURGH EN ROUTE TO NEW CASTLE

We dropped off at Pittsburgh Sunday morning for a stay of an hour or two, enroute to New Castle, for the afternoon meeting, and happened to turn our steps toward the Central Church, where Robert Latimer than whom none stands higher among our laity, greeted us at the door, and S. R. Pedon, President of L. B. D. C. No. 287, saw that we secured comfortable seats in the body of the house. We were compelled to leave before the sermon on "The Whiteness of Garments" was finished, but carried away an impression of an earnest man laboring among an earnest people in a place where salvation was much needed.

NEW CASTLE Mr. Shellenberger stayed at Uniontown to preach on Sunday morning and we were one less when we stepped into the rain at Newcastle and grasped the hand of Crayton S. Brooks, pastor of the church. We were delighted with a visit from Brother T. W. Phillips at the hotel in the afternoon. We are proud to count him as one of the earliest and most persistent advocates of the Brotherhood idea and his interest in all our causes, in spite of advancing years, is still very keen. At night Grant K. Lewis went to Mahoningtown and M. B. Madden, Dr. Kline and myself essayed the task of interesting nearly a thousand folks gathered in the auditorium of the Park Street church. "Billy" Sunday has recently closed a meeting at Newcastle and our church received more than five hundred members, which compels an addition to the building. The men of this church have long been active in a missionary way and now they are to throw their energy into a campaign to put up his $20,000 addition. The Newcastle church, erected about forty years ago by the Phillips brothers, and the new addition will make possible a larger and better work.

KRON, OHIO, is three hours west from Newcastle on the line to Cleveland. Claude Traxler was the moving genius handling the campaign arrangements, and he did it well. A noon conference around the luncheon table at the Y. M. C. A. gave us a splendid opportunity to secure suggestions of the men in regard to the team work. At Akron we found Mr. Shellenberger with a deep-seated cold and fever and unable to be present at the banquet, where one hundred men gathered about the white cloth. H. E. Stafford and several of his men from Massillon were present. Stafford was proudly exhibiting a solid gold Brotherhood emblem watch fob, a Christmas gift from L. B. D. C. No. 286. Another pastor scattering good seed by being present with several of his men was Brother Scattergood, of Stowe, who gave us a subscription for twenty copies of the magazine for his Bible class, which he hopes to make into a local Brotherhood. The usual stirring messages were delivered and the evening closed with benediction by George Darsie, pastor of the church.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, the city by the lakeside, is an hour's ride from Akron. The Team Work meeting was around the banquet table in the Euclid Avenue church. Here is one of the finest church buildings in the Brotherhood and another choice group of the sterling Christian men that we have been meeting these many days. Owing to the fact that four of our Cleveland churches were holding protracted meetings, it was not a large gathering, but it was big in enthusiasm, and we counted ourselves exceptionally fortunate in being heard by the fifty men who were present. W. S. Goode, our pastor at Lakewood, was Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements and we are indebted to him and others who contributed to the success of the affair. At Akron we were joined by the Ohio State Secretary of Missions, I. J. Cahill, who was present with his Irish wit at Cleveland also, and will continue with us, speaking for State work at all points in Ohio. Although sick, Mr. Shellenberger's nerve permitted him to come with us to Cleveland, but, on instructions from Kansas City, we sent him home to Wooster. An automobile ride about the city, a visit with J. Z. Tyler and a call at the Christian Orphanage was the order the next morning.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, is the capital city of the Buckeye State. Brother Cahill, in his address, says that every elected president since Lincoln, with but two exceptions, was an Ohioan, and claims a lot of other men for Ohio whose grandfathers' dogs ran across the corner of the State at some time or other. F. S. Bartlett was the Campaign Chairman at Columbus and arranged a men's supper with glowing prospects. At the last minute it was discovered that the hour had been set too early and the banquet was called off, but sixty men came out to the Wilson Avenue church at seven o'clock and listened with great interest to the proceedings of the evening. The Central Ohio Ministerial Institute met in Columbus today and a number of the ministers stayed over for the Campaign appointment. In addition to these visitors three of the coöperating societies had National officers present to see how the campaign was being conducted. R. A. Doan, of Nelsonville, National Director of the Brotherhood, brought along T. A. Dowd, Secretary of L. B. D. C. No. 315. The Foreign Society was represented by its President, A. McLean, and the American Christian Missionary Society by I. N. McCash, Secretary.

Reasons for Affiliating With the General Brotherhood

1. In union there is strength.
2. Something larger to tie to. Many men have written to General headquarters since the Brotherhood was organized saying "Our Men's club died, but it would not have died if it had had the larger organization to tie to."
3. It avoids the insular or provincial view, broadening your men by bringing them out into touch with the larger life of the men all over the country. If the Brotherhood is not going to make your men bigger or better than they are now, it isn't going to be worth their while, and just as one man does not amount to much by himself, so one group of men does not amount to much by itself.
4. Take the lodge that you belong to. How long would it last and meet its obligations if it were only a local affair? Or take the labor union that you belong to. How long would it last, or what would it be worth if it were not a part of the larger body? The larger cannot be without the local, and the local cannot be without the larger body. If your Brotherhood were to decide not to affiliate with us, you rob us of that much strength, and by that much defeat the possibilities of our doing good.
5. Your men need the General Brotherhood, because it is studying the question of men's work in the broadest possible way. We in this office are watching the work of every men's organization in America. Not only that, but we are watching the work of organizations in the local churches and sending out the results of their work through the magazine to other Local Brotherhood organizations.
6. It adds dignity and importance to your local organization if it is a part of the National Body. If you are all alone, your men feel many times that "It doesn't matter whether I go to the meeting or not, or whether I do this thing assigned to me or not. It is only a local affair," but if you are a link in a great chain that runs all over the country, it is not just a local affair, it is not just of local importance whether your Brotherhood succeeds or fails, but it is of importance to the whole. The weight of this argument is too strong to need elaboration.
7. There is a value in affiliation because it costs something. Men will disesteem that which is free or involves no responsibilities. When your men affiliate with the General body, they assume an obligation to support, promote and extend the Brotherhood ideals. True, that obligation is very low, five cents per month, put so low that the coal heaver and the manager may be on the same basis and the Brotherhood be an absolute democracy, but at the same time, sixty cents per year is sixty cents per year. Now, if you can get your men to put sixty cents a year into the ideal of the Brotherhood for promoting and extending it away from home, you can get them to put a good deal of effort into realizing the Brotherhood ideal at home, and if they will not put sixty cents into the ideal, the chances are that they will not put thirty cents' worth of effort into it at home.
8. Yet another argument. We believe in Christian Union. We plead for it. Shall we, who say so much about Unity, not be united in the great work of enlisting men?

A Recognition

ty Brotherhood of Keokuk, Iowa, Presided Over by President of L. B. D. C.
No. 288

J. O. BOYD, KEOKUK, IOWA

ident L. B. D. C. No. 288. President Associated Brotherhoods

Note.—J. O. Boyd, President L. B. D. C.N.O. 288, the honored President of the Associated Brotherhoods of all the churches of Keokuk, Iowa. The following excerpts of his annual report of the organization published in the daily press is an indication of the work of the larger organization, and a hint at the ability of the man who stands at the head of the Local Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ in City on the Mississippi.—Editor.

We have avoided the duplication of any work done by the Y. M. C. A. or any other general society existing in the city. We have endeavored to unify the activities of the various churches and brotherhoods, that those activities might be a more effective factor in the moral growth of the city.

Our religious education committee has co-operated with the Ministerial Alliance in an investigation of the various missions of the city.

Our civic committee has co-operated with a committee of citizens in promoting the adoption of the commission form of government. It has promoted a discussion and investigation into city affairs. There has been a united effort to secure an improvement in local civic affairs.

The industrial committee has been studying industrial conditions and has promoted an employment bureau which may be productive of much usefulness in the future. It has in view the unification of the charitable organizations of the city.

Miss Aura Hopkinson has been employed as religious secretary, and her time is used in calling upon those moving to the city, extending them a cordial welcome, and aiding them to find a congenial place in some church. She is now engaged in compiling a religious census of the city and ere long each church may have a list of those living in the city who are not apparently interested in church work.

By way of suggestion, it appears from the experience of last year that certain activities may be undertaken with an assurance that much good may be accomplished. For instance the religious education committee may find a field for activity in promoting conferences of the Sunday-school workers in the city, or arranging a Bible institute, which is found so helpful in so many places.

The industrial committee should perfect the organizations begun by them. They should invite representatives of the employers of labor or merchants, and also representatives from the labor unions, to jointly have charge of the labor bureau.

The civic committee should plan and aid in the beautification of the city, the improvement of the river front for park purposes and arrange for a free discussion of municipal questions in the local brotherhoods. This committee may well supply the place of a civic league, which has proven so helpful in many cities.

WE ARE NOT STILL

But we are still sending the package of BROTHERHOOD ORGANIZATION MATERIAL anywhere in America or Europe for 15 cents in stamps or American money. 'It tells

How to Organize, Operate and Maintain A LOCAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

in your own local church, among your own men, by themselves, officered and committed by the men, and at work among themselves, for the advancement of the kingdom in your own community. Could you spend half of thirty cents better?

Thunder From the Battle Line

E. E. Elliott's Terse Daily Reports on the Team Work Campaign

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 5, 1911.

One hundred men in banquet.

Speakers—M. B. Madden of Japan, C. R. Stauffer, Syracuse; E. E. Elliott, of Kansas City.

Registration cards signed, sixty-six.

Subscriptions secured, thirty-three.

Churches represented, two.

Officers selected, none. Write W. C. Feathers, Cashier Manufacturers' National Bank, Chairman.

Minister First Church, H. A. Denton, corner River and Jay streets.

Upper Troy Church, F. J. M. Appleman.

First Church have appointed meeting for Thursday, January 12th, to complete organization and elect officers.

Upper Troy Church would like to have Field Secretary later along.

Outlook in general is splendid.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 6, 1911.

Three hundred men in banquet

Speakers—C. R. Stauffer, Fred Kline, Grant K. Lewis, M. B. Madden, J. K. Shellenberger, J. A. Serena and E. E. Elliott.

Churches represented—Twelve.

Registration cards signed—Eighty seven.

Subscriptions secured—(Think, thirty-three. J. K. S. has them.)

Officers selected—None. Will report on each church separately.

Luncheon of ministers and leading laymen at Y. M. C. A. room.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 6, 1911.

Two hundred fifty men of Niagara frontier churches in banquet assembled enthusiastically commend team work campaign and pledge local Brotherhood in every church during 1911. Please convey our greetings to other campaign points. We predict this campaign the beginning of unification of all interests to the end that the great commission may become a living reality with the Disciples of Christ in America. Want Field Secretary Shellenberger to return in February.

R. A. WILLARD,
Chairman.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Jan. 7, 1911.

One hundred twenty-five men in banquet.

Speakers, J. K. Shellenberger, Grant K.

Lewis, Fred Kline, M. B. Madden, M. B. Cochran, E. E. Elliott.

Registration cards signed, fifty-six.

Churches represented, four.

Live Brotherhood already existing in Uniontown, Benton Boyd, President.

Connellsville, next town north, wants Field Secretary soon as possible.

Luncheon of pastors and prominent laymen at hotel at noon.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Jan. 8, 1911.

Two hundred men and five hundred women popular audience at Park Street Church, beginning 7 o'clock p. m.

Speakers, M. B. Madden, Fred Kline and E. E. Elliott.

Registration cards signed, eighty-one.

Churches represented, one.

This church has a Men's Missionary Society and has just inaugurated a campaign for an addition to the building to cost $20,000. This is the home church of T. W. Phillips.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

AKRON, O., Jan. 9, 1911.

One hundred men in banquet.

Speakers, I. J. Cahill, State Secretary; Grant K. Lewis, Fred Kline, M. B. Madden and E. E. Elliott. (On account of sickness Mr. Shellenberger was not present.)

Registration cards signed, fifty-six.

Churches represented, six.

Subscriptions secured, twenty-two. List left with Claude Traxler.

Men are nearly a unit in desiring local organizations and field work ripens very fast.

Splendid luncheon of ministers and leading laymen at Y. M. C. A. at noon.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

Resolved, That we endorse the "Team Work" campaign of the Brotherhood in behalf of Missions and Benevolences;

That we observe with pleasure the approaching unification of our Missionary and Benevolent work;

That we pledge ourselves to do what we can in the several churches we represent to secure an every member canvass and unanimous systematic support of all our organized work;

That we recommend in every church reach for the movement the organization of a local Brotherhood in order to employ men in promotion of the Kingdom of God.

Offered by Wm. Spanton at Team Work Campaign, date Akron, Ohio, Monday, January, 9, 1911, and enthusiastically passed.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 10, 1911.

Fifty men in banquet at Euclid Avenue Church.

Speakers, I. J. Cahill, Dr. Fred Kline, Grant K. Lewis, M. B. Madden and E. E. Elliott.

Churches represented, four.

Registration cards signed, forty-six.

Subscriptions secured, twenty-two.

Officers selected, none.

Propositions are ripening separately.

This was the smallest meeting in point of attendance yet held, but it was a very wealthy audience, variously estimated at from two to three million dollars.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 11, 1911.

Sixty men in evening meeting at Wilson Avenue Church.

Speakers, I. J. Cahill, Dr. Fred Kline, Grant K. Lewis, M. B. Madden and E. E. Elliott.

Also present, A. McLean and I. N. McCash, both of whom commend campaign in highest terms.

Registration cards signed, forty-six.

Churches represented, twelve from Columbus and adjacent points.

Some of the outlying churches want a Field Secretary. Separate letter on this.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

P. S.—The Central Ohio Ministerial Association met in Columbus today, and I was privileged to speak to them on our work. A number of the ministers stayed over for the evening meeting.

E. E. E.

NEWARK, OHIO, JANUARY 12, 1911.

Sixty men in banquet. Fifty women gathered later. Speakers: I. J. Cahill, Dr. Fred Kline, Grant K. Lewis, M. B. Madden, E. E. Elliott. Home of L. B. D. C. No. 324. Doing effective work under President Merriott. Met Secretary and Treasurer and had good conference. My address was along lines of improved service. Pastor W. D. Ward is great man's man. Enthusiasm high. Already taking 100 copies magazine.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

LEXINGTON, KY. JANUARY 13, 1911.

One hundred and fifty men in banquet at hotel. One hundred and sixteen signed registration cards. Speakers: H. W. Elliott, State Secretary; G. K. Lewis, Dr. Fred Kline, M. B. Madden and E. E. Elliott. Subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN, 27. Enthusiasm high. Many ripe fields opened for field work.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

LOUISVILLE, KY., JANUARY 14, 1911.

Most of the ministers and several leading laymen of Louisville, sixteen in all, met us at the Galt House at noon and we had a magnificent banquet in one of the private dining rooms.

Thad S. Tinsley made the arrangements and invited the guests and we are under many obligations to him.

After dinner we had brief addresses by H. W. Elliott, Dr. Fred Kline, M. B. Madden and E. E. Elliott.

Most of the men present signed registration cards.

It was a happy gathering and we received a most cordial invitation to make Louisville a stopping point on our next campaign tour and with the coöperation of the Kentucky Bible School department we ought to have many openings for a field secretary in Louisville within the next year.

E. E. ELLIOTT.

For the Man of Galilee

(Sung at Buffalo Banquet, Jan. 6, 1911.)

BY S. J. DUNCAN CLARK.

Shout aloud the stirring summons

O'er the land from sea to sea,

Men are wanted, men of courage,

For the Man of Galilee.

O, thou Man of Galilee!

Thou who died to set men free.

We will follow only Thee,

Blessed Man of Galilee!

Men are wanted, men of purpose,

Men of high or low degree,

Each to be a fellow worker

With the Man of Galilee.

O, thou Man of Galilee!

In the fight to set men free,

We will follow only Thee,

Glorious Man of Galilee!

From the counting house and college,

From the forge and factory,

Lo, there throngs a loyal legion

For the Man of Galilee!

O, thou Man of Galilee!

We will follow only Thee,

In a life of faith and service,

Blessed Man of Galilee!

Onward! are His marching orders,

He who leads to victory,

Onward! till the world is taken

For the Man of Galilee.

O, thou Man of Galilee!

We will follow only Thee,

O, thou fearless, peerless leader,

Glorious Man of Galilee!

—Team Work Campaign.

Wireless Whispers

Rev. John P. Sala, of Dayton, Ohio, says of the work of his men in connection with a recent evangelistic campaign: "My men went out in twos and fours and made one hundred and fifty calls and returned to church for prayer and exhortation. What a time we had! They are very enthusiastic."

* * *

Miss E. Konitsky, Station E, Baltimore, Md., is the publisher of some very interesting literature on the subject of Bible reading. Her plan is to read the Bible through in one year, and she gives selections from different books for each day in the year. The plan does not involve consecutive reading, and gives evidence of having been compiled in a sane, devotional spirit.

* * *

A. R. Spicer is one of the Oklahoma ministers who is "Doing a man's work in a man's way." We have been privileged to see a report of the year's work of this congregation, and it is a record to be envied.

All departments of church activity are represented in the total budget of $6,600. Brother Spicer is a member of the State Board. President of the Fourth District, and already begins to be an institution in Southwestern Oklahoma.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 1, Independence Boulevard, gave the regular program on "The Ministry as a Calling," on their first meeting night in January, which was January 2d. The attendance was remarkably large, considering the weather. The program was an interesting one. The debate, "Resolved, That the Ministry Is a Desirable Calling for Young Men," was interesting and suggestive. Charles R. Scoville was present and made a helpful talk, as was Charles B. Hahn and W. J. Minges, of his evangelistic company.

* * *

C. T. Morris, that loyal friend of CHRISTIAN MEN, who blows around all over the country, and whom we last heard from out near the Rockies, turns up from Jersey Shore, Pa., with forty-six subscribers to CHRISTIAN MEN, thirty-four of whom belong to the Brotherhood Bible Class of the Lutheran Sunday-School, pictured herein, and the rest are Methodists or Baptists. Our correspondent adds: "A few I am presenting a year's subscription to and sending to friends in different states." He has attended for several Sundays the class of which he furnishes us a picture.

The following reports some very effective work at the Belmar Church, Pittsburgh, home of L. B. D. C. No. 335, one of our newest Brotherhoods: "We held our January meeting on December 28th, on account of starting our meeting. We started the meeting late at night and had four confessions and four others united with the church, making a total of eight for the day. This brings the total for four months and two weeks, which Brother Underwood has served us, up to sixty-one. So far we have had eight men added from the Brotherhood. More to follow. Have total of eighty men enrolled in the Brotherhood with good prospects for one hundred by February 1st. Had seventy men present at our meeting on December 28th, several short and snappy speeches, followed by baked bean, butter and buttermilk lunch."

* * *

The men of Independence Boulevard Brotherhood No. 1, Kansas City, are rendering signal success in the revival work now being conducted by the Scoville Evangelist Team. The first service of the first day of this meeting was a men's prayer meeting held at sunrise, or to be exact, at seven o'clock which was decidedly before sunrise, and which exactly one hundred men were present. The meeting continued one hour and was led by President R. A. Long, of the General Brotherhood. All pronounced it one of the most deeply religious gatherings in which they had ever been. They followed this with a similar meeting at the same hour on the second Sunday, led by D. M. Pinkerton. There were one hundred and one men present. At the close, Dr. Combs extended the invitation of the Gospel, and one young man made the good confession. It was voted to continue the sunrise meetings each Lord Day during the present campaign for souls.

The Brotherhood Bible Class reached high water mark the same Sunday morning, with about fifty men in attendance. They expect to reach one hundred soon.

* * *

NORTH YAKIMA, WASH., Dec. 13, 1910.
Brotherhood Meeting at the Christian Church.

At seven o'clock the Local No. 276 met in the church social room in regular session. Upon the absence of the president, the lead-

For the evening, Paul G. Kruger, acted as chairman as well as leader.

Thirty-one were present and began the meeting by song and prayer. The leader then read the Scripture lesson.

The topic for the evening was: "What the gift of Christ has meant to the world."

Three-minute talks were in order by M. L. Rose, L. D. Green and W. H. Devaney.

Another topic: "How may I use for others this great gift?" was discussed by J. W. Richie, A. A. Luse, W. A. Shippert, P. G. Kruger and Perry Yeager.

Motion: That the chair appoint a committee of three to arrange for a feed to be given near Christmas for the men in town who are away from home.

Committee appointed were W. A. Shippert, V. Crane and F. A. Luse.

Invitation Committee of five: P. G. Kruger, A. A. Hilbers, W. Deventelum, L. D. Luce and Wm. Hrdlicka.

Financial Committee of three: Wm. Corron, Fred Schleif and Lloyd Sherman.

Entertainment Committee of two: James roulette and L. D. Green.

The time was chosen to be the Wednesday evening after Christmas, December 28th.

The leader was chosen for the next meeting, which will be held Tuesday, December 30th. We anticipate a great meeting on this date as well as the one a week later.

Respectfully,

G. D. YEAGER, Secretary.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 301, Peoria, Ill., has had a number of spirited debating contests and splendid addresses during the fall and winter season. The following men have addressed them: Honorable Dan R. Sheen; Prof. H. P. Hall; Dr. Clifford U. Collins; Dr. Geo. W. Barker; A. M. Bruner, Railroad Evangelist; Judge W. I. Slemmons, Probation Judge. This brotherhood is solidly behind an Evangelistic meeting to be held by Evangelist Harlow in the West Bluff chapter beginning January 28th.

Brotherhood man in the person of A. I. Luckwaller is Superintendent of the West Bluff Sunday-School and is making good. An unusual treat will be in store for the Peoria men on January 18th, when R. A. Doan will address the Sunday-School people of the entire city. L. B. D. C. No. 301 is working enthusiastically to make the gathering a success.

* * *

Brotherhood and the Official Board

An interesting illustration of the position to which the Brotherhood is coming in all our churches is afforded by a recent glance at the by-laws of the First Christian Church, Springfield, Ill., where we note the following:

"Section 1. The Official Board shall consist of the pastor, the elders, the deacons, the trustees, the clerk and treasurer; also the Bible School Superintendent and the President of the Brotherhood as members ex-officio."

"Section 5. The President of the Brotherhood shall be the official representative of the distinctively men's work of the church, acting in conjunction with the pastor and the Official Board."

We notice some other immensely business-like statements in these by-laws, among them that "Any member of the Official Board who shall be absent from three consecutive regular meetings of the Board without reasonable excuse, or who shall miss six such meetings in a year, shall be deemed to have resigned his office."

Again, "Any member of the Official Board who shall, for a period of six months or more, habitually absent himself from the regular services of the church, particularly the Lord's Day morning worship, without reasonable excuse, shall be deemed to have voted himself out of office."

* * *

A Men's Institute

We are in receipt of the following from W. E. Crabtree, pastor of the Central Christian Church, San Diego, Cal.: "Frank M. Dowling has just closed a men's institute in the San Diego Church, delivering nine addresses and concluding with a popular lecture. We strove to emphasize man's place and work in the church. Women were welcomed, but men given the center of the stage. No special effort was made at evangelism, although exhortation and invitation followed every address, and many members of other churches attended. Brother Dowling's address on 'The Master of Men and the Men he has Mastered,' or 'The Reserves Called Out,' or 'The Minister and his Men,' justified the holding of the institute. His popular lecture, 'What a Boy,' is the equal of Bob Burdette's 'Rise and Fall of the Moustache' and a fitting finale to the course, and renders the finances of the institute easy. Our people were enthusiastic over the lecturer and his work, and I have a feeling that he has a distinct mission to the men of our Brotherhood. I enthusiastically commend Frank M. Dowling and his institute."

Brother Dowling's subjects are as follows:

"Woman's Debt to Christ."

"The Master of Men and the Men He Has Mastered."

"The Reserves Called Out."

"Christ and Business Men."

"The Man and the Book."

"The Man in the Book."

"A Reasoning Man's Religion."

"That Man from Macedonia."

"The Marks of a Man."

"The Minister and His Work."

"The Man, Christ Jesus."

Popular Lecture, "What a Boy."

* * *

Methodist Men, a splendid magazine, about the same size as our own publication, contains every month a choice lot of the best to be found on the general subject of men's work in the church, through the Brotherhood. We notice in the January issue "Peter the Fourth," by Edward B. Bagby, which was the leader in CHRISTIAN MEN for October, and the article on "The Future Brotherhood," by H. E. Stafford, Massillon, Ohio, published in the latter part of the year past in CHRISTIAN MEN, as well as a quotation from J. K. Shellenberger's address at the Topeka Convention. The December number reprinted from CHRISTIAN MEN Judge Haymaker's instructive article on the Brotherhood. "Peter the Fourth," as our readers will remember, is Peter Ainslie, of Christian Temple, Baltimore, and we are glad to see the story of his life, as told by Brother Bagby, given wide circulation. Wm. B. Patterson, Editor, says of this character sketch that it is one of the best he has seen in a long time. This gives us occasion to say that the Methodist Brotherhood is exceptionally well officered now in Dr. Fayette L. Thompson, General Secretary, and Wm. B. Patterson, Recording Secretary, and it is moving forward with tremendous strides. Methodist Men is published by the Laymen's Publishing Co., 150 Fifth Avenue, New York. The subscription price is $1 per year and we recommend it to all our subscribers who are interested in the Brotherhood Movement.

* * *

Casting a Flag Upon the Waters

Few who attended the Brotherhood Convention at Topeka in 1910 can forget the thrilling moment when Mrs. Princess Long, after her wonderfully inspiring rendering of a medley of patriotic songs, presented to Mrs. Boggess, of Alberta, Canada, the beautiful starry flag which she had held in her hands so many times as she sang before our National Conventions.

It was the feeling of Brother J. H. Garrison that since Mrs. Long had given away her flag in a Brotherhood Convention, it would be a nice thing for the Brotherhood to present her with another. He mentioned that thought to President R. A. Long, while he was in St. Louis one day, and Mr. Long (who never seems to forget anything) came on to Kansas City and instructed this office to purchase and send to Mrs. Long the flag of which she writes.

"Please allow me to express to the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, through these columns, my sincere thanks for the splendid Christmas gift received from them through Brother R. A. Long. It is a beautiful silk American flag, measuring forty by sixty inches, trimmed with a heavy silk fringe. Brother Long's letter stated that it was in return for mine which I gave to Mrs. Boggess at Topeka, to take with her to Alberta, Canada, and in receiving it I find that, as usual, in the Master's work. I have gained more than I lost. My old flag was very dear to me, more so than I can make anyone understand, but it is still mine, in a sense, and is even dearer and more sacred than before, because it carried with it my love and prayerful interest in the work in its new home. Then, in exchange, I have this beautiful new flag, too large to carry in my pocket, to be sure, but just the size for the place of honor it fills on the wall of my home, where it brings to me and my family and friends a daily message of Christian love and patriotism. Last, but not least, it is the gift to me from the great organization of the Brotherhood, and brings me in direct conscious touch with that magnificent body, place any woman might covet. And so it with deep gratitude to you all that I accept the gift, assuring you that, coming to me thus, it will be to me and mine an emblem of true Christian citizenship.

"Sincerely yours,

Long Beach, Cal. "PRINCESS C. LONG."

Giving the flag incident yet one more thought, we are in receipt of directions from Mr. Long to send to our sweet singer another flag that shall not be too large, that she can use, as she had used the former, when the inspiring notes of her song are floating in the surcharged atmosphere of our Conventions.

* * *

A Modern Miracle—Five Hundred Fe

Local Brotherhood No. 276, North Yakima, Wash., was the lad with the five loaves and the two small fishes, and the occasion was a dinner given by this Local to the men of the town.

The pastor, Morton L. Rose, says it was "the biggest event in this town during the holiday season." We should say it ranks as one of the greatest events in the history of our Brotherhood work. One of the men says:

"This banquet was suggested at our meeting held on the second Tuesday in December and the Brotherhood went at it with a will. The result was a tremendous awakening to the needs of our city. This was our first effort to get in closer touch with the non-going church men, and the results were beyond our fondest hopes. This banquet was free, it was cooked by men, served by men and eaten by men."

As one evidence of their newspaper advertising, a clipping from the North Yakima Herald says:

"They want it clearly understood that this is a goodfellowship supper for any man who is away from home, whether transient in the city, working here, or in business, church member or not. They have provided places for three hundred, and if you are a man, old or young, and away from the place you call home, or is for you. Cast away loneliness and care and enjoy yourself just as if you were home."

The same paper in reporting the meeting said:

"Preparations were made for three hundred, but there was food in plenty for the unexpected. Some were business men of the city, some were clerks, some were laborers; there were some white, some colored, and of all nationalities to be found in this somewhat cosmopolitan city were represented. Probably not half a dozen of those present were there because they needed the food. It was the need of companionship and the opportunity offered to enjoy a good social time together that brought them. The idea of the Brotherhood was to do something for those men who at this Christmas season have no homes to which they may go, no place where they can be made to feel that they belong in the general scheme of things, and this idea was carried through to a most delightful issue."

A Laymen's Home Missionary Movement

The greatest movement in modern times is about to begin. Greater than damming the Gunnison river or digging the Panama canal. Greater than opening the Alaska gold fields or adopting aviation in the standing army. Greater, too, than political insurgency, or legislative investigations. It is a crusade of proportions equal to those of the Middle Ages and of import a thousand fold more significant.

Only one movement has been planned on a more gigantic scale than the "MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD MOVEMENT." One day Jesus Christ, The Man of Galilee, laid the conquest of the WORLD for the men of the earth. This "FORWARD MOVEMENT" of the Twentieth century is unto the conquest of North America for "MEN AND BOYS" for the Kingdom of God. It is but a thunderous echo of the voice that was spoken among the Galilean hills nineteen hundred years ago.

Sweeping plans are laid. Foundations broad and deep are being built. A campaign as far reaching as the Continent is about to begin.

And what is it all about? Here it is: "A FORWARD MOVEMENT IN BEHALF OF THE CHRISTIAN LIFE OF MEN AND BOYS OF NORTH AMERICA." Shut your eyes and let that filter into your soul until you begin to feel the thrill of glistening, glorifying visions, and on-coming victories.

What means this mighty movement for "MEN AND BOYS" in the name of our Great Jehovah? It means there is a common feeling yeasting in the breasts of the prophets of the Kingdom that is about to break forth into action. A universal sentiency is about to be expressed. It has already crystallized in these words:

This is an opportune time to call men of these nations for a period of more than common thought of God.

Men throughout the country are peculiarly prepared in mind to give new and deeper consideration to the place and power of the Christian religion—our nations have ample cause for repentance. Sin is rampant and every paper records the shattered debris of moral ideals. But this is not true of young men as a whole, and in a way only to be interpreted by faith in God's leading. The door is open now to a yet deeper emphasis of spiritual things among men everywhere.

Apparently overwhelming issues of the immediate future are upon us. Beneath our present peace and prosperity there are serious rumblings under the seemingly placid surface. Economic standards are being questioned. The industrial world is restless and striking transformations are taking place; race lines are being drawn; religious and moral restraints are less keenly felt; general prosperity and opportunities for indulgence have conspired to create habits of extravagance and luxury and to lead great masses to an essentially pagan life in the midst of Christian surroundings. The greatest present problem before the church of God is to make North America Essentially Christian.

North American type of Christian effort is the index for world evangelization. It is sought after throughout the world because the type developed here is sort of a composite of the activities of all the nations known as Christian. Here is an assembling of the ideas in religious doctrine and method of all these nations. Here, therefore, ought to be developed a program of almost universal grasp.

This call for men is opportune because the masculine element in the church is so much less developed than the feminine. There are three million less men and boys in the Christian Churches of North America than of the other sex. To find and properly relate to the church these missing three million of North American manhood is

A Man's Undertaking

What does this movement propose to do?

1. To win one hundred thousand men and boys by May 15, 1912.
2. Double the enrollment in Bible Classes.
3. To increase the emphasis of the Christian Religion as the one and only hope of the world.
4. To reveal the program of Jesus Christ in the world in such a manner that the strongest man will volunteer for life service in His cause.
5. To make a permanent contribution to the best life of the continent, social, political, commercial and physical.
6. To leave with every Church, Brotherhood, Sunday-school, and Young Men's Christian Association a worthy and workable plan of specialized effort for men and boys.
8. To assemble and publish a statement of the most approved methods of religious work for men and boys.
9. To add a conclusive testimony beyond anything yet offered by the church to the essential reality of Christian unity.

Methods

How is this work to be done?

1. An administrative Board of ninety-seven representative Christian laymen is to be constituted. This Board will be representative of the religious interests of North America.
2. Ninety cities are to be selected, not because of size, but because of their strategic positions. In these cities, eight-day series of conferences and meetings will be held. These meetings will be of such magnitude and power that they will challenge the attention of the men of the whole continent.
3. In each of these ninety cities will be assembled an interdenominational committee of one hundred laymen, to be known as the Committee of One Hundred. The Committee will be pledged to reproduce the program first carried out in their own city, in from ten to twenty cities within thirty days after the central campaign. These programs are to be constructed and carried out with the purpose to awaken a deep, constructive and permanent religious life.
4. In addition to the ninety "Committees of One Hundred," especially selected, an auxiliary committee will be appointed consisting of three laymen and one pastor, in each of the smaller adjacent cities. This committee will assist in the program and campaign of their home city. This means that this awakening will touch no less than nine hundred and possibly fifteen hundred of our North American cities before May 15, 1912.
5. For the promotion of this campaign, specialists are to be sent out in advance. These specialists will be accompanied by trained teams and will work along the lines of Bible Study,
 Evangelistic work for men,
 Religious work for boys,
 Christian Social service,
 Shop and factory work,
 Work among students,
 Work among railway employees.
6. It is recommended that Sunday, September 17, 1911, be observed as "Rally Day for Men and Boys" in every Church, Sunday-school, Brotherhood and Young Men's Christian Association and that sermons be preached upon the significance of the "Men and Religion Year." The afternoon of that day to be observed everywhere with

Men and Boys' Prayer Service

From beginning to end of the campaign, the theme of the Christian religion is to be expressed through the advertising channels by every dignified method. Bill-boards, railway time cards, laundry lists, menu cards in hotels, restaurants and dining cars, space in commercial ads, electric signs, street cars and busses.

A definite program for the future is always to be emphasized and determined effort will be made to avoid efforts evaporating in mere inspirational enthusiasm. Definite permanent results is the bold objective.

The First Sunday in May is suggested as “Conservation Day”

Every church in the land will be asked to make this a

A Mighty Day for Men

Brother Readers, do you catch the significance of the tremendous sweep of this gigantic plan? What will be its immediate results, God only can tell. The millennium will not be ushered in by May 12, 1912, because of this mighty effort; but men will be awakened and Jesus will again have been transfigured before the multitudes. Who can dream or visualize this movement's possibilities to the Kingdom of God?

Mighty days are upon us. They are calling for the rich red blood of strong, manhood. Every Brotherhood will answer this call and begin to live now, as never before, up to the significance of the emblem he wears upon his bosom.

“Christ is all in all”

and the day is coming when all the world will realize it.

In pursuance of the plans announced above a meeting was held in Buffalo on October 25th and 26th at which the following resolutions were adopted. We urge their careful reading:

Report of the Committee on Resolutions “Men and Religion Forward Movement” Conference

BUFFALO, N. Y., October 25-26, 1910.

WHEREAS, We have been brought to the present hour by a series of unplanned, unstudied events which have in their entirety impressed us as the simultaneous promptings of the spirit of Almighty God, pushing out the discipleship of this generation into new and untried ways of Christian activity and usefulness; And,

WHEREAS, The spiritual impressions of this present gathering have served to confirm these convictions of Spirit leading,

THEREFORE, Resolved, That as men of America, representing every section of this Continent, and practically every aspect of Evangelical Faith, assembled in Conference in Buffalo, we hereby record our solemn conviction that our Divine Lord is calling the manhood of our days to a new and unusual consecration for service. We pledge to Him, to each other, and to the Committee hereafter to be appointed, our whole-hearted and loyal coöperation;

Resolved: That we emphasize our belief in the Church of Jesus Christ as the one instrumentality divinely appointed by Him for the salvation of the world, and that the organizations uniting in this movement are only agencies of the Church, through which it may carry on its ministry of service, and that we maintain the utmost regard for the convictions and methods of the churches and organizations coöperating;

Resolved: That the object of this movement be defined as an effort to secure the personal acceptance of Jesus Christ by the individual manhood and boyhood of our times, and their permanent enlistment in the program of Jesus Christ as the world program of daily affairs;

TO THIS END:

1. To secure, on the part of the men and boys of this generation, personal faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior leading them to the conformity of their wills to the will of God;

2. To enroll men and boys in the systematic and daily study of the Holy Scriptures;

3. To continue and to increase the emphasis of the Christian religion as the one and only hope of the world, and to make the abiding missionary enterprises of the Church, at home and abroad, the most vital and permanent element in Christian life;

4. To increase the permanent contribution of the Church to the best life of the Continent, socially, politically, commercially and physically, and to emphasize the modern message of the Church in social service and usefulness;

5. To unite the Churches, the Brotherhoods, the Sunday-schools and the Young Men's Christian Associations in a worthy and workable plan of permanent specialized effort for men and boys, and to assemble and publish the same.

And, FURTHER: That using all wise human agencies, we recommend that prayer be exalted as the most effective means for the accomplishment of these ends.

Resolved: That we particularly stress the following fourfold feature of each campaign in the various centers of operation:

First: The PERIOD OF PREPARATION, to begin immediately and to continue with unabated energy and enthusiasm up to the actual opening of the special Eight Days of Service;

Second: THESE EIGHT DAYS to be regarded as first an appeal to the men and boys of the community to make a personal choice of Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior; and, second, an appeal to the entire Christian Discipleship as never before, to dedicate time and talent and property to the services of the Kingdom;

Third: THE FOLLOW-UP PERIOD, when, by sustained energy and increased activity, every effort shall be made to make the simultaneous appeals of CONSERVATION DAY richly effective in spiritual results and far reaching in influence and power; and Fourth: THE PERMANENT CONTRIBUTION of this movement to the life of the Churches, by which methods, ideals, enthusiasms thus far secured shall be utilized as to mark a distinct epoch in Christian History.

WE RECOMMEND: That the Committee to be appointed be requested to provide a somewhat comprehensive outline of procedure, covering all four of the above features, which, while not to be considered obligatory upon any local Committee, shall nevertheless offer to such Committees practical suggestions as to the most effective ways of accomplishing these desired ends.

WE RECOMMEND: That wherever feasible a thorough house-to-house visitation of each city be made just prior to, or during the first of the eight days' campaign, in order to place the name and address of each man and boy in the hands of the officers of the Churches for which preference shall be expressed;

WE RECOMMEND: That the features of the Missionary Movement, which proved so helpful, viz., the holding of denominational rallies near the close of each Convention, be provided for, that the results may be geared up to the organized life of the several communities;

WE RECOMMEND: That the names of all Men's Organizations, participating as such, including the International Sunday-school Association, be shown on all printed matter issued by the movement;

WE RECOMMEND: That the Committee of One Hundred in each city be constituted by recognition of all the Organizations coöperating in the General Campaign;

Recognizing the important place of true worship as a vital factor of the religious life, we express our conviction as to the sobering, hallowing, healing and saving influence in American life of the public worship of God. The greatest contribution to be made by any company of men to the well-being of this nation and the permanent progress of the Kingdom of God is a contribution toward the maintenance in spiritual power of public worship.

We further recognize the indispensability of private and family devotions, and to the emphasis upon both of these ideals, this movement stands unfailingly committed.

We extend to the Pastor and the Officers of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, for the use of their beautiful and convenient building, and for all their many attentions shown us; to the Local Committee for its self-sacrificing services, and its unusually ample and well-ordered provisions for all our comfort; and, to all others who have in any way contributed to the very gracious effectiveness of this gathering, our sincere and unfeigned thanks.

WE RECOMMEND: That the following named gentlemen, suggested by the Committee of Eleven (to be announced later), be constituted a General Committee of Arrangements for this Campaign, to be known as THE COMMITTEE OF NINETY-SEVEN, to which shall be committed the entire working out of the plans for the General Movement, and we recommend that this Committee have full power to fill any vacancies that may arise.

Respectfully submitted,

FAYETTE L. THOMPSON, HUGH CORK, A. L. PHILLIPS, WILLIAM J. WILLIAMSON, CHARLES T. THOMPSON, L. WILBUR MESSER, P. C. MACFARLANE.

By action of the Committee of Ninety-Seven at Buffalo, Mr. James G. Cannon was instructed to nominate a special executive committee which should be responsible for the closer details of the Movement, having headquarters in New York City.

At an informal meeting in New York City November 4th, the following Committee was nominated to serve in this capacity:

OFFICERS: Messrs. James G. Cannon, New York, Chairman; Charles T. Thompson, Minneapolis, Minn., Vice-Chairman; Hubert Carleton, Boston, Mass., Recording Secretary; James H. Post, New York, Treasurer; Fred B. Smith, New York, Campaign Leader.

MEMBERS: Messrs. Fayette L. Thompson, New York; Marion Lawrance, Chicago; A. L. Phillips, Richmond; P. C. Macfarlane, Kansas City; Frank Dyer, Chicago; Elmore Harris, Toronto; Warren L. Bunger, Dayton; W. H. Ball, Philadelphia; Fred E. Tasker, New York; Frank Harvey Field, Brooklyn; Robert Fulton Cutting, New York; Alfred E. Marling, New York; Charles A. Hull, Brooklyn; E. P. Platt, Poughkeepsie; James D. Husted, Denver; James M. Speers, Montclair, N. J.; L. H. Biglow, New York; Frank A. Ferris, New York.

MARCH.

1. The Home.—An open meeting. Ladies are invited.

2. Apostolic Evangelism.—A man-to-man campaign for men for Christ. A week of prayer and plans for Men and the Kingdom. Let this be a holy week. Plan early.

APRIL.

1. The Creation and Administration of Wealth.—The obligation of both rich and poor.

2. Home Missions.—Our Christian obligation to America.

MAY.

1. The Brotherhood and the Pulpit.—How the Brotherhood can enhance the power of the pulpit.

2. Men and the Bible School.—The power of Men in the Bible School for Heathen Missions.

JUNE.

1. The Church's Present Crisis.—Present conditions and the Church's responsibility to them.

2. The Democracy of the Master.—"Back to Christ" via the Declaration of Independence.

JULY.

1. The Influence of Great Men.—Each man will come prepared to tell what life has influenced him most, and why.

2. The Social Aims of Jesus.—The Idealism of Jesus for the individual and for society.

AUGUST.

1. The Annual Picnic.

2. Church Extension.—Permanency necessary to growth.

SEPTEMBER.

1. The Church and Social Movement.—What has the Church at stake in the present social movements?

2. The Adult Class Movement.—From Robert Raikes to America, 1911.

OCTOBER.

1. The Ballot the Power of God Under Civic Salvation.

2. State Missions.—A unified effort in the State means a tower of strength in the Nation.

NOVEMBER.

1. National Temperance Movements.—Program by National Temperance Committee.

2. A Retrospection.—A thanksgiving inventory of the harvest just past.

DECEMBER.

1. Benevolences.—A man's duty to the Pioneers and to the Unfortunate.

2. A Practical Christmas.

JANUARY.

1. Men for the Ministry.—The ministry calls for the heroic in men. When the boys see the men of the church solid behind the guns they will take up the work.

2. What will our Brotherhood do for our boys this year?—Committee on Boys' work will collaborate with Program Committee in this meeting.

FEBRUARY.

1. Annual Meeting.—Yearly reports. Annual Address.

2. World Wide Missions.—A study of missionary fields and problems.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

Prepared by J. K. SHELLENBERGER

FEBRUARY—Second Program.

TOPIC—World-Wide Missions.

I.—Devotional.

Missionary Hymn.

Scripture Reading, Matt. 9:35-38.

Prayer.

Repeat the Covenant in Concert.

Missionary Hymn.

II.—Business.

Reports of Committees.

Assignment of Work.

Payment of Dues.

III.—Recess and Social (20 minutes).

—Cultural.

Catechism on Foreign Missions (in conacle.)

Address, "China's Possibilities."

Address, "Christianity in Japan."

Address, "The Caste System in India."

Address, "Bolenge, the Modern Miracle."

Debate, "Resolved, That a failure to Christianize the Orient means the undoing of Western civilization."

Resolution to effect an "Every Member Canvass" for Heathen Missions before the offering is taken.

V.—Closing Hymn.

Benediction.

Note.—Obtain catechisms from Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, 419
R. A. Long Building, Kansas City, Mo., free upon request, ordering one for each person present. Write the Foreign Christian Missionary Society, P. O. Box 884, Cincinnati, for information on any of the specific subjects covered in the above program, or consult books on missions in any library.

MARCH—First Program.

TOPIC—The Home.

Devotional.

Hymn.

Prayer, for the Home.

All stand and repeat the Covenant.

Hymn, or special music.

—Business.

Reports of committees.

Unfinished business.

New business.

—Recess.

Light lunch and social (not more than 20 minutes).

Introduction of strangers by Social and Membership Committees.

Payment of dues.

—Cultural.

Music.

Address, "My Ideal of a Husband," by a Woman (5 minutes).

Address, "My Ideal of a Wife," by a Man (5 minutes).

Music.

Address, "The Application of the Golden Rule in the Family," by a Woman (5 minutes).

Address, "The Application of the Golden Rule in Sex Relationship Outside of Home" (5 minutes).

V.—Debate. Resolved, That the tendency to bachelorhood in both men and women is indicative of social decay.
(Four speakers—two men and two women.)

Decision of judges.

VI.—Open Discussion.

"Is the Golden Rule Practical for Home Life?"

Closing Hymn.

Benediction.

CHRISTIAN MEN

For

Bible Classes

At Club Rates, Payable Quarterly, same as any other Bible School Supplies.

You get the lesson, prepared by P. H. Welshimer, especially for men.

You get a magazine for men that does not drone or dote, that leaves the facts to preach and spreads the record to inspire.

You could not do a better thing for your Men's Bible Class than to have them take CHRISTIAN MEN as a Lesson Help.

P. H. WELSHIMER

Bible School Lessons for February

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—FEBRUARY 12.

“ELIJAH’S VICTORY OVER THE PROPHETS OF BAAL.”—1 KINGS 18:25-39.

American Revised

25 And Elijah said unto the prophets of Baal, Choose you one bullock for yourselves, and dress it first; for ye are many; and call on the name of your god, but put no fire under. 26 And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dressed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, saying, O Baal hear us. But there was no voice, nor any that answered. And they leaped about the altar which was made. 27 And it came to pass at noon, that Elijah mocked them and said, Cry aloud; for he is a god: either he is musing, or he is gone aside, or he is on a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth and must be awaked. 28 And they cried aloud, and cut themselves after their manner with knives and lances, till the blood gushed out upon them. 29 And it was so, when midday was past, that they prophesied until the time of the offering of the evening oblation; but there was neither voice, nor any to answer, nor any that regarded.

30 And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me; and all the people came near unto him. And he repaired the altar of Jehovah that was thrown down. 31 And Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of Jehovah came, saying, Israel shall be thy name. 32 And with the stones he built an altar in the name of Jehovah, and he made a trench about the altar, great as would contain two measures of seed. 33 And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid it on the wood. And he said, Fill four jars with water, and pour it on the burnt-offering, and on the wood. 34 And he said, Do it the second time; and they did it the second time. And he said, Do it the third time; and they did it the third time. 35 And the water ran round about the altar; and he filled the trench also with water. 36 And it came to pass at the time of the offering of the evening oblation, that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, O Jehovah, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Israel, let it be known this day that thou art God, Israel, and that I am thy servant, and that I have done all these things at thy word. 37 Hear me, O Jehovah, hear me, that this people may know that thou, Jehovah, art God, and that thou hast turned their heart back again. 38 Then the fire of Jehovah fell, and consumed the burnt-offering, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench. 39 And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces; and they said, Jehovah, he is God; Jehovah, he is God.

Time. 905 B. C. Place. Mount Carmel.

Introduction. Read the entire eighteenth chapter of first Kings. Three and one half years ago, Elijah had appeared before Ahab. A famine was great in the land. Obadiah, the governor of Ahab’s house, and a worshiper of Jehovah, was sent in one direction while Ahab went in another in search for pasture and water for the horses and mules. Verses 7 to 16 tell of the meeting of Obadiah and Elijah and the carrying of the news from the former to Ahab. At the meeting of Ahab and Elijah, the king accused the prophet of causing the famine in Israel, but was quickly informed that he and his house having forsaken the commandment of the Lord and followed Baalim were the cause. Then came the challenge to gather all Israel to Mt. Carmel; also to 450 prophets of Baal and 400 prophets of the grove, who were fed at Jezebel’s table. Elijah appeared before that mighty host and proposed a contest, in which it would be determined who was the true Lord. The lesson of today describes the contest.

Explanatory. 25-26—Here was a fair contest. The prophets of Baal had the first opportunity. Elijah was courteous. They cried one thing—“O! Baal, hear us,” from morning until noon. 27—By his sarcasm, Elijah stirred them to greater effort to have their god answer, and when he did not answer, greater was their humiliation. 28-29—When they cut themselves with knives, and blood gushed out, they thought they were pleasing their god. Their heathen religion was not interested in a sound body. 30—Elijah called the people near him that they might see there was no deception in what to be done. Truth will stand examination. There was an altar, formerly built to Jehovah, but destroyed by Jezebel, which Elijah now rebuilt. 31—Twelve stones represent the twelve sons or tribes of Jacob. 32—Elijah's work was to be done in the name of Jehovah, hence the altar was erected in His name. About this, a trench was dug. 33-35—A bullock was cut in pieces and laid upon the wood of the altar. Twelve measures of water were poured over the offering and the wood and into the trenches, and the water ran about the altar and filled the trench. 36-37—At three o'clock in the afternoon, Elijah appeared. How simple his prayer. It was to the point; it expressed purpose. By mentioning the names of Abraham and others, it would revive in the hearts of the people the memory of other days. His prayer was offered aloud, that the people might hear. In praying aloud, we not only speak to God, but help others to think and to feel. How different this prayer from that offered by the prophets of Baal. There was a constant repetition. Their prayer was meaningless. 38—God answered, "The fire of Jehovah fell." Everything was consumed—offering, wood, stones, dust, and water. 39—This was seen by all the people and they fell on their faces. There was just one sentiment, viz., Jehovah is God.

Lessons from the Lesson

Sometimes the promises of God made to men seem slow in fulfillment, but God never fails. He is not slack concerning his promises. A famine was threatened, and it came. Rain was promised when Elijah reappeared, and it came. The wickedness and cruelty of Ahab and his father's house had provoked God to send a famine in the land. It had come to such a pass that God took strenuous means to check it. In the check many died, but through it, many more were saved. Before the famine, the land was prosperous financially, but not religiously. There is something more pleasing to God than financial prosperity. Righteousness should always overshadow commercialism, but alas! how few know it? Let a community or nation become ever so weak, it will always be a few who stand for righteousness. Many a community is greatly indebted to some true and noble character, who through all the storm and stress of wickedness has stood for right principles. He has been the leaven in the meal. Obadiah and Elijah never lost their grip on God, and when Jezebel was slaying the prophets of Jehovah, Obadiah hid 100 of them in two caves and fed them on bread and water. He who is on God's side can always fight in the open. Only deception, fraud and deceit seek to do their work under cover. God's truth is not hid. Elijah's God is not hid, he is our God and is just as interested in humanity today as he was in the people of Elijah's time. To have his help and presence, we must be on his side.

Questions for Class Use

Who was Ahab? Elijah? Obadiah? Jezebel? Of what kingdom was Ahab king? Who was the king of Judah at this time? How long did the famine last? Where was the contest held? What does this lesson teach on prayer?

LESSON 3—FEBRUARY 19.

"ELIJAH'S FLIGHT AND RETURN."—1 KINGS 18:41; 19:21.

PRINTED TEXT, 1 KINGS 19:1-16.

And Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done, and withal how he had slain all the prophets with the sword. 2 Then Jezebel sent a messenger unto Elijah, saying, So let the gods do to me, and more so, if I make not thy life as the life of one of them by tomorrow about this time. And when he saw that, he arose, and fled for his life, and came to Beersheba, which belongeth to Judah, and left his servant there. 4 But he himself went a journey into the wilderness, and came and sat down under a juniper-tree: and he requested for himself that he might die, and said, It is enough; now, O Jehovah, take away my life; for I am not better than my fathers. 5 And he lay down and slept under a juniper-tree; and, behold, an angel touched him, and said unto him, Arise and eat. 6 And he looked, and behold, there was at his head a cake of bread on the coals, and a cruse of water.

And he did eat and drink, and laid him down again. 7 And the angel of Jehovah came again the second time, and touched him, and said, Arise and eat, because the journey is too great for thee. 8 And he arose, and did eat and drink, and went in the strength of that food forty days and forty nights unto Horeb the mount of God.

9 And he came thither unto a cave, and lodged there; and, behold, the word of Jehovah came to him, and he said unto him, What doest thou here, Elijah? 10 And he said, I have been very jealous for Jehovah, the God of hosts; for the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away. 11 And he said, Go forth, and stand upon the mount before Jehovah. And, behold, Jehovah passed by, and a great and strong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks before Jehovah; but Jehovah was not in the wind: and after the wind an earthquake; but Jehovah was not in the earthquake; 12 and after the earthquake a fire; but Jehovah was not in the fire; and after the fire a still small voice. 13 And it was so, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, and stood in the entrance of the cave. And, behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, What doest thou here, 'Elijah? 14 And he said, I have been very jealous for Jehovah, the God of hosts; for the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I, am left; and they seek my life to take it away.

15 And Jehovah said unto him, Go, turn on thy way to the wilderness of Damascus: and when thou comest, thou shalt anoint Hazael to be king over Syria; and Jehu the son of Nimshi shalt thou anoint to be king over Israel; and Elisha the son of Shaphat of Abelmeholah shalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy room.

Time. 909 B. C., the day following the test on Carmel.

Place. Jezreel and the wilderness beyond Beersheba and Horeb. Ahab and Jezebel were ruling in the northern kingdom, and Jehoshaphat in the southern.

Introduction. Chapter 18:41-46 tells us of Elijah's going to the top of Carmel, sending his servant to look toward the sea for rain. Six times he reported there was no cloud, but the seventh time a cloud arose like a man's hand. Ahab was commanded to prepare his chariot and hasten to Jezreel. A great storm arose and rain fell. Elijah ran before Ahab to the entrance of Jezreel. Jezreel was one of the residences of Ahab, twenty miles northeast of Samaria.

Explanatory. 1-2—Elijah waited outside of Jezreel. In the palace, Ahab and Jezebel all that Elijah had done. Her anger was kindled and burst into a flame. A message was dispatched to the prophet, notifying him that the gods might take his life if the prophet's life was not taken within twenty-four hours. 3—Elijah did three things. He saw the determination of the queen, he arose, he went and came. Beersheba was about a hundred miles straight across the country from Jezreel. It was in Judah, out of Jezebel's jurisdiction. There he left his servant, that he might go alone into the wilderness: 4—A day out in the wilderness, tired, hungry, exhausted and lonely, he stood under a juniper tree. This protected him from the heat, and his prayer was that he might die, for he thought he had succeeded no better in stamping out idolatry than had his fathers. He had hoped to deliver the people, but Jezebel was still in power. 5-8—The Lord was kind to his discouraged servant. An angel brought him food and water. Rest, sleep and food prepared him for his forty-day journey to Horeb, 200 miles south of Beersheba. The journey could be made in six or ten days, but he wandered about for forty days before he came to the mount where God must speak to him face to face. 9—God's word found him in a cave, and "What doest thou here, Elijah?" 10—The answer of a discouraged man. He had become pessimistic, he had overlooked God's care. The results were not all that he expected. Not meeting the full success he desired, he thought all was lost. 11—From the cave, he stood upon a mount, and the wind, the earthquake and the fire did their work. Then a small voice came. This demonstrated that God was not doing his work by force; miracles would never convert the world, but the quiet teaching of the Lord. 13—With his face wrapped in his mantle, the prophet stood at the door of the cave and the voice again said, "What doest thou here, Elijah?" 14—The answer is given as before. 15—He must return to Damascus on the border of the desert beyond the dominion of Ahab. Hazael was the confidential officer of Benhadad, the king of Syria. He was to be anointed and set apart to be the king, who would later punish Israel for their sins. 16—Jehu, a descendant of Nimshi, was to be anointed to later be king over Israel. He was then the commanding general over Israel's army. To him would be given an opportunity to restore the worship of Jehovah. Elisha, who lived not far from Elijah's native home, was to be anointed to become a prophet when Elijah's time ceased. He was to be in training for the work. This must have given assurance to Elijah that the work was not at an end and that his labors had not been in vain. 17-21—In these verses is a picture of 7,000 who had not worshiped Baal, but it is probable they were not talking much about it or they would have been known to the prophet. They probably kept their religion hid. The call of Elisha and the falling mantle of Elijah are also noted here.

Lessons from the Lesson

After the excitement and the victory on Carmel, and the long run, Elijah appeared before us as a man physically exhausted. A man with the spirit of Elijah needs to have something to do. To his mind, his great task was over and yet it appeared to him that the results desired had not been obtained. He was lonely. "I only am left." There were 7,000 who believed as he did, who had not been letting their light shine. It seemed to him that his work had been in vain. He had hoped to drive idolatry root and branch, from the land, but alas! it seemed to him his work had been no better than that of his predecessors. Let us note how God met Elijah and strengthened him. First, he needed sleep, food, rest, a friend and kindness. These were all to him. God did not reprimand or deal harshly with his tired, hungry, lonely yet, but met his greatest needs. He was next shown the true method of progress. Not by miracle nor great power, but in quietness, as with the still small voice, greatest victories are wrought. Work. He is given something to do. The most able man is the idle man. A great task was laid upon Elijah—the anointing of kings and prophets and teaching the prophets. This was to be his future work.

Questions for Class Use

Where is Jezreel? Beersheba? Horeb? Why was Elijah discouraged? How did God overcome his discouragement? What new tasks were given him? What is the lesson of the still small voice? Who was king over Israel and who over Judah at that time?

LESSON 4—FEBRUARY 26.

ELIJAH MEETS AHAB IN NABOTH'S VINEYARD."—1 KINGS 21.

PRINTED TEXT, VERSES 11-20.

Read carefully 1 Kings, chapters 20 and 21.

And the men of his city, even the elders and the nobles who dwelt in his city, did as Jezebel had sent unto them, saying as it was written in the letters which she had sent unto them. 12 They proclaimed a fast, and set Naboth on high before the people. 13 And the two men, base fellows, came in and sat before him, and the base fellows bare witness against him, even against Naboth, in the presence of the people, saying, Naboth did blaspheme God and the king. Then they carried him forth out of the city, and stoned him to death with stones. 14 Then they told Jezebel, saying, Naboth is stoned, and is dead. 15 And it came to pass, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned, and was dead, that Jezebel said to Ahab, Take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give thee for money; for Naboth is not alive, but dead. 16 And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it. 17 And the word of Jehovah came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying, 18 Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who dwelleth in Samaria; behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to take possession of it. 19 And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith Jehovah, Hast thou killed, and also taken possession? And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith Jehovah, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine. 20 And Ahab said to Elijah, Hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he answered, I have found thee, because thou hast sold thyself to do that which is evil in the sight of Jehovah.

Time. 906 B. C. Place. Ahab's palace in Samaria and Naboth's vineyard in Jezreel.

Introduction. 1-10—Naboth was a worshiper of Jehovah and was not ashamed to let it be known. He owned a vineyard adjoining Ahab's palace, in Jezreel. This had been inherited from his fathers, and according to the law, the permanent sale of a family inheritance was forbidden. Lev. 25:23-28; Numbers 36:7. Ahab tried to buy it, then to buy the vineyard, offering possibly its value, but Naboth persistently refused to part with his land. Like a spoiled child, angry and pouting, Ahab threw himself across his bed, refusing to eat. Jezebel, learning the trouble, scornfully rebuked him by saying, "Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel?" meaning, "Are you governor of Israel and unable to get this vineyard from your neighbor?" She gave her command to rise and eat and have a merry heart, and "I will get thee the vineyard." She wrote letters in Ahab's name, sealing them with his seal, sending them to the elders and nobles of the city, requesting them to proclaim a fast, as though some great calamity had happened. They set Naboth on the platform of the court, where he would be tried as a criminal, and selected two men, false witnesses, shift-saying fellows, who would testify that Naboth had blasphemed God and the king. Then they were to carry him out and stone him to death. This was the plan. The story today shows us how well it was carried out and the results that came therefrom.

Explanatory. 11-14—The nobles and elders were as much to blame as Jezebel. They fell in with her wicked schemes and saw their neighbor mistreated, lied upon and killed. The fast day came; Naboth was placed on a platform. In came the two witnesses, testifying against him. 15-18—Naboth is dead. The cruel Ahab now walks in the vineyard, planning improvements, admiring this feature and that, but God's eye is upon the whole plot, and he spoke to Elijah, telling him to meet Ahab in the vineyard. 19—Here Ahab learns that the way of the transgressor is hard. 20—Ahab had not heard from Elijah for a long time. During the past five years the prophet has been busy in his schools, teaching young men, and now Ahab approaches him, saying, "Hast thou found me, O! mine enemy?" Elijah is courageous and faces the king with the courage of a man of God and rebukes him severely. 21-29—Here God makes known through Elijah the destruction that shall come upon Ahab and his posterity. The repentance of Ahab and the postponement of punishment are announced in verses 27-29.

Lessons from the Lesson

"Take heed and beware of covetousness." Luke 12:15. Naboth was a noble character, a man who through all the trying times had not bowed to Baal. Better a Naboth than an Ahab. Covetousness oftentimes stoops to the meanest crime to reach her end. "Be sure your sins will find you out." God witnessed the treachery of Jezebel and Ahab, and the death of Naboth, and while walking in his garden, Ahab confronted face to face with his doom. His sons were to be slain, his wife, Jezebel, will have her blood licked by the dogs as they licked that of Naboth, and his whole dynasty will come to an end. Time and again, God has given him a chance. Opportunities have been neglected. His heart is unchanged, he is dominated by his idolatrous wife. He is a weakling, selfish, mean and little. The God whose eye was upon Ahab's evil deeds is upon the deeds of all the people today. We cannot hide from God. Let us beware of how we walk.

Questions for Class Use

Who was Naboth? Where did he live? Why did he not desire to sell the garden? Where is Jezreel? How did Jezebel get possession of the garden for Ahab? Why did the elders and nobles help her carry out her plan? How did Ahab receive Elijah's arraignment? What became of Ahab and Jezebel? What is the great lesson of this lesson?

LESSON 1—MARCH 5.

"ELIJAH GOES UP IN A WHIRLWIND TO HEAVEN."—2 KINGS 2:1

2 And it came to pass, when Jehovah would take up Elijah by a whirlwind into heaven, that Elijah went with Elisha from Gilgal. 2 And Elijah said unto Elisha, Tarry here, I pray thee; for Jehovah hath sent me as far as Bethel. And Elisha said, As Jehovah liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel. 3 And the sons of the prophets that were at Bethel came forth to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that Jehovah will take away thy master from thy head today? And he said, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace. 4 And Elijah said unto him, Elisha, tarry here, I pray thee; for Jehovah hath sent me to Jericho. And he said, As Jehovah liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho. 5 And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho came near to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that Jehovah will take away thy master from thy head today? And he answered, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace. 6 And Elijah said unto him, Tarry here, I pray thee; for Jehovah hath sent me to the Jordan. And he said, As Jehovah liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on. 7 And fifty men of the sons of the prophets went, and stood over against them afar off; and they two stood by the Jordan. 8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, so that they two went over on dry ground. 9 And it came to pass, when they were gone over, that Elijah said unto Elisha, Ask what I will do for thee, before I am taken from thee. And Elisha said, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me. 10 And he said, Thou hast asked a hard thing; nevertheless, if thou see me when I am taken from thee, it shall be so unto thee; but if not, it shall not be so. 11 And it came to pass, as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared unto them a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, which parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven. And Elisha saw it, and he cried, My father, my father, the chariots of Israel, and the horsemen thereof!

And he saw him no more: and he rent his own clothes, and rent the mantle of his own clothes, and rent the two pieces. 13 He took up also the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and went back, and stood by the bank of Jordan. 14 And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and smote the waters, and said, Where is Jehovah God of Elijah? and when he also had smitten the waters, they were divided hither and thither; and Elisha went over.

15 And when the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho over against him saw him, they said, The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themselves to the ground before him. 16 And they said unto him, Behold now, there are with us servants fifty strong men; let them we pray thee, and seek thy master. And the Spirit of Jehovah hath taken him up, and cast him upon some mount, to some valley. And he said, Ye shall send. 17 And when they urged him he was ashamed, he said, Send. They therefore fifty men; and they sought three days, but found him not. 18 And they came back to him, while he tarried at Jericho; and he said unto them, Did I not say unto you, Go not?

Time. About 900 B. C. Place. Across the Jordan, opposite Jericho.

Introduction. This lesson occurred about six years after Elijah's meeting with Naboth in Naboth's vineyard. Elijah's public life extended over a period of about twenty years. The first fourteen were full of excitement, they were strenuous and heroic, but the last six were more quiet, with a few exceptions; more on the plan of still, small voice. Elijah had been made the head of the schools of the prophets. He had been training Elisha to be his successor.

Explanatory. 1-4—Elisha had been ministering unto Elijah. This Gilgal was in the hill country of Ephraim, eight miles north of Bethel. Here at Bethel and Jericho, were schools of the prophets, of which Elijah was overseer. The prophet was making his last visit to these sacred places. The students knew it to be his last, hence their statement to Elisha concerning Elijah's departure. Leaving Jericho, Elijah went five or six miles further on to the Jordan. In all this walk, he was accompanied by Elisha, who refused to leave him. Here was loyalty, devotion and love. 5-6—What a pathetic picture of the old prophet and his student in training, climbing the hills and walking from school to school, and finally to the Jordan, each knowing that soon they must separate; the one anxious concerning the burdens to be laid upon the young man's shoulder, the other anxious because of the burdens he was to receive. 7—Fifty students climbed a mountain and watched the two as they stood by the Jordan. 8—The mantle was doubtless of sheepskin. The waters were divided as when Moses crossed the Red Sea and the children of Israel crossed the Jordan. It was near this point where Joshua had crossed over five hundred years before. 9—Now comes the separation. Here is Elijah's last opportunity to grant a request of his friend. By asking for a double portion of Elijah's spirit, Elisha was asking for the portion, according to the Jewish law, which always fell to the eldest son. He desired the same spirit of God which had made Elijah so useful. It was not an ambitious request, but just one. He simply desired to be able to do the best possible in bringing Israel back to God. A man's character is determined much by his choosing. 10—The best things are always hard things. It is hard to receive a spiritual gift. We have put ourselves in position to receive it. It costs heroism and courage. The proof of his having received this spirit was in his seeing Elijah depart. 11—The chariot of horses of fire, which separated them, were a symbol of power. They were used for war. Elijah had been as a great army in his defense of Israel, hence when he went away, the fiery picture came to symbolize his power. 12-14—Elisha began at once, as soon as the brief mourning was over, to walk in the steps of Elijah. The whirlwind had caught up Elijah, and his mantle was picked up by Elisha. He separated the waters of the Jordan and passed over. 15—Fifty students in the school of the prophets, saw it all and understood that Elisha was Elijah's successor. 16-18—They perceived his body was lying on a mountain or in some valley, and requested a search to be made. Fifty men were sent, and after three days returned, having found nothing.

Lessons from the Lesson

As the disciples walked with Jesus in their preparation to be his ambassadors, so Elisha walked with Elijah, heard him speak, saw him teach, heard him preach and understood his movements and his manner, and from him, learned how to succeed when called to his new sphere in life. No more beautiful picture presents itself in the Old Testament than the young student who refused to leave the old teacher, when the hour for his departure had come. It was a sad day to all the schools of the prophets, for Elijah was a valuable man for them all, but while God's workers die, his work goes on. It is the duty of preachers today to train up workmen to carry on the work in their absence. Elijah succeeded, but he did so by submitting to the plans of God. Had he trusted in human strength, how often he would have failed. The best defense a country can have today is a good man. Elijah was worth more to Israel than trained armies of men. He returned with Moses, to talk with God concerning his death, over 900 years after this event. Like the Christ, he ascended to the Father; his physical body was changed in the ascension into a spiritual body, of which Paul speaks in 1 Cor. 15:51-52.

Questions for Class Use

Where were the schools of the prophets? What were they? Who was the president of these schools? Why did Elisha desire to go with Elijah to the end? What was Elisha's request? How was it granted? What is the meaning of the chariot of horses of fire? What effect did the ascension of Elijah have upon the people of that day, who were informed concerning it by eye witnesses? What effect should it have upon us today?

ELMER L. KELLAND, Public Accountant

Telephone 503 John

He's a Brotherhood Man.

95 William St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

PATENTS

COPYRIGHTS

DESIGNS

TRADE-MARKS

JERRY A. MATHEWS

*Solicitor of American and Foreign Patents
and Counselor in Patent Causes*

COLORADO BLDG.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Take Your Wife to California— Replant the Roses in Her Cheeks

Stop thinking of black city vistas. Ride across the plains to the Golden Coast. Journey in the sunlight to Springtime. It's the world's wonderland—this glorious old California—old when Chicago was an Indian's tenting ground. Here, while Washington pushed through the ice of the Delaware, Father Junipero Serra was kneeling in the warm sands, raising the cross of Monterey. The cross is still at Monterey, and the old cathedral which he built is there, and the chime of its bells is sweet with the benediction of many years. Take the best train to California—the

Golden State Limited

—daily from Kansas City—The Flying Palace of the Rock Island Lines.

G. S. PENTECOST,
Asst. G. P. Agt., Kansas City, Mo.

Record Books for Local Brotherhoods and Adult Bible Classes

THE SECRETARY'S BOOK

Contains pages for Minutes of Meetings

“ “ “ Membership Roll “ “ “ Memorial Roll “ “ “ Quarterly Reports
“ “ of Helpful Suggestions
“ “ of things for the Brotherhood or Bible Class to do

THE TREASURER'S BOOK

Contains pages for Financial Accounts with Members
“ “ of Suggestions and things to do

YOU CANNOT OPERATE SUCCESSFULLY a Local Brotherhood, Men
Association or an ADULT BIBLE CLASS without a set of Books.

THESE ARE THE VERY BEST THAT BRAINS AND BOOK BINDERS CAN DEVISE

THE PRICE
FOR THE SET OF TWO BOOKS

One Dollar

Remit by P. O. or Expre
Money Order

Address CHRISTIAN MEN, R. A. LONG BLDG.
Kansas City, Mo.

Please mention CHRISTIAN MEN when corresponding with advertisers

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

A. LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

MORRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	R. A. DOAN - - - - -	Nelsonville, Ohio
BERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.	T. W. GRAFTON - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.	J. N. HAYMAKER - - - - -	Wichita, Kan.
M. M. COCHRAN - - - - -	Uniontown, Pa.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

P. C. MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
---------------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum in advance. Ten or more copies to one address may be paid for quarterly—in advance.

Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 5

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, MARCH, 1911

Number 3

FAMILIAR TALKS

WORK The Team Work Campaign, under Brotherhood offices and representing all our missionary interests, began at Troy, N. Y., January 5th, reached high water mark at Joplin, Mo., on January 29th, and ended in a blaze of glory at Houston, Tex., on February 12th. There was a Brother of the Brotherhood present on each of the first meetings in the person of H. A. Denton, of Troy, N. Y., and another staunch one at the close in the person of J. B. Lockhart, of Houston, Tex., while J. B. Blair, himself a layman and a loyal Brother of the Brotherhood man of Joplin, with pastors J. B. Chapman and Blunt of the same city, Moore of Carthage and Hunley of Neosho, all fluttered around the apex. The campaign was a great success. It probably settled forever the thoughtless criticism of the Brotherhood Movement that it was indefinite in that it did not tie itself up to some one objective. Which, for instance, of the interests presented should be the chosen one and which of them the rejected ones? It was obvious before the close of any one of these meetings that our men would support them all, that they would have nothing to do with any enterprise that narrowed itself to a single line of activity, but that their hearts were open and their hands were ready for any service that called them into a field as broad as the heart of Christ and as wide as the sweep of world—the great commission. It also demonstrated the fact that missions and benevolences are interesting themes; that they are inspiring subjects with which to appeal to men. As thousands of us have sat together in the great Laymen's Missionary Conventions there has been the feeling that it was perhaps the glamour and the romance of the foreign field that gripped the imaginations of the auditors, but here in the Team Work Campaign, while a Secretary like Cahill or Donaldson told the story of State work, while Muckley or Lewis spoke of American Missions or Church Extension, we saw men as wrapped in the spell of the Gospel, as deeply inspired by the vision of practical service as when Madden, himself the hero of sixteen years of service in the foreign field, gripped their hearts with the narrative of Christian conquest in the flower-kissed borders of far Japan, and we do no one injustice to say that when Dr. Fred Kline, in unaffected simplicity, set forth his round, unvarnished tale of the work of the National Benevolent Association and the Board of Ministerial Relief, he touched a still deeper chord and cast a purer, finer spell over the hearts of those who heard.

Another year there will be several teams and their ranks will be widened to include Christian Education and the Bible School Movement. They will move in great lateral lines across the country, touching more cities and more men and exemplifying yet more completely and effectively team work among our missionary interests by means of an organization that widens its embrace until it comprehends all that men may do in service of Jesus Christ.

TEAM WORK AT STATE CON- VENTIONS

Several of our State Secretaries are asking that arrangements be made to duplicate

Team Work banquet at every State Convention, believing that it would be mightiest magnet in drawing men to these conventions and the most skillful method of informing and inspiring them when there.

GRAY-HAIRED ELLIOTT

We rise to inquire what the Team Work campaigners did to Assistant Secretary. We sent him for you with the virgin blush of health upon his cheeks, with hair glossy as a raven's and a chest that puffed with pride over the opportunity to mother a group of ugly ducklings which the societies sent forth to represent them. He comes back to us with a brow that is creased with care. His shoulders are bowed with the burden of years. His cheeks are pale and his hair—would you believe it? His hair is streaked with gray; and he is not yet old enough to be President. Team campaigners, what did you do to our honey boy? The reasonable suggestion is offered that the Assistant Secretary's hair has been gray a long time and that on the trip Grant Lewis merely converted his bottle of hair dye to his own use, but those who have seen Lewis lift his soaring dome of speech will ask, "What use could Lewis have for hair dye, unless perchance to blacken his boots withal?"

A CAMPAIGN RESOLUTION

As a sample of the manner in which the Team Work Campaign was received locally, we quote the following resolution passed at Champaign, Ill.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., Jan. 24, 1911.

Inasmuch as the Team Work Campaign banquet idea has proven itself in every way helpful to us in enabling us to bring one hundred of our men together in Christian comradeship, in informing us in vigorous, manly way of the work of our Boards, in revealing to us more fully what must be the true function of the Local Brotherhood in the congregation's life, in short, in presenting to us convincingly a truly worthy "man's job," therefore we do most heartily commend the Team Work Campaign plan as a method of high efficiency in unifying and presenting the claims of our church interests. This direct, forceful, and masculine presentation arouses the interest and enlists "all the men of the church in all the work of the church," as nothing has done before. We recommend that the plan be continued and its scope broadened another season.

By unanimous vote of the men of University Place Church of Christ of Champaign and Urbana.

S. W. McDANIEL, Pres.

W. C. PETERS, Sec.

STEPHEN E. FISHER, Minister.

And to this we add the verdict of B. S. Lunny, State Secretary of Iowa, on the team in Des Moines:

"Representatives from seven churches outside the city were present, and our people were delighted with the messages, with the men and with the plan. Our people are hungry for a closer fellowship in all our missionary work and welcome most heartily anything that looks toward that end. The budget plan, with the last man canvass, and the duplex envelope for the offering appeal to the Iowa men. Secretary Elliott was happy in his presenting the Brotherhood work and in his manner of directing the program. Lewis, Kline and Madden made great speeches and the meeting was a splendid success in every particular."

AROUND We hear, every now and then, of Brotherhoods that make uncertain progress because of a lack of consistency of purpose on the part of executive officers and are swayed by every vagrant breath of hot air that blows in the meeting. Somebody who has been asleep or not attending meetings for months suddenly wakes up or drops in, gets a vision of some kind, makes a speech, full of enthusiasm, maybe, or the persuasive power of tender sentiment; the members are moved, they are stirred, they are roused; they leap to their feet and rush headlong after the matter of the moment. Really, now, this does not make for success in Brotherhood work any more than in Bible School work or berry picking. Children rush from bush to bush and gather little but leaves, while wearing themselves out. This is boy's play. The Brotherhood which successfully does a Man's work in a Man's Way will not hop around too much. It will be led by executives who see farther down the road than the black stump at the first turn. Spring comes, and then summer, and after that the autumn. Men are seasonable creatures. Turn to that chapter in Ecclesiastes on the time to do things. It is one of the most remarkable chapters in the Old Testament. Chances are you never clapped an eye on it. Read it. Con its lesson for Brotherhood work. There are ploughing times and sowing times and reaping times and talking times and doing times and playing times in Brotherhood work. Your wise president and his co-laborers will plan the work of the organization consistently for months and months in advance, keeping close touch with the plans of the pastor and the officers of the church that team work may result.

One of the very strongest reasons for adopting the annual Brotherhood calendar and using the programs published in CHRISTIAN MEN is this one of seasonableness. If you want your men to work willingly and in harmony with the church and the larger enterprises of the church, there is nothing that will insure it like the annual Brotherhood Calendar and the specially prepared programs published monthly in CHRISTIAN MEN.

COVENANTS AND DUES

Someone has been misapprehending. Our Field Secretary has encountered the statement that the Covenant of the General Brotherhood and the annual dues of sixty cents per member are to be abrogated, thus practically doing away with responsible individual membership in the General Brotherhood through a responsible Local Brotherhood. Nothing could be farther from the intention of the directors of the General Brotherhood. There is, in process of working out, a plan for the affiliation with the General Brotherhood of organized men's classes, holding International certificates, without necessary change of name, based upon the adoption of certain requirements to meet the standard for a Brotherhood Bible Class, to be decided upon by the joint committee from the Bible School Field Workers' Association and the Directorate of the General Brotherhood. The details of this are not yet decided, but they will be arranged by Bible School experts on the basis which will enable the Brotherhood organization to best serve the needs of organized Bible Classes, and when affiliated, these classes will constitute a new series of Local Brotherhood organizations that will in no wise supersede or conflict with or break down the Local Brotherhood organizations now in existence, whose plan and method we believe to be such that nothing can take their place and we look confidently to the day when every church will have a Local Brotherhood as much as a matter of fact as it has today a Christian Endeavor Society or a Bible School.

On the other hand, we expect the affiliated Bible Classes spoken of in this paragraph, coupling, as they will, all the splendid vitality of the Adult Bible Class Movement with the vast plans for definite and practical service which the Brotherhood program of activity involved, to make of this series of organizations a division in the army of the Lord of such tremendous power and significance as will be comprehensible to God himself.

BIBLE SCHOOL
CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

The Permanent Committee on Joint Relations between the Bible School Field Workers

Association and the General Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, provided for in resolutions adopted at St. Louis on January 11th, has been duly appointed and consists of Myron C. Settle and William Fisher for the Bible School Field Workers and T. W. Grafton and J. N. Hamaker for the Brotherhood. This committee held an all-day meeting in Kansas City on February 2d with Clarence Depew, President of the Bible School Field Workers' Association, and R. Long, President of the Brotherhood, in attendance. The details of a plan of coöperation were worked out and announcement of these will be made in due season.

There still want so EVERY MEMBER days before the first Lord's Day in March time in which your Brotherhood or your Men's Bible Class can render a conspicuous service to pastor and church in connection with the annual offering for Foreign Missions. Fashions change. Do you know that the fashion in the taking of an offering for Foreign Missions in up-to-date churches had changed? This was when the preacher began to whine away on Foreign Missions about the first of February. True, he sugar-coated the pill. He labeled the sermon something else. His text was a concealed weapon but in the end the sermon and the around to Foreign Missions and ed at the heart and purse strings of hearers. But the purse wasn't opened for the hour was not yet come.

 next Sunday the heart was soft-yet a little more and the first knot e purse-strings loosened, and so on that first day in March. The seed been skilfully sown. The harvest ready. The preacher's sermon, the and best in the box, deeply based in uture and bristling with modern ines from every mission field, was y to be thrust into the standing grain all the curving sharpness of a sickle times whetted. The choir rehearsed India" or "Send the Light" from rday night to the wee small hours.
 deacons were trained, their aisles assigned, their pledge cards were ed, their pencils were sharpened. On Saturday night every missionary in station of the Foreign Society in continent on the globe was kneel-before God and praying that the mor-might see such an outpouring of t from the people in the home land the angels would sing in heaven.
 s, all were awaiting the day. And the day came, it stormed. There but half an audience and half an eng. They struggled to recoup on edding Lord's Days, but the iron was ing colder. The psychological mo-had gone forever. Did you know nder this old-fashioned plan a storm
 e first Lord's Day in March costs oreign Christian Missionary Society ands upon thousands of dollars?
 h we see farm machinery standing
 t the weather from one season's end e other, we think that farmer shifts. Shift is an old English word that as shirt. Is not that church a ress ne'er-do-well which leaves its onaries at the mercy of the weather?
 The alternative is an every-member canvass on behalf of Foreign Missions, a careful, prayerful, house-to-house, office-to-office, shop-to-shop, heart-to-heart, hand-to-hand visitation by faithful committees. Now, of course, the pastor cannot make this canvass himself, though he will be found doing his full share. It might be made by the women. The good ladies are used to this sort of thing, they do it with tact and skill; but a man was planning the other day for a canvass of the business men of a great city in behalf of a noble charity. One of the rules he insisted on was this: "No canvassing by women." To a wide-eyed questioner he explained, "Women don't get money enough. A man will put them off with ten dollars when he wouldn't dare offer another man less than a hundred." Now don't get angry, sisters; we didn't say it.

 The man said it. But we do say that Foreign Missions is a man's work. We want the muckles as well as the mickles for missions. It is a deed to be done by those who deal in dollars. It is a task that belongs to you, men, and your Brotherhood or your Bible Class should immediately organize for the work, and offer themselves whole-heartedly, unreservedly, to the Pastor and the Board of Officers, and should go about the work with the same enthusiasm that they would if canvassing to build a new church or a Brotherhood club room.

"But," you say, "our fellows are cold on the proposition. They don't take to it." A-ha! O-ho! That's because you didn't give the program for World Wide Missions, published in CHRISTIAN MEN for February. You will overlook those programs, will you? Now, all at once, you are missing them. Go to! Get ready. Unearth the February CHRISTIAN MEN. Uncover the program. Unmask a group of idle brains. Let fly a shower of post cards and telephone announcements. Ring the fire bell. Beat out a wireless call. Get the men together. Give the program on World Wide Missions on short notice. It is not yet too late. Fan the embers, throw on the fuel, kindle the enthusiasm and your men will leap to the task; they will go hurrying into an every-member canvass in behalf of Foreign Missions with an enthusiasm that will be contagious and an avidity that will be satisfied with nothing less than a written pledge from every member in behalf of the Great Commission.

VOLUNTEERS FOR THE MINISTRY

Reports from our Volunteer Service continue to come. The total number of volunteers reported is in the neighborhood of forty. We have asked for pictures of pastors and their volunteers and hope to present an exhibit in the April issue of CHRISTIAN MEN that will bring joy to the hearts of all who have been praying with us and our Lord Jesus that the Father would send forth laborers into the whitening fields.

So He Cut Out the Dance

In the January magazine, of 1910, we told under the above title the story of a young man who resented an appeal for funds sent out in the name of the Brotherhood, and then he fell to thinking, and the more he thought the more he resented his resentment. He was just going to a dance and expected to pay a dollar for its expenses. Thinking it over he decided to cut out the dance and then to send the dollar to the Brotherhood treasurer. Thinking still further, he decided to send a dollar for his wife also. We had a letter from him the other day. He is in Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, entering upon a two years' course to prepare himself for evangelistic singing. V God moves in mysterious ways his orders to perform.

And say, you could help this young man sustain himself in school. He is taking subscriptions for the Christian Workers' Magazine, in Chicago. For each hundred subscriptions he gets a scholarship of sixteen weeks in the institute. It is a monthly magazine and worth the price of one dollar. You send these subscriptions to us and we handle them so that your brother at Moody Institute will get the credit. He does not ask us to do this, but we know about his plans and it seems to us that this is true brotherliness.

We are calling especial attention to the feature article in CHRISTIAN MEN this month. We confess to an ambition to put into each magazine some one particular article of outstanding value, which, no matter what else the subscriber omits, he will be certain to read, and which, having read, he will feel is worth the price of the magazine for a month. That article this month is Prof. Taylor's address on "The Social Emphasis of Evangelism." Although Graham Taylor is perhaps the most eminent practical sociologist in this country, and the thoughts, the profound reach and the force of which will satisfy the mind capable of the widest generalization, there is a piquancy and a pungency in his writing and a vigorous simplicity of language which insures that his message will be understood and appreciated by any man that has advanced far enough to be able to spell out the words and know their meaning.

JAS. G. CANNON,
Chairman,
Men and Religion Forward Movement

Begin to notice those two letters, M. & R. You will see them a thousand, nay, ten thousand times in the next two years. They will be photographed on the clouds. They will be inscribed on the mountain peaks. They will stand for departments in newspapers. They will call forth assignments of reporters. They will lead to special articles in the magazines. They will mark eventful moments in the lives of laymen and preachers all over this country. They will be remembered as recording historic events in the municipal life of ninety cities of this country. They will stand for an epoch in the history of the Church of Christ in North America. For "M. & R." is the cabalistic sign of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. The preliminary steps in perfecting organization for this mighty enterprise go on.

DR. FAYETTE L. THOMPSON,
Associate Secretary,
Men and Religion Forward Movement

A meeting of the Committee of Ninety-seven was held in Chicago on January 19th. Sixty-two men from all over the United States assembled. There was a man from Seattle there and one from Atlanta and one from Texas and scores from the central and eastern parts of the United States and Canada. J. A. Whittmore was elected Field Secretary, Roy B. Guild Executive Secretary, and Dr. Fayette L. Thompson Associate Secretary, with Fred B. Smith as General Secretary. Jas. G. Cannon, President of the Fourth National Bank of New York, had already been selected as Chairman.

The fact that the Methodist Brotherhood were willing to lend their General Secretary, Dr. Thompson, for one-half time to this enterprise shows the importance which the great Methodist communion attaches to the M. & R. Campaign. The Executive Committee outlined to the Committee of Ninety-seven a budget for the two-year campaign esti-

FRED B. SMITH,
Executive Secretary,
Men and Religion Forward Movement

mated at one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars. By the simple method of passing pledge cards among the sixty-two men present, twenty-seven thousand dollars of this sum was subscribed in a few minutes. The General Secretary, Fred B. Smith, with his co-laborers, is engaged in creating interest in the movement by holding conferences at various territorial centers where the ministers and laymen may be brought directly into contact with the spirit and purpose of the leaders in the enterprise. One such conference will be held in Nashville, Tenn., from March 3d to 5th, with a banquet on the night of the 3d. We earnestly invite all readers of this magazine who are in the Nashville territory to avail themselves of the opportunity to be present at and come in touch with the spirit of this conference. The General Secretary of the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ will speak at the Nashville banquet on the night of March 3d.

Another of these conferences will be held in Kansas City March 10th to 12th and we urge upon all our readers in the Southwest to make a very serious effort to attend this conference. Nothing could put them more in touch with the spirit of this mighty Christian enterprise this time. And it is exceedingly important that they appreciate its significance from the beginning.

A number of our Brotherhoods have prepared a ritual which is used in the opening of the Brotherhood meetings and in the reception of new members. Among those who have done this we call to mind L. B. D. C. No. 355, Troy, N. Y.; No. 273, Wooster, Ohio, and No. 338, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Anderson, Ind. The Ann Arbor ritual is very handsome, printed and appears to be very effectively gotten up. It abounds in Scriptural quotations. We think that if there is any large demand for these the General Brotherhood might arrange to furnish copies of the Ann Arbor ritual to those who wish it. A note to the Secretary, Mr. L. C. Backus, 503 First National Bank Building, with ten cents to cover cost of postage, would probably bring a copy.

J. A. WHITTMORE,
Advance Secretary,
Men and Religion Forward Movement

As we go to press the Annual Convention of the Presbyterian Brotherhood is enjoying a three days' session in St. Louis, Mo. Oh, how much we might accomplish if we could have three full days in a National Convention to devote solely to the consideration of work among men. Perhaps, as the years go on, will prove possible to have a semi-annual convention of the Brotherhood that could be smaller in attendance than our great National Conventions, of which we must always remain a part, but at which we could get closer together and have longer time for the consideration of the very serious questions that are always requiring consideration.

PORTLAND HO! We want everybody to begin to think about Portland, because the next International convention of the Disciples of Christ will be held in Portland from July 4th to 11th, 1911. There are many reasons why you should attend this convention. In the first place, it will be a great convention, because we are a great people. In the second place, it will be a great convention because it is in the midst of a great people. Perhaps you do not know much about our brethren in the Northwest. It is just possible you think of the Northwest as a land of sage brush and smoke from forest fires, but let us tell you—and oh, we wish we had a whole magazine to say it in; but the forty-eight pages are full to overflowing now and yet we must slip in a word or two. The Northwest is the land of enchantment. It is the land of dreams. It is the land of the high sky. It is the land of the fir-clad hill and the snow-capped mountain peak. It is the land of the romance of copper. It is the land where Marcus Whitman, a missionary, won for the United States. It is the land of rich verdures. It is a land where the wheat grows as tall as the corn. It is the land where the cherries are as big as apples and the apples look like pumpkins and the pumpkins are so large that they stable the cows in them. When the cow has eaten up her stall they lead her to another pumpkin; she eats her way in and looks out. It is a land of contrasts; a land of high mountains and deep lakes. You may ride for a hundred miles with the deep flowing Columbia, clear as a crystal, cold as melting snow, on one side of you and the most barren desert in North America on the other. And the sky line looks as lonesome as it did to the imagination in that day when the poet sang of those far-fastnesses "Where rolls the Oregon and hears no sound save his own dashing." The desert, however, is but for a moment. Suddenly it blooms. And there is no verdure like to that of the great Northwest. In the alfalfa fields of Montana, in the chasmed cañons of Idaho, on the rounded bosom of Washington hills, in the virgin glades of tree-studded Oregon, vegetation riots, plant growth seethes, life is imminent in everything, and even the rock spurned beneath your horse's heel emits a savage spark that seems to tell of a vast field of radioactivity existing there in the Northwest and which has caught men and churches in its grasp.

Ours are a vigorous, confident people there in the Northwest. They have not learned to doubt. They have faith in God and faith in the plea. A Northwest convention is like a whirlwind for its enthusiasm. It would make a busy day on the New York Stock Exchange look like a prayer meeting in Quakersville. It was the State of Oregon that sent the steamship Oregon to ply upon the Congo. No other State could have done it. We didn't even believe they could do it, but they did. We have great churches and great men in the Northwest. We have the promise of a great school at Eugene. Our people have occupied this Northwest country. In every good town or city, and there are many of them, you will find our churches sitting on the best corners, leading in the religious life of the community as our laymen lead in its business life. Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, these are names to conjure with. They call visions into mind.

But Portland is the convention city. Portland, the city of roses, between two rivers; whose morning eyes see the sunlight glancing from the snow-glistening summit of Mount Hood, and whose light at evening time filters softly through the trees from where the sun is burying himself in the waves of the broad Pacific. Portland is a charmed City!

The Disciple hosts in it are led by men like J. F. Ghormley, W. F. Reagor, T. G. Picton and C. F. Swander. They will prove warm-hearted hosts. The city will deck herself in gala attire. All her mountains will smile, all her waters will dance and all her roses nod a fragrant welcome. Portland is a city of fine stores and splendid streets, with capacious, homelike hotels and with a sky as hospitable as that which bent over Eden.

Think now of the opportunity to attend a convention in such a city. The railroad fare, if we remember rightly, first class from the Missouri River to Portland and return, allowing stop-overs at numerous places on the way home, is but fifty dollars, and for fifteen dollars more one may take the wide-sweeping California trip. Think of a convention in vacation time, such a glorious rallying of the enthusiastic hosts of the Lord, of all the old friends you will meet out there; for everybody has friends in the Northwest and they will all be at this convention—think of a convention trip that may include the Yellowstone National Park, the star-lit plains of Idaho, the breathing forests of Oregon, the ocean-threaded shores of Washington, a ten-days' excursion to Alaska, if one prefers; an invigorating draught from the springs that bubble in leafy dells fed by Shasta's eternal snows; a view of that phoenix city of San Francisco, where brick heaps have turned to marble, where skyscrapers defy the temblor, where shakey, ruin-filled streets have become glorious boulevards and highways teem with the commerce of a continent and bloom with the picturesque garb of all nations; of seeing Los Angeles, the glory of a generation in city building, looking from glaciers to orange groves with a single sweep of the eye, and then to see the desert bloom as a rose! to see the mountains give up their gold! to lose one's soul in mysterious awe before the red flaming wound in the bosom of earth called the Grand Cañon of the Colorado; to gaze enrapt in the Garden of the Gods or to lift up one's spirit on the top of Pike's Peak; to see the most glorious grandest part of God's great world, and within the space of a short few weeks and then come wandering home again just as the vacation season is over; and all at the cost of a few twenty-dollar bills and a couple of tens—well, who would not go to the Portland convention this year? Wherefore we write Portland, ho!!!

* * *

THE MENACE OF MILLIONS

There are more rich men in America than in any other country in the world, and the wealthy men are wealthier than the wealthy class in any other nation. Millionaires are as common as club feet, and the pace set for the rich man is a hot one. The average millionaire finds himself in a chronic state of poverty. The man of ten millions knows that to live on careful economy, eating oleomargarine instead of his bread, traveling in upper berths and conserving his spring suit for autumn, he can probably keep up appearances and get to his grave without scandal. Mr. Carnegie has been suggesting to us that rich men's wives are unhappy. The rich men themselves, perhaps to make us feel better about it, are fond of assuring us that riches do not bring happiness, that they were just as happy on nine hundred ear as they are now on nine hundred thousand. As a matter of fact riches and wealth are but relative terms. George Gould is so rich he could build, three times over, every church building owned by the Disciples of Christ and begin to build the same for our colleges, but he is poorer than the poor that he lost a string of railroads the other day extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He is so rich that when his daughter marries an English nobleman, people pack the squares about the church and it requires two hundred policemen to keep the lick-spittling crowd in bounds, but he is so poor that a Hebrew banker in New York snatched his railroads out of his hands with unveiled insolence and dismissed him from his presence like a disgraced office boy. Thus do we see in this man, who is at once as rich as Midas and as poor as Lazarus, that wealth is but a relative term. George Gould looks at the money bags that have beaten him in pride into the dust and knows that he is a poverty stricken wretch, and then he looks around at a semi-pecunious lord who comes seeking his daughter's hand for millions and knows that he is rich. That man is rich who lives inside his income of four hundred dollars per year and that man is poor whose expenses exceed the speed limit of a salary of one hundred thousand dollars per annum. The fact is every man has wealth, of money, or of heart, or of hand, and some of the most poverty-stricken souls in the world are those whose check is good at any bank for ten figures. Every man has wealth, of loves, of friendships, of duties, of responsibilities, of opportunities and of obligations, but it is wealth that one holds most dearly. Of this transitory nature of real riches, Robert Louis Stevenson has said: "A man who has a few friends is richer than a man who has a dozen (if there be any) so wealthy on this earth), cannot forget how precarious a basis his happiness reposes; and how by a stroke or two of fate—a death, a few light words, a piece of stamped paper, or a woman's bright eyes—he may be left in a month destitute of all." Since we hold it by a hair we should administer it with care. It is encouraging to note at the present time the sense of responsibility for the wise administration and distribution of wealth which the owners of great American fortunes begin to display. There are two other important burdens to be laid yet upon the consciences of money-getting Americans; one is a responsibility for the manner in which wealth is acquired as well as the manner in which it is expended. "Am I my brother's keeper?" is a question which exploiters of labor have asked with innocence and naivete during the last generation—a question which the pulpit and the press that concerns itself with ethical questions has everywhere answered with a thunderous affirmative. The other burden relates to the giving conscience of the great and rapidly growing middle class. Very rich men begin to take it as a matter of course that they shall give and give generously, but it is with this middle class that just now selfishness most inheres. But yesterday emerged from the ranks of the toilers, today they ride in automobiles, today they float in champagne, today they revel in excesses of enjoyment, today they are in great danger of forgetting to look back into the hole of the pit whence they were dugged but a few hours ago. They are in danger of forgetting God, which would be to forget man. It doesn't matter so much about the rich, since there will never be so many of them, proportionately speaking. It doesn't matter so awfully much about the very poor, because they will always be somewhat mastered by their environments.

But it matters all about this great middle class, the people who have leisure to be good and to do good, who have the virilities and potentialities of yesterday's struggles still in their veins; who by reason of their numbers and strength and ability hold the reins of government and sit at the wheel of power. If the middle class loses itself in selfishness, this nation is a lost nation and this people is a bloomless tree in the garden of God.

Every man has some wealth. A penny is wealth and a million dollars is wealth. There are men with penny responsibilities and there are men with million dollar responsibilities. The penurious penny-plucker and the miserly millionaire are both hateful in the sight of God. The responsibility of the man with the penny is not one whit different from the responsibility of the man with the million. Each is under obligations to get his money honestly and to use it wisely as a steward of God. "The greed that grips at an ill-gotten dime is as mean and sordid as that which grabs at a railroad," someone wrote a long time ago in the Christian Evangelist. Every man has wealth or the means and the hope of getting it. The humblest man in your Brotherhood or Bible Class is a potential multimillionaire. For this reason, and because of the fascinating interest of the subject, the program for the second Brotherhood meeting in March deals with the subject of "The Creation and Administration of Wealth." We call the especial attention of Brotherhoods and Bible Classes to that carefully wrought out program as it appears in this magazine.

OUR HAPPY HOME The first Brotherhood program for March deals with the question of the home, involving the matters of courtship, marriage and divorce, and child life. This is a theme of perennial and paramount importance. This program, wisely handled, will make happier homes, more intelligent courtships, more successful marriages and brighter and more promising children. Do not overlook its possibilities.

Our attention is called to the fact that the article on Alfred W. Place, in the February issue of CHRISTIAN MEN contained a misstatement of fact in implying that he was expelled from Bethany College. This was not true. He graduated from Bethany College. Scholastically and academically, we are glad, but from the standpoint of the story we are really kind of sorry that "Stuffy" managed to hold out so well at old Bethany.

From time to time ARGONAUTS hear the Brotherhood movement criticised, and sometimes charged with failure, but strangely encouraging to say, these criticisms do come from the man who has tried the Brotherhood Movement, or at least from the man who has tried it long enough to really understand it at all. What would you think of a man who heard the theme of the Bible School expounded, went home and talked it over with his neighbor who knew nothing of it from practical experience and had heard of it only vaguely and when, naturally enough, he did not immediately leap, hot-shouldered into the enterprise, came back and reported that the Bible School was a failure, that his men didn't take to it. There are hundreds of churches and hundreds of pastors and thousands of men who have not yet taken to the idea of a Men's Bible Class in any adequate or satisfactory way, and yet this does not prove the Bible Class a failure. The man who talks Brotherhood to his neighbor and gets nowhere with it, or the pastor who starts his Brotherhood in a m anization that does not have energy or initiative or leadership enough to get around the first turn of practical Brotherhood achievement, is not the man whose judgment is worth while, or whose criticism can turn the balance. The writer had a few years ago on the site of Arizona's great mines and heard the story of the man who discovered it—heard also the stories of numerous other prospectors who, at intervals during a time, had paused to pick up a crumb of quartz from that outcropping and tossed it away because it looked unpromising. There came a man who thrust his pick deeper and deeper into that crumb-ledge and found at last the precious metal. Every great movement has its pioneers. This is rightly and naturally so. There are hundreds of pastors whose eyes today are upon the Brotherhood Movement. They are watching it. They are considering it. They are not unkindly to it. They wait in hope and fervent prayer. Then there are now something more than one hundred pastors who have definitely committed themselves to the Brotherhood Movement. Who are pioneering in its behalf, who are blazing trails, who are cruising the timberlands who are prospecting the hills and valleys, who are sending down the diamond drill of experiment to explore this possibility or that, to locate this ledge of gold-bearing quartz, or that body of oil-bearing sand. In a score of different places, in more than one hundred different situations, these men are conducting their explorations, and almost without exception the results are successful. Each month it is our pleasure to present to our readers in the news department of the magazine the record of successful achievement and to call especial attention to, in our editorial columns, to some of the most encouraging results. Take, for example,

THE CASE OF BELMAR AVENUE

Two or three months ago we alluded to the organization of a Brotherhood at the Belmar Avenue Christian Church, in Pittsburgh, of L. B. D. C. No. 335. J. W. Underwood was pastor. He had organized L. B. D. C. No. 335 in his former field, Ashtabula, Ohio. It languished and was reorganized, after which it continued to live and to accomplish results but never attained the maximum of efficiency. Some men, going from that field to Belmar Avenue, might have said, "The Brotherhood's a failure. It proved a burden to carry at Ashtabula and in my new field, where I have burdens enough already, I will not add this one." But he did not so say. On the contrary he reasoned as follows, and we are quoting his letter: "My first attempt at Brotherhood organization was a partial failure, but I do not blame the National organization for my mistake. I came to the conclusion, after careful investigation, that I was at fault." There spoke a large man, but we are not willing to let him share all the blame for any partial failure. We know much better what the pitfalls are today than we did two years ago, and we believe, in all modesty, that we can help men to success today whom even a twelve month ago we might have helped only to failure. But to return to Belmar Avenue. This church was discouraged, hopelessly in debt and none but a hero would have undertaken its work. The first thing attempted by the new pastor was the formation of a strong Brotherhood organization. They started with forty men and with forty subscriptions to CHRISTIAN MEN. Today they have more than eighty members and twenty-four men have been won from the Brotherhood directly into the church. This organization observed Brotherhood day recently during revival meeting. They gave the program on Sunday evening and the house was packed, central section being reserved for Brotherhood men and at 7:45 they marched in about eighty strong. A nice looking young man sitting with his wife and her friend just back of the minister's wife said to her, "I would like to be a member of that Brotherhood. I wonder what they stand for?" They soon found out, for Brother Samuel Waters, in an address on "Our Aims," told just what they stood for and as a result that young man and his wife and their friend were baptized. He is now a Brotherhood man. Their last meeting given on the first Tuesday in February, was pronounced the best ever. The program was excellent and a light lunch was served. The men are so enthusiastic that they are talking about two meetings per month, with Brotherhood sermon one Sunday evening of each month.

This church has had a hard struggle financially, wrestling with a debt of more than fourteen thousand dollars. The pastor writes: "The financial sky is clearing up, the clouds are rifted and darkness disappears, thanks to God and a live Brotherhood. This Brotherhood has made many happy homes by winning men to Christ, securing employment for men in need, etc. In the face of this fourteen thousand dollar debt our Brotherhood is planning to take vacation time to put in a gallery that will seat two hundred and fifty or three hundred people. This to take place after the debt is raised. I have learned that you must plan big things to interest men."

Elsewhere in this number will be found a picture of the Brotherhood Class, L. B. D. C. No. 304, Norwood Avenue, Toledo, of which organization we wrote at length in the February issue of CHRISTIAN MEN.

THE CASE OF ASHTABULA

The church at Ashtabula from which J. W. Underwood went, was carefully called as a successor a Brotherhood pastor and chose S. G. Buckner, of Elkhart, Ind., where L. B. D. C. No. 291 has made a striking record of efficiency as an arm of the church, especially in the field of civic righteousness. The Brotherhood at Ashtabula did not lapse nor linger superfluous on the stage, but was trained and ready for a demonstration in force when the new admiral should hoist the pennant to the mast-head. Already "Buckner's Brotherhood Bible Class" rolls two hundred and fifty men and will be found almost any Sunday standing second to Doan's great class at Nelsonville, with the Brotherhood Class at Massillon probably a close third. It is remarkable how easily and naturally a great Bible Class will grow out of the soil of a Brotherhood that is founded on a religious basis and that has declared its religious aim and lifted high its Christian standard in such a document as the Brotherhood Covenant. R. A. Doan, Nelsonville, replying to an inquiry long ago as to how to build a big Bible Class, said, "Because the Adult Bible Class Movement ante-dated the Brotherhood Movement among us, we had a Bible Class before we had our Brotherhood, but if I were doing the thing over again in a new field, I should call together first a group of choice spirits among my men, and organize a Local Brotherhood, affiliated with the General Brotherhood and out of which, when the soil had been sufficiently prepared, would seek to build a great Bible Class that would itself be much larger than the Brotherhood which had given it birth and assurance of right direction." Recently Doan visited the Brotherhood Class at Ashtabula, where exactly what suggests has been done, and he writes General Office: "These men at Ashula will bear watching." As if to prove t he is a good prophet, Buckner's Brotherhood Class has issued a challenge the Berean Brotherhood Class at Nelville and frankly proposes to contest h them for the place of honor at the d of our Bible School forces. Going ne? Well, rather!

We had hoped to present elsewhere in magazine a picture of this great class Ashtabula, but the picture comes in large entirely to be tucked away in a ner and we shall build our magazine und it next month. Hurrah for L. B.
D. C. No. 248!

CASE
PROY

Here is another case of once a Brotherhood pastor always a Brotherhood pas-
When the Brotherhood Movement still young, H. A. Denton organized Bedford, Ind., L. B. D. C. No. 261.
s became the leading men's organiza-
in that city of rocks and quarries.
seemed as though every man in the community, who aspired to be anything t all, aspired to belong to this Brotherhood organization. A great Brotherhood Bible Class was one of its results. But Denton himself has a bad case of wander-
He reminds us of that old Scandi-an up in Minnesota who was blown ough three counties by a vagrant, irresponsible cyclone. "Cheer up, Brother said his Lutheran pastor, when they ce bringing him home in a litter. "The ed is with you. He has been with o all the time." "All the time?" quoth air-blown Swede plaintively. "Den yank he bane goin' some." The Lord as to have kept up with Denton but eainly he has had to go some to do it.
t only a little way back to the Indian umer of his callow youth when he was rching distressfully eloquent sermons o the helpless natives in the wilds of Missouri, but since that he has been a pastor in the state of Washington, where his reputation as a trencherman is still unsullied, has shepherded that church at Maryville, Mo., which in time past enjoyed the ministrations of such men as I. N. McCash and C. M. Chilton; has journeyed from coast to coast and from the gulf to Hudson's Bay as a secretary of the American Christian Missionary Society; has combed the whiskers of the saints in that pastorate of which we have spoken above at Bedford, Ind., and a few months ago the desire to continually support the latest things in masculine lingerie led him to accept a pastorate at Troy, N. Y., where already he has a brand of collars named after him and is getting columns in the newspapers. What more could Denton want? Well, one thing more, and that thing most emphatically! A Brotherhood. And this he proceeded to get. On January 5th, they organized. On February 12th it takes a column and a half in the daily paper to tell the story of a local meeting of this Brotherhood when they are giving our program for Foreign Missions. The place of a pastor in the organization of a Brotherhood and in its successful life is just as important as in the Bible School. As illustrative of this we quote some lines from Pastor Denton that were not written for publication, but believing that they may be a means of edification, we print them here.

"On last Thursday night we organized a Brotherhood, this after five preliminary meetings to consider and talk it over and out. Our meeting last Thursday night lasted until 11:00. We adopted a constitution from the Model Constitution, embodying all the features of the work suggested. We took it up section by section, until every man there now knows where he is at and which way he is headed. We hold the charter membership list open until our special meeting the last Thursday in this month, in order to get all the fellows in who signed up the past three weeks. Then our Secretary will send you the list of officers and apply for charter." Then he adds: "Do you know that I think this matter of getting a Brotherhood organized is about in this situation: the preacher can queer it with some half-hearted efforts if he cares to, or he can get in and organize one anywhere this side of Tophet, and, for aught we know, he could organize one there if he wanted to bad enough."

THE CASE OF MASSILLON

H. Erwin Stafford is the pastor. In December, 1909, the General Secretary visited the men of Massillon, who had recently organized a Brotherhood. This was not only a fine body of men, but it was strong in capable leaders. The result has been unbroken success from that time to the present. In January this Local proceeded to the organization of a Brotherhood Bible Class. Using the Bricker Contract plan, they started with seventy-five members. They observed their first anniversary on January 30, 1911, with an enrollment of one hundred and fifty-seven men in the Bible Class. In the organization of the class, they simply took the position that the class is the Brotherhood in Bible Study. They have the same officers for both. The annual report of Nic Mollett, Jr., the Secretary, tells the rest of the story. We quote:

One of the most successful elements of the work of this Brotherhood has been the nature of its monthly programs. These have been dignified, earnest and interesting discussions of themes that would command the respect of the most intelligent men. Notice one of these mentioned in wireless whispers in this issue. We are led here to say that there is a greater danger of underestimating the capacity of our men than there is overestimating it. Give them strong subjects to think about and strong work to do.

The Local Brotherhood of the Christian Church was organized October, 1909, and affiliated with the National Brotherhood. Believing the teaching of the National officers that if the Brotherhood will be permanent, it must be based on a study of the Bible, the Brotherhood organized for Bible study on Sunday, January 30, 1910. The charter membership was sixty-eight. The class has added to its numbers so that it now has a membership of 157; average attendance of sixty-one for the last six months, and average collection of $10.80. The Brotherhood has made over 500 calls, waited on the sick and sent them flowers, aided men in getting work, held monthly meetings at which vital themes of reform were discussed. It has contributed to the National Brotherhood in dues, and made direct offerings to the state work. The motto of the Local Brotherhood is that of the National, "A Man's Work in a Man's Way." We stand shoulder to shoulder for better workmanship, business and professions; stronger bodies, broader minds and deeper sympathies; for less profession and more principle, no parade and much practice; for wholesome fun and clean sport, busy and helpful lives, good will and royal fellowship; virile and robust manhood. In a word, for self uplift and the development of the other fellow.

THE CASE OF ELDORA, IOWA

We have been talking about big Brotherhoods. It is rather astonishing that we have so many of large membership that is running up to a hundred or more; but we have a number of small Brotherhoods that are strikingly successful. This is always possible since the Brotherhood is a doing proposition. It does not concern itself primarily with numbers. We do not urge the attempt to bring every man in the church or the church's circle into the Brotherhood at once. We open the door wide enough for every man to come that wants to.

recognize that the Brotherhood will be most successful when it consists of that inner circle of inner souls who have a conception that is high and feel a responsibility that is great. We were looking the other day over the annual report of the Brotherhood at Eldora, Iowa, B. D. C. No. 283. Its membership is less than a score. The average of its attendance at meetings during the year has been but nine. But it has met regularly. It has not assumed to do many things, but what it has attempted it has done well. Especially has it addressed itself to fraternal work, and the budget shows something like two hundred dollars raised and expended, a large portion of which is due to deeds of Christian charity. That is a large sum for so small a group of men to have used in such a cause. It is a kind of service of which our churches do all too little, and we doubt not that every department of that church's life is suffering because of what this Brotherhood has been and has done. They speak of having begun the new year by sending a load of hay to a man who had sickened in his family and a load of coal to another, where there was need. One of the men belonged to the Local Brotherhood, the other did not, but both were one in sharing that Brotherhood fellowship which Jesus Christ inspired.

One of our best words for the Brotherhood is that we are doing things and "we all our men are developing into live workers for the Master." So writes C. H. Daum, of Riverside, Cal., president of L. B. D. C. No. 325.

A Volunteer Tragedy

While our Brotherhood at the North Church, Omaha, Neb., No. 272, is rejoicing over its volunteers for the ministry, — in number, it received the stunning news that one of them was dead. His going was a tragedy. We print a letter from him to C. A. Mangum, President of the Local Brotherhood, written a few weeks before his death, making a plea in behalf of the Volunteer service soon to be held. Not until one has read this soul-stirring epistle does one begin to understand the loss which has come to the Christian ministry in the sudden taking away of this young man. We mourn his death. We deplore his loss. We lift up our eyes, tear-filled and wondering, to the great Father above, but there comes no answer. We are still bidden to pray to Him to send forth laborers into the harvest field, and though the scalding drops of grief yet blister our cheeks we try, with dumb lips, to murmur "Thy will be done," and with sorrow-strained hearts we pray yet more fervently for more volunteers.

SLOAN, IOWA, January 2, 1911.

Mr. C. A. Mangum,
Omaha, Neb.

DEAR CHARLIE:—Well, I have passed through what I thought would be a terrible ordeal and found that it wasn't at all of that nature. Of course the severe weather was against me, but anyhow I had an appreciative though a small audience, both morning and evening. And I can say that I never felt better over anything in my life, I believe, than I do over those two little services which I held yesterday.

I am glad that our Brotherhood is going to have a volunteer meeting next Monday evening, to urge some of its members to take up the ministry as a calling. I confess that I am not exactly what one would term a preacher, and yet, in my studying to be one, and in my small attempt to take one's place yesterday, I have come to feel just a little of the great joy and satisfaction which comes to those who take up this high calling.

I do hope that more of our boys than myself will determine to go to the university and fit themselves for some definite Christian service. At Drake there is always room for more and we are all so happy as we struggle along from day today—for most of us work our way along—because we feel that later we may be able to do something for the cause of our Christ. And besides, this cause is calling for more champions every day and we of the younger generation must be its champions for the next half century if we would see it gain ground.

Boost this coming meeting as you never have before, Charlie, for such meetings come but once a year and they decide whether the Christian spirit is going to grow or flag, just according as some of our fellows enter the ministry as a life calling.

Tell the fellows for me that they should decide to preach for the Christ if they have any inclination at all in that direction. Don't picture such a calling as a "snap" or one which will assure them a life of ease, but do surely tell them that it's a man's work, and the call is for men of mind and courage to do a thing before which our "sissies" must and do flinch. Urge them to come on over and help us who have already taken up this calling. Tomorrow, happily for me, I shall be back at Drake, and next year may God grant that some more of our fellows will be going back with me.

Report the meeting soon.

Your friend,

(Signed) ORVILLE H. ANDREWS.

May we be pardoned for calling attention here to the value of a recurrent appeal for men for the ministry. This Brotherhood observed Volunteer Day in 1910. Orville H. Andrews was the volunteer. In 1911 they voice the appeal again and this strong young volunteer of a year before is heard pleading with sublime eloquence that there may be others to go back to school with him.

THE SECOND CHAPTER

And now comes the second chapter in the tragedy. It is written

C. A. Mangum, the man to whom the letter quoted above was addressed.

He entered Drake University last fall, and was not yet 19 years of age. He visited Omaha during the holiday vacation and left here for Sloan, Iowa, where his parents reside, on Friday before the first day of the new year, where he filled the pulpit of the Christian Church on Sunday, January 1st.

On Monday he returned to Des Moines, and en route his train broke in two, and this bitter cold night the passengers were between two stations for five hours without heat. It was here he contracted a severe cold and his death resulted from this exposure.

His remains were taken to Moorehead, Iowa, where the funeral was held Friday, January 27th. Brother Kirschstein, of the North Side, conducted the funeral and a quartet from the Bethlehem choir furnished the music.

Orville was one of the most promising young men it has been my pleasure to meet with, and aside from the personal loss those of us who knew him feel, I consider that our Brotherhood has suffered a very great loss when this young man of such great promise was taken away.

Sincerely yours,

C. A. MANGUM.

Fitting resolutions expressing the sorrow and sympathy of the young man's friends, were passed by the Local Brotherhood.

In Memory of

Orville H. Andrews

1893 - 1911

Volunteer to the Ministry

Who Will Take His Place?

C. A. MANGUM, Pres., L. B. D. C., No. 272, Omaha, Neb.

The Social Emphasis in Evangelistic Work

BY PROFESSOR GRAHAM TAYLOR.

This address of Prof. Taylor's, delivered at the Buffalo Conference of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, was so packed with Gospel truth freshly put as to seem to many almost inspired.

We print it in full, believing that any man who reads the first paragraph will read the entire article with interest.

First of all, we want to clear some things out of the way. This social emphasis is not new. It is as old as Christianity not only, but it is as old as Judaism. It is as old as the second table of the law, the summary of which is, "Thou shalt love thy neighbors as thyself." It is as Christian as the law of neighbor love and that rudiment of all Christian ethics, the golden rule. Moreover, the social emphasis is not a substitute for, or anything that is preferred to the individual emphasis. It is short-sighted to ask such a question as whether we will work for the individual or for his surroundings. You cannot work for one without working for the other. You must not shut up to any such dilemma as this. Is a man a nomad? What is a man but a complex of relationships?

STRIP YOURSELF You strip yourself and myself of what our relationships have given us—father and mother, brother, sister, playmate, workmate, fellow citizen, neighbor—and no man of us would dare look at himself in the glass. We would be a blasphemy of our former selves. Put one of us in a retort and take away everything that somebody else has put into us by those contacts which make life itself, and you have just your self-made man, who generally worships his maker. (Laughter.) You ask whether to work for the soul, or for its surroundings? What is the soul? Is it anything but the self? It is all I am or all I can come to be. I don't want any man to come and tell me he loves my soul if he doesn't love me; if he doesn't care about my life, or whether my wife can stay at home to take care of the babies, or whether my children can get a fair start in life, or whether I have a hovel or a decent house to live in, or whether the city is given over to corruption so that I cannot bring my children up safely. What do I care if he cares for my soul and doesn't care for me and mine? I say the soul is nothing a man has; it is all a man is or can become, and a man is nothing and becomes nothing unless it is in connection with others. "Work for the soul, make a man good." Sure. And that good man makes his surroundings better. That is all true, but it is only the half truth. For better surroundings help make men good. Now, I simply know that. That is no fad. I moved with my family into one of the great cosmopolitan districts in down-town Chicago, filled with factories and railroad tracks and tenement houses and with a population that sometimes so confuses me with different languages as to make me doubt whether it is Babel or Pentecost. (Laughter.) There was no earthly use in telling the boys in the Sunday-school or the day school, "Now, be goody-goody and you will be happy," when we elected the worst men in the ward—dive-keepers, beaters of women, betrayers of girls, gamblers and servants of the devil generally—to represent us in the city council of Chicago. Our votes belied our Christian teachings. And I want to assure you that when we elected decent men to represent the ward in the city council of Chicago who could preside over the graduating exercises of the public schools, then to tell a boy it was worth while to be good, and that a good man got ahead in the world and had some respect shown him, was something of a different proposition from what it was before.

WARD POLITICS

We were literally forced into ward politics, in a non-partisan way, to make the surroundings better; and it helps every Sunday-school teacher, every Young Men's Christian Association man, every pastor, every physician and everybody else who has the care of another, to make men good. I say the "Individual Emphasis" and the "Social Emphasis" are two sides to the same shield, and we have kept those two sides pretty far apart in our religious life, long enough. As the labor men say, we are "not going to stand for it" any longer, a whole lot of us are not. We are going to work both ends at once, just as hard as we can and meet in the middle. That is the way to save the world; that is the way to save a soul. Men, it takes more and more of a saved world to save a soul. In the evangelistic work in which I was long engaged as a pastor in Hartford, Conn., in its old down-town Fourth Church, I found that out. I was brought up so sheltered in the best of homes that I had never known the conditions of life in the people's world. When men rose up in response to my appeal and said, "See here, if you knew how I live and have to live, and when I work and have to work, and how I earn my livelihood, you would know that I couldn't accept this doctrine of the pure heart," I didn't believe it. They said, "You come and see," and I went and I saw, and all I have to say is I had to begin to evangelize the lodging houses and places for working men to eat, and their recreations and civic conditions generally, in order to save the soul of a man that I had been eluding myself into thinking could be half saved—inside and not outside.

A LOST BODY

You cannot have a saved soul in a lost body. You cannot have a saved life survive in unsaved surroundings. You have got to save a larger and larger part of the world and a man's relationships, and make his surroundings at least compatible with the ideals of life which you are holding out to him if he is ever to realize those ideals.

Somehow or other, men, we have got to make the way of earning a livelihood more compatible with, and less contradictory to, what we call the "way of life" or we will lose the men that we think we have saved. One of the most distinguished evangelists in this country told me that the earth simply gave way under feet when he went back to the same communities where he thought God had revolutionized human life through—six, seven, eight or ten years after—and found things just about the same before. Some of the people were just where he had found them when he began. Some of them he thought were surely dead and out. They meant to be, poor souls. But the back track and undertow of everything that surrounded them were so much for them. I have never had such heart-breaks in my life as in going back to that old field, where men seemed to climb up over my life Godward from the lower strata of life, and then stood as well as I could have asked them to stand, wanted to be saved as much as I wanted them to be saved, poor souls, and in ten years' time, after living conspicuously Christian lives, aggressively engaging in evangelistic work and lifting other men up out of the ditch and behind them—and found them right back in the old place. Why? They hadn't had the atmospheric pressure of their surroundings. A great German theologian and philosopher has defined it to be "the steady pressure of divine life." Oh, men, every man of us needs that steady pressure. You and I do not know what it is not to have it. It comes through the home to us, it comes through church associations, it comes through the peer neighborhoods. Remove it, and no one of us knows what would follow?

THE COLLAPSE OF CHARACTER

A foot soldier in the Civil War told me that the carnage of a battle, the crunching of the bones of the wounded, under the cannon wheels, the awful agony of the dying, were not so appalling as the collapse of character when men were taken away from the atmospheric pressure of those things that surrounded them. Hawthorne, in his Consular Sketches, tells this story: He was sitting in the United States consulate in London one day when a gentleman came in with a sea captain—a fine appearing fellow. He said, "You can keep my mail here, addressed to Rev. So-and-So, until I return. I can't find my passenger. He sailed over with me and is going to sail back, and I am worried about him." Finally the vessel had to sail without him. Hawthorne said he would watch out for him. One day in comes his gentleman, so disfigured, so changed, that he was scarcely recognizable. Hawthorne rose and said, "Come into my rear office." The gentleman reintroduced himself. "Yes," said Hawthorne, "I know you. You are the Reverend So-and-So. You needn't tell me anything at all. You have been lost in the crowd. You didn't know how weak a man you were when you were at home. You go home and stay there. You keep within the restraints and impulses of your better surroundings." Now, I do not say we are all as weak as that, but no man knows how weak he is; and I tell you, gentlemen, it is high time that we make it easier to be good and harder to be bad. (A Voice: "Amen.") It is high time for that. It is no excuse for leaving it easier to be bad and harder to be good to say that by a whirlwind of revival we can get man back from that far country. I tried that on for twelve years or more in Hartford, Conn., right in one place, and I want to say that the fellow that stays in one spot as an evangelist has a better chance to test the results of his work than the man who travels on to the next place by the next train out. (Laughter.) The dark shadows that fall are equal to the brightest light that shines. Thank God the light shines above the dark and the clouds are tinged with glory. But as I speak today the forms and faces of men whom I have loved, in whom I have invested my very life, and who, I believe, wanted to be saved as much as ever I wanted to save them, come up before me; men who went the way of the town—of their associates. The church was not strong enough, religious associations were not compelling enough, impelling enough, protective enough, to protect the poor fellows. And I do not mean the poor, groveling tramps. I mean an able man in a high position whom I laid in a dishonored grave. All his associates were on the other side. What could anybody do? Down he went, because his associations were that way, and there was nothing like the strength of association on the other side. He joined the church, too, but that did not change his associations. They were not attractive, strong associations in the direction of a Christian ideal. So I say that we do not have to choose between making men good and making their surroundings better. When we make men good they ought to make the surroundings better, and when we make the surroundings better it certainly helps to make men and boys good.

THE ANARCHIST'S RELIGION

Now, another thing we want out of the way is that this social emphasis is not an alternative to a religious emphasis. What is religion? Why, it is what I have defined life to be. It is relationship. I learned that in struggling with the anti-religious radicals in Chicago on a free floor, where every man was the equal of every other man and each man had only three minutes—and you can stand anything for three minutes, especially if the other fellow has to stand your three minutes. (Laughter.) Well, the war of the worlds was on. Every last man of those men seemed to have this idea of religion: that it was something superimposed by an arbitrary divine authority. Or, worse still, if they did not recognize divine authority at all, they thought that it was something superimposed by a small class of people upon the mass of people, who were held to reprobation of ostracism or condemnation if they did not acquire the ideas and standards of the other class. Altruism, the Anarchists said, is the superimposition of one will upon another, to alter upon the ego. "No," I replied, "there is no such thing. Altruism means serving the people—helping people." Well, then they came back at me this way. They said, "See here, there is no motive that moves men except self-interest." "There isn't?" I said. "No, none." "What would you do," I asked one of them, "if that house was on fire and you saw a woman up on the top floor with a baby in her arms and flames and smoke all around her? What would you do?" "Well," said he, "what do you take me for?" I said, "I take you for a great big-hearted Dutchman who would go in and get them out—why would you do it?" "Self-interest," he replied. "How do you make them out?" "Well," he said, "under the particular circumstances and right there and there I would rather do that than anything else." (Laughter.) That was a better definition of self-interest than I ever heard before. It takes within the circumference of the self the woman and the child on the top floor of a burning building!

THE RUSSIAN'S RESPONSE

Well, there was another man who was the editor of an anarchist paper. He said the same thing to me—that men are moved only by self-interest. He was an exile from Russia, a great big, dignified Russian. "No," I said, "I can't get that through my head. Suppose there was a little girl over there and a big brute of a man came along gan to beat her"—he didn't believe in interfering; every man was a being independent of every other man, who could be in a perfectly free society, in a voluntary association, instead of being restrained by coercive law. I said, "That's all right, a fine ideal, a splendid idea of humanity, for yourself and myself, but now, that little girl over there—some fellow has forgotten all you have been talking about and he has beaten that little girl badly." "Well," he said, "I am so sensitively constituted that the injury to that child would hurt me so much that in self-defense I should have to go over and make him stop." (Laughter.) We can laugh at that, but that was no joke. This man was entirely serious. Really, these men had a more comprehensive idea of what self is—taking in the other fellow—than I had.

Talking on that free floor there was a reverend doctor of divinity. He spoke of the Grand Army, of the splendid heroism of the soldiers and the patriotism which animated them. A Dutchman got up and said, "Say, Doctor, is there not a better idea of patriotism than that which you have given us?" "Oh," he said, "you men make me hot under the collar." "Is that because you are a Christian, Doctor?" "No, sir," said the only Christian minister. "I forgot right then that I was a Christian." Then this Dutchman rose up and flared out with this—he said, "Real patriotism, my ideal of patriotism, is one under which every man is a fellow citizen to every other man, every land is one country, or common Fatherland." Now, he went too far, but we do not go far enough, and I tell you it always takes somebody to go a great deal too far to get all the rest of us to go half far enough. (Laughter.)

So I say religion is made up of relationships. J e s u s' idea of religion is the ideal of what the relationship should be between the one man and the one God, not only, but between the one man and every other man who is also related to that one God, as creature to creator, as Father to son. I have flanked those fellows on that free floor every time by that definition of religion. Every time they had nothing to say against it, but they said, "That is not fair; that has not been the religion of the churches." Very well, that may be, I admitted, but that is the Bible idea of religion—it is relationship—and creeds and churches and sermons and ministers and rituals are impressions and expressions of that relationship which each one of us has as the son of one God, and that each of us has as brother and sister to every child of woman born. That is religion. Now, I do not say we have attained this relationship, but I say this relationship of sonship and brotherhood is in process of attainment and is being experienced, is possessed potentially. For the ideal has always got to hover over the real.

AN AWFUL PARADOX

Now, if that is true, then it seems to me that this emphasis on the social side of things is a protest—a protest against trying to be religious all alone by one's self. The Young Men's Christian Association enters that same sort of protest. It is a protest, gentlemen, against that awful dualism, paradox, contradiction, of having whole communities of Christians that are not Christian communities. Now, isn't that so? Individuals by the score professing allegiance to Jesus Christ while business is running wild into materialism, political life is making it harder to be right and easier to be wrong, civic administration is inefficient, housing conditions are bad, child labor prevails, women are overstrained, motherhood is sacrificed—in communities of Christians.

They are not Christian communities; their public life is pagan, their corporate life is heathen. Yet their poor souls rise up and try to have the individual life Christian; as though you could live the religious life on the perpendicular, on a straight line right up between you and God. You will go no straighter up toward God or farther up toward Heaven than you have your religion on the horizontal—right out that way (indicating). All the law and the prophets hang on two commandments, not one. The first, of course, is first, but it is only first, and means a second—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, soul, mind and strength," and the second is like unto it—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." On these two laws hang all.

GODWARD AND MANWARD

Now, you cannot be religious Godward if you are not just as religious manward; for the great white throne is before us, the tremendous as-size of the judgment is portrayed in advance—"Come, ye blessed." Who? Those that have been in right relationships with their fellowmen, who gave the cup of cold water to the little child, who, when the stranger came into his neighborhood, took him into sympathy and help, who went to see the widow and the orphan in their afflictions, who visited the prisoner after his first sentence and helped him up and out—"Come, ye blessed!" "But, Lord, we didn't know it was you we were doing it to." "Well, but I was so identified with everyone that you couldn't do it to anyone of them that you didn't take me in. God Almighty identifies Himself with every human being, and if you and I do not, why, then we are not Godlike. Godward to man! Yes, but manward to God! These are the marching orders of the church.

So I say that the social emphasis is just as personal as religion is, and that is about the most personal thing there is. And, on the other hand, I say that the individual emphasis is just as social as the life of a mortal man is.

THE HELL-SIDE

Now, those things are out of the way, but we want to put some other things up to our brains and hearts and consciences. The council of war that we are in, before we get through with it, ought to become a staff construction of engineers. I am tired of the war idea—of the destructive negative side of the Christian life—though it consisted in an everlasting "Thou shalt not,"—as though the whole Gospel was what you shouldn't be and what you shouldn't do and where you shouldn't go—the death side, the sin side, the hell side. I tell you, men, we have more of a Gospel than that, and it is a strategic time in the history of the Anglo-Saxon race to put the positive, affirmative, constructive, ideal side forward, and to realize it.

CITY SALVATION

We are all from cities. Now, the cities are taking the greatest turn in the history of city civilization. They are absolutely dissatisfied with their conditions. They say these conditions need not be—that there is no use fumbling along any more in the dark. We have got to find out what the actual conditions are. There was a wise old lady in this country. She took a public-spirited lawyer into consultation. He got her to give ten million dollars for a foundation to improve living and working conditions in the United States, and Mrs. Russell Sage's name will be handed down to posterity as one of the farthest-sighted givers who has ever been known in America. The magazine with which I am associated—The Survey—which is not run for profit, and therefore may be referred to here, put from fifteen to twenty-five ert investigators into Pittsburgh for year and a half to look into the housing, the street cleaning, the care of children, the casualties in the steel mills. In the end we had a big exhibit in the Carnegie Art Gallery. For instance, the death roll of people who died from preventable causes was simply awful. We had the highest death rate from typhoid fever of any city in the United States for twenty-four years, most of them workers among the steel plants. We found the most awful industrial casualties that had been recorded anywhere. We sent out detectives and investigators to count those missing from the homes. Around the Art Gallery we made a frieze of silhouettes—men's figures, women's figures, children's—each figure standing for a man, woman or child who died a preventable death, whose life might have been spared by better conditions.

Well, that procession of the dead took hundreds of feet of wall space. We had photographs of interiors and exteriors and of conditions in Pittsburgh. When we rounded up these object-lessons and visualized the situation, we said: "Gentlemen, here are the goods; we have delivered them. We do not mean to hurt this town. We want Pittsburgh to become the most conspicuous example of a town that uplifts itself, that brings its civic ideals up to the standard of individual character. The president of the Chamber of Commerce publicly said: "I am ashamed of my city. I am ashamed of myself." Now, that was a painful piece of surgery, but I predict that Pittsburgh will become one of the most model cities in the United States. But they could not have even started to be such unless they knew their actual conditions. The cities are beginning to survey themselves. We have just been looking over Gary, Ind.

There are a whole lot of made-to-order cities in this country. That is one of the recent ones. There are ten thousand people there. The steel company built it, at the foot of Lake Michigan. They have spread their mill yards for eight miles along the shore of Lake Michigan and have not left the 10,000 people of the city any access to the lake, which is the only feature of natural beauty and of health and recreation. You have to go four miles around one way or the other to get to the lake shore that is half a mile away from your home! What do you think of that sort of town planning? Do you suppose, if the churches and Young Men's Christian Associations stand still about that matter, that they will have the influence they would have if they led the way to the lake? I would like to know if that is not a religious and moral question.

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

It is good to criticise, but it is better to construct. It is good to destroy vice and saloons and brothels, but it is better to build and so plant human life that it won't want those things. It is good to know what not to do, what not to be, and where not to go, but it is a great deal better to tell men what they shall do and where they shall be. It is good to be negative, but it is better to be positive. It is good to overcome evil, but the Bible way is to overcome it with good—the preoccupying, prepossessing proposition. One thing I am asking for is the extension of the Young Men's Christian Association physical culture department and railroad branch. It is good to reform, but it is better to form. Horace Mann, our great educator, said: "One reformatory is worth ten thousand reformatories." Men, it is high time that the Church became a reformatory, an ideal of what civil, social, industrial life should be. The signal is sounded for a plan, for a program which shall be educative, which shall be coöperative, bringing into coöperation the public and private and voluntary agencies; a plan of action which shall take into its purview the housing of the people. You cannot have good homes and wretched houses. You look into them and see how you would like to live in some of them. We were trying to get better building ordinances in the Chicago city council, and one of the contractors who build tenement houses to sell roared across at me: "Have you ever built a tenement house?" "No, sir," I said, "but have you ever lived in one?" (Laughter.) He hadn't either. Well, I had. (Laughter.)

FRATRICIDAL WAR

Brethren, there is a fratricidal war on, and it is a shame to our Christian civilization. I have been in between "the sides" in that war. I have never been on one side or the other; always asked to arbitrate by both sides to these industrial differences; and, I tell you, when we differ, we differ, in Chicago. (Laughter.) You get in between those upper and nether millstones and you will know what I mean. A committee on industry reported two weeks ago in Boston, to the National Congregational Churches Council, a declaration against wrong industrial conditions and for the human rights involved. It recommended that their brotherhoods should take up the function of finding out what these industrial conditions and relations are, and in a Christian, quiet, educative, constructive way try to improve them. There was a call for the question. The moderator said: "This is a tremendously important question to decide without discussion." "Question!" they said, from all parts of the house. "Well," he said, "we will have it on a rising vote." Every delegate, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, rose en masse. Thus the Sons of Pilgrims swing into line with the industrial policies of the other church fellowships. It is time to strike, men, for great formative Christian ideal of the places we are living in, of the shops and conduct, of the relationships we sustain to our brother men.

THE LEISURE PROBLEM

The leisure problem is as big as the labor problem. As many men are wrong in the time they have at their own command as in the time they are under the command of others. The city of Chicago has put fourteen million dollars into playgrounds, absolutely dissociated from anything wrong. All this intense desire and passion of the young for recreation, intensified by the monotony of modern industries, has been thus seized and turned to advantage.

The immigration problem is simple and momentous. Nationally we are not doing anything intelligent or sustained to solve it. We great big men, American men, sit with folded arms while ruthless exploitation of immigrant men, women and children in all our cities is taking place. I can't stay a Christian, and I can't stay a man and see that kind of thing go on, and we ought to be ashamed of ourselves.

THE CHURCH THAT SERVES

The church that serves the community best will be served by the community most. It is the church for the community, it is the church and the Christian forces that build the community up out of themselves, that are themselves built up out of the community. What I am pleading for is for the church to exercise its supreme function—to do three things for the community—idealize it. Run up your Christian ideal of what a man was meant and made to be; what a woman, child, group, family, a ward, a city, were meant and made to be, and float it there by your worship high over ad like the play of the Kingdom. In-le and outside the church work to ach that ideal. Then keep your dyno going to generate the power of a f-empty, Christ-possessed life. That wer and that power only will drive this civic, industrial and social manery. Thus the church is building ter than it knows. Religion is getting tside of church walls into the open.

e Church was never more needed than w, and the Christian manhood of this ion never had such a chance in the rld to manifest the ideals of the urch. Let us manifest them in Min-apolis and Chicago, in St. Louis and ffalo, and in the smaller towns and ntry places. On the eve of a great ic and industrial awakening, we are a council of war that should be turned to a conference for the constructive omotion of peace and progress by the iciency of our application of the com-n faith to the conditions of the nmon life.

But there is a cross between the ideal d the actual. Some of us will make s money, some of us will have to eak with our party, some will have to back on what has seemed to be a well-tained course. For the glory of the wn of a humanized city, of a Chrisnized state, let us bear any cross—the cross of an economic self-denial, the cross of industrial self-denial, the cross of political self-denial, the cross of social self-denial—and lay the cross^h at Jesus' feet.

JESUS CHRIST CAME TO LIFE

In Rochester the men were out of work for many months. A Young Men's Christian Association man went around with a petition to get the city to put the unemployed at some needed public work. He happened into a labor meeting. They didn't know him, he didn't know them, but they were talking. One man said: "It seems to me as though Jesus Christ had died again.
Nobody seems to care whether we or our families have any living or not. But I heard that a Young Men's Christian Association man is getting out a petition to have the city put a lot of us to work.
Boys, Jesus Christ must have come to life again; he must have risen from the dead again." Brethren, I wonder if we cannot rise with him into a newness of life, and with him die to the lusts we have lived to gratify. We should be dead only to them, while our life is hid with Christ in God. Then in the glory of His appearing in the rehabilitated town, in redeemed industry, in our saved country, we will appear with Him in glory. (Applause.)

Wireless Whispers

Geo. Musson, of Morocco, Indiana, one of our preachers, well known as the Soldier Evangelist, writes us an earnest word in behalf of the Brotherhood Volunteer Movement.

* * *

C. D. Pierce, who is a graduate of Christian University, Canton, Mo., called at our office with Mrs. Pierce recently. Brother Pierce looks like a live wire and he is looking for a live church.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 335, Belmar Church, East End, Pittsburgh, Pa., moves so fast we can hardly keep up with it. The pastor reports seventeen men from the Brotherhood taken into the church. Who said the Brotherhood was a failure?

* * *

No. 279, at Douglas Park Church, Chicago, where Vaughn Dabney is pastor, announces a banquet, a quartette of big speeches, including a bigger speech by Champ Clark Buckner, pastor of the Irving Park Church, on the night of January 20th. We make the venture that they had a good time and did business for the King as well.

* * *

We are in receipt of one of A. McLean's thoughtfully written lectures on "Thomas and Alexander Campbell," handsomely bound in blue board. It runs to 62 pages in length and sells for 25 cents. A McLean knows these two men as well as anyone living today and writes to them with an insight and a human appeal that is fine. The book is published by the Foreign Christian Missionary Society.

* * *

Wm. H. Paul, 122 South Main St., Salt Lake City, Utah, writes calling attention to the fact that Utah is one of the best places in the world to live in, which intelligent people are beginning to find out, and that the moral atmosphere is, in his judgment, not so bad as some magazine writers would lead one to believe. He offers to give information as to agricultural, land and investment opportunities, etc., to any who may inquire.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 258, Richmond Avenue Church, Buffalo, N. Y., reports that they publish the church bulletin every Lord's Day and they think it is a good investment. They are behind their new Sunday-School building which is nearing completion and is to cost about $40,000. They have just held their annual election and are looking forward to a year of good work. They say the Team Work Campaign Banquet was a great stimulus.

* * *

The annual meeting of L. B. D. C. No. Tacoma, Wash., was held on February 1. The annual address on the "History and Teachings of the Disciples of Christ" was made by Brother L. Greenwell, of the Queen Anne Church, Seattle, and was referred to the men as most instructing and inspiring. The address was received with general approval, and L. B. D. C. No. 266 begins the new year with every prospect of better work than ever.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 313, Mt. Vernon, Ind., reports but one meeting held during the quarter, on account of church building operations, but they have opened the new year vigorously, taking in four new members; preparing for aggressive work. The pastor is W. T. Walker. Officers of the Brotherhood are: Manford Werking, President; Thor J. Allbridge, Vice-President; F. H. Welbe, Secretary; E. Q. McElhaney, Treasurer; Charles H. Woodward, Chairman Program and Social Committee; W. A. Frick, Chairman Membership and Fraternal Aid Committee.

* * *

One of the most remarkable growths among the Disciples of Christ has been in the Calumet District of Northern Indiana, comprising the growing cities of Hammond, East Hammond, Whiting, Indiana Harbor, South Chicago, Treston and Gary. In eight years we have grown as follows: From one struggling church to six hard-working congregations; from 12 to 1,200 members; from 32 to 1,150 in the Bible Schools; from nothing to $51,000 in property. This district promises to become the largest city in the State of Indiana within ten years as the municipalities are already touching borders and getting ready to consolidate.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 325, Riverside, Cal., reports a very interesting and instructive meeting in January, using CHRISTIAN MEN program "The Ministry as a Calling." One of the men, in contemplating the discussion under the head of "What Kind of a Minister Would I Be if I Were Going to Be a Minister," burst into rhyme under the spell of his quotations and read the lines quoted below. They were received with much pleasure. The next meeting of this Brotherhood will be around the banquet table, entertaining the C. W. B. C. H. Daum is the President. A flourishing Brotherhood Bible Class is a feature of the work.

The Brotherhood gave the following program at its regular meeting on Tuesday evening: Address, "The Foreigner in His Home Land." Speech, "The Foreigner at Work in America." Address, "The Problems Which the Foreigner Creates." Debate, "Resolved, that Immigration be Prohibited." This was interspersed with music. The Brotherhood will observe its first anniversary on Sunday, January 29th, when J. K. Shellenberger, the National Field Secretary, and L. I. Mercer, the Bible School Secretary of Ohio, will address the men. The Brotherhood will have a large number of the evening services, it being the first Sunday of the month.

* * *

The Brotherhood men at Mishawaka, Ind., are making steady progress in their work. On January 15th they held a union meeting with the Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist Brotherhoods, to consider the spiritual welfare of Mishawaka, and with a view to organizing union committees who would be able to bring political aspirants, as one of their number puts it, "To recognize the Father, and the Brotherhood of Man as a power not to be sneered or slighted at, and to teach them that the time is at hand when they will have to bend the knee to God, Christ Jesus and His organization, instead of Satan, the almighty dollar, dens of vice, prostitution, lewdness and criminals."

* * *

L. B. D. C., No. 318, Davenport, Iowa, has just closed a successful year. October 19th they held a social and business session and a surprise was tendered their president, Rev. S. M. Perkins, who had just returned from the Peoria convention. Forty-five men sat down together. Four new members were received at this meeting. Among other things this local chapter had a Christmas entertainment given at the church, and also managed the Sunday afternoon meetings at the Y. M. C. A. for the month of December. They are now organizing an orchestra. Secretary Van Etten writes: "On the whole, while not creating a very great disturbance, we are moving along at a steady pace."

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 283, Eldora, Iowa, held its annual election with the following officers and committees: Dr. D. O. King, President; D. P. Aylesworth, Vice-President; C. L. Hays, Secretary; J. J. Frisbie, Treasurer; Program of Cultural Committee, Burt Hoover, Chairman; Social and Visiting Committee, E. W. Lindsay, Chairman; Membership Committee, Henry Stebe, Chairman; Fraternal Aid and Employment Committee, Myron Furman, Chairman. They will also appoint a Men's and Boys' Committee later. Among other things, they decided on the semi-annual meeting. This was a long step in advance. We are glad to note the re-election of Secretary C. L. Hays.

* * *

The very best meeting of the Brotherhood at the West Fourth Avenue Church of Christ was held Sunday, January 22d, at 3 p. m., when 150 men met to listen to the masterful address delivered by C. B. Reynolds, of Alliance, O., on the subject, "A Man Running Away From God." A fifteen-minute song service led by D. E. Snyder preceded the address and such singing as those men did rejoiced the heart to listen to. Everyone just simply sang. The Brotherhood is getting in line for the Laymen's Missionary Convention in February. Columbus has been made one of the rallying centers by the Committee of ninety-seven of the men and religious campaign. We are hoping for great things. What the crying need of the Brotherhood Movement is is a closer coöperative and fraternal spirit.

* * *

H. A. Denton, Troy, N. Y., wanted to arrange a service for men on a recent Sunday night and the following postcard tells how he did it:

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Dear Brother:—Will you kindly meet with the men of the church in the Sunday-School room at 7:15 Sunday night coming to attend the services in the auditorium above in a body? It is a man's service, and the sermon subject will be "A Man's Job."

Line up with us and help me out in this my first men's service in Troy.

Yours for men,

H. A. DENTON, Pastor.

P. S.—If you escort a lady to church, ask her to excuse you for this time, after you have seated her, and come down with us.

* * *

On Monday, January 16th, the Brotherhood of the Indiana Avenue Christian Church, South Bend, Ind., held their first meeting since the vacation season of last summer. Interest in the men's work had seemed to die out after the resignation of C. C. Buckner, the enthusiastic Brotherhood man; but they had forty-five men out to this meeting, and they are now looking forward to some more real Brotherhood work. A very satisfying supper was served at 6:45, and while the ladies of the church were serving it the Sunday-School orchestra entertained the men, after which Ralph N. Smith, Prosecuting Attorney of La Porte County, addressed the men on the subject of "Man's Work for Man." The following Sunday evening they conducted a men's service, the sermon being addressed to men, and we are looking for great things from the men. R. O. Wickham is the new pastor who is leading them vigorously in this advance step.

* * *

The Troy Budget, in its Sunday edition of February 12th, devotes more than a column and a half to an account of the meeting of L. B. D. C. No. 355 of the First Church, Troy, where H. A. Denton is pastor. This Brotherhood was but a month old, and the meeting which so attracted the attention of the editor of the Budget was the annual World Wide Missions meeting of the Brotherhood. A good many people imagine that a missionary meeting is a dry one, but they are people who never attended a Brotherhood missionary meeting. The newspaper man is himself a member of the Methodist Brotherhood, and therefore in an appreciative mood, but the manner in which L. B. D. C. No. 355 conducts its meetings evidently caught his journalistic eye. We very much regret that space does not permit us to copy this report in its entirety, as it is a forceful illustration of what good work the Brotherhood will do when it dares to hew to the line and give the programs as they are published.

* * *

The Brotherhood of the First Church, Oklahoma City, added to its laurels by entertaining the Club Men of the State Legislature the night of January 27th in a banquet. From the ready pen of C. M. Pinkerton we learn that the spontaneous flow of eloquence, the brilliant scintillations of wit, the sparkling repartee, all went to show that there were no "empties" in the bunch. Oklahoma City has the ambition to have the largest Brotherhood in the United States. L. B. D. C. No. 330, New Albany, Ind.; No. 315, Nelsonville, Ohio; No. 250, St. Joseph, Mo., and No. 1, Kansas City, will please look to their laurels. Of the Team Work campaign Pinkerton says: "We are making great preparation for the campaign. It will be a glorious meeting. Come on with your Knights. We will give you the best that is in us." C. H. Russell is the President of the Brotherhood, and both Mr. Pinkerton, State President of Oklahoma, and J. H. O. Smith say of him: "He is a live wire and will make a good leader."

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 272, North Side Christian Church, Omaha, has again covered itself with glory in the matter of its annual meeting. The advertising preparation for this meeting was a model, as was a neat circular letter in two colors sent by the committee in charge, calling the annual meeting, giving the location, announcing the dinner and the principal speaker as H. H. Harmon, pastor of the Christian Church, Lincoln, Neb., whose address was to be on the subject of "The History and Teachings of the Disciples of Christ." In addition a neat announcement card, printed in black on buff, with the Brotherhood emblem in red, called attention to the meeting and announced the program in detail. The tickets were printed in black over the Brotherhood emblem in red, on the neatest of white bristol board. With such preparation it goes without saying that the attendance was large and the meeting a delightful one. Again and yet again let us say that you will get out of your Brotherhood work just about what you put into it. Go at the thing as though you meant business and you will get results that will delight business men.

* * *

There comes to our desk the Gary Christian Messenger for February, which is a monthly magazine of thirty-two pages, that is to say almost as large as CHRISTIAN MEN, devoted in the main to the work of our churches in Gary, Indiana, which enjoy the pastorate of Nelson H. and Martha S. Trimble. The magazine has, properly enough, its first three or four pages occupied by the practical work of our people in church building in Gary. Then follows a department of general religious news, with choice and well selected articles, an interdenominational section that is worthy of name, and following that the Chicago Disciples news section, with a column or more devoted to the work of each individual church, and more interdenominational news and the Chicago Temperance section. The material is carefully selected and well abreast of the times. The Gary Christian Messenger, for February, caught our attention more completely than any other of our religious publications in a long time. There is a good editor concealed somewhere in the Trimble family.

* * *

L. B. D. C. No. 338, of the Christian Church, La Fayette, Ind., just recently affiliated, acted very wisely in ordering CHRISTIAN MEN for all members. Their local dues are twenty cents per month, and they voted to allow month's dues pay for the magazine. They are planning to have a banquet on the occasion of their February meeting, selling tickets at twenty-five cents, this money being applied to the monthly dues of the members. They are of the opinion that, while their dues are higher than in many other cases, in this way they make some things unanimous that otherwise might apply to only a part of the membership. At their January meeting one of their number gave a review on "What the Brotherhood Has Done and Is Being Asked to Confine His Remarks to the Contents of the Magazine as far as possible, a copy of which was placed in his hands. Another took the program for the year and introduced for discussion "What the Brotherhood Is Called Upon to Do." It is reported that this proved very helpful, both in introducing the magazine and in opening a profitable discussion of a practical theme, which is particularly good for a new organization. F. L. Pettit is the pastor.

* * *

On Thursday evening, February 9th, the Brotherhood Disciples of Christ, No. 311, Philadelphia, Pa., concluded the most successful year of work among men in the history of the Third Christian Church, by an elaborate banquet served at one of Philadelphia's prominent hotels. The banquet was opened with prayer by our pastor, George P. Rutledge, after which the secretary read the minutes of the year, followed by speeches of humor and of soberly nature by Brothers Scofield, Rutledge, Wisler, Wright, Ensinger, Kesler, Liebfried, Muller, Hopkins and Torrey. The general sentiment was that the Brotherhood was instrumental in the prosperity of the church, had brought men to the realization of the love of Jesus Christ. Credit was due the Covenant of the National organization for the success we have attained in this immense field of brothers who had not accepted Christ as their personal Savior. After an evening of great pleasure and enjoyment the following officers were elected: President, Arthur Scofield; Vice-President, Horace Ensinger; Secretary, Millard F. Walton; Treasurer, Walter Kesler. The chairmen of the committees were as follows: Devotional, Oscar Muller; Relief, LeRoy Goodfellow; Bible Class, George P. Rutledge; Cultural, Walter Hopkins; Social, Somers C. Wright. T banquet closed with an address by the new president, who predicted a most prosperous future which had been attained in the past through the interest and coöperation of the National Brotherhood at Kansas City.

* * *

Stow's Corner

Frank Scattergood, who leads the forces at Stow Corners, Ohio, is a man who does things. Like all other progressive pastors, the Brotherhood idea appeals to him. He wanted to get men hitched up to a definite thing. And he wanted to have some men at Stow. Twenty-five men were present in a men's class in a country church which is going some. That, however, is only the beginning. They have more men than that. When Brother Scattergood broached the idea of a banquet to launch the Brotherhood movement he asked one good brother how many men could be expected at such a function. "About fifteen," was the not encouraging response. But the wideawake pastor already had a prospective list of eighty-five names, and out of that number fifty men sat down to a sumptuous chicken banquet on the night of January 23d, served in a hall belonging to the church. H. C. France, H. E. Hoertz, J. E. Woodward and William Spanton, of the Stow First Church Brotherhood, Percy Wilcox, pastor of the Wabash Church, Akron, and E. E. Baker, of Hiram, President of the Ohio Brotherhood Committee on Brotherhood, were there to help enthuse the men and incidentally load up on biscuit and chicken. That made a total of fifty-six men. Brother Scattergood said it was the biggest thing ever pulled off at Stow "for men only."

After the plates had been repeatedly filled and just as systematically emptied M. E. Baker, presented the Brotherhood work, telling just what a country Brotherhood could accomplish. J. E. Woodward and Percy Wilcox also made short talks on the advantages derived from a Brotherhood, and then William Spanton presented the spiritual side of the Brotherhood work. After the reading of the covenant Brother Scattergood asked those present who were willing to subscribe to, and become a part of a Brotherhood organization, to rise, and twenty-eight men pledged themselves to so act. The number probably reach thirty-five. Oakley Spaght was then and there elected president, Chas. M. Moore, vice-president, and C. A. Flickinger, secretary-treasurer.

* * *

Were I a Minister

By Wilbur F. Daily of Local No. 325, B. D. of C., Riverside, Cal.

Were I a minister, what kind would I be—
A lover of men or a proud Pharisee?
Would I be as willing to visit the poor
As I would to enter the rich man's door?
Would I be charitable, kind and true?
Would I visit the sick, and pray for them, too?
Would I preach too long, or would I be brief?
Or just preach the Bible, or my own belief?

Would I hate the saloonkeeper, or only his trade—

Remembering God's likeness, in which he was made?

Would the woman who falls an outcast be,
Or would I forgive her, as God forgives me?
If a brother should fall, and woefully sin,
Would I cast out as evil, or gather him in?
With the spirit of meekness, or mindful of self,

Would I preach for God's Kingdom, or only for pelf?

Would I welcome the prodigal joyously home,
Or, like the elder brother, hector him some?

Would I listen to critics of other men's acts,
Or would I insist on being shown facts?

Would the children all love me, or would they despise

Because I looked cross, or so wondrously wise?
Would I preach against sin in the abstract alone,

Or preach against sins that are actually done?
Like Paul, would I be all things to all men

If perchance I might thereby bring anyone in?
Would I pray for myself every hour of the day,

Or pray more for others—a much better way?
Would my life be unselfish, surrendered to Him,

Or would my standards be uncertain and dim?
Would I think of myself more highly than I ought,

Or always be willing myself to be taught?
Would I look on the bright side—an optimist be,

Or, pessimist-like, unwilling to see
The bright silver lining of every dark cloud—

By faith looking through its deceptive shroud?
Would I joy to be worthy my calling to fill,
Or, "at ease in Zion," sit contentedly still?

Would I care much more for the whole human race
Than the plaudits of people, pomp, power or place?

Would I seek to be humble and sit at His feet
Like Mary of old—let his teachings so sweet
Sink deeper and deeper, my spirit to bless?
Would not this be true service and true holiness?

Would I make of my people an organized band,
Paid up on Missions in foreign land,
And Missions at home, for outcast and poor,
Thus holding for all ajar Heaven's door?

Would I admonish all first His Kingdom to seek,
And live just like Jesus—humble and meek,
Assured needed things, then added would be,
When walking by faith, not waiting to see?

Would I counsel much reading of Scripture,
and pray
That all might be brought to the fulness of day,

And, rightly dividing the word of truth,
Be not too severe on the follies of youth;
And, capping it all with faith, hope and love,
Be more and more like Him, our Savior above?

All these things are things that I would if I could,
But perhaps not all things that I could if I would.

BIBLE SCHOOL NOTES

There were one hundred and ten men in the great Twentieth Century Bible Class, at the Fourth Avenue Church, in Columbus, Ohio, on February 5th.

* * *

The teachers and officers of the Dean Avenue Christian Sunday-School, in Spokane, Wash., entertained recently in honor of their Superintendent, C. C. Gillespie. The affair was a surprise party, so far as the Superintendent was concerned, and the surprisers presented him with a handsome umbrella.

* * *

Bellevue Bible Class, Bellevue, Pa., sends us its roster of officers for 1911. They are as follows: L. L. Knox, President; Dr. A. R. Krewson, Vice-President; C. B. Walter, Secretary; A. E. Read, Treasurer; Dr. G. W. Gerwig, Instructor; J. F. Felton, Chairman Athletic Committee; E. S. Norton, Chairman Membership Committee; W. H. Jay, Chairman Absentee Committee; J. H. Stokes, Chairman Social Committee.

* * *

From J. O. Boyd, President L. B. D. C. No. 288, Keokuk, Iowa, comes a fine list of subscribers for CHRISTIAN MEN and a multiple order for the Brotherhood Bible Class, which was organized with the new year with an attendance of forty. The Executive Committee of the Bible Class, Messrs. Hostetter, Peterson and Bulman are deeply interested and much credit is due them for the success of the class.

* * *

The Brotherhood Bible Class at Sheridan, Ind., was organized four months ago with the following officers: A. B. Wheeler, President; Herbert Tapp, Vice-President; R. R. Williamson, Secretary and Treasurer; J. G. Antrim, Chorister; W. H. Cox, Chairman Devotional Committee; Jacob Pritsch, Chairman Membership Committee; C. E. Elliott, Chairman Social Committee; G. W. Scott, Teacher; Dr. E.

Young, Assistant Teacher. They now have membership of thirty, and almost the entire membership is present every Sunday morning. This is a class that is not only organized, but does things. They have a male chorus that can sing, and are at present working on an orchestra. The interest is so great that even once in a while the class has a session in a week. They expect to increase their membership to fifty or seventy-five, and get the regular attendance to the same figure within the next few months. The church here has recently completed a building which cost $18,000. The men were strongly behind the project. The class motto is "Better, Greater and Grand Things."

* * *

SUBPOENA.

Special Session of the Court of Officers and Teachers of the Norwood Avenue Bible School, Toledo, Ohio.

To You and Yours, Greeting:

We command you that all excuses be laid aside and that you, each and all of you, appear and attend the special Rally Day Services on the 25th day of September, 1910, at 9:45 o'clock in the forenoon, to testify to your interest in the work or to show cause, if any, why you should not be a regular and faithful member of one of the departments in our Bible School, and to enjoy the special program of this occasion. For failure to attend you will be deemed guilty of contempt of court, and you will miss the blessings and good fellowship of the occasion, and you will be liable to suffer the loss sustained thereby and to forfeit the sum of the forenoon's joys in addition thereto.

Witness my hand and seal this 23d day of September, 1910.

E. R. KIRKENDALL, Superintendent

BUCKNER'S BROTHERHOOD BIBLE CLASS.

L. Ackerman, Secretary of L. B. D. C. No. 248, Ashtabula, Ohio, remits local dues, orders for emblems, and writes: "We are doing a great work in Ashtabula. The men are taking great interest in advertising the church in the shop. We have cards in hotels, barber shops and street cars. We have just one men's class in our church, called Buckner's Brotherhood Bible Class, with an enrollment of two hundred and twenty and an attendance February 5th of one hundred and eighty-four. Next Sunday, February 12th, we start a contest with Doan, of Nelsonville, to run for twelve weeks. Two of their cards read as follows:

WE WANT TO DO YOU

GOOD
MEET THE

BUCKNER'S
BROTHERHOOD
BIBLE CLASS, 9:30 A. M. Sunday at CHURCH OF CHRIST

STOP! THINK!

WHY DON'T MEN GO TO CHURCH?
THEY DO

MORE MEN MEET AT BUCKNER'S
BROTHERHOOD BIBLE CLASS
THAN ANY OTHER PLACE IN TOWN
COME AND SEE

SUNDAY 9:30 A. M. CHURCH OF CHRIST
"THE PLACE FOR MEN"

from Bellevue, Pa., comes this delightful song dedicated to the Bellavben Bible Class. It is written by J. L. McKain and is entitled "Dear Old Bellavben." We regret that we cannot reproduce the music which Brother McKain has composed for the song, but we will print the dedicatory verse and the song as follows:

DEAR OLD BELLAVBEN.

With the hope of earthly gain I pen this little verse;
A song that's written with selfish aim will prove but a crushing curse.
Dr. Gerwig, and all you boys, I make it plain and terse,
It fills my soul with joy and pride, the way you all rehearse.
To the weak, nor faint of heart, doth victory belong,
A fight is not for the coward arm, but only the brave and strong;
O rally men for the cause of right and march with vigor on,
Bear aloft your standards bright and sing the victor's song, Bellavben—Bellavben.

Chorus.

Dear old Bellavben, the Bible and Liberty Will stand for our God, our Country and —Dear Bellavben—Bellavben.

Let us work for Christ our King,
Not for plaudits play.
A humble deed of an earnest heart
Will shine like a beacon ray.
Stand in hand with our faces front,
We march in glad array.
Remember then "A work for men
And done in a man's own way."
Bellavben—Bellavben.

Chorus.

L. B. D. C. No. 338, Ann Arbor, Mich., reports that they are very much pleased with their new ritual, which adds much to their interest in the Brotherhood. Their annual meeting will be held on the fourth Friday night in February. They are preparing to give the initiation to a few on that occasion. This will take place in the chapel above where their banquet is spread, and in the early evening, between seven and seven thirty, after which they will sojourn to the tables, there to meet the remainder of their invited guests and enjoy a fine supper, prepared by the Ladies' Aid Society, but for which the Brotherhood pays.

The practical manner in which this Brotherhood is doing its work is clearly set forth in their plan, which is as follows:

"We have made our Men's Bible Class, which is composed largely of Brotherhood men, the recruiting station for our Brotherhood. To do this, the Brotherhood has voted to make all regular members of the class, who are not Covenant members of the Brotherhood, associate members of the Brotherhood. Thus, on all social occasions, associate members can be present, and we can give them splendid times. As soon as our associate members prove to be of good moral character and sufficiently worthy, they are invited to become Covenant members of our Brotherhood; but not till then, and as you will notice by our by-laws, only then by the unanimous consent of all present when candidate presents himself for initiation.

"Later we expect to prepare another Ritual for all who sign the second covenant, and that is the goal to which we hope to lead every member. This plan will then give us three steps:

"1. Bible Class, free for all, and our recruiting station (of course we seek men outside of said class who are worthy to become members of Brotherhood).

"2. First Covenant Brotherhood.

"3. Second Covenant Brotherhood."

This Brotherhood also has printed ode cards, receipt cards, application cards and other printed matter which they have had prepared to meet their special needs. That a work so carefully handled will have a marked success goes without saying.

* * *

The following responsive reading was prepared by the late Ashley J. Elliott and given in all Sunday-schools of the Peoria Sunday-School Workers' Association, as a special temperance program, on Sunday, November 13th, the day of Mr. Elliott's funeral. The program itself is a splendid memorial to a splendid man, and we trust may be used by other organizations:

RESPONSIVE READING.

FACTS.

Superintendent: How many saloons are there in Peoria?

School: There are 300 saloons in Peoria.

Superintendent: How many public school buildings are there in Peoria?

Boys and Girls: There are 21 public school buildings in Peoria, with an enrollment of 8,800 pupils.

Superintendent: How many churches are there in Peoria?

School: There are 84 churches and missions in Peoria.

Superintendent: What is the purpose of our public schools?

All School Children: To educate and train our boys and girls for good citizenship.

Superintendent: What is the purpose of our churches?

All Christians: To bring all people to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ, and send them out to render service to God and man.

Superintendent: Why do some men say that the 300 saloons of Peoria should be run?

Men and Boys: That the city may have annually $120,000 license money and save taxes.

BUSINESS PROPOSITIONS.

Superintendent: Is the saloon business a paying financial proposition for the citizens of Peoria?

Men: Not when it is estimated that 75 per cent of the expense due to crime is the result of the presence of saloons.

Superintendent: As men with families increase their drink habit, does their trade with groceries, meat markets, dry goods stores, clothing stores, etc., increase or decrease?

Men and Boys: Statistics show that as men increase in their drinking habit, their trade is greatly diminished in every branch of business.

Superintendent: Does the drinking habit keep men from owning their own homes?

School: Our City Librarian says: "Turn the streams of money now pouring like Niagara down the throats of men in the form of beer and whiskey, into little homes, and you will help build up a greater Peoria."

Superintendent: What effect have the saloons of Peoria on our homes?

School: They rob many children of food and clothing, of comfortable homes, break mother hearts, disgrace families, and bring poverty, misery and suffering to hundreds of our citizens.

Superintendent: Does the saloon business increase crime and immorality?

School: The testimony of the police, city officers and presiding judges is, that the saloon business is the direct cause of three-fourths of our crime.

Superintendent: Who pays for the home additional expense to prosecute criminals, to maintain jails, penitentiaries, almshouses, and care for paupers and dependent children, three-fourths of which our saloons are responsible for?

Men: Our taxpayers.

Superintendent: Which helps the home in Peoria most; money spent for whiskey, wine, beer and liquor, or that spent for food, clothing, building material, books and necessities and comforts of life?

Children: Close the saloons and give our children more food and clothing, a better education and happier homes.

Superintendent: Which is the best financial investment, money spent in saloons, or money invested in our building and loan associations, deposited in our banks and put in city property for homes?

Men: We believe the money spent in saloons is worse than lost and advise the investment in real values that bring good returns.

Superintendent: What do labor unions think of the saloon?

Men and Boys: The United Mine Workers' organization forbids its members to use intoxicants even at a picnic.

Superintendent: What does their expert say?

School: John Mitchell says: "The average working man has no money to spend on drink without robbing his family."

Superintendent: If we could get rid of 300 saloons in Peoria, would it hurt business, deprive men of employment, and injure the city financially?

Men and Boys: The crops in surrounding territory would be just as great, the yield per acre would not be affected, the mines would produce just as much coal, the gardens would be just as fruitful and money now spent on drink would be spent for food, clothing, home comforts and property.

Superintendent: If we could rid ourselves of saloons, what effect would it have on drunkenness, crime and poverty?

Men: Elsewhere it has greatly reduced.

Superintendent: What did the wisest man that ever lived say about strong drink?

School: King Solomon said, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

Shots From Shellenberger

ing to illness during the greater part of ary the number of shots fired did not juseven an echo in the February magazine;
ere we are, back at our post, almost as d as ever.

January 1st—The morning of New Year's found us in Cleveland, Ohio, inquiring way to Collinwood. At 10:30 we walked the church. The pastor, M. L. Buckley, eyed and anxious, was just beginning the ces. A good congregation was present listened attentively to the Brotherhood osition. Many were the assurances at the of the services that Collinwood would a Brotherhood as soon as possible.

ewood is a beautiful suburb in West side land. W. S. Goode is pastor of a wide-e church and with a great opportunity.
were already contemplating an organiza-
Since it was New Year's night and rain-representation of men was not large, number subscribed for the magazine and expressed a determination to get in line

January 2d—No blue Monday among Cleve-preachers. The monthly meeting of the les' Ministerial Association was the oc-of twenty of them gathering at the Y.
A. at 10 a. m. Pursuant to a promise ur months' standing the Secretary read aper of the day on Brotherhood work.
irited quiz followed the reading, and eon and good fellowship ended the morn-work.

January 3d—And out on Hiram Hill. This home of State President M. E. Baker. is where the irrepressible John Pounds his poet wife, Jessie Brown Pounds, keep boiling and bubbling until the whole hip is ready to "draw off" on short notice.
was S. H. Bartlett, with his sleeves his elbows, wrapped in a canvas apron with printer's ink behind his ears, busy
Ohio Harbinger. Here was Presi-Bates enrolling the largest number of ts Hiram has had for a number of years, dding fair to be the largest ever. Here
Professors Dean, Bancroft, Peckham, to and Hall, just a little silvered in ws, but as young as twenty years ago; and ody and Hays and others of lesser years, thusiastic and optimistic for Hiram's un. A conference with President Baker ning future work in Ohio was the occa-
f our visit.

January 4th—When Cleveland stirs up a it does it with the same vigor it displays log everything else. But, notwithstanding wizzing blizzard, the Glenville Church, er O. L. Hull is pastor, gathered fifty on. Women as well as men braved the
th. A Brotherhood was organized and magazine was placed in their homes. They their first regular meeting February 6th.

Brother Hull tells us that it was the largest and most enthusiastic men's meeting Glenville ever had. The men have undertaken definite work and are happy in their undertaking.

January 5th—Franklin Circle, Cleveland Local Brotherhood, had just closed a campaign for 150 members. Brother David Teachout is a real President. His men are at work and are doing things. The 150 members had become a reality. They voted to affiliate with the National Brotherhood and added twenty-one to the magazine subscription list. Brother Rothenberger, pastor, has his men well organized for personal evangelism, and was planning a special campaign for men in the interest of the evangelistic services to be begun the following Lord's Day.

January 6th—And we are in Buffalo with Elliott, Madden, Lewis and Kline, and the Team Work campaign is on. Sufficient has been written about this great meeting, hence we pass it by.

January 7th and 8th ended the work of the Secretary for three weeks. These dates were spent at Uniontown, Pa. Uniontown is a great church. It has a great Brotherhood. One hundred men gathered in banquet on Saturday evening. J. Walter Carpenter is generalissimo of this splendid force, and is directing it with efficiency. On Sunday morning we attended the Bible School and preached the morning sermon. This is one of the best organized Bible Schools among the Disciples of Christ, and is doing exceedingly practical work.

January 9th found the Secretary in the throes of grippe, and there he remained until January 29th. Chills and fever, and aches and pains are all alike, no matter who has them.
The readers of CHRISTIAN MEN need no dissertation on or analysis of the grippe. Our sincere advise is "don't hasten to familiarize yourself with it in any way."

January 29th—H. E. Stafford at Massilon, Ohio, has a real Brotherhood. It proved itself this stormy Sunday night. Notwithstanding the pouring rain, about sixty men filled the center row of seats in the auditorium. It was their anniversary. The Secretary made the address of the evening. When he got into the pulpit he missed Stafford. To his right and left and rear were men—Graybill and Mollet and others just as good whose names we do not at this moment recall, but no Stafford.
Searching the room for him we at last located him down among his men, peeking around the broad shoulders of the man in front of him. Brotherhood men led the singing, formed the male quartette, announced the hymns, led in prayer, read the Scriptures, played the pipe organ, made the announcements—did everything but make the address, and Pastor Stafford sat back and looked comfortable. Mas-silon has the right idea of a Brotherhood—the development of its local talent. They are workers and enjoy to the limit their work.

February 1st—Throopsville, N. Y., is a suburb of Auburn, and D. H. Bradbury, the pastor, is a jolly bachelor. He entertained the Secretary with home-made cooking, in Waldorf-Astoria style. But he came the colored man's trick on calling his bill of fare. Said he: "What do you prefer to drink—tea or coffee?"

"Coffee, if you please," said the Secretary.

"Oh, shucks; I haven't got any coffee," was his unblushing reply. "Take tea."

Twenty-six men attended the Throopsville meeting. They subscribed for CHRISTIAN MEN as a lesson help and steps were taken looking to a Brotherhood organization.

February 2d—C. R. Stauffer is Corresponding Secretary of New York State, and pastor of Rolland Street Church, Syracuse, and the Rolland Street Church is a bundle of enthusiasm. They have been doing things, and, like the fellow running from the ghost, as soon as they get their breath they are going to do some more.

There were twenty men present. Eighteen took the covenant. They subscribed for the magazine and made an offering to the Brotherhood cause.

Brother Stauffer also has his boys organized. He has promised CHRISTIAN MEN a write-up of the excellent work they are doing, and also a picture of the boys.

A personal evangelism committee was appointed the night of organization. A week later Brother Stauffer wrote: "Last Sunday was a great day among our men and boys. Glad you brought the Brotherhood to us."

February 3d—and at Central Church, Syracuse. Here is where Arthur Braden ministers, and this is also the church home of C. G. Vanwormer, long prominent in the Men's League of New York State. The attendance was small, and the matter of organization was deferred. A number of subscriptions to the magazine were taken.

February 5—Williamsville is a suburb of Buffalo—an hour's ride by trolley. But when the power goes off it takes longer. Brother L. M. Moody is pastor. Owing to the intense cold the attendance was not large, and the matter of organization was laid over.

February 6th—Dunkirk is without a pastor. It is also a mission of the A. C. M. S. and the N. Y. C. M. S. W. R. Chase is the Erie freight agent and elder of the church. He is leading the church in this non-pastoral interim. Thirteen men were present. Ten of them took the covenant and an organization was effected. They subscribed for the magazine and organized a plan for doubling the membership before the next meeting.

February 7th—Hull Brothers are in a good meeting with H. A. Baker, pastor of Forest Avenue Church, Buffalo. The men's meeting was held following the evangelistic services. Notwithstanding the lateness of the hour twenty-two men remained. Twenty-two took the covenant, and each took an extra card, determining to get another before their next meeting. This is the home of R. A. Willard. Willard is a hustler. Whenever you get in his vicinity you find things doing. He was appointed Chairman of Committee of Organization. Brother Baker, the pastor, is a choice spirit, and is doing a good work.

February 8th—In Auburn once more the first man we saw on stepping off the train was Bachelor Bradbury again. He wears a smile that won't come off, and has a heart as warm as the heart beneath his bosom. Brother Parvin was there, too. Brother Parvin is pastor of Auburn Church. He and Bradbury are old Eureka classmates, and both are taking the seminary course in Auburn Theological Seminary. There were twenty men at the meeting of the Auburn Church. Fourteen took the covenant, and an organization was effected. Brother Parvin has been in this field only two months, but he has his work exceedingly well in hand. His men are optimistic for the work under his leadership and are ready to follow him.

February 9th—Niagara Falls is in a meeting. B. W. Blair, pastor of North Tonawanda, was doing the preaching. Mr. Butler, the opera basso converted by Chapman and Anderson, was leading the singing. The house was filled and interest good. A men's meeting was called after the evangelistic services were over. Niagara Falls has an active Brotherhood. Many men were interested in the evangelistic campaign. At this meeting much interest was engendered, and a social time followed. C. Prewett is the pastor, and is leading his men into larger things. J. D. Barnhart is President of the Brotherhood.

February 10th—Roy E. Deadman is the pastor of Glenwood Avenue, Buffalo. He has been the Mission of the Jefferson Church, Buffalo. Glenwood has done a great deal of work in the last two years. Now Brother Deadman is making an effort to arouse the men. They gave him a surprise party the day before (February 9), and stayed through the wee hours of the morning. They subscribed for thirty copies of CHRISTIAN MEN for the Men's Bible Class, and are planning to organize a Brotherhood in the near future.

February 11th—Wellsville, N. Y., is a town down among the hills and suggests quiet, comfort and contentment every way you look. The people are comfortable and contented. It was a jolly and noisy bunch that gathered around the banquet table this Saturday. There were fifty-six of them. The Ladies' Class served the meal. State President Lindsay accompanied the Secretary on his trip. His reputation at a banquet table preceded him. It is said that Lindsay can convert more chicken into religious action than any preacher in the state. The ladies prepared—fried chicken, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, jellies, ice cream, and—oh, ever so many other things. Lindsay did a man's work in a man's way. And there were others. It came the program. It must have been interesting, for not a man went to sleep, notwithstanding ten minutes of Sunday morning came and gone before the Secretary said his last word.

the Bible School Band (twenty pieces) gave concert in the beginning of the evening, and orchestra played when the men were eating. Band and orchestra are led by Mrs. Ham- one time cornet soloist in the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

At the close of the evening thirty-two men took the covenant. They had already begun work of Brotherhood organization. This has brought Wellsville into line and into fellowship in the Brotherhood movement.

Wellsville is the home of Paul B. Hanks—"Irrepressible Paul," they call him in New York. He is in every good thing and behind every good work. We have never seen a man who has conducted Bible School than this one, and which Brother Hanks is Superintendent.

Wellsville is also the home of Brother Kerr, the inventor of the Kerr turbine engine, graduate of Hoboken and Cornell, and one time professor in Armour Institute of Technology. He returned to Wellsville for the purpose of putting his engine on the market.

And the pastor of this flock is C. N. Filson. Now, Filson has two hands and two feet, like most others of his species, but he has his peculiarities, to-wit: The Secretary had just reached the Fasset House when a block of actual sunshine came through the hotel entrance. It made direct for him. On close acquaintance we discovered it was Filson's face. It always shines. This is why he has gathered so many men about him. They follow him just because they like to.

February 11th—The Secretary spoke twice at Wellsville. Fine audiences at both services.

February 12th—Kensington Church, Buffalo, is a Mission of the N. Y. C. M. S. Brother D. C. Tremaine is pastor. The work is two years old. They have succeeded in building a splendid house of worship and are located in a growing residence district. A great opportunity lies at their feet. There were ten at the meeting and ten took the covenant. An organization was effected, and twenty-five copies of CHRISTIAN MEN were placed in the Bible School.

Programs for Local Brotherhoods

MARCH—Second Program.

The Creation and Administration of Wealth

Devotional.

Music—Instrumental.
Hymn.

Prayer.

Repeat the Covenant.
Hymn, or special music.

Business.

Reports of committees.
Finished business.
New business.

Recess.

Special time (not more than 20 minutes).
Introduction of strangers by Membership Committee.
Payment of dues.

Cultural.

Music.
Address—"The Duty of the Individual toward the Creation of Wealth."

Discussion—(1) "Private Property vs. Genuine Manhood as a Nation's Assets." (2) "The Modern Methods of Creating Private Fortunes."

Address—"Is Mr. Carnegie's Method of Administration for the Good of All?"

Address—"The Responsibility of Us Average Men in the Administration of OUR wealth (muscle, brains and heart)."

Music.

Debate.

Resolved, That real men without money are more valuable to the Kingdom than money without real men."

Resolved, That the idle rich are a serious menace to our nation's welfare."

"Resolved, That the world is learning its lesson, and that riches are ministering to the world's wealth more than ever before."

VI.—Open Discussion.

Was James right when he said: "The LOVE of money was the root of all evil?" How? Why?

Closing hymn.
Benediction.

Note—Good Things to Read.

I. The current magazines.

"The Passing of the Idle Rich," in Everybody's (February), is especially helpful.

Cosmopolitan (March) shows the power of Mormon riches.

II. Books.

"Profit of the Many," by E. T. Root. A discussion from the scriptural standpoint.

"Toward the Light," by Lewis H. Berens, 1903.

"Outlook for the Average Man," by Albert Shaw.

"Social Service," by Louis P. Post.

These can be found in the department of "Economics" in all up-to-date public libraries.

"Wealth consists of all objects ministering to human wants, which are produced by human labor." Riches signify private property. This distinguishes our use of the word "Wealth" from mere "Riches." "The production of wealth, thus defined, is not a mere incident in our life, as is getting rich; but it is the task for which we have been placed on earth!"

"The New Testament teaches the redemption of the body as well as the soul; the redemption of the earth as well as its inhabitants." "We can not separate God from His universe. He is Immanent as well as Transcendent."

"The end of human life is not animal enjoyment, but the conquest of the earth!" He whose life fails to add to the sum total of "wealth" has made a failure in his living.

Hence from the divine standpoint we are responsible for the creation of "wealth." "Profit of the Many," by E. J. Root.

To us is committed the administration of this wealth so that it may do the largest good to all. Of him to whom little is given is little required; but that little is surely required of him to whom much is given is much required and that much is certainly required.

This gives us a common point of view. This viewpoint is this suggestive program written. J. K.

APRIL—First Program.

Prepared by THOS. W. GRAFTON

The Brotherhood Easter Evangelistic Campaign

A Week of Prayer and Plans for Men and the Kingdom.

(Note:—At the "Men and Religion Forward Movement" conference in Buffalo last October, it was urged that an effort be made "to secure the personal acceptance of Jesus Christ by the individual manhood and boyhood of our times." To bring this about in a large way, it recommended an eight-day campaign to be regarded as "First, an appeal to men and boys of the community to make personal choice of Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior; and second, an appeal to the entire Christian Discipleship as never before, to dedicate time and talent and property to the service of the Kingdom." As preliminary to this great movement which is sure to result in an aroused Christian manhood in America, we recommend, where practicable, the observance of the week before Easter as a week of prayer and evangelism by men for men, by the Brotherhoods of Disciples of Christ, in a series of meetings for men and boys and suggest that the following program be carried out as nearly as possible.)

Sunday Evening, April 9th, Sermon by the Pastor.

Subject: "The Appeal of Christianity to the Manhood of America."

Men's chorus leading the song service.

Monday Evening, April 10th, Prayer for Men, that they may realize the value and power of personal consecration.

Subject: "The Ministry of Redeemed Manhood Winning Lost Men."

The following topics are suggestive and may be discussed in five minute talks:

"Every Saved Man a Soul Winner."

"Preparation for Personal Work."

"Why Men Need Christ."

Closing with a personal invitation to men to accept Christ.

Tuesday Evening, April 11th, Prayer for Boys, that they may be safeguarded from present-day perils and come into their heritage of true manhood.

Subject: "The Boy's Right to the Example and Counsel of a Christian Father."

Topics for discussion:

"Our Responsibility as Big Boys."

"You Had a Christian Father—Your Boy is Entitled to One."

"Save the Boy by Becoming His Best Friend."

General discussion and invitation.

Wednesday Evening, April 12, General Prayer Meeting, in charge of the Brotherhood.

Subject: "How to Make a Christian That Will Appeal to Strong Men."

Topics for short talks:

"Why Men Do Not Go to Church."

"The Preaching that Reaches Men."

"Definite Work for Men to Do."

General discussion and invitation.

Thursday Evening, April 13th, Prayer for the Brotherhood and Its Leaders, that they may lead in a new religious era for men.

Subject: "Gethsemane—A Lesson from the Meeting Life's Disappointment."

Topics for short talks:

"Jesus in the Garden and What He Teaches Us."

"Dark Days and How to Overcome Them."

"Letting God Have His Own Way With Us."

General Discussion and Invitation.

Friday Evening, April 14th, Prayer for the appointed and Discouraged Men.

Subject: "The Way of the Cross—An Appeal to Masculine Heroism."

Topics for short talks:

"The Heroism of Christ on the Cross."

"The Place of the Cross in Men's Discipleship."

"Christianity, an Appeal to Men's Heroism."

General Discussion and Invitation.

Sunday, April 16th, Sermon.

"The Victory Over the Grave, a Lesson of Triumph."

Brotherhood chorus leading the service.

Bible School Lessons for March

Prepared by P. H. Welshimer

LESSON 2—MARCH 12.

"ELISHA THE PROPHET RESTORES A CHILD TO LIFE."—2 KINGS 4:25-37.

American Revised

P. H. WELSHIMER

25 So she went and came unto the man of God to Mount Carmel.

And it came to pass, when the man of God saw her afar off, that he said to Gehazi his servant, Behold, yonder is the Shunammite: 26 run, I pray thee, now to meet her, and say unto her, Is it well with thee? is it well with thy husband? is it well with the child? And she answered, It is well. 27 And when she came to the man of God to the hill, she caught hold of his feet. And Gehazi came near to thrust her away; but the man of God said, Let her alone: for her soul is vexed within her; and Jehovah hath hid it from me, and hath not told me. 28 Then she said, Did I desire a son of my lord? did I not say, Do not deceive me? 29 Then he said to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand, and go thy way; if thou meet any man, salute him not; and if any salute thee, answer him not again; and lay my staff upon the face of the child. 30 And the mother of the child said, As Jehovah liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And he arose, and followed her. 31 And Gehazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child; but there was neither voice, nor hearing. Wherefore he returned to meet him, and told him, saying, The child is not awaked.

32 And when Elisha was come into the house, behold the child was dead, and laid upon his bed. 33 He went in therefore, and shut the door upon them twain, and prayed unto Jehovah. 34 And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands; and he stretched himself upon him; and the flesh of the child waxed warm. 35 Then he returned, and walked in the house once to and fro; and went up, and stretched himself upon him; and the child sneezed seven times, and the child opened his eyes. 36 And he called Gehazi, and said, Call this Shunammite. So he called her. And when she was come in unto him, he said, Take up thy son. 37 Then she went in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground; and she took up her son, and went out.

Time. About 896 B. C. Place. Shunem and Mt. Carmel.

Golden Text. "The free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord." Rom. 6:22.

Introduction. Shunem was opposite Mt. Gilboa, in the plains of Esdraelon, four miles distant from Jezreel. It was a village of farmers, sixteen miles from Mt. Carmel. Mt. Carmel was a place of worship. Here Elisha conducted services. Kings 2:25. We now begin the study of Elisha, a very important character. He was the successor to Elijah. On him the mantle of the old prophet had fallen. To know the important events in his life, read 2 Kings, chapters 2 to 8. We here have the account of the prophet's mantle purifying the fountain, the story of the irreverent gang, the borrowed oil jars, the Shunem woman, the healing of Naaman, and the heavenly defenders. Read second Kings 4:8-25 for an introduction to today's lesson. In this we have an account of the hospitable home in Shunem being open to Elijah and his servant, Gehazi. This was a well-to-do, religious family. A room was set apart for the prophet and furnished for his convenience. As he toured the country in his work, he always stopped at Shunem, when passing. The greatest sorrow in the life of an oriental woman is to be childless. This woman did not desire to be introduced into the society of the king's court; her husband desired no position in the kingdom. They lived quietly and at peace with all the neighborhood and were contented. Elisha interceded with the Lord, and to this woman a son was given. Today's lesson tells of his death and restoration to life.

Explanatory. 25—So she went. Elisha was at Mt. Carmel. When the boy died, the mother planned at once to see the man of God, believing he could restore the child to life. Gehazi, the servant of Elisha, as Elisha had been the servant of Elijah. Shunammite. The woman's name is not given. She was named from the village in which she lived. 26—Run—to meet her. This was a friend of Elisha. He was interested in her and her family. His interest was manifest in sending his servant to greet her.

27—Caught hold of his feet. She had not told Gehazi of her trouble, but had simply courteously brushed him aside, by saying, "It is well." She did not go into detail, but now when she meets her friend, Elisha, she falls at his feet, and Elisha knew her sorrow. 28—Then she said. She had not asked for a son, but he had been given at the request of Elisha; why then should he be taken from her? 29—Said to Gehazi. The servant was to go speedily, not to loiter on the way, and lay the staff, the symbol of power of the prophet, upon the face of the child. 30—"I will not leave thee." The mother had more faith in Elisha than in the servant; it was he she desired to go to see the child. 31—The child is not awaked. Gehazi's efforts were fruitless. 32-34—Shut the door—and prayed. Elisha was a man of prayer. He thus communed with God and asked for help. 35—Walked in the house once to and fro. A prayer was offered; he had stretched himself upon the child, now in his excited and nervous condition, he walks back and forth, then again to the room of the child and stretched himself upon him again, and the child sneezed seven times and again opened his eyes. 36-37—"Take up thy son." What a happy home. The child was dead, but now lives again. How grateful this mother must have been to the man of God, who was a help in time of need.

Lessons from the Lesson

Hospitality was again rewarded. By opening a room to the man of God, he had interceded for this good woman of Shunem, and the Lord had given her a child. Again when death came, the man of God was a friend of the family and through his intercession the little child was restored to life. Here was also a contented woman, and when an opportunity was given to receive favors from the king, preferred the quiet of her country home, replying that, "I dwell among mine own people." In the time of need, she went to the right source for help. She was unwilling to accept a substitute for the man of God. There was no parleying or delaying the matter of going to see the prophet. To delay might have been disastrous. The child was dead and she hoped to have him restored the life of the child, and she went at once. If eternal hope is to be prized more highly than this earth life, and we love our children, would it not seem reasonable that one would be just as anxious about having a soul prepare for the life that is to come as to have this life prolonged? If all parents would make speed in endeavoring to save their children, how quickly the world would be brought to the foot of the cross. As there was happiness in the home in Shunem when the child was restored, so there will be happiness in the heavenly home.

Questions for Class Use

Where is Shunem? Where is Carmel? Who was Elisha? Who was Gehazi? Why was miraculous power given to Elisha? In what country was he the prophet? What is the great lesson which this lesson teaches?

LESSON 3—MARCH 19.

"DEFEAT THROUGH DRUNKENNESS."—TEMPERANCE LESSON—1 KINGS 20:12-21.

Read all of First Kings 20.

12 And it came to pass, when Ben-hadad heard this message, as he was drinking, he and the kings, in the pavilions, that he said unto his servants, Set yourselves in array. And they set themselves in array against the city.

13 And, behold, a prophet came near unto Ahab king of Israel, and said, Thus saith Jehovah, Hast thou seen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thy hand this day; and thou shalt know that I am Jehovah. 14 And Ahab said, By whom? And he said, Thus saith Jehovah, By the young men of the princes of the provinces. Then he said, Who shall begin the battle? And he answered, Thou. 15 Then he mustered the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty-two: and after them he mustered all the people, even all the children of Israel, being seven thousand.

16 And they went out at noon. But Ben-hadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him. 17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out first; and Ben-hadad sent out, and they told him, saying, There are men come out from Samaria. 18 And he said, Whether they are come out for peace take them alive; or whether they are come out for war, take them alive. 19 So these went out of the city, the young men of the princes of the provinces, and the army which followed them. 20 And they slew every one his man; and the Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria escaped on a horse with horsemen. 21 And the king of Israel went out, and smote the horses and chariots, and slew the Syrians with a great slaughter.

Time. 907 B. C. Place. Samaria.

Golden Text. "It is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes, strong drink." Prov. 31:4.

Introduction. This lesson goes back a few years to the time of Ahab. Ahab was king of Israel, Jehoshaphat of Judah and Ben-hadad the second, of Damascus and Syria. Ben-hadad had brought thirty-two kings of the smaller tribes that were allied to his kingdom, destroyed the villages and farms of Israel and had driven the people out of the fortified towns. The invading army desired the wealth of Israel. Ben-hadad made an insolent demand of Ahab, that he give to him his throne, his silver and gold, his wives and the children, even the best of all he had. Ahab, an unusually weak king replied, "My lord, O! king, according to thy saying, I am thine and all that I have." Later Ben-hadad sent messengers, notifying Ahab that his officers would soon come and search his house and those of his officers. A conference was called, the leading people were consulted, and they agreed to not yield to Ben-hadad. Ben-hadad carried things a little too far. Ben-hadad was so positive of victory that he boasted that his army was so large that the dust to which Samaria would be ground would not be sufficient to give each soldier a handful. Ahab said, "Let not him that leeth on his armor, boast himself, as he that putteth it off," hence a siege was ordered, and preparations were now made for the attack and defense.

Explanatory. 12—Ben-hadad and his thirty-two kings were living in little booths, when the command came to set themselves in array against the city. When Ahab's message was delivered, showing he proposed to not yield to all the demands of the Syrian king, the kings were drunk, they were in a poor state of mind to prepare for the siege. Drunkenness makes senseless demands, and a drunken man is in a poor state of mind to prepare for battle. 13—God's eye was upon the nations and their kings. One of God's prophets notifies Ahab that God is with him, and the great army of the enemy shall be vanquished, and Ahab would be made to know that Jehovah was God. 14—The princes, who were administrators over separate districts, have been driven into Samaria by Ben-hadad. 15—The attack of Ben-hadad was sudden, and many of the warriors of Israel were unable to get within the wall of Samaria, hence the smallness of the army of Ahab. 16—At noon, shortly after which, in that country, the leaders would be taking a nap, Ahab sought to take them by surprise. Ben-hadad, considering the task of taking Samaria a very small affair, was giving very little heed to it, but was drinking himself drunk. 17—Ben-hadad drunk, was poorly prepared for battle, notwithstanding his large army. The young men under Ahab were upon him when he knew it. Drunken Ben-hadad violated all the rules of warfare in commanding his young men to be taken whether they came for peace or for war. 19-21—An army of 7,000 put to rout the Syrian forces with all their allies. The battle was to be as a hand to hand fight, each of the 232 young men slaying the man opposite him. The Syrians were panic-stricken and fled.

Comments on the Lesson

Every boy and girl who was trained at Hawarden Castle was, at the request of Mr. Edystone, compelled to learn by heart the following: "Drunkenness expels reason, clouds the memory, distempers the body, defaces beauty, diminishes strength, inflames the blood, causes internal, external and incurable wounds and is a witch to the senses. It is a devil to the soul, a thief to the purse and a beggar's companion. It is a wife's sorrow and the children's sorrow. It makes a man become a beast and a self-murderer. He drinks to others' good health and robs himself of his own."—National Advocate. The cost of liquors each year in this country is given by the "American Grocer" as nearly one billion four hundred millions of dollars. Gen. F. D. Grant, the son of U. S. Grant, has said, "If I could by offering my body as a sacrifice, free this country from this fell cancer, the demon, drink, I would thank the Almighty for the privilege of doing it. If I had the greatest appointive power in the country, no man would get a the smallest appointment from me unless he showed proof of his absolute teetotalism." Billy Sunday says, "The only difference between the so-called respectable man and the dive, is that one smells bad and the other stinks." How can a man stand before men and profess to be a believer in and a follower of Jesus Christ and yet vote for one of the most hellish, most damnable, soul-destroying institutions on God's green earth—the American saloon? If every Christian man would cry out against it with all his soul and strike it with all his strength, the victory would speedily be won.

Questions for Class Use

How many kings were engaged in this battle? Who was the king of Israel? Of Syria? Of Damascus? What demands did Ben-hadad make of Ahab? What was Ahab's attitude towards Ben-hadad? Why this attitude? What was Ahab's greatest weakness? How did Ahab win the victory? What was one of the causes of Ben-hadad's defeat?

LESSON 4—MARCH 26.

REVIEW.

Golden Text. "Happy is that people whose God is the Lord."

The subjects for the quarter have been as follows:

"The Kingdom Divided." 1 Kings 12:1-24.

"Jeroboam makes idols for Israel to worship." 1 Kings 12:25;13:6.

"Asa's Good reign in Judah." 2 Chron. 15:1-15.

"Omri and Ahab lead Israel into greater sin." 1 Kings 16:15-33.

"Jehoshaphat's good reign in Judah." 2 Chron. 17:1-13.

"Elijah the prophet appears in Israel." 1 Kings 17:1-24.

"Elijah's victory over the prophets of Baal." 1 Kings 18:1-40.

"Elijah's flight and return." 1 Kings 18:41;19-21.

"Elijah meets Ahab in Naboth's vineyard." 1 Kings 21:1-29.

"Elijah goes up by a whirlwind into heaven." 2 Kings 2:1-18.

"Elisha, the prophet restores a child to life." 2 Kings 4:8-37.

"Defeat through drunkenness." 1 Kings 20:12-21.

Questions on the Quarter

How large was the kingdom of Judah? How large was Israel? What was capital of each? Which was an idolatrous kingdom? What caused the division of kingdom? Which had the greatest material wealth—Judah or Israel?

Who. Who was Rehoboam? Jeroboam? Adoram? Ahijah? Asa? Azariah? Omri? Ahab? Jezebel? Jehoshaphat? Elijah? Elisha? Naboth? Ben-hadad?

What. What happened at Jerusalem during the lessons of the quarter? Shechem? Dan? Bethel? Samaria? Cherith? Zarephat? Mt. Carmel? Jezreel? Beersheba? Horeb? Gilgal? Jericho? Shunem?

What miracles were performed by the prophets of God in these lessons?

LESSON 1—APRIL 1.

"ELISHA HEALS NAAMAN, THE SYRIAN."—2 KINGS 5:1-14.

Read Second Kings, chapters 3 to 5.

5 Now Naaman, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honorable, because by him Jehovah had given victory unto Syria: he was also a mighty man of valor, but he was a leper. 2 And the Syrians had gone out in bands, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maiden; and she waited on Naaman's wife. 3 And she said unto her mistress, Would that my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! then would he recover him of his leprosy. 4 And one went in, and told his lord, saying, Thus and thus said the maiden that is of the land of Israel. 5 And the king of Syria said, Go now, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel. And he departed, and took with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment. 6 And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, And now when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have sent Naaman my servant to thee, that thou mayst recover him of his leprosy. 7 And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy? but consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me.

8 And it was so, when Elisha the man of God heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel. 9 So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariots, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha. 10 And Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and wash in the Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean. 11 But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and said, Behold, I thought, He will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of Jehovah his God, and wave his hand over the place, and recover the leper. 12 Are the rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? may I not wash in them and be clean? So he turned and went away in a rage. 13 And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldst thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean? 14 Then went Naaman down, and dipped himself seven times in the Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God; and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean.

Time. About 897 B. C. Place. Damascus, Samaria and the river Jordan.

Golden Text. "Look unto me and be ye saved all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else." Isa. 45:22.

Introduction. Elisha's miracles are noted for their helpfulness. Today we study one that is most gracious. A favor was bestowed upon a Syrian general that he might know that Jehovah was God. Leprosy was incurable except by miracle. Like it must be treated from above. Like it too, the victim feels no pain at its beginning and often has the disease a long time before he realizes it. It is contagious and loathsome. All have sinned and come short of the glory of God. As God cured the leprosy of Naaman, so he can cure all men of sin. "Look unto me and ye shall be saved."

Explanatory. 1—Naaman, the commander in chief of the Syrian army under Ben-hadad the second. He had gained renown by freeing his country, but with all his renown and his valor, one sentence mars his life, "He was a leper." This meant racism and death. 2-3—Fortunate for Naaman that in one of the marauding tours, a little Israelitish girl had been captured and now waited upon his wife. The child did not forget her God, nor the prophet in Israel. 4—A drowning man will grasp at a straw. Naaman believed the little maid, and prepared to go to Israel. 5—The Syrian king was interested and desired to save the life of his general. He wrote a letter of introduction to the king of Israel. This shows the kings were at peace. He supposed that Israel's king would also be familiar with the cures being effected in his own kingdom. He sent $18,000 in silver and about $36,000 in gold, and ten changes of raiment. 6—Naaman, with his retinue of servants, entered his chariot and drove over a hundred miles to Samaria and delivered his letter to Israel's king. Ben-hadad supposed that the prophet was attached to the king's court, hence could easily be seen when this letter was procured. 7—Israel's king supposed Ben-hadad desired to consult him, thinking that he was a god, who could cure leprosy. It is evident the king was not in close touch with Elisha. 8—The news reached Elisha that the king, Jehoram, had rent his clothes. He sent for Naaman to be brought to him. 9—Elisha did not even go out to meet Naaman. The great general and his servants awaited the coming of the prophet, expecting great honor to be shown him. Elisha simply sent a message and said, "Go wash in the Jordan seven times and thy flesh shall come again to thee and thou shalt be clean." What a simple thing to do—drive twenty-five miles down to the Jordan and wash and be healed. It was plain, but the plan did not suit Naaman. 11—In his rage, he drove away, feeling he had been insulted. He expected great pomp and display, that the prophet would rub his hand over his leprous spots, calling on Jehovah to heal him. 12—He here mentions the rivers of Damascus, clear waters were they. Had the cure been attributed to the water, Naaman would have been right, but the cure was from God, not in the stream. 13—Wise servants have often saved a man. It was so here. They first reasoned with him. He was dependent, and the only safe thing for him was to do what the prophet had commanded. He had time to reason and come to his second, wiser senses, and he obeyed. 14—Through his obedience, doing exactly what the prophet commanded, as he commanded and where he commanded, a cure was effected and Naaman returned happy.

Lessons from the Lessons

Naaman was a great man, but he was a leper. Leprosy is a type of sin. We look upon many a man today and say he is great, but the leprosy of sin is there. Leprosy was incurable, except as God cured. Sin is incurable, except as God cures. A good suit of clothes, soap and water, change of occupation and change of climate does not cure sin. Nothing but the blood of Christ can do it. A little child was one of the agents that helped to bring about the cure. She could not cure her master, but she could deliver the message that started him on the way to find a cure. Little children today do much in bringing fathers and mothers and others to the Christ. "A little child shall lead them." Little children are in earnest. They are never ashamed, they do not forget. Teaching older ones is often in vain, but he who teaches the child teaches not in vain. Naaman was a man who could not have his own way. What a beautiful system he would have had in bringing about this cure. God's ways are not as men's ways, nor his thoughts as men's thoughts. Naaman would have had an easy thing done. The prophet would simply raise his hand and call upon the name of the Lord, and the deed would be done, but when asked to do some hard thing, he rebelled. Men rebel today in exactly the same way. Many a man has a finely spun theory as to what he will do to have life eternal, just as though he could decide or could formulate a plan whereby he might be forgiven. It is for God to enact his laws and give commands. It is for men to humbly and perfectly obey. Elisha gave a positive command in plain language, that Naaman could easily understand it. Nothing impossible was demanded; so God deals with men today. It is a matter of faith. Naaman was to do what he was commanded to do and God would do what he had promised to do. To bathe once, twice or any number of times less than seven would not bring the results. To be cured, he must do exactly what had been commanded and do it in the way in which he was commanded. When the general complied with all the conditions, the blessing that was promised upon such compliance was secured. The same is true today in our deliverance from sin. It was not in the water that the healing was procured. Had the water done it, all the lepers of Israel and Judah would have been cured. It was in the act or obedience that Naaman was blessed, so in the baptismal waters of today, the healing lies not in the water, but in the obedience to the commands of our Lord. We simply meet the Lord where He has promised to meet us. Our baptism is simply an act of the mind to which the body submits.

Questions for Class Use

Who was Naaman? Where did he live? Who was his king? Who was king of Israel? Describe the leprosy. In what way is leprosy a type of sin? What was the object of this miracle? What is the analogy between the healing of Naaman and the New Testament plan of redemption?

¶ If you have a successful Men's Bible Class or Classes, organize them into a Brotherhood. You must DO as well as teach. The Brotherhood is the DOING part of the combination.

¶ If you have a successful Brotherhood, organize them into a Bible Class or Classes or get them all into the existing Classes. You cannot make one man strong without the Bible and you cannot make a Brotherhood strong without it.

¶ The Brotherhood will help the Bible Class.

¶ The Bible Class will help the Brotherhood.

¶ Each will strengthen the other—each will develop forces which will be wasted if the other is not there to conserve them.

CHRISTIAN MEN

Organ of THE BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

P. C. MACFARLANE, Editor and Business Manager, P. H. WELSHIMER, Bible School Editor
E. E. ELLIOTT, Manager of Advertising and Circulation

THE GENERAL BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST EXECUTIVE BOARD

OFFICERS

A. LONG, President - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	T. S. RIDGE, Rec. Sec'y. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
M. CHILTON, Vice-President - - - - -	St. Joseph, Mo.	F. J. BANNISTER, Treas. - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.

DIRECTORS

MORRIS A. JENKINS - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.	R. A. DOAN - - - - -	Nelsonville, Ohio
BERT G. FRANK - - - - -	Liberty, Mo.	T. W. GRAFTON - - - - -	Kansas City, Mo.
FRANK NASE - - - - -	Seattle, Wash.	J. N. HAYMAKER - - - - -	Wichita, Kan.
M. M. COCHRAN - - - - -	Uniontown, Pa.

NOTE—The Officers and Directors together constitute the Executive Board

SECRETARIES

P. C. MACFARLANE, General Secy.	E. E. ELLIOTT, Assistant Secy.	J. K. SHELLENBERGER, Field Secy.
---------------------------------	--------------------------------	----------------------------------

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1909, at the post office at Kansas City, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879.
Subscription—Single, 50 cents per annum, in advance; clubs of 10 or more, 35 cents per annum; 20 or more, 25 cents per annum advance. Ten or more copies to one address may be paid for quarterly—in advance.
Advertising rates upon application.

Volume 5

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, APRIL, 1911

Number 4

FAMILIAR TALKS

Y MESSAGES The happiest messages that come to the Brotherhood office are those that tell of men to Jesus Christ. Successful soul winning, however, is not a hap-hazard work. A time for definite decision and wisely wrought out method will multiply results.
Before you read anything else in this issue, and whether you read anything else, please peruse carefully the editorial titled "A Holy Week" beginning on page 4 of this issue.

Ys' DEPARTMENT Almost ever since this magazine has started, we have been urged to open a Ys' Department. From no lack of interest, but because prudence commanded that we should proceed slowly in offering any sort of leadership in a field of such vast importance, which was still almost entirely unsurveyed, we have waited until what seemed the exact moment. That moment comes with the employment by Local Brotherhood No. 1, of the Independence Boulevard Church, of Chas. B. Hahn, to devote all his time to the work of organizing the boys of that church and Bible School for Christian training and service. Mr. Hahn will contribute to this department results of his experience and observation in many fields. We shall hope also to enjoy the counsel and fruits of that passionate lover of boys and successful worker among them, A. W. Conner, of Indiana. Two to four pages will be devoted to this department for the present, beginning in May. We invite all those who have had experience in boys' work to write us what they have done or are doing and what suggestions they can offer. We should like to hear of some successful leader in the Boy Scout movement. In addition to this, anything and everything you can get us or tell us about boys' work in connection with the church is wanted.

ROY B. GUILD
Executive Secretary, Men and Religion Forward Movement

We present on this page the frank features of Roy B. Guild, Executive Secretary of the Men and Religion Movement. He spells it Guild but pronounces it Guiled. He has done a lot of things, this Executive Secretary, and done them well. The Men and Religion Movement had to exert all its pulling powers to get him away from a social service task in Boston. He belongs to the guild of workers, and is able to beguile any man he sets his eye upon into like industry in behalf of the Men and Religion Movement. The President of a local club introduced a speaker of spell-binding reputation the other night with the assurance that he was able to electrocute his audience. There was an awkward pause. The audience looked apprehensive and the speaker-to-be looked dismayed. The toastmaster struggled with his embarrassment and explained that he meant electrified. The audience breathed easier and the oratorical live wire once more glowed and spluttered in amiable anticipation. Well so far as Roy B. Guild is concerned you can let it go at that. He is able to electrocute any man he talks with about the Men and Religion Movement. He is now engaged in galvanizing New York magazine editors into an eager comprehension of what the Men and Religion Forward Movement means, and when you see the tables of contents in the magazines of national circulation for the month of October you will know by the amount of space they give to his subject how well Guild did his work. Vive l' Roi!

FINISHED THE COURSE

It is with a real sense of personal loss that we chronicle the going from among us of Thos. J. Shuey, pastor of the University Place Church in Seattle, Wash. Brother Shuey was a man of faith and good works. He left behind him a record of consecrated service in each of his pastorates, and there are many today to mourn with us, and to acknowledge, as do we, that our life has been the better and our faith the stronger for having known him.

We notice a growing disposition among Brotherhoods and Bible Classes to make use of the monthly programs of culture, missionary, social and evangelistic, provided by the General Brotherhood. We have recently complied with the requests of the Standard Publishing Co. and Christian Publishing Co. to furnish advance copies of the programs to them, for such use as they may be able to make of them in their own publications, which serve the masculine constituency of our people.

The second program for April, which deals with the great subject of mer-

Missions, and the first one for May, "The Brotherhood and the Pulpit," will be found in this issue of CHRISTIAN MEN together with a special program for the entire week of prayer to be observed for prayer and evangelism in behalf of men during the month of April.

It is the custom among some Christian people to observe the week preceding the anniversary of the day upon which our Lord rose from the dead as holy week. By the agreement of the Men's Brotherhoods of the different Protestant communions in America, it is recommended that this be observed as a week of prayer by the men of our churches. By a resolution of the directors of the General Brotherhood at their meeting of December 30th, it was decided to urge upon all Brotherhoods and Men's Bible Classes that it be observed as a week of prayer and evangelism by men, for the week with the emphasis upon evangelism. W. V. Grafton, skilled worker among men and sane exponent of wise and fruitful evangelism, has prepared a program for men's meeting for every night of the week, having especially in view the leading of the men of the Brotherhood Bible Class with the soul-winning mission and the leading to Christ by them of their own fellows who are outside the Kingdom, all under the leadership and with the hearty cooperation of the pastor. This program was published in CHRISTIAN MEN for March, page 10. We call your especial attention to it now. Begin to think about it. Begin to prepare for it. Presidents of Brotherhoods, teachers of men's classes and pastors of churches, take occasion now to get your men in the spirit for such a week. If you do not know, let me whisper to you that consecrated laymen are the most effective soul winners. Although your men are not yet thoroughly trained; though they cannot make speeches or preach sermons or organize religious campaigns, they can all win souls. There has never been a man so blind he could not lead another to Christ when once he had traveled the road himself. You can make this Easter week a holy week indeed, if you will. Begin to pray now, yourself, for such a week of men's meetings. Then when you are filled with the spirit of it yourself, gather a little group of your praying men together and talk with them about it. Pray over it and plan for it. The next week enlarge the group who are praying. Begin to pray for the conversion of particular persons. Next week enlarge the praying group and redefine the plans again. In this way a Pentecost will break out among your men before the week has itself begun, and holy, indeed, will be the memories of that period, when men by the scores, and perhaps by the hundreds, may be brought over the hill from Bethany to a vision of the Temple, up the steep to Gethsemane, over the stony way to the Place of the Skull and the putting to death of the things of the flesh, and back again to the garden where, amid the perfume of flowers and the singing of birds and the laughing joy of bubbling fountains they may put on the ripening glory of the Christ life.

We would earnestly that every affiliated Brotherhood, that every organized Bible Class, might undertake this week of prayer and evangelism. We supplicate you upon your own behalf that you do this thing.

A CHICAGO CONVERSION

Instead of piling up precepts in support of what has been written about, we quote the following story. The man who speaks is the president of the United States Linen Flax Company. His name is W. J. Robinson. We ask you to consider his testimony.

AN EXPERIENCE

I am a business man at the head of a large corporation. I lived, as men describe it, a moral life. I was a good neighbor, a loyal friend and sociable club fellow. At the close of the business day I went to my club or hotel, drank a few cocktails or high-balls with my friends and went home to dinner. Just an average type of thousands of business men.

I was raised in a Christian home, went to Sunday-school and church, and at an early age professed religion. As I grew older and got away from home influences I became careless, but now and then would come a hunger in my heart for something which I had once possessed, a real sense of loss in my life, and an unspoken desire to again experience the happiness and pleasure that I once enjoyed. A yearning for something I did not possess.

I tried to convince myself that a good moral life was all that was necessary, that, if a man lived up to the Golden Rule (but who does?) he was living a pretty good life. But all my reasoning, all my philosophizing could not still a something away down in my heart, which said, "It is not enough."

The Scribes and Pharisees gave largely of their means to the poor and for philanthropic purposes, prayed fervently and were the highest type of moralists probably the world ever knew, yet Christ denounced them as hypocrites, whited sepulchers, a generation of vipers, and also said to His disciples, "Unless your righteousness exceeds the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall nowise enter into the Kingdom of Heaven."

Thus for years I went on fighting inwardly against a definite surrender of my will and my life to God, and condemning in myself and in others things which in my heart of hearts I knew were wrong. My mind was filled with doubts as to the sonship of Christ, the atonement, etc. I endeavored to find peace of mind and conscience in my investigation of oriental religions, the various so-called sciences (Christian and mental), but none of these things brought peace and I found no rest for my soul.

One day while lunching with the president of one of our largest corporations he, much to my surprise, began to talk to me about the necessity of my making a definite surrender of my life to Jesus Christ. One by one my objections and excuses fell before his unanswerable presentation of the claims which Jesus Christ had on my life, and, at last, I realized that, in all my wandering, all my sinnings, all my forgetfulness of Jesus Christ, He had never left me. His spirit had been striving with me through all the years.

I still tried to evade direct and immediate surrender.

My friend, however, kindly and firmly urged me to decide, urged me to give myself in full surrender to the Master, quoting: "Come unto Me all ye that are laboring and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

then and there decided, just as I would decide any business proposition, to go to God and make a confession of my sins to Him and believe in His promise that, "If we confess our sins He is faithful and just, to forgive our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness." I knelt before my Heavenly Father and realized that I had His promise to depend upon, and expected and trusted in Him for forgiveness of my past waywardness and sinning just as I would trust the promise to pay of the United States Government, based on my faith in the integrity of the nation. I also trusted His promise that He would keep that which I had committed to Him.

From that day to this, I have been a new creature in Christ Jesus, "Old things have passed away and all things have become new." The things that once gave me passing pleasure in my life have now no attraction for me whatever. The associates which once seemed a part of my existence I have no longer any desire for.

Perhaps the most wonderful change which was manifest to my consciousness when my mind began to resume its normal activity and to inquire into what had happened, was this, that all my doubts, questionings, skepticism and criticism concerning God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, concerning the full inspiration, accuracy and authority of the Holy Scriptures as the incorruptible Word of God concerning the sufficiency of Christ's atonement to settle the question of sin, and to provide a ground upon which God could, in perfect righteousness, forgive and justify a sinner, and concerning an assured salvation and perfect acceptance in Christ, were swept away completely. From that day to this I have never been troubled by doubts in God and His Word.

My business friends have noticed the marked change in my life. My wife realizes the wonderful change that has taken place. The petulance and fault-finding of old is gone. The desire for those things which fill up the sum total of the spare time of so many business men is gone. I have felt from the moment of my surrender to Jesus Christ, the abiding presence of His Holy Spirit in my life each day, a desire to do God's will and to inquire what His will is for me.

The thoughtless oath, the taking of God's name in vain (notwithstanding the habit of years), is gone and I find my greatest pleasure in the society of people who love Jesus Christ and His services, where once I avoided them.

It has not impaired my business usefulness one particle. On the contrary, I have been more successful since I made this decision than I have been for years. I am resting on the promise that if I would "Commit my way unto the Lord He would direct my path," and He has done it in a marvelous way. Hence the stupendous change, whereby one "dead in trespasses and sins" is "quickened together with Christ" (Eph. 11:5), is not accomplished through any process of reasoning, nor is it the outcome of any process of development. It is the immediate and mighty work of God—"the working of His mighty power which He wrought in Christ and set Him at His own hand in the heavenlies" (Eph. 1:19, 20), and it is a work which is done instantly in them that believe on the Lord Jesus Christ.

The atonement of Jesus Christ for sin has become a personal matter with me. He died for me, His blood was shed for me. His intercession was for me. Through Him I am a Son of God, adopted into the family of God. By His divine commission I am an Ambassador of Christ, a high position indeed, Ambassador of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

After making my decision for Jesus Christ, I went back to my office and calling my closest associate, I told him what I had done and what my intentions were for the future. He looked steadily into my eyes, grasped my hand and said, "I am so glad, I have been thinking seriously of making a start myself. I do not know a better time. I will start with you." And he did.

That same night I got a Testament (I had not opened a Bible for years), and before retiring I read a few chapters and knelt down and talked with God as a son would talk to a father. I was surprised how easy it was to tell Him all about myself, all about my business affairs.

The peace and confidence that came to me then has never left me and I have an abiding consciousness of His actual real presence in my life.

My business days are full of many cares, worries and disappointments, but there is an abiding peace within which "passeth all understanding."

Every morning and evening I read my Bible and talk with my Father, not the way I used to say my prayers as a boy, but talk with Him, tell Him everything, ask for His advice and feel His presence so near and His guiding so unerring.

There have been some very crucial situations, difficult to handle, where I have not known what to do, which, when submitted to Him, have come out all right without any seeming special effort on my part. Business situations, which were almost impossible, were made possible, and I have had so many evidences of His direct individual leadings and guidings in my business, my social and domestic life, that every day brings new and actual demonstrations of the fulfillment of His promises.

My reason in writing this experience is that it may fall into the hands of some business man, dissatisfied with his own life as I was, some man who has been struggling and trying to get away from that still small voice, with which each man on earth is familiar. With prayer that it might lead him to a solution of his problem as I have been led to a solution of mine.

May God follow the reading of this booklet with His blessing and lead you to Himself.

A BUSINESS MAN

♦ ♦ ♦

THE WAY REJOICING

While your soul is throbbing from reading the story of the man who has found his Christ, we let you hear him sing as he goes on his way rejoicing.

I sit today at the loom of life

And weave and weave and weave;

The warp is laid by hands Divine

But the weft is where I grieve.

For every moment in every day,

The shuttle flies through and through

And the patterns I scheme with the dreams I dream,

Are made up on the things I do

I have naught to do with the warp I read

The threads are already set.

But my duty lies as the shuttle flies

In the fabric I'm weaving yet.

Smiles and tears, kind words and ears

Are wound on the bobbins I will

And every thoughtless word is there,

And every word unkind;

And every act I would fain forget

And the thoughts that were dashed and vain,

I view in the fabric of life I weave.

And I see them and see them again.

But I sit and weave with an aching heart

And a world of intense regret,

And tears fall fast as I view the pattern

And I pray that I may forget.

out of repining and soul recoil
 Look in the future and see,
 Life as God would have me live,
 And a new hope comes to me.
 Now not the length of the warp I view,
 Now not my given span,
 Into the fabric I yet may weave,
 Put all the best I can.

Smiles and kindness and patient care
 Unselfishness, service, and love,
 Harmony, sunshine, faith and hope,
 And thus my contrition prove.
 My life surrendered to Jesus Christ,
 His love and His power confessed,
 As the shuttle flies with its rhythmic beat,
 I know that His way is best.

—W. J. R.

Exhibit "A"—Comrades of Paul

NO. 1051.
BROTHERHOOD OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST
KANSAS CITY, MO. Jan. 16, 1911
PAY TO THE ORDER OF Arthur Whitney $100 ⁰⁰
One Hundred no/100 DOLLARS
